For a time our advertising space will be larger than usual, and we hope our subscribers will be indulgent, remembering that we have so far given a very large amount of reading matter, and now that the Sun shines, "must make hay."

Election day passed off quietly here. For the first time in many years the voting was done in the Stone Hotel. After the close of the polls, telegraphic returns were received at the Post Office, by previous arrangement with operator Miller and his assistants.

We thoroughly recommend him as an efficient hand, as well as a steady and reliable gentleman, and were we now in need of a compositor of his ability, he would most assuredly be retained.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Albright, Miss Alice Overholzer and John Jacobs of New Midway, entertained the following friends last Saturday evening: Misses Emma Poole, Ina Cordia Barrick, Messrs. The receivers of the Washington County Savings bank report that the depositors will lose about 25 per cent. When the bank first suspended, it was supposed that the assets and liabilities were about equal.

Gen. William Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army is now in Baltimore for the purpose of inspecting his forces. He is reported as having a great amount of nervous energy, and is almost constantly in motion in some way. He is sixty-five years old, tall and venerable looking, but perfectly vigorous and can stand a great amount of work.

The Middle Conference of the Maryland Synod of the Lutheran Church, meets in the Lutheran church in Emmitsburg, on Monday, Nov. 12th, and will remain in session until Wednesday noon. There are twenty-two ministers in the Conference.

Mr. Vincent Sanner, a prominent artist to do citizen of Middletown, Frederick Co., who was recently stricken with apoplexy, died suddenly on Sunday from a second attack. He was sixty-four years old, and leaves a wife and one daughter.

The Postoffice at Salisbury, Md. was burglarized on Tuesday morning by experts. The safe was drilled, and its door blown to pieces by dynamite. The burglars secured $135 worth of stamps, $75 in money, and five registered letters, the contents of which are unknown.

Mrs. Julia Wright, aged 72, was burned to death in her home at Annapolis, on the 6th. As soon as the fire was discovered on fire, the door was broken in and two sisters and Mrs. Wright were brought out, but she could not be reached and was consumed with the building.

The French Government has decided to appropriate $25,000 to test the new anti-toxine treatment for diphtheria, which promises to be one of the most important discoveries of modern medicine, and may not only prevent the disease, but effect a cure when cases are subjected to treatment in its early stages.

Mr. Samuel Vaant, a cigar manufacturer of Bruceville, was arrested in Hagerstown on Monday, for peddling cigars from a wagon on which was not painted the name of the manufacturer, and the place and number of the factory, as required by law. U. S. Commissioner Hagner heard the case and held Mr. Vaant in $300 bail until he gave his decision.

The horse show held at Union Park in Baltimore during the week had attracted many visitors. All sorts and sizes of animals may be seen, ponies, hackneys, hunters, racers and stallions, and all select stock. A number of exhibitions were given in the ring which were very creditable and elicited much applause and favorable comment.

Dr. J. J. Weaver, of Uniontown, presented a pedestal and an old lottery wheel to Door to Virtue Lodge of Masons of Westminster. The pedestal was used by the master of the old lodge in 1817. The lottery wheel, which the old ticks still in it, was used about the same time for some very scheme to build the old lodge at Uniontown. The history of Door to Virtue Lodge has been compiled by a gentleman in Westminster and is a very interesting paper to all members of the Masonic Order in Carroll county.

Union Bridge Band met with a mishap on Wednesday night while on its way to a procession from Liberty to Unionville to attend a democratic meeting. Near Mr. Kling's residence, at Liberty, the wagon was driven to the side of a bridge, or culvert, and the top of the wagon was demolished, and some of the instruments injured, but none of the men were hurt. The night was very dark. The team was soon shaped up and the procession continued, and the band playing, "Keep in de middle ob de road."—Carroll News.

The committee appointed at a meeting of the citizens of the town, having secured the services of Mr. Harvey Linton of Altoona, Pa., a very competent civil engineer, went over the ground on last Monday in order to locate a point for a reservoir and secure a supply of water for the use of the town. After carefully examining the several plans proposed, the committee on the advice of Mr. Linton, adopted the Pipe Creek plan as being the most feasible, as it furnishes an ample and practically inexhaustible supply, and is free from all the uncertainties attending the other plans suggested.

A preliminary survey of the ground, though sufficient for present purposes, shows that at Roberts' mill the supply would be only one hundred feet below the level of the proposed site of the reservoir, which is about five hundred feet west of Mr. Frederick Bankard's barn, that being the highest point available, and about two and one third miles from town. This location of the reservoir will give sufficient pressure to carry the water to any home in town, but not sufficient for fire purposes, a difficulty which can likely be overcome by the kind of reservoir determined on.

In a short time the committee will be able to lay before the citizens, estimates of the supposed cost of the works, and until then, it asks that the subject be given the careful consideration it deserves, to the end that by united action, this long felt want may be met, and an improvement may be undertaken and carried to a successful issue.

An adequate supply of good water ought to have the cordial support of all our citizens.

By the Committee.

Attempted Suicide.
Jacob Rinehart Zile, of Uniontown district, son of Leonard Zile, shot himself in the head with a 32-caliber revolver Sunday night. He had driven with Miss Sadie Storer, daughter of John Storer, residing near Uniontown, from church, and upon reaching home helped the young lady out of the buggy. As she left him and entered the house she heard two shots fired. Upon going out she discovered young Zile falling. He was taken into Mr. Storer's house, and Dr. Luther Kemp, of Uniontown, attended him. It was found upon investigation that the bullet had glanced upward and came out the top of his scalp, following the skull and making a wound that will not result seriously unless something unforeseen should occur. His parents were sent for, and to his mother's inquiry what prompted him to commit the rash act he said he would tell her another time, but that he had reason and that the deed was not to blame at all. He said their relations were perfectly friendly, and nothing that she had said or done was the cause. Much sympathy is expressed for the family on account of the notoriety of the act will bring upon them, as they are well known and are among the most respectable families in the county.—Sun.

Gettysburg Trolley Case.
This case was argued in Philadelphia for several days last week, and resulted in a verdict of $30,000 for the company.

The Fidelity Trust Company made an attempt to enter the case on the grounds that as trustee under the mortgage which secures $300,000 of the bonds issued by the Company, it should receive the amount of the award of the jury, as the road is not now in operation, and is deteriorating as well as accumulating expense, and that the creditors of the road are in danger of loss from these causes. The court decided that the application came too late, and denied the application.

The Trolley Company claimed from $60,000 to $70,000 damages while the firm claimed that $5,000 would be ample pay in consideration of the free removal of the present line to the one proposed. The verdict therefore is a half way one, and whether the government will accept the award remains to be seen.

Back from Salt River.
The Republicans of this district say they are coming back from Salt River to night, Friday as the winter promises to be very cold up there, and the shelter scarce, as emigrants from New York, Maryland, and other states will require a great deal of room.

The Linwood, Harney and Taneytown bands and Westminster drum corps will be present, and H. M. Clabaugh and Dr. J. J. Weaver have promised to make addresses. Hon. Wm. B. Baker will be graciously invited to be present, and has promised to come if possible. The citizens are requested to illuminate their buildings, and all persons having torches or lanterns are invited to participate in the parade, but so far as time for preparations, we are requested to ask the citizens to do the best they can to make the affair a creditable demonstration. All the districts in the upper portion of the county will be represented.

A Great Fish.
We do not think it right to manufacture fish stories, as a number of country papers are in the habit of doing; it looks too much like lying without provocation, an accomplishment not surprising to most of us. In reference to the following item, let it be understood that the parties mentioned are well known here, and will likely vouch for the truthfulness of the story, if they do not, of course something is wrong, and as the parties are concerned it would simply be a case of misinformation. On Monday last, after the rain, Mr. Joshua Clingan concluded to try his luck for suckers in Piney Creek; after a short wait for a bite, it came, and as he was out, one bite of a kind of this kind is enough for one day fishing. Mr. Clingan allowed the fish to suck plenty of time to become, as he supposed, securely hooked, and then pulled it in, and lo! he had a fish of the old daddy sucker of Piney Creek, anyway the water fell about an inch after he was on the bank.

We are aware that this statement may be doubted, but when we say further that Mr. Clingan is a man six feet tall, and weighs two hundred pounds, and that the great fish in his struggle freed himself from the hook and with a flop of his tail struck his captor back of the head and knocked him in the stream, and then jumped in after him, a very fair idea of the immense proportions of his fish-story may be arrived at. Mr. Clingan remembers this very well as the water was four feet deep and very cold. The fish, which was present as spectator, became so much amused at the ludicrous spectacle, that in a paroxysm of laughter he ran against a good sized tree, striking his head so forcibly that it caused him to realize the seriousness of laughing at the misfortunes of another, while running with both eyes shut.

Anniversary of Rev. O. C. Roth.
The Rev. O. C. Roth, pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran church, Broadway and Gough street, celebrated his fifth anniversary as pastor on Sunday. The church was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. Under Mr. Roth's pastorate many improvements have been made including the purchase of property in the rear of church and the erection of a building for the Sabbath school. Any reading room. In the past year $6,500 was raised for various purposes, and $800 for the cause of charity. The church membership has increased 69, making 893 on the roll.

Rev. Mr. Roth's many friends in Taneytown are pleased to hear of his successful work in Baltimore, yet they are not surprised, as they know he will succeed anywhere.

While an old wardrobe that stood for fifty years in a Pittsburg house was being moved on Thursday, the bottom fell out, and with it came $75,000 in bank notes and government bonds.

While walking in the woods near his house, in Dodge county, Ga., one day last week, Cullen Rogers was attracted by a peculiar noise, which, upon investigation, proved to be an enormous eagle attempting to carry away a full-grown sheep. The bird had nearly succeeded in killing the sheep, when shot by Mr. Rogers.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

New Windsor.
On Friday night last, as the 6 o'clock train from Baltimore was passing the farm of Judge L. P. Slingluff, between Wakefield and New Windsor, some miscreant threw a stone through a window of a car, which struck a gentleman on the side of the face, cutting it badly.

ELECTIONS OF 1894.

REPUBLICANS WIN A GREAT VICTORY!

Hill and Tammany defeated. The Next House Republican. Maryland's delegation equally divided. Carroll County Republican for the first time in many years.

News from all over the Country.

Maryland.
The vote in the state was considerably short of the registered vote, but the Republicans had not nearly their full vote and captured three of the six congressional districts. They elect Baker in the second district by a majority of 235, a surprise which was not expected by many of the party and thought of by the Democrats. Republican candidates were also elected in the fifth and sixth district, and in Baltimore city they elected 12 out of 22 of the first branch of the city council, and Judge of the supreme bench, John J. Dolber over Chas. G. Kerr.

In the first district, W. Laird Henry and Joshua W. Miles, Democrats, are elected for the short and long term, respectively, by small majorities.

In the second, Wm. B. Baker, Republican, has a plurality of 235 over Talbott, Democrat.

In the third district Harry Welles Rusk, Democrat, is re-elected by a plurality of 480, against 5693 in 1892.

In the fourth district Cowan, Democrat, defeats Smith, Republican, by 1030, a loss of 5000 since 1892.

In the fifth district Coffin, Republican, is elected over Wells and Rogers by over 3000 for both terms.

In the sixth district, Wellington, Republican, has a plurality of 2966 over Williams, Democrat.

Carroll County.
The present indications are that the next U. S. Senate will stand 41 Republicans, 40 Democrats, and 5 Populists, but there is still some doubt as to the proper classification, and, in any case, the Populists will hold the balance of power.

The New York World says: There is no doubt that yesterday's results are due to the proper classification, to discipline their party leaders. The changes from one party to the other may have been considerable in some localities, but the general result is due to the fact that democrats who were not ready to change parties stood aside and allowed the republicans to do as they pleased at the polls.

The democratic party of the future will be a far better party because of the action of the democrats who, in the city government, have discovered themselves yesterday against party bosses who had betrayed or abandoned principle.

Every democrat must regret that leaders for whom he may feel almost a personal affection share the condemnation visited by the party at large on its leadership. That is the most lamentable feature of what is not otherwise a crushing democratic defeat. In spite of that, however, every democrat who is intelligent, regardless of temporary considerations of party the people, animated by the democratic instinct, have shown themselves the government power in the country; that they have made it once more apparent how much greater they are than any great man or any number of great men, with any autocrat, any Senate, any machine.

The New York Tribune says: "The Ten Commandments have prevailed by majorities that vindicate the right of the people to rule. Thou shalt not steal, the country says to those who have sought the industries of the nation for profits in sugar speculations. Thou shalt not steal, the State says to Hill and to others who robbed the people of the State of the right to rule themselves. Thou shalt not steal, nor the rights of the rights of the city to professional abolitionists, say the people of the city to Tammany Hall. No one can measure the practical effect of the votes recorded to-day. The triumph of the reform ticket of New York means honest elections hereafter, and will cut off a revenue of millions which the democratic party has drawn from vice and crime. The defeat of Hill sends back to powerless ignominy the whole band of brigands by whom the State has been robbed, and returns to the honest people the power to govern themselves by honest elections. The overthrow of the free-trade democracy may have to be followed by a struggle, and if so, by a victory in the presidential election of 1896 before the evil work of the last year can be undone. But it brings at least this glad assurance, that the further progress toward free trade, which the party has promised, will not be made. One test of a democratic tariff has been enough, and the people have made it clear that they will have no more."

Thou shalt not steal, the country says to those who have sought the industries of the nation for profits in sugar speculations. Thou shalt not steal, the State says to Hill and to others who robbed the people of the State of the right to rule themselves. Thou shalt not steal, nor the rights of the rights of the city to professional abolitionists, say the people of the city to Tammany Hall. No one can measure the practical effect of the votes recorded to-day. The triumph of the reform ticket of New York means honest elections hereafter, and will cut off a revenue of millions which the democratic party has drawn from vice and crime. The defeat of Hill sends back to powerless ignominy the whole band of brigands by whom the State has been robbed, and returns to the honest people the power to govern themselves by honest elections. The overthrow of the free-trade democracy may have to be followed by a struggle, and if so, by a victory in the presidential election of 1896 before the evil work of the last year can be undone. But it brings at least this glad assurance, that the further progress toward free trade, which the party has promised, will not be made. One test of a democratic tariff has been enough, and the people have made it clear that they will have no more."

The changes from one party to the other may have been considerable in some localities, but the general result is due to the fact that democrats who were not ready to change parties stood aside and allowed the republicans to do as they pleased at the polls.

The democratic party of the future will be a far better party because of the action of the democrats who, in the city government, have discovered themselves yesterday against party bosses who had betrayed or abandoned principle.

Every democrat must regret that leaders for whom he may feel almost a personal affection share the condemnation visited by the party at large on its leadership. That is the most lamentable feature of what is not otherwise a crushing democratic defeat. In spite of that, however, every democrat who is intelligent, regardless of temporary considerations of party the people, animated by the democratic instinct, have shown themselves the government power in the country; that they have made it once more apparent how much greater they are than any great man or any number of great men, with any autocrat, any Senate, any machine.

THESE ROOSTERS are not crowing for either political party, but for the large body of newspaper readers who are glad the election is over, as they can now reasonably expect their favorite papers to tell them what is going on in the country. There is a vast amount of repetition and rehash of matters purely political in even the best of the party papers, and after all, what does it amount to. Of course, it furnishes rival papers with provocation to "sass" each other backwards and forwards, and places argument in the mouths of local politicians, but that is about all. However, this political dish is what we expect, and, while we are glad when the day of election empties it, possibly we would not be satisfied without it, and it may be one of the varieties which help to fill the spice box of life.

MAY NOT the cold snap be caused by the snowing under of a big Hill in New York, on Tuesday.

MR. AND MRS. Turkey had better not spread themselves too much in the next few weeks, if they want to strut around until Christmas.

THE Adams County Independent issued 10,000 copies last week. Brother Alleman modestly stated that while that number was unusual, he expected some day to have a bona-fide list of that size.

THE FREQUENCY of lynchings in the United States, is attracting the attention of England, and meetings have been held there protesting against the practice. While we are apt to resent the insinuation that America is yet but half civilized, and feel that the action of our English cousins is intended as an unkind out, yet we cannot help but feel humiliated, and acknowledge that there is but little effort made to discourage the continuance of such events, which are never justifiable where courts of justice are plenty.

WELL, THE race has been run, the entries have passed under the string at their best pace, and their records are known. While there was some trouble in sending them off, and more or less jockeying for advantage, particularly where the track was rough, and the lash was unmercifully used when it promised an increase of speed, the event was a fairly interesting and well contested one. When it is taken into consideration that many of the entries were attempting to equal previous records, that there was a large amount of youngsters ambitious to make their first mark a good one, and that a number of them were encumbered with unsuitable riders, a certain amount of bucking and breaking was to be expected, and that some of the riders were unhorsed, and others distanced, is the logical outcome of the greatest event of the season in racing circles. Of course there is the usual number of those who played and lost, and will have to walk home, while others stand from about even, up to the highest pinnacle.

The Immigration Bureau.

Secretary Stump of the Immigration bureau has lately returned from a tour of European cities which he made for the purpose of investigating the serious question of immigration. He has to say of his visit that in Italy he found the government willing and anxious to co-operate with the United States in wiping out the padrone system. The Italian officials stated that the immigration of their people to this country resulted in their sending large amounts of money to relatives in Italy, and in this way it was a considerable benefit to that country; but they were in entire sympathy with this government in keeping out criminals and other objectionable characters, and to that end they would furnish to every immigrant, if so requested by this government, what is known as a penal certificate under seal, which would show for what, if any, crimes they had been convicted. In Germany the officials were taking precautions to prevent any of the prohibited classes from sailing to America from Germany. He says he had several conferences with the agents of Baron Hirsch in regard to the exodus of Jews from Russia, and was assured that the persecutions by the Russians had practically ceased, and that in consequence comparatively few were now leaving Russia. Speaking generally, he was of the opinion that a far better class of immigrants were now coming to this country than at any time in the past. He believed it to be a fact that none of the European governments were now giving any aid to intending emigrants, and if assistance was being furnished at all it was by friends of the emigrants themselves. The commissioner brought with him copies of the emigration laws of all principal countries, and he proposes to make a report to the Secretary covering the facts collected during his tour.

This is a most important department and should be headed by an able, patriotic and determined man, who will see that he is not blinded by theories and well turned promises. He should take particular notice as to whether results prove the correctness of his information, and not remain satisfied until the character of the immigrants are such that they are desirable as citizens of the United States. Now that some foreign countries have passed laws which are calculated to restrict the operations of anarchists, it may be that this country will be considered an easy field to work, and they will likely come here if not prevented. Then again it is due to the honest labor of the country, that during this period of depression it should not be further crowded, and the horde of the idle added to, increasing the burden on state and society.

The American citizen is usually able to take care of himself both in prosperity and adversity, if given half a chance, and is not disposed to resort to disorder to cure a disagreeable situation if left to himself. The fact is, however, that to some extent our people have been contaminated, and rendered less conscientious, by coming into contact with that foreign element which regards neither religion, society or law, and the majority of our labor troubles in the last ten years are traceable to foreign agitators.

HOOT at the idea as we may, there is danger in this heterogeneous mass which comes here every year, and long assimilation must result in danger to the health and peace of America. The Immigration Bureau, must, in the light of a thoughtful consideration of the subject, be classed as a very important department, and should be so recognized by our government. Let the next congress do the country a real benefit by revising thoroughly ventilating the subject of Foreign Immigration, and enact laws which will be in harmony with the maxim that it is better to protect well those now here, rather than keep the doors wide open and leave them unprotected.

On the Result.

The result of the election on Tuesday was a repetition of the landslide of 1888 and 1890, and is a verification of our theory that party lines do not hold voters as they did some years ago. The crushing defeat of Hill in New York, and the overthrow of Tammany in the city was to be expected, on account of reasons outside of party principles. The result in that state is a victory for decency and order against a number of "isms" which cannot long continue to flourish with safety to American institutions, and that the people of the state have accepted this opportunity of righting the ship is unquestionably to their credit.

The tidal wave which has swept over the country, was largely the result of the times. Whether properly so, or not, the party in power is held responsible for the distress of the country; people do not care to study intricate theories, and wait for the action of slow remedies when they are suffering, but prefer to change doctors as soon as possible. That the Democracy is responsible for its own defeat, is probably true; the delay in passing the tariff bill—if there was a necessity for one—until the country was in the midst of a period of depression, and on the head of that, the promise of further legislation in the same direction after the Wilson bill was already largely distrusted, shows the folly of carrying a pet theory too far, particularly when it involves a radical change.

The anti-Gorman papers will no doubt charge the senate and its leader with a large share of the responsibility for the disaster which has overtaken the party, but it is probable that Mr. Gorman will eventually, in the minds of many, be vindicated, as it would seem that the country is not yet ready for the long strides in the direction of free trade which the opponents of Gorman are clamoring for.

Force rules the World.

It is a dismal prospect that opens before Europe this season. There is an evident foreboding that the war which is raging between Japan and China may mark the beginning of the long-dreaded European war that has been staged off for more than twenty years. In olden times Japan and China might have worried each other in Corea for a generation without even a rumor of their mutual butcheries reaching European ears. To-day all that has been altered. Commerce has linked nation with nation so closely that every move in the Orient reacts upon the Stock Exchange of London and the markets of America; and no one can say how soon the conflagration in the farthest East may fire the powder magazines of the West. England, Russia, and France are all deeply interested in the issue of the contest, and it will take wary walking on the part of the rulers of the world if they are not to stumble into the yawning gulf of war. The danger is serious.

Look for a moment at the brutal truth without blinking at its significance. Japan by two bloody battles has won in a month what would not have been accorded her by decades of peaceful progress. Till yesterday she was merely an Asiatic State with whom, if the British Government did conclude a new treaty, it was done more from a readiness to humor the vanity of her rulers than as a formal recognition of her rank. To-day she is everywhere recognized as one of the great Powers—possibly in the Eastern seas the greatest Power. The Japanese are no longer humored or bullied, ridiculed or petted. They command the homage of respect, the recognition of awe. For Japan has shown that she can fight and win. She has proved her capacity to wield the thunder-bammer of the modern Thor, her generals can manoeuvre many legions, her admirals can win naval battles; alike on land and sea she has smitten down with leaden hail and iron shell the hosts of her enemies. And at once all nations bow down before the apparition of Japan militant, and admit with some dismay that a new and incalculable displacement of the centre of gravity has taken place, and that all political calculations will have to be reconsidered in the presence of this new factor in the politics of the world.—From "The Progress of the World," November Review of Reviews.

Readers of the Future.

Women are the great newspaper readers of the day, and will be the only newspaper readers of the future, perhaps, as men are so busy these days and only find time to skim the news. But a woman will find time, no matter how busy she is, to read the paper thoroughly. No one knows as well as the cultured woman how much she must depend upon the newspaper for brilliancy that seems all her own, remarked a bright New Orleans woman the other day. A woman must read the newspaper, and she knows it. And the more she reads the better it will be for her. Whether in the crowded horse car, or seated at her desk, or reclining upon her luxurious couch in her own dainty boudoir, the woman who wishes to be well informed eagerly scans the latest and best that is in print, for she knows that she must add a charm of mind to a beautiful face and stylish dress or the very ones whom she most desires to please will turn away from her in ennui.

Where Women Vote.

The countries of the world where women already have some suffrage have an area of over 18,000,000 square miles, and their population is over 35,000,000.

In Great Britain women vote for all elective officers except members of Parliament.

In France the women teachers elect women members on all boards of education.

In Sweden women vote for all elective officers except representatives; also, indirectly, for members of the House of Lords.

In Norway they have school suffrage.

In Ireland the women vote for the harbor boards, poor law guardians, and in Belfast for municipal officers.

In Russia women householders vote for all elective officers, and on all local matters.

In Finland they vote for all elective officers.

In Austria-Hungary they vote, by proxy, for all elective officers.

In Croatia and Dalmatia they have the privilege of doing so in local elections in person.

In Italy widows vote for members of Parliament.

In the Madras presidency and the Bombay presidency (Hindoo-stan) the women exercise the right of suffrage in all municipalities.

In all the countries of Russian Asia they can do so wherever a Russian colony settles. The Russians are colonizing the whole of their vast Asian possessions, and carrying with them everywhere the "mir," or self-governing village, wherein women who are heads of households are permitted to vote.

Women have municipal suffrage in Cape Colony, which rules a million square miles.

Municipal woman suffrage rules in New Zealand, and, I think, at parliamentary elections.

Iceland, in the North Atlantic, the Isle of Man (between England and Ireland), and Pitcairn Island, in the South Pacific, have full women suffrage.

In the Dominion of Canada women have municipal suffrage in every province, and also in the Northwest territories. In Ontario they vote for all elective officers, except in the election of members of the legislature and Parliament.

In the United States twenty-eight states and territories have given women some form of suffrage.

School suffrage in various degrees is granted to women in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont and Wisconsin.

In Arkansas and Missouri women vote, by petition, on liquor license in many cases.

In Delaware suffrage is exercised by women in several municipalities.

In Kansas they have equal suffrage with men in all municipal elections. About 50,000 women voted in 1890. In Montana they vote on all local taxation.

In New York they can and do vote at school elections. The question of the constitutionality of the law is still undecided. They vote also in many places in this state on local improving, such as gas and electric street lighting, paving, sewerage and municipal bonds.

In Utah women voted until disfranchised by the "Edmunds law," when they promptly organized to demand its repeal.

In Pennsylvania a law was passed in 1890 under which women vote on local improvements by signing or refusing to sign petitions therefore.

In Wyoming women have voted on the same terms with men since 1870. The convention in 1889 to form a constitution unanimously inserted a provision securing them full suffrage. This constitution was ratified by the votes at a special election by about three fourths majority. Congress refused to require the disfranchisement of women, and admitted the state July 10, 1890.

And in the Senate of the United States, February 7, 1889, a select committee reported in favor of amending the federal Constitution so as to forbid states to make sex a cause of disfranchisement. Congress adjourned, however on March 4, following, without reaching the subject.—Chicago Tribune.

OPENING!

TO OUR PATRONS.

Another fall season is at hand, and according to custom we now have on hand a complete stock of goods in our usual line.

A redeeming feature of the hard times is a reduction in the price of many goods in the clothing line, particularly in all wool goods. We are offering the best line of suits from $8.00 to $12.00 that we have ever handled, and in Overcoats the difference in price, is if anything, more pronounced. All coats from say $7.00 upwards, are from $1.00 to $2.00 cheaper than last season. You will also notice a lower price on Underwear and Gloves and goods of that class.

Our stock has been purchased this season with exceptional care, as the present panicky condition of business demands that every dollar shall be carefully placed, so as to guarantee a margin of profit and a desirable investment—this applies to you as a purchaser, as well as to ourselves.

Our motto always has been and always will be "Honest goods and honest prices." We do not hunt the cities over for auction goods, job lots or trash. We do not buy the lowest priced shoddy to be had—in order to bring it home and sell it at a price very low in amount, and palm it off for a great bargain.

Our friends know that the goods purchased from us are as nearly as possible as we represent them, and invariably give satisfaction; and many who have at times gone elsewhere have returned to us again and made the honest statement that they had been "cheated" by going away.

We do but little "blowing" either in advertisements or in our store, nevertheless we are anxious to sell—because we must—and will be pleased to have your patronage this season, and guarantee that you will buy goods here as cheaply as at any store in the state, notwithstanding the loud talk and deceptive statements of other dealers.

Yours Respectfully,

HISTORY OF TANEYTOWN.

GENERAL NEWS.

PART II.

It gives me pleasure to tell you that the very table from which George and Martha Washington ate their "milk and milk" stands here before you.

It is reported that Whitelaw Reid the Editor of the New York Tribune, who has sailed for Italy, is afflicted with consumption in a malignant form, and will not likely live long.

New York city at present embraces an area of about thirty-nine square miles, which, under the proposed annexation plan, would be enlarged to 317.77 square miles, increasing the city's population of 1,513,301 to 2,508,498.

John James Howard the coachman employed by Hon. Levi P. Morton in 1873, who was arrested on October 12th, by order of Secretary Carlisle and held for deportation under the U. S. laws in reference to contract labor, has been released from confinement, and is at liberty to go where he pleases.

Port Arthur, situated near the border of Korea and China, is reported captured by the Japanese army. This point has strategic importance and is in addition the site of the ship yards and workshops where China has prepared her fleets.

A syndicate of Baltimore shipbuilders and capitalists are contemplating the building of a yacht to contest with the fleetest yachts of the world, and which, it is confidently expected, will prove the cup defender of America.

The Chinese government has called a council of the powers, before which it calmly acknowledged its inability to cope with Japan, and appealed to the powers to intercede for peace, stating that the government would cheerfully relinquish all claim on Korea, and pay a war indemnity.

Imperial heralds in brilliant uniforms, accompanied by troops and trumpeters marched through the principal streets of St. Petersburg on last Friday morning, announcing the death of Alexander III, and the accession of Nicholas II to the throne of Russia.

The late civil war, also, which is still so fresh in your memories, forty-two men from Taneytown responded to the call of the government for soldiers, some of whom aided in their lives in defence of the Union.

Individual Communion Service. The First Methodist Episcopal Church of Remond is the first church of that denomination to adopt the individual communion service, says a correspondent of the New York Times.

Having then, great reason to be proud of our country, fellow-citizens, and estimating the glory and worth of our American institutions as fondly and deeply as any class of citizens in the land, let us hope that the dawn of another centennial year of our national greatness, though it shall break upon you and us, and that we have been long buried under the green sod, may find our children's children still basking in the light of our starry flag, still triumphant in the principles it represents, and rejoicing with even more enthusiasm than ours in the rights and immunities it symbolizes.

The tray is held by the minister, who passes along the altar, taking out and replacing the glasses himself, so there is no noise or confusion. Felt at the bottom of the tray prevents any possible tinkling which the glasses might make, while the holes are sufficiently far apart to prevent the sides of the glasses touching.

Francis Olney will star this season in a new comedy entitled "My Uncle."

Helen Dauvray has engaged Lorena Atwood for a comedy part in "That Sister of His."

Gerald Maxwell, who is a new member of Mr. Daly's company, is a son of Miss M. E. Braddon, the celebrated English novelist.

It is not generally known that Rosabel Morrison has considerable talent as a musical composer. Several of her compositions have been played this summer at open air concerts.

Maurice Barrymore was privately married recently to Mary Floyd, daughter of the late William R. Floyd, who was for many years stage manager at Wallack's theater, New York.

D. A. Bahta has secured the American rights to Pinero's play, "The Profligate," for Marie Burroughs. For some time it has been in the possession of A. M. Palmer and Augustin Daly.

"My Wife's Husband" is the title of a new and strong comedy drama by Joe Slater which will commence its tour about the middle of October under the management of W. F. Dickson.

Edward J. Henley was married in St. Louis recently to Lulu May, who is known professionally as Helen Bertram. The lady in question had been divorced the previous Tuesday from Achille Tomasi.

Sashes are to lose none of their popularity for months to come.

Black, wine color and golden brown velvets will be in great demand for fall and winter millinery.

Black and white striped ribbons are much used to make rosettes and bows with upstanding ends, these being extensively employed to trim turbans and French toques.

Handsome patterns and grades in mirror velvet, in elegant fruit foliage and wine shades are to be put upon the market early in the season to retail at the low price of $1.25 a yard, fine quality.

Graceful princess coats of good length admirably fitted, finished with large button leg sleeves and a spreading cape collar, will be made of plain or two toned velvets, to be worn with bell skirts of cloth or silk late in the autumn.

For full figures and stout women who cannot or who at least ought never to wear belted waists that define their size the graceful princess coat is still highly popular, with skirt to match of sacking, serge cloth or the more dressy crepon or fayetta.—New York Post.

Tanned elephant skin is over an inch thick and brings very high prices. The tensile strength of wrought iron rods varies as the square of the diameter. An inch rod will support 7,000 pounds and a 2 inch rod 28,000 pounds.

The tin machines of England, Holland and Germany turn out an average of 67,000,000 pins for every workday of the year. At Birmingham one factory makes 80,000,000 per day.

Rank was denoted in ancient France by the shape and style of the shoe worn by the ladies. Only ladies of the highest rank were allowed to wear the peculiar shaped shoe known as the paribaribus.

Charcoal is a powerful disinfectant because the carbon of which it is composed readily absorbs and combines with many different kinds of noxious gases, thus removing unpleasant odors and harmful substances from the air.

Mrs. Ernest Hart is a lady who has been around the world. She says in no other country of the world are family jays and squalls so prevalent as in England, and in no other country are families made so constantly wretched by them.

The English are the greatest meat eaters in the world, and her observations on her travels have led her to put the two together. She says meat eating causes bad temper. Too much meat makes a cat have fits anyhow.
