Heard that the Mount had a great Parents weekend.
Among the many things that were auctioned was a one year subscription to the Emmitsburg Chronicle. Arthur P. Irving III of Port Washington, New York will be reading the Chronicle for the year to come. Welcome aboard, Arty!

I understand that alcoholics anonymous has begun meeting in the Methodist Church on West Main St. Anyone interested may attend these meetings every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

I read in Our Heritage last week, that the Emmitsburg Coronet Band was quite an institution in the early 1900's. Well, are we all aware that some very dedicated people are trying to revive the band and are looking for people who have any musical ability to join this group? The band would like to have a public concert over the Fourth of July weekend. Please join if you're interested.

After reading Debbie Haines' letter to the Editor last week, I checked with Parks and Recreation Commissioner, Eugene Myers, to see what was being done about the children's playground. Haines said he really appreciated Ms. Haines' comments and that he is aware of all the work that has to be done. He says that he and a crew are working on it, and when funds are available, it will look like a completely new playground. It's nice that people are concerned about our town. It warms the cockles of my heart.

This weekend, St. Joseph's Alumnae will be returning to their alma mater to celebrate their reunion and renew old friendships. St. Joseph's has had a big impact on the town of Emmitsburg, and it may not be over yet. The National Fire Academy is looking over the building, in preparation for locating here. Even though the educational facilities are not being used as such, everyone is anxious to have the Fire Academy locate here to once more utilize the beautiful grounds. So, welcome back to Emmitsburg, Alumnae. Even though your college is no more, you are always welcome in Emmitsburg.

All the children are now getting anxious for school to be out. I notice, just the other day, after school, I saw some boys with their fishing poles heading out to the creek. I wish I could have joined them. But, summer is coming...just a few more short weeks and school will be out...classes will graduate...then, kids will be wondering what to do with their freedom.

Ordinances For Emmitsburg

Section 22 Bicycles
It shall be unlawful for any person to ride any bicycle which has tires 20 inches or more in diameter on or over the sidewalks of the town or without adequate brakes and a suitable bell, horn or other device for signaling. Bicycles shall not be ridden at night without headlights and reflectors.

Code of Emmitsburg
Article III
General Provisions
Section I Running at Large Prohibited - Impounding

It is hereby declared to be a nuisance, and as such unlawful for any animal or fowl to be turned loose or to run at large within the City limits and it shall be the duty of every town policeman to seize and impound any such animal or fowl he may find running at large in violation hereof. Any animal or fowl so impounded may be disposed of after forty-eight (48) hours unless the owner thereof shall apply to the Burgess of Chief of Police within forty-eight (48) hours and identify said animal or fowl to such official's satisfaction and pay costs of impoundment or the sum of five dollars ($5.00) whichever is greater, and in case such owner shall provide proper identification and pay such costs the animal or fowl may be returned to him.

Section 2 - Barking, Howling and Biting dogs
Any person who has in his possession or owns any dog which by barking, howling or in any other manner disturbs the peace, order and quiet of the city, or which has bitten or bit the city, or which has bitten or attempted to bite any person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. In addition thereto, the party convicted shall deliver up the dog to be killed or may be required to remove such dog permanently from the City, and upon failure or refusal to do so, any such animal shall be seized and killed.
No BB guns allowed in the corporate limits of Emmitsburg.

Health Care, Security Trust Fund a Must

Calling it a "national disgrace that Americans are paying too much for health care and getting too little for their investment," Congressman Paul Sarbanes today called for swift passage of the Health Security Bill now pending in Congress.

"The Health Security Trust Fund established by the bill, of which I am a co-sponsor, provides for strict cost controls on the fees charged by hospitals and doctors, stresses preventative care, eliminates unnecessary surgery and provides strong measures for controlling inflation in health care costs," Congressman Sarbanes (D., Md.) said. "It will also require that the 40 million Americans who do not now have health insurance make provisions for their health care."

"Quite simply, we are spending too much for health care," he said. The already high cost of health care is escalating at a rate more than 50 percent faster than the cost of living. Not only are the elderly and the poor priced out of the health care market, but hospital and doctor charges are outstripping the ability to pay of most American families."

The Health Security Bill which Congressman Sarbanes is co-sponsoring has been carefully studied by government experts and will probably cost less than doing nothing, according to a study recently released by the Congressional Budget

Office. The study concluded that other plans, including one endorsed by Congressman Sarbanes' main opponent in the U.S. Senate primary, will cost substantially more than the comprehensive plan the three-term Congressman is sponsoring.

"The so-called catastrophic plan my opponent now says he supports will not only cost more, but it will benefit less than one-half of one percent of the people it is supposed to be covering. His proposal withholds payments until medical payments of over $3,000 have been made. How many families can afford $9,000 in medical expenses?"

"Health Security does not change the relationship between the patient and physician," Congressman Sarbanes emphasizes. "Care will be provided by physicians, hospitals and other private providers in much the same way it is done today."

"What will change — and what must change — is the hodgepodge of payment systems we have today. By requiring everyone who is working to provide for his basic and catastrophic health care on a regular basis, and by emphasizing preventative medicine, the nagging fear of economic bankruptcy caused by illness or injury is eliminated. We shift our focus from treating people who are sick to keeping people well and out of the hospital."

Funds to pay for comprehensive national health insurance will come from shifting payments now made for private insurance, out-of-pocket payments, Medicare and Medicaid costs to the Health Security Trust Fund.

Catoctin High School To Hold Graduation

On Tuesday, June 1st, Catoctin High School will hold Baccalaureate Services for the graduating class of 1976. Reverend Beth Spitzner Neubauer, of St. John's Lutheran Church of Thurmont, will be guest speaker at the 8:00 p.m. service, to be held in the school auditorium. Joining Reverend Neubauer in the service will be Jennifer Carr, presenting the invocation and William Clabaugh, the benediction.

Following the service, the Junior Class of Catoctin will host a reception for the graduates, their families, friends, and faculty in the Student Commons.

On Wednesday evening, June 2nd at 8:00 p.m. the Seventh Commencement of Catoctin High School will be held in the school auditorium. Participating in the ceremony will be Mark Eyer, giving the invocation and Cheryl Webster, the benediction.

Student speakers for the occasion will be William Kerns, Katrina Baker, Misha Fogle and Naomi Weimer.

Mr. Clement E. Gaudiner, member of the Frederick County School Board and long-time resident of the Thurmont Community, will join with Catoctin's Principal, Mr. Harper Long, in presenting the diplomas to the graduates.

Serving as officers for the Class of 1976 are Pam Aul, President; Jennifer Carr, Vice-President; Cheryl Webster, Secretary, and Mark Eyer, Treasurer.

The following members of the Catoctin High School faculty and staff have assisted and advised the Class of 1976 throughout the school year and with their final plans for graduation: Mrs. Gail Quick, Mr. John Umbel, Mrs. Lee Vigliotti and Mr. William Baker.

New Coalition Mobilizes To Preserve Legal Abortion

The Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights — a state affiliate of the national organization — has been formed in Maryland. RCAR — a Washington, D.C. headquartered organization of 23 Protestant and Jewish religious groups, was formed in 1973 to assemble support to uphold the Supreme Court decisions of 1973, which allow a pregnant woman the right to choose whether or not to have a legal abortion.

The Maryland affiliate is comprised of 15 member organizations including: the American Jewish Congress, Baltimore Ethical Society, the Board of Church and Society of the Baltimore Annual Conference-United Methodist Church, Baltimore YMCA, Chesapeake District-United Church of Christ, Columbia Ethical Society, Mid-Atlantic Region Central Conference of American Rabbis, Baltimore Section-National Council of Jewish Women.

Other member organizations are: Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Executive Committee—United Methodist Women—Baltimore Annual Conference, Central Maryland Council-Unitarian Universalist Societies, Baltimore Monthly Meeting of Friends—Stony Run, American Federation of Temple Sisterhoods—

District 8, Joseph Priestley District-Unitarian Universalist Societies.

The Coalition respects the individual's right to a choice, and will oppose efforts of other groups to deny, through legislation, the rights of religious freedom and individual conscience in the matter of abortion. While the member groups may have slightly differing views on abortion itself, all agree that women should have the right to make the decision according to their consciences.

St. Josephs Welcomes Alumnae

This weekend Emmitsburg welcomes back to Saint Joseph's College Campus over 300 former students from 16 states including California, Florida, Massachusetts and Puerto Rico.

It will be the 79th annual reunion of Alumnae in the 167 year old college's history.

This is the first time the Alumnae has been reunited on the campus since its closing in 1973. For the last two years the Sheridan near Gettysburg was the scene of all the weekend activities, but to the delight of many, they will be "home" again this year. Throughout the years the Valley has been home to the many women who have called themselves Alumnae of SJC. Today there are over 3,500 alumnae on the mailing list.

The Emmitsburg Chapter of Saint Joseph's Alumnae has been very active these years, sponsoring many activities to raise funds for the college. Some of its members attending these functions on campus this year are: Ledlie Rial Cunningham, Margaret Franklin, Mary Alice Umbel, Peggy Fitzgerald Arcidiacono, Evelyn Trasher McGinity, Marie Stock Fraser, Catherine Hughes Moran, Gertrude McDonald Sacchet, Elizabeth McCaffrey (chapter president), Mary Francis Smith, Pat McCaffrey O'Connor, Frances Pryor Knepper, Kathryn Gloniger Klosky (Celebrating her golden anniversary as an alumna), Anne Reed, Nancy Snyder, Mary Ann Carter, Dorothy Cartegena, Marie Cola, Anne Steinour, Frances Wecht, Mary Agnes Walter, Mary Wachter Unglesbee, and Betty Fitzgerald Garner.

Monsignor Hugh Philips and Monsignor Robert Kline will be honored guests, with Monsignor Kline saying the Mass in honor of Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton on Saturday in the Remains House Chapel where the remains of Mother Seton, the founder of the school, are enshrined.

The Alumnae Association of Saint Joseph's Academy was founded on June 16, 1897 by the Directress of the Academy, Sister Augustine Park, and a small number of old graduates. At the first formal meeting Mary Wade Kalbach, class of 1871, was appointed president, Elizabeth Keenan White, class of 1865, vice-president, and Nella Skinner Criswell, treasurer. Stella McBride, class of 1968, was appointed secretary for "life", and she did much to put the new organization on its feet. Her minutes of the 3rd annual meeting give an indication of the motives and sentiments that marked its early days.

"On June 20, 1900 old and new friends gathered in the Study Hall for the 3rd General Assembly of St. Joseph Alumnae. The occasion was marked by the presence of pupils who had left the shelter of their Alma Mater in the early forties and who now shared the hearty welcome which the dear old home extends to her daughters of each succeeding year, down to the sweet young graduate of the present day."

During the years 1935 to 1939, Louise Sebald was president of the Alumnae Association, and it was because of her able guidance that the national organization is so well constructed today.

In 1953 Catherine Overman Edwards was given the task of organizing the classes, each with a secretary who would keep the office and members of the class informed about class activities and information regarding the individual members of her class. This structure has been the real tie that has kept St. Joseph Alumnae close to each other and to their Alma Mater these past years.

Rupli Solidifies Support

As the May 18 Democratic Primary draws closer, sixth district congressional candidate Dan Rupli continues to solidify his support among labor groups. This week Rupli added the endorsements of Local 1311, International Association of Firefighters and Local 692, Retail Store Employees to those already received from the AFL-CIO, the UAW and Local 7886, United Steelworkers of America.

According to Carol Huffines, Firefighters president, the Rupli endorsement was made because, "we feel that the country needs new leadership, that the stagnation of the past does not meet the needs of today and tomorrow.

"We feel," he continued, "that Dan Rupli is responsible to his constituency and not to big business as Rep. Byron has been. What we need now in the capital is a democrat not a republican like Rep. Byron.

It is essential to this nation that our people be employed. It is the only thing that can pull us out of recession. In addition, the dignity of a job will help resolve our social problems and get this country back on its feet.

Fire Company Reports Donations

Chairman Larry Little of the Vigilant Hose Co.'s 1976 Fund Drive reports returns are coming in as expected. It is very gratifying to see that many people have increased their donations over previous years. This reflects the fact that our people are aware of our rising cost to efficiently operate our fire dept.

Head On: A Tight Blue Angel Formation.

Aberdeen Hosts Angels

Visitors to Aberdeen Proving Ground on the afternoons of May 29 and 30 will witness a precision display of aerial artistry, as the U.S. Navy's Blue Angels dominate the skies.

The May 29/30 air show is being cosponsored by the U.S. Navy Reserve Center, Ft. McHenry, Baltimore, and the Proving Ground. Since their first flight demonstration on June 15, 1946, the Blue Angels have thrilled more than 125 million spectators with their aerobatics.

Under the command of Flight Leader Keith "Casey" Jones, the Blue Angels over the past 30 years have been instrumental in attracting talented and qualified youths to join them in the Navy and Marine Corps. This has been a most important adjunct to building an all-volunteer naval force.

As "ambassadors of good will," the Blue Angels bring naval aviation to the public as a means of demonstrating the quality of men and equipment employed in the U.S. Naval service.

Fourteen officers and 74 enlisted personnel comprise the Navy's Flight Demonstration Squadron. Seven of the officers are tactical jet pilots, four of whom fly in the diamond formation, two as solo maximum performance demonstrators and the seventh as the narrator for the aerial demonstration. The enlisted personnel are specialists in all the aviation roles required to support and maintain the Squadron's maintenance, administrative and public affairs requirements.

A Blue Angels flight demonstration involves six aircraft performing a prescribed sequence of maneuvers. The aircraft are seen in three components which are: a diamond of four aircraft, two solo aircraft that oppose each other along a line of flight, and all six aircraft in a delta formation.

In the course of a complete show season, the Blue Angels fly over 125,000 miles. The necessary personnel and equipment are carried aboard a Lockheed KC-130 Hercules Transport, manned and flown by a U.S. Marine crew. Known as "Fat Albert," the aircraft transports a normal load of 25,000 pounds of highly sophisticated equipment, 30,000 pounds of fuel and a complement of highly specialized maintenance personnel.

Aircraft involved in the demonstration flights are A-4 Skyhawks, first introduced into service in 1972. The A-4, spawned from the Korean conflict experience is a specialized, high subsonic-speed attack aircraft capable of carrying heavy loads of ordnance over long distances.

The Skyhawk can fly from aircraft carriers and from rough combat-zone airfields as short as 4,000 feet, fully loaded with multi-mission armament.

Summer Signals Sharp Rise In Dog Bites

The end of the school year always signals a sharp rise in animal bites to children, often with tragic results, warned Dr. Kenneth L. Crawford, Chief of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Division of Veterinary Medicine. In addition, the absence of protective clothing results in more serious wound lacerations in warm weather when children and their dogs are outdoors.

Recently, police officers from Dorchester County spent one week searching for a German Shepherd dog that had attacked a 12 year old boy. When the dog was finally found, the 3-week long course of daily rabies shots could be stopped. The dog, which had neither been vaccinated against rabies nor licensed, was immediately placed in rabies quarantine.

This episode is not uncommon, says Dr. Kenneth

L. Crawford. Estimates are that more than 250,000 Maryland residents are bitten by animals each year, 90 per cent of which are caused by dogs. Health authorities estimate that only one in 12 are reported by telephone to local health authorities in compliance with Maryland law. Dr. Crawford estimates $400,000.00 savings in emergency medical costs has been made due to a continuing five year reduction in reported animal bites. He attributes this decline of 4,000 animal bites to vastly improved pet control procedures implemented by the city and county local health departments in Maryland.

In a recent Health Department study in Prince George's County, Dr.

Crawford noted that one-half of the reported bite victims were found to be under 15 years of age and, unfortunately, many of these victims had been severely bitten on the head and neck. While the threat of rabies for this type of wound is particularly serious, the physical disfigurement of the victim is frequently of major concern.

The last human death in Maryland due to dog bite occurred in Anne Arundel County in 1974 when a seven year old boy was killed by a German Shepherd dog. Nevertheless, the associated costs of animal bites to Maryland residents continues to rise. The estimated average medical cost to the victim is $75.00. Other related cost such as those to local police and health departments for investigations plus transportation cost for the bite victim, has increased the average incident cost to more than $150.00.

Dr. Crawford recommended to parents, especially those of small children, that they carefully instruct children to respect their own pet and to avoid those owned by others. Regardless of age, people should not attempt to touch or feed wild animals. In the case of vagrant dogs belonging to known owners, reports of vagrancy violations should be promptly made by telephone to the local dog licensing agency.

Zip Column

The Postal Service designates a week during May each year when customers on rural delivery routes are encouraged to examine and improve, where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes. The week of May 17-22 has been selected this year. The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are designed to protect the mail from the weather and are neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use. Neat, attractive mailboxes will make a significant contribution to the appearance of the countryside and the streets in suburban areas.

Mailboxes that meet the above four important requirements contribute to a more efficient delivery operation, and the result is an improved service to the entire route.

Where box numbers are assigned, the box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped. Customers are encouraged to group boxes, with their neighbors, wherever this is practicable, especially at or near crossroads, at service turnouts, or at other places where a considerable number of boxes are located.

May Tighten Regulations to Prevent Swine Disease

A proposal to restrict the importation of swine organs, glands, extracts and secretions for scientific purposes if they originate in, or are shipped from, transit countries infected with hog cholera, swine vesicular disease (SVD) or African swine fever, was announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) said the proposed changes would apply the same restrictions to these special swine products that are now in effect if the products originate from countries infected with foot-and-mouth disease or rinderpest — two other highly contagious livestock diseases.

Public comments should be submitted before June 1, 1976, to the Deputy Administrator for Veterinary Services, APHIS, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

Under the proposed changes, APHIS would prohibit the importation of fresh, chilled or frozen swine organs, glands, extracts and secretions from countries where African swine fever, hog cholera or SVD exist unless:

- The products are for pharmaceutical, scientific or research purposes;
- The products are designed to APHIS-approved establishments which are able to store, handle and process them without risk of introducing disease into the United States.

• The imports, when in small amounts, are approved by APHIS in each specific case.

Similar restrictions would also govern imports of the same products when dried, preserved, or treated by other processes.

APHIS officials noted that the introduction of any of these highly contagious and destructive swine diseases could have disastrous effects on American swine production. The United States is free of all of these diseases, with the exception of hog cholera, which is now in the final phase of eradication.

The proposed amendments to the federal code are scheduled for publication in the April 30 Federal Register.

If you think there isn't much to choose between for the U.S. Senate on May 18th, you're right.

The clear choice for Maryland won't come until November.

When Maryland's Democrats go to the polls on Tuesday, May 18th, they will have two major candidates to choose between. But because the frontrunners' records are so similar, the voters will have no major issues to choose between.

One liberal supports excessive government spending and regulation, as a Congressman. The other liberal's voting record clearly shows support for similar inflationary and regulatory programs, as a former Senator.

But Maryland's Republicans, Democrats and Independents can all vote against big spending and big government in November — by voting to re-elect Senator Glenn Beall.

Senator Beall: for responsible government.

Glenn Beall has consistently opposed excessive government spending and regulation. Glenn Beall wrote the Truth in Spending bill and co-authored the Budget Reform Act which protect taxpayers money by requiring strong checks on federal spending programs. Glenn Beall was a sponsor of the original Revenue Sharing Act that has already returned 500 million dollars to Maryland governments.

Senator Beall: working for Maryland.

Glenn Beall is close to the people, and he understands their concerns. Glenn Beall has done a lot for Maryland in six years. But there's still a lot to be done. And nobody else can finish the job.

Senator Beall: the right choice.

Maryland's Democrats are going to have a tough time trying to figure out how to vote for the lesser of the two big spenders on May 18th.

I would like to help re-elect J. Glenn Beall, Jr. to the U.S. Senate.

Gas Saver Pills, No Go

Attorney General Francis B. Burch said that advertising claims for "gas saver pills," marketed by the Powertron Corp., allegedly tested by North American Performance and Research Company, and sold in Maryland by some major drug chains, may constitute an unfair and deceptive trade practice under the State Consumer Protection Law. In addition, because use of the pills may violate a provision of State law making it illegal to introduce additives containing lead into gasoline after it is sold, these firms have also been charged with violating a statute prohibiting suppression of material facts.

As a result, these firms are being notified that if they do not agree within seven days to halt these alleged violations and to take remedial measures, the Consumer Protection Division will initiate further legal proceedings against them. Mr. Burch said. Such 7-day notice is required by the law before court action can be filed.

Mr. Burch said that "gas saver pills" are manufactured by the Powertron Corp. of Johnstown, Pa., and as advertised promise that if you drop the pills into your automobile gasoline tank, "you'll decrease fuel consumption by up to 30%." Powertron also claims that use of the pills will result in better gas mileage, a stronger spark, decarbonization and lubrication of engine cylinder walls, better compression, reduction of pre-ignition and an increase in overall engine efficiency. The pills have been sold under a "money back guarantee" at prices of approximately $4.96 at various drugstore chains in Maryland, including Dart, Thrifty-Wise, Read's and Sav-a-lot.

Burch said that in April investigators from the Consumer Protection Division purchased the pills at various drug stores in the Maryland area and subsequently arranged for their chemical testing. Lab analysis of the pills revealed that they contained large concentrations of lead. Chemists state that no appreciable decrease in fuel consumption would take place by putting the pills in a gas tank. Gas saver pills tested by the Comptroller's Office were found to be approximately 33% lead.

Mr. Burch said that the Comptroller's Office has indicated that the pills may violate provisions of Maryland law requiring gasoline additives to be submitted to the Comptroller for examination, approval and labeling prior to sale, as well as provisions prohibiting the introduction of lead additives into gasoline after sale. As a result, the Comptroller has advised retailers to remove the Powertron pills from their shelves. Under State law, the Attorney General may enjoin the operation of any business violating these provisions, Mr. Burch said.

Richard Corie, 83, Holly Hill, Fla., was listed in satisfactory condition today at the Warner Hospital with multiple abrasions suffered when his car was demolished against a bridge abutment on Route 15, a half a mile south of the Steinwehr Ave. interchange at 2:45 Tuesday afternoon.

State police said Corie was taken to the Hospital in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance. The Emmitsburg firemen with their rescue truck and Greenmount firemen with their pumper truck along with Maryland State Police assisted local state police at the scene.

According to the police, Corie's southbound sedan ran off the west berm and hit a guard rail but continued southward across the road hitting the bridge abutment off the east berm. Police said Corie's 1967 Plymouth sedan is an $800 total loss. (photo by Mary Johnson)

SHA Signs Bicentennial Trail

Signs proclaiming a statewide Bicentennial Trail will be erected by the end of May, well before the crush of travellers on Maryland's highways.

The signs, marking historic sites with the nation's swirling red, white and blue Bicentennial logo, are being placed by crews from the State Highway Administration. Sites were chosen by the State Bicentennial Commission.

State Highway Administrator Bernard M. Evans recently approved the expenditure of $5,000 from traffic control funds to complete the signing project, which began last fall in Maryland's three westernmost counties. The SHA sign shop is manufacturing the colorful plaques. SHA crews are erecting the signs along side markers summarizing the significance of each site, thus officially marking the State Bicentennial Trail. Ten sites of notable interest were selected in each of the state's 23 counties. The State Bicentennial Commission has published a map pin-pointing the trail's path through the state.

In addition, the Highway Administration is erecting large informational signs to point the way from the state's roads to visitor information centers. At least one tourist information center will be in each county.

The federal government is picking up the tab for 70 percent of the cost of the commemorative signing. All signs will be dismantled by July 1977, after the nation has finished celebrating its 200th birthday party. Aside from the signing, the Highway Administration kicked off its Bicentennial celebration in January with the release of feature articles detailing the contributions of old Indian trails to the development of the state's road system.

Lead Shot Applies In Public Areas Only

Maryland has suggested that Federal regulations restricting the use of lead shot for waterfowling apply only in certain publicly-owned hunting areas for the 1976-77 season.

Ralph A. Bately, Chief of the Wildlife Administration of the Department of Natural Resources, made the suggestion in a response to the announced decision of the U.S. Secretary of the Interior to restrict the use of lead shot in the Atlantic Flyway for the upcoming waterfowl season.

Citing Maryland's effort to restrict lead shot for waterfowling in the State in 1974, Mr. Bately recommended that the Federal regulation follow Maryland's lead.

He said the regulation might contain these clauses:

1. It is unlawful to use or have in possession, lead shot ammunition while hunting any species of waterfowl within 100 yards of the waters of this State within the Coastal Plain Physiographic Province, and

2. For purposes of this regulation, "Waters of the State" means surface waters within the boundaries of the State or subject to its jurisdiction, including that portion of the Atlantic Ocean within the State, Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, and all ponds, lakes, rivers, and streams.

3. "Waterfowl" includes brant, coots, ducks and geese.

4. The "Coastal Plain Physiographic Province" means that geographic portion of Maryland lying southeasterly of U.S. Route 1.

In 1974, Maryland, acting on studies that showed more than 20,000 waterfowl died per year in the State after ingestion of spent lead shotgun pellets, adopted a regulation restricting the use of lead shot.

The effort was nullified when the General Assembly prohibited the Department of Natural Resources from adopting lead shot restrictions until the Federal Government applied the restrictions for the entire Atlantic Flyway.

Since then, Mr. Bately pointed out, the Department has actively pursued a voluntary lead shot restriction program. A number of sportsmen have participated.

"Consequently," the Wildlife Administrator said, "we feel it is extremely important that nothing be done to reduce the voluntary program."

Principal Federal waterfowl hunting lands affected would be on Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Benefits Expire End of May

Thomas H. Price, Jr., Director, Veterans Administration Regional Office, Baltimore, Maryland stated that G.I. Bill educational assistance benefits for many veterans will expire on May 31, 1976. His statement is intended as a reminder to afford those veterans affected with sufficient advance notice to enable them to adjust their educational pursuits accordingly.

Mr. Price also stated that the current G.I. Bill, enacted in June 1966, was designed primarily as a wartime benefit for veterans of the Vietnam Era and also extended benefits to those veterans with service after January 31, 1955.

Veterans released from active duty after January 31, 1955 have eligibility for ten years from the date of the release from active duty or until May 31, 1976, whichever is later. Those veterans who wish to pursue a Farm Cooperative, Flight, On-the-Job Training or apprenticeship program who were discharged prior to August 31, 1967, have ten years to complete such training or until August 30, 1977.

He also pointed out that other forms of educational assistance is available by or through federal and state agencies, foundations, corporations, and through certain colleges and universities. As an example the U.S. Office of Education supports five such programs. They are the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, College Work-Study, National Direct Student Loans, and Guaranteed Student Loans.

Thirty-nine seminarians from Mount Saint Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg, Md., will be installed as Acolytes on Saturday, May 15 at 11:00 a.m. in the College Chapel according to Rev. Harry Flynn, Rector of the Seminary.

The Most Reverend T. Austin Murphy, Archbishop of Baltimore, will officiate at the ceremony.

The acolyte is appointed in order to aid the deacon and minister to the priest. It is therefore his duty to attend to the service of the altar and to assist the deacon and the priest in liturgical celebrations, especially in the celebration of Mass. He is also to distribute Holy Communion as an extra-ordinary minister when the ministers are not available or are prevented by ill health, age or another pastoral ministry from performing this function, or when the number of those approaching the altar is so great that the celebration of Mass would be unduly prolonged.

Those to be installed as acolyte are: Henry Carl Andrae of the diocese of Erie, Pa.; James Leo Armstrong, Robert Joseph Cedolia, John William Guiser, Jr., Robert Lawrence Lewicki, Victor John Molka, Jr., Benedetto Phillip Vaghetto, Timothy Francis Whalen, Michael Charles Romero and Paul Kozak from the diocese of Pittsburgh, Pa.; John Joseph Bertulis and Gomer William Evans of the diocese of Trenton, N.J.; Daniel Joseph Boyle, John Paul Hayes and Arthur Norman Labonte of the diocese of Springfield, Mass.; John Edward Buchner, II, and Michael Stephen Klepacki of the diocese of Charlotte, N.C.; Kevin Michael Cooke of the diocese of Birmingham, Ala.; Robert Joseph Dreisbach, Thomas Edward Fasching, John Gerard Hilferty, Ronald Joseph Oranczak and Thomas George Shanfelt of the diocese of Allentown, Pa.; John Venero Grattolino, Joseph Raymond Molsay and Michael Joseph Piccola of the diocese of Scranton, Pa.; John Francis Lesnick and Paul Douglas Martin, Jr., of the archdiocese of Baltimore; Lawrence Louis Manchas and Andrew John Shal of the diocese of Greensburg, Pa.; James Herbert Mattison of the diocese of Burlington, Vt.; Edward James Quinlan, III, Timothy Ward Sperber and John Alexander Szada, Jr., of the diocese of Harrisburg, Pa.; Richard Fletcher Thompson of the diocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend, Ind.; William Francis Boyle of the diocese of Wilmington, Del.; Carl Edwin Kaltrieder of the Diocese of Gallop, New Mexico; Keith Randall Ramey of the Diocese of Arlington, Va.; and Jeffrey Francis Samaha of the Archdiocese of Washington.

Jude C. Pohl, a 1973 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., and a well-known Pittsburgh actor will be opening a dinner theatre at Gina's Lounge, Avalon. The dinner-theatre will be run by a Pittsburgh area production company — Way Off Broadway — which is headed by Pohl and another Pittsburgh actor, Gorman H. Lowe.

Gina's, formerly the Kon-Tiki, is located in the Avalon Motel on the Ohio River Boulevard ten minutes from downtown Pittsburgh.

Pohl, who has a fine arts degree from Mount Saint Mary's, will be directing the first two shows. He has worked in the Pittsburgh area theatres for the past seven years and has also performed in California and in Japan, where he organized the Atsugi Players.

Lowe, who attended the Pittsburgh Playhouse School of Drama, recently returned from the Chicago nightclub circuit where he performed as half of the comedy team of Rumbach and Lowe. He appeared at some of the Windy City's top showplaces, including Mr. Kelly's and Rats'o's.

Way Off Broadway has chosen "Plaza Suite," one of Neil Simon's funniest comedies, as its first production. It will be followed by "Butterflies Are Free" (opening June 9) and an original musical revue to be staged in July.

"Plaza Suite" is three separate stories, all taking place in the same suite of New York's famous Plaza Hotel. Way Off Broadway is following the play's original concept of having one actor and actress play the lead roles in all three stories.

"Plaza Suite" opens on May 12 and runs Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 9 p.m. Dinner will be served before the show with the bar remaining open during and after the performances.

Tickets for "Plaza Suite" are $3.75 with a 75% discount for students, senior citizens and military personnel. A special dinner-theatre package is available for $8.50. Group rates will be given upon request. Miss Lynne M. Phelan,

Annual Fish Die Off

Menhaden by the thousands have begun to appear belly-side up in the annual die-off of this super abundant species.

The die-off which occurs every spring has been noted earlier this year. Dead and dying menhaden have been observed at the mouth of the Patapsco River to the Bay Bridge on the western shore. Few, if any, of the dead fish have come ashore as yet.

According to Howard J. King, Department of Natural Resources, Fisheries Biologist, the causes of spring menhaden mortalities have not been explained but the early warm temperatures are related.

Mr. King stated that hundreds of menhaden are dead and he projects that in all, millions will succumb. The early arrival of very warm temperatures and the subsequent return to more temperate spring weather makes it difficult to predict the length of this daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Phelan of Route 1, Emmitsburg, has been accepted to Mount Saint Mary's College for the 1976-77 School year.

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of me in recent weeks —

What is being done to control inflation?

I continue to feel that inflation is directly related to the level of government spending and the size of the federal deficit. Therefore, inflation cannot and will not be controlled until such time as government spending is controlled and the budget moves in the direction of overall balance. I have voted against the public debt ceiling, and I have introduced a balanced budget constitutional amendment in an effort to address the root causes of inflation.

Does the government publish any information on saving energy?

The Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado, currently has two free booklets on home energy conservation. "Save Energy, Save Money" outlines simple do-it-yourself projects to insulate your home. "Tips for Energy Savers" outlines ways to conserve energy in household heating, cooling and appliance use.

Please tell me your views on busing.

I have always opposed busing to achieve racial balance in our schools. The answer to radical discrimination lies in improved schools in all political jurisdictions. Forced busing has yet to show any results in improved education, but it clearly has disrupted the neighborhood concept of schools on which our educational system has been based.

How big a business is agriculture in our State of Maryland?

According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, our state's 14,000 farms sell more than $400 million worth of products each year. All the operations in the production, processing and distribution of the food, fiber and forestry products provide over 14 percent of the Gross State Product — more than $2.3 billion. Agriculture in this sense is one of our largest industries.

Rev. Hoke Ordained

Rev. John Hoke, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hoke, 680 Lincolnway West, Gettysburg, and grandson of Mrs. Effie Hoke and the late Joseph R. Hoke of Emmitsburg was ordained a Catholic priest on Saturday, April 24, by Bishop Joseph T. Daley in Saint Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg.

The Mass of Thanksgiving was celebrated Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at St. Joseph's Church, Hanover, where Rev. Hoke served as deacon last year.

Rev. Hoke attended school in South Dakota and Alaska before moving with his family to Gettysburg when he entered Mt. St. Mary's Seminary in Emmitsburg.

Rev. John Hoke has been appointed Assistant Pastor, St. Rose of Lima Church, in York, Pa., effective May 6, 1976.

Supports Clean Air Amendment

Imogene Johnston, chairman of the American Lung Association of Maryland's public affairs committee, supports amendments to the Clean Air Act now being considered by Congress.

Mrs. Johnston, said the Lung Association "supports provisions in the currently proposed amendments which would prevent significant deterioration of clean air, disallow the use of intermittent controls on stationary sources, and maintain auto emissions standards without substantial delay of the deadlines."

The Clean Air Amendments of 1970 set mid-1975 as the deadline for meeting health-related ambient air quality standards, Mrs. Johnston said. In the Baltimore region, the primary standard has been achieved for only one pollutant, sulfur dioxide. Credit for this formidable accomplishment is due both the Bureau of Air Quality Control and the many industries who worked hard to achieve the standard.

However, the solutions

seem elusive in Baltimore for the other five air pollutants for which standards have been established — suspended particulates, carbon monoxide, nitrogen dioxide, ozone and hydrocarbons.

Baltimore continues to have "perhaps the worst hydrocarbon problem on the East Coast" according to Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. The situation with the other pollutants is not much better, according to Mrs. Johnston.

Should the auto emissions standards be weakened by Congress, Baltimore could expect an interminable continuation of the auto-produced oxidant problem which plagues the city persistently every summer. The health and vitality of Baltimore, and indeed the entire state, depends on laws which will improve and protect our environment, Mrs. Johnston said.

Mrs. Johnston hopes that Maryland's elected representatives respond to the concerns of the Lung Association of Maryland regarding air quality in metropolitan Baltimore and enact strong Clean Air Act amendments.

$3,600 Raised For Lions Eye Bank

The true devotee of auctions, flea markets, and garage sale bargains is not deterred by rain. So, in spite of a steady downpour on Saturday, May 1st, several thousand people arrived at Walter Johnson H.S. in Bethesda to take part in WMAL RADIO 63's GRAND OL' SWAPRY to benefit the Lions Eye Bank & Research Foundation. People were asked to clean out their attics, and bring all unwanted items. An unwanted item was the admission ticket, and once inside, they could "swap" for other people's discards, using cash to compensate for any value differences. Also, two auctions of celebrity and other items were held. At the day's end, over $3,600 was raised for the Eye Bank.

The SWAPRY, originally designed as a huge outdoor event, was moved inside early Saturday morning as rain clouds gathered. It was housed in the school gym, offering ample space for the tables, the live entertainment, and the live broadcast of WMAL RADIO 63's Tom Gauger show. Singer Jack Jones made a brief appearance to auction a dinner at the Royal Hawaiian Supper Club where he was appearing. Other auction items included autographed Redskins footballs (which went for $39 and $50), autographed books and original cartoons, dinners, concert tickets, and the like. On sale at the SWAPRY were Harden & Weaver pet rocks, plants from the Merrifield Garden Center, who donated all proceeds to the Eye Bank, and cookies and pies from the Lady Lions.

The Eye Bank also conducted free eye screening and glaucoma testing during the event, which referred 17% of the people to doctors for further checking for glaucoma or vision impairment. Some 100 people also took the opportunity to donate their eyes to the Eye Bank after death.

Few people left the SWAPRY empty handed, and all usable items not traded by the end of the day were given to Goodwill Industries. The day was proclaimed a "huge success" with over 6,000 hot dogs consumed, all the cakes and pies gone, $3,600 to the Eye Bank, and a fun day for all.

Program Honoring Mothers Held

Mother's Day was observed last Sunday in Elias Lutheran Church during the Sunday School hour with a special program honoring Mothers being presented by the Social Ministry Committee. Serving as Master of Ceremonies was Robert Saylor who read a tribute to Mothers. Music was presented by the Kindergarten Class and Grades One and Two with a Mother's Day Prayer being given by Amy Lynn Valentine. Mr. Ralph Ohler, Sr. gave an old-fashioned rendition of "Mother" using his guitar. The Brass Choir, directed by Mr. Robert Frushour presented a medley of family songs. To further illustrate the "Christian Family Week" theme, Mr. R. Michael Hess gave his own interpretation of "Pass It On." A quartet composed of Mr. Weldon Shank, Sr. and his sons, Wallace, Wendell and Wimer, accompanied by Mrs. Weldon Shank presented a musical tribute to Mothers to mark the special day.

Potted plants were presented to all Mothers present as a gift from Mrs. Robert Saylor. Hosting a fellowship hour where Mothers were honored guests were Mr. Donald Eyer, Mr. Harry Hahn, Jr. and Mr. Randolph Valentine.

Members of the Social Ministry Committee who planned the Sunday morning tribute to honor Mothers included the following: Mr. R. Michael Hess, Mr. Harry Hahn, Jr., Mrs. M.F. Shuff, Mrs. Weldon Shank, Mr. Robert Hampson and Mr. Roscoe Shindler.

Vacation School Announced

The Emmitsburg Council of Churches has announced that the Vacation Church School will be held from June 13-June 18. Classes will begin Sunday evening, June 13 at 7:00 P.M. All pupils will meet at Elias Lutheran Church for their assignment for classes.

Registration for the week of Vacation Church School classes will be done within the individual congregations, beginning Sunday May 30.

Directing the school this year will be Mrs. Wilson Franklin and Mrs. Anna Bushman.

Farm News

"There's a possibility we'll have a record corn crop in 1976, and there appears to be more than ordinary room in the market and the bins for a big crop," Don Paarlberg, Director of Economics, U.S. Department of Agriculture, told news reporters recently in Washington, D.C.

On food prices, Paarlberg said that based on the April 15 planting intentions report by USDA's Statistical Reporting Service (SRS), he anticipates relatively stable retail food prices the rest of 1976, rather than "some upsurge." He thought the average food prices would increase by substantially less than 8 percent this year. Cost of food rose 8.5 percent in 1975.

H. Lehman Toms, Chairman of the Maryland State ASC Committee said: "National average corn planting intentions will be about 6 percent more than 1975. That means about 82.7 million acres this year compared with the actual 77.9 million acres seeded last year and slightly less two years ago."

"Maryland plantings of corn will be about 700,000 acres, 9 percent more than 1975. Last year's planted acreage was 645,000, and the 1974 acreage was 630,000 in this state," Toms said.

Paarlberg noted: "Plantings by areas are interesting. In the corn belt there's been a shift of intended acreage from soybeans to corn that I believe is largely a result of the price relationship of these two crops, which are alternatives to one another."

The corn belt, the North central states, prospective corn plantings showed a 5 percent rise over a year earlier compared with prospective soybean plantings down 10 percent.

Hog Cholera

State and federal hog cholera quarantines were lifted from Camden and Gloucester counties, N.J., leaving no other counties in the state quarantined for the disease, the U.S. and New Jersey Departments of Agriculture announced.

This marks the first time in nearly 10 weeks that no area of the state was under quarantine for hog cholera

— a highly infectious, usually fatal disease of swine. No other farm animals or humans are affected.

In a simultaneous action, the cooperative state-federal task force, formed Feb. 26 at Bellmawr to combat the New Jersey Hog cholera outbreak, was terminated. The task force was headed by Dr. Saul T. Wilson, Jr. of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, and Dr. C. Kenneth Jewell, New Jersey State Veterinarian.

At one time over 100 veterinarians, livestock inspectors and support personnel were assigned to the force which conducted over 3,000 inspections of swine herds in the effort to stamp out the devastating swine disease.

Intensive hog cholera surveillance will be continued for the next two months as a part of the cooperative state-federal animal health programs in New Jersey. A group of about 20 state and federal officials will work under the supervision of Dr. John W. Kinney, USDA's section veterinary medical officer for Gloucester County, in conducting surveillance activities throughout the state.

Surveillance activities will include periodic checking of the state's swine herds for disease signs, with special attention being given to the herds in Gloucester county.

Both Dr. Wilson and Dr. Jewell said they were pleased with the support they received from the swine producers of New Jersey whose cooperation contributed immeasurably to eliminating this outbreak.

A total of 21 New Jersey herds comprising about 16,000 hogs were destroyed as the most effective means of stopping the spread of hog cholera. New Jersey swine owners were paid about $2 million in federal indemnities to help compensate them for swine losses.

The New Jersey outbreak, identified Feb. 24, was the first in the state in over three years. It came seven months after the last previous hog cholera outbreak in the nation, which occurred July 1975 in Texas.

All of New Jersey's recent hog cholera cases were confined to Gloucester county. The state's last case was diagnosed March 22.

This year's hog cholera outbreak in New Jersey was followed quickly by outbreaks in Rhode Island (Feb. 28) and Massachusetts (March 1). More recently, hog cholera was confirmed in a New Hampshire herd (April 22).

Three counties in New Hampshire — Cheshire, Hillsborough, and Rockingham — plus four in Massachusetts — Bristol, Middlesex, Norfolk, and Worcester — remain under hog cholera quarantines.

New Jersey swine producers are urged to remain alert and to report any suspicious disease signs to state or federal officials. Early signs of hog cholera include loss of appetite and fever.

Hearing Set

A public hearing to consider amending the advertising and promotion provisions of the Middle Atlantic Federal milk marketing order is scheduled for May 20 in the Friendship International Motel, at the Washington-Baltimore International Airport, Maryland, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced. The hearing will begin at 10 a.m.

H.L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), said the hearing was requested by four cooperative members of Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, Inc.

The hearing will consider the single proposal to increase the rate of deduction for funding the advertising and promotion program from the present 5 cents a hundredweight to 7 cents a hundredweight. This is a deduction, Mr. Forest explained, on all milk that producers delivered to the Middle Atlantic milk order market each month, before returns are paid out to producers through the marketwide pool. The money deducted is for research and development, advertising (except brand advertising), sales promotion, nutrition education and other programs to improve the domestic marketing of milk and its products.

Motorists Waste Millions On Underinflated Tires

Motorists may waste more than $100 million in needless tire wear this summer unless they pay more attention to proper inflation than usual, the Tire Industry Safety Council said today.

Estimates by the U.S. Department of Commerce are that tires underinflated by four pounds of air pressure have tread life cut by ten per cent, and underinflation by 12 pounds can cut 40 per cent. The Department also has estimated tire consumers spend $4.9 billion a year on new replacement tires.

"Even with only five per cent excess wear, underinflation would cost tire users $250 million this year," Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council pointed out. This means at least $62.5 million would be lost during a quarter-year. But, turnpike records show that passenger car travel doubles or even triples in peak summer driving months compared with winter.

"Underinflated tires waste gasoline, too, because they use more energy," Lovell said.

Government surveys have shown that more than one out of four cars has at least one seriously underinflated tire.

Correct inflation pressure for your tires can be found in the car owner's manual or on a sticker attached to the door or glove compartment. Maximum inflation pressure is molded into the sidewall of the tire.

Pressure in tires should be checked before starting out when tires are "cold." Up to four pounds of air pressure should be added if driving for long periods at high legal speeds, but maximum tire pressure must be observed.

Other tire safety and maintenance tips for summer drivers suggested by the Council are:

★ "Bald" tires with less than 1/16th inch of tread remaining are skid-prone and get more flats. They should be replaced.

★ Vacation luggage and recreational equipment are often heavy. Don't overload the tires or the vehicle's suspension.

★ Don't let air out of "hot" tires after driving. Some air pressure build-up occurs naturally with use and will subside as the tire cools.

★ Rotate tires according to patterns in the car owners manual or as recommended by tire manufacturers.

★ Remove foreign objects such as stones, glass fragments, or metal from tire tread before it becomes imbedded and possibly damages the tire.

★ Check wear patterns on tires as clues to proper wheel alignment, balance, and condition of brakes and shock absorbers.

★ Beware of "summer ice" when rain falls on top of oily road film, particularly after long dry spells.

DEMOCRATS for CUSHWA By Auth. Eugene R. Snyder, Treas. Williamsport, Maryland

Our Heritage

From the Chronicle Oct. 9, 1914) Grandson of Mother Seton Makes His Home at Mount St. Mary's

Most Rev. Archbishop Seton, D.D. Titular Archbishop of Heliopolis, has taken up his permanent residence at Mount St. Mary's College, near here.

The venerable prelate, who is a grandson of Mother Seton, who founded the Sisters of Charity has been for many years attached to the Papal court at Rome, and has only recently returned to America. He was born in 1839, and was educated at Mount St. Mary's, with which the institution his family has been in close connection for over a century.

He is the author of several books on Church subjects, and is one of the most prominent ecclesiastics connected with the Roman Catholic Church in America.

Notwithstanding his age, he is full of life and vigor and one of the most courtly gentlemen ever met.

He says he expects to remain at the Mount until his death and be buried in the site of his fathers on the mountain side.

Vacation Reminders

Before locking the front door and heading for the plane, train or car, the AAA-Automobile Club of Maryland has some suggestions for a more worry-free vacation this summer.

In the excitement of planning itineraries, packing and making reservations, many vacationers forget to make necessary arrangements which will insure that, when they return, their home will be in the same condition as when they left.

To avoid forgetting these pre-vacation tasks, the Auto Club offers this handy checklist for vacationers. The club suggests taking it along for re-assurance, temporarily stop deliveries of milk, newspapers, laundry, etc.

disconnect all electrical appliances, set thermostat at an energy-conserving temperature.

make arrangements for care of lawn, garden and houseplants, make arrangements for care of pets, including birds and fish.

have mail held at the post office or ask a neighbor to pick it up.

inform a few trusted neighbors and the police that you'll be out of town, securely lock all exterior windows and doors, remove any "hidden" door keys from the house exterior.

leave shades part way down, leave itinerary with phone numbers with a neighbor or co-worker.

The Auto Club reminds vacationers not to discuss their plans with strangers. It may be helpful to have a willing friend ride by the house frequently, checking for anything suspicious. For an extended vacation, ask someone you know to be a "housesitter."

NOTICE

Effective immediately we will discontinue repairing domestic appliances due to problems procuring parts for various makes and models and not having time to devote to repairing appliances.

We will continue as always to service our commercial and industrial customers.

An Irish Step-dancing assembly was presented to the students of Emmitsburg School on May 3, 1976 by Russell Beaton, Irish Step-dancer now residing in Frederick. Mr. Beaton has nearly 200 medals, trophies, and awards to his credit and placed second in nationwide step-dancing competition last year. His demonstration included the various techniques and steps involved in dancing the jig, slip-jig, reel, and horn-pipe. The audience was amazed with the skill and balance in his dancing. (Photo by Mary Johnson)

THE RICHEST TERRIBLE BITTER

Chicken Pilau Is Colonial Favorite Of Charleston

The low country of South Carolina, centered around Charleston, is much different from the rest of the state. It is in these marshes by the sea that the first plantations took form, when landowners discovered that the marshy lowlands along the banks of the Ashley and Cooper Rivers were ideal for growing rice. Few foods seem so fitting to South Carolina as pilaus. No doubt, the idea of this rice dish came to South Carolina by early traders from India in the days when Charleston became a great seaport. Southern cooks changed the ingredients from oil to tomatoes, and cooked it so that the dish came out dry and greaseless.

Rice, of course, is the main ingredient in a Pilau—pronounced pelos in Charleston. From there the ingredients vary greatly. There are pilaus with squash or okra, with tomatoes or eggs, with shrimp or chicken.

This version of Charleston's Chicken Pilau is a hearty, economical meal-in-itself. The chicken and rice, cooked in chicken broth, are flavored with celery, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Versatile stick Blue Bonnet Margarine is used for sauteing the vegetables and adding rich flavor to this tempting rice dish.

Accompanied by a hot bread such as corn bread, Chicken Pilau is ideal for family meals.

CHICKEN PILAU

- 1-1/2 cups sliced celery
- 3/4 cup coarsely chopped onion
- 3/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 1 can (1-pound) tomatoes, undrained
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 (2-1/2-pound) broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
- 1-1/2 cups uncooked rice
- Chopped parsley

Saute celery, onion and green pepper lightly in margarine in Dutch oven for about 5 minutes. Stir in chicken broth, tomatoes, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Add chicken. Cover; cook over medium heat until chicken is partially cooked, about 20 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover; cook over low heat for about 25 minutes. Remove cover; cook until rice and chicken are tender and liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Arrange chicken and rice in large serving dish. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

MAIN DISH SALAD, MEXICAN-STYLE

The cuisine of Mexico varies widely from region to region because Mexico is not really a single country but a group of countries tied together in a loose package. These regional differences within the country occurred because there was little travel or commerce across Mexico's rugged mountains so that the Indian communities kept their identities and passed them along to the populations of mixed Spanish and Indian ancestry that developed locally.

Mexican cookery includes such delicacies as tacos, enchiladas, tamales, mole poblano, ceviche and huachinango veracruzano. Onions, tomatoes and chilies are popular ingredients south of the border. Suggested here is a main dish salad with a zesty dressing that uses all three. Mexicali Dressing can be served with salad greens, cold meats, fish or eggs. The recipe uses Planters Peanut Oil, lightest of the polyunsaturated oils.

MEXICALI DRESSING

- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/3 cup Planters Peanut Oil
- 1 can (4-ounce) chopped green chilies
- 1 can (6-ounce) tomato paste

- 1/4 cup white vinegar
- 6 tablespoons water

in chilies, tomato paste, vinegar and water. Cook for 1 minute. Cook thoroughly. Use for salad greens, cold meats, fish or eggs. Makes about 2 cups.

BEAUTY UNDERFOOT

A lush green lawn adds the finishing touch to your home, so here are some tips on the basics of lawn care. 1. For a healthy lawn, fertilizer should be applied in the fall and early spring. Using a spreader will assure even distribution. Check with your garden dealer for local rates and recommendations.

2. Most lawns require regular weekly mowing. It's much better for your lawn to cut off a little grass regularly than a lot at one time. Also, be sure to keep your mower sharpened. A dull mower tends to rip off grass blades and damage them.

3. Although overwatering should be avoided, don't let the grass get too dry. Soak it to a depth of three to six inches whenever the soil gets dry or crumbly. Don't water if rainfall is adequate. Excessive watering can cause lawn disease. 4. Don't overlook insect pests. Use a good insecticide, and one which controls almost every important lawn pest is Spectracide® Lawn and Garden Insect Control, containing Diazinon®.

5. Don't apply lime until you've checked out the acidity level of your lawn. Too much lime can be harmful and an extra expense. Be aware of these lawn care "don'ts" and you'll have a lovely lawn that will add beauty to your home.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

In a WTTG-TV interview on April 26, 1976, Joseph Tydings, Democratic contender for the U.S. Senate seat in Maryland, called for a ban on "Saturday Night Specials," recently defined by the House Judiciary Committee to be any concealable handgun regardless of cost. In his Feb. 19, 1976 Background Statement for Editors, this same Mr. Tydings stated that he merely wants "to see a national handgun control law similar to Maryland's adopted." However, in the March 1970 issue of Playboy magazine, Mr. Tydings exhibited his complete contempt for the constitutional right of American citizens to keep and bear arms when he stated, "There is no constitutional impediment. Congress has constitutional authority to outlaw entirely private ownership of guns."

On the subject of minimum mandatory penalties for the criminal use of firearms, Mr. Joe Tydings voted in 1969 against such penalties. Today Mr. Tydings supports such penalties for 2nd offenders of violent crimes.

Amazingly enough, Mr. Tydings has the effrontery to claim in his Feb. 19, 1976 Background State for Editors that "My position on handgun control today is the same as it was in 1970!"

Maryland voters are entitled to ask, "Will the real Joe Tydings please stand up?"

Colts Win Over Fairfield

The Emmitsburg Colts bated the Mason Dixon Babe Ruth League with a win over the Fairfield Am-Vets at home on Wednesday by a score of 9 to 3. Mike Wivell, Colts pitcher, fanned 12 batters in the 5th inning game called because of darkness. Denny Ott led the winners at the plate with 3 hits including a double and triple. Jay Wivell chipped in the offense with 2 hits and Sammy Topper and Joe Ott each contributed a hit in the winning cause. The Colts next game will be played at New Market on Wednesday, May 12th.

Boy Scout News

Congratulations go to three of our Senior Boy Scouts from Troop 284 who were recently elected to the Order of the Arrow, a national brotherhood of Scout campers. Honored for their Scout advancement in the Boy Scout program were Barney Gingell, Jeffrey Wellborn and Larry Kehne. The trio will participate in a rugged camping ordeal this weekend to test their ability and desire to serve their fellow scouts. Good luck, fellows.

Have you driven by the Scout House lately? If you have been in that direction, you will note that it has changed color, thanks to a new coat of paint. Several of our Scouts are doing this project as a "service project."

Troop 284 is scheduled to attend Camp Sinoquippi, near Fort Littleton, Pennsylvania in August. Registration has begun. Parents and Scouts are urged to give their money to Mrs. Walter D. Drumm as soon as possible.

The annual festival held by the local Boy Scouts, usually scheduled for June, will not be held this year. Grateful appreciation is expressed to the local individuals and organizations who support and encourage our Boy Scouts.

Notice

Summer school will be offered again this year at the Emmitsburg School starting June 15 and ending July 13, provided there is enough interest. The courses offered will be corrective reading and corrective arithmetic. The cost per course will be $10.00. Anyone interested in having his or her child attend summer school should contact Mrs. Margaret Polley at the school in the near future.

Troop 284 was recently presented a gift of two Patrol Cook Kits by the Mount Saint Mary's College Chapter of the Knights of Columbus. Both kits were put into immediate use at the campout last week at Pine Cliff Camp at which eighteen of our Scouts attended.

Two local Boy Scouts, Michael and Barney Gingell, along with Scoutmaster Jay Dickinson recently participated in a mock disaster at Gettysburg. The purpose of the drill was to test the effectiveness of the Adams County Disaster Plan. The "victims" were transported to Annie M. Warner Hospital for evaluation.

Plans still on the troop drawing board include a trip down the Monocacy River in innertubes and a wilderness hike on the Appalachian Trail. Dates for these two events will be announced soon.

Catoctin Craft Center Hosts Special Activities

May 29 and 30 from 12 noon to 5 p.m., the Catoctin Mountain Craft Center will host a special craft show of the Craftpeople's Guild of Frederick County. Members of the Guild will be demonstrating and selling their crafts, in addition to some special events planned for the regular exhibits. In the pottery, a kiln firing will take place; a tanning demonstration in the leathercraft shop; in the quilting exhibit, a quilt top will be prepared for quilting, and special treats will be baked in the wood stove in the country kitchen. The Craft Center marks its sixth season of operation this year. In commemoration of America's Bicentennial, special historic themes will be featured each Sunday from June through October.

Many of these events will be sponsored by local groups and organizations and interested individuals. June 6 will be "Old Fashioned Farm Day - Livestock." The Catoctin FFA and Tom's Creek 4-H will be exhibiting farm animals - pigs (and piglets, if they arrive on time), goats, etc. There will even be a cow for anyone who wants to try his or her hand at milking! June 13 will be "Old Fashioned Farm Machinery Day" with an old shingle mill, horse and wagon, an historic lathe, and other exhibits of farm equipment. June 20 will be a "Mountain Music Festival." There will be guests from Hangers Ferry who will sing, play and interpret mountain music, as well as demonstrate the construction of dulcimers, and show a collection of historic instruments. If you play a traditional folk instrument, bring it along and enjoy an afternoon of impromptu music making!

On June 27, the Craft Center will host a square dance. A local group will be calling and dancing, and inviting the public to participate. On all these Sundays, the Craft Center will be open from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Continuous demonstrations of blacksmithing, leathercrafts, pottery making, shingle-riving, broom-making, spinning, weaving, quilting, and kitchen crafts will take place along with the special exhibits. The General Store will sell locally handmade craft items as well as jams, jellies, honey, penny candy and bread.

To supplement the Craft Center activities, an herb garden, vegetable garden, broomcorn plot, flax patch, and fruit orchard have been planted and will be open for visitors to wander in and enjoy. The Environmental Center at Round Meadow, open in conjunction with the Craft Center, is a small museum which tells the story of man in his environment on Catoctin Mountain, all senses in becoming aware of one's surroundings of one's surroundings. Postcards and literature pertinent to the area are on sale at the information desk of the Center. A slide program entitled "My Catoctin Mountain" will be shown at 1, 2, 3, and 4 p.m. at Round Meadow every Sunday from June through October. It tells the story of a young girl growing up on a farm on Catoctin Mountain 100 years ago, her experiences in the woodland and on the farm through the different seasons of the year. You are cordially invited to come and enjoy your park - all of these activities and programs are free. Catoctin Mountain Park is a unit of the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior. The Visitor Center is located 3 miles west of Thurmont, Maryland, on State Route 77. Round Meadow is located off the Manahan Road between the Park Central and Foxville-Deerfield Roads.

Sports Spot

Fundamentals, fundamentals, fundamentals. Who's teaching baseball fundamentals. Took in some Little League action recently and saw infielders standing back on their heels like they were waiting for a bus. Some of them even had their arms folded. Also saw tags on force plays, shortstops breaking for second with a right handed batter up and a man on first, pitchers throwing (how long will they last), and countless cases of players throwing to a base when it was obvious that they hadn't a chance for a play (sort of shutting the barn door after the horse is gone). Hey coaches, teach them (with quiet persuasion): send them to the Babe Ruth League well schooled and well disciplined. As grandpa used to say, "Anything worth doing is worth doing right."

overall through last weekend. At the end of last week the SJHS girl's softball team was rolling along in second place in their conference at 4-1, a half game behind St. Maria Goretti of Hagerstown. Led by the hitting of Elaine Hobbs, the defensive play of Cindy Stewart and the pitching of Linda Gianini, the Trojan girls swamped Broadford 18 to 3 on May 6th. Some of the boys and men's teams I've seen could take a few lessons from Richard Williams' charges. They are set for every pitch and full of enthusiasm.

According to incomplete results turned into Roy Wivell Jr., Freeman Shoe was leading the National Conference and Emmitsburg Tavern (3-0) was heading up the American Conference over K of C (4-1) and Myers Radio and TV (4-1) in league play through last Sunday. Just discovered that Emmitsburg has an entry in the Frederick County Women's Softball League; won their opener too. Now if someone will start a Senior Citizens League like they have in Florida everyone will be playing ball.

Boo of the Week! The lack of an Emmitsburg entry in the South Penn Baseball League. With the plethora of talent and the excellent facilities available, it's sad that we can't get back into this brand of baseball, once dominated by Emmitsburg. Nat. Register of Historic Places Enter Five Bldgs. At St. Joseph's Five historic structures at the Seton Shrine and the St. Joseph College campus have been entered in the National Register of Historic Places according to Sister Mary Clare Hughes, provincial superior, St. Joseph's Provincial House, who was notified of the entry by the Maryland Historical Trust.

Their entry last February marked the culmination of efforts initiated by the Maryland Trust to obtain national recognition of the historically important sites associated with St. Elizabeth Ann Seton and the former St. Joseph College.

Entered in the National Register are the Stone House, the White House, Mother Seton's tomb, the college chapel, and the Burlando building.

The Stone House, built in the 18th century, was the only structure on the property in 1809 when Elizabeth Seton arrived in Emmitsburg. The two-story stone structure has been restored and preserved by the Daughters of Charity as the founding site of their American community. In Elizabeth Seton's time, the house contained two rooms on the lower level and two rooms in the garret.

In 1963 at the beatification of Elizabeth Seton, Pope John XXIII said of her association with the Stone House: "In a house that was very small but with ample space for charity, she sowed a seed in America which by Divine Grace grew into a large tree."

Construction of the two and a half story log structure, known today as the White House, was begun in 1809. Mother Seton and her companions moved into it from the Stone House in February 1810. Elizabeth Seton described it in a letter to a friend: "We have an elegant little chapel, 30 cells, holding a bed, chair and table each, a large infirmary, a very spacious refectory; besides parlor, schoolroom, my room, working rooms, etc..." A school, opened in the White House by Mother Seton for the children of the neighborhood, was the first parochial school in the United States. The classroom is a replica of the first classroom and contains authentic furnishings, including a handsome grandfather's clock presented to Mother Seton by an Emmitsburg clockmaker. On the wall are original samples made by the Sisters and the first students.

Adjoining the chapel is the room where Mother Seton died on January 4, 1821. A room in the White House was recently converted to a museum of Seton memorabilia.

When Mother Seton died, she was buried next to two of her daughters and her sisters-in-law beneath an old oak tree in the community cemetery. In memory of his mother, William Seton provided funds for the construction of the Mortuary Chapel. Completed in 1846, Mother Seton's remains were transferred to a vault beneath the floor of the chapel where they rested until 1962 prior to her beatification.

The campus chapel was a dream of Mother Seton's but was not completed until 18 years after her death. It exemplifies a good provincial ecclesiastical building with a slightly Italianate or Romanesque feeling conveyed by the roundheaded windows. The remains of Blessed Elizabeth Ann Seton were enshrined in the chapel in a bronze casket over the main altar until their transfer to the Shrine Chapel at St. Joseph's Provincial House in 1968.

The Burlando building was central to the complex of the former provincial house and college buildings. One of the major commissions of the English-born architect, E. G. Lind (1829-1909), its impressive scale dominates the campus. Lind worked chiefly in Baltimore and designed the Governor's Mansion for the State of Maryland. The college library and education department were located in Burlando until the college closed in 1973. Later, until September 1975, it served as temporary quarters for the Seton Shrine Center.

Open to the public daily, visitors are welcome to tour the Seton Shrine from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Photo's by Mary Johnson)

Chorus Presents Concert

The Emmitsburg Community Chorus will be presenting their Spring Concert on Sunday May 16 at 8:00 P.M. in DePaul Auditorium on the campus of St. Joseph's College in Emmitsburg.

This is one event of the Bicentennial Year you will definitely want to share. The program will be comprised of songs from America's musical heritage. Many numbers of William Billings, the intensely patriotic and religious composer of the Revolutionary War period, will be included. As with every facet of life, America's history has been told in song. It will be with these songs that the chorus will relate the history of our land, leading from the Revolutionary War through the Civil War and the building of America, to the expression of hope for the future.

An added feature of the program, is that the entire chorus will be attired in Colonial costume.

The Emmitsburg Community Chorus, under the direction of Sister Jane Marie Perrot, is comprised of people of the surrounding area who come together for the joy of singing.

The chorus recently participated in a Bicentennial Pageant on April 24 at St. Joseph's College honoring Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton and our Nation. On April 25, the group sang at the Conewago Shrine in McSherrystown, Pa. for the Adams County (Pa.) Bicentennial Religious Celebration. On May 8, the ECC will highlight a Williamsburg weekend by singing at the Bruton Parish Chapel.

Therefore, if you are getting a little soured on the Bicentennial Celebration by all the tasteless balhoo, come share with the Emmitsburg Community Chorus as they express pride in our heritage with song.

There is no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken during the intermission.

The honorary Doctor of Pedagogy degree will go to Jacob M. Sheads, a retired high school teacher and a ranger historian at the Gettysburg National Military Park.

The Rev. Morris G. Zumbrun, a member of the Executive Board of the Maryland Synod, will receive the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree.

In addition to those receiving honorary degrees on May 30, the Reverend Samuel W. Schmitthener, a member of the clerical roster of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America and president of the Andhra Evangelical Lutheran Church in India, will be awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree at a time when he is in the United States. Pastor Schmitthener graduated from Gettysburg College in 1948.

Dr. David Preus, 54, graduated from Luther College, Decorah, IA, in 1943. After three years of service in the U.S. Army Signal Corps, he attended the University of Minnesota law school and subsequently enrolled at Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul. He was graduated by the seminary in 1950 and ordained the same year. He has taken post-graduate studies in theology at Union Theological Seminary, NY, and the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

Dr. Preus served two pastorates in Brookings and Vermillion, SD, from 1950 to 1957, was campus pastor at the University of Minnesota in 1957, and in 1958 became pastor of University Lutheran Church of Hope, Minneapolis.

In 1968 the ALC elected Dr. Preus to a two-year term as vice-president and in 1970 returned him to a six-year term in the same office. Upon the death of ALC President Kent S. Knutson in 1973, Dr. Preus assumed the ALC presidency and was elected to a six-year term as president in 1974.

As ALC president, he is a member of the executive committee of the Lutheran Council in the USA and the Lutheran World Federation and of the central committee of the World Council of Churches.

Long an advocate of participation by church members in civic and community affairs, Dr. Preus served nine years on the Minneapolis School Board, including two years as its president.

Jacob Melchoir Sheads, 66, is a native of Gettysburg, PA, where he received his early schooling. He was valedictorian of his high school graduating class and salutatorian of the class of 1932 at Gettysburg College. One year later he received a master of arts degree from Gettysburg College.

He received a Second Lieutenant's Commission in the U.S. Army Reserves after having completed the four-year course in Army ROTC at Gettysburg College. He saw extended active duty during World War II in the European Theater and in the Korean War. He currently holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, Infantry, Army of the United States, Retired.

From 1935 until his retirement in 1971, Col. Sheads taught American history and English in the Gettysburg Junior and Senior High Schools. He was awarded the Freedoms Foundation Valley Forge Classroom Teachers' Medal in 1959. Col. Sheads has continued to teach Civic War history in adult education classes in Gettysburg since 1961.

Col. Sheads first served as a seasonal ranger historian at Fort Mifflin and Fort Necessity battlefield sites in 1935 and 1936. Since 1937 he has been a ranger historian at the Gettysburg National Military Park. In 1974 he received the U.S. Department of the Interior's Honor Award for Superior Service.
