In the midst of the lively conversation and gay repartee incident to the occasion, there came the invitation to supper, which was prepared and served in real old Maryland style. Everything which could grace a table upon such an occasion was present in the greatest abundance. A slight interruption to the general festivity was caused by the arrival of the Calathumpian Band which discoursed loud, if not harmonious music, until a sight of the lovely bride and happy groom called forth their loudest cheers, and the dispensing of welcome refreshments caused their broadest smiles. to injure the schools. Commissioner Goulden made but little or no effort to secure his retention as Commissioner, believing in the good old-fashioned doctrine that the office should seek the man, not the man the office. No man from this district has ever accomplished as much for the public schools and given more time to his official duties than the gentleman named. His retirement means pleasure to his family and himself, freedom from worry and labor, and peace and contentment of mind that all men appreciate, and the loss is that of the people, who have good memories, and will repay the party in power in due course of time.

A reception was held at the hospitable home of Elder T. J. Kolb and wife in honor of their daughter Florence, recently married to Edgar H. Koons, son of Jas. H. Koons of Middleburg. Afterward refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cakes, etc.

GOVERNOR BROWN has stated for publication, that he will issue the call for the Carroll County senatorial election, so that the election may be held just previous to the Christmas holidays. He gives such notice in advance, so that the parties may be ready to make nominations as soon as the date is named.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S message to congress is awaited with a considerable degree of interest. Usually such documents are far from entertaining reading, but this time the peculiar situation renders the coming message one of exceptional importance, because of the uncertainty of its character, and because it may sound the cry under which the battle of 1896 may be fought.

This is a "newspaper" before anything else, and there isn't any kind of political "ism" tacked to our main-mast. When the RECORD feels like talking politics, as a news issue, it proposes to do so, but to be classed as a party organ is as far away from our desire as anything can be.

History of Bruceville.

Bruceville is a small village located on Big Pipe Creek, in Middleburg district, about one-half mile north of the junction of the Western Maryland and the Frederick and Pennsyl-land and Pennsyl-l vania Line Railroads. The town was ward Diggs five thousand, three hundred and one acres of land, extending from Keysville along Big Pipe Creek, north of Bruceville—the whole region was called "Bedford." October 31st., 1767, they granted one thousand acres of that tract to Charles Neale. He sold it to George Neale, George Koons and others.

We find at this time, the land south of the creek belonged to John Ross Key. Norman Bruce desiring the Key property for the purpose of erecting a mill on Big Pipe Creek, entered into negotiations with Key, which resulted in an exchange of their estates. Norman Bruce married in 1764, Susanna Key, daughter of Philip Key, of St. Mary's county, the first settler of that name in Ameriea. Philip Key had six children. The third son was Francis, the grandfather of Francis Scott Key. Susauna received from her father by will, fourteen hundred acres of land, being one-half of "Terra Rubra."

Bruce took up large land grants in Frederick county, (now Carroll) and became a large land holder, having in possession the following named Wolf's Den enlarged, 30 acres, in 1784, hundred and eighty acres, together with first grant of five thousand, three hundred and one acres—a grand total of fourteen thousand, eighty-nine and one quarter acres.

The above property contains now several villages, about five flour and grist mills, several factories, shops of various kinds, two railroads, passing various kinds, two railroads passing through said land, with fine stations and warehouses. He was sheriff of Frederick county, an officer in the Revolution, one of the first Justices of the Peace, who formed the County Court of Frederick county, of the new government in 1777, and Justice of the Levy Court in 1803. He had three children; Upton Scott Bruce, who settled near Cumberland on land called the Glades; Charles Key Bruce, who went to Scotland, and the West Indies, and did not return until he was an old man; he brought with him valuable presents, some of them still belonging to the family. He never married and died on Long Island; Elizabeth Key Bruce, a beautiful girl who attended the assembly balls when her father represented his county in the Legislature in 1778 The dresses she wore are still pre served, together with china bearing the Bruce coat of arms. She married John Scott, the nephew of Dr. Upton Scott, of Annapolis.

Norman Bruce died April 25th., 1811. After John Scott married Elizabeth Bruce, he built the large stone house on the hill now owned by Edwin H. Sharetts. It was built about the year 1812, and cost ten thousand dollars. They had five children. Upton Scott, Susanna who died in infancy, Mrs. John Brooke Boyle of Westminster, Mrs. Daniel Swope and Dr. Norman B. Scott, who still survives. John Scott died of sciatic rheumatism, Feb. 28th., 1841. Elizabeth Bruce Scott, his wife, died in 1864 in Westminster, aged 84 years.

Terra Rubra, the farm now owned and occupied by Peter Baumgardner, was the birth-place of "Francis Scott Key," author of Star Spangler Ban-ner, son of John Ross Key. He was born August 1st., 1779, and died in Baltimore January 11th, 1843, and his remains were taken to Frederick city for interment. His carving knife and fork, sold at his sale for $25, is in the possession of a lady formerly of this vicinity. It was at this same place that Roger Brooke Taney was mar-ried January 7th., 1806 to Annie Phebe Charlton Key, only sister of Francis Scott Key.

After Bruce made the exchange of property with Key, he built a dwelling house, the same which is now owned and occupied by Frederick Mehring and sisters. He also erected a large stone mill, owned later by George Mehring, which stood particles. George Mehring, which stood until 1881 when it was destroyed by fire. Nicholas Koons was the earliest blacksmith in the village, and Jesse Cloud kept the hotel where Frederick Mehring now resides. Dr. J. E. H. Liggett was the physician, and a Mr. Trego was the merchant. Hudson and Brooks were prominent farmers, residing near the mill at the time of its erection. What was at one time quite an extensive cemetery, is at present a thick growth of underbrush (located on Mr. S. S. Weant's farm on the Hill, and contains only five graves, the inscriptions thereon being; Basil Brooks. eldest son of Raphael and Jane, died January 24th., 1829, aged 56 years. Robert T. Selkirk Dodds, his wife, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, died April 24th, 1825, aged 73 years John Dodds, their son, died October 17th, 1810, aged 42 years. John Scott, died February 28th, 1841, aged 71 years. A number of graves may be found there with only common field stones, with no lettering of son of Alexandre thereon.

Free School Books.

The annual meeting of the Association of School Commissioners of Maryland, met in Baltimore during the week, and was fully attended by the county and city Superintendents. Among other topics, that of Free Books, was prominently considered, and the committee appointed at the last meeting made its report, and submitted bills which provide for free books and other supplies for the use of pupils, to be furnished by the local boards of commissioners out of the funds derived from the school tax. The report of the committee is as "The committee has studied every

The opinion prevails widely that the solution is to provide free text books, selected and furnished by local school boards at eight years, books have been so selected in Maryland, without the least suspicion of any indirection. "It should be kept in mind that the Constitution of the state has provided for a state system of free public schools; that the rate of state taxation for all purposes is very small com-pared with those of city and county taxes; that, whilst under existing laws, the city of Baltimore and the laws, the city of Baltimore and the counties pay a large part of the expenses of the public schools by local taxes, still it is the manifest intent of the Constitution that the state as a whole should be liberal in providing means of education for the children of all its citizens, without regard to

> While only forty-two Senators are reckoned as Republicans, Messrs. Jones and Stewart, of Nevada, have been so classed in the Congressional Directory, have been invited to Re-Directory, have been invited to Republican cancuses, and are in accord with that party on questions apart from the comage of silver. It would astonish nobody if they should enter the Republican caucus, as Senators from other States who hold exactly the same opinion on the silver question will, since the Senators from Navada are in no proper sense Popularion. Nevada are in no proper sense Popu lists. But it is also entirely possible that, agreeing with the Republicans on nearly all questions, they may prefer Republican to Democratic candidates for officers of the Senate, although they may stay away from any caucus. Mr. Peffer has been in accord with the Republicans on most questions, and is shrewd enough to know that everywhere, and particularly in Kansas, the Populists have lost ground. He has nothing to expect from a Democratic organization, and sacrifice nothing if he should prefer Senate for some years to come, whether they organize it this year or not.

On the lakes it was a wild night, the wind blowing forty miles an hour; many vessels were wrecked and lives lost. It was the severest storm in twenty-five years.

It is thought that the next congress will not make any attempt to pass a nev tariff act, but will aim to enact some measure which will easily and quickly raise sufficient revenue for the needs of the country. The general sentiment among republicans seems to be, that it would be worse $8.00 coats for $6.00, and $6.00 than useless to attempt a fight on any coats for $4.50, and other prices tariff bill, as long as they do not have the entire control of the government.
