Mr. Daniel H. Englar residing near Medford, will remove to North Dakota, with his family, about April 1st. Mr. Robert Cookson, of near Uniontown, and Mr. Harry Englar, son of Mr. Wm. M. Englar, of Medford, will accompany him. It is Mr. Englar's intention to settle in the Red River country.—Carroll News.

The Baltimore base ball club is at Atlanta, Georgia, in training for the opening of the season. Manager Hanlon will keep his men at the club of "limbering up," and it is expected that at the end of a week, the club will be divided into two nines, and scrub games played. All the men have put in appearance.

Mr. Abercrombie introduced a bill in the Legislature aimed at insurance agents and brokers. It provides that any such agent or broker who collects premiums on policies and fails to turn over the money to the company shall, upon conviction, be deemed guilty of a felony, and be sent to the penitentiary for not more than three nor less than one year.

The congressional committee on contested seats, decided on Monday in favor of Hon. Harry Welles Rusk (dem) against Dr. Booz (rep) in the third Maryland district. This shows a decided spirit of fairness on the republican side, particularly as it is thought by many that the next election for President may be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Annie Willett, wife of Jacob Willett, of Hanover, Pa., was burned to death on Tuesday evening. Her clothing caught fire from a coal oil lamp. Rev. J. M. Roth, who occupies a portion of the house, threw the lamp out and made every effort to save her life, but she died soon afterward. She was horribly burned. Mrs. Willett was sixty-seven years old. Mr. Willett was untown at the time of the accident.

The contest in Baltimore, between the Mayor and the City Council, over the question of right to make appointments, will now come before the courts. The council having refused to confirm the appointments made by the Mayor, has in turn made appointments, but the Mayor refuses to administer the oath of office. The appointment of Noble H. Creager, as city collector, will be made a test case, an application being made for a mandamus to compel the Mayor to administer the oath.

Fire on Wednesday morning completely destroyed the Junior Hall, a short distance from Buena Vista Spring Station, on the Western Maryland Railroad, and the adjoining dwelling-house, occupied and owned by Mr. Samuel Ruths. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove in the general merchandise store of Mr. Thaddeus A. Wastler, who occupied the first floor of the hall. The hall was built about three years ago by Pennmar Council, No. 33, Jr., O. U. A. M., of Highfield, and cost about $1,000. It was a frame structure, two stories high. It was partially insured with a Frederick county firm. Merchant Wastler's stock was nearly all consumed and was burned, saved most of the furniture, but the house was burned to the ground. The house was a frame one of two stories. There was an insurance of $1,000 on the dwelling-house and $350 on the hall.

The local veto bill was killed by the state Senate on Thursday. When the measure was taken up debate was resumed on the proposed amendment of Senator Scott to limit the operations of the bill to whole counties and cities, instead of the precincts and election districts. The debate, in which Senators Scott, Johnson, Wilkinson, Thomas A. Smith, Hering, Bruce, Day and Crothers took an active part, turned upon the general merits of the bill. A motion to postpone the measure indefinitely, finally carried.

The little boys, and big one too, who interfere with telephone poles and wires, are likely to get into trouble if they are not careful. Some of the wires are strung so closely together, that the jarring of a pole, or striking or pulling a wire, is apt to cause them to vibrate and become crossed, and, when in that condition, no message can be sent over the wire. The RECORD office wire is one of this kind, easily disarranged, and, on account of the thoughtlessness of boys at play, very often our phone is rendered useless for the time.

The Improvement Association met last Friday evening, and made some progress. A committee consisting of F. M. Yount, Charles E. H. Shriner and A. H. Zolliecker was appointed to canvass the town, explain the objects of the association and endeavor to secure more members. The general interest so far shown, has not been what it should be, but it is hoped that this special effort will result in enlisting the active co-operation of a sufficient number of persons to make the association an assured success. Another meeting will be held this (Friday) evening at 7.30, at which, the officers for the year will be elected. It is not the object of the association to form a combination for the purpose of regulating prices, or in any way interfering with freedom in business transactions, but is primarily an effort to promote the interests of Taneytown in a general way.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Mrs. Mort dies from the effects of Paris Green.

Mrs. Mary E. Mort, wife of William Mort, of New St., this place, died on Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock, from the effects of a dose of Paris Green administered by herself on Monday morning, according to her own confession. During Monday Mrs. Mort complained of feeling sick, but made no intimation that she had taken poison. She vomited freely and complained of pains in her stomach, but the family not being acquainted with symptoms of arsenical poisoning, and suspecting nothing of the kind, were not apprehensive of any fatal ending to her illness.

At night, however, her sufferings increased, and medicine was procured for her, but, as the real trouble was not known, it did no good. On Tuesday morning Dr. C. W. Weaver was called in, and, on being questioned, Mrs. Mort acknowledged having taken two teaspoonfuls of Paris Green, which she had administered to herself, but by this time the poison had thoroughly entered her whole system, and death ensued as stated. It is reported that she had admitted taking the poison, some time previous to the doctor's visit, but did not want any medical attention.

Mrs. Mort gave no coherent reason for the act, except that she had trouble of some kind. It is likely that brooding over troubles, either real or fancied, produced mental aberration which led to self destruction. The funeral took place on Thursday, Rev. A. Bateman of the Reformed church officiating. Interment in Keysville cemetery.

JOHN M. FURNEY.

A Prominent citizen of Union Bridge passes away.

The last weeks issue of the RECORD announced the critical illness of Mr. John M. Furney, and we now announce that his death occurred about 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Mr. Furney was born near Gettysburg, Pa., in the year 1836, remaining there until about 1853, when he moved to this county, locating near New Windsor, remaining there but three years. He then moved to the property owned by Mr. Shepherd Wood, and after living there about 13 years, moved to Union Bridge in 1867, twenty-nine years ago.

He made his residence on Broadway, where he followed undertaking, contracting and building until 1874, when he took his son-in-law, Wm. H. Morningstar, in as partner under the firm name of Furney & Morningstar, continuing the same business, and adding a furniture store, which was conducted by them until about 1886, when they sold out the furniture and undertaking establishment to the late P. H. Shriner, which is still conducted by F. J. Shriner. They then built on Main St., and continued contracting until about 1891, but owing to building being very dull, they started a cigar box factory which is still being carried on. About 3 years ago they bought the bakery of H. E. Littz, which they still carry on, having won a large patronage.

He was a member of the Reformed church of Union Bridge, being one of its originators; also a member of the building committee. He was one of the charter members of Plymouth Lodge of Masons, and was a member in good standing of Wyoming Tribe, No. 37, of Red Men, of Uniontown, Md., and one of the charter members of the O. U. A. M. of Union Bridge.

His age was 69 years, 5 months and 18 days. The funeral will be held this Saturday from his late residence on Main St. Services at the Reformed church conducted by Rev. Spessard, after which interment will be made at Mountain View cemetery. The pall bearers are Messrs. Frederick Green, Wm. Martin, J. C. Wentz, H. C. Gilbert, H. H. Moore and Wm. Dorn, all close friends of the deceased; also, the Tribe of Red Men will furnish six honorary bearers. He leaves a wife, one daughter, two brothers and one sister to mourn his loss.

New Oxford Waterworks.

The New Oxford correspondent of the Hanover Herald, gives the following descriptive item regarding the specifications for the water works designed for that town. The specifications call for the erection of a well and pumping station on land to be purchased on the bank of the Little Conowingo creek, the laying of 6,445 feet of four-inch pipe, 4,970 feet of six-inch pipe and 150 feet of eight-inch pipe, with the necessary valves, branches and fire hydrants, the erection of a stand pipe 16 feet in diameter and 80 feet high upon a suitable foundation, the work to be turned over to the borough in complete working order, with the stand pipe full of water.

The well to be circular, 16 feet in diameter and 16 feet deep from the present surface, with a wall 8 feet above the present surface. The engine house to be a brick building 16x24x10 feet inside measure. The pump to be a duplex or triplex power pump with a capacity of 300 gallons a minute, to be run by a 20-horse power gasoline engine. The fire hydrants are to number 19, and are to be placed as ordered. The stand pipe will be erected on the lot on the corner of Berlin Avenue and Golden Lane. E. M. Kenley, C. E., is to superintend the construction of the work.

A Birthday Social.

The editor of the RECORD has received from Miss Belle C. Helman, Emmitsburg, a very neat and novel invitation to be present at a Birthday Social for the benefit of the Society of the Church of the Incarnation, April 7th, from 7.30 to 10 p. m.

A diminutive white silk sack, tied with ribbon, a visiting card, and a small envelope on which is printed the following lines, make up the "lay out" which is expected to be fully self-explanatory:

"This birthday party is given for you; it is something novel, its something new. We send you some good things to eat. We promise the number shall never be told. Kind friends will give you some good things to eat. And the ladies will furnish a musical treat. The Society, with greeting most hearty. Feel sure you will come to your own birthday party."

Certainly, we responded, with cents, feeling sorry (T) that the amount could not be larger.

Republican Conventions.

The meeting of the State central committee, held in Baltimore on Wednesday, decided that the republican State convention for the election of four delegates at large to the national convention, which will assemble at St. Louis, June 16, and also for nominating two presidential electors at large will be held in Baltimore on Wednesday, April 22.

The second congressional district convention, for the purpose of electing two delegates each to the national convention and one presidential elector, will be held in Baltimore, April 21st. The second district convention to nominate a candidate for congress will be held in Baltimore, September 1st.

The dates for the district primaries and the county convention, have not yet been announced.

Correspondence.

Harney.

Mr. Martin Hess informs us that he has a duck that has laid an egg every morning during the cold weather of the past week, and every morning the egg was found frozen, but instead of being cracked the long way as is when frozen, it is always found to be cracked straight around the thick part of the egg. Now the question is, why does the one crack the long way, and the other straight around? If any one can solve the question, we shall be greatly obliged if he will have it published in the next issue of the RECORD, for our information.

Miss Lottie Schott, who has spent the winter with her sister, Mrs. Jacob Yealy, returned to her home in Baltimore last Saturday. Mr. Wm. Yealy, of this place, accompanied her, and will for a short time be the guest of the Schott family.

Mr. John Stoner has rented Mrs. Wm. Lightner's property, and will move into it in the near future.

The members of the A. O. K. of the M. C. have purchased a dozen new chairs for their hall. This is in the line of improvement; keep on boys, and may you ever grow and prosper.

Mrs. John Orndorff died on last Monday about noon, at her home in Mt. Joy Township. Mrs. Orndorff was a victim of that fatal disease, consumption, and for quite a while it was known that death was fast approaching, but life's tender cord was severed at a time when least expected, and when the sad news was heralded forth, it was a shock to the entire community. Her remains were interred at Two Taverns, on Wednesday morning; funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wire.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. William Snider of Gettysburg, accompanied by a party of ladies and gentlemen spent the evening very pleasantly as the guests of Mr. H. A. Menchey and wife. Some of the young folks of our town were hastily summoned, and the various games of the season were much enjoyed by all until quite a late hour, when all returned to their homes perfectly satisfied with the evening's amusement.

Tuesday being the last day of school at Spangler's, Miss Lizzie Horner, the highly respected teacher, decided to give an entertainment for the benefit of the public. The exercises consisted of music, recitation, tableaux and dialogues. Every part was well performed and showed plainly that Miss Horner knew perfectly well how to entertain the large audience that had assembled. After listening attentively for several hours, all were compelled to say the entertainment was a complete success, and both teacher and scholars separated, highly pleased with their work.

On Wednesday while Mr. Martin Valentine was crossing the bridge at Myers' Mill, a colt that he was driving in a sleigh with an older horse, became frightened and came very near running the team over the edge of the bridge. The old horse had her front feet already off of the edge of the plank on the long span, and Mr. Valentine thought that all were going over board; fortunately they succeeded in getting back. The old horse was badly skinned up, but the colt escaped uninjured. This is the first accident of this kind that has ever occurred at this bridge, but we have often thought that it might be wise to place several more boards along the side of the bridge, so as to make it impossible for horses to jump over.

Conference on Reassessment.

The conference committee on reassessment has reached the point relating to the assessors, and the method of their appointment. Just here politics comes in and as the republicans have a majority of the committee this is some advantage. As has already been explained, the Hering bill provides for minority representation and for the appointment of the assessors by the commissioners of the counties and the Mayor and City Council in Baltimore. This would give the appointments to the democrats in thirteen counties, namely, Anne Arundel, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Wicomico and Worcester.

The Bankard bill puts all the appointments in the hands of the Governor. Senator Randall said that whenever there was a democratic Governor these appointments had been left in his hands, and to take them away from Governor Lowndes was a reflection upon him.

Senator Crothers interrupted him to say that this appointment by the local authorities was the method adopted by the Governor himself.

Senator Randall submitted a compromise. His proposition is that the Governor shall appoint the boards of control and review, and the county and city authorities appoint the assessors. This proposition conflicts with the views of Senators Hering, Smith and Crothers, who are decidedly of the opinion that the county commissioners and the Appeal Tax Court shall act as the appellate board or board of control and review. They argue that the county commissioners is a continuous board, with special knowledge and with an interest in maintaining the assessable basis with a view to keeping the tax rate down for their own credit.

Delegate Cook, of Washington Co., who is an active member of the committee with strong views, made a proposition. He said that notwithstanding all efforts of the committee to keep politics out, it is bound to come to the surface in the House and in the interest of the bill possible objections should be anticipated and met. His proposition was that the election districts shall be grouped together and that the Governor appoint three assessors in each with minority representation. He urged this proposition in an earnest speech. The committee adjourned without coming to any conclusion on the point.

Governor Lowndes has named April 10th as Arbor Day.

Ridge.

Misses Naomi, Marian and Bettie Troxel have returned home from a two weeks visit in Carlisle and Chambersburg. They attended the Commencement of the "Indian Industrial School," also visited the Dickinson College buildings, among them Roster Hall, South and West College, the latter in which their brother rooms. The Denny Recitation Hall which is rapidly approaching completion is a fine structure, costing about $75,000. After spending several days in Carlisle, they bade their brother a reluctant farewell and returned to Chambersburg to enjoy the rest of the time.

Mr. F. A. Maxell, for the past week has been suffering most violently with a headache in his head.

Mrs. James E. Mort, who has been nursing her sick sister, Mrs. Stately, has returned home.

Mr. J. H. Wroth has been confined to the house for several weeks with Lagrippe.

The spelling Bee, which was held at the Ridge school last week, was a brilliant success.

Miss Rosa Wentz who has been lying seriously ill with pneumonia, we are glad to say, is improving.

Mr. J. H. Hawn is erecting a dwelling house on the Ridge.

Party in Union Bridge.

(For the RECORD.)

A most enjoyable surprise party was given to Miss Mabel Straw by her many friends at her home, N. Broadway, Union Bridge, on Friday evening, March 13th. The happy affair was a complete surprise. Miss Gertrude Straw assisted by her sister, Miss Mabel, after recovering from her surprise, received their guests in a charming manner and bade them welcome to the hospitality of their home. The features of the evening were music, recitations and interesting games. Recitations by Misses Louise Rinehart, Lily Phillips and Messrs Orville Wright, Harry Chew and Wilbur White, were much enjoyed. At 11.30 the merry company assembled around the refreshment table, the gentlemen leaning on the arm of their ladies in true leap-year style. There they did full justice to the good things prepared. After solos by Misses Stella Holzenberger, Mary Zumbrun and Minerva Miller, and a quartette by Miss Mabel Straw, Bessie Wentz, Messrs Bernard Straw and Harry Chew, the happy company repaired to their homes, all vowing it to be one of the happiest evenings of their lives.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Straw, Misses Stella Holzenberger, Minerva Miller, Lella Reiser, Kate Reiser, Bessie Wentz, Jessie Baker, Lily Phillips, Mary Zumbrun, Mabel Straw, Louise Rinehart, Mary Repp, Gertrude, Gertrude Straw and Edith Straw; Amy Steele of Baltimore and Nellie West of Philadelphia; Messrs C. E. Gray, T. R. Bond, Frank Wagner, Wilbur White, Chauncey Zumbrun, Erner Englar, William Rinehart, Arthur Shriner, Bernard Straw, Harry Chew, Walter Straw; Orville Wright and Andrew Lester of Baltimore; Arnold Lefevre of Washington.

Chairman Birnie, of the ways and means committee, thinks there will be no change in the state tax rate in consequence of the omnibus and general appropriations bills.

Secretary Carlisle is a candidate for the presidential nomination at Chicago, and a public announcement to that effect will soon be made by one of his close friends in the Senate. This announcement, however, will not be made until President Cleveland has formally stated his purpose not to permit his name to be used in the convention in connection with a third term. It is learned on excellent authority that the President has fully decided upon his course, and it is expected that he will make known his determination within a short time. Although Secretary Olney's name has been considered with favor by Democratic leaders, it is known that he does not desire the nomination. It is undoubtedly true that Mr. Carlisle's candidacy will have the support of Mr. Cleveland and the members of the Cabinet. He will go before the convention as the representative of the "sound money" views of the administration.

Appropriations by the Legislature.

The ways and means committee has reported the general appropriation bills for the support of the State government for the years 1897 and 1898. The appropriations for 1897 show an increase of nearly $120,000 over the bill passed for the current fiscal year. These appropriations do not become available until October 1st. of this year and the same date next year.

The increases include a deficiency of $35,000 for the State National Guard, which has been incurred during the past two years. There is also an additional appropriation of the State National Guard. The adjutant-general's salary is increased to $3,000. This bill which has already passed the Senate and is now pending in the House of Delegates. Of course, if the pending bill is not passed, this item will have to be changed to conform with existing law, which gives the adjutant-general $1,500 a year. There is every indication, however, that the bill will pass. The appropriation for the maintenance of the militia is $45,000 for each year.

The penitentiary is given a special appropriation of $50,000 to be used in the new building now under construction. The reformatory institutions and state hospitals come in for a good share in the increases made. The appropriation to the House of Correction is increased $5,000, making the total $25,000 for this year; the Female House of Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Frederick $5,000 additional; the Maryland school for the Education of Deaf and Dumb and Blind colored children $1,000 increase; the state library $1,000 and the Maryland Asylum and Training school for the Feeble-Minded $1,500 additional. There is also given to the Spring Grove Asylum $20,000 increase to meet a deficiency in its running expenses and $35,000 for the maintenance of the Insane Hospital No. 2. To be located at Springfield, Carroll county. The appropriation bill for 1898 does not, of course, contain these deficiency appropriations nor the increases made to reformatory institutions for special purposes. The bills in the appropriation bill for this year. This includes $10,000 for improvements at the State House, $3,000 to the Maryland Agricultural College and $2,750 to pay for special legislative commissions authorized at the session of 1894. The appropriation for legislative expenses for the session of 1898 is placed at $125,000, the same as provided for this session.

Abuse of Credit.

"Rash borrowers are, unhappily for their victims, hardly ever advertised. If they should gain such notoriety as they merit, many of the yet untrapped might be preserved. But as it is, they go from one neighborhood which they have fleeced to another yet untrapped."

The above clipping from an exchange, might truthfully be made to include those who secure credit, and never pay. One of the greatest evils abroad in our land today, is the ease with which all classes are able to secure credit, which goes to prove that those in business are afflicted with too much amiable weakness, or take too many chances to increase their trade. When the subject is thoroughly sifted, there is very much less need for credit than is the common practice to give, and both giver and receiver suffers eventually from the non-observance of the fact.

Credit, as a system, is a necessity; and nearly all kinds of business is conducted on this system, to a more or less degree, because, no other plan can be devised to take its place. There is, however, a vast difference between credit as a system, and credit as a practice as we know it in the country. Properly, credit is something we are allowed, something we are entitled to, because of certain personal resources owned absolutely by us. It is a trust reposed with regard to an understanding of payment at a future time, based on good name, or a reputation of solvency. The definition being so broad, it is not difficult to understand why the system is one of such great proportions.

We often hear persons wish for a "cash system," but, this would be worthless impossible, as well as unnecessary for general application. It is not the credit system in itself, which is an evil, but it is the abuse of the system, and, a portion of the abuse consists in the unwise giving, and the unnecessary and dishonest soliciting, of credit. The balance of the abuse, lies wholly at the door of the giver of the credit, in not advertising in some way the "dead beats" who have made him a victim. Credit is not only abused in cases where ultimate payment is made, but possibly more frequently because it is "stretched," and because it is secured without real necessity.

In the cities, the system is managed more systematically and satisfactorily than in the country, and is a clear-cut business rule, meant to be observed and enforced. Different firms have different rules; some name ten days, some thirty days, and others sixty days or possibly four months, as the limit of time for the payment of a debt. When the time comes, the debt is expected to be paid, and, if it is not, summary measures are generally taken for its collection. In addition to this system, the mercantile agencies furnish their patrons with information more or less accurate, of the financial standing of every business man in the country, so far as it can be secured, and his record for prompt or slow payment of obligations. The result necessarily is, that business men are compelled to keep their credit good, if they want to get credit. They have no thought of complaining of the system which compels them to "pony up," because they are intelligent enough to know that the general adoption of fixed terms for credit, constitutes one of the important corner stones of a business, which enters largely in fixing the prices at which merchandise can be sold and on which further transactions may be made. The observance of the system benefits the seller, because his future calculations are more realistic, and the buyer, because it teaches him to be cautious and punctual.

In the country, the rule for the credit system to be managed (really not managed at all) on an altogether different system, which is faulty and unbusinesslike from beginning to end. When you find one firm with set terms, which it enforces, there are ten with no terms, or no system entitled to a name as such, and, the consequence is exactly what might be expected. Credit is persistently and shamefully abused. Who is responsible? Every person who has anything to sell, whether it be labor, farm produce or merchandise. Make it a point that what you have to dispose of shall be paid for at a certain time—have terms—then, everybody will be benefitted, and honesty and industry and correct business methods will be at a premium, as they should be.

How is this to be done? Well, the answer is not easy. A system, which is the growth of a century, cannot be overturned in a short time, without a great deal of trouble that it can be changed, however, in a comparatively short time, is a feat, the accomplishment of which, rests with the united action of the people, systematically directed. No honest man need suffer, and the bulk of legitimate credit need not be reduced in the slightest degree, nor would the results be wholly in favor of any particular class or business. The essentials are, honesty, promptness—a regard for the true elements of credit.

The Prodigal Father.

The parable of the prodigal son is a beautiful story and has been told to almost every people and in almost every clime.

It has been the theme of unnumbered sermons and essays, and its little role has been played by a great army of young men in remote as well as in present times.

There are no doubt thousands of young men roaming the world over in "poverty, hunger and dirt" who would gladly return to the parental roof if they only dared, but they are deterred by a fear that the welcome accorded them would be widely different from the one received by the prodigal son of Scripture.

Now, while the prodigal son is held up as a warning to "point a moral and adorn a tale," too little attention has been paid to the prodigal father, although it can be proven that he is directly responsible for the prodigal course taken by the son.

While the prodigal father does not take to the wood, he yet truly does wander from the plane of conduct that would insure a happy home, and he too often wastes the legitimate heritage of his children in riotous living.

It is not enough for the father to supply his son with food, shelter, clothing and education. He should remember his own boyhood, and as far as possible be a companion, counselor, guide and friend to his children as well as their father.

In too many cases he thinks that he is complying with all the requirements of the law of God and of man when he supplies their material needs. Hence so many unhappy homes, so many ruined lives and so many prodigal sons wandering over the earth and eating the bitter husks of sorrow and defeat.

The true father will pour out his love and sympathy upon his children with unstinted measure. He will enter into all their aims and ambitions, and make their surroundings at once so pleasant and so profitable that some will be to them a heaven and they will have no desire to stray into strange and untried fields.

A father should inspire love in his children, and never fear. He should so conduct himself as to be a worthy example for them to follow, and he should win and maintain their respect as well as their affection.

He should fully realize that these children are given to him in trust; that a most portentous responsibility rests upon him, and at the last day their souls may be demanded at his hands.

And when these boys are growing up he should study their inclinations, the bent of their minds, into what direction of trade or profession it may appear to go, and when he is satisfied that the inclination is real and not a pater, he should gratify it so far as the ability to do so is in his power.

Many a bright young boy has been transformed into a wretched prodigal because forced into a trade or business for which he had not the slightest taste or aptitude.

The prodigal father is not a curiosity; he is too plentiful for that, and he is responsible too often for the miserable story of the prodigal son that so frequently reaches the pity and regret of humanity.—N. Y. Advertiser.

Thoughts on Books and Reading.
HOW WE SHOULD READ.

In offering a few more suggestions on the above subject, I may begin by a quotation from an author whose words should have some weight; he says—"The multitude of books which modern readers wade through, may produce distraction as much as culture, and it is to be feared the mere perusal of them leaves no more impression upon the mind, than gazing through the shifting forms of a kaleidoscope does upon the eyes." Reading is often but a mere passive reception of other men's thoughts, there being little or no active effort of the mind.

Much of our reading, too, only imparts a grateful excitement for the moment, without the slightest effect in impressing the mind or building up the character. Many think they are cultivating their minds, when they are only employed in the occupation of killing time, and this business of "time killing" is perhaps more serious than we would like to acknowledge. When time shall be no more, then will remain the vain and bitter regret spoken of by the Wise Man, "Verily they were fools," and in the sense of Holy Writ this involves responsibility and guilt. An old notice read thus: "Lost, the golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward, they are gone forever."

I should add some words on the great evil of what is called "Desultory reading." Just as one leaps from horse to horse, so is a reader of this class known; he is the very type of all that is unsettled, inconstant, and without profit. Says an excellent writer, "It fosters habits of loose and disconnected thought; it turns the memory into a common sewer for rubbish of all kinds to flow through; it relaxes the power of attention, which, of all our faculties, most needs care and is most improved by it."
As hard exercise, if taken in moderation, will not weaken the body, neither will a well regulated course of study weaken the mind. Desultory reading, like all such work, undoes today the progress of yesterday, and leaves only failure. Buttery readers, passing from book to book, rest on none, and derive but little good. Do not jumble books in the head with no fixed plan. Determine your course and keep to it, till you have mastered it. Valuable time is lost when you read without aim or order, and you may get yourself out of the way of real work—a great misfortune for the mind. Better read nothing than to read thus. And again, the desultory reader is not only an aimless plodder, but becomes an insipid absorber of all the views and opinions he reads. He has no character, independence or thoughts of his own. He blindly accepts without reasoning, all that is offered. There is no strength to his mind; all solid strength has been crowded out by the mass of rubbish put in its place. He loses all mental sensibility.

A learned author and writer, lately deceased, points out some serious danger in the reading just mentioned. He says, "The student must set up for himself a well defined standard of excellence; a cultivated taste, that is able to clearly discriminate between a good and a poor man of letters, and the trawly works that now glut the book-market, and a decided firm resolution to waste neither time or talents upon reading that which is useless or very injurious."

To use his very apt illustration, "The man or boy, that permits novel reading, or an aimless reading of any kind, to sap his mental, moral and physical energies, just as the opium-eater destroys this three fold energy by the excessive use of opium, or the drunkard by excessive drink." We should read, too, by subjects, rather than by authors. We may acquire a facility for taking in a page at a glance, and master the contents of a book without troubling about its details. We should read with a view to the value of time, our circumstances, needs and leisure, and the use we may make of the subject matters in our state of life.

Aim at high but practical purposes. Be able to give a reason why you read a book, consider time and personal needs; choose with judgment, think with reflection. Remember, there is much you must omit; time is fleeting. Take pencil in hand when reading—take notes.

It is said of a famous scholar of ancient Greece, that, having a wonderful memory, still he always read the same thing over six times or wrote it over three, before he could remember it. Let your reading be a Columbus voyage, in which nothing will pass without note and speculation. In reading an author have your own mind, and keep your independence.

The Agricultural Epitomist.

For a short time, at least, we will offer the RECORD in combination with The Agricultural Epitomist, for $1.25 a year. The Epitomist, is published in Indianapolis, Indiana; is a 32 page monthly, printed on good white paper, in clear type, and easy to read. From an examination of a number of different issues we pronounce it one of the best periodicals devoted to the interests of the farmer that we have ever seen.

The aim of the paper as set forth by the publishers, is, "to supply a paper for the farmers containing, in condensed and readable form, the most timely and valuable essays, suggestions and records of experience which appear in the world of agricultural literature besides giving, editorially, sound, practical, timely advice on all subjects pertaining to their business."

If you do not receive a sample copy of the Epitomist within a week, call at the RECORD office and see it. The offer applies to new subscribers, or to those who pay up, and pay the extra 25 cents.

HISTORY OF UNIONTOWN.

BY DR. J. J. WEAVER, Jr. - 1896. PART VI.

ST. LUCAS REFORMED CHURCH.

This was the first building for worship erected in Uniontown; it stood in the midst of the cemetery situated on the Buffalo, or Taneytown road, at the north-west corner of the village. It was beautifully located, and as a landmark it was prominent; being situated on a hill, it could be seen for miles in every direction. Its architecture was of the prevalent German character, an exact type of the German Reformed and Lutheran churches which were erected during the last, and the first part of the present century. It was constructed of brick in a very substantial manner, with two stories of large windows.

The interior was thoroughly German in its character, constructed evidently on the plan of many old churches which exist now in Germany, which were the prototypes of the buildings erected by the denominations of German origin in this country, some of which the writer has visited. It was galleried on three sides, said galleries being held up by substantial wooden columns; the pulpit was of the famed "wine glass" variety, with a suspended sounding board overhead; the ceiling was systematically arched.

There were three entrances; the aisles of each were paved with brick, as also was the center of the building. To me, as a youth, the interior as a whole was charming and impressive, and demonstrated the fact that the recollection of the "Father-land" still lingered in the minds of the older members of the congregation when the building was constructed. It was demolished in 1882, being forced to yield to the modernizing ideas of the period.

The congregation which worshipped in this building was mainly composed of a small German Reformed congregation which was organized at Winter's Lutheran church in 1794, and called "Little Pipe Creek congregation," its first record bearing date May 18th, 1794; the aforesaid Winter's Lutheran church having been organized in 1784. As this was a distinctly German settlement, it was evident that both Lutheran and German Reformed emigrated together and that previous to this period the few German Reformed worshipped as a body, with the Lutheran organization, but in 1794 there were settled Reformed settlers in the neighborhood for the purpose of forming an organization of their own.

Their first pastor was Rev. Ludwig Hirsch. The first congregational services were held on Jan. 23rd, 1794, at which two children—Esther, daughter of Jacob Hildabenthal and Elizabeth his wife, and Barbara, daughter of Jacob Hull and Barbara his wife, were baptized, and twenty-four united to form the congregation, to-wit: Jacob Appler, and Maria his wife; John Lambert, and Helena his wife; Gabriel Eisenberger, Sr.; John Eisenberger and Eva, his wife; Gabriel Eisenberger, Jr., and Catharina his wife, and his children, Gabriel; John and Mary Magdalena; John Geiger, and Estlin his wife; Joseph Schütz; John Greenwood and Maria, his wife, and daughters, Margaretha; Esther Heeny; Margaretha Bricker; Anna Maria Shuey and Ludwig Rummel.

The last ministerial service of record of the Rev. Ludwig Hirsch, was performed on July 10, 1804, when he baptized Jesse, son of Jacob and Maria Appler. The Rev. J. C. Becker began to officiate as pastor in August, 1808, and the communicant members of the congregation in 1809 numbered fifteen. In 1813, Rev. Jacob H. Weistling became pastor, and at his first communion services held October 30, 1813, the membership amounted to thirty, with Joseph Greenwood and John Shuey, deacons.

It was under the pastorate of Rev. Weistling that this congregation was removed to Uniontown, and the project of erecting a new church was agitated. At a meeting held on February 28, 1814, of all the members of the German Reformed church who resided within a limited distance, and who were members of the congregations located at Taneytown, Baust's school house and Little Pipe Creek, (Winter's) it was decided to unite said members into one distinct congregation, which congregation should select Uniontown as a central place of worship and to erect a church at said place to be styled "St. Lucas Reformed church," and also resolved "as there have been considerable members who did not understand the German language, that the rectory be authorized to provide a minister of the Reformed religion who was capable of performing divine services in both the English and German languages."

At this meeting, Jacob Appler, Sr., John Greenwood, John Shuey, George Harbaugh and Martin Billmeyer were selected as the building committee, and were authorized to solicit contributions for the erection of said church. The following is a list of subscribers who contributed the sum of ten dollars and more to its erection: Jacob Appler, $25.00, George Harbaugh, $125.00, John Deagon, $10.00, John Greenwood, $95.00, Joseph Greenwood, $70.00, Philip Hiteshue, $50.00, Henry Hiner, $50.00, Jacob Hiteshue, $50.00, Reuben Gist, $50.00, Jacob Formwalt, $35.00, John Shuey, $30.00, R. Thomas, $25.00, George Eckard, $25.00, Abraham Apper, $25.00, Upton S. Reid, George A. Hick, John Yingling, John Riechenacker and Martin Billmeyer, each $20.00, George Hess, $10.00, Jonathan Davis, David Shuey, Jacob Appler, Jr., and Daniel Cover of John, each $15.00, Michael Stover, Thomas bond, Samuel Krag, John C. Thomas, Francis Reid, Abraham Clemmens, Charles Sowers and Robert Dods, each $10.00. The entire amount subscribed by individuals to the erection of St. Lucas' church, amounted to $1317.

On the 9th, of April, 1814, John Yingling, and Margaret his wife, decided to Jacob Appler Sr., Joseph Greenwood, Philip Hiteshue and John Greenwood, "Trustees of St. Lucas Reformed church, and their heirs and successors, one acre of land

The Venezuela Boundary.

The administration has every reason to rejoice over the outlook for a satisfactory termination of the Venezuelan boundary dispute. While war seemed possible three months ago, there is not the faintest prospect now that the relations of this country with Great Britain will be disturbed. The best of understanding seems to exist between the two governments, and this is due to the fact that the boundary dispute has now reached a stage at which an amicable settlement of the Venezuelan affair is almost assured. The manner in which the settlement will be brought about is, of course, a matter of conjecture, for the State Department guards its secrets very closely when it really desires to keep them from the public. But it can be said that an understanding exists between the parties to the boundary dispute—the United States, Great Britain and Venezuela—which makes it almost certain that the question will be finally settled—and not at any very remote period, either—through the peaceful methods of diplomacy supplemented by arbitration.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

What our law-makers have been doing.

FRIDAY. All the business transacted in the Senate was of minor importance. The local veto substitute was taken up and discussed somewhat sharply, but no conclusion was reached; further consideration being postponed until next Tuesday. A number of local measures were introduced in the House. The Senate bill to amend the militia law was favorably reported. Mr. Birnie was granted unanimous leave to introduce the general appropriations bill.

MONDAY. The local veto question came up in the Senate, and was postponed until tomorrow. After the introduction of new bills, a large number of bills were passed, nearly all of which were of a local character. The House also received new bills, and passed bills. The bill limiting the debt of corporations was passed. The bill to amend the divorce law was indefinitely postponed.

TUESDAY. The Senate failed to concur in a message from the House asking for a joint convention for Thursday at 1 p. m. for the election of police commissioners. Discussion of the local veto bill was postponed until Thursday. Senator Randall's bill to systematize legislation was ordered engrossed for a third reading. A bill was passed to appropriate $100 annually to each of the district public school libraries. The bill to enable municipalities to establish and maintain public libraries was ordered engrossed.

WEDNESDAY. Among the bills introduced in the Senate were: By Mr. Crothers, providing that the applicant for a marriage license must be either known by or identified by some one known to the clerk of the court. By Mr. Herling, to provide for the condemnation of water rights by millowners. Unfavorable reports on the bills to abolish the State insurance department, and to erect a department of roads and highways were adopted. After discussion the bill providing for physical education in public schools was ordered to be engrossed. Among the bills passed were the following: To enable railroads to sell live stock and other perishable freight in twenty-four hours under an order of court; to appropriate $100 annually to each county where there are district school libraries in three or more districts, to be applied exclusively to the purchase of books for the libraries.

Leaves to introduce bills in the House of Delegates were obtained: By Mr. McKell, to amend the State constitution so as to permit a vote upon the question of civil service reform. By Mr. Harmonson, to prevent retail liquor dealers from enforcing by law the payment of debts contracted for liquor. By Mr. Ford, to create two new wards in Baltimore city, to be known as the twenty-third and twenty-fourth wards. By Mr. Applegarth, to increase the oyster-house license from $50 to $100. By Mr. Miller, to make fifty-six pounds the uniform weight throughout the State for a bushel of potatoes. The ways and means committee of the House of Delegates reported the general appropriation bills.

(As the bulk of business now disposed of by the two houses each day is very great, it is impossible to give like an intelligent summary of the proceedings, therefore the feature will be discontinued, and the most important items of business will be given under separate headings.—Ed.)

Consul Crittenden reports from Mexico City to the state department that American capitalists have purchased the entire street railway systems of the City of Mexico. The purchase price is stated to be $7,750,000, but the entire transaction including the contemplated re-equipment of the lines, will involve about $30,000,000.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without receiving relief," he says, "until about six months ago, I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by R. S. McKinney, druggist, Taneytown, Md."

Dr. Hanna E. Crossdale Occupies a High Position Among Physicians.

Dr. Hanna E. Crossdale was graduated from the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1870 and since then has had a success in all lines of her profession, which is the merited reward of patient and self-sacrificing effort.

Dr. Crossdale was born at Bennett Square, Chester county, was educated there, and there she was married. To her there were born four children, and at her husband's death she was left with a large sum of money.

She was born four children, and at her husband's death she was left with a large sum of money. Her friends and relatives encouraged the idea, and for four years she patiently studied amid many trials and discouragements, never relaxing her care in the children's education, never failing in her attendance upon their daily needs.

Early in the seventies she was appointed member of the attending board in the gynecological and obstetrical departments of the Woman's Hospital, Twenty-second and North College avenues, a position which she now holds. She is also one of the clinical lecturers in the hospital during the college terms.

In the West Philadelphia Hospital for Women at Forty-first and Parrish streets she is one of the consultants. She is on the consulting staff of the Norris-ton Hospital for the Insane. At these hospitals she performs operations of the gravest character, and she has established her reputation as an able and skillful surgeon.

Not an Impossibility. The first woman lawyer who ever pleaded a case in a New Jersey court received notice of the case inserted in this column from now on bills of sale, too, though it was the first she had ever argued.

Women in the Pulpit. The admission of women into the theological seminary and the pulpit has become so common a fact as to no longer excite notices. Such of them as Rev. Phoebe C. Hanford, Anna Howard Shaw, Ada C. Bowles and Ida C. Hull, in have made a national reputation for eloquence, scholarship and evangelical ability. Nearly all of them have been more than successful in the sacred calling. Not one has ever spotted the white robe of her calling. Rev. Ada Bowles has studied the subject carefully and gives the following interesting statistics as to the number of women ministers. Among the Friends there are 250; the Universalists, 54; the Free Baptists, 54 (estimated); the Disciples, 3; Congregationalists, 20; Unitarians, 24; Protestant Methodists, 7; Jewish, 1, making a total of 513.

The Farm Workshop. Build a Shop, Buy Tools and Make and Mend Things You Need. A farmer who thinks that the point has been reached in labor prices where the producer of crops must either go without skilled labor or do it himself writes on the subject as follows in a communication to Rural New Yorker: "The prices of all kinds of raw materials are low, almost in proportion with farm produce. The partially finished merchandise of the stores and factories is low and reasonable. The only thing that bars the farmer from having all the comforts and many of the luxuries of life is the high prices demanded by skilled labor, so called. Winter work on the farm is getting very scarce. Now, why not hire a cheap hand for the winter to do the necessary chores? Build or utilize a good sized building for a shop, make it warm and comfortable, buy the tools and go at it, to make or mend those things you need. Go ahead with a strong will to succeed; when in doubt on any subject, by a technical work on the subject in hand. The knowledge you need is to be had in book form and the beauty of knowledge in a book is that you can have it on the bench when you need it.

The kits of tools that we have bought and found the most constant use for are of value to us in the order named: Carpenters', blacksmiths', masons and plasterers', painters', glaziers', plumbers', harness makers' and shoemakers'. My rule has been for the last ten years, when we were not pressed for time, when a job came up that required skillful labor, to put a day laborer in my place, buy the tools and go at it. I generally find a job that was strong and often times just as good as anybody could do. And I always had the experience and the tools left, and the job seldom cost half what the skilled artisan would have charged.

There are comfort and independence derived from a job done by oneself that have to be experienced to be realized, and the increase of one's power of observation is wonderful. We are constantly obtaining knowledge from unexpected sources. Very often a chore kind of work totally unexpected. The advice of neighbors often saves dollars. The constant thought of how to do better and better gives new zest to life. Make friends of the master mechanic of your large factory and go to him for advice; the boss always know the trade better, and knowing more are not afraid to tell what they know.

No Purchaser Appeared, consequently my business will be personally conducted as usual this spring and summer. Spring goods will be all in by the second week in April, many of which are already bought. As the past year was a "cleaning up" time, my Spring Stock will be almost wholly of new goods.
