When Mr. Hoffman took charge of the Lutheran church in 1828, the council requested that one-half the preaching be in English. The council at that time was: Abram Lichtenwalter, David Kephart, Samuel Naill. David Buffington, Michael Null and Abram Null, trustees: John Bishop and Adam Beck, elders; David Buffington. John White, John Reck and Henry Klutz, deacons.

The Rev. Mr. Keller had been a home missionary in the west before coming here; when he left Taneytown he preached for some time in Hagerstown, Md., and went from there to Springfield, Ohio, where he was instrumental in founding Wittenberg college. During his pastorate here the congregation had grown until it numbered 354 members, and they found the church building too small for them. On Nov. 7th., 1839, a building committee, consisting of George Mehring, David Buffington and Jacob Zumbrum were appointed to remodel and enlarge it. An addi-tion of 20 feet, to be built of brick, was to be put to the north-east side. The committee also had power "to improve the old building or make necessary changes;" details of this remodelling are meagre, both as to records and incidents. The work of remodelling was begun in Mr. Keller's time, and finished in the beginning of Mr. Sentman's pastorate.

Mr. Sentman's pastorate.

Mr. Sentman took charge of the congregation January 1st., 1841, and was installed May 26th., 1841, at which time the remodeled church was dedicated; both services were conducted by the Rev. S. Schmucker, D. D., and Rev. B. Kurtz, D. D. Mr. Sentman's charge consisted of Taneytown, Emmittsburg and Emanuel (Bausts) church, with preaching stations at Mt. Joy and Fountain Dale, a sort of home missionary work which will give the younger ministers of this day some idea of how their predecessors of the last generation were obliged to

The council of that time consisted of Henry Hess, T. Rudisel, Jacob Zumbrum, Samuel Null, Henry Klutz, George Mehring (of George) Trustees; Henry Swope Sr., and Laurence Bower, Elders; Thomas Rudisel and Jacob Null, Deacons.

About this time steps were taken to have the charter renewed, and to put the records of the church in better form. The records in German to be translated into English by the pastor, and the "Formula of Government" and the "Formula of Government" ises soon to become the greatest adopted by the General Synod was to be now strictly followed by the conword. The planters there have but rooms." gregation. The records show that this was no empty resolution, some un-worthy members having at this time received admonition and discipline way that we cannot speak of it as a from the council.

The house now owned by Dr. Wm. Reindollar, at one time belonged to Mr. Grobp; he sold it to the congregation for a parsonage. In 1849 a con gregational meeting was called to decide whether the parsonage should be sold or repaired; it was not sold, and in 1851 when Mr. Sentman built the present Lutheran parsonage for himself he got the rent for the part. gregational meeting was called to the present Lutheran parsonage for himself, he got the rent for the parhimself, he got the rent for the parsonage then owned by the church. Mehring, son of Mr. David Mehring, a student in the senior class of the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, was drowned while bathing in Rock Creek.

In 1870, during Mr. Bergstresser's pastorate, the congregation decided by a vote of 135 to 4 to remodel the church building. Messrs Benjamin Thomas Rudisel and Dr. Samuel Swope, with John McKellip as secretary and treasurer, were appointed a committee to carry out the plans submitted by Mr. Slagle, of Hanover, who was in charge of the work. The work was begun in September 1870, and on January 1st, 1871 the lecture room was dedicated and used through the winter. A WOTH CATCHING PLANT.

It Closes Its Jaws and Catches Its Victim as In a Vise. A New Zealand correspondent suggests that the ravages of certain larvæ in some countries might be greatly restricted by the introduction of the New Zealand moth catching plant, Araugia albens. This plant, which is a native of southern Africa, was introduced to New Zealand quite accidentally about seven years ago, and since then it has been extensively propagated there on account of its effective service as a killer of destructive moths.

Wherever the elimate is mild the plant is an exceedingly free grower. It twines and climbs with great luxuriance and produces immense numbers of white or pinkish flowers, which have a very agreeable scent. These flowers attract innumerable moths. On a summer evening a hedge of araugia will be covered by a perfect cloud of moths, and in the morning there will not be a single flower that does not imprison one or two and sometimes as many as four insects of various sizes and genera. The action of the araugia is purely mechanical. The calyx of the flower is rather deep, and the receptacle for its sweet juices is placed at its base. Attracted by the powerful scent and the prospect of honey, the moth dives down the calyx and pro trudes its probescis to reach the tempt ing food, but before it can do so the proboscis is nipped between two strong, hard, black pinchers, which guard the passage, and once nipped there is no escape for the moth, which is held as in a vise by the extreme end of the probos-

The proboscis is so very slightly inserted between the pinchers (only a minute fraction of an inch) that it apparently cannot affect the generative organs of the plant unless these may be the pinchers themselves, whose actual contact may be necessary for reproduction. Upon dissection the pinchers, even in their ordinary position, are invariably found to be almost in contact, the separating interval being apparent under a strong lens. It is therefore hard to understand why such a process as the

But, at all events, the thing is done, and effectively, and a plant of araugia covering a space of ten yards in length will destroy as many hundred moths every night, and consequently prevent the ravages of 50 times as many larvæ. It is, bowever, a singular fact that in New Zealand, where the plant has often been cultivated for the express purpose of destroying the detested codling moth, Carpocapsa pomenalla, that wily insect declines to enter the trap.
