LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

Democratic primaries, this Saturday afternoon.

Misses Nora Kiser and Nora Hess are on the sick list.

The annual Catholic picnic will be held on August 7th., in Clabaugh's Grove.

The Carroll Conclave of Heptasophs of this place, has recently had thirteen examinations for membership.

Mr. George H. Fair lost his pocket-book in town last Saturday night, and the most careful search failed to find it.

This town has a base ball "crank" who buys a daily paper whenever the Baltimore's win. He didn't buy on Wednesday.

The Sabbath school of the Church of God, Uniontown, will hold its annual picnic this Saturday afternoon and evening.

Mr. William Dutta, of Gettysburg, has been critically ill for over a week, but at this writing is somewhat improved.

The Temperance Mass Meeting will not be held in the Lutheran church, this Saturday night, as advertised, but in the Presbyterian church.

Mr. John Redmond was so unfortunate as to have a fall last week, which resulted in injuries severe enough to prevent him from attending to his trucking business.

The Gettysburg Star says it is reported that Harry M. Clabaugh can have the nomination for Attorney-General, in Maryland, if he wants it. We have heard this before.

The Linwood Camp Meeting will commence Friday, July 26th., and close on Saturday, August 3rd. A number of able ministers will assist the conductor, Rev. G. W. Seilhamer.

Mrs. Eliza Sneideringer, Mrs. David Keef and son, of Bunker Hill, Illinois, and Mrs. Jno. W. Eline and daughter, of Littlestown, were the guests of Mrs. Thomas Eckenrode, last week.

Rev. Theodore Crouse a native of Littlestown, who is well known here, has resigned as pastor of Christ Lutheran church, Harrisburg, to accept a call from the St. Thomas charge in Franklin county.

Mrs. Fred Banker brought a beet to our office one day this week, which is hard to beat. It measured 20 inches in length, and weighed two pounds and one ounce. For so early in the season this is a beater.

Mr. E. E. Reindollar's new residence is progressing finely, and the brick work is nearly completed. It will be one of the handsomest houses in the county, fitted with modern appliances for heat, light and water.

Rev. G. W. McSherry and family have been visiting the neighboring ministers, Rev. Chas. Reinwald of Emmitsburg, Rev. G. W. Baughman of Uniontown, and Rev. R. L. Patterson of Union Bridge, this week.

Mr. Geo. H. Birnie of this place delivered an address last Sunday, in Bethany chapel, Brookline, Boston, on Christian Endeavor work. Maryland is credited with having one of the most enthusiastic delegations at the great convention.

An observant subscriber would like to know whether any one has seen any rain-bows this summer? He says he hasn't, and hears that when the rain-bows stop, it is a sign that the world is coming to an end. Can't some one comfort him?

An operation for removal of a tumor from Mrs. Aaron Weant, of near Keysville, was successfully performed on Thursday afternoon, by Dr. J. S. Barnard, assisted by Dr. Wisner of Baltimore, and Drs. D. M. Stultz and C. W. Weaver of Taneytown.

The ladies having in charge the design of establishing a public reading room, have distributed envelopes for contributions to the fund. This enterprise is worthy of encouragement and trial, and no doubt sufficient funds will be donated to put it in operation.

Mr. John H. Shoemaker, of Old Forge, N. Y., in reviewing his subscription to the RECORD, says: "I saw ex-president Harrison on Saturday; he has come to the Adirondack's to spend the summer, and I had the pleasure of making a deal to furnish him with groceries and provisions."

Rev. G. W. McSherry, of this place, has been elected a delegate to the prohibition party's state convention, which meets at Glyndon Camp grounds on July 31st., and August 1st. The county convention of the party which was held at Taneytown on last Friday, nominated a full county ticket. The state convention will nominate state officers. Mr. J. Albert Angell, of Harney, is on the ticket for county treasurer.

The History of New Windsor closes with the instalment in this issue. It is with regret that we publish the last chapter from the pen of this eloquent historian, and we feel sure that all citizens of the New Windsor section must admit that the work has been well and satisfactorily done. None of the histories which have appeared in our columns can claim to be much more than sketches, and do not represent the writers' ability to the full extent; they have, however, been admirable newspaper histories, and are not without great value as they are. The RECORD extends its hearty thanks to Mr. Devilbiss.

NOTES HERE AND THERE.

Mr. Wm. D. Morrison, of Emmitsburg, has been appointed a warden at Montevue Hospital.

The Fifth Maryland regiment is in camp at Cape May. Governor Brown and staff reviewed the regiment on Tuesday.

There has been an advance of nearly 100 per cent in the price of nails, in the last sixty days. It is said to be due to an agreement between manufacturers.

Mr. Wm. M. Gaither, the president of the Board of County Commissioners of Frederick county, is said to be at his home in Unionville, ill with consumption.

The "Gorman issue" appears to be plain in nearly all the counties in the state. The opposition to the senator may not be great in numbers, but it is extremely bitter.

The contest for supremacy in Pennsylvania, between the Hastings and Quay factions, is enlisting great interest, and considerable difference of opinion, on the part of the state press.

The first peaches of the season appeared at Pen-Mar the first of the week, and sold for $1.00 a basket. The price, however, is not high, and fruit becomes more plentiful it will lower.

Fine specimens of magnetic iron ore have been found on the farms of Messrs. Elmer A. Young, Joshua Horine and Rev. A. M. Smith, in the vicinity of Myersville, Frederick county.

A young man by the name of Drexler, in Carlisle, was badly injured on the Fourth, by holding a cannon cracker too long. One hand has been amputated, the other is mutilated, and he is badly burned about the face and body.

Mr. Henry I. Wilson has been elected teller of the First National Bank of Westminster, vice Denton Gehr resigned. Mr. Wilson is a member of the insurance firm of Wilson & Goodwin, and is eminently fitted for the position.

The convention of the Young Peoples Union of the Baptist Church of Carlisle, Pa., was held at Taneytown, Md., on Saturday, July 14th. It was something of the nature of a C. E. Convention and was attended by an immense number of delegates and visitors from all over the country.

Mr. J. B. Cressler of near Shippensburg recently completed what was intended to be a flying machine, but which, on trial, did not prove to be one. It is said that the work was ingenious, and was made with silk wings, and a frame work of steel and hickory.

The Farrell trial is over, and the verdict is, "not guilty." While many people still consider Mrs. Farrell guilty of poisoning her husband, she has undoubtedly won the sympathy of the great majority. The marked feature of the trial was the eloquent and enthusiastic work of counsel.

A conference of democratic politicians in Frederick, it is reported, will favor placing Mr. Charles W. Ross of Frederick in the field for Governor. He is a very popular gentleman, and should be allowed his name to be used, would very likely secure the county delegation without much opposition.

The Hagerstown town council will at its next meeting pass two ordinances which provide for the removal of hog pens and slaughter houses from the corporation limits, and for the establishment of a sanitary board of three persons. The ordinances have been drafted by Dr. T. W. Simmons.

Mr. L. N. Durboraw, an old justice of the peace for Mt. Joy township, near Gettysburg, was accidentally killed on Monday morning. He was helping to tear down a barn on the farm of S. W. Bengard, when he fell from the top of the frame, a distance of sixteen feet to the ground, his head striking a joist, killing him almost instantly.

It is reported that there is some trouble in organizing the new Board of Aldermen in Frederick, owing to the statement that one of the democratic members refuses to go into caucus. He says he was elected by the people, and proposes to legislate for the best interests of the taxpayers, irrespective of party considerations. The Board is composed of three democrats, and two republicans.

The 5th. annual re-union of the Mount Alto Christian Endeavor Assembly Association, composed of the counties of Cumberland, Franklin, Perry, Dauphin, York and Adams, will be held at Mount Alto Park, Tuesday, Aug. 20th. A strong array of speakers is being secured, among whom are Rev. Klinger, of Gettysburg, and Dr. Enders, of York. For time of trains and special rates, see large posters issued by the railroad companies.

Manoah Metz, of Smithsburg, who is charged with a villainous attack upon a 9-year-old girl in Smithsburg, has resigned as a director of the First National Bank, Taneytown, saying, "I feel it my duty to tender my resignation as a director in this institution, feeling that, by remaining as one of the directors, and such reports in circulation, it might reflect upon the good standing and reputation of the bank. At the same time I expect in due course of time to refute these reports beyond any doubt."—Blue Ridge Zephyr.

George Lapole, of Knoxville, Md., was arrested on Saturday at Williamsport, charged with the murder of David J. Markey. Lapole is captain of canal boat No. 4, of the Consolidated Coal Co., and was on his way from Georgetown to Cumberland, having taken Markey on board at Weverton. He states that he ran up to the towpath to leave Markey off, when an altercation occurred on account of Markey cursing him, for which he knocked him down. Lapole proceeded on his trip, and was surprised to learn that Markey had died from concussion of the brain. Later reports seem to show that Lapole was the aggressor.

Reformed Re-union at Pen-Mar.

The sixth annual re-union of the Reformed church was held at Pen-Mar on Thursday. The re-union territory embraces the Cumberland Valley, the Valley of Virginia, the western part of Maryland, the counties of West Virginia bordering on the Potomac river and the District of Columbia. Since the re-union association was organized it has held its annual gathering at Pen-Mar Park.

Special excursion trains came from points on the Cumberland Valley railroad, from the Norfolk and Western railroad, from the Valley Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio, two from Hagerstown, from Hanover, from York, from Shippensburg, from Baltimore, besides the regular trains. A large number drove to the re-union in carriages. The crowd was estimated at 6,000.

The exercises were held in a pavilion on the east side of the park. The pavilion was handsomely draped with bunting and decorated with flags. Souvenirs containing the picture of Michael Schlatter, pioneer and organizer of the Reformed church in the United States, were distributed among the audience. The speaking took place in the afternoon from the pavilion. Rev. Dr. J. A. Hoffhins, of Martinsburg, W. Va., presided. The Martinsburg Reformed church choir rendered choice music.

The exercises were opened with a vocal solo by Miss Minnie Myers, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., Prof. D. E. Roberts, of Baltimore, was on the program for the opening solo, but he was unable to be present. Rev. Dr. L. O. Miller, of York Pa., delivered the opening invocation, and Rev. J. B. Schantz, of Chambersburg, Pa., delivered the address of greeting.

Rev. Miles O. Noll, of Carlisle, Pa., delivered an address. His subject was, "It is Good for Us to Be Here." Rev. W. E. Hoy, of Sendal, Japan, made the address on "Our Work in Japan." He is at present at his home at Lancaster, Pa., having recently returned from Japan with his wife, where he worked as missionary with great success for ten years. He will return.

Rev. G. B. Russell, of Zullinger, Franklin county, Pa., made an address on "The Reformed Church." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Wm. M. Deatrick, of Mercersburg, Pa., after which the doxology was sung by several thousand voices. After the exercises the Second Reformed Church Orchestra, of Harrisburg, Pa., rendered a delightful program of eleven numbers. The program embraced a trombone solo by Mr. George Giede, a cornet and flute duet by Messrs. Elmer and Giede, Mr. Edward H. Shaffer, of Harrisburg, Pa., composed by Prof. John E. Kurzenknebe, of Harrisburg, Pa.

The following officers of the reunion association were elected: Rev. J. A. Hoffhins, of Martinsburg, president; Rev. J. B. Schantz, of Chambersburg, secretary; Mr. Edward H. Shaffer, of Baltimore, treasurer; committee, George A. Hollinger, of Harrisburg, Pa.; S. S. Brenner, of Mechanicsburg, Pa.; Niles M. Fissel, of Carlisle, Pa.; B. E. Borden, of Torriss Brook, Va.; Rev. N. Peights, of York, Pa.; Charles R. Stahl, of Gettysburg, Pa.; W. C. Birely, of Frederick, Md.; and David M. Hurley, of Hagerstown, Md.—Sun.

Sabbath Notices.

Rev. Kenneth G. Murray will preach on Sabbath morning at Tom's Creek, and in the afternoon at Emmitsburg, Md. E. Church. Rev. Murray's regular appointments will be filled by Mr. Frank Humbert, at Double Pipe Creek in the morning, and Keysville in afternoon.

Mr. Charles P. Wiles will fill the pulpit of the Lutheran church on Sunday. He is a member of the Senior class of the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg.

Rev. J. D. Werts, of Petersburg, Pa., will preach in the Bethel of the Church of God in Uniontown, Sabbath morning and evening, and at Frizellburg at 2.30 p. m.

MARRIED.

FOWLER-FOGLE.—On July 7th., near Uniontown, by Elder Solomon Stoner, Mr. Harry D. Fowler to Miss Elsie M. Fogle, both of this county.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free of charge.

DURBORAW.—On the 14th., near Two Taverus, Pa., Mr. L. N. Durboraw in his 57th year. Interment in Gettysburg on Wednesday.

Harney Next Week.

With the next issue, part first of the History of Harney and vicinity, as written by Mr. J. W. Reck, will appear in our columns. This is the first time, to our knowledge, that any effort has been made to record the events and facts in connection with the early settlement of this section, but we have confidence in the writer who has undertaken the task, and believe it will be well done.

Subscribers make a great mistake when they read the articles, and then send the papers away to friends or relatives. The principal value of the series of histories lies in the fact that the parts may, by being clipped from the papers, be pasted into a book, and thus be permanently kept for reference in almost as good a shape as if regularly published in book form. Persons who give away their papers must remember that they cannot be replaced with any certainty. We have most of the papers on hand, but several dates are completely gone, and many other numbers are almost exhausted; therefore, if you want to read any year of this series, be better to subscribe regularly for the RECORD or buy an extra copy each week. A great many persons now tell us that they are very sorry that they did not from the beginning, keep all the issues.

Mr. Reck is authorized to receive subscriptions for us at regular rates, and will also have single copies for sale at three cents each. Hand in your subscription at once, or tell him to save you a copy each week.

Horr-Harvey Debate.

Hon. R. G. Horr, an ex-member of Congress from Michigan, but for a number of years past a writer for the N. Y. Tribune, has entered into a debate with Chicago, with W. H. Harvey, also a newspaper man and the author of "Coin's Financial School," on the subject of our currency. These debates will appear in full in the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, which may be had for a year for only 25c, on prepayment of one year's subscription to the RECORD and 25c. additional, making $1.25 for the two papers for one year. These two men are supposed to represent fully the two standards—silver and gold, and the debate will be a means of settling the masses on the currency question, by bringing out the strongest arguments on both sides of this perplexing topic.

Trilby Bare Foot Parties.

Trilby parties are being tried in some sections where the girls are up to date (?) and don't care who knows it. They are held in the evening, and the main attraction (or feature) of the play is for the ladies of the party to sit behind a curtain, completely blindfolded, and to stock, stockings, and presumably pretty pink footed feet, which are allowed to protrude from beneath the curtain in full view of the young men of the party, who are to determine by looking at the array of pedal extremities, the names of the ladies attached to each pair. The one guessing correctly the greatest number of owners, is awarded a prize. There may be several rounds of guessing, or the game may be tried in different ways, the main object, however, always being to determine the names of the ladies. It may be well for us to state that none of these parties have ever been held in Taneytown, or in Carroll county, to the best of our knowledge and belief.

Telephonic.

The Waynesboro Gazette announces its telephonic connections in an original way, which seems so satisfactory to us, that we endorse the statement by saying "we too." The GAZETTE office has now been supplied with telephonic connections, and the news of the day can be obtained by telephonic means. The number is 5-2. RECORD, No. 6. Ring early and often, but not too loud, and never on any account when you have nothing to say, or when money is the object of your interest. This latter commodity is not to be had in stock at an entirely out of our line. Calls having for their object an invitation to dinners, receptions, hops, etc., will receive particularly prompt attention. Those who desire to communicate news to the office can do so in this way. When there has been a murder committed, or important happenings of this kind, please be careful to mention names of parties very plainly, so that no mistakes occur. Just as soon as your peaches are ripe, call us up—say where they are at, and these gentlemen will have no ordinary trouble or misunderstanding with us.

York Road.

Master Howard Myers of this place, met with an accident on Monday, which might have proved fatal. He and several other boys were sitting on the water barrel that supplies the engine. Another engine was coming and the boys were afraid the horse would start, and jumped off. Howard was the last one to get off and lost his hold, falling on the axle and then in front of it. The wheel, which was a broad one, passed over his shoulder and lower part of his face. His mother saw him fall and ran to his assistance, expecting to find him lifeless, but when picked up, he was found to be only badly bruised about the shoulders and face. This certainly was a miraculous escape.

Frederick Examiner, the republican paper of Frederick county, has been formed into a stock company. The following are the incorporators: William J. Worman, Harry B. Witter, Dr. Samuel T. Haffner, John C. Motter and Cyrus Flook, of Frederick; Samuel M. Birely, of Thurmont; W. W. Doub, of Middleville; William J. Worman, president; Elmer J. Smith, secretary; Cyrus F. Flook, treasurer and manager.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

Westminster.

Mr. F. Thomas Babylon, has sold to Mr. Denton S. Gehr, teller of the First National Bank, his share in the firm of Babylon & Gilbert, plumbers and dealers in hardware. The firm will continue under the firm name of Gehr & Gehr.

Senator P. J. Bennett has bought the coal and lumber yard of E. Lynch & Son. David Cowen, Senator Bennett's son-in-law, will associate with him under the name of P. J. Bennett & Co.

Very interesting and closely contested game of ball was played here last Saturday, on the college grounds, between the Westminster club and Pennsylvania Employees club of Baltimore. The score was 9 to 6 in favor of visiting club.

While laying matting under a stove, Mrs. John E. Eckenrode, had the end of her front finger cut off by the stove falling and the leg catching her finger. Dr. E. D. Wells was hastily summoned and replaced the dismembered part.

Complaint has been made, of the disgraceful conduct practiced in the park. Those parties are all well known to the police, who are investigating. Some one will be in the toils before long, if continued.

Mr. Luther Long, while unloading a carload of cans for Smith, Yinging & Co.'s canning factory, last Wednesday, had a sun-stroke and was unconscious for forty minutes; last summer about this time he had a stroke.

A circular has been distributed in this city by some malicious person, threatening down every hard on several of the secret beneficial organizations. The Undine Milling Company is pushed with orders for flour, and is compelled to run day and night to fill the orders.

The laboring men of this city are looking for an enterprise of some kind to start up, that will give them employment at living wages. They are not paupers but American citizens, and cannot live on fifteen dollars a month, board themselves and family, and pay from six to twelve dollars rent a month. What good is any kind of an enterprise to a town or the laboring man, that pays starvation wages like that?

Porters.

Harvest is about over. Now the noise of the steam thresher is heard throughout the land shelling the golden grain. Farmers of our vicinity have threshed, report an average of from 20 to 25 bushels per acre.

The Mechanicsville Band held its annual picnic in the grove near that village, on Saturday July 13th., which was quite well attended. Music furnished by Mechanicsville band, assisted by the Mechanicsville band, and Windfield Orchestra.

Mrs. Robert Barnes visited her parents at Gamber on Saturday last, and also attended the picnic at that place.

Misses Clara and Daisy Barnes visited friends at Gillist Falls, on Sunday last, and also attended divine services at the Bethel of the Church of God.

Miss Charlotte Perrine of Albion, Howard county Md., is visiting her sister Mrs. Lizzie Jenkins, at Porters. Mr. Adam Bloom of New Windsor, and Mr. Isaac Miller of Marston, passed through our village en-route for Freedom on Tuesday of this week.

We take great pleasure in recommending to the voters of Carroll county, that highly distinguished gentleman, Mr. William D. Slack of Freedom District, as an able and sincere candidate for Sheriff, and earnestly solicit the several delegates at our Republican Convention to cast their ballots for him.

It has been a reader of the Carroll Record ever since its first issue, and have found it a bright, interesting, and newsy periodical, and we wish this its second year of existence, to be one of great prosperity.

Union Bridge.

Mr. Harvey F. Caylor and wife of Denver, Colorado, are spending several weeks with relatives and friends in town and vicinity.

Harvest Home service will be observed in St. Paul's Reformed church on Sunday morning, July 2nd., at 10.30 o'clock. The church will be decorated with grain and fruits of the season, which will make a very attractive appearance. Rev. Spessard will preach a special sermon on the occasion.

Only a small number of people from this place attended the Reformed re-union at Pen-Mar on last Thursday. Seventeen tickets were sold at this station.

A game of base ball was played here on last Thursday afternoon between the team from McKinstry's Mills and the U. B. club. The game resulted in favor of U. B. by a score of 20 to 4.

The Junior C. E. Society of the Lutheran church gave a pleasant lawn social, on the lawn of the church on Thursday evening last. There was a goodly number present, both young and seniors, and all enjoyed the evening very much.

Rev. G. W. McSherry and family of Taneytown, Prof. Canell of Mechanicsburg, Pa., and Miss Bessie Reinhold of Taneytown, spent last Thursday with Rev. R. L. Patterson and family.

Miss Sallie Spence of Newark, N. J., is visiting Capt. Thornton I. Wright and family.

Mrs. Harry T. Holtz and children, of New York, are visiting Mr. D. Holtz and family.

Mr. Leticia Wood has removed from the Fowle House, and taken rooms at the building owned by G. F. Reek, W. Broadway, one door west of Reformed Church. Mrs. Wood is one of the most accomplished musicians, and will give entire satisfaction to all who wish to engage her as a teacher. At present she has a pretty fair class, and is so situated that she can attend to a larger class, therefore all lovers of music should give her a call, as her terms are reasonable, and she is worthy of being patronized.

The most densely-settled state is Rhode Island, and the second, Massachusetts. The former has 318.44 inhabitants to the square mile, and the latter 273.48.

Harney.

Last Monday morning while Mr. L. N. Durboraw was helping to tear down an old barn at Mr. Samuel Beraw's, he met with a fatal accident. The spire was standing on the top of the roof stool, and was helping to take down the purlin plate. In letting it down, it either jarred the scrotum on which he was standing, or it may have struck him slightly. He lost his balance and fell to the ground, a distance of sixteen feet; his head struck on one of the heavy joists. Mr. Josephus Mills and Samuel Beraw quickly carried him to the house and immediately summoned Dr. Noel of Bonneville. He never spoke after the accident, though he retained consciousness. His wife was soon by his side and in answer to her inquiry as to the location of his injury he motioned to the back of his head. He took his wife's hands in his and is thought to have murmured "I am going." He was carried to his home on a settee, but died just as he reached there.

Mr. Durboraw has a fine military record; he was a member of company K, First Pennsylvania Reserves, and was wounded at Charles City Cross Roads, June 30th., 1862. Mr. Durboraw was a life long republican; he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln. His father served the township as a Justice of the Peace for twenty-five years, but he exceeded this by nearly ten years; his seventh term would have expired next February. He was a man that was highly respected by all who knew him, and although the township is democratic, he was never defeated for Justice of the Peace. Interment took place on Wednesday morning at the Evergreen Cemetery at Gettysburg.

Quite an interesting entertainment will be given by the C. E. Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church of this place on Sunday evening. The following program will be carried out. Anthem by the choir; Singing by the society, No. 238; Scripture Reading and Prayer, by Rev. Minnie; Singing by the society, No. 174; Speech by Master Charles Bishop; Trio by Mrs. Mary Hawn, Messrs. A. Shoemaker and W. E. Null; Speech by Lethia Hess; Solo by Douglas Newcomer; Speech by Nettie Slagle; Speech by Hattie Harner; Duet by Stella Shoemaker and her father; Talk on the National Convention, by Rev. L. A. Bush; Singing by the Society No. 112; Mission offering; Quartet by Miss Clara Hess, Messrs. Luckett Bush, W. F. Null and S. S. Shoemaker; Singing by the Society, No. 131; Benediction.

Mr. V. J. Clousier has a half grown chicken with three perfect legs.

Mr. J. Newcomer and daughters returned on Wednesday, from a visit to friends in Baltimore, Washington and Frederick.

Nearly every day crowds of fishermen gather along the banks of the Monocacy.

Bridgeport.

Mr. Wm. Gallery of Baltimore, Md.; Master Frank Little of Philadelphia, Pa.; Misses Aggie and Mary Arnold and Mrs. A. C. Arnold of Taneytown, spent Monday at Bridgeport, enjoying the sport of catching the funny inhabitants of the adjoining waters.

Wednesday morning July 17th., quite a large number of persons from Littlestown and other places gathered under the shade on the bank of the "Poetic Monocacy," near this place. Dinner was served on tables clothed on the grass under the trees and more than 50 persons enjoyed the contents of baskets, plentifully filled by generous hands with many things to tempt the appetite (Refreshments not excepted.) The afternoon was pleasantly passed in boating, driving, fishing and other sports. Our venerable old townsman, Mr. A. Smith, very generously invited those with teams to feed their horses from the heaps of hay in his field for which the party desires us to extend many thanks. Supper was served at 5 p. m. in the same plentiful manner. The trees which all withdrew to the home of Mr. E. F. Smith, where they were permitted to enjoy some choice vocal and instrumental music, after which all returned to their homes, much pleased at having had a good time.

The following were guests. Mr. James D. Spaulding and family, Mr. Eugene Spaulding and wife, Mr. Chas. Eckenrode and family, Mrs. P. Noider and family, Mrs. P. Hemler and son Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Spaulding Sr., Edward Cromer and wife, Messrs. Eugene, Henry, and Stanley Hemler, Wm. Eckenrode and John Hemler; Misses Emma and Kate Eckenrode, Mary and Sadie Spaulding, and Sarah Rusher, of Littlestown and vicinity; Messrs. William and Joseph Welty and Misses Rosa, Hattie, Cora, and Bernadette, of Taneytown; Master Will Wilton of Altoona, Pa.; and Mr. E. F. Smith and family of Bridgeport.

Mr. Samuel Sterner, one of our enterprising gentlemen, has purchased a second hand threshing rig, and is prepared to do good work at short notice.

Maldensville.

As Miss Clara M. K. Senseney of Linwood, was returning from New Windsor one day last week, she lost a bundle containing black dress goods and a ball of braid. On discovering her loss she returned immediately, but could find no trace of the bundle. Miss Senseney regrets the loss very much.

Messrs. Alex. Hoffman and Abm. Fritz recently went seining in Pipe creek and captured nearly a bushel of fine fish.

Children's day services will be held at Winter's church, Sunday, July 21st., at 2.30 o'clock. Proceeds to be used in helping to pay for a new Orphan's Home. A short address will be delivered by a student of Gettysburg college, and an interesting program will be rendered by the children. Come and show us that you are interested.

Jas. L. T. Waltz was visiting friends in Westminster on Sunday last. His guest of Mrs. O. Hazard Crumacker.

Mrs. Geo. Waltz and son were visiting Mrs. John Waltz, of Beckettown, on Wednesday last.

Miss Alice Isaacs, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. May Crumpacker were the guests of Mrs. Geo. H. Waltz on Saturday evening.

GENERAL AND POLITICAL.

The life of the New Czar of Russia does not seem to be safer than his predecessor. A conspiracy has recently been unearthed by the police and eight conspirators arrested, who include six recently pardoned nihilists.

Samuel L. Clemens, (Mark Twain) has been in ill health recently, and is being pursued relentlessly by certain creditors. He will have the sympathy of the many readers of his books, which have lightened so many heavy hours and driven dull care away.

FINE JOB WORK a specialty, at lowest rates. Samples and estimates furnished on all classes of work.

CORRESPONDENTS must avoid personal reflections, of a non-complimentary character, and only make statements which can be easily verified. All communications must be signed by the writer's own name, otherwise they cannot be used.

SUBSCRIPTIONS will be continued, as a rule, after the time for which the paper has been paid, has expired. Subscribers who wish to discontinue should notify us, or ask their Postmaster to do so. The label on paper contains date to which the subscription has been paid.

ADVERTISEMENTS and contributions for the inside of the paper should be handed in by Tuesday evening to be guaranteed insertion.

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATT

SATURDAY, JULY 20th., 1895.

THE CARROLL RECORD, published at Taneytown, has completed its first volume. The RECORD is a most excellent newspaper, and we trust it is enjoying a remarkable degree of prosperity.—Fred. Examiner.

THE FREDERICK CITIZEN get humorously sarcastic over the failure of the citizens of that place to subscribe to the proposed Sesqui-Centennial exhibition. If a Hagerstown paper had been only half so funny, the Citizen's coat would have been off for a fight.

AN EXCHANGE SAYS: John Sherman is said to be writing a book of recollections covering the period of his public service. He has seen and been a part of more history-making than any other living American, and his account of it cannot fail to be an interesting and valuable contribution to our political literature.

ASK SOME men for an advertisement or a few locals, and they will say they don't believe in advertising—a paper is never read. Let one of them be kissing his neighbor's wife or trying to hold up the side of a building some time, and his tune changes instantly, and if the printing office is in a garret of a seventeen story building he will climb up to the top and beg the editor to keep quiet—not to publish it in the paper. The paper is not read—oh, no!

Unreliable News Reports.

One of the features of journalism of the present day is the fact that many of the telegraphic reports of great events, and statements as to the condition of crops and marketable commodities in general, are thoroughly unreliable. It has come to such a situation that first news must very often wait for verification, before it is safe to use it as a guide, or to report as a truth. The late Chinese—Japanese war, and the present Cuban revolution, amply furnish proof of these assertions.

An item of news—which is simply that—if incorrectly reported, possibly does but little more harm than to give readers an unfavorable impression of the reliability of the press. The difficulty is, however, that very few great events of any character can transpire in the world, which do not in some way affect trade or financial interests of some kind, and, for this reason, the press of the country should be careful—if it would remain true to the people—to furnish only correct reports of all happenings.

Subscribers have a right to expect the truth, allowing for minor inaccuracies, because they do not pay for garbled news, and incorrect reports. While any amount of legitimate freedom should be allowed the press, the state should protect itself by requiring all publications to keep free from being subsidized by speculators and stock gamblers, and to have proper consideration for innocent people who may lose heavily through their venality.

Honest publishers, dealers and speculators, have nothing to fear from an honest press, and the people as a whole have every thing to gain. Some kind of a National commission should be established to prevent the publishing of fraudulent statements and advertisements. The government has taken decisive steps toward the suppressing of lotteries, but the mails, are yet used for purposes which are just as harmful and dishonest, and which should be prevented by law.

Precautionary Measures.

It is a fact universally commented on that our town and district has been very healthy, particularly in the last two years. There has been but few funerals in the neighborhood, and those were principally persons well advanced in years, and our condition generally in regard to health, has been such as to be truly thankful for. While this is all true, let us not grow careless, or unduly confident of our security, but rather keep prominently before us the old adage, that, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

We do not wish to be understood as making complaint against anyone, because we believe that this town is kept as clean as any other place of its size in the country, and our citizens are just as willing and anxious that it should improve, rather than retrograde, as any other set of people can be; nevertheless, it is well to realize the fact that any town like ours which contains a considerable number of hog pens, stables, and other places which may be properly declared nuisances when not kept clean, is in constant danger of breeding contagion.

The time will come, in all probability, when hog pens especially must be prohibited, particularly when close to the street or in closely built sections. Other towns have passed such ordinances, and we are convinced that such action is based on correct scientific and sanitary grounds. The impregnation of the water supply, when derived wholly from wells, is sure to follow the multiplication of surface nuisances, and this alone furnishes sufficient cause for their removal.

Let every person in this season of health, look well to the cleanliness of his premises, and determine that no official or citizen of the town, nor any health commission, can find any fault or nuisance for which he is responsible; then, in case of the appearance of some epidemic disease, all can rest secure in the knowledge that the responsibility for it cannot be charged to his neglect.

In connection with this subject, it may not be out of place to suggest that, it would pay anyone who has several acres of ground near town, to send around a wagon to collect garbage, say once a week. This would not only be a convenience to many citizens, but it would contribute materially to the health and cleanliness of the town, and doubly pay the person or persons who would enter into the business, on account of the fertilizing properties of the matter removed. Vegetable matter, ashes, and such like, are worth their removal, to any person who has land to improve, and nearly every family would contribute its quota. Whether someone volunteers to do this, or not, it should be done—by corporate authority, if necessary. Let us not rest until we have a model town, in cleanliness at least.

The Right of Way.

By the common laws of England, which has validity in this as well as the mother country, persons using a piece of ground or foot-path, forbidden by the owners, for a certain term of years, acquire a legal right to it. This law has produced some singular results.

A large portion of the most fashionable quarter of London belongs to the private estate of the Duke of Portland, who, during one day in each year, puts gates and bars across the crowded streets. This annual mute assertion of his rights prevents these thoroughfares from becoming the property of the public.

A few plowmen thirty years ago, going from a village in Yorkshire to their work, made, unheeded, "a short cut" through a park belonging to another English duke. When, two years ago, he proposed to build a palace on his estate, it was found that this foot-path would pass directly through the drawing-room. He offered to buy it from the villagers at a high price, but they obstinately refused. The palace is not yet built, and probably never will be on that site.

In the most crowded business part of Philadelphia, where every inch of ground is of great value, the stranger is surprised to see, between massive and towering stone buildings, a little green wooden door, opening into a passageway too narrow for two men to walk abreast. It is a right of way acquired in the days of Penn by the owners of certain property to "reach the green fields." The fields are now dusty streets, crowded with vehicles and trolley cars.

Estates often lose a large percentage of their value because of a right of way heedlessly granted by some good natured owner long ago to his neighbors.

This curious point of common law has a singular parallel in the law of our own lives. We thoughtlessly give an entrance into them to bad thoughts or wrong habits, and awake to find that the intruders are owners of the way into our souls, and can never be forced out.

Or there come into our characters when we are children, habits of prayer, of cheerfulness, of telling the truth that are held and remain until maturity years. No trouble, no age will ever drive these good angels out of our lives.

We have given them the right of way, and they will keep it.—Youth's Companion.

Rev. Dr. Talmage on Newspapers.

Rev. Dr. Talmage has had enough experience in newspaper work to enable him to form a more or less correct estimate of journalism, and the following extract from one of his recent sermons shows that he has given the matter some thought. He said: "One of the greatest trials of the newspaper profession is that its members are compelled to see more of the sham of the world than any other profession. Through every newspaper office day after day go all the vanities that want to be puffed, all the revenges that want to be repaid, all the mistakes that want to be corrected, all the dull speakers that want to be thought eloquent, all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed gratis in order to save the tax of the advertising column, all men who want to set right who were never right, all the crack-brained philosophers with stories as long as their

THE CARROLL RECORD.

Co-operation in Rural Life.

Efforts have been made to develop co-operation in farm life, notably by the grange, which has done so much to make farm life better; but these efforts have been almost altogether unsuccessful. There are two prominent reasons: First, and best, the efforts have begun with the social rather than with the business features of life. We are so wrapped up in the chase after wealth that we will not take up anything seriously, and develop it persistently, unless it is connected with business. Second, when it has been sought to introduce organized co-operation into the business affairs of rural life, instead of endeavoring to make it an aid to existing methods, which have been painfully evolved out of the experience of mankind and have the sanction of the common sense, the effort has been to supplant them. Good examples are the grange stores, which proposed to do away with shop-keepers and many of those instruments and methods of effecting exchanges that the experience of mankind developed. These stores generally failed, and their failure was in proportion to their antagonism of approved commercial methods; yet they demonstrated that co-operative buying and selling, which used the merchant and the machinery of exchange, is advantageous; and there are many granges that have bought and sold on a co-operative plan right along, and each year find it more useful. The most prominent example of organized co-operation in rural industrial affairs to-day is the co-operative creamery; yet many such enterprises were wrecked, and the system came near being brought into fatal disrepute by contempt for or defiance of well-established commercial principles and methods of procedure. Co-operation must be not only among people, but with the institutions and means approved by the common sense of mankind.

Co-operative dairying has passed the experimental stage and is bound to develop rapidly. One has only to note the difference in the market price of "creamery butter" and of "country butter" to see the great advantage of employing those appliances and methods that are impossible in the farm house, but practicable in the creamery. In many rural neighborhoods co-operation satisfactorily and economically supplies the people with fresh meats. In others, organized co-operation not only manages the threshing machine, but does all the work of threshing, even the cooking, to the decided satisfaction of all. In some rural neighborhoods daily mail delivery is secured through co-operation; and it is much more economical to have one person bring their mail to thirty people than to have the thirty people go after it, each for himself. Co-operative laundries are being seriously discussed and public laundries are certainly a much needed rural innovation that would soon have a profitable patronage.

There are many fields for co-operative action in rural life; and in speaking of co-operation I have not had in mind only that primitive co-operation to which some would limit the term, but all those forms of activity in which people co-operate one with another by means of organization for that end. Such co-operation plays a very large part in city life gives practically all its conveniences and advantages above rural life; gives it its charm; and, in short, makes its most agreeable and distinguishing features possible. Co-operation, while it could not extend so far in the country, could do many times what it is now doing, and would enrich farm life with the best and most attractive features of the city life without destroying any of its peculiar charms.—Country Gentleman.

Small Don'ts for the Sick Room.

Don't make unnecessary noise. Don't let doors squeak; oil them. Don't whisper. Don't make noticeable and exaggerated efforts at being quiet. Don't speak of similar cases with fatal terminations. Don't admit lachrymose visitors. Don't keep the room too hot. Don't forget frequent ventilation. Don't raise a dust. Don't forget to bathe the patient's face and hands frequently, and wash the teeth and mouth. Don't give stimulants unless ordered by the physician. Don't wake the patient from a sound sleep to administer medicine. Don't ask the patient "how he feels" every few moments. Don't taste the patient's food with his spoon. Don't masticate loudly and cheerfully yourself while the patient is dieting. Don't prepare food in the sick room. Don't ask the patient what he wants to eat. Don't let cold food get hot or hot food get cold. Don't let food stand by the bed. Don't leave a table by the bed covered with soiled dishes, crumpled paper, fruit skins and burned matches. Don't bring too much food at a time. Don't wet the bed clothing and dress in feeding the patient. Don't make him drink too fast. Don't leave bureau drawers open and shades crooked. Don't yawn frequently and reservedly. Don't jar the bed. Don't rock vigorously and continuously. Don't introduce mournful and suggestive subjects. In a word, don't forget that a sick person, if conscious at all, is apt to have painfully acute perceptions and sensibilities on which trifles far in a superlative degree.

Properly we ought to be supplied with a new adjective, freshly made, to describe the wonderful cures from Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. Nothing like it has ever been seen before in the field of medicine. It is not a single remedy, but an entire course of treatment, lasting three weeks. You receive just sufficient medicine for a three weeks treatment for 25 cents. Get a free sample from R. S. McKinney, your druggist. The tiny Pellets are to build up the system, weakened by liver pills.

Beans.

The string bean, one of the most troublesome vegetables to prepare on account of the necessity of removing the strings, a process in which there was always some uncertainty, has been virtually superseded in these later years by the stringless bean and the butter bean.

It is not always wise, however, to trust too implicitly to the stringless bean. All new varieties of vegetables possess an obstinate tendency to return to their original types, and even the stringless bean will occasionally develop strings, though it is not nearly so troublesome as the old-time bean. In cooking any variety of the bean family, whether Lima or string beans, it should be remembered that they require time, and should be cooked slowly for no less a time, than an hour and a half. The popular way of serving a string bean is with a cream sauce. Thicken a cup of milk with a teaspoonful of flour stirred into a tablespoonful of butter. Let the beans boil up in this cream sauce for five minutes.

Still another way is to drain the beans, add a cup of milk, in which two egg yolks have been thoroughly beaten, and let the whole heat at the back of the stove for ten minutes without boiling. A third way is to simply stir the juice of a lemon into a heaping tablespoonful of butter, add a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and stir this mixture into a quart of hot cooked beans.

Lima beans are more familiar to our American tables in the common Indian dish of succotash, and are more excellent than in any other way. In preparing this dish it must be remembered that while the beans require an hour and a half slow simmering, the corn may be readily cooked in twenty minutes. A cream of Lima beans makes an excellent summer soup. Put a heaping tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan with an onion and two young carrots, which have been chopped fine. When these are browned, add a spray each of parsley and soup celery, both minced. Add also a pint of Lima beans that have been simmering in three pints of stock for one hour. Let the soup simmer for half an hour longer. Strain it through a sieve, pressing all the bean pulp through. Return the soup to the fire, let it boil up once, serve it with inch squares of bread fried free from all moisture and fried brown in butter.

Wages the World Over.

It is popularly supposed that the immutable law of supply and demand operating throughout a country makes the wages for the same labor uniform in every part of it, as a dearth of labor in any one place cannot be of long duration while men are employed elsewhere. A recent supplementary bulletin of the manufactures of the United States, however, shows this general view to be false. In Colorado the average yearly earnings of an employee of a manufacturing company was $720, in Montana, $723, in Nevada, $718, and in Wyoming, $708. In the states where colored labor is abundant the total average earnings are much less. In Alabama the average is $376, in Mississippi $310, in North Carolina $216, in Georgia $307, and in South Carolina $207. In New York the average is $550, in Pennsylvania $492, in Ohio $479 and in Massachusetts $494. When it is considered to what extent the female and child labor enters into the factory operations in New York, the figures are surprisingly high. The total wages paid in New York manufacturing enterprises amount in ordinary years to $500,000,000.

England stands at the head in Europe as the best market for labor. Scotland and France are a little behind her. Then there is a heavy drop until Austria, the Netherlands and Belgium are reached. The scale goes still lower in Germany, where the rate is the same as in Ireland. Spain, Sweden, Russia and Italy follow here in the order given. According to the table of Bodio, an Italian authority, glass-blowers are the best paid mechanics in Italy and paper makers the poorest. The rate of wages in Italy, low as it is now, was still lower 25 years ago. In England the increase in the rate of wages has been about 50 per cent. in 25 years. A French bricklayer now gets 50 per cent. more wages than were paid for his work in France 40 years ago.

That nursery tale which has charmed generations of children and their elders, known as "Blue Beard," was written by a French author. The original of the character of Blue Beard was a marshal of France, who lived in Brittany, and who was charged with murdering several wives and over 100 children. Being convicted of sorcery, he was burned. A singular peculiarity of his hair and beard was its ink glossiness, which in a certain light appeared of an indigo tinge, and so won him the appellation which has rendered him immortal.

Germany is far ahead of other countries in the number of telephones. In the whole of France there are not so many telephones as there are in Berlin alone. In the empire at large there are 378 places with telephone communication, with a total of 84,920 instruments.

A Pioneer's Recommendation.

Famous Words.

One of the greatest physicians in America said to a lady patient the other day: "If you can keep your bowels active you will never need my services."

Constipation is one of the most dangerous complaints. It creates a disordered liver, and then follows sick-headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite, etc.

A physician would first prescribe a Ramon's Tonic Liver Pill to open the bowels and clean out all the poisonous bile. He would then give you Ramon's Tonic Pellets for purifying the blood, stimulating the appetite, and strengthening the system. The two medicines would cure you completely and make you feel better than you have felt for years. Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. They cost 25c. a box, and you get with them a box of Pellets free.

HISTORY OF NEW WINDSOR.

By Frank J. Devillbiss.

PART IX.

Early in the fifties, Mr. Jesse Lambert conducted a saddle and harness store. He had in his employ at various times, a perpetuating saddler and repairer named Joseph Conover. Conover was a well-known character and original in his way. He had a clever appetite for spirits frummenti, which low wages would not entirely satisfy. For weeks it had been noticed that Conover, after his day's work, would revel in the luxury of Bacchus, and share the beverage with his pals, in a manner unbecoming his modest salary. Directly opposite Mr. Lambert's store, where the Post-office now stands, Joseph Conover conducted a store. His stock of old rye, stored in barrels in front of his store. Having occasion to tap a new barrel one day, he drew on one, but in vain—it was filled only with air. The mystery was solved. Conover had bored a small hole in the barrel, and by the aid of a rye straw, had drawn his nightly supplies, until the barrel was as empty as an average member of the Legislature.

The stirring experiences of war times, are yet vivid in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. One hot summer's day in 1864, a cloud of dust arose out the turnpike, through which was dimly figured an approaching cavalcade. The news preceded, however, that they were rebels, and it was like striking a hot iron. Conover, a nation reigned supreme. As by an electric current, and the proverbial "button," every store was closed and barred. Heads of families moved, but not far from their dwellings, and the very streets, which were vacated, seemed to mourn a solemn dirge. It was Bradley T. Johnson's command of about 500 cavalymen, and the town was soon at their command. They were not given the keys of the city, but they had the key of the situation, and they played it vigorously and hastily, because a command of Union forces followed closely. Storekeepers were compelled to unlock their stores, and fit the horse with boots, shoes, clothing, etc., besides bracing their throats with "fire-water," which they drank and unflinchingly submitted to.

Daniel Stouffer was then conducting the store now kept by Mr. Anders. He spirited away the most valuable part of his stock, and it fared better than that of Mrs. Stouffer, who then carried on in the store room of Lambert & Erhard. Daniel Stouffer then resided in the residence of Nathan H. Baile, and through an acquaintance of Mr. Albert Jones, who was an aid-camp of General Johnson, Mr. Stouffer's residence was made temporary headquarters of the General. Fortunately the town did not suffer greatly by their raid, although an attempt was made to burn the railroad bridge in Englar's meadow, and the old warehouse then belonged to Samuel Hoffman. In their haste to get away, the fires were not attended to, and they were extinguished in the nick of time. Late in the evening the company moved toward Westminster to the great relief of our citizens. Some time afterward the town and community was again invaded by the "rebs," and the farmers this time suffered considerably by the loss of many horses taken by them. Judge L. P. Slingluff, although in sympathy with their cause, had several very fine animals which were taken.

CONCLUSION.—1895.

As a belated traveler, who, having wandered over hill and moorland, reaches a proud eminence, and with a broad breath while to indulge the sense, we will now review the active industries which surround us to-day, and then dismiss our faithful muse.

While our town is not enriched by many manufacturing and enterprises employing large capital and many laborers, it possesses more than scores of other towns of like size in both county and state. The canning industry started by Messrs Baile & Stouffer in 1876, was a highly meritorious enterprise, and proved to be more practical advantage to the town and farming community, than any industry ever established here. Hundreds of hands have been employed each season, and thousands of dollars have been paid annually to farmers for their corn, at a highly remunerative price. At present, the industry is conducted by Joseph A. Stouffer, and the out-put of the cannery is confined to corn which has now a quite a reputation throughout this and the bordering states.

We have one furniture manufacturer and undertaker, Mr. Charles P. Baile. He has the credit of bringing the first steam engine into use in the town, and since 1867 has energetically and successfully conducted his business. Last year he manufactured an upright piano, which has been pronounced by experts to be an excellent instrument.

We have two general stores, and three groceries. The general stores are conducted by Geo. C. Anders and F. J. Devillbiss. Mr. Anders succeeded Devillbiss & Anders in 1880, and has since carried the largest general stock of goods in Carroll county, and commands an established trade from all the neighboring towns. The groceries are Messrs Barnes & Snader, and Barnes & Snader. The former succeeded L. N. Snader in 1872. All have good, lucrative custom. The depot and warehouse is owned and operated by D. S. Snader, who succeeded Peter Engel & Son in 1881. In connection with the depot, Mr. Snader handles lumber, coal, grain, salt, builders' supplies, and does general shipping business. His business is quite extensive, and is an indispensable adjunct to both town and community.

One of our most important and necessary industries is the creamery and ice cream factory. This is operated by A. W. Bloom. His business has been eminently successful, and deservedly so. He manufactures about 4,000 gallons of ice cream annually, and his reputation cannot be exaggerated. An extensive fertilizer plant is now operated by Mr. Jos. A. Stouffer, succeeding D. H. Maynard and Charles Jones, whose ever increasing out-put, fully attests the superiority of his goods. He has combined study and skill in the manipulation and analysis of his several popular brands, and the farmers all know it and appreciate it by their annual duplicate orders. He has demonstrated to them, that if they desire straw or grain, not to sow potato fertilizer, and also that there are such agents, which may be compounded in fertilizers, that will produce just what you want.

We have two excellent hotels, which are appreciated by the traveling public. They are conducted by Louis Diehlman and S. A. Crabbs, and both have a liberal share of patronage. Col. Albee first established the hotel now owned and conducted by Mr. Diehlman, and while it has had several proprietors, none have had the success of its present landlord. It passed into Mr. Diehlman's hands in 1864, and has been improved extensively each year, until now it meets every demand of the large number of summer boarders which quarter within its walls, summer after summer. Many distinguished guests have been entertained there, including representatives of the army and navy, who have at various times been the recipient of a kind and genial hospitality.

The drug store conducted by Mr. L. H. Diehlman, an experienced apothecary, cannot be excelled in any town in the state. His stock of drugs, chemicals and medicines "are up to date," and he has no room for "back numbers."

In addition to two regular practicing physicians, Drs. Brown and Buffington, and has previously, we have a dentist, Dr. John W. Heister, and a veterinary surgeon, Albert Lambert. The former located here in 1887, and is the first resident dentist of the town. He is a regular graduate of the Maryland University, and has brought with him such skill and technique in the operations of his profession, as to establish a patronage which at once insures his permanence. At regular intervals, he makes professional visits to adjacent towns, and has increased his patronage this year beyond all precedent. The association of dental skill with competent business management, has amassed results highly remunerative, and at the same time, eminently satisfactory to his patrons. Mr. Lambert began practicing several years since, and has evinced success in the departments of his calling. It is not easy to imagine a greater degree of satisfaction than his work has proven to his patrons. His success proves his adaptability and skill. Mr. Edwin A. Snader meets every requirement in the harness and saddlery line. His skilled assistant, Mr. M. D. Reid, has won a reputation as an operative, recognized by the general community.

Many years ago, our town fathers built a modest, and non-resisting caboose for emergency cases of disorder, but with the advance of morality and the upward trend of intelligence and self-respect in our citizens, it has been entirely relegated to the chapter of the race, saw and the Inquisition. An occasional tramp, or a waif from some other bourn, have been its only tenants for years.

Mr. A. H. Norris merits the distinction of being the only student attorney our town has ever had. He was admitted to the bar in Westminster, May 16th, 1871, and after practicing here some time, he removed to Pennsylvania. The oldest citizen of our town is Mr. Jesse Lambert, aged about 75 years. Other citizens here have reached that age, and passed it, but were not born in the community. The town contains many strong and substantial residences, belonging to retired farmers, widows and others, who seem to enjoy life. A vigorous and exploiting generation of youths, wrestling with horse and bicycle, strike their sires with profound amazement. Our people are unaware of any limits to hospitality. The thin little French phrase, fin de siècle, fully expresses our living, we are wearing, and the way we are thinking and talking. Nothing good, is too good for us, and the only compliment we pay, is to possess it.

In conclusion, I beg to thank Messrs James Diehlman, Joseph A. Stouffer, Louis Diehlman and others for valuable data in the compilation of my work. While no one is more conscious of its literary and other defects than I, no one knows the hindrances which met me in its presentation; and if I have succeeded in conveying to you from week to week, the attention and sympathy of one gentle reader, (if that kind being breathless), I have secured a great piece of fortune, which liberally compensates me for the outlay. I feel that some future historian may begin with our end, and, as a volume of achieving and pursuing, and peradventure, we, who bear the heat and burden of to-day may be his heroes and heroines.

"But the good deed, through the ages
Lives in history's pages
Brighter grows and gleams immortal,
Unconscious by moth or rust."

THE END.

Mr. Peter Shafer, Sr., the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Middletown, died Wednesday night. He was in his ninety-fourth year and had been a resident of the town for forty years. His wife died about fifteen years ago. He leaves an estate valued at about $75,000, to be divided between some twenty-five or thirty heirs. He leaves no children.

In His Favor.

I came along to the gate of a humble cabin in a town in Alabama, just as an old negro handed a couple of jugs to his son, who was about 10 years of age, and said:
"Loo, yo' gwine down to de grocery an' git a quart o' lasses in one ob dem jugs an' hurry back."

When the boy had gone, I said to the father:
"You didn't tell him to get anything in the grocery, is he going to leave it at the grocery?"

"No, sah—gwine to bring it right back home," he replied.

"But why send two jugs to get a quart of molasses?"

"It's jess his way, sah. If he only took one jug, he'd be powerful stah to bump it or drop it an' lose de lasses. If he takes two, he's jess as liable to drop de empty one as de lasses one, an' dat makes de odds in my favor. Anyting else yo'd like to ax about, white man?"

A Georgia judge warned his people in regard to coming into court, in a joking, and used these words: "I wish to put everybody on notice, that, if they come into this courtroom while I am sitting on this bench drunk, they had better look out."

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Samuel S. Potbury of Bristol, Cal. "I was taken with it, and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before one-half of the bottle had been used I was well, and recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Pegging and Pegging away.

There was an old Shoo-maker, sturdy as steel,
Of great wealth and repute in his day,
Who if questioned his secret of luck to reveal,
Would chirp like a bird on a spray.
"It ain't so much the vocation you're in,
Or your liking for it," he would say,
"As 'tis that forever, through thick and thin,
You should keep up a pegging away."

I have found it a maxim of value whose truth Observation has proved in the main:
And which well might be vaunted a watchword by youth
In the line of hand and of brain,
For even if genius and talent are cast
Into work with the strongest display,
You can never become of account at last,
Unless you keep pegging, pegging away.

There are shomen who might into statesman have grown
Politics for handiwork made,
Some poets who better in shops had shone,
And mechanics best suited for trade;
But when once in the harness, however it fit,
Buckle down to your work night and day,
Secure in the triumph of hand and of wit,
If you only keep pegging away.

There are times in all tasks when the fiend Discontent
Advices a pause or a change,
And of far away and irrelevant bent,
The purpose is returned to the range,
Never heed, but in sound recreation restore
Such traits as are of account in the end,
And then, more persistent and staunch than before,
Keep pegging and pegging away.

Leave titful endeavors for such as would cast
Their spendthrifts' eye to the main,
For this secret of wealth in the present and past,
Lies not in change, nor in sentiment nice,
Nor in wayward exploit and display,
But just in the shoe-maker's homely advice
To keep pegging and pegging away.

Stopping Newspapers.

The story told of Horace Greeley and the man who tried to stop the New York Tribune is going the rounds again. It is old, but it never loses its savor. It was one of the most effective rebukes ever delivered to those intolerant people who would deny the newspapers the freedom of opinion that they demand for themselves.

The story is that an acquaintance of Greeley was at one of the articles in the Tribune and put one of the office and put an end to his subscription. Later in the day he met the editor and said: "Mr. Greeley, I've stopped your paper." "Have you?" inquired Horace, adding, "Well, that's too bad," and the old white hat went flying.

The next morning Greeley encountered his former subscriber again, and he asked him with, "I thought you had stopped the Tribune." "So I did," the other replied, "but I made a mistake," replied Horace, "for I came from the office, and when I left the presses were running as usual, the clerks were as busy as ever, the compositors were hard at work, and the machines going on the same as yesterday and the day before."

"Oh!" ejaculated the old subscriber, "I didn't mean that I stopped the paper. I stopped only my copy of it, because I didn't like one of your editorials."

"Pshaw!" retorted Greeley, "it wasn't worth taking up my time to tell me such a trifle as that. My dear sir, if you expect to control the utterances of the Tribune by the purchase of one copy a day, or if you think to find any newspaper worth reading that will never express convictions at right angles with your own, you are doomed to disappointment."

"The Tribune would not be deserving of respect if it could be coerced by the threat of one subscriber, or a hundred, or ten thousand, or every one it has, to refrain from telling the truth as it sees it. My friend, this is a free country, and the man who does not give freedom of opinion to others does not deserve it himself. Good-bye."

The Firm's Letter to Mr. Einstein.

Mr. Jakie Einstein: Dear Sir—We received your letter of 16th inst. mit route list and expense account. Vat ye vant is orders. We halt plenty of maps of New York state to make up route lists and bak families to make up expenses.

Mr. Einstein, we find in your expenses account an item $2.50 for billiards; please buy no more billiards for us; and also $7.50 for horse and buggy; vere is de horse, and vat did you do mit de buggy?

We send you today by express two boxes cigars. One cost $1.40 per box, the other 90 cents. The one at 1.40 you can smoke yourself, one cigar after each meal; the one at 90 cents you can give your customers.

We also send you samples of an article that cost $7.50 per gross. Sell at $7.35 a dozen. If you might offer it take $2.25. You might offer it as a novelty, as we have it only two years in stock. Do not date any more bills ahead, as the days are longer in summer than in winter.

Without Bloodshed.

They met at the corner of Monroe avenue and Farnes street the other evening, and both jumped back and put their right hands in their pistol pockets.

"Boy, don't yo' put a finger on me!" cried the first in a voice full of menace.

"An' yo' jess be mighty keeful dat yo' don't rub agin me?" replied the second.

"I've got a razor right yere in my pocket!"

"So's I!"

"An' I'll cut yo' right in two at one slash!"

"I'll jess make two pieces of yo' if yo' doan' look out!"

They stood glaring at each other and breathing hard for half a minute, and then the first muttered:

"Next time I go up to see Miss Johnson an' find yo' prognosticatin' around dar sumbody's gwine to git hurt!"

"An' next time I go up dar an' find yo' conclomeratin' in dat parlor dar will be a tragedy!"

"Shoo! Reckon yo' can't skeer me wid big words!"

"An' yo' can't skeer me, neither!"

"I've gwine to precipitate long my way, but yo' jess member de memorail warnin' what I has warned yo' 'bout!"

"Shoo! I've gwine to idealize round de co'n, an' if yo' foller me I'll make yo' co'n der synonym has busted up an' knocked de corporate all to squish!"—M. Quad in Detroit Free Press.

A VALUABLE FIND.

After years of study and labor, there has at last been discovered a sure and never-failing remedy. It has been tested on patients, who have been despaired of ever being cured, the results have been, in every case, wonderful. Groff's Rheumatic Cure is unequalled as a positive remedy in all cases of Chronic and Acute Inflammation Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, especially Ovarian Neuralgia, Dysmenorrhea and all kindred affections. It is also a valuable Blood Purifier, being especially useful in Eczema, Psoriasis, Scrofula, all Glandular Enlargements and diseases of the Liver and Kidneys. Severe attacks are relieved in one to three days and no recidive cure effected in from five to eighteen days. For sale by J. McKellip, Drug gist, Taneytown, Md.

It is the greatest reduction in prices that has been made in years, and not confined to one, two or three special lines, but extending to every department in the house. We are very much crowded with goods and to make a proper display of them we have decided to enlarge our first and second floors. Now you very well know what tearing down and rebuilding means. It means dust all over the fine as well as cheap goods, and the only remedy we know of keeping the dust and sand from getting into the goods is to get the goods away from it, and to accomplish this we have decided to sell the above amount of

at almost one-half the regular value

We shall make this a "MEMORABLE SALE" to our friends, patrons and the public in general in presenting such values, which can only be appreciated by an inspection of the same. When we say that this great "REBUILDING SALE" will surpass all that has gone before, our patrons from near and far are aware that

We Mean to Break all Previous Records for LOW PRICES.

To accommodate those who are unable to visit our store during the daytime we shall keep open at night until 9 o'clock.

There has been, and in all probability never will be again, such great bargains offered in this town, in Summer Suits, as may be found now at ENGLAR'S.
What is left in the way of light and medium weight goods will be sold regardless of value or cost, in order to close all out before beginning on Fall and Winter Suits.

THE CROWN DRILL.

Absolute, Positive Force Feed for Grain, Grass Seed and Fertilizers. No gears to alter, no loose wheels to change, no pinions to lose. Has a continuous polished steel axle, and is geared direct to axle—imparts motion instantly. Sows right or left, or in circles without loss of motion. Can distribute damp or sticky fertilizers evenly. Has the most perfect Fertilizer Attachment in the world, and will sow Plaster and Ashes, when others fail. Perfect self-acting Spring Hoe—no stopping for rocks, stumps or roots. Is warranted to do good work. The lightest draught Drill of any. The CROWN is the leading Drill of to-day.

I carry a Full Line of Crown Drill Repairs, which will be sold only for Cash. Please write at once for circulars and prices.
