

TANETOWN RECORD.

Vo. 1, No. 21.

TANETOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1894.

$1.00 Per Year.

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

Mrs. Mary L. Motter and daughter, Anna Mary, are visiting in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Seiss, of Graceland, have been here on a visit to their nephew, Dr. F. H. Seiss.

Mr. Charles Duttrera, of Littlestown, spent Thursday with his brother, Geo. C. Duttrera.

A number of our merchants were in the city this week for new goods. Business seems to be brightening up.

A counterfeit of the quarter of 1892 is said to be in circulation. It looks well, but has no jingle. Look out for it.

Mrs. Mary Haslup, President of the State W. C. T. U., will deliver a temperance address in this place, on next Monday evening.

Miss Endora Reindollar has returned from an enjoyable visit to the city, and gave us two new subscribers from Baltimore.

Remember the oyster supper for the benefit of St. Joseph's church. It begins on Thursday evening and continues during the week.

Misses Sadie Eline and Gertrude Spalding, of Littlestown, have been visiting at Mr. Thomas Eckenrode's, for the past two weeks.

Our correspondents are requested to send their communications one day earlier next week, on account of Thanksgiving day being a general holiday.

The citizens of Taneytown will have a variety of places to go to on Monday night. The U. B. church, the Temperance lecture, the P. O. S. of A. lecture, (by invitation.)

Mr. John T. Strevege and family, of Tyrona, and Mr. Samuel H. Hiltz, of Littlestown, Pa., were the guests of Mr. G. Milton Fisher, last Sunday.

The name of Mrs. Amelia Harner, of near Emmitsburg, was omitted in our last issue as one of the children of the late Mr. Stephen Gettler. The omission was wholly unintentional.

Our office is prepared to do very handsome work in the line of Programs, invitations, catalogues and folders, as well as general commercial and poster printing. Give us a trial.

Remember that we do not promise to continue the World and Tribune combination offer after January 1st. Until then, $1.25 pays for the Record one year, and either of the above for one year.

The Reindollar coach works are rapidly being completed, and will soon be in operation. Mr. Reindollar who is a practical workman, has employed experienced hands, and will be in a position to turn out first class work.

The P. O. S. of A. begin a series of lectures on Monday evening, in the Camp room. Admission will be only by invitation. Prof. J. Louis Sowers of Gettysburg, will officiate on the first evening.

Mr. N. B. Bagan received from his sister in Frederick, a box of very handsome chrysanthemums, being a portion of the lot exhibited by her at the Frederick Flower Show, where they were awarded highest premiums.

Mr. George H. Birnie, who has had a great deal of practical experience in topographical engineering, made a survey of our town on Wednesday, in order to estimate the cost of the water mains and fire plugs which will be required in the proposed system of water works.

For some unknown reason, we have failed to receive this week's Court proceedings for publication. We had positive assurance that our paper would receive the same report given other papers, but the death of the wife of Mr. Crouse, likely caused the deficiency for this week.

The history of Taneytown, which is much appreciated, will not close for some weeks yet. It has been the means of adding a considerable number of subscribers to our list. Back numbers may had at three cents a copy, or a years subscription may be commenced with the copy containing Part I.

The editor of the RECORD now has one of the best improved Hammond Type Writers, which is likely the finest writer in the County. It is a perfect beauty and seems to be perfection in high class writing machines, compact, rapid, and nearly noiseless. He is agent for the machine and will take pleasure in showing it to all who may be interested.

Correct solutions to our enigma have been received as follows:—In the order in which they were handed in, Mr. John Overholzer, of Walnut Grove, and Miss Genevieve Marcella Golden, of Pittsburgh, Pa. The solution is, THE CARROLL RECORD, the numbers from one to sixteen beginning with "d" in Record, running backward. There were the only correct solutions received.

Our Railroad has issued a new schedule which takes effect on Monday, Nov. 26th. There is only one change made; the morning train now passes here at 7.35 which means Baltimore morning papers, and Baltimore and Westminster mail over an hour earlier than heretofore. This will interfere with connections from Hagerstown and Emmitsburg to our road in the morning, but will be an advantage in travel, to Hanover, York and points north, from stations along the line.

Dr. Samuel Swope of this place celebrated his 88th birthday on Wednesday by a visit to Westminster, where he met a number of old friends. Even at this advanced age the Doctor is in good health, and his mental faculties as bright as ever. His eye sight is excellent, but unfortunately extreme deafness mars what would otherwise be perfect old age without attendant defects. He graduated in medicine in 1830, and is no doubt the oldest physician in this part of the state.

NOTES HERE AND THERE.

Mr. J. M. Birely has announced himself as a republican candidate for Sheriff in Frederick county.

Mr. Wm. T. Walters, Baltimore's great patron of art, died on Thursday aged 76 years. His wealth is estimated at $15,000,000.

Hon. Wm. L. Wilson lectured in Baltimore on Wednesday night; from a financial point of view the event was a failure, as only about 300 tickets were sold.

Japan has declined to accept the services of the United States as mediator in its war with China, and states that China must approach Japan directly on the subject.

The contest over the Crisfield Post-office, which has been going on for a year, was decided last Saturday by holding an election at which all legally qualified white voters participated. The result was in favor of Edward R. Dize who received 291 votes.

An attempt was made by seven or eight prisoners to break jail at Frederick on Monday night, but was discovered in time to be frustrated. The plan was to saw off the bars of the cell window, and by means of ropes made from the bed clothing, scale the outer walls.

Mrs. Margaret E. Crouse, wife of Mr. B. Frank Crouse clerk of the court at Westminster, died on Tuesday after a lingering illness of consumption, aged about forty-two years. Mrs. Crouse was a daughter of the late William Shriver of Westminster, and was a prominent member of the Lutheran church, and active in various branches of church work.

Jacob Bixler's store at Westminster was burglarized on Wednesday night, a lot of clothing being taken. This is the eighth time in nine years that his store has been robbed. An attempt was again made on Thursday morning to enter this store, and would have been successful, had not Mr. John Steffey, who lives adjoining, heard the noise and raised an alarm, when the thieves ran away leaving their tools behind.

An accident happened near Melrose, at the farm of Hampton, Saturday morning, by which Claude Fridinger, aged fifteen years, son of Mr. Jerome W. Fridinger, met his death. He had been out rabbit hunting and on returning placed his gun against a pump while he reached his hands. In some way the pump was discharged, the load blowing the back part of his head completely away and scattering his brains about the pump. Death resulted instantaneously.

Great excitement prevails at Miller's station near Manchester, on account of an apparent attempt to poison a whole family by placing arsenic in the hands of the family. The family consists of Mr. Samuel Hare and wife, Sylvester Kexela hired man, and Miss Laura Rohrbach. The latter is not affected, but the other three are in a dangerous condition for a time, and it is probable that Mr. Hare may not recover. The neighbors suspect certain parties, but there is no absolute clue.

The tramps who were arrested on suspicion of having robbed Liechtenstein's store at East Berlin, had in their possession a lot of razors and pocket knives, which have been identified by Mr. S. O. Plauk of Westminster, Pa., as being his property. His store having been robbed on Oct. 30th, the prisoners are being tried in Gettysburg for carrying concealed weapons; after a decision, they will be turned over to Franklin county officials and tried for the Plank robbery.

Who can Tell.

2—Who said, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute?"
4—How much grain must I take to mill that I may have 2 bushels to bring home, after the miller takes 10 per cent. toll?

Proceedings of the School Board.

All the members were present at the meeting of the School Board on Tuesday. A number of bills for repairs, &c., were passed and ordered paid. The reports of the teachers for the fall term of school were examined and passed, and the pay-roll made thereon was approved. The Board adjourned to Monday, Dec. 3rd, next.

Death of Milton D. Hawn.

On Friday, Nov. 16th, after a brief illness of typhoid fever, Milton D. Hawn, a gentleman who was widely known and held in high estimation in his community, passed peacefully away from this world of toil and suffering. He was aged 49 years, 10 months and 10 days, and was a man of a quiet and gentle disposition, and a faithful member of his church. He leaves behind him two sisters and three brothers, who have the sympathies of the people in this community. The funeral took place in the Reformed Cemetery, this place, on Sunday morning Nov. 18th, and the funeral sermon was preached by his pastor, Rev. A. Bateman.

Reopening of St. Joseph's Church.

Last Sunday, November 18th, a large congregation was present at the services upon the reopening of St. Joseph's church, and the beginning of the Solemn Devotion of the forty hours. Rev. Father Mullen, S. J., from the Novitiate at Frederick, sang the High Mass and preached a short but appropriate sermon. The church decoration was greatly admired and much praise bestowed upon the entire work. The three altars are painted a pure white and neatly gilded, the furnishing of the sanctuary and aisles with a bright crimson carpet and matting of new design—all these and many other improvements—helped to aid devotion and inspire fervor and an increased spirit of religion among those present. The pastor was greatly consoled by the earnestness of his people, and the success accompanying all the exercises. He was assisted during the Devotion, by Fathers Crotty of Littlestown, and Cassidy of Westminster.

C. E. Society Anniversary.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Lutheran church celebrated its third anniversary last Sunday evening; the church being completely filled, notwithstanding services in two other churches. The program which was not too long, consisted of addresses which bristled with well taken points, and a number of well rendered selections by the choir and congregation.

After the responsive reading of Ephesians, 4th chapter, by Mr. Henry Lambert and the C. E. Society, and prayer by the pastor, Rev. G. W. McSherry, Mr. George H. Birnie, president of the Carroll County Union delivered an address in which he spoke of the beauty and use of birthday celebrations. They are points from which to look back over the work of the year, that the future may be improved. Christian Endeavor stands principally for the purpose of training young people to do better work for Christ and the church, and that as we now enjoy increased advantages of enlightenment and civilization, so also our responsibilities are increased, therefore increased effort is needed. He also spoke of the importance of a better citizenship, and that in politics there is too much of a feeling of "belonging to party," and not a proper realization of the fact that each citizen belongs to the people. He also spoke of the society as being a worker for temperance, and advocated a system not so far advanced as to defeat the accomplishment of good in that direction, and that unanimity was essential to success.

Rev. W. G. Minnich spoke of Christian Endeavor as being a great builder of character, and of the importance of being daily careful as individuals in adding to the structure of life. He spoke of the "pinnacle of the Christian life," and of the great possibilities there are, and that Christ is the only sure foundation and the only perfect model for the structure which all have to build. Rev. Pedro Rioscoe based his remarks on the apostle Paul to Timothy, "Let no man despise thy youth." He spoke of the terrible battle which is going on between sin and righteousness, and that while the Y. P. S. C. E. was making its aggressive fight, its youth should not be despised. He called for the aid of the church, and of the society, to such societies, that to a certain extent they are distrusted and ridiculed by some older Christians, and cautioned the young to guard against over confidence and boastfulness, and remember that the work of the church through their organizations, but that they owe allegiance to the church in other directions. He also spoke of the danger of failing to fully apprehend the importance of the obligation, and the danger of making the scope of Christian Endeavor so broad as to be indefinite.

Rev. R. L. Patterson, was impressed by the great number of young people in the audience, and proclaimed the greatest need of society and the times was men—young men. Not necessarily those who are well educated and refined, or those who dress well and sport around; but men of ideas and mind, men of soft hearts, clean tongues, and pure lips. He spoke of the great difference between the standard of virtue in young women and young men, that in the former it was much higher, and that it rested largely with young women to set the difference right, and that young men should improve themselves and rise to a higher plane.

Rev. G. W. Baughman was also on the program, but was prevented from attending on account of illness. Luther Day at Keysville. We seldom have the privilege we enjoyed on last Sunday. It was the occasion of the "Luther Day" Home Mission services at Keysville, and it affords us pleasure to tell our friends how an enjoyable and profitable hour it was.

At 10.30 o'clock a large audience greeted the Sunday school. The church was full to overflowing, and the children seemed to catch the inspiration from their hearers, and sang the hymns with a fervor and devotion that was truly inspiring. The printed program of the Lutheran Mission Board was rendered in a very acceptable manner. The singing by the Sunday school choir and the infant school was excellent. The pleasing feature of the children's recitation was the clear and distinct voices of those who gave them.

The pastor delivered an address on Home Missions, after which a liberal offering to the cause was made by the people. We are sure that the memory of the "Luther Day" will remain long with those who heard the service at Keysville.

AUDITOR.

An Interesting Case. A case is now going on in the Carroll county Court, which is attracting more than usual interest. The Taneytown Savings Bank has entered suit against Harvey G. Jordan, John H. Jordan, and Henry Cover, on account of the following facts: Harvey G. Jordan had a note discounted at the bank for $800, dated February 1st, 1893, drawn for six months, with the names of his father, John H. Jordan, and Henry C. Cover as security. The defendants deny that the note is a forgery. Young Jordan issued a number of other notes for which the Grand jury returned indictments of forgery against him, but not on this note, and the bank claims that the note held by them is genuine. Ex-Judge James A. C. Bond is counsel for the plaintiffs, and Claiborne, Roberts, and Thomas for the defendants. The case is being tried before the court, and decision is awaited with considerable interest. Young Jordan disappeared immediately after the transaction, and has not been heard from since.

As we go to press it is said that decision has been rendered in favor of the bank. Mill Burned. The Bankard mill near Uniontown burned down on Tuesday night, together with saw mill, a lot of grain belonging to customers and several tons of feed belonging to Mr. Bankard. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary and was not discovered in time to save any of the property. Insured in the Dug Hill Company for $2500. It is not likely to be rebuilt.

The new U. B. Church.

On last Sabbath a new church was formally opened for the worship of God in this town. The efforts of the United Brethren society, which have extended over some years, to secure a church here, have finally resulted in the erection and dedication of a neat and comfortable church edifice on Middle street. The seats are semicircular in arrangement and will accommodate about 300; the windows are of stained glass, and of handsome and appropriate designs, and the floor is covered with a red carpet of a neat pattern. The cost of the property exclusive of donations and free work is $2300. The Bible was donated by Miss Annie Wilhide, of Baltimore; the beautiful pulpit is the work and gift of Mr. Charles O. Fuss, of Taneytown; the stained glass windows were donated by Mr. J. E. Eline, of Littlestown.

At the morning services on Sunday the building was crowded, about 200 being unable to secure seats; at the close of the evening service the house was given to the worship of Almighty God in accord with the formula of the U. B. church, for the present.

Letter from W. H. Luckenbach D. D. We have received a letter from Rev. Dr. Luckenbach of Hudson, New York, in which he says among other things: "I have been thinking that Taneytown has advanced so far in the march of progress, that it is now publishing a weekly paper, is very pleasing. As a rule, this is sure evidence of prosperity in a town that claims recognition as such outside its limits. It is not that Taneytown lacked in brains, that it could not long before this boast of a paper, but it was only that it lacked 'push.' The way is now open for the world to learn that there is such a place as Taneytown, and that there are real live, public spirited men there, to boom the place up to the highest degree of prosperity."

Mr. Luckenbach has no pastorate, but is serving the New York and New Jersey Synod as traveling president, and is on his way to the city of visiting the churches of the synod and exercising a general oversight of church and synodical affairs.

He is interested in the History of Taneytown, having as is generally known, written the "History of Taneytown," during his pastorate here in 1876.

Our Journey around the World.

By Rev. Francis E. Clarke. (Miss Anna L. McSherry will canvass the town and district for this valuable and interesting work.)

The description of modern life and scenes in Palestine, written with earnestness and fervor that make this portion of the book wonderfully real and precious to Bible readers. A journey was made of hundreds of miles in an old spring wagon across Turkey in Asia, through the most dangerous and robber and hostile lands. The story of this perilous trip is full of thrilling interest and exciting adventures.

Mrs. Clark accompanied her husband everywhere. She draws a vivid picture of the life of the Holy Land, though a Woman's Eyes." Her narrative is packed with anecdotes, incidents, and personal experiences. Her story of the long journey in the wagon is highly entertaining, its privations and perils, especially a sister's legacy in the bank, the conversation then drifted to a game which he said he had been practicing. Stranger No. 1 soon tried his luck, and won twice, $5 each time. He then requested Mr. Bixler to try his luck, and after a few unsuccessful attempts, he was successful. No. 2 then offered him the $5 he had won, but he would not have it. A large sum of money was exhibited by No. 2 and big bets offered, but the trick would not work. When asked to draw the card and was successful, Mr. B. said "Yes and I intend to keep it there." Finding that they could not not work him, No. 2 left and No. 1 told him that he wanted to follow the fellow and win some more of that money he had won, and would be in a few days to see the farm. Mr. B. got out and the fellow drove rapidly away. It is said that they stopped here for dinner and seemed in quite a hurry; they were well dressed and drove fine teams with corresponding outfits.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Helb, who returned from a three months trip to Germany, the home of Mrs. Helb, gave them a surprise last week, at their home at Union Taney, south of town. The affair was quite a success and a pleasant evening was spent socializing with refreshments were served. Nothing was omitted that might tickle the palate of the most fastidious, and the "wee sma' hours" were stealing upon them ere the merry company dispersed, leaving the best wishes with the host and hostess, that they may be spared to enjoy a long life, and prosperity and happiness. A brother and sister of Mrs. Helb accompanied her home, and intend making this county their adopted home.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

Manchester.

Saturday last disturbed the usual quiet of our town and the communities east and west of us by its casual allies. A hurried messenger took Dr. J. H. Preston to the house of Mr. Samuel Hare, at Miller's Station on the B. & H. railroad, where he found Mr. Hare, his wife, and hired man Sylvester Kexel, suffering from poisoning. After administering the proper remedies, Mrs. Hare and the hired man began to improve, but Mr. Hare continued to grow worse and up to Sunday night his condition was precarious, but the turning point was reached and his system yielded to the skillful treatment, and he began to improve. The doctor seemed to think that it was arsenic, and on Sunday night had the well examined, when a white powder was found upon the rod and also in the bucket. Mr. Hare took a drink of water at the pump, when he first got up and also drank water at breakfast; Mrs. Hare and the hired man drank coffee and did not get as much of the poison. On Friday night Mr. Hare was disturbed by the loud barking of his dogs, which continued so long that he got up and got his gun, but after awhile all became quiet, and he retired thinking that a strange dog was straying about his place and had left; the supposition is that it was after this that the deed was done and that the fiend was some one that the dogs knew. At this writing no arrests have been made.

About the same hour, another hurried messenger called Dr. J. H. Sherman to the home of Mr. Edward H. Fridinger, where he found Claude Fridinger, a nephew of the deceased, with the back part of his head and brain blown into shreds by a load from his own gun, which he had been using during the morning. He came home at noon and went to the pump to pump water for the cattle; he set his gun against the pump, and while he took hold of it to place it away, and as supposed, he struck the bed of the pump with the hammer, causing it to go off with the above result. His body was prepared and taken to the funeral home near Manchester, from which it was buried on Tuesday, at the Bixler U. B. church, at the age of 16 years. The sympathy of our people has gone out to these unfortunate in their suffering and distress.

On Friday last, Mr. Jonathan Bixler, a well to do farmer, of Bachman's valley, became the victim of three car mount men, but could not be entrapped. During the day a stranger drove up to his home and made inquiry for the gentleman, who, Mrs. Bixler said was in the corn-field, and directed him accordingly. He drove to the field, and was asked to buy a farm. Mr. B. told him he had one for sale, adjoining his, and that they could reach it by walking across several fields; the stranger said "No, let's ride over." Going to the buggy, they drove out to the county road, where they soon met another buggy, the driver of which inquired the way to Westminster. After receiving the proper directions, a pleasant conversation was entered into, and he stated that he was on his way to deposit a sister's legacy in the bank. The conversation then drifted to a game which he said he had been practicing. Stranger No. 1 soon tried his luck, and won twice, $5 each time. He then requested Mr. Bixler to try his luck, and after a few unsuccessful attempts, he was successful. No. 2 then offered him the $5 he had won, but he would not have it. Uniontown.

Mrs. E. Ross Danner has been sick for the past few days.

A stereopticon gave a World's Fair entertainment in town on Monday night.

John Newton Gilbert, drug clerk in the Annapolis city drug store, came home on Tuesday for a brief vacation. Protracted meeting in the Bethel of the church of G. d, attracts good audiences; several persons have been converted.

Tommy Haines, who has been sick for some weeks past with typhoid fever, is at the present somewhat improved.

William L. Arnold, our butcher, injured himself internally by shouldering a hog, a two-hundred pound hog a few days since.

Henry Utermahlen's family consisting of eleven members are all down with typhoid or typho-malarial fever; one boy has already died and the lives of several of the others are despaired of, and others are improving. The Health Officer of Carroll county, Dr. J. H. Billingsale, paid a visit to the place on last Sunday, and he gives as the cause of the trouble, imperfect drainage and a polluted water supply. About one year ago, Dr. Stewart of the State Board of Health was invited by the physicians of this town to pay us an official visit, and there were people here, and people who have a fair amount of intelligence, who condemned the physicians and all concerned. Just why such objections are raised we have never been able to understand. His true we occasionally find people who are so much contented with their entourage, that they care little to know of either their own danger or that of the community. And it is well that such an institution exists, and the only fault we would find is that sanitary inspections are too infrequent.

On Tuesday night about 10 o'clock Jesse Bankard's large three story brick house, on the corner of the building, machinery, and grain and feed therein, with an insurance of $2500 in the Dug Hill company. The fire was the work of an incendiary. Mr. Bankard was barely able to save his house, about 50 yards distant, from being totally destroyed, the roof was a number of times ablaze, but the fire was kept down by keeping the roof saturated with water. It is hoped the incendiary will be brought to justice and the community unloaded of such undesirable cattle.

Union Bridge.

Mr. D. E. Little, wife and niece, and Mr. S. H. Little and wife spent last Friday in Baltimore.

Rev. L. Peterson, of this place, addressed the Christian Endeavor anniversary of the Lutheran society at Taneytown on last Sunday evening.

Elder Hanson Senseney, a retired Dunkard minister, and a bright student of paralytic on last Monday evening, and is now confined to his bed; he has no use of his limbs and is in a helpless condition at this writing. He is about 53 years of age; Dr. Markell is the attending physician.

Mr. James Secor, who thought his horse and buggy was stolen from the M. E. Church in Johnsville, on last Sunday evening, found it in Mr. Edw. Shriver's stable on Monday morning. It was put there through a mistake by Mr. S., he thinking it was the pastor's horse. The Pastor, Rev. Ruark, remained in Johnsville over night, consequently his horse stood out on the street all night and the mistake was not found out until he was ready to go to his home in Middleburg on Monday afternoon, while Mr. James Cox and sister, Mrs. Kinzey, and Mrs. Brown of near here, were visiting Mr. Scott McCullister, near Clemonsville, they narrowly escaped what might have resulted in a serious accident. Mr. Cox morning up to Mr. McCullister's house, stopped, and turned his horses so as to let the ladies out of the carriage, and in doing so the carriage was over-turned and the occupants thrown out on the ground. Mr. Cox hastened to his home and dismounted and received other bruises about the body; the others were not seriously hurt. The horses ran away and broke the carriage into splinters.

Bruceville.

Mr. E. Mehrling spent several days in Perryville and Baltimore this week on business.

Mr. R. W. Walden, Middleburg has shipped two car loads of race horses to his stock ranch in Texas and one car to New Orleans, La, which are entered to run in the coming races there.

Mr. William Mehrling, inventor and manufacturer of the patent cow milker, contemplates building. Let the good cause go on, William.

The greatest excitement prevailed here at 1 o'clock Friday morning, when the bells began to ring and the cry of fire was heard. Fire broke out in the rear end of Mr. Houghton's store. Ever since his store was entered by burglars he has burned a coal oil lamp and the fire was caused by the lamp exploding. It was heard by Mr. Harry Crouse who gave the alarm, and was in time to save the property from being destroyed. The damage will be about $1000 to the goods and to the property about $150. Mr. Houghton says he is deeply indebted to Messrs. E. H. Sharetts, J. Thos. Wilhide and others, for their services. Mr. Houghton, while getting buckets, was overcome by the smoke and had to be carried out.

GENERAL NEWS.

The board of trustees of the Brooklyn Tabernacle held a meeting in the office of Leonard Moody, 20 Court street, Brooklyn, Friday afternoon and unanimously resolved to authorize Mr. Moody to sell the church property for $110,000, subject to the approval of the court.

Mr. Wm. B. Baker, who was elected to congress from this (Second Md.) district, is prominently mentioned by a number of republican papers, for the gubernatorial nomination. General Felix Agnus, has also many supporters. The democratic nominee will in all probability be Hon. Isidore Raynor.

"Con" Riordan, Fitzsimmons' sparring partner, has died, it is supposed, from the effects of a blow delivered by Fitzsimmons in a public exhibition. It is thought that the blow is a new one which has lately been discovered by Fitzsimmons, but was not thought to be powerful enough to produce fatal results. He has been arrested, charged with manslaughter, but was released on $10,000 bail.

The National League of Base Ball clubs met in New York last week, and elected a lot of business. The principal thing which was done, was the suspending of William Barnie, ex-manager of the Louisville club. Al. Buckenberger, ex-manager of the Pittsburg club, and Fred Pfeffer, famous second baseman. The cause of the league's action was because these men were under a contract which they violated in making an effort to establish a new association antagonistic to the league. The twelve club circuit will be continued next season, but it would be very doubtful if the league agreement if four of the weak clubs would withdraw. Manager Hanlon of the Baltimore has signed a new pitcher named Hoffer, who is supposed to be a strong player. He was offered $5000 for one year, but was picked from the club, but refused positively to sell, without knowing who was wanted.

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, NOV. 24th., 1894.

THE NEWLY elected congress sees "spooks" already. Coxey says he intends to take another, and much larger army to Washington, when the republicans get control.

UNLESS CONGRESS enacts further pension legislation, it is probable that the highest point has been reached, and that the amounts paid out each year hereafter will steadily decrease. Commissioner Lochren's last report seems to indicate a diminution of pensioners, and a considerable reduction over last year in the required appropriation.

THERE is already talk of a considerable number of contested seats in the next congress, many of which cases it is probable have rather slim chances of success, and probably still less substantial evidence on which to base claims. There has heretofore been shown, on both sides, a disposition to ride roughshod over justice, and seat the contestant belonging to the party in power. This precedent should be sent to the rear, and only those cases taken up which present real and just claims on the intervention of the House; if this be done the number of contests will decrease instead of increase.

The Review of Reviews for November, in its editorial department ("The Progress of the World") has some suggestive paragraphs bearing on the present attempts at "municipal house-cleaning" in the great cities of New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and takes the occasion to emphasize certain lessons to be learned from European municipal experience. In speaking of Glasgow's system of street cars, owned and operated by the municipality, the editor points out that this responsibility was not undertaken by the city until the municipal government had been tested with many large enterprises which it had shown its fitness to control and operate successfully; it is now managing its street car service, says the Review, as successfully as the best of our American cities manage their fire departments.

Prohibiting Contests.

The death of Riordan, who was Bob Fitzsimmons' partner in sparring contests, is another practical demonstration that all so-called boxing exhibitions and prize fights should be prohibited. These exhibitions are not called for to satisfy any commendable desire or for the development of athletics. Foot ball and base ball are about brutal enough, and gymnastics furnish all requisite means for the complete development of muscular manhood. There seems to be too much of a desire to furnish men of strength of muscle, and not enough encouragement in the direction of heart and brain.

The people are of course, responsible, through financial patronage; drop the big purses, and profitable gate receipts, and champion head punchers will soon disappear from the ring. It is proper that some men should have experience in the art of self defence, but it is altogether unnecessary that any man should be known as the "Champion of the world," for the reason that there is no true vocation in life which requires any such scientific brute force. There is not a single redeeming feature in these public fistic contests, and the sooner they are suppressed the more credit it will be to our country and true manhood.

The Scrap Book.

Did you ever make a scrap book? Almost everybody has started one, in a kind of way, but very few have started right, or if they did, became tired of it very soon. The making of the kind of scrap book which is of value, is a slow process and requires a great deal of careful selection. There is no trouble to secure scraps, to fill a book, but the kind really worth preserving is not so easy to get; selections which are trashy and ordinary make a collection not worth the trouble. As we consider the posses, sion of a really valuable scrap book a thing to be desired, by young people in particular, and as it can be made at almost no expense, we will give our readers the benefit of our ideas as to the making of such a volume, for what they may be worth.

First, commence to save scraps by carefully clipping them from papers, always leaving the column lines on both sides of the scrap; place them in a large book for keeping so that they may be perfectly clean and smooth until used. We should say that six months is not too long a time to spend in selecting material to begin with, unless you already have a start or have access to a large number of papers. Clippings should not all be made from one paper, but if possible from those of the same column widths, and use only clearly printed scraps on clean paper. Now as to the book. If possible, do not use the regular flip scrap book sold in the stores, but secure a strongly bound volume of about 600 pages, two inches thick, and about six wide and nine long.

The government patent office reports are excellent, and can usually be had from some one in the neighborhood. Or any other strongly bound book which is made of good paper and is not carded for, for itself, will answer. A book of this size will just about allow two single columns of scraps to the page, and leave about the same margin that books usually have. If you have left the column lines on each side of your scraps, you can trim them so as to leave a line run down in the middle of each page, and cut them off of the outer edges, which will give your page a neat and finished appearance. Take out every other leaf of the book as fast as you fill it, not by tearing, but by cutting with shears so as to leave a half inch or more of the leaf next to the binding remain fast; you will then have a stub on which to paste something special at a particular place, and besides will not weaken the book but keep it in its original shape. The best paste for the purpose is made from gum tragacanth, or flour paste does very well if carefully made. Ordinary mucilage is too penetrating, and causes the paper to kink up more than paste. A great deal of care should be used in trimming the scraps, applying the paste, and laying in the book; after you have filled a number of leaves the book should be placed under a heavy weight, as the leaves will then dry flat and remain so. One difficulty in making the book, so as to be of value for reference, is the want of an index; in fact this feature is almost impossible, but may in part be compensated for by having a short index of departments, or subjects, on a blank page in the front of the book. For instance; Selections suitable for readings or recitations, Curious facts, Humorous paragraphs, Recipes, and Statistics, may each be allotted so much space in the book, each department beginning at a certain page.

After the book has been well started on some comprehensive plan, allow a good batch of scraps to accumulate before adding to it; there are two advantages in this, one is, you will have a large number to select from and fit them to the pages so as to avoid bad breaks at the bottom; the other is, that paste is apt to sour, therefore it is best to make it as it is used. Persons with even slight literary tendencies should have a scrap book; after a number of years it will prove very interesting and a regular mine of valuable information, providing it is begun right and persevered in. The History of Taneytown now running in the RECORD, is excellent material for just such a volume, and the daily and weekly papers contain much good matter on an endless variety of topics; but much care must be used, as there is a vast amount of trash written along with the good. The central idea should be to get your book full sometime, with select bits, rather than fill it quickly with the commonplace.

They went to Baltimore on the Excursion.

There is an article in the last issue of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, under the above caption, signed Alpha, which is so truthful that we cannot refrain from publishing it. There is also an editorial inspired by this contribution which is equally true and hard hitting, and should be a revelation to Emmitsburg merchants. While the custom of going away from home to make purchases, is in most cases a pernicious one; and as the Chronicle ably states, it is the logical and inevitable result of the failure of local merchants to advertise; therefore the cry of "sour grapes" should not be raised by them, when they do not practice what they preach, nor show that they desire trade by letting people know through their home paper what they have to sell, and at what price. The RECORD does not have the same complaint to make, as our columns show that our merchants realize the value of advertising. The article referred to is as follows:

"The number that went to Baltimore on the last excursion on the Emmitsburg Railroad was 110, which at $1.25 apiece, makes $14.00. Allowing 25 cents apiece for dinner makes $3.00, and $3 apiece for purchases makes $3.00 added together $20.00, and all cash. Yet the cry of hard times is heard on every side. Certainly it is imaginary hard times or some unexplained reason that the amount was readily gotten at, and so cheerfully paid out.

Many, if not all the purchases of articles could have been bought at home for less than the amount paid. Who is a judge of what they buy? Ready to accept as the truth anything told by strangers, but always suspicious of business men at home whom you have known all your life. In many cases a day lost to go on an excursion means $1.00, others less; taken altogether what injustice is practiced in every community by patronizing excursions. Have you read how a little leaven leavens the whole lump? A large or small notice stuck up that on a certain day an excursion will run to some point at reduced rates, sets the whole community in a ferment. How eager the people take to it, until the whole town and surrounding places are leavened, and it makes no difference how early the train starts, or how late it returns, even if not until Sunday morning. The accidents had a serpent they called a Basilisk, it charmed objects so that there was no such thing as escape; just so a ride on the railroad at reduced rates has its charms, notwithstanding other uses could be made of the amount of fares as well as money spent abroad.

Some have said we cannot get the goods we want. Yes you can. There is not a town of five times the population of Emmitsburg that can boast of better stores, or better stocks of jewelry, furniture, harness, coaches, or dry goods. There is not a man in business who will not supply you with any article in his line he does not keep, and that at a lower price than you can get it away, if you will only give them an opportunity. Won't your love for prosperity at home, where you can get credit, prompt you to embrace every means to make our town prosperous. You carry the cash away from town, and you have your money, have no further use for you. Does not this give the business men a pretext to use their influence against you, and not employ you when they need such services as you can render? Are railroads, friends, or city houses any advantage to you? Can you get a kick out of each, or any goods on stock twelve months time away from home. It matters little to the bread where you buy, whether at home or abroad, but it does seem strange that such an ardent desire prevails to scatter money broadcast so frequently in this way. No doubt in some cases persons avail themselves of such reduced rates to attend to business in the city, but for families to keep memoranda of their wants, and spin, and fall go regularly to the city on excursions to purchase for their families and others, while they are dependent on patrons to sustain their own business at home. It is to be hoped time will rectify this evil in some way and that before long. Does any one feel justified that is engaged in any department of trade, in going out of the town they live in to purchase anything they can get at home?

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

Suppose in extreme cases of emergency only our physicians were called in, but all other times consultation was elsewhere, or when the weather is not bad, church goes to other towns to worship, or only patronized the jeweler when some five cent job of mending is to be done, all other articles he has on hand that you want you send away for, or the merchant is asked to match an odd piece of garment descended from generations long forgotten; but he has no cash on hand, and he must lose above seven cents per yard, or any article upon which a sustaining profit is made, is sent for or gone after, or you want a car to be repaired and you take it to some other town, while as good mechanics are here and will do the work as cheap. Is this right?

This line of argument will apply through all the departments of trade. To make a long story short, why do not the people go to the congenial towns and cities and make their living where they spend their money. Some one may say this is idle talk, no doubt, when you reason from false premises. But come home to the position occupied by the business men of your town, and how do you do to them? The old proverb is true, a house divided against itself must fall.

Suppose we go away for beef, what need have we then for a butcher; or for candy, for a confectioner; or drugs, for a druggist, or coal and lumber—what need of a warehouse? Going away for leather coats and hats, and the tan yards. Going away for clothing to the tailor shops. This will be the fall of everything in time. Centralization in cities, until the rural districts will be merely a food raising area to supply the wants of the cities. Therefore, the decay of towns and villages appears but a natural consequence. We have it in our power to change all this by doing as we wish to be done by.

There is plenty of food for reflection in this letter. We do not indorse the idea that everything should be bought at home; this would be arbitrary and unjust, and would materially interfere with the freedom, taste, and comfort of purchasers. But local merchants should be encouraged, and given a chance to supply all needs; the people of a community should be imbued with a local pride and philanthropy, and should study how they can leave their cash at home, rather than take pleasure in going off with it without just reasons. In most cases nothing is gained by the purchaser, while the community loses both prestige and profit.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington Nov. 19, 1894.

The President has about decided to recommend in his coming message to Congress the appointment of a non-partisan commission to consider the whole currency problem, the commission to be composed of bankers, business men and leading theorists on the currency question. This comes from very high authority in the Administration and is not mere speculation. Mr. Cleveland realizes that no matter what currency revision might be suggested to this Congress it would fall of adoption, and for this reason he is strongly in favor of having the grave financial problem settled by men entirely uninfused and unprejudiced by partisanship or sectionalism. The Cabinet is agreed on the point, that it is folly to hope that any thorough and judicious legislation, which will give the country a permanent financial system, will be provided at the short session. They recognize that there are too many conflicting influences, sectional and otherwise, to make a careful, reflective consideration of the subject possible. Mr. Cleveland is convinced of all this, but he recognizes the absolute necessity of an immediate revision of existing laws and the establishment of a sound, comprehensive system that will be permanent and secure. Hopeless as is the Congressional outlook, Mr. Cleveland believes it incumbent upon him to take the initiative in securing a thorough reform in the Government's financial policy. The feature of the administration policy which will probably first be called to the attention of the House at the coming session will be the proposed offer of mediation between Japan and China. So prominent a lawyer and so conservative a man as Bellamy Storer of Ohio has entered upon the consideration of this subject. Mr. Storer is as good a lawyer as the administration has in its service. He proposes that the House shall ask the State Department by what authority this government, without the direction from Congress, volunteers to intervene in a foreign complication, even by means of arbitration. There are members of Congress, well informed as to constitutional and international law, who maintain that, under our form of government, it is not within the province of the executive department, without the specific sanction of Congress, to undertake to mediate in a war between foreign powers. Arbitration, it will be maintained, has its responsibilities, and it is not so free in this instance from dangers and serious complications with European powers, which may not be pleased with the decision of the President of the United States, that it may be lightly entered into. The situation, at all events, is believed by many Congressmen to be so serious that it is audacious for the executive department to adopt a policy which, if resisted, it would be powerless to enforce, and from the dangerous possible consequences of which it would be unable to shield the United States. The Congressmen from the south and west who have arrived indicate very clearly their opposition to the policy of the administration in the matter of the pending bond call. Some have gone so far as to outline the grounds of their opposition, and to state that they intend to call the attention of Congress to the matter at the earliest possible moment.

Church Notes.

Revival services are being held in the U. B. church every evening. On Sabbath evening services begin at 7 p. m. At Harney at 2 p. m.

The Lutheran Synod of Maryland, which recently met at Frostburg, passed a resolution requesting all Lutherans to abstain from signing applications for liquor license. This resolution was reiterated at the Emmitsburg conference. The West Pennsylvania Synod has even gone so far as to say that members who do sign such applications, render themselves liable to church discipline.

The Companion's Calendar.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION has just published a calendar for 1895 which is a work of art—indeed, three works of art in one. Scenes typical of three seasons of the year, Winter, Summer, Autumn, are shown. The first picture represents a mother and son, pausing in their walk in a snowy field, across which a rabbit is running, much to the amusement of the boy.

The artist in the summer scene has pictured three children rowing down much entertained with the pictures of the apples which fill the pan in her arms, one would scarcely imagine that the graceful girl in the third picture was typical of Autumn. Around the pictures are grouped the monthly calendars, tied together by ribbons. This attractive calendar and a full Prospectus for 1895 will be sent free upon application, to any one considering a subscription to THE COMPANION. From no other paper can so much entertainment and instruction be obtained for so little money (only $1.75 a year). If you subscribe now you will receive the paper until January 1, 1895, and for a full year from that date, including the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Double Numbers.

GENTLEMANLY DRIVING.

This is how a Howling Swell Holds the Reins.
There is now and then a performance called an intercity road race for gentlemen drivers. Whether a gentleman drives differently from a man who is not a gentleman we have no means of knowing, neither whether a man who drives like the person in the picture is on that account a gentleman.

THE GENTLEMAN DRIVER.

At any rate, here they are, the gentleman driver and his beautiful pair of cross matched trotters.
The team in the picture took the premium at the intercity driving match. The prize was given partly for the handsome, perfectly matched trotters, partly for the fine road rig, and partly, no doubt, for the tremendously swell manner in which the driver held the reins and got himself up regardless. If now you would drive like a gentleman, study the illustration. One might as well look like a high society chap when he can, you know.

Fattening Lambs.

For quick fattening no exercise is needed. For 50 lambs, besides the 200 or 300 square feet of shed room, I would provide a shed a trifle larger, in which they may sun themselves, and in which the corn fodder may be fed and worked down into manure. I would never let them get wet, but give all the air they can have. In the beginning dip them carefully to kill ticks. Nearly all the advertised dips will do this. Tobacco stems, leaves or dust may be boiled up at home and used, if obtainable. I mean to try Thymo-Cresol this year, as it is used cold, while tobacco ought to be hot, say 115 degrees F.

It may be very desirable to work a lot of corn fodder into the lambs, but some clover hay should be used with it. I think wheat a good feed to use this year, and perhaps cheaper than corn. If the owner thinks best to feed corn and corn fodder, he should give the lambs what he would feed himself, and he will be surprised to find how much greater the gains will be. I would also feed more corn per day toward the last of the feeding term. By the addition of the protein of the bran the lamb can make use of more of the carbonaceous material in the corn and fodder, so that it is very probable that he may make the lambs weigh up to 125 pounds this year by May 1.

But he should not hold them too long, but let them go as soon as he can see a profit in them, for lamb flesh made in the winter costs very nearly 6 1/2 cents per pound here to produce, and probably fully as much in Virginia. We sell in March when the market justifies and have held some bunches till May 8.

As to castration, I will merely suggest that, so far as I have known, the results are not at all sure to be good when lambs are 6 months old, and whenever using a knife on lambs for castration or docking tails be sure it is sharp and frequently disinfected. Boiling water is a satisfactory disinfectant. I have known serious results to follow using a knife that had been used for skinning dead sheep.—J. E. Wing in Rural New Yorker.

Right Kind of Draft Horse.

Because we have protested against mere bulk without elasticity or wearing quality it does not follow that we have fixed on vanners or lumber trade horses as our draft horse ideal. We move merchandise and iron, stone and logs in this country. All the iron foundries are not centered at Newcastle, nor does Liverpool, with its gigantic movement of freight, handle all the world's wares in heavy bulk. We do a little of that business on this side, and we need horses to handle it, but we do not want post-legged horses. Weight in the collar is of little use without leverage. The collar is the burden of our contention. We have more than once warned Scotch breeders that they may possibly get not too much quality and leverage, but have too little weight with it. We have hailed with pleasure the big bulky Shires when they bring sufficient length of pastern and clean bone and sound feet with them. We want no crumbling horn, no wiry, "kinky" hair, no indefinite pastern and no round and gummy legs, even if accompanied with a ton of heft.—Breeder's Gazette.

Scarcity of Live Stock.

The returns of the United States department of agriculture show that in January, 1894, the total number of cattle in this country amounted to 53,095,568 as against 54,067,590 in 1892. The number of swine was reported as 45,206,498, a reduction of 7,000,000 from that of 1892. And from the way the pigs and young cattle have been marketed recently, driven in by the drought and prospects of a short corn crop, a marked shortage may occur within the next year or two.
Taking these points into consideration, it will be seen that live stock presents a more promising future than most other branches of agriculture. The consumption of meats increases from year to year, and this increase has to be supplied as well as catching up the shortages. If prices advance in the next year on any kind of live stock on account of light supplies, the indications are that there will be some stability in the advance.

Live Stock Points.

Concrete farm buildings, stables, milkhouses and dwelling houses are dry and warm in winter and cool in summer. Neither rats nor any other kind of vermin can burrow into them when the floors are made of the same material. They are cheap too. Why do we not have more concrete buildings in this country, especially where lumber is scarce and high?

The hog raisers made the best showing at the Iowa state fair. In consequence of the drought, many exhibits fell off, but there were shown 1,500 of fine hogs as were ever seen in America. Iowa is a great state anyway.

LADIES', MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S WRAPS AND COATS.

THIS IS OUR COAT STORY.

We went into the market early, when merchants were holding off for one reason and another; for we knew that ladies must have Coats and we expected that as heretofore, those adjacent to Gettysburg would come to us for them. We saw the manufacturers who had the foresight to supply themselves with cloth when the depression in the manufactured wool market was greatest. We placed large initial orders, had the prices fixed which should rule for us—the goods came in and we sold them faster than we had any idea of doing because of the cry of hard times &c. We were forced to supplement and duplicate to an extent double that of our former orders—sticking to our first people because it was very much to our advantage both in getting the goods more promptly and not having to pay the advance caused by the great, and to some extent unexpected rush of orders. (The New York cloak maker's strike and the shortness of cloth in Mill hands has caused an advance of from 20 to 30 per cent on correctly made factory-made garments.) Further, every coat we show is made to our order, from designs furnished us by the best cloth factories of Philadelphia and Baltimore, (we are not paying any N. Y. advance,) consequently they are

HISTORY OF TANEYTOWN.

PART IV.

Francis S. Key, the author of "The Star Spangled Banner," is the most noted man born in the vicinity of Taneytown. He was born August 1st, 1779, at a farm between Keyville and Middleburg, and died in Baltimore, January 11th, 1833. His father, John Ross Key, was, I believe, an officer in the army during the Revolutionary War.

The farm was called "Terra Rubra," (Red Land). The family was noted for its hospitality, and I have often heard people who had been entertained there, speak of the pleasure a visit to Mr. Key's gave, and of the warm welcome always ready for them. The Key homestead was at the foot of Frederick county, Carroll county having been separated from Frederick county in 1837, and Taneytown was the centre of business and the principal village in that part of the county, so that in his youth and early manhood Mr. Key was well known to all the people of Taneytown, and took an active part in everything that could in any way benefit the neighborhood; indeed all his life he retained a warm affection for the place and county of his birth.

After practicing law for some time in Frederick City, he removed to Washington, D. C., and served as District Attorney for the District of Columbia. In a volume entitled "Poems of the late Francis S. Key, Esq.," edited by Henry B. Johns, of Baltimore, and published by Robert Carter & Sons in New York, 1857, is a speech made by Mr. Key at a banquet following a political meeting. The speech was made in answer to the toast: "Francis S. Key, a friend of Baltimore and a patriot." He had never forgotten, and never would forget, that he was a native of the county whose citizens were now assembled upon an occasion so gratifying to his feelings. Though no longer a resident, its scenes had never ceased to be dear to him. His annual visits here had always been anticipated with pleasure, and never, even from his boyhood, had he come without view of these mountains, without having his warmest affections awakened at the sight. Neither the date on which the speech was made, nor the place where the banquet was held, is given, but it was some time during Jackson's administration, and somewhere in what was then Frederick county. It shows his warm interest in everything about his native county and his old home.

Every one who knew Mr. Key speaks of him as a delightful companion; sincere in his friendship, earnest, genial and full of fun, he had the respect of every one in the community. I have often heard my father speak of an incident that occurred in Taneytown when Mr. Key was nearly 50 years old. In those days what were called Magistrate's Courts were held at different places through the counties, at which the magistrates sat and tried cases. An old man from the neighborhood, who had known Mr. Key from boyhood, was called before one of these courts, for some offense of which he was innocent. The hour appointed for the trial was 2 o'clock, and as the trial drew near, the man apparently without friends, was patiently waiting for the court to open. Some one asked him, "Who is your lawyer?" He answered "Frankie Key." "But it's time for the trial to begin and he's not here; what are you doing?" said the old man. "He'll be here," said the old man, "He said it would be all right, and I know it will; Frankie never tells lies." Just at the hour Mr. Key arrived and brought his client off triumphantly. The old man's only comment being, "I knew it would be all right; because Frankie said so."

Mr. Key was a member of the Episcopal church, a sincere, earnest Christian, always ready to take part in any good work and in furthering the cause of Christ's kingdom. He often worshipped with other denominations and took part in all their exercises; was an earnest Sunday school worker, and often made Sunday school addresses in the Taneytown churches. In a collection of his poems is a piece of poetry written for a Sunday school celebration, July 4th, 1833. The refrain is, "Sing, all ye nations: the arm of the Lord is revealed in its power, fulfilling his word." Every verse of the poem is full of patriotic which was one of his leading motives. The last verse is: "Fair land of the free! may that light that shines on thee, Giver of freedom and life, pour its light, brightness on thee, Shed abroad thee, the light of salvation, and never be darkness in thee, thou land of the free."

One of Mr. Key's hymns is in almost all our church hymn books, and expresses very fully his Christian character; it is the hymn beginning "Lord, with glowing heart I praise Thee." In politics Mr. Key was a Democrat, and of course a warm admirer of General Jackson. In the speech which I quoted from, he defends him from the charge of illtemper brought against him by the Whigs, and then occurs the following passage which probably referred to the contest over the U. S. Bank, but which is equally applicable to some of the present conditions. Speaking of the Nation's songs, he says: "But if ever forgetful of her past and present glory, she shall cease to be 'The Land of the free and the home of the brave,' and become the purchased possession of a company of stockholders and speculators; if her people are to become the vassals of a moneyed corporation, and to bow down to her pensioned and privileged nobility; if the patriots who shall dare to arraign her corruptions and denounce her usurpations, are to be sacrificed on her gilded altar; and if ever again the high vocal orators and prelates, but the soul of national poetry will be gone. That muse will never bow the knee in Mammon's face." Mr. Key was also deeply interested in the Colonization Society, a society to encourage the emigration of free negroes to Liberia and help to pay their passage. It is a shame that his native state and county have done nothing to perpetuate his memory; the only place in the United States where there is a monument to his memory is in San Francisco, where Mr. Lick, who endowed the Lick Observatory, raised a monument to Mr. Key's memory at his own expense.

Chief Justice Taney was born in Calvert county, Maryland, and therefore was not identified with Taneytown locally. It is likely true that another branch of the same family owned land here and gave the name to the village. Chief Justice Taney, however, married a daughter of Mr. John Ross Key, a son of the same family, and early in life was often in the neighborhood; all who knew him well became very fond of him. Two things in his political career made him obnoxious to the Whigs, the removal of the deposits from the U. S. Bank, and the Dred Scott decision, but I have known a good many old line Whigs who were his intimate friends, and I never heard one of them dispute his good faith; he was, I believe, personally opposed to slavery, and freed all the slaves that came into his possession. Judge Taney was a Catholic and a man of stern integrity and strict honesty.

Harney.

Miss Cora Lion has just returned from a visit to friends in Baltimore. Miss Matilda Jones, who has been spending some time with friends in this place, left for her home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lovina Shriver is visiting Mr. J. W. Shriver's family in Taneytown. On Friday evening of last week our band attended the Republican parade at Emmitsburg.

Mr. Elmer Hess is the owner of a fine calf; when it was born it weighed 12 pounds, and when it was four weeks old it weighed 210 pounds, thus gaining nearly 4 pounds per day.

We are informed that Mr. J. A. Angell is about contracting for Mr. J. L. Hesson's farm near this place. This we think a wise step for Mr. Angell to take because he will then have plenty of work for his children at home, and that will be more pleasant than to see them out among strangers.

Mr. Elizabeth Kuhns was taken seriously ill on last Sunday morning, and on Monday morning died of the disease, but had been informed that she is slowly improving.

Emmitsburg.

Mr. George Winter died at his residence on last Saturday evening. He was one of our oldest citizens, his age being 89. Shortly before his death he connected himself with the Lutheran church; his funeral took place Monday Morning, Rev. Chas. Reinebold officiating.

The ladies of the Benevolent Society of the Reformed church will hold their annual dinner and supper on Thanksgiving day, at the house of Mrs. Catherine Mottler. Dinner thirty cents, supper fifteen cents. All are cordially invited.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Joseph V. Tyson and Miss Josephine Eckenrode, which will take place next Wednesday, at Mount St. Marys College church.

Miss Gertrude Annan, who has been visiting friends in Williamsport, Md., has returned home.

Mrs. J. A. Helman is visiting in Baltimore.

Mrs. Dr. J. Kay Wrigley, who has been visiting her mother in Coalport, Pa., for several weeks, is expected home daily.

Imposing Funeral Ceremonies over Czar Alexander.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—A thick fog enveloped the city today, and added to the gloom which prevailed among the people while the elaborate funeral ceremony over the remains of Alexander III were being conducted in the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. The service was over five hours in length, and when at last the guns of the fortress announced that it was over, the remains of the late Czar lay beneath the cathedral floor and the tomb was soon after covered with a granite block weighing six thousand pounds.

Petersburg and the clergy intoning a solemn chant. The clergy were followed by the coffin, which was borne by the Czar, the grand dukes, foreign princes and the most distinguished generals.

The most impressive portion of the ceremony was at the lowering of the late Czar's remains into the vault by high civil officers of the government. As the coffin disappeared from view the loud booming of cannon and the salvoes, fired by platoons of infantry from the adjoining fortress, reverberated through the church, mingling with the words of the burial service, and the lowering of the ordinary imperial standard on the fortress tower proclaimed to the world outside that the last act in the mournful drama had been concluded. The Czar remained in the church until the tomb was finally closed.

Applications are being received from all parts of Russia for flowers that were used in the fortress cathedral during the lying in state of Czar Alexander's body and at the funeral services. There will be tomorrow a general distribution of the flowers to those who desire to secure a memento of the dead Czar. The floral offerings received from France were very numerous.

It is the intention of the Prince and Princess of Wales to remain in St. Petersburg until after the marriage of Princess Alix to Czar Nicholas. Both Czar Nicholas and his mother have repeatedly expressed their profound gratitude for the devotion and kindness of the Princess and Prince of Wales in their trying ordeal.

A Blamed Sight Worse.

A bachelor, old and cranky, Was sitting alone in his room; His toes with gout were aching, And his face was o'erspread with gloom.

No little ones' shouts disturbed him, From noises the house was free, In fact, from the attic to cellar Was quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking; The servants answered his ring, Respectfully heard his orders, And supplied him with everything.

But still there was something wanting; Something he couldn't demand; The kindly words of compassion, The touch of a gentle hand.

And he said, as his brow grew darker, And he rang for the hired nurse, "Well, marriage may be a failure, But this is a blamed sight worse!"

Some Advice.

For young men who are thinking of marriage: Select the girl.

Agree with the girl's father in politics and the mother in religion. If you have a rival, keep him out of him; if he is a widower, two eyes on him.

Don't swear to the girl that you have no bad habits. It will be enough for you to say that you never heard yourself swear in your sleep.

Don't put much sweet stuff on paper. If you do, you will hear it read in after years, when your wife has some especial purpose in inflicting upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

Go home at a reasonable hour in the evening. Don't wait till the girl has to throw her whole soul into a yawn that she can't cover with both hands. A little thing like that may cause a coolness at the very beginning of the game.

If while wearing your new summer trousers for the first time you sit down on some molasses candy that little Willie has left on the chair, smile sweetly and remark that you don't mind sitting on molasses candy at all, and that "boys will be boys."

Reserve your true feelings for future reference. If on the occasion of your first call the girl upon whom you have placed your young affection looks like an iceberg and acts like a cold wave, take your leave early and stay away. Woman in her hours of freeze is uncertain, coy and hard to please.

In cold weather finish saying good night in the house. Don't stretch it all the way to the front gate, and thus lay the foundation for future asthma, bronchitis, neuralgia and chronic catarrh, to help you to worry the girl to death after she has married you.

Don't lie about your financial condition. It is very annoying to a girl who has not yet got a stroke of work when they are mine, and "You shall have nothing to do in our home but to sit all day long and chirp to the canaries," as if any sensible woman could be happy fooling away time in that sort of life.

Retentive memory for the soft things and silly promises of courtship, and occasionally, in after years, when she is washing the dinner dishes or patching the west end of your trousers, she will remind you of them in a cold, sarcastic tone of voice.—Exchange.

Farmers May Enjoy Life.

Every farmer should first arrange for the comfort and happiness of his family before he makes any effort toward getting rich, says the Western Ploughman. Why put off the enjoyment of life to some future time, when that time is not certain will come? Now, every farmer, however humble, can get all the real enjoyment that a millionaire can get. He can raise just as fine food as the millionaire can eat, and he can enjoy it just as well.

He can sleep just as soundly, and books and papers are so cheap that he can get all the mental food he can digest, and there is no classic work of literature within the reach of the millionaire that the farmer cannot also get. Isn't it very foolish to drudge and stint one's self to get rich for the sake of getting enjoyment in the future that we can have right now? To get all the luxuries that the millionaire enjoys, you need:

1. A good garden, well stocked with substantial vegetables and delicacies.

2. A good orchard, with fruits for all seasons.

3. One or two Jersey cows strictly for home use.

4. Ponies for boys and girls.

5. Plenty of good books and papers.

6. Musical instruments.

7. Good educational facilities.

The farmer who has a farm paid for and the seven conditions I have named, is the millionaire, for he has all the luxuries that the millionaire can get, and he can enjoy them just as well as the millionaire.

The face of George Washington, in the interior of the Washington monument at the national capital has been deprived of its nose. A relic hunter did it with his little hammer.

1894. THE SUN! 1894. BALTIMORE, MD. The Paper of the People, For the People and with the People. Honest in Motive. Fearless in Expression. Sound in Principle. Unswerving in its Allegiance to Right Theories and Right Practices. The Sun publishes all the news all the time, but it does not allow its columns to be degraded by unbecomingly or purely sensational matter. Editorially, The Sun is the consistent and unchanging champion and defender of popular rights and interests against political machines and monopolies of every character. Independent in all things, extreme in none. By mail 50 cents a month, $6 a year.

THE BALTIMORE WEEKLY SUN.

The Weekly Sun publishes all the news of each week, giving complete accounts of all events of interest throughout the world. As an agricultural paper the Weekly Sun is unsurpassed. It is edited by writers of practical experience, who know what farming means and what farmers want in an agricultural journal. It contains regular reports of the work of the agricultural experiment stations throughout the country, of the proceedings of farmers clubs and institutes, and the discussion of new methods and ideas of agriculture. Its market report, Poultry Department and Veterinary column are full and complete. Every issue contains Stories, Poems, Household and Puzzle Columns, a variety of interesting and instructive selected matter, and other features, which make it a welcome visitor in city and country homes alike.

One dollar a year. Inducements to get up of clubs for the Weekly Sun. Both the Daily and Weekly Sun mailed free of postage in the United States, Canada and Mexico. Payments invariably in advance.
