Something in a Glance

- By Abigail -

Have any of you folks out there in God's Country ever heard of a "Pumpkin Roller?" A pumpkin roller, is just a little hick town — a wide spot in the road — where some average folks have chosen to live. They're usually simple, unassuming and humble people — don't amount to much and never expect they will.

They are the ones who bear children, send them to school, nourish and shelter them to young adulthood and then, with tears in the parent's eyes wave good-bye to their kids who move to the big cities with a future.

And I reckon, if you took all of the little "pumpkin rollers" in America combining them into one populace, you probably wouldn't get a city any larger than something under a half a million people. But, I'd derved near wagger a brand new hat there's a heap more Presidents, Executives, Corporate owners and Superstars who come from "pumpkin rollers" than all the rest combined.

Now, I'm not knocking my big city friends nor the dudes walking the ghettos of the country. And it would plumb bowl me over to hurt folks who never had the opportunity to even go to Gramp's farm for Sunday's chicken and dumplings. It's just a blamed dirty shame everyone hasn't had a chance to spend a little time in a "pumpkin roller."

It's a little town with plain folks who've got hearts bigger than all outdoors. Everyone knows everyone and all about their problems, their loves, their children's laurels, the latest small town scandal and who that new fellow is that just moved in.

Stop at the next "pumpkin roller" you drive near. The folks would love to visit with you and who knows, you might meet a future President? It could happen that way, you know.

Dear Abigail,

Friday, June 4, a group of school children (I don't know which school) were dropped off on the Waynesboro Road. It appeared a bus breakdown.

These children were on the right-hand side of the road going into town. This was a danger to them. They stoned passing motorists, people walking, road signs and even tore off the signal flag from our mailbox. They refused transportation from two yellow school busses. The police were notified but before they arrived a dark bus picked the children up and transported them away in the opposite direction. The identity of these children are not known, but we'd like to find out. Is there any possible way that you could find out?

Name withheld

I really can add nothing to this, as I have no information, but it sure isn't saying much for the kids involved.

Vacation Church School Begins Sunday

This year's Community Vacation Church School begins Sunday evening at 7 p.m. Graded studies from kindergarten through grade six will develop the theme of God's love for us and our love for one another. The School will be held nightly from 7 to 8:30 p.m. through Friday, June 18.

All children will meet Sunday evening at the Lutheran Parish Hall for class assignments in the various community churches. Thereafter, children should go directly to the assigned church and be picked up there promptly at 8:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Emmitsburg Council of Churches, the School is for all the young people of our Community, and utilizes local church people as teachers, helpers and administrative staff. Mrs. Lyla Franklin and Mrs. Anna Bushman are the Directors of the School.

Pre-registration for the School was conducted in the churches from May

Frederick County Commissioners accepted the official Frederick County Bicentennial Flag from E.P. Magaha Jr. Monday morning. The flag, designed by Mr. James Pearl of Frederick features Francis Scott Key, and is a reproduction of the statue which stands over his grave at Mt. Olivet Cemetery in Frederick. His right arm points to an encircled outline of Frederick county. The entire design encompasses the feeling of heritage and patriotism which has always been prevalent in Frederick county. The flags will be on sale through the Frederick Bicentennial Commission and at Schifferstat. (Photo by Mary Johnson)

Historical Society Meets

The Emmitsburg Historical Society held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday, May 27, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Public Library, with approximately 50 members and guests present.

Dr. Basil Crapster, Professor of History and Chairman of the History Department at Gettysburg College, was introduced by Mrs. Kathy Plum, Program Chairman. Dr. Crapster presented a very interesting and informative talk on the Emmitsburg Militia during the Revolutionary War Period.

Following the talk, refreshments were served by Mrs. Betty Kengla, assisted by her husband, Louis.

The meeting reconvened at 9:00 p.m. for the business session, with President Francis Smith presiding. The Treasurer distributed membership lists to those present, and reported that of the 92 members on the list, only 32 members had paid their dues to date. The Society operates on a calendar year, and dues are payable between January 1 and March 1.

Some people seem to be confused because during 1975, they paid dues as late as August. That was due to the fact that the Charter Membership List was kept open until then, and any member paying by that time was eligible to have his name on the Charter Membership List. Beginning January 1, 1976, dues were payable during the time specified above, and it is suggested that unpaid dues for 1976 be sent to the Treasurer Mrs. Norman J. Shriver, Sr., R.D.#2, Box 66-1, Emmitsburg, Md.

Mrs. Chata Carr gave a report on the Community Day Program for July 3rd., and asked the members to display old pictures, and other interesting items, for the people who will be taking the Walking Tour of Emmitsburg that weekend. She also suggested that the Historical Society prepare and enter a float in the July 4th parade. The motion was seconded and carried, and a committee of volunteers was formed, with Mrs. Katie Warthen as chairman. Others on the committee are Mrs. Mary Hoke, Mr. Floyd Lewis, Mrs. Chata Carr, Mrs. Ann Ireland, Junie Stoner and Mrs. Edith Shriver.

No other committee reports being available, the meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

Celebrate Freedom Balls

Tickets are now available at a number of outlets for the Festival of Freedom Balls which will be held in Frederick, Brunswick, and Emmitsburg on the night of July 3, 1976.

Hoping to involve every citizen of Frederick County and surrounding area, the Landmarks Foundation, sponsor of the balls, has scheduled many different musical groups that evening, ensuring that something will be offered to appeal to almost every taste.

The $3.50-per-person tickets will gain admittance to any or all of six separate dances, or balls, that evening, and will contribute to a midnight fireworks display in Baker Park which will rival anything ever put forth in Frederick County.

In Frederick, historic Court House Square will be reserved for a fancy costume ball. (Attire from 1776 to 1976 will be fitting.) A country music group will be playing in the courtyard, and several rock bands will entertain in the open-air setting of the parking deck.

At Emmitsburg, the Student Union Building at Mount St. Mary's College will host a country band and a rock group on two separate floors.

Another country group will be playing in the Brunswick Fire Hall.

Designed by Bryant Aylor, the tickets may be punched at any or all of the six balls and are intended to be saved. They will undoubtedly become cherished souvenirs in the future.

Tickets are now available from the fire hall, Modern Miss, and the Potomac Foundation in Brunswick; the public library in Thurmont; at Myers Radio & T.V. in Emmitsburg; and at Schifferstadt and Etc., Etc., Etc. in Frederick. To order by mail, send checks to Schifferstadt, Rosemont Ave., Frederick, Md. 21701.

Ticket will also be sold at all ball sites the evening of July 3, but for $5 per person.

Water And Sewer Rates Hiked

Due to rising operation costs, the Town Council hiked water, sewer and trash collection charges to town users Monday night at their town meeting.

In the future the trash collection charges for the services of Wetzel Brothers within the corporate limits will be $40 per year for each residential unit.

The contract will begin on July 1, run for three years, and have the charges made by the town on tax billings.

Each new service tap for water will be charged $350 within the corporate limits and outside of the town the charges will be determined by a contractual agreement between the town and the customer.

Unmetered rates per quarter for family units in town will be $14 while those receiving water services outside the town will be charged $21.

New sewer rates will be $36 for each family unit per year with others charged: motels $15; rooming houses $50; restaurants $75; and the charges for St. Joseph College set as per contract agreement.

In other action, the town decided to have town attorney Fred Bower go to Philadelphia and consult with officials of the Environmental Protection Agency over the long delay in getting the town's sewer system improvements authorized by the Federal Government.

Legal Questions Resolved

Can the law deny nonresidents a license to catch surf clams?

Can rabbits be included under the Poultry Products Inspection Act?

Does Compulsory arbitration for medical malpractice claims abridge the right to a jury trial?

Is a bill requiring a street entrance in certain bars and taverns defective because its title talks only of windows?

Which of two bills reforming the State's rape laws creates less legal problems?

These are just a few of the legal questions resolved by Attorney General Francis B. Burch and his staff during the recently completed 1976 bill review.

During and shortly after the legislative session, the Attorney General's office examines each bill passed by the General Assembly for legal and constitutional sufficiency. Letters are then sent by Attorney General Burch to the Governor noting the sufficiency of each bill and pointing out, sometimes in full-blown opinions, any legal problems the legislation may create.

This year the bulk of the approximately 1,100 bills passed were initially reviewed by the three-member Annapolis staff of the Attorney General George A. Nilson. This office, which primarily furnishes legal assistance to the General Assembly during the session, examined 200-300 bills before the legislative session ended during the second week in April and reviewed most of the remaining 800-900 bills during the following month.

On July 1, 1976, for the first time, the Attorney General will have a full-time office in Annapolis to render legal assistance to the General Assembly. The office will be staffed by one full-time attorney and will be located in the Legislative Services Building. Attorney General Burch noted that "the year-round Annapolis office will enable my staff to provide immediate, continuous and high level service to the Legislative Branch."

Among the more significant legal opinions issued by the Attorney General during the bill review process were the following:

Legislation prohibiting a person from participating with foreign governments or organizations in boycotts discriminating on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, sex or national origin was found not to violate the Commerce Clause of the United States Constitution.

A bill setting up a compulsory arbitration system for medical malpractice claims did not violate the right to jury trial, the separation of powers doctrine or guarantees of equal protection and due process.

Legislation providing for the establishment of a Board of Public Safety for St. Mary's County to regulate certain functions of the Sheriff's office may be unconstitutional as violative of Separation of Powers insofar as it provides for one of the members to be approved by a judge.

The Planning and Zoning Commission of Emmitsburg will meet in the town office on Wed. June 16, 1976, at 8 p.m.

Antique Shops, Flea Mkt. Promoters Notified of New Responsibilities

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that the Miscellaneous Revenues Division of his office is notifying all known promoters of temporary-type shows that, beginning July 1, 1976, they must require exhibitors to furnish an original or photocopy of a trader's license before allowing them to sell items at the shows. The events covered under the new law include flea markets, antique, gun, and coin shows and other shows of a temporary nature.

A valid traders license from any of Maryland's 23 counties or Baltimore City is sufficient for compliance with the law, no matter where the event takes place in Maryland.

Traders licenses are issued by the Clerks of Court in Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. These subdivisions received revenues totaling approximately $2.6 million from traders license fees during the last fiscal year. The various Clerks of Court have also been notified of the provisions of the new law.

Promoters who allow exhibitors to sell items without requiring a valid traders license are subject to a fine or imprisonment under the law, passed by the 1976 session of the General Assembly.

US Fishing Waters Extended

The impact of legislation extending United States fishing waters from 12 to 200 miles offshore will be explained to Maryland sport and commercial fishermen at a special meeting on June 11.

Robert J. Rubelmann, DNR's Fisheries Administrator said:

"The legislation does a lot more than simply set up a 200-mile limit. It establishes a framework for conservation and management of the offshore fishery of the United States."

The Fisheries Conservation and Management Act of 1976, as it is entitled, was prompted primarily by overfishing by foreign flag vessels often within a very few miles of the United States shoreline.

Complaints from U.S. fishermen grew during the years that "factory ships" flying Russian, Polish, Norwegian, Japanese, Spanish and other flags were seriously shortening the supplies of many species of fish that normally would have been available to U.S. fleets.

The bill was signed April 13, 1976 by the President and will become effective March 1, 1977. There are facets of the legislation which must be implemented sooner, however.

Basically, the law gives the U.S. the power to prohibit foreign fishing within the 200-mile zone unless a permit is obtained or unless existing fishery agreements allow it.

"More importantly in some respects," says Mr. Rubelmann, "the example, for species which appear to be in danger of being overfished."

"This power applies not only to commercial fishing, but also provides for the establishment of regulations governing offshore game fish."

The basic mechanism for establishing conservation regulations, Mr. Rubelmann said, is the Regional Fishery Management Council.

The law sets up eight such councils; three on the Pacific Coast, one for the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, one in the Caribbean and three on the Atlantic.

Maryland will be a member of the Mid-Atlantic Council along with New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

The councils prepare fishery management plans for their regions and submit them to the U.S. Secretary of Commerce periodically.

Principal offshore species landed in Maryland commercially include surf clams, striped bass, sea trout, flounder and blue fish.

Sport fishermen off Maryland shores particularly prize the marlin, tuna, dolphin, bluefish and wahoo. While surf anglers seek such species as striped bass, drum, channel bass, trout, kingfish as well as blues.

One of the Public Health nurses, Dorothy Corbin of the Emmitsburg Clinic, spent the past month driving west. She experienced many beautiful sights and enjoyed meeting different people in different parts of the country.

Her first stop was visiting relatives in Louisville, Kentucky. They took her for a plane tour over the state, one of her cousins being a pilot. She was amazed at the enthusiasm of the people in preparation for the Kentucky Derby. Everyone goes all out. Church Hill Downs was beautiful with the early spring flowers. Temperatures were warm (70 to 93 degrees) until she reached San Francisco, where the temperatures remained around 68 most of the day and a little cooler at night.

She states that Las Vegas is a little richer since her visit, but it was a beautiful site, seeing the city lit at night as it was approached from Carson City.

Virginia City was most interesting but Jim Arness and Kitty were nowhere to be seen. Many nice purchases were made across the border in Tijuana, Mexico where leather and suede are a specialty. The missions were seen, and the swallows do return to the Mission at Capistrano every year on the feast of St. Joseph, no matter what

Open Line

By Congressman Goodloe E. Byron

Where can I get a copy of the gas mileage figures for 1976 cars?

Citizens interested in receiving the 1976 "Gas Mileage Guide for New Car Buyers" should write Fuel Economy, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

I read recently that the Congress had passed a bill concerning metric conversion. Will you please tell me that this legislation entails?

The bill would establish a national board to coordinate voluntary conversion to the metric system of measurement in the United States. Specifically, it would help coordinate voluntary metric plans developed by industry and other groups, and it would undertake education programs to aid public understanding of metric units of measurement. The board would not have the power to compel conversion to the metric system nor would the bill set any target period for completion of the conversion process.

I understand that retired persons do not have to pay entrance fees to our national parks. Is this true?

You are probably referring to a Golden Age Passport which provides a free lifetime entrance permit to national parks and recreation areas. The passport is issued free to citizens who are 62 years or older and admits the permit-holder and a carload of accompanying people. You may obtain your Golden Age Passport at most federal recreation areas or by visiting the National Park Service Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The purpose of this proposed legislation is to give the public and the Congress a unified, meaningful and simplified summary of just how the federal government stands financially. In addition to publishing the amount of month the government is taking in and paying out, the bill would require an indication of the liabilities for which the federal government has committed itself that may not be funded out of current revenues.

Commanders Conference

People and money were the main recurring topics on the agenda of the 7th Signal Command Commanders Conference completed May 27 at Fort Ritchie.

As the Army tightens its belt it becomes necessary for all commanders to reduce operating expenses. The commanders subordinate to the 7th Signal Command all addressed means of saving dollars while still adequately performing their mission of providing communications support to the Army.

The volunteer Army also received its share of attention as commanders compared notes on maintaining reenlistments adequate to provide a well trained base of available soldiers.

The statuses of various projects being undertaken by units of the command also were discussed.

Brig. Gen. John S. Blair, commander of the 7th Signal Command, was the host for the meeting.

Representatives of Fort Ritchie, the Operations Command and the sub-commands serving the Training and Doctrine Command, Materiel Development and Readiness Command, Forces Command, Military District of Washington, Health Services Command, Intelligence Agency, Recruiting Command, Defense Civil Preparedness Agency and the Military Traffic Management Command attended.

Mawby stated that "the grant to Mount Saint Mary's is one of approximately 300 similar grants being made to small, private liberal arts colleges throughout the United States as part of the Foundation's continuing program of support for improved college library services. In 1962 the Foundation provided a total of $2,500,000 to 250 colleges (including Mount Saint Mary's) to augment their teacher preparation library holdings. Three years later the Foundation made grants totaling $495,000 to 33 historically black colleges for library improvements and in 1971 Foundation grants totaling $1,500,000 were made to 300 small private liberal arts colleges for increased library resources in the environmental area. The new grant program brings the Foundation's support of college library services to a total of nearly seven million dollars.

Rev. Vincent P. Molloy has been named chairman of the Theology Department at Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., according to Bernard S. Kaliss, Academic Dean. Father Molloy, who joined the college faculty in 1973, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Seton Hall University and a Bachelor's degree in Sacred Theology from the Catholic University of America.

The papers, to be read at the October 14-16 conference in Washington, D.C., are entitled "Transfer of Technology and Economic Development" and "Effective Methods in Teaching Fundamentals of Economics."

This past March, Dr. Singh was invited to read a paper at a meeting of the Chesapeake Economics Association at Essex Community College. The title of the paper that he read was "Effectiveness of Frequent Testing in Principles of Economics."

Singh, a native of India, joined the college's faculty in 1969. He received his Bachelor's degree in 1959, his first M.A. degree in 1969 from Ranchi University in Bihar, India, and his second master's from Howard University in Washington, D.C., in 1968. He recently completed all requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Economics and had his dissertation, "Transfer of Technology, Technological Change and Economic Development: The Prototype Case of India," accepted by the Graduate School of Georgetown University.

Congress Must Encourage New Efforts

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.), declaring that "the idea of regionalism has arrived," called today for Congress to "take the lead in encouraging new efforts at regional cooperation and in sustaining regional programs already underway."

Mathias said he intends to make "a systematic review of federal programs to see how they can be revised in order to stimulate problem-solving on a regional basis." He listed programs in manpower, health care, social services, community action, law enforcement, and economic development.

The Maryland Senator urged officials attending the annual conference of the National Association of Regional Councils in Hollywood, Fla., to press candidates and the political parties for their views on regionalism and other key issues.

"Regionalism needs a boost at the polls and boosters among the Presidential candidates," Mathias said in a speech at the NARC conference.

"In addition to your efforts to get commitments to regionalism inscribed in the party platforms, I urged you individually and collectively to confront candidates for public office and to ask them for specifics on what they plan to do about air pollution, transportation, crime, and unemployment in our major metropolitan areas.

"If their plans do not include provisions for strengthening the role of regional organizations, I suggest that you and your constituents make your displeasure known on November 2," Mathias declared.

In calling for new Congressional efforts to encourage and sustain regionalism, Mathias spelled out the program review he intends to undertake. He said:

"I intend to see what can be done with the Health Planning and Resources Development Act to encourage local officials to establish health planning areas that will coincide with identifiable regions. It seems to me that elected officials would be more comfortable addressing health care needs on a regional basis if they are provided with a clear federal mandate to emphasize regional solutions.

"I intend to see that the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act is revised to recognize the special character of interstate areas and to empower areawide agencies to sponsor employment programs in cooperation with local governments.

"I intend to find a way to earmark some of the general revenue sharing funds for the use of regional councils. I support an extension of the general revenue sharing legislation, but want to be certain that the 30,000 local government units that now receive these funds are the most appropriate recipients.

"I intend to work for the establishment of a permanent legislative monitoring arm within the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Mathias said he will urge the Senate to consider the establishment of committee responsibility for metropolitan areas.

He pledged to "do my utmost" to try to win restoration of Section 701 housing funds, which he described as "the financial underpinning for comprehensive planning and many other important regional council activities." The Administration has sought to reduce 701 funding.

(From the Emmitsburg Chronicle May 13, 1913)

Ancient Battle-axe Found.
About 118 years ago there lived near Emmitsburg, Balomatsox, brother-in-law of the famous Indian "Tom" after whom Tom's Creek was named. Not being able to pronounce his name readily the people hereabout called the old Indian "Mat," and they were very fond of him, so the story goes, on account of his many fine traits of character.

Tradition has it that "Mat" was the possessor of a fair amount of wealth; also of a very peculiar battle-axe made of wood in which was embedded a large stone.

One day last week in making an excavation a club answering the above description was found and presented to The Chronicle museum by Mr. J. D. Caldwell of this place.

Near the battle-axe were found two very old coins one dated 1787 and the other 1788. These it is supposed formed a part of the treasure which was buried by the old Indian for safe keeping.

Not in many years has

any town improvement been made that equals the oiling of the streets of Emmitsburg. The move was not an experiment; there is nothing new about it, but the Commissioners are to be congratulated and praised for adopting, in response to the requests and suggestions of local people, a plan which has proved so beneficial in cities and other towns.

From every standpoint the oiling of our streets are a good investment. Pleasure, comfort, and the cessation from continuous housecleaning are a few of the many benefits to be derived from it, and as this act of the town authorities has met with such general favor it is not likely that any property owner will be willing to dispense with street oiling in the future.

The use of gravel is another move in the right direction. Jersey roads — conceded to be the best in the country — are constructed entirely of gravel. For hundreds of miles one rides over nothing else.

It packs hard and quickly; it readily absorbs moisture and dries in a remarkable short time; it is easily obtainable and requires less work in distribution and application than any other material. A verification of this may be had by observing the wear and appearance of those portions of the streets where gravel has long since been applied.

Gravel, oil, then sharp sand, is the formula advocated by those who contract for roads on which oil is to be used — another proof that the use of this material is advisable.

Emmitsburg History On Sale At Library

Preparations for Bicentennial celebrations are stimulating an increased interest in the historical background of America and a keener awareness of the contributions of each part of the country, over the years. This, in turn, leads to taking a closer look at the uniquely different characteristics of each city and town and how they developed.

A search back into the past and comparing it with the present can be an intriguing and rewarding experience for Americans of all ages, but particularly the younger generation. There is a very real need for young people to get in touch with the kind of things that made this country great and helped it to thrive and endure. They can profit greatly from learning something of their inheritance from the people who had such strong character, faith, stamina and endurance to overcome innumerable obstacles in order to build toward all that this country can be proud of today.

Every town, however small, is a vital link in all that has transpired. Emmitsburg, Maryland, is one of those important links. Its history, therefore, should be as interesting to people who have never visited the town as well as to those who live there. A book, written by James A. Hellman, relates the towns many contributions. The author has presented historical facts that cover much more territory than just this one small town's present boundaries. Of special interest to many readers will be the reference to Charles Carroll and the original vast extent of the land he once owned.

To those who now live contentedly in Emmitsburg the pages 46 to 48 are recommended for their reading. Also, Pages 53 and 54. The continuing proof of the wisdom of Samuel Emmit's choice of settlement explains why those who appreciate the town he founded are reluctant to leave and many who have wandered away either return or wish that they could.

The book, first published in 1906, is now available in reprint at the library and the Historical Society in Emmitsburg or at the C. Burr Library in Frederick for your inspection, the price is $5.20.

Grange Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held at the old school with 10 members present. Our Vice President, Brother B. Welty, held the business meeting while the President Master H. Swomley was away.

A guest speaker, Mrs. Margaret Myers, told us of the plans for the Bicentennial Celebration for our town and what part we might take if we wish.

After some discussion with the speaker, we had a short business meeting.

Bills for the month were moved to be paid by Brother R. Hampson and seconded by Sister H. Swomley.

Plans for the months of July and August meeting were tentatively made for picnics.

The Fair backboard painting will be done for us as promised by Sister Gregory.

Brother C. Brauer brought up the new business about the Community Service Program sponsored by the National Grange. It was moved to take a part in this by Sister H. Swomley and seconded by Mrs. C. Brauer who will collate the booklet.

Brother C. Brauer also reminded us of the membership drive which ends this June 30. The meeting was adjourned after a light refreshment by Sister Plum.

By Dave Harris

Do believe the Yankees took umbrage at my praise for the caliber of play exhibited by the Giants. So much so that they promptly went out and slapped the Giants around 13 to 4 to take over first place. Randy Nusbaum led the carnage with a grand slam. In other action, the Dodgers took their first step back up the ladder by recording their first win 15 to 8 over the Orioles, and then showed it was no fluke by beating the new league leading Yankees.

At the close of May, Tony Aravanis of the Giants led all Little League hitters with a .655 average. Leading hitters for the other teams were: Randy Nusbaum, Yankees .640; David Shields, Cardinals .519; Greg Reaver, Dodgers .500; Gary Topper, Red Sox .500, and Danny Fearer, Orioles .429. These individual records were provided through the considerable efforts of the volunteer Little League statistician, Mr. Dan Martinez, whose selfless dedication deserves a special thanks from the Little League.

Hey kids, remember my hitting tips? So that you don't misunderstand, number 2 was intended to read, "Never swing at a low curve strike or high fastball strike." I'm sure you understood all along.

In the big match-up between the league leaders, Emmitsburg Tavern and Freeman Shoe split a doubleheader. While it didn't hurt Freeman as much (two up on Blue Mountain), Emmitsburg Tavern can feel the hot breath of Myers stamped along behind them.

Three Emmitsburg area men are playing ball for Harney in the South Penn League this year; easily the best brand of baseball available in our area. Joel Neighbors, Harold Engleletter, and Rick Harris perform for the red and white of Harney. Joel pitched Harney to an abbreviated 2-1 win over previously undefeated McSherrystown on June 1st. Rick's double followed by Bruce Crouse's homer over the right field fence in the first inning provided the margin of victory.

BOO OF THE WEEK!

The errors that cost Emmitsburg Tavern the first game against Freeman Shoe last Sunday. You don't mind losing on earned runs near as much as on unearned runs, especially in crucial games. By the way, what happened to Blue Mountain?

Farm News

NO TILLAGE PROGRESS — To illustrate changing farm practices, participants in last month's awards ceremony at the University of Maryland posed in a field of newly emerging corn planted by the no-tillage method near the College Park campus. The silver-plated plowshare was presented to Joseph L. Newcomer (right), Extension agronomist, to honor him as national

"No-Till Educator of the Year." It symbolized the only practical use remaining for plowshares on the growing number of farms which have adopted the modern labor-saving no-tillage practice. Participants in the award ceremony included Dr. James R. Miller (left), agronomy department chairman at the University of Maryland, and Frank D. Lessiter (center) of Milwaukee, Wis.

Maryland farmers harvested more acreage of commercial vegetables in 1975 than in the previous year. Last year's total reached 53,180 acres, as compared with 52,070 for 1974. Vegetable production statistics for last year are not yet available.

The Md.-Del. Crop Reporting Service of USDA and the Maryland Department of Agriculture reports that Caroline led all other counties with 7,355 acres harvested. Queen Anne followed with 7,250. Next was Kent with 5,305. Crops in those counties went primarily for processing.

Wicomico led in terms of acreage (2,950) for fresh market, with Baltimore County (1,940) in second place and Dorchester (1,130) third.

The leading vegetable crop statewide was sweet corn. The 14,500 acres harvested represented a .03 percent increase over 1974 acreage. Tomato acreage reached a total of 6,700 acres — a more than .16 percent jump over the previous year. Acreage in peas (5,700), however, was slightly under the 1974 figure.

There was also a slight decline in the cumulative acreage for asparagus, cucumbers, spinach, lima and snap beans.

Counties on the west side of the Chesapeake Bay had increases in harvested acres. Allegheny, for instance rose from 130 in 1974 to 930 acres in the past year, while Montgomery went from 90 to 790 acres. Most of the acreage in this sector of the state was harvested for processing.

Commenting on the upward trend, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance said that, "it demonstrates that farmers respond to the demands of the market place. They are usually ready and willing to expand production if there is a reasonable chance for realizing a fair profit on their investment."

He added that Maryland still has the capability to increase acreage for various crops, but stressed that commercial, industrial and residential development poses a threat to the future of farming in most parts of Maryland.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance, acting on behalf of farmers around the state, has asked U.S. Labor Department officials to delay promulgating a new occupational safety regulation which will adversely affect farm operations here if enforced effective June 7th.

In a letter to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the state agriculture official has requested a six-month delay in requiring farmers to install shields on the power take-off on tractors.

Supporting his request, he cited the fact that federal authorities have failed to disseminate information to farmers or to the farm equipment dealers as to precisely what is required.

He also pointed out that he, himself a farmer, has experienced delays in obtaining shipment of required shields from the manufacturer.

"It would seem" wrote Mr. Hance to OSHA, "that at this busy time of the year that a six-month extension of the deadline would be in order."

Commenting on the OSHA regulation Mr. Hance remarked that while "There is a constant need for farmers to observe sensible safety regulations, they should not be expected to make expensive and often complex changes in existing equipment without adequate advance notice and information from the agency that makes the rules."

A series of three hearings will be held on June 28-29-30 by the Maryland Department of Agriculture on the proposed new Maryland Pesticide Regulations.

The proposed regulations, an extensive updating and combining, are designed to bring Maryland's regulations into compliance with the latest provisions of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA).

A full copy of the proposed regulations is scheduled to be published in the June 9th "Maryland Register" which is available at public libraries.

The hearings will be held as follows:

June 18th in Baltimore at the Holiday Inn on Belmont Ave. and Security Boulevard, beginning at 8 P.M.

June 29th in Annapolis at the Maryland Department of Agriculture's conference room, Parole Plaza (next to Woodies), beginning at 10 A.M.

June 30th in Easton at the Talbot County Agricultural Center North of Easton, beginning at 8 P.M.

Boy Scouts

Story by Jay Dickinson After emptying 3 pounds of sand out of my shoes I decided to sit down and write this story while everything was still fresh in my mind.

The day started at 9:00 am, with a general meeting of the Emmitsburg scouts. The boys had gathered for an annual event; an IN-NERTUBE TRIP down the muddy Monocacy River. By 9:30 no less than 25 scouts, 30 innertubes, 2 kyacks, 1 row boat and 8 cars and trucks had made the short trip from town to the Mamma Ford Bridge. At 10 a.m. the troop hit the water and began their journey down stream.

The line of innertubes stretched out for about 100 yards and was described by passing canoeists as "the craziest thing they had ever seen." Innertubes of all sizes, shapes and colors drifted lazily in the mile and a half per hour current.

Two life guard boats kept a watchful eye on the troop. A floating repair station run by scout Barney Gingell and Richy Ott made several mid-river repair jobs on leaky tubes.

The group stopped for lunch near Millers Bridge, Rocky Ridge. As the afternoon got warmer some of the boys got in some swimming.

Passing some fishermen south of Rocky Ridge, the expedition received the nick name "The Emmitsburg Yacht Club."

The trip ended at the Le Gore Bridge after six miles and six hours of pure and simple fun.

Participating were Billy Wagerman, Bobby Gauss, M. J. Golibart, Dale Shields, Owen Rosensteel, Tony Myers, Andy Mitchell, Larry Kehne, John and Jimmy Cliber, Barney and Mike Gingell, Jimmy Gauss, Joe and Robert Antolin, Mickey Long, John Carter, Bobby Preston, Carl White, Frank Bowers, Mike Dillon.

Guests of Troop 284 were Richy Ott, Doug Beale, and David Schooler. The expedition was led by scoutmaster Jay Dickinson.

Much to the relief of the town officials, the fire hydrants have finally all been painted by the scouts. Completing the job were scouts Joe Antolin and Mark Warthen. The delay was caused by a misunderstanding of who was to paint the remaining fire hydrants. (Now that they are all painted, do they all work? ed.)

CB Hot Line Program Forging Ahead

Training Program Forging Ahead

Maryland Citizens Band (CB) radio clubs will be cooperating with the Maryland Division of Tourist Development for the nation's first tourism information program utilizing mobile CB outlets.

Known as the Maryland CB HOT Line for helping out travellers, the program was recently announced by Secretary Joseph G. Anastasi, Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development.

In cooperation with the Maryland State Police, training programs will be held throughout the State to acquaint existing radio clubs with proper procedures for relating emergency information and assisting travellers with tourism information.

CB Installed In Harbor Tunnel

On May 21, the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel became the first U.S. toll facility to operate its own citizen band communication system.

"As far as we know, we are the first," said E. Donald Reilly, toll facilities administrator.

Operating on channel three, the new CB station provides harbor tunnel thruway traffic reports to oncoming motorists, handles information requests and responds to distress calls.

The tunnel's CB radio covers an eleven-mile radius. This should give motorists ample time to find out tunnel traffic conditions and choose alternative routes.

Signs informing motorists of the new communication service are located along Interstate 95 and on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The base station radio was installed April 1 and was operating experimentally before signs were placed on major approach roads.

In addition to road signs, toll facilities personnel are distributing flyers at the toll gate, informing motorists and truckers of the CB unit.

If the Harbor Tunnel CB station is a success, similar units may be installed at other Maryland toll facilities.

Turns 15% Income Over To County

A total of 15% income collected at Cunningham Falls, Gambrill, Gathland and South Mountain State Parks, has been turned over to the Frederick County treasury.

This year the amount totaled $6,839 and over the past ten years, $17,275. This reimbursement is required by law in lieu of land tax dollars.

An amount in excess of $172,000 was collected from all parks in 1974 for distribution to all of the counties. In 1966, Maryland counties received only $65,000.

Park fee increases have been relatively incremental

(from $.50 per car in 1946 to the current $1.50) compared to the rise in county receipts.

The fees may have tripled in the last 30 years but county stipends tripled just within the last decade.

User fees, combined with income generated from rental facilities and concessions, cover approximately one-third of the Park Service's operational budget, according to Assistant Director Donald Mac-Lauchlan.

The remainder of the Service's budget is appropriated from general funds by the Maryland General Assembly.

Recalls Insecticide

The wrong label on several hundred cans of insecticide has resulted in an order from the Maryland Department of Agriculture to the manufacturer to take the material back at his expense.

David Shriver Supervisor of Pesticide Regulations for MDA reports he discovered approximately 1,000 gallons of Toxaphene insecticide on the Eastern Shore which had been distributed to several agricultural aviators who planned to use it to control armyworm infestations in small grain crops.

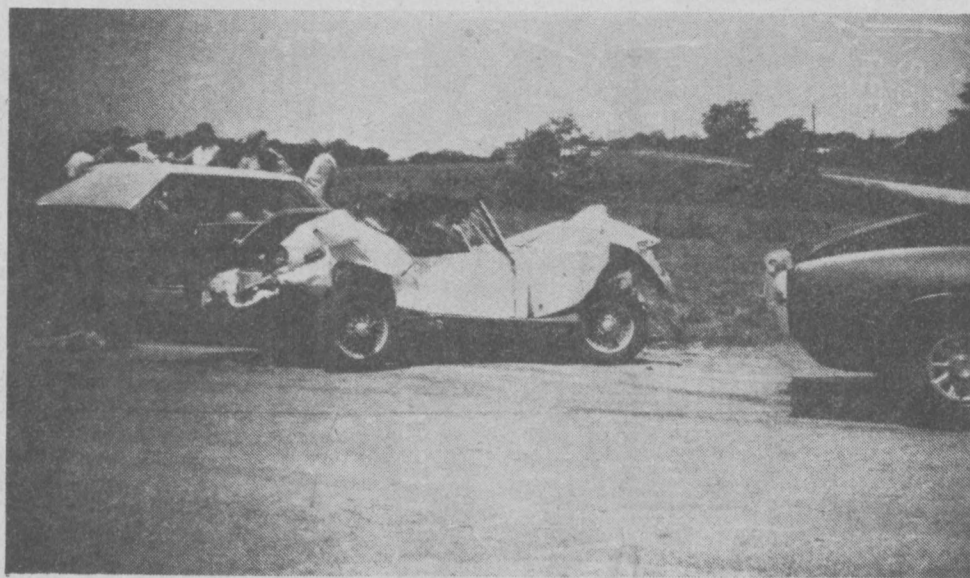

"The problem in this case is that the material was labeled only for use on cotton," Mr. Shriver said. "Maryland does not produce cotton and thus, the material as labeled was illegal for use in this state."

Mr. Shriver instructed the agricultural aviators not to use the product. The distributor who has supplied it to them was ordered to take back the material and the manufacturer, Tifton Chemical Company of Tifton, Georgia, was contacted. They agreed to arrange return shipment of the product at their expense.

"This case serves as a reminder that all people who use, sell, and buy pesticides must read the label on the product before they act. The label is law. If the product is not labeled for use as the prospective user has in mind, then they should not use it," Mr. Shriver said.

Persons with questions concerning pesticide labeling in Maryland may obtain answers by calling Mr. Shriver's office at 301-454-4635.

3 Car Accident

Two persons were hospitalized while three others were treated for lesser injuries as a result of a three-car accident at the intersection of Bus. Rt. 15 and Freedom Twp. Rt. 313, a half mile north of Md. St. Line at 11:40 Friday morning.

Listed in satisfactory condition at the Warner Hospital were Robert A. Brawner, 18, Gettysburg, Rt. 1, driver of one of the cars, who sustained multiple injuries and a passenger in Brawner's sports car, David R. Deardorf, 18, Biglerville, who sustained multiple injuries.

Treated at the Hospital were Florence C. Hobbs, Frederick, Md., right arm injuries and her passenger, Sister Mary Iva Hobbs, of the Sinsinwa Convent in Wisc. who sustained multiple injuries.

David W. Reeher, 18, Biglerville, a passenger in a car operated by Joel F. Garretson, Gettysburg, R. 2, was treated at the hospital for an injury to the left lower leg. All were taken to the hospital in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance and Gettysburg Fire Department ambulances. Greenmount firemen assisted on the scene with a pumper truck.

State police said Ms. Hobbs attempted to turn her northbound car left on Route 15, but was struck by Brawner's southbound sports car. Police said Garretson could not stop his southbound car in time to avoid the accident ahead and his vehicle hit rear of Brawner's car crushing it between his car and Ms. Hobb's.

Memoriam

IN MEMORY OF Henry Thomas Zurgable
Who Passed Away Two Years Ago on June 12
Daddy

He survived all the pain and trials of the years. It was really a shame bringing us all kinds of tears. It was a real time when death knocked at our door. There were tears for days and days, I never wanted to cry anymore.

Now dear Mother goes on alone in a cold old home of brick and stone.

As she sits and watches the little robin build her nest,

She wonders why, oh why, he was put to rest.

Then she moves to his old rocking chair,

Deraming of every day he was there, and cries cause it seems so unfair.

She really has no great fear.

Cause God and Daddy will always be near.

And someday Mom and Daddy will sing with delight,

For God, the Father, will show them both the light.

By: Daughter, Wanda Zurgable

A Call To Excellence To the Class of 1976

By Senator Charles McC. Mathias

This year, it is my pleasure, as it is every Spring, to visit many schools throughout Maryland and to speak with members of the graduating classes. I am impressed by the Class of 1976 - by their records to date and by their interest in the years ahead. In talking to them, I try to give the new graduates some sense of what life holds for them and what they owe to life. When I consider the great privilege it is to get an American education, I must conclude that great obligations go with it.

We have an extraordinary public education system in this country. It offers diverse opportunities to students of diverse interests. Students who receive this education do so because their parents and friends and neighbors pay the taxes that support the schools. So it seems to me that each graduate is under an obligation to make the best use that he can of the education he has been given.

This is one of the positive burdens and obligations of citizenship. It is not a heavy burden. It is a call to excellence - a call to each graduating student to make the most of himself.

It's a hard job in one sense, but in many ways the hardest jobs can be done with the least amount of fuss or confusion or controversy. Many of our greatest contributions in recent years have come from ordinary citizens doing ordinary things.

That is my message, and my challenge, to the Class of 1976. To all its members, anywhere in Maryland, I say congratulations, and good luck!
