THE CARROLL RECORD.

Vol. 1, No. 5. TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1894. $1.00 Per Year.

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

How people could have misunderstood our announcement as to the three sample copies, passes our understanding, yet it seems that some of the town people feel that we failed to keep our promise to send three copies, and feel somewhat on their dignity.

That we made no such promise to persons in town, is plain when you do a little thinking. We said "the names of a number of persons have been added to our mailing list." This cannot mean anything other than what it said in plain English; papers not even addressed, and delivered by carrier, can have no connection with a mailing list. Further on we said, "if the paper is taken from the office after the three copies have been accepted &c.," which also proves that we made no promise to the people in town, for none of the papers delivered in town were ever put in the office, consequently there was no chance given to refuse them at the office. We think that every one should know that we would not purposely start out by offending the very people from whom we look to for our principal support, and a little calm reflection should enable unprejudiced persons to see that they simply misunderstood the announcement. The persons whom we did refer to, were those who receive their papers by mail, and who were sent regularly addressed copies not marked "sample copy," the most of which receive their mail at other Post offices.

The Searchlight year, we are informed, does not close with this issue as stated last week, but will extend to the 25th. The correction will be made on our books, and the renewals of Searchlight subscribers will begin with September 1st. for the RECORD.

Miss Amanda Root is visiting at Daniel H. Fair's.

Mrs. Landers is visiting her daughter Mrs. Maggie Reindollar.

Miss Lou Renner, of Washington, D. C., is home on a visit.

Raymond Miller and wife, and Miss Mabel Miller, of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. B. S. Miller.

Our Base Ball club was defeated in a game at Emmitsburg on Tuesday, score 17 to 7.

Misses Lillian Erb and Carrie Mourer, of Westminster, were visiting the family of F. H. Elliot, this week.

Harry M. Clabaugh and family have taken up their summer residence at "Antrim."

Geo. H. Birnie of this place has been elected president of the Carroll County C. E. societies, succeeding Mr. H. Meals, resigned.

Messrs Geo. K. Sherman, of Two Taverns, Pa., and Harry Wildasin, of Hanover, Pa., are visiting at Mr. J. Snyder's, on Baltimore Street.

Misses Annie and Bessie Elliot have returned from Fairfield, Pa., where they were visiting the family of J. J. Reindollar.

We are glad to know that our friend J. P. Gardner who is engaged in the tin business, in Middleburg, is getting up a good trade. John understands the business good enough.

The Catholic pic-nic as usual drew a large crowd of strangers to town. The hotels did a rushing business, and the streets were filled the whole day with a continuous stream of vehicles.

Henry Troutfelter and William Myerly of Uniontown, the well known Mill-wrights, went to Lancaster county on Wednesday to do some work.

On last Thursday while on his way to Taneytown. Mr. Calvin Harner shot a large chicken hawk which measured 43 inches from tip to tip of wing. The distance was 180 yards.

A horse, driven by two ladies from Emmitsburg, was attacked with colic, on Wednesday, and died during the night. The animal belonged to Mr. Favorite, a livery man in Emmitsburg.

A load of good potatoes would likely meet with ready sale among our citizens at from 50 to 60 cents a bushel; very few have been offered so far. Tomatoes and corn would also sell readily.

With wheat at 46cts., and prospects for a light corn crop, it would seem to be a good time for our people to economize in the purchase of luxuries, and all those unnecessary things which are only useful for keeping "in style."

While Mr. David Gouker, of near Littlestown, was returning from the Catholic pic-nic, on Wednesday, two wheels of his buggy gave way. Three persons were in the buggy at the time and the horse was moving rapidly but no one was hurt.

Mrs. Sally McCarty who was buried in the Catholic cemetery on the 28th., was the widow of Michael McCarty and daughter of Joshua Adelsperger and was at one time well known here. Latterly she lived with her son John M. at New Windsor

The Catholic pic-nic held on Wednesday in Clabaugh's grove was a great success as usual, both financially and otherwise. From 8 o'clock in the morning the crowd commenced to gather, and by the middle of the afternoon the grove was a great mass of humanity. Dancing and other diversions were indulged in until late in the evening, and good order was generally observed during the day. The gross receipts amounted to $420, and the net profit to $300. The great heat operated somewhat against dancing, and not as many dinner tickets as usual were sold, but in every other way the event was more successful than any which have heretofore been held.

A horse belonging to Mr. Jas. Reid, of Church Street, became frightened from some cause, and ran away on Tuesday morning last. A little niece of Rev. Bateman was thrown out of the buggy and slightly hurt, and the buggy top was badly broken. The horse was caught about 1 mile north west of town.

On Thursday last, Mr. Tobias A. Martin, of near Robert's Mill, had a very narrow escape from being bitten by his dog which had gone mad. The dog was lame and Mr. M., not noticing anything unusual in the animal's appearance, picked it up, when it had one of the fits usual to hydrophobia. The dog was killed however, before it could do any harm.

Prof. J. P. Sharkey and wife, of Eaton, Ohio, are visiting at Wm. W. Witherow's near town. Prof. Sharkey is chairman of the Ohio State Teachers Association, and a former superintendent of the Butler county association. He came east partly on business connected with his office, and partly to visit relatives. Mrs. Sharkey will remain in the neighborhood for a short sime.

While John W. Kiser, who drives a beer wagon for Schmidt & Wagner, Hanover, was driving from this place to Littlestown last Thursday afternoon during a thunder gust, the lightning struck in the back of the wagon, stunned and knocked down the horses, and also rendered Mr. Kiser unconscious. When he came to, the horses were performing their duty and were three miles from the point at which the stroke occured.

The Hot Springs Medicine Company which located here on Tuesday for two weeks or longer, have been giving highly amusing and entertaining performances every evening. This company is composed of people who are artists in their various lines, and have been universally well received wherever they have been. The best evidence of the reliability of the concern is seen in the fact that they stay in a town so long, and for four months they have been traveling in a section, the whole of which would be taken in, in a radius of 20 miiles.

NOTES HERE AND THERE.

The question of purchasing a street sprinkler for New Windsor, with corporation funds, is raising a breeze in that quiet town.

Mr. Jos. B. Boyle the recently appointed post master of Westminster, took charge of the office on Wednesday. Good bye "chip."

Monterey, Buena Vista, and Pen Mar, are all well patronized this summer, and their popularity is undoubtedly becoming wide spread.

Mr. John P. Cash, a brother of Lewis Cash, of Double Pipe Creek, was killed by the breaking of a guy rope, in Dinwiddie Co., Va.

Under the act of the last Legislature which requires practicing physicians to register in the Clerks office, fifty-eight have complied in this county.

A system of water works for Crisfield, Md., is under way. A good flow of water has been obtained and arrangements have been completed for the necessary outfit.

A meeting has been held in Union Mills in the interest of the Electric railway. A large number of persons in that section promised to subscribe to the stock of the Company.

The Western Maryland R. R. Company has refused to stop running Sunday excursions to Gettysburg, but says that hereafter they will be run direct to Round Top, and disorder will be suppressed.

Ice consumers in Baltimore are indignant at a raise in price of twenty five per cent, by the monopoly which controls the supply of northern ice. The price will be 50 cts. per 100 lbs. for families, and 40 cts. per 100 for stores and restaurants.

The Frederick county peach crop will be very short, and many of the orchards will not yield a bushel of fruit. There, are, however, some exceptions, as some of the orchards have almost entirely escaped the general condition.

At a joint meeting of the Carroll and Howard County Commissioners, at Sykesville, it was decided to build a joint bridge over the Patapsco at that place, after conferring with the B. & O. R. R. Co., in reference to a change of location.

[Communicated.]

The following persons were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Albaugh on Sunday last: Mr. Jacobs, Miss Alice Overholtzer and Mr. Samuel Strine and family of Walkersville, Mr. Doc Jacobs and family of Gettysburg, Mr. Eiler and wife of Ladiesburg, Mr. Eiler and wife of New Midway, Mr. Nicholas and wife and Miss Annie Fuss of Emmitsburg, Miss Laura Overholtzer of Bruceville, Mr. Forrest and son of Pa., and Mr. John Eyler and Miss Virgie Stover of Double Pipe Creek.

Mr. John C. Motter, one of the brightest lawyers of the Frederick bar, has formally announced himself as a candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. "Jack" Motter, as he is familiarly known here, will make a strong candidate and he is in it to win, if such a thing be possible; Mr. Motter, so we understand, will carry nearly all, if not all the districts in the county, and it looks as if other counties would rally to his support, in which event his nomination seems almost assured. It is claimed that he can heal the differences existing between Wellington and Pearre. We are for a Frederick county man, first, last and all the time and should Mr. Motter receive the nomination, we assure him that no one will be more earnest and faithful in advocating his election than we.—Liberty Banner.

New School Examiner.

WESTMINSTER, July 30.—At the meeting of the school commissioners to-day, Professor James A. Diffenbaugh tendered his resignation as secretary and treasurer of the board. and as examiner of the public schools of this county, to take effect the 31st. instant, after a continuous service in that position since January 7, 1894. In doing so, he warmly complimented the board on its efficient administration of school affairs, and made a resume of the work, which shows that from 113 schools, with a total attendance of 6,140 pupils occupying 132 rooms, and employing 135 teachers, at a cost of $31,627 06 for teachers' salaries per annum, there has been an increase to 133 schools, with an attendance of 8,940 pupils, occupying 156 rooms, and employing 162 teachers, at aggregate salaries of $36,930.80. During the same period, colored schools have increased from seven to twelve, and from an expenditure of $1,404.06 to $2,840.79. Four stone, eleven frame and thirty brick schoolhouses have been erected, embracing fifty-two rooms, at an aggregate cost of $28,395.71, but in actual value worth more than $50,000, and, in the same time $11,105.56 has been expended for repairs, and the sum of $13,-195.24 for furniture, making a total of $52,596.61. for tangible improvements in school property, and an actual increase of at least $80,000 in its value.

The resignation was reluctantly accepted, and the board proceeded to fill the vacancy by electing George A. Davis, of Mount Airy district. The new examiner is forty-three years old. He was educated at the public schools, and at Loyola College, Baltimore, and has taught twelve years in the schools of the county, and served ten years as a justice of the peace. The fall term of the schools will commence September 10,—Balto. American.

A Fish Story.

While a party was seining the dam at Otter Dale Mills on Saturday a rather remarkable, but nevertheless true incident occurred. Mr. William Flickinger who was carrying one of the poles of the net, and wading through the water, stepped on two fish, one with each foot, and imbedded them in the soft bottom. He called to Wm. Kump one of the party, that he was standing on something with life in it, but did not know what. Kump reached down under one foot and pulled out with his hands a monster carp, then did the same thing from under the other foot. The fish when cleaned weighed 4½ and 4½ pounds each. Whether the fish were asleep, or whether it was the size of the feet, which made the event possible we are not able to say, but will take a "davy" as to the truthfulness of the story.

The resignation was accepted, and President Grimes made a touching and eloquent response, assuring the retiring examiner that the Board regretted to part with him, and that his services to the school system of the county and the State were highly appreciated.

The Board then went into executive session for the election of a secretary, treasurer and examiner. Applications were on file from M. Elias Walsh, Esq., Prof. Edward Reisler and Prof. Geo. A. Davis. Prof. Davis was unanimously elected, his term of service to begin August 1st., 1894.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

Keysville.

News is a little scarce at present, but am glad to say the people have brightened up considerably since Providence has been kind enough to send us rain which has put a healthy color on all vegetation. The early threshing has generally been satisfactory in both yield and quality, and our farmers are already busy with preparations for the next year's crop.

It would seem that farmers would do better to raise more varieties of grain, particularly as wheat is so low. Take for instance Hungarian grass, this makes excellent hay and turns out seed in great quantities which is worth from 50 to 70 cents per bushel. Also Hemp and millet, as the seed from them is now largely used for feeding fowls, &c.

Our pigeon fancier C. F. Roop has been trying to get millet seed for his birds but failed, he did get Hungarian seed at 70 cts. per bushel. He says they are very fond of it, and poultry men highly recommend a change of grain for all fowls, therefore it would seem that there would be a good market here for some of the new grains.

Mr. Roop has over 100 fancy pigeons, and says he wants to reduce the number for want of room, and offers young birds in lots of 5 or more pairs at $1.00 per pair, or old breeders at $1.50 per pair. He intends shipping a lot very soon unless disposed of to parties who call for them.

Many persons are suffering from complaints caused by the excessively hot weather, otherwise the health of the community is good.

Porters.

Our vicinity has caught the fever of improvement. Mr. William A. Dorsey is erecting a barn size 72x40 ft., Mr. William Conaway builder; Mr. W. F. Barnes, our enterprising photographer, has erected a fine buggy shed on his premises, Mr. John H. Paynter and Mr. I. G. Rhinehart have broken ground for the erection of several out-buildings.

The ladies of Porters' held a little social gathering at Mrs. Jane E. Ways' on Thursday of this week, and from what your correspondent can glean from some stray remarks dropped by one of the party, he thinks the chief topic of conversation was the extraordinary good looks of one of the ladies present, familiarly known as "Aunty."

The Sunday school of St. Paul's M. E. church held its annual celebration at Hotel Heights on Friday, 27th., inst., which was quite a success in every way. Various games such as base ball, foot ball, sack racing, croquet, swinging, &c., were indulged in, much to the delight of the young folks present, even our young minister took an active part in the exciting and exhilarating game of base ball, but unfortunately "Pat" was on the wrong side and was defeated.

The I. O. G. T. of Daniel, held a pic-nic in the grove of H. L. Shipley on Saturday the 28th., which was largely attended. Music furnished by the Winfield Cornet Band. We had the pleasure of listening to several very heated discussions on the subject of Prohibition.

At the same time and place, a hotly-contested game of base ball was played between the Day club and the club of our village. The game was called at the end of the 8th. inning. Score 5 to 4 in favor of the Day club.

Miss Bessie Richardson, of Delwood Ave., Baltimore, is visiting the family of Robert E. Barnes during the heated term.

Uniontown.

We have had some fine rains this week.

Our farmers are busy plowing for fall seeding.

Our Base Ball Club can't get suitable grounds.

The Church of God Sabbath school festival netted about $12.00.

L. F. Eckard is reported very ill with typhoid fever

Mrs. Joseph Burall, an aged lady, is lying very sick with general prostration.

Miss E. Blanche Wilson entertained a number of friends at tea, on Friday evening last.

A number of our town folks will occupy tents at Linwood Camp, which opens on Friday of this week.

Miss Fannie Elliot, of Lancaster, Pa., who has been the guest of Elder Seilhamer's family the past few weeks, returned home on Saturday last.

Mr. Evan Haines, of near Linwood, was thrown from his buggy, on Sunday evening, onto one of the wheels, and had several ribs broken, and a number of bruises, from which he suffers severely.

Messrs Francis Bankard and Henry Sell, as Agents for the Heirs of the late Jacob Bankard, sold, on Monday, 14 Acres of real estate, lying near town, to Wm. H. Bankard, of Hagerstown, the price paid is said to be $1000. Mr. B. takes possession this fall.

Littlestown.

A lecture on "Missions" was given at the Reformed church, on Wednesday evening, by Rev. Takio Noyr, a native of Tokio, Japan.

Hon. Ephraim Myers, Geo. Kump, Joseph Ocker, Samuel Rebert, and several others are endeavoring to form a stock company for the building of the Electric Road from Gettysburg to Union Mills, where they will connect with the Baltimore division, making a direct route from Washington to Gettysburg. All honor to the men whose public spirit is made manifest in works. Let all who have money to invest co-operate, and we shall have, not only the Electric Road, but Electric Light also.

On last Friday evening Mr. Geo. Duttera entertained in a very pleasant manner, some of his many friends. The Orchestral Quartette (Orphean) discoursed some very excellent music during the evening.

The Reformed pic-nic, from this place, at Silver Oaks, was well attended and proved to be a most enjoyable event. The Littlestown Cornet Band furnished the music for the occasion.

Rev. Weigle, of Altoona, formerly of this place, will preach in St. Paul's Lutheran church, next Sabbath morning.

Double Pipe Creek.

Mrs. Josiah Eyler died at her home near this place last Tuesday, aged 61 years. She leaves a husband and family to mourn her loss.

Mr. Harvey Miller and wife, of Philadelphia, paid a visit to this place last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Clayton Snook and Howard Yingling who have been working in Philadelphia, are home on a short vacation.

Mr. Emory Warner, of Frederick, paid his father a visit last Saturday and Sunday.

The recent drouth damaged the corn and early potato crop throughout this country, and there will not be more than a half crop of either.

The Rev. Oliver Ruark will preach a patriotic sermon at this place for the benefit of Jr. O. U. A. M., of this place.

On last Saturday evening, as the Taneytown band passed through this place on their way home, they played us several pieces of choice music.

Our enterprising warehouse man, Mr. Wright Barrick, has been doing a very flourishing business and we hope that it may continue.

There is a great deal of sickness reported in this vicinity.

Mrs. Katie Cheasman is on the sick list of our town.

The Double Pipe Creek Cornet Band will hold a festival on August 21, 22, 23, and 24, to raise funds to further equip their band.

The Annual Harvest Home Festival of Haugh's Church, was held at the usual place last Saturday. As is usual an immense crowd was present, and with the assistance of the intensely hot weather, about 75 gallons of ice cream, and a large amount of other refreshments were sold. Revs. A. Pohlman, R. S. Patterson and S. L. Patterson, interested and amused the audience by their instructive and witty addresses, and the Taneytown band furnished the music. Taken all together it was an immense success.

Harney.

On last Saturday, a crowd of fishermen from Hanover encamped on the banks of the Monocacy, just above Myers's mill. They were a jolly set of people and represented the Globe Brewing Company of Baltimore, and all being of German descent, the beer flowed freely. On Sunday afternoon the following gentlemen were in camp, J. J. Schmidt, H. Yeager, J. J. Foin, M. Feeser, N. Wagner, H. Clunk, H. E. Hess, A. Wagner, C. Miller, of Hanover; E. A. Fox, H. L. Yohe, S. Leese, and H. Study, from Silver Run; H. Martin, and C. A. Werts, from Littlestown; H. C. Hagerman, A. L. Wagner, F. J. Hawn, S. J. Hawn and J. F. Patterson, from Bonneavi le; S. Smith and Jacob Buffington, from Taneytown, besides a number of others from Harney and surrounding community. The chicken soup, prepared by H. Yeager for dinner, was certainly fine and much enjoyed by all.

The Fairfield fishing club is encamped at present on the same grounds that was occupied by the Hanover club. This kind of sport is becoming quite popular, and our boys are beginning to talk about organizing a club in this place.

On Tuesday, July 31st., Mrs. Witherow a highly respected lady of this community was given a grand surprise. This being her 76th. birthday, her children decided to give her a birthday party, and while the old lady was seated quietly at her home, not thinking of the advanced age she had reached, sons, daughters and near relatives began to arrive until the number had swelled to 56. A dinner was served in the grove near by and the aged mother and all present spent a very pleasant day together. Quite a number of presents were given her among which was a fine pair of gold spectacles. All can have the full assurance that this was a birthday celebration never to be forgotten by mother Witherow.

New York Correspondence.

New York, July 30th, '94.

Editor "CARROLL RECORD":—

Your interesting and newsy paper is delivered here regularly each Saturday evening. Though receiving a half dozen local weekly papers the "RECORD" is always in greater demand, showing conclusively that your efforts are appreciated. It is a matter of congratulation to all interested in the old town, to note the spirited manner in which you are agitating the question of water works and electric railroad. The former is of paramount importance to the health, growth, and prosperity of the place. The town is thickly populated and the wells of necessity polluted with surface sewage to an extent to endanger the good reputation for healthfulness hitherto enjoyed by it. Nothing is so conducive to good health and long life as pure drinking water, hence the first effort of a town, even in its swaddling clothes, is to secure a bountiful supply of wholesome drinking water. Wells of villages and thickly settled portions of all communities become tainted and unhealthly unless they are artesian in character with all surface drainage tightly cased off. As your readers generally know, New York obtains its supply from a chain of lakes thirty miles north of the city. Two large aqueducts, one above ground, 7x10 feet in dimensions, the other under ground, 10x14 feet, both tightly enclosed to prevent foreign substances or surface water from contaminating it. Eighteen months ago the city authorities here were compelled to acquire all the land within a mile or two of the water supply and tear down all buildings so as to avoid polluting the drinking water of this place. This was done at a cost of nearly $2,000,000 but was rendered necessary to avoid the diseases so common to town and city life. That Taneytown should have a water supply other than that of the old fashioned wells needs no argument. How to accomplish it is the problem requiring solution. That it can be done and that the enterprising people of your town will successfully do so, goes without saying. Artesian wells would seem to be the only available supply. Ebensburg, Cambria County, Pa., a town about the size of Taneytown, has an abundance of water from this source. The tanks are built half a mile north of the town where the wells, three I think, are located and from which the supply is drawn. The cost is not heavy as the wells are less than two hundred feet deep and the pipes cover only about four miles. Northumberland, Penna., located sixty miles north of Harrisburg, is erecting water-works at this time and as it may be of interest to know how the citizens there are doing that work, I will give the plans. A joint stock company, with a capital of $45,000, upon which ten per cent. was paid in as required by law, was formed. Bonds for $40,000 were issued and the contracts for the work, amounting to $35,000, were entered into, the contractors taking bonds for their pay. The remainder of the bonds and the cash paid in on the stock was used to purchase the necessary land, water rights, etc. The work is underway and the stock even now worth fifty cents on the dollar, proving an excellent investment to the promoters of the enterprise.

Your town has now assumed such proportions, and made up largely of frame structures, that a disastrous fire may happen at any time. The question of the cost of fire insurance may become a serious one at an early date and especially so should a fire of some proportion occur. Your people will do well to give this matter the careful and earnest consideration that it merits and if possible solve it by the introduction of a good pure supply of water.

As to the electric railroad, that will double the population in ten years and make Taneytown the leading business and residential town in Carroll County. That your citizens are alive to the importance of this matter is demonstrated by the organization just formed.

In this connection Uniontown and Harney two enterprising towns are equally interested. If the citizens of these three places are alive to their best interest the road will be secured, and everybody be happy.

VERITAS

A Practical Letter.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24, 1894.

Editor CARROLL RECORD.

Dear Sir—

Through the kind remembrance of some one connected with your publication, I have been favored with a "sample copy" of both the second and third number of THE CARROLL RECORD, and a right welcome sight it was, indeed. As an evidence of my appreciation of your commendable enterprise, I herewith enclose you $1.25, as an acceptance of one of your combination offers, namely, a joint annual subscription to your paper and the New York Weekly World.

As a native (1857) and boyhood-resident of Taneytown district and a one-time dweller in the town itself; as one whose kinsfolk for six generations have lived in that vicinity just as representatives of each now lie buried there, the site of my own cemetery-lot, too; as one who once enjoyed a large personal acquaintance in upper Carroll County, the scene of early school-days; as an ever deeply interested observer of the progress and development of the place and a warm well-wisher for the utmost well being and prosperity of its people; as one who, years ago, regretfully remarked the town's backwardness in not having a local journal; I trust your undertaking will permanently and profitably prove the filling of a truly long felt want in your thrifty community.

For over ten years I have been a regular subscriber to a Westminster paper for the sake of the occasional odds and ends of intelligence therein contained from time to time concerning the people and events in and around Taneytown. Now, thanks to your excellent journalistic venture, I shall weekly (and yet not alone weakly, as heretofore) get such news right from its fountain-source as it were.

With some twenty years' experience as a "knight of the quill" myself, from that of Taneytown correspondent of the Baltimore, Westminster and Littletown papers to the reportorial corps, and (four years') editorship of the city-press and contributor to periodical literature, I may properly assume that I have tolerably well learned what matter is in "good form" for a reputable and representative journal. Prominent among such items stand authentic reports with correctness of details. Editors and contributors alike should always pride themselves on the thoroughly trustworthy and unimpeachable character of the subject-matter of the news-chronicles and editorial comments. Let correspondence and home reports invariably go to head-sources for an intelligent recital of events, past, present or projected, before presuming to report the same unqualifiedly. If, for any sufficient reason, they cannot reach the base of information so as to enable them to note occurrences with unmodified certainty that they actually are facts or surely about to become such, let them either "bide a wee" and wait further issue, else guardedly record the subject—for instance, by saying "'tis rumored," "'tis said" or the like.

If there be any inaptness in the way of condensation or "boiling down" of the contributions of local correspondents, a proper appreciation and judgment of what is really wanted of them may be soon brought about by the editor's unremitting, scienced pruning off of all over-sufficient expressions, or by an occasional reconstruction of whole sentences, or even the entire communication. Once a writer has his articles "cut down" a few times he will surely be dull not to understand fairly well what is expected of him, and govern himself accordingly.

Now, as to the nature of the subject to be publicly recorded. A contributor to the public press should be ever mindful that private, personal character is an inviolable domain, the most sacred thing man possesses; wherefore, it were decidedly better to often lack in quantity and withal maintain a high standard in the quality of the news-reports. In strict keeping with the glorious golden rule, neither directly or by innuendo injuriously reflect on, or asperse the character of, any one until an imputation shall have been clearly established, have become a patent reality, when it's within the legitimate province of the news-gatherer to publicly note it.

The appearance of the initial numbers of your paper augurs for the conducting of just such an ideal and practicably-real medium of news-dissemination in old Taneytown; which is hereby generally and particularly subscribed to by

Sincerely yours,
Wm. A. Golden.

GENERAL NEWS.

The cost to the State for sending troops to the mining region, amounts all told to about $55.000.

The greater portion of the business section of Belle Plain, Iowa, was burned last Saturday. Loss $150.000, insurance about one-half.

The lumber district of Chicago was visited by a fire which destroyed from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 worth of property.

Senator Voorhees is seriously ill with a complication of diseases, and an operation may be necessary, which may be attended with serious results.

Champion James J. Corbett has returned from England. His admirers gave him a remarkably enthusiastic reception. It is reported that he is very anxious to meet Jackson, and that he will then retire from the ring.

Medical men are much interested in the case of Melinda Morfora, aged 16, living at Sharon, Pa., from whose body within the past four years 700 needles and pieces of steel have been extracted. Where they came from is a mystery they are trying to solve.—Examiner.

The Ragnald Jarl the vessel containing the Wellman Arctic Expedition, which was reported last week as having been lost, is now said to have escaped being crushed in the ice, and is well on her way toward the north pole; this news comes from a Norwegian sealer which sighted and communicated with the exploring party.

The idea of forming an independent Catholic church has been put in practice in Cleveland Ohio, and Buffalo, N. Y. This is not a departure from the Catholic faith, but a renunciation of allegiance to Rome. The principles of the new sect state that—all church property shall belong to the congregations, the priests are to be elected by the congregations, no compulsory education in parochial schools, and perfect freedom of the press.

The Chief of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Statistics has completed a report concerning the strikes of the year 1893 in that State, and it is noticeable that, although the number (fifty-three) was twice as large as in the preceding year, the strikers were successful in not even one instance. There were six strikes for an increase of wages and thirty four against reductions. The loss of wages is estimated to have been $1,395,423.—New York Times.

Another naval engagement has taken place between Japanese and Chinese vessels in which the latter was defeated and the Chen Yuen one of China's largest war vessels was sunk and two other large cruisers were captured. The battle was hotly contested but the Japs showed the most skill. This will almost end the fighting power of the Chinese on water in the present struggle. Nearly one thousand were killed in the battle.

An interesting explanation of the present attitude of Japan toward China is furnished by a diplomatist of much experience in Asiatic affairs. He first pointed out the fact that internal conditions in Japan are and have been for some time very much disturbed. There has been great friction between the Mikado and his cabinet on the one side and the Parliament and people on the other. This steadily increased until the Parliament actually passed a resolution requesting the Mikado to remove his cabinet and replace it by other men more nearly in accord with their ideas, which are distinc ly reactionary and marked by resentment of the presence of foreigners in Japan and the extension of modern civilizing systems.

The emperor's answer came quick and sharp in a decree proroguing the Parliament. This added to the popular feeling of dissatisfaction and the government became alarmed. The date of election of the new Parliament began to draw near and some heroic measure was necessary to prevent an overwhelming defeat, the result of which might be to turn Japan backward in the march toward civilization and perhaps to overthrow the Emperor himself. The war with China will divert public attention from home politics.—Sun.

John T. Rich of Michigan, has been re-nominated by the Republicans; the friends of Mayor Pingree were disappointed, and threaten to run him as an independent Candidate against Rich.—Judge T. G. The Country's Danger.

The late report of Carroll D. Wright, Labor Commissioner, furnishes statistics in reference to the so called "slums" of the great cities, which contain considerable food for thought.

"In the city of New York there was, at the time of the investigation, one saloon to every 200 persons, but in the slum district there was one saloon to every 129 persons. In Philadelphia, one saloon to every 870 persons, but in the slum district one to every 502 persons. In Baltimore, one saloon to every 228 persons, but in the slum district one to every 105 persons.

In New York the foreign born is 42.23 per cent. of the total population, in the slum section it is 62.58 per cent. In Philadelphia, the per cent. in the city is 25.74, in the slum district 60.45 per cent. In Baltimore the per cent in the city is 15.88 percent, in the slum district 40,22 per cent.

In New York the percentage of illiterates is 1.16 for the entire native born population, and 14.06 per cent. of the foreign born; in the slum district the per cent. of illiterate natives is 7.20, and of illiterate foreign 57.69; of the whole number of voters in New York city 49.93 per cent. are foreign born, while in the slum district 62.44 per cent. are foreign born."

When we take into consideration the fact that in these slum districts, which teem with low saloons and a degraded and illiterate foreign element, there is a great political power, which may in certain contingencies control even the destinies of the nation; which is easily led and wielded by the unprincipled agents of more unprincipled superiors, by means of which persons secure positions of power and trust; which may and does, allow concessions in return for political support, to run hotbeds which produce anarchists, gamblers and murderers; the chief danger to our republican form of government is easily seen. Even a not very careful analysis of the subject must show that there are at least three things which must be earnestly and patriotically looked to in the near future.

First, more strict laws, or the better enforcement of present laws regulating the liquor traffic and the disreputable dens in the cities.

Second, such laws regulating foreign emigration, and naturalization, which will reduce the growth of foreign influence in American affairs.

Third, the destruction of the class of professional politicians with whom patriotism and honor are secondary considerations to the spoils and perpetuation of personal and party power. In a general way, anything which by any means tends to the obliteration of these slum districts, will have a general salutary effort, for it is in such sections where nearly all the great evils of the country congregate and breed. The great trouble is that there is too much politics and not enough patriotism in all parties, or the united effort of the christian people of the country would soon make short work of the dangers which beset us.

The millennium is not yet in sight. Has it even begun?

Can we Afford the Risk?

There is an old saying "You never miss the water till the well runs dry," which is applicable to the position of our town now in relation to a public water supply. May we never need the water to quench a fire, but if we do—whose fault will it be? There seems to be a number of things in this world which can only be learned by experience; a faith which can only be firmly grounded by practical demonstration; a feeling, like an old soldier has on going into battle, of unconcern for what has happened and will happen again.

Just what can arouse our readers to a realization of the needs of water, or rather to a determination to secure it, we confess we do not know. It may be that the sentiment is strong in that direction and only needs organization and putting in motion; or, it may be, that the conviction is great, but the pocket pulse is weak; or, it may be simply don't care-ativeness.

Whatever it is fellow citizens, you will nevertheless be held responsible, if by your inaction a great loss of life or property occurs here, and you have not made an honest effort to provide the means by which such a calamity might have been prevented.

The loss by fire in the United States is annually over $200,000,000. A sum so great as to be almost beyond comprehension. Counting forty-five states, great and small, the average is about $4,500,000 to each state. To this great sum, each county, and each district of the county contributes its portion; and, from the nature of things this condition will continue indefinitely. The loss in Taneytown in the last ten years has been about $7000; and providential circumstances alone kept the loss in our two fires from being much greater—how much no one knows.

May we not take our past experience as warnings to protect ourselves in the future from like occurrences? We do not believe in howling calamity on every occasion which offers, nor do we believe much in signs and prophecies, but facts are facts whether agreeable or not.

Scolding does not always improve a child, neither does it always direct the grown up public, but, as a newspaper having prominently in view what we conceive to be the best interests of the town, and its advancement and improvement on all lines, we have taken the liberty of trying to boom the water question and to awaken the interest of citizens generally; not personally, but as a public servant for the public good. If we have failed, we have at least attempted what we have conceived to be a duty.

Health of Country Towns.

It is gratifying to note the attention which sanitary matters are receiving in the small towns of Maryland. The great danger to these towns is that their natural advantages may be lost because of a neglect in enforcing cleanliness and proper drainage. Especially in hot weather is it essential that towns should be kept clean. The difficulty is in arousing a public interest in the matter, and frequently epidemics of typhoid and other fevers take place, which do a town more material damage in keeping people away than any one knows. It is often difficult to induce local authorities to deal with the question of hog-pens in closely populated towns. The average man in the country clings to the hog-pen as his great and inalienable right, unmindful of the fact that it frequently costs more in doctor's and undertaker's bills in a single month than the hogs are worth in years. The local town official is dependent upon the owner of the hog-pen for his election, and he is, therefore, very careful about offending him. As a town grows larger public sentiment and the imminent danger of disease force out a great many nuisances. In Hagerstown the town council is now considering a carefully prepared ordinance submitted by the State health officer for Washington county, Dr. T. W. Simmons, looking to the abatement of nuisances and to the general preservation of the public health from contagious and filth diseases. The ordinance provides for a sanitary inspector, to be paid by fees, and it is the payment of this official which seems to be an obstruction to the adoption of the ordinance.

Dr. Simmon's ordinance deals with the hog-pens in an ingenious manner. They are not directly prohibited, but according to its terms no hog-pen can be maintained without the consent of all property-owners within five hundred feet of it. While this might not prove at once effective, it would at least give every person the option as to whether his family should breathe pure or poisoned air.

This thriving and beautiful town is fortunate in the possession of a health officer of activity and intelligence. The town is regarded as exceptionally well governed, and it would be unfortunate if its prosperity should be impaired by a disregard of the public health.—Balto. Sun.

Local Base Ball.

A number of games of ball have been played here this season, and the interest in the sport is on the increase among our citizens. All that is necessary on the part of manager and players to further increase this interest, and make profitable patrons of the spectators, is to play good ball, and keep down the tendency toward ungentlemanly and ruffianly conduct, which unfortunately seems to taint the game everywhere.

Base Ball is essentially a game of science and regulation; the chief requisites for a first class player are, first, to learn the rules and obey them; second, to remember at all times that the umpire is master of the field, and the captain the master of the club; third, to keep cool and play hard.

The chief difficulty in country games is the defenseless situation of the umpire, which allows endless "kicking" and contention over decisions, and a vast amount of wrangling and confusion which professional ball is almost entirely free from, because the umpire has despotic power if he sees proper to use it.

Another difficulty is that "guying" and interference on the field by the spectators cannot well be prevented; but, if we are allowed to advise, we should say to our boys—discourage all this noisy "guying" both from outsiders and your coachers, as it has a tendency to create ill feeling between clubs, and does no good. Boisterous coaching is carried to an extent, often too far, in both professional and amateur games, particularly the latter. It is not real base ball, but very base ball, and there is no rule of the game which allows remarks to be made to any player other than the base runner. In trying to "rattle" a pitcher, you are just as likely to "rattle" the batsman. Keep up a reputation for conducting yourselves as gentlemen, even if you don't win a game, and you will at least command the respect of the community—which, after all, is one of the most valuable possessions.

OUR TOWN authorities are respectfully requested to read the editorial on the "Health of Country Towns." There are yet a lot of good things which remain to be done, before our town can be called a model.

JUDGE TRUMBULL refused to serve on the President's strike investigating committee, for the very pertinent reason that the strike is over, and there is nothing to investigate.

THE NEW YORK World is the leading Democratic newspaper in the country, and the Tribune is the greatest of the Republican journals. You can get either of them with your home paper for the small sum of $1.25. Times are hard, but don't you think you might afford an investment of this kind?

IF IT WAS not for the serious consequences attending the delay in the settlement of the tariff question, the country should treat it as a huge joke. We have the ridiculous situation before us of starving the bird in hand, before catching the new one in the bush. "Give us a rest."

SUNDAY school pic-nics, are now on tap. You can drive to one every Saturday for two months.

AN ANTI-ANARCHIST bill has been passed by the French Chamber of Deputies.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, July 30, 1894.

Senator Hill's appearance as President Cleveland's champion was the feature of the political week; the action of the senior Senator from New York was entirely unexpected, and, therefore, surprising; later, Senator Vilas, who has long been known as a friend of the President, and who was in Mr. Cleveland's first cabinet, seconded Senator Hill's effort.

Labor matters have quieted down considerably during the past few days, and with the appointment by the President of the investigating committee interest in the situation at Chicago—now comparatively peaceful—has subsided. The committee consists of Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor; John D. Kernan, of New York, and Nicholas E. Worthington, of Illinois; their first meeting will be held in Washington to-day. Eugene V. Debs, president of the American Railway Union, who, with his three principal associates, has been in jail at Chicago, has wearied of confinement and permitted friends to set him at liberty, for a while at least, by giving bail for his appearance. Before leaving his cell, however, Mr. Debs issued a manifesto calling upon every one to refrain from patronizing Pullman cars. During Mr. Debs' incarceration an effort has been made to organize a Universal Labor Union, in which all toilers would be welcome, but the endeavor has not so far developed much strength.

Diplomatic circles have been somewhat aroused by the fact that the Japanese minister, Mr. Gozo Tateno, was recalled by his government and Mr. Kantaro Kaneko appointed in his stead. In New York the sensation of the hour is the "breaking" of Police Captain Doherty and two of his ward detectives for receiving bribes in return for alleged police protection.

Among the annual conventions in session during the week were those of Beta Theta Pi at Niagara Falls, of the Christian Arbitration and Peace Society at Asbury Park, of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine at Denver, and of the American Association of Educators of Colored Youth at Baltimore.

FOREIGN.

News from abroad has not been of a startling character, although the political conditions in France and especially Paris have been on a par with the decidedly warm weather. The anti-anarchist bill passed the chamber of deputies with a considerable number of votes to spare, and it and the disturbance over journalistic privileges have resulted in several challenges and at least one duel: the latter was between Deputies Clemenceau and Deschanel, the former's sword succeeding in penetrating the latter's right cheek.

The American yacht Vigilant defeated the Prince of Wales' Britannia twice, but could not race the third time because of an ill fitting sail and a weak gall.

Consideration for France has not been hitherto especially noticeable in the doings of the Emperor of Germany, but now it is announced that there will be no German army maneuvers on the eve of the anniversary of the battle of Sedan.

Cholera has made some headway in Belgium; the plague and cholera are spreading in China; storms and floods have afflicted Western India. In London the Orange Grand Lodge held its triennial grand council.

China and Japan have ceased making faces at each other over Corea, and are now at each other's throats in earnest; the strife will be one of the most interesting features of foreign news for some time to come.

Church Notes.

Rev. G. W. McSherry officiated at the burial of Mr. Welk's child at Baust's church last Sunday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Baughman the Lutheran pastor was absent from home, and the new Reformed minister has not yet arrived on the field. The funeral was largely attended.

The Rev. Mr. Shaner, of Callensburg, Pa., preached in the Lutheran church on Sunday evening last. It is two years since he has been here on a visit. Mrs. Shaner was reared in the family of Mr. Duttera a few miles south of town, and was formerly a member of this church.

The time of the church and Sunday school pic-nic has come. This section of the country is not surpassed for its number of this sort of gatherings. It is gratifying that these woods meetings are in every case held under the auspices of the church directly or indirectly, and that we have few of them extend into the night, which is not to be encouraged.

One grand defect has been observed hitherto at some Sunday school pic-nics. Parents and Sunday school officers have not been successful in having the children together when the time of worship and other exercises arrive. And then too the floating element have not shown proper courtesy at the time of these exercises. The lady and true gentleman will not talk and move about in close proximity to the place of these exercises. Public speakers in some cases are not accustomed to speak in the open air and it is very annoying to them to be thus interrupted, and sometimes they are specially prepared to address the children on some point, when, lo, there are scarcely any children about at times to whom to speak.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor will hold an afternoon and evening pic-nic in Reindollar's grove on Aug. 9th., '94.

Our Taneytown C. E. Societies should feel honored. The president of the county union has been selected from amongst them. We congratulate Mr. Geo. H. Birnie, and promise him all the assistance we can give him in making the next convention the best ever held.

Next Sabbath evening at 7 p. m., the three C. E. Societies will have a reunion service in the Presbyterian church. Rev. McSherry will give us some impressions from the Cleveland Convention. He has kindly consented to do so at the request of the Presbyterian C. E. Society. All interested in the Christian Endeavor movement, are cordially invited to be present.

The Annual Harvest Home Service of Grace Reformed church will be held on Sunday, August 12th., instead of Aug. 5th., as was at first announced.

Rev. K. O. Spessard will preach at Baust Church, Sabbath morning, 10.30 o'clock.

THINGS WE KNOW.

If you hate your next door neighbor it is all the evidence they need in Heaven that you do not love the Lord.

The man who expects to say goodby to his sins one at a time, will not live long enough to give them all up.

The man who owes God most is the man who has done the least for men.

The right kind of religion never makes a man want to throw stones at those he cannot agree with.

"SWEET CHARITY."

In the Artist's Exhibition of 1893 at the New York Academy of Design, there was exhibited an Oil Painting by J. L. G. Ferris, entitled "Sweet Charity." Its richness of coloring commanded instant attention, while the lesson it taught was so impressive that one naturally returned to it for a second view.

Its subject is a young lady of colonial times who is on an errand to one of the poor families of the town. She has a sensible, charming face, which expresses with remarkable fidelity the sentiment of her errand. There is not a home that this charming picture will not ornament. It must be seen to be appreciated.

"Sweet Charity" was purchased by the publishers of The Youth's Companion and has been reproduced in colors in large size, 14½x21.

It will be sent to all new subscribers to The Companion who send $1.75 for a year's subscription.

A BRIG IN THE DESERT

SURPRISING DISCOVERY OF A TRAVELER IN DEATH VALLEY.

A Man Constructed and Fitted Up a Vessel on a Sandy Waste Because He Wants to Be Ready When the Water Rises, as He Firmly Believes It Will.

"One of the queerest and most surprising sights I ever saw in all my wanderings over the wilds of this country," said E. C. Traver, a well known prospector and civil engineer, a few days ago, "was a newly constructed brig lying on the floor of Death valley. And it is there yet, so that anybody can see it.

"When I first saw it, I was almost paralyzed. I could not believe my eyes and thought I must have passed through some mental lapse and was not in Death valley at all. But, after gazing at the strange object a few minutes and then looking around me and seeing the wastes of burning sands and feeling the hot breath of the desert wind, I knew that everything about me was most realistically real

"It was by the merest chance that I ran across the vessel," said Mr. Traver, "because had I been a few feet farther south I would never have seen it. You see, I had been working on the eastern side of the valley for several weeks without success and concluded to go to Mount Darwin, where I would at least be sure of expenses. I was crossing the valley at the northern end, which is quite narrow, but about the lowest spot on the earth's surface. I am not exactly certain, but I think that where the vessel is it is about 200 feet below sea level.

"After the first surprise had worn off I began to figure out how the craft came there. That the vessel was a relic of a past age never entered my head for a moment, because it was constructed on perfectly modern lines and the wood had a yellow appearance, indicating that it had not been cut very long. I am something of a sailor myself, and the first glance told me that it was the work of some modern shipbuilder, but that only made the mystery greater.

"Going close, I made a careful examination of my strange find. It proved to be a perfect brig of about 400 tons, that had never been in water. Everything about it was of the best style of workmanship and showed plainly that the builder had put forth his best efforts. The keel was laid flat on the sand and the starboard side placed up against a small reef of rocks. The port side was supported in the usual manner.

"Climbing onto the deck by a small rope ladder, I found everything shipshape. The decks were as clean and white as a man-of-war's, and every rope was in place. Entering the cabin, I found everything neat and clean and several bunks with bedding ready to sleep in. Such a thing, however, would have been impossible, as the heat was simply unbearable, and I had to go to the door, gasping for breath, before I had completed my investigation. The more I looked the more mystified I became. It was plain the brig had been built where she was, but by whom and for what?

"I spent the whole afternoon climbing over the vessel. I went into the rigging and looked over the surrounding country, but could see no sign of a human being. When night came on, I concluded to camp near by, but had no sooner got fixed comfortably when a voice from somewhere called 'Good evening!' You may be sure I jumped, as my nerves were feeling a little weak through my strange afternoon's experience.

"There was no need to be alarmed, though, for a good natured looking man, with gray hair and beard, was smiling at me. Of course I at once concluded that he knew something about the brig. I was right, and in a few moments he explained the whole thing to me and also showed to what ends a foolish idea will drive a man.

"He said that his name was Frederick Evans, that he was a ship builder by trade and one of the California pioneers of '49. He had never made a big strike, but had always kept prospecting, and when the water rose in Salton lake a few years ago he was at work in the mountains around Death valley. It was then that he got it into his head that the water would eventually reach that locality, and he was determined to have the first vessel to float in the new sea.

"Evans was not a poor man, but had money enough to hire a couple of men to help him lay the keel of the vessel, put in the masts and do the other heavy work. At first the work was pushed rapidly, but when the water commenced to recede Evans took things easily and did all the work himself, because he thought the water would not come again for a year. He has been disappointed every year since, but still thinks that Death valley will become a sea, and he is ready for it.

"I was well treated by Evans," said Mr. Traver in concluding. "He took me to his abode, which was a deep cave a few feet from the brig, with a delightful temperature. I staid with him two days and found him a well educated man and very interesting, but when I left him his last words were, 'When the water rises, I will be ready for it.'"—San Francisco Call.

Monuments to Women.

Hitherto in France Joan of Arc has been almost the only woman to mount upon a marble pedestal, but the privilege is being extended. At Vitres a statue is being raised to Mme. de Sevigne, and at Valenciennes a similar honor is in store for Mlle. Duchenois. Apropos of these facts a French writer observes, "Woman being, even in marble, so much more decorative than ourselves, one can only rejoice over the advent of feminine statues."

His Opposite.

She—They say that persons of opposite qualities make the happiest marriages.

He—That's why I am looking for a girl with money.—Tit-Bits.

She'd Had Enough of Them.

"Don't you say a word to me about them life insurance companies," said old Mrs. Redhot the other day. "They aren't any good for poor, common folks. Only rich folks and big bugs can do anything with 'em. Why, when my husband lay here with fever two years ago, I sent for the agent of an assurance company to come and insure him for $2,000 right away, and, do you know, that there agent never came near me, and my poor husband up and died. Don't talk to me about life insurance! It's all a fraud!"—Pomona Progress.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

The Tea and Pie Complexion—What Tea Wrinkles Are.

A complexion specialist was lately praising his preparation. "It will take out tea wrinkles," he said. "What are tea wrinkles, pray?" asked the young lady to whom he said this. "Did you ever notice the lines and corrugations that cross the faces up and down and in every direction of women who are great tea topers?" he asked in return. "Strong tea has a ruinous effect on the skin, especially the tea that the old soakers take, a decoction which is boiled and allowed to stand hour after hour and be warmed over. The tannin in it oozes out and spreads like a pigment under the skin, tanning it literally like leather. The astringent quality of the tannin also draws the skin into furrows. I know one of these inveterate tea drinking women the moment I set eyes on her sallow, shriveled face." The specialist ought to have added pie eating to tea drinking as a means of ruining the skin. Wherever you see a woman whose face is almost greenish in its sallowness, clouded over with dark patches and pinched into puckers like a joint of corrugated stovepipe, you may set her down as a case of tea and pie complexion. A lady whom I know entered a shop not long since and was waited on by a woman with just such a complexion. She said to herself, "I will wager anything that woman eats loads of pie." Sure enough, while she was still there, the baker delivered to the woman a huge pie, one of your regular grindstone sort, with hog's lard and poor white flour crust. A civilized person would not have eaten the thing for $10, yet doubtless the woman and her unfortunate family made a good share of their next meal off it and washed it down with boiled or warmed over tea. If it were the complexion only that suffered from tea drinking, it would not be so bad. But tea makes others than those who are addicted to it suffer too. The tea drinking habit is responsible for much of woman's irritable temper, tempestuous gushiness of emotion and lack of control of her nerves.

The young men students at Cornell university are inclined to sneer at the young women students there, it is said, and look on the girls as beneath them socially. This need not surprise anybody. The average young man in the gosling age, from 18 to 25, has only distorted and unjust ideas of women. There is a particular reason why the youths at Cornell should feel a little ugly toward the girl students just now. One of these strong, fine girls, Miss Harriet Chedie Connor, has won from the whole lot of them the $100 Woodford gold medal for oratory. This is given annually to the best speaker among the Cornell students. When the Cornell boys become men, they will realize the injustice and cruelty of their conduct.

The middle aged man, who knows woman best, is the one who is most just and kindly to them generally.

I hope several fine, intellectual women students will take advantage of the opening to our sex of the new school of biology connected with the University of Pennsylvania.

According to an interview in the New York Evening Sun, the ladies the summer hotel proprietor wants at his establishment are the silly women who burn gas all night, wear loads of clothes and order up quantities of drinks. These are liked because the hotel proprietor makes money out of them. The money is made out of "extras" that are charged. Do people go to summer hotels for the benefit of the hotel proprietor?

"Civilization is the power of good women," says Emerson. Women are nearly all good; therefore women should take part in all the affairs of civilized life, politics particularly.

The New York World has a column devoted to instructing women in current politics. The great questions of the day—silver, the tariff, the Sugar trust, the income tax and other matters—are taken up and explained in a manner so simple that all may understand them. The papers are eminently readable, too, showing that the driest subjects may be made interesting. Women will be glad to know that the author of these papers is a woman, a young woman at that—Lida Rose McCabe.

Women ought to learn landscape gardening.

Nothing has been more pleasant reading lately than an editorial in The Household Realm. Alice Webster is editor and manager, owner as well, it seems, of the paper. She narrates its history in the editorial. She established it herself in 1886 with money she had earned as a printer. She bought out a small printing plant and started The Realm. For the first year she did all the work on it—typesetting, editing and bookkeeping. At the end of three months she had 1,300 paid subscribers, and from that day to this the paper has prospered steadily. Within five years she moved her office three times through need of larger quarters. The paper has been enlarged and a neat cover put on. It is owned by women, edited by women, and the mechanical work on it is done by women. The success of the publication shows, in fact, that there is a great amount of business talent among women, needing only development.

Can anybody tell the reason why a principal of a girl's public high school must always be a man?

One of the best indications of what women will do in politics is shown in the "campaign for good government" which the ladies of Colorado are making. It is wholly nonpartisan and was organized by the Colorado Equal Suffrage association. Its object is to awaken the women of the state to see that only able and devotedly patriotic candidates are put in nomination for the offices, state and municipal, in Colorado this fall. Another object will be to bring out the strength of the newly enfranchised women voters at the primaries as well as at the polls. ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

The most wonderful cliff dwellers of the United States are those of the Mancos, in a southern Colorado canyon. Some of these caves are 500 or 600 feet from the bottom of the perpendicular sides of the canyon wall, and how their occupants gained ingress is a mystery.

ODD ENTERTAINMENTS.

From Turkish Bath Parties to Games of Quotations from Authors.

It is a merry dance that Fashion leads us with her capricious fads and fancies. Now it is in the method of shaking hands, and then it is the religious following after each other in the matter of amusements. We take, says the New York Sun, to amateur acting and are devoted to slumming. We go in for skirt dancing or Salvation Army work just as the mischievous will-o'-the-wisp leads us. The latest freak is for Turkish bath parties, where one woman secures the baths and invites all her friends to come and be clean. The gentlemen join the party when the curls are all in order again, and the affair winds up with a supper, where the ladies, with their glowing faces and bright eyes, wait and wonder where and when the things will ever be ready to eat. There is something unique in this bath party idea when one gets accustomed to it and understands that one's hostess doesn't at all mean by her invitation that her guests are remiss in the matter of ablution, but that they will enjoy the bath solely for its luxuriousness. And if this form of entertainment lacks the attribute of godliness, it may claim that which lies nearest it—cleanliness.

Another kind of a party also much in vogue with women just now is a "fad party." It usually takes the form of a luncheon, where everything is rose colored and tied up with bows. And every woman is obliged to confess her pet fad, which, when it has made its blushing bow in conscious modesty, is toasted and talked over. Then there is the literature party, in which the woman's club dame or the Chautauqua circle girl revels. It is played something on the principle of progressive euchre, only that the guests find at one table four sets of partially-written quotations, which they are required to fill out; at another names of books, whose authors are inquired for; at another pseudonyms to be assorted among the rightful people. This game is very exciting to the Philadelphia and Boston suburbs girl, the prizes being books. Of course, some of the dames who went to the Browning readings at Sherry's this year in diamonds and velvets, and at the conclusion of the course when a "request Browning programme" was offered, called for "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," and "The Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night," mightn't see the hilarity in such a form of diversion, but the woman to whom the entertainment appeals can't sleep nights for thinking of it.

Perch Stop a Cable Road.

Large fish stories have often been told about large fish, but the day of the smaller fry came along about a week ago when the Harlem cable road in New York city was stopped by thirty perch. These little fish did not actually stop the cable by main strength. They knew a better trick than that. They got into the water-pipe that supplies the big engine that moves the cable and choked it up. Consequently the engine had to stop, and with it the cable and the cars. Residents in that part of New York have been complaining lately that the supply of water is very scant, and it is believed that the reason is the fish that have found their way into the mains.

Benedicts vs. Bachelors.

It is stated that among every 1,000 bachelors there are thirty-eight criminals; among married men the ratio is only eighteen per 1,000.

The County Commissioners of both Carroll and Howard counties met here on last Wednesday to determine about building a new bridge over the Patapsco, but adjourned without coming to any definite conclusion, they certainly seem to be taking their own sweet time in this matter, since May 6th. we have been without a bridge, and as to the necessity of having one here no one would question, Howard's commissioners are anxious to go ahead and build, but, King David is afraid it might cost something.

Maryland Game Laws.

The continuous and rapid diminution of game in Maryland has become a serious matter to sportsmen. That they are alive to the situation is shown by the many and radical changes made in the country game laws at the last meeting of the Legislature.

Below will be found a summary of the laws as they now stand:

The State law makes the close season for partridges from December 24 to November 1.

That for woodcock from December 24 to June 15.

Pheasants from December 24 to August 15.

Rabbits from December 24 to November 1.

It is unlawful to molest or destroy the eggs of birds at any season.

These laws govern all counties in the State which have no local laws on the subjects.

The special laws for Carroll and Frederick Counties are as follows:

CARROLL.

Partridges and rabbits, November 8 to December 25; woodcock, June 15 to February 1; pheasants and squirrels, September 1 to January 1. License to non-residents, $10.

FREDERICK.

Partridges, rabbits and pheasants, November 1 to January 1; squirrels, August 15 to December 20; wild turkeys, November 15 to January 15.

Mark Twain's Philosophy.

Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits.

Behold the fool saith, "Put not all thine eggs in one basket"—which is but a manner of saying, "Scatter your money and your attention;" but the wise man saith, "Put all your eggs in the one basket and—watch that basket."

If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man.

We know all about the habits of the ant, and we know all about the habits of the bee, but we know nothing at all about the habits of the oyster. It seems almost certain that we have been choosing the wrong time for studying the oyster.

Even popularity can be overdone. In Rome, along at first, you are full of regrets that Michael Angelo died; but by and by you only regret that you didn't see him do it.

July 4. Statistics show that we lose more fools on this day than in all the other days of the year put together. This proves, by the number left in stock, that one Fourth of July per year is now inadequate, the country has grown so.

SHE HAD HER WEIGHT.

It Was a Posthumous Triumph, but It Was Hers All the Same.

"When a woman makes her mind up to anything," said the man with the ginger beard, "they ain't no way of preventin her from reachin the end she aims at."

"Thouten she dies, of course," remarked the grocer.

"It does look to me," said the man with the ginger beard to the rash interrupter, "like you have the most natural gift of tellin what you don't know every time you open your mouth of any man I ever knowed. I will admit," continued the man with the ginger beard as the grocer assumed a humbled expression, "that you are all right in the grocery business. Fact is, a man would have to be pretty smooth to make a livin out of the kind o' stock you keep. Now, the time you explained the hair bein in the butter because the butter wasn't strong enough to hold itself together without it was plumb good. Howsomever, it looks like rain, an I can't waste no more time on you. Now, this here woman"——

"Which woman?"

"This here woman I was thinkin of when I spoke was just like all the rest of 'em. When her mind was sot, it was sot. Pore thing, she had to die to git her own way, but she got it."

"Love affair?" asked the man from Potato creek, who had a romantic streak in his mental composition.

"Love affair nothin! She was married to her third husband. They hadn't been marrit fer more'n a week, I guess, before the old man begins twittin her cause she was so thin an wonderin why the Lord couldn't 'a' seen fit to make her weigh as much as his first wife. 'How much did the dear angel weigh?' she asked him kinder sarcasticlike one day when they had been jawin a little more than common.

"'Jist exactly 155 pounds,' says he.

"'Well,' says she, 'I'm a-goin to git to that weight if it takes me a hundred years.'

"Howsomever, 'stead of gettin any fatter she gits thinner an thinner right along till at last she ups an dies. 'Well,' says the old man, 'seems like she didn't git to that there weight she started fer after all. I guess she weighed nearer 55 than 155.' But that's all he knowed about it. About two years after there was a boom in real estate, an the old graveyard turnin out to be pretty good town lots the folks had to move, this here woman among the rest. When they come to dig her up, she had patrified."

"Petrified, I suppose you mean," said the schoolteacher.

"Anyhow, I mean she had turned to rock. An just fer curiosity they weighed her. Funny thing too. She come exactly to that there 155 pounds she alles said she'd git, an they won't never nobody make me believe that she didn't know what she was doin all the time."—Indianapolis Journal.

Captain—Have you ever been drilled?

Private (who had seen service)—They called it drillin, but it was borin to me.—Detroit Free Press.

Deterioration of Pastures.

A serious cause of deterioration and loss, on permanent pastures especially, is imperfect drainage, resulting in a sodden condition of the soil throughout the greater part of the year, and consequent destruction of the finest and most nutritious grasses, leaving only a coarse and sour herbage, so unpalatable to the stock that hunger alone will compel them to eat it. It is astonishing what improvement can be effected by the combined operations of draining and subsequent top dressing, the grasses being sweetened and increased in bulk, and by the temperature of the soil being raised growth in ordinary years becomes as forward in the beginning of May as it was previously in early June. The latter feature is one of special importance to the agriculturist, although not so generally taken into consideration as it ought to be, corn as well as grass, and indeed every crop grown, springing quicker and maturing earlier under the genial influence of a warmer, because drier, soil and subsoil.

An Agricultural Education.

A course of study designed to meet the needs of those farmers' sons who are unable to leave home to attend college, but who feel the need of the fuller knowledge of their work which the college offers, is now offered by the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts. Besides the standard books, they will use in the course the best bulletins from the experiment stations and the best pamphlets written by practical specialists. It will be free to all, with no entrance examination or fee. The student can begin at any time, and the privileges of the course are not limited to residents of New Hampshire. Students are offered the option of working for a certificate or not, as they see fit. Correspondence may be addressed to Professor C. M. Weed, secretary, Durham, N. H.

BUSINESS FOR SALE!

Owing to continued ill health, I will close out my Clothing and Hat business, and rent my Store room to the purchaser.

This is a splendid opening to the right person, to step into an established and paying business. Nothing but the reason above given could induce me to sell out.

FLOUR!

The Flour we have been offering to the public since we established our business speaks for itself, and from the number of customers we have, we flatter ourselves by thinking it must have been of

First Class Quality.

We now offer

TWO NEW BRANDS OF FLOUR

in addition to our Old Standards, ALBA ROSE and TRIPLE XXX.

The New Flours are entirely different from any flour we have ever made, and is of Superior Quality.

One is a very High Grade Family Flour equaling if not not surpassing our Alba Rose in quality, and the other is a First-class Patent Flour.

This latter flour is of the Highest Grade, and comes as near Perfection as any Flour can. It is not excelled by any Flour made in this country, and equalled by few.

One of the best posted Flour Dealin Baltimore said after thoroughly examining this Flour "I had no idea that such Flour could be made by a Maryland Mill and from Maryland wheat."

We trust that each and all of the flour users of this community will give each of our Flours a

FAIR AND HONEST TRIAL.

Our Prices are always REASONABLE.

We have the greatest flour out at $2 per bbl., and prices from that up to to $4 per bbl.

To the farmers we beg to say that we are the originators of

Low Prices

for CORN, BRAN AND MIDDLINGS.

Our prices for each of these are always below our competitors. Our feed is first-class, for our retail sales of Bran and Middlings speak for themselves.

LISTEN!! We have sold over 325 Tons of feed since Jan. 1st., 1894, in a retail way.

Our Prices for Wheat are ALWAYS "TOP."

We set the pace, Others try to follow.

Our weights are all right, and our Cleaner does first-class work.

We hope the farmers will call on us before they sell their wheat, for it will be to their interest, and Cash Money in their pockets, to do so.

Very Respectfully,
