HYMENEAL.

LITTLE-WOOD. On the afternoon of November 7th. quite a large gathering assembled at the residence of Pemberton and Anwitness the marriage of their daughter Ida M., to Harvey E. Little. On entering the house, evidence of the happy event greeted the eye at every turn. Hall, conservatory, parlor and dining-room, all showed that the taste of the decorators had been exercised to the fullest extent to render the scene as festive as possible. The the scene as festive as possible. dining room especially was worthy of notice. At one end a large window was filled with potted plants, their glowing colors enhanced by a back ground of green and white. At the other end the door opened into the conservatory and here the same beau-tiful arrangement, on more extensive scale, was displayed—growing plants of every color set off by evergreens and chrysanthemums, both cut and potted. Soon after 3 o'clock, the sounds of the wedding march from Lohengrin, rendered by Mrs. Patterson of Union Bridge, fell upon the ear, and promptly the bridal party entered the par-lor. The attendants were Charles Little, brother of the groom, and Ad-die Hiltabidle, both of Union Bridge. The dresses of the bride and brides-maid were nearly alike—cream India silk, the bride carrying white chrysanthemums; the bridesmaid, white carnations. Two lady friends of the bride acted as ushers.

The ceremony used, was that of the Society of Friends, of which the bride is a member. The contracting parties clasping hands, declare, that in the presence of God and the assembly of relatives and friends, they take each other as man and wife, promising with divine assistance to be faithful until death separates them. A certificate of marriage as contained in the discipline of the Society is used indiscipline of the Society is used instead of the court license. This is signed by the parties, then read, and signed by all present. Fifty-two names were affixed to this paper, including friends from Westminster, New Windsor, Uniontown, Linwood and Union Bridge,

Quite a serious accident happened to Mr Grant Bell's three year old daughter. She was in the mill with her father, who left the mill for a short time; during his absence she went to some of the machinery, was caught in it, and her ear was almost torn off and her hip broken. Dr. R. L. Annan was summoned immediately; no internal injury was received, and she is doing well.

Mr. Lewis Messler and family met with an accident on their way home from Uniontown, where they had attended church, which might have resulted seriously. Mr. Jerry Garner was driving in front of them, and his hitching strap became unloosed, and he got out to fasten it. Mr. Messler not noticing Mr. Garner had stopped until he was too close to the buggy to avoid running the carriage pole into it, pulled on a lock, and one of his horses got his leg in the wheel, breaking the wheel, and running a spoke into its breast, throwing Mr. M. against the dash board, demolishing it. #### We want it too!

At the late election, both Littlestown and New Oxford, Pa., decided by large majorities in favor of a water supply. The plan is, to raise the necessary money on bonds issued and guaranteed by the corporate authorities, which means ownership of the plant by the town, and not by a private firm or stock company, and this is the correct way for all towns to secure water.

Our citizens should begin to consider this question seriously for Taneytown. It is not at all a question of keeping abreast of other towns, for the sake of a name, but whether we will be as willing and anxious to provide ourselves, our homes and propershow that we are awake to our defenseless condition, and that we have the desire and intention not to longer delay securing the remedy.

We have full confidence in the spirit of progress and home protection of our citizens. They have heretofore amply demonstrated that nothing is too good for us, and that such a thing as the town being "finished" is not thought of by the great mass of our people. We have made many improvements during the past ten years, and the town shows it; the people acknowledge it both here and elsewhere, that we have a live progressive town, therefore, let us not only keep our reputation, but go forward.

It can be amply demonstrated, we think, that water works will not add any additional tax to our citizens, except the ten cents on the $100. which we now have the right to levy on the taxable property in the place, and even this amount, it is altogether the first few years. The cost of water to consumers is not a tax, any more has fifteen subscribers here, but no service, and are willing to pay for it.

Even the ten cents increase in our present corporation tax, would not because the rates of fire insurance would undoubtedly be lowered sufficiently to wipe out nearly, or probably all of the extra tax; and, in addition to this, most property owners would likely consider the increased protection afforded by the water, a sufficient reason for carrying less insur-

The Baltimore Sun. in its issue of the day following the election, contained the editorial on the result, reproduced below. We print it because of its intensely patriotic spirit, its beautiful political diction, and because it presents forcibly and truthfully the measure of the responsibility of the new servants of the people. Every good democrat as well as every good citizen can rejoice heartily in the result. #### History of Double Pipe Creek.

Double Pipe Creek is a small village situated on the W. M. R. R., 51 miles from Baltimore, and 17 miles from Westminster, the County Seat of Carroll county. It contains a population of 125, all white, and is located on the western line of Middleburg district, on both banks of Double Pipe Creek stream, in Frederick and arroll counties. Little and Big Pipe Creek unite about 200 yards south of the village, forming Double Pipe Creek, from which the village derives its name. Double Pipe Creek is a stream of considerable size, and would furnish sufficient water power for manufacturing purposes.

The land on which the village now stands, as well as the surrounding vicinity, embracing about 600 acres called "Prosperity," was in 1794 owned by Joshua Delaplane, in which year he founded a large grist mill with a capacity of 100 barrels of flour per day, on the Frederick county per day, on the Frederick county side of the stream of Double Pipe Creek. Joshua Delaplane was a manufacturer of some note in his day, and carried on not only the grist mill, but a woolen mill, on the opposite side of the creek in Carroll county, with saw mill attached to said woolen mill. The woolen mill still stands, but no looms have made music within its walls for these many years, (since 1849.)

The said Joshua Delaplane in 1835 sold his mill properties and land in the vicinity to Henry Waesche, and from 1835 to 1847, no changes of any consequence occurred. In 1849, Henry Waesche sold the milling properties to Henry McKinstry, and a few years later, the land was purchased by Elder Daniel P. Sayler. Waesche, during the "Gold Fever" of 1847, in company with William Waesche, John Landers, Frederick Miller and many Baltimoreans, started to California in search of gold; when the company was crossing the Isthmus of Panama, Henry Waesche and Frederick Miller were taken sick and died. The company was dispersed and Wm. Waesche, son of Henry Waesche, immediately after his father's death, returned home and conducted the milling business for about two years.

At this time there was but one store in the village, which was a general store, and conducted by Charles Hiteshew and Ephraim Stoner. Mr. McKinstry conducted the milling business for about one year, when an epidemic of typhoid fever broke out in the neighborhood; Mr. McKinstry contracted the disease and died. After Mr. McKinstry's death, the milling properties were sold by his heirs to William Annan and Ebenezer Annan, who occupied and ran the grist mill for five or eight years, during which time, the saw mill property washed away. The mill property was purchased by Thomas F. Cover, about 1868, who conducted the milling business about 10 years, when he sold it to Calvin B. Anders. Mr. A. continued the milling business on a large scale, until January 4th., 1883, when the mill was destroyed by The fulling mill was used as a dwelling from about 1863 to 1886 when the building was converted into a

Besides the burning of the mill property, the town suffered a heavy loss in the burning of the hotel (Flavona House) in November, 1892, owned by Frank Stoner, and Wm. H. Moser, proprietor. On October 24th., 1894, the town suffered a much greater loss in the burning of the store and dwelling of F. J. Shorb. the store and dwelling of F. J. Shorb, also the store room owned by Frank Dotterer and occupied by T. J. Kolb & Son, also brick dwelling belonging to F. Dotterer and tenanted by J. Wright Barrick, and blacksmith shop owned by Mrs. Wm. H. Powell. Since the last named fires (1892 and 1894) the burnt buildings have been replaced by large, spacious and hand-some dwellings and store rooms.

The Middle Conference.

Special to the RECORD.)

The Middle Conference of the Maryland Lutheran Synod met at Walk-ersville, Frederick County, on Monday evening and continued in session till Wednesday noon. The opening sermon was preached by the retiring president, Rev. J. H. Barb, of Thurmont. The new officers for the year are, president Rev. J. U. Asper, Sec'y Rev. R. L. Patterson, Treas., Rev. P. H. Miller.

A number of the ministers could not be present. The session of Conference, however, were unusually well attended by the people of the town and country, and mach interest was manifested. The following subjects were discussed: "The Lord's Supper," "Catechisation," "The Relation of the Individual Church member to the work of Missiera". Or Wednesday. evening a large audience assembled n response to an announcement of a P. S. C. E. service.

The handsome brick edifice at Walkersville was built some four or ive years ago and will seat about 300. The congregation numbers over sixty members and is supplied with preaching by Rev. J. U. Asper of the Utica charge. There seems to be a vigorous church life there and a live C. E. society. The congregation was organized a short time only before the erection of the church edifice.

The N. Y. World, says; The time for Spain to reconcile Cuba with partial home rule was before the Cubans had found out their ability to achieve actual independence. There has been nothing in Spain's treatment of Cuba and of Cubans to induce any desire in the island for longer continuance under any form of Spanish rule, however much it may be tempted by concessions. Cuba wants independence now and is apparently able to achieve it.
