Vol. 2., No. 41.

TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1896.

$1.00 Per Year.

Locals and Personals.

Old exchanges, only 10c a bundle of 100.

In season—spring poetry and fish stories.

Miss Endora Reindollar is in Baltimore, on a visit to her brother Louis.

Prof. Henry Meier was in Washington D. C., this week, on a business trip.

Robert Arnold and W. J. Gallery spent Easter with the family of Mrs. H. J. Arnold.

Miss Anna Elliot will leave for York Springs on Monday—not glad to leave here, but glad to go home.

Republican primaries this (Saturday) afternoon at Buffington's, between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock.

The firm of Kuntz & Wagner, bakers, bought the John Reindollar property on Saturday, for $940.00.

The public schools closed on Friday, and now the little boys are so sorry they don't know what to do—except go fishing.

O. M. Crouse and family, of Westminster, spent the Easter holidays with Mrs. C's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Koutz.

Stone have been hauled for the foundation of the new Lutheran church, and operations will likely commence soon.

Robert Currens will fill the position of clerk in P. B. Englar's store, on the retirement of C. Edgar Myers on Saturday, the 18th.

Editor Seabrook of the Westminster Sentinel is again at his post, having sufficiently recovered from a severe and lengthy attack of the grip.

Again we have been compelled to omit a portion of our correspondence, owing to too many Friday morning letters. This might be avoided if our mails arrived earlier.

Dr. J. H. Gardner, of Westminster, will remove to Harney in the near future, for the active practice of his profession. Dr. Gardner belongs to the Homeopathic school.

Prof. Klinger, of Gettysburg, officiated in the Lutheran church at the services on Saturday and Sunday. Rev. H. H. Weber, of Baltimore, will occupy the pulpit on the 18th.

Next week there will be a general exodus of our merchants to Philadelphia, New York and Baltimore, for spring goods. Watch the advertising columns of the Record for their announcements.

Rev. T. Wagner, of Littlestown, wanted to remove to this place this spring, but could not get a house. Such good citizens should not be kept away for lack of room. Why don't some one build several houses for rent?

Dr. F. H. Seiss is building an office, in connection with his residence. It will not only improve the appearance of his property, but give him much needed room. There will be a waiting room in front, and a private office back.

Mrs. Samuel T. Fleagle, who with her son, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Davidson, of Baltimore St., says in renewing her subscription, "We can't do without the Record, as it is a weekly letter from our former home."

William Fink has built a two story addition to his residence on Frederick St., to be used by Mrs. J. Gardner for her millinery business. The front is quite neat, and contains a large show window for the display of feminine "fixings."

Rev. J. T. Lassell of Uniontown and Pipe Creek M. P. churches, has been removed to Fawn Grove, Pa. He will be succeeded by Rev. B. W. Kindrey. Rev. J. J. Murray is the appointee for Union Bridge, and Rev. W. R. Graham for Westminster.

George H. Birnie, of George H. Birnie & Co., Bankers, Taneytown, attended the First Annual Bankers' Convention of Maryland, held in Baltimore on Thursday and Friday this week. A banquet was held at the Hotel Rennett on Thursday evening.

A copy of The Patriots Bulletin has been received, published in the interest of the new secret political party, the "Patriots of America." It has for its political text book "Coin's Financial School," the author of which, W. H. Harvey, is the head official of the order.

The Lutheran congregation on Monday, elected the following officers: Elder, David Reindollar; deacons, Wm. H. Clats, C. M. Hess; trustees, Dr. G. T. Motter, Dr. F. H. Seiss, E. Reindollar, John E. Hess, P. B. Englar and J. Henry Lambert. The council elected Alfred Anders, sexton.

A State Camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will soon be instituted in this state. There are now 88 camps in operation, while 12 is the necessary number to make application for a state charter. The number of camps, and the membership, has more than doubled within the last eight months.

Mr. Wm. Franklin Kehn, who has been living near Towson, Baltimore Co., Md., for the past two years, paid a flying visit to his many friends, in and around Taneytown during Easter. We are glad to see him looking so well and hearty, and so well pleased with his new home. He expects to make Baltimore Co. his future home, as he removed the remainder of his household goods on Monday.

NOTES FROM EVERYWHERE.

Items of current news boiled down, for busy readers.

The Governor, on Saturday, signed the bill providing for free school books.

The total number of bills introduced in the late legislature was 1093, of which, 437 were Senate bills, and 656 House bills. The total number passed was 673. About 160 were left on the files and the rest were defeated.

The wife of Rev. F. S. Lindaman, of the Littlestown Reformed church, died suddenly last Sunday. She attended church on Good Friday, and that night was taken with spasms. She was about 40 years of age, and leaves a husband and three children.

The State Council Senior Order United American Mechanics met in Frederick, on Tuesday and Wednesday. The Order has increased about thirteen hundred members, and eighteen new councils, during the past year. The next State Council will meet in Cambridge.

There will probably be a "cracker war" in Baltimore. A company of local biscuit manufacturers has been organized to compete with the outside concern styled "The Cracker Trust," which in the last year or two has driven many Baltimore concerns of the same character to the wall.

There is an elderly maiden residing at Silver Run, who is having plenty of offers of marriage. Three parties have already procured license to marry her, but she always says "no" when the time comes. One man has been shot for trying to steal her, and it would not be surprising to hear that some of her rejected suitors had committed suicide. It is a good thing for the county treasury, as it brings in lots of revenue.—Hanover Herald.

The Presbyterian Church in this country will receive nearly $30,000 from the estate of Joseph Price, of Waynesboro, a wealthy bachelor, whose estate was distributed at Chambersburg Pa., on the 6th. The four boards of the Presbyterian Church, of the United States—Home Mission, Foreign Missions, Ministerial Relief and Education—will each receive the sum of $6,438.19, and the Presbyterian church of the town of Waynesboro, will receive $3,000. The balance of the large estate is distributed to relatives and friends.

"Bizz" Rideout, of this district, is a hearty eater, according to report. Last night he distinguished himself by eating the following meal at Mr. W. J. Valentine's store, in this place: 12 large sugar cakes, 6 raw eggs, 6 pickles, 1 pound crackers, 3 bananas, 1 pound mushroom crackers, one pound of French candy and chewed 5 cents worth of Battle Ax tobacco for dessert, while dancing for the boys, after which he said he would have to hurry home or he would be late for supper. The young man is still living.—Emmitsburg Chronicle.

While walking through the open lots between McSherrytown avenue and Carlisle street in Hanover, Pa., on Monday evening George Anthony, a retired farmer living at the edge of town, found the nude body of a baby girl. The head was twisted over its shoulders, piercing the neck, and a ragged hole piercing the heart had been made with some blunt instrument. The body is supposed to have been lying beneath the snow drifts at that point for a month or more. An examination showed that the child was born without a physician's attendance, and that it was probably born where it was found and put to death by its inhuman mother.

Church Service Announcements.

There will be communion services in the U. B. church of this place, on Sunday, April 19th. Rev. J. O. Clippinger, of Greencastle, Pa., will have charge of the service. Preaching Saturday night and Sunday morning at this place; Sunday afternoon and evening at Harney. Preaching Friday evening, the 17th, by Rev. J. P. Anthony. Quarterly conference on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The public are cordially invited to the preaching services.

T. WAGNER, Pastor.

Prayer meeting services will be held in the Lutheran church this Sunday morning at 10 a. m. On the following Sunday, the 19th, regular preaching services will be held by Rev. H. H. Weber, of Baltimore.

MARRIED.

CRAWFORD-DEVILBESS.—On April 8th, near Uniontown, by Rev. J. T. Lassell, Mr. Chas. C. Crawford, of Winfield, to Miss Martha B. Devilbess.

FOWLER-ECKENRODE.—On April 8th, in St. John's Catholic church, Westminster, Mr. William F. Fowler to Miss Ida E. Eckenrode.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free of charge.

TYLER.—On March 9th, in Union Bridge, John Tyler, aged 78 years.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, an Alwise God in His Providence has seen fit to remove by death, our much esteemed friend and neighbor, John A. Tyler, late a resident of Union Bridge.

Resolved, That we, the employees of the Machine Department of the Western Maryland Railroad, where he was an honored employee for over a quarter of a century, hereby express our sorrow at the demise of our friend, who as a strictly honest and genial man, we held in high esteem.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with those who were near and dear to him, especially with his aged and faithful wife, of whom he took pleasure in speaking in terms of praise.

Resolved, That a copy of this tribute be sent to his bereaved family, and published in the Carroll News and Carroll Record.

R. C. NORMAN, Chairman.
JOHN B. EPPLEY, Secretary.
Union Bridge, Md., April 7, 1896.

EASTER SERVICES.

ST. JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The Easter services at this church, which commenced on Palm Sunday, were more beautiful this year than ever before. The pastor, Father Mead, had secured Father A. J. Duke, of Annapolis, a Missionary priest, for the entire week. The sermons and instructions each morning and evening were of a high character, and no doubt produced much good. The services on Easter Sunday were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Father Duke, who sang the high mass and preached at 9:30 o'clock. The choir rendered some choice music selected for the occasion, consisting of "Fanny's Kyrie and Gloria," the Credo, Sanctus and Agnus Dei from Leonard's Mass in E flat; also the Easter hymn, "Regina Coeli." The altar was very beautifully decorated by the sanctuary ladies, with candles and natural flowers. In the evening Father Mead chanted the vespers and the services concluded with a sermon and the Papal Benediction by Father Duke.

No special services were held in the Presbyterian and United Brethren churches.

Lutheran Sexton's Report.

Sexton Miller gives the following statement of the number of times the Lutheran church was in use from Easter 1895 to Easter 1896, the kinds of service held, &c.

Regular day services in church 54; night services 48; Sunday school, 50; Sr. C. E. Meetings 50; Jr. C. E. Meetings 26; Mission Band 23; Women's Missionary Society 11; Mite Society (just formed) 2; Catechism 21; Prayer Meetings 23; Entertainments, Christmas and Easter; 3; Choir practice 12; Council Meetings 13; Congregational meetings 3; Practice for entertainments 22; C. E. Convention once, four sessions; C. E. business meetings 3; Teacher's meetings 3; Weddings 2. The bell was rung on all occasions, 419 times.

The following interments were made in the cemetery during the year: Elizabeth Weaver, Joshua Null, Raymond Weaver, John Bushley, Amos Allison, Rev. Frank H. Elliot, Mary C. Kemp, James Back, Catherine Hawk, Anna R. Royer, David Zentz, Mrs. David Zentz, Virgie Reid and child of John Garner.

To Test the Tax on Mortgages.

The Court of Appeals will be called upon to decide the constitutionality of the section of the reassessment law providing for a tax of 8 per cent on the interest derived from mortgages held by building associations.

To the end that a speedy hearing may be had a pro forma decree has been signed in Circuit Court No. 3 dismissing the bill of Jacob Faust against the Twenty-third German-American Building Association, in which a decree is asked declaring the mortgage tax unconstitutional.

In his petition Mr. Faust states that he is advised that the tax provided by the act of Assembly to be assessed upon the incomes from mortgages is an income tax and applicable to no other species of incomes than those derived from mortgages, and is, therefore, in violation of the bill of rights, unconstitutional and void, in that the tax is a direct tax with respect to a certain class of incomes to be derived from securities upon real estate held and owned by residents of this State.

DEATH OF COL. LONGWELL.

And Dr. Geo. S. Fouke. Two prominent citizens of Carroll.

Col. John K. Longwell died at his home, "Emerald Hill," in Westminster, at 11 p. m. on Thursday. Col. Longwell was born in Gettysburg, Pa., in October, 1810, and was a son of Matthew and Jane Longwell, and was of Scotch Irish descent. He was educated in an academy of Gettysburg and in early life learned the printer's trade in the office of the Adams Sentinel, of Gettysburg. In 1832 he removed to Taneytown, Carroll county, where he established and conducted the Regulator newspaper, which he published about one year. In the spring of 1833, he came to Westminster and established the Carrollonian, a newspaper devoted chiefly to the formation of a new county out of parts of Baltimore and Frederick counties, with a county seat at Westminster.

Colonel Longwell continued the publication of the Carrollonian for about eight years. In 1840 he married the youngest daughter of Major John W. McKeloe, of Taneytown. In 1850 he was elected as a member of the Maryland State Senate from Carroll county, and served in that body for four years. In 1857 he was chosen as a delegate to the state constitutional convention. In 1871 he was again elected to the state Senate. In 1879 he was elected one of the county commissioners of Carroll county, and was chosen president of that body. He was a member of the board of directors of the old Westminster bank, now the Union National, and has been its president for the last thirty-nine years and up to the time of his death. Colonel Longwell was a member of the Piney Creek Presbyterian church, which was organized in 1793.

Dr. George S. Fouke, of Westminster, died Thursday morning at 8:45 o'clock of bronchitis, aged eighty-nine years. Dr. George Silander Fouke was born October 11, 1817, in Shepherdstown, Va. He had been engaged in practicing dentistry in Westminster since 1848. He was regent of Maryland Dental College from 1873 to 1879, and since 1879 has been visitor to the Baltimore Dental College and a member of the State board of dental examiners. He was a graduate of Pennsylvania College and a scholar and a devout Christian gentleman. Dr. Fouke was twice married. He leaves one daughter by the first marriage, Mrs. Bonbrake, wife of Dr. H. X. Bonbrake, of Chambersburg, Pa., and four sons by the second—H. H. Fouke, of Richmond, Va.; Dr. Geo. Dorsey Fouke, of Westminster, Md.; Frank W. Fouke and O. Prescott Fouke, of Baltimore. His second wife was a Miss Dorsey, of Maryland.

Gambler.

Easter services were conducted at Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church on Sunday evening last, in a very impressive manner. Quite an interesting programme was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations, &c.

Rev. Knight, of Finksburg circuit, preached his first sermon to the congregation at Mt. Pleasant church, on Sunday afternoon, April 5th. Together with his cousin Emory Barnes, of Porters, visited friends at this place, on Saturday and Sunday last.

Mr. Robert Gambler, of Oakland Mills, paid a visit to his parents on Friday last.

Mr. George B. Knox is having a well dug on his farm near this place. Messrs Arnold & Garver, contractors, of Gist, had two large loads of apples converted into cider at Mr. Ben. Poolie's Mill, on Saturday.

Mr. Warren L. Shioley is improving his stone property by the erection of a porch, and also by putting in a glass front.

UNIONTOWN NEWS.

Our sister town heard from in full, at last.

Sam Hiltnerbridge has planted his onions.

Thos. H. Roulston will add several hundred peach trees to his orchard this spring, and also plant several thousand current, blackberry and raspberry canes.

Improvements have been made on the Devilbiss property, occupied by Butcher Hann. It is presumed our friend will now spend the rainy days under its shelter.

Town houses are all occupied with two exceptions.

Several small boys have been required to answer to the charge of breaking a few window panes in the public school building, and being found guilty, were ordered to replace the ones broken. But what is to be done with the big boys, young men in fact, who have defaced the property, battered the spouting and broken shutters, and wantonly destroyed adjoining property. Is there no remedy? Let them too replace and repair what they have destroyed. There is nothing to justify this destruction of public property that has been going on here for several years past.

Mrs. Jno. N. Haines, who has been very sick for the past three weeks, is reported to be convalescing. Elder Lewis Selby is also improving.

Rev. J. T. Lassell, who for the past three years has been stationed here as pastor to the Pipe Creek circuit, will go to Fawn Grove, Pa. This will be the first circuit outside of the state of Maryland, that he has served during the many years of his ministry in the M. P. church. His successor here will be the Rev. B. W. Kindley.

Easter was observed in the Church of God by a special service in the evening, by the Sabbath school. The musical part of the programme was directed by Squire Billmyer, with Miss Eva Gilbert, organist. Especially noteworthy were the addresses by Jesse P. Garner and Jacob H. Christie and the singing of Misses Fannie Slonaker and Grace Hamburg. A feature of the service was the presentation of Easter eggs to the scholars and friends of the school.

At the Lutheran church, the regular Easter service was held in the evening, by the Sunday school, and a very good programme was executed. Miss Florence Weaver, in charge of the juniors, pleased the audience through their singing. Collection for church extension amounted to five dollars.

After the regular church service on last Sunday afternoon at the Lutheran church, Nathaniel Heck and Alexander Little were elected elders. Chas. Sittig was elected deacon, and Dr. J. J. Weaver, trustee.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by the Rev. J. T. Lassell, were married, Miss Martha B. Devilbiss, of near this place and Chas. C. Crawford, of Winfield, in the presence of many friends and well wishers. Miss Mamie Devilbiss, of Baltimore, was bridesmaid, and Alva Wilson, of Baltimore, was best man. Albert Crawford, Guy Cookson, Howard Devilbiss and Chas. Wilson were ushers. The couple took the train at Westminster for a short trip. They will be at home after April 18th., at the Waterloo Farm, Winfield, Md.

Messrs Jimmy T. and Tom Lassell have been bringing down many Jack snipes and plovers, during the past few weeks; these birds are now making their migrations north.

John Heck's cigar factory will emigrate to Linwood, Milton Bankard having purchased it.

Improvements will be made to the Church of God and the A. M. E. church properties, this spring, for which preparations are now being made.

The Independent Order Mechanics will celebrate the 3rd., anniversary of the institution of their Lodge here, on Saturday evening April, 18th., by a house warming to the members. A pleasant time is anticipated.

Silver Run.

Our weather prognosticators seem to have missed it badly this time. Some of our prophets predicted the worst of the winter in the first half, while the latter part should end mild. This shows how much they know about it.

Last week was flitting week in full around this place. The following are some of the parties who changed residences. John Maus moved on his farm near here; Wm. Reinaeker from the Maus farm to near Mt. Pleasant; Edward Eckard, barber, into the house vacated by John Maus; Chas. Baumgartner from this village to his farm; Henry Willot from Baumgartner's farm to John Dutterer's farm near here; Dr. C. A. Stultz into the house vacated by Mr. Baumgartner; John Zahn, blacksmith, into Kessel ring's house; Peter Baumgartner from the Slider farm, now owned by Frank Kountz, to near Littlestown, Pa.; Frank Kountz from this village to farm just mentioned.

Mrs. Levi Yingling from near Mt. Pleasant into the house formerly owned by Judge Kuipfle; J. N. Mark to Littlestown, where he has procured a position in the printing office of the Adams County Independent; Mr. David Boxer from his farm into his house at this place; John Copenhaver from his farm vacated by Mr. Mark; Reuben Weller on his property owned of Nelson Study, just vacated by Mr. Copenhaver; J. A. Morelock, from his farm into his house at this place.

The houses in our little town are all taken up. Several houses are occupied by two families.

Correspondence.

Harney.

The Easter entertainment held at the Lutheran church, on last Sunday evening, was largely attended and the service entitled, "The Risen Lord," was well rendered. The appreciation of the evening's entertainment was plainly shown by the liberal contribution for the benefit of church extension.

The Sunday schools at both churches were reorganized on last Sunday afternoon. Judging from the officers elected, we have good reasons to believe that two prosperous schools will be conducted during the coming year.

Last Tuesday while the traveling salesman for the People's Drug Store at Gettysburg, was crossing the small stream commonly known as Lousy Run, he noticed a large fish upon a shallow riffle at the fording. At first sight he thought it was dead, but as he came nearer, he noticed it making a desperate attempt to get over the shallow water. He jumped out of the buggy, and brought it to our town; it measured 19 inches and weighed 4 pounds. It was a white sucker, and the largest we have ever seen.

Harry Myers caught a carp in the net, last Monday, that measured 28 inches and weighed 10 pounds.

Moving being over, the order of the day is somewhat changed, and about the first thing you hear is, "Well how is the mumps?" Quite a number of our young folks are walking around with swollen jaws; fortunately, however, none seem to suffer very much from the disease.

Mr. John Ohler, who has been unable to work for the last three months, opened up his blacksmith shop again on last Monday.

Mr. Samuel McCutcheon is at present afflicted with dropsy. He is 81 years of age, and it is feared the disease may prove fatal.

We are informed that Dr. Gardner of Westminster, has positively decided to locate here, in the near future; we feel confident that the doctor will do well.

Tyrone.

The entertainment at Baust church by the Reformed Missionary society, which was held on Monday evening April 6th., was largely attended, and the program admirably rendered. Too much credit cannot be given to those who had the training of the children, for they all of them did excellently. At 7 o'clock, the program was called by Mr. W. O. Marker, and was attentively listened to by all present. The music was rendered by the Reformed church choir, with May Harmon and Maude Markey, organists, and G. C. Harmon, director.

The program was as follows; Organ voluntary; anthem; invocation; Singing, hymn from church hymnal, 276; reading, "Resurrection Foretold," singing, "Christ is risen," reading, "Resurrection Fulfilled," singing, "Praise the Lord, our Saviour is not sleeping," reading, "The hope and glory of the Resurrection," singing, "Lay of the Bells," recitation, "Easter Echoes," singing, "Easter Tide," recitation, "Floral Alphabet," singing, "Lead me Saviour," dialogue by eight, "The Old Story," singing, "Jesus lives," recitation by Edith Roulston; singing, "Jesus over the grave victorious," Address by pastor. During the collection an anthem was rendered by the choir, the trio part being rendered by G. C. Harmon, Flora Heltrich and Maude Marker, entitled "Hail the glad day." Doxology and Benediction closed the exercises.

Flittings have been the order of the day for the past week.

Rev. Mr. Spessard will have communion at Baust's church on Sunday, April 13th., at 10 o'clock. Preparatory services on Saturday afternoon previous.

Emmitsburg.

The birthday social and musicale, held on Tuesday evening by the ladies of the benevolent society for the benefit of the Reformed church was a perfect success, not only socially but financially. All waited with anxious expectation for the silk sashes to be opened. The sum amounted to nine dollars and forty-four cents. Ice cream, cake and coffee was served; the spacious parlor and dining room was packed.

The following program was rendered: Piano Trio, "Mendelssohn's wedding march," Miss Eva Shulenberger, Mrs. J. K. Wrigley, and Miss Rachael Shulenberger; Solo and chorus "Time will roll the clouds away," choir, assisted by J. E. Hoke and Chas. Hoke; Recitation, "Lascia," Miss Mary S. McNeil; Vocal Duet, "I would that my love," Miss Louise and Mr. N. N. Motter; Piano solo, "Awakening of the Lion," Miss Eva Shulenberger; Solo, with choir accompaniment, "Here is Rest," Mrs. J. K. Wrigley and choir assisted by J. E. Hoke and Chas. Hoke; Spanish Fandango, three guitars and cello, Mrs. A. A. Hack, Misses Eva and Rachael Shulenberger, and J. K. Wrigley; Recitation, "Damon and Pythias," Miss Rachael Shulenberger. Vocal Solo, "The day is done," Mrs. J. K. Wrigley; Piano Duet "Poet and Peasant," Mrs. J. Kay Wrigley and Miss Eva Shulenberger.

Miss Clara Bankard and Mr. Scott Zepp, of Westminster are visiting at Mr. S. N. McNeil's.

During the repairs of the Reformed church, the congregation will worship in the Presbyterian church.

Copperville.

Mrs. H. T. Wantz entertained at tea, on last Monday evening, Mrs. Samuel Wantz, of Tyrone, Miss Anna Keidel, of Baltimore, Mrs. William Arthur and Harry L. Rinehart of Frizellburg, after which, they all went to Taneytown to attend the birthday musicale.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Mr. and J. Frank Sell on last Tuesday evening at their new home near Copperville. At an early hour the guests began to arrive and were cordially received by Mr. and Mrs. Sell. The evening was spent in social games and plays until near midnight, when a table was spread with a bountiful repast which was freely indulged in, after which the good nights were said, and all returned to their homes well pleased with their evening's entertainment.

Those present were Misses Maggie, Florence and Laura Stuller, Olive Garner, Effie Shorb, Maggie Hiltnerbridge, Rena Reindollar, Annie Stewart, Bertie Fessler, Effie Bowers, Carrie Hiltnerbridge; Messrs Bernard Gardner, Joseph Eckard, Irwin Bohn, Harry Fessler, Tolbert Shorb, Earle Phillips, Oscar Hiner, Gus Newcomer, Will Newcomer, Newton Shoemaker, John, George and Addison Sauble, Jesse Angel, Harry Fink, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Sell, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Stuller, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. O. Hiner and Mrs. John Stuller.

Mr. W. E. O. Hiner is in receipt of another letter from Jos. W. Hiner, of Chicago. Mr. Hiner has so far failed to disclose the real object which he has in view, but he has evidently not been idle, as his second letter clearly shows. It has also convinced W. E. O. Hiner that he is not a descendant of Conrad Hiner, but that his great-grandfather, Herbert Hiner, and Conrad were brothers. We do have positive evidence that some of the Carroll county and Frederick county Hiners were at one time quite intimate. Twenty years ago the relationship of these two branches of the family could have ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11th., 1896.

BY THE WAY—what has become of explorer Nansen and the North Pole?

QUAY AND PLATT are in Florida together, "trying to get away from politics." It's dollars to doughnuts that they are down there fixing up a job to get away with something.

THE FORTHCOMING Treasury statement will show a deficit for March of about $1,300,000, and for the past nine months, $18,819,708. It is about time to raise more revenue, or spend less money. There is no real necessity for an increase in our public debt.

THE question of the constitutional-ity of the mortgage tax clause of the assessment law will be tested in the Court of Appeals. This is another demonstration of the fact that there is something radically wrong with the constitution of some people, when they exhaust every means in their power to evade meeting their just obligations. Too many people are un-patriotic enough to want to have the protection of the state—the benefit of the laws—yet do not want to pay their just proportion toward keeping the machine in operation. It is simply stealing, under another name.

Our Special articles.

The RECORD will publish during the summer, a number of special articles by accomplished writers on subjects which will be very interesting and instructive to our readers. As soon as possible, a list of the topics will be announced, when allowed. We do not desire, to avoid the many old features of county papers, but to improve on them, and add new features not heretofore specially attempted by papers of this class, feeling sure that there is room for improvement, and that country readers desire to see progress in country journalism as well as elsewhere.

The publication of the local histories, now drawing to a close, has been universally commended and substantially appreciated. It is our purpose to follow this feature with others, out of the usual range of papers such as the RECORD, some of which have been suggested by the histories, and others by the general demand for variety, entertainment and knowledge, in addition to the regular quota of the week's news as it comes to us.

In addition to the attractions above mentioned, we hope to be able to present our readers with a more satisfactory typographical appearance, which means that a new dress of type will likely be purchased during the summer. Our constantly increasing subscription list guarantees a continuance of our excellent advertising patronage, and this means that we can make improvements—and will make them—as rapidly as possible.

The RECORD again asks for suggestions from its friends, which may be made use of for its good, and that of the people—believing that sentiment should mould the paper, rather than vice-versa. We cannot always see the way clear to the adoption of advice received; nevertheless, it has its weight, and probably in some indirect way produces some good. Just now we would like to hear from those who will suggest some special topic for future use, or, better still, offer their services.

Village Improvement Societies.

A subject which is being considerably agitated nowadays, is what is known as "village improvement," through the means of societies formed for the purpose indicated exactly by the name. Heretofore, villages have been left to get along as best they can, until finally an Act of Incorporation is secured, which is often delayed by opposition, long after the necessity for it exists. Even then, improvement is often retarded by litigation, incompetent officials and numerous difficulties. There does not seem to be any real reason why every village, even if it contains but a dozen houses, should not take on the air of a town, and secure at least some of the advantages and comforts of a municipality.

While each village must, to a large extent, work the "Improvement Societies" on its own lines, without the guidance in detail of any other previously formed society, yet certain plans and methods of procedure may easily apply in all cases, and, by securing a consensus of ideas, may have to depend to but a small extent on original and untried plans. In order to give villages in this section something to start with, and to give a general idea of what "Village Improvement Societies" mean in a general way, the RECORD gives space to a number of extracts from an article by John Gilmer Speed in the April Ladies' Home Journal.

"A Village Improvement Society should be a pure democracy, and within its membership it should embrace every man and woman of good repute in the neighborhood, and besides this there should be established an auxiliary league of children. This league should be asked, and urged, and instructed to assist the main society. Such societies are usually supported by fees and dues. This is very well in a village where the majority of the people are quite prosperous and usually have a store of ready money at their disposal. But even in such places I prefer the method of supporting the society by purely voluntary subscriptions of money, labor and material. Labor is just as good as money, and is given much more freely by all save those who are rich."

After canvassing the matter Mr. Speed suggests a public meeting, to be addressed by some one familiar with the details of the work, preceding preliminary organization, and the adoption of a constitution. Permanent officers and committees should be named at the first meeting, and preceding the second one the first labor day should be observed.

"On that day all the men and women in the village should congregate to work under the direction of the executive committee, and the ladies or the society should provide a picnic luncheon for the workers that day. In some untidy villages the whole of the first labor day might be given to cleaning up; in others the sidewalk might be put in better order, or pieces of new sidewalk constructed; in nearly every village it would be a good thing to tidy up the grounds and fence of the public schoolhouse in order. But there are always very obvious needs everywhere before the advent of the village improver. But what is done that day should be done with some thoroughness, and the noonday luncheon is apt to invest the day with some of the characteristics of a festival. What is done will be discussed in every house of the village, and the achievements will inspire confidence or provoke criticism."

"The property owners of a village cannot make a better paying investment than in the maintenance of a well-organized Village Improvement Society. Through such a society the value of every piece of property in a village, and the neighborhood thereof, may be enhanced in value; village life may be made to take on new interests and new dignities; stagnation may be kindled into an exhilarating activity. Let the people become interested in a Village Improvement Society and they will soon begin to discuss plans and policies with a gratifying alertness. They will argue over the best way of establishing a fire department; they will study drainage and sanitation; they will recognize the value of street lights when the moon is shining on another part of the world; and when they vote on these questions they will vote with entire intelligence, and they will go away from the meeting refreshed by what they have heard, and what they have done."

Indeed, the meeting of a Village Improvement Society should be of great value to the intellectual life of the community; and in a measure, at least, take the place in the training which used to be a part of the equipment of every American freeman, when the town meeting was a local parliament, and the neighborhood affairs were regulated by a vote of the electors. But the managers of a Village Improvement Society must always bear in mind that what the society does is by general consent, and that their zeal in their operations, or that of the executive committee, to work improvements, is no reason for them to entertain the delusion that they are the owners of the town."

Mr. Speed suggests the adoption of a simple constitution at the first meeting. This, of course, can only be accomplished through the efforts of a self-appointed committee, whose work has been done in anticipation of the meeting, and which will likely be adopted because no one not in the secret has anything prepared. While this may work all right in most cases, it has the appearance of "cut and dry" work, or "ring rule," which does not seem advisable in matters of this kind, in which complete success depends on thorough harmony and the full recognition of mutual rights and privileges. The RECORD, therefore, advises the appointment of a committee at the first meeting to frame a constitution and by-laws, which will submit its work at the next meeting for correction and adoption.

The officers of the society should consist of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and say three directors; the latter to act with the four officers first named, forming a board of seven managers, of which the president should be the head. After organization, means should be devised to secure cash, by contributions or otherwise, and plans laid for doing the actual work contemplated by the society. It is essential that the officers should be only persons in thorough sympathy with the work, who will push the improvements energetically. It often occurs that after things of this kind have been talked over, officers elected and constitution adopted, that the interest of many drops to zero because they have had their curiosity satisfied, have found out "what they want to do" and afterwards are more ready to criticize than assist the work. In this possibility, which is almost sure to be a certainty, is seen the necessity for making no mistake in the selection of good, pushing, enthusiastic officers, who will proceed with the work without becoming easily discouraged.

We feel sure that many towns in our country could profitably take up this improvement question for consideration; possibly it is a little late, but, if the spirit of improvement and enterprise exists as it should, organization can be effected in a short time, and, before summer comes, many careless-looking, ill-kept and unattractive places, can be turned into veritable little cities, lacking only the greater advantages, and, best of all, it can be done with little cash outlay, but not without work.

Treading on Toes.

A great many people (well meaning people too, Christians—at least they think so) the Church and call themselves such) protest against preachers taking any part in outside matters, discussing public questions or denouncing public evils, shams and crimes from the pulpit. They sternly insist that the preacher must confine himself strictly to theology and avoid the slightest danger of treading on anybody's toes. They prefer that he shall dress in spotless black, part his hair in the middle if he is not too bald, look stylish in the pulpit, read a chapter in the Bible, give out a hymn or two, deliver a prayer or two, smoothly intone a few placid platitudes, and dismiss them with a round and unctuous benediction. But he must be careful and not tread upon any person's toes.

Now, preachers of the Gospel are supposed to be followers of Christ and to preach His doctrine, but can they do so without treading upon a great many persons' toes? If the New Testament is a correct history of the life and doings of the Saviour of mankind, He was not in the least bit squeamish about treading on people's toes. He denounced the money-changers and the Scribes and Pharisees. He was outspoken and unsparing in His denunciation of fraud and corruption and misuse of power and tyranny. He did not spare either the rich or the powerful, and the highest rulers of the world felt the sting of His righteous indignation and His wrath.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Now, how can His Gospel be preached truthfully unless it is preached in its entirety? How can His disciples follow Him unless they take, as He took, an active part in all matters of public discussion? The Scribes and Pharisees are as plentiful now as they were in Christ's day, probably more so. They still grind the faces of the poor, rob widows' houses, cheat the orphan out of their birthright, steal the life of a peasant to serve the devil in, and for a pretense, make long prayers. If the servants of Almighty God are not to denounce those who seek to destroy His kingdom upon whom does such duty fall? If the chosen disciples of Christ are not to expose those who daily endeavor to crucify Him anew, who is to engage in this most necessary and laudable work?

The press does it, and the pulpit should go hand in hand with the press in denouncing crime and outrage wherever it is found; in exploring fraud and hypocrisy wherever it raises its head, and in holding up to the scorn and contempt of the good people of the land the rascally pretenses of the wolves in sheep's clothing.

The pulpit as well as the press should find its duty in opening the eyes of the people to the dangers that beset them on every hand; in endeavoring to check the tide of evil that is sweeping over the country, and in the effort to make virtue show better than vice by comparison.

In other words, the preacher who does not tread upon a great many toes during his occupancy of the pulpit has mistaken his calling, and should embark in some other business.

It is only by the ceaseless treading upon toes that abuses in high and low places are corrected; that men in power are kept within the limits of right and justice; that rich criminals sometimes find their way into the penitentiary; that scoundrels are driven from the temples that they are disgracing by their presence; that the poor and feeble are allowed any privileges whatever, and that the people are guarded from becoming abject and absolute slaves.

It is the duty of every pastor in the land to take part in every movement for the advancement of mankind, for the vindication of the right and for the punishment of the wrong. He must not hesitate for fear of treading upon some one's toes.

But here the question comes up—and it is a sad reproach to Christianity and civilization to have to entertain such a question—dare any preacher adopt such a rule of action, unless he is a man of transcendent talent, has an income entirely independent of all church emolument, or is absolutely sure that there are no Scribes or Pharisees numbered in his own congregation?—Ed.

The situation in Cuba.

The fullest and most reliable account of the Cuban insurrection that has yet found its way into periodical literature appears in the April Review of Reviews from the pen of that veteran journalist and war correspondent, Murat Halstead, who has only recently returned from an extended sojourn in Cuba. Mr. Halstead's article embodies much fresh and important material of the greatest interest—for example, the proclamation issued by General Gomez in December last, General Weyler's statement in reply to questions of Mr. Halstead concerning Spanish policy in Cuba, and specimens of the work of the press censor, besides a vast amount of statistical data impossible to obtain except by personal visitation and inquiry. Mr. Halstead has had access to all the sources of trustworthy information on both sides of the present contest, and has utilized the knowledge thus gained with the skill of the practiced writer of current history. His whole aim has been to get at the truth and present it impartially. The portraits of Cuban leaders which accompany Mr. Halstead's article are all reproductions of photographs or of drawings made in the field from life. The portrait of General Gomez, which serves as the frontispiece of the magazine, is considered the best ever published.

Woman's progress in Korea.
Among the many interesting facts to be gathered from Mr. Savage Landor's book on Korea, lately published, by no means the least striking is the author's statement that the native queen "is much in favor of the emancipation of the Korean women."

But unfortunately the sympathy of her Korean majesty does not seem at present to have done much toward improving the lot of her feminine subjects, for we are told that work of every kind is done by the women alone, who are practically the slaves of their husbands.

It would seem, after all, that the Korean queen's leaning toward general feminine "emancipation" is nothing more than what theologians call a "pious opinion," for Mr. Savage Landor says "there are longues in Seoul that say that the queen actually rules the king, and therefore through him the country, and that he is more afraid of her gracious majesty, his wife, than of the very devil himself."

If this be so, the queen seems rather selfishly inclined to confine the practical realization of her "new woman" theories to her own palace.—Lady's Pictorial.

Kate Field on Suffrage.

Kate Field does not believe that many women desire to vote, although she believes in their inherent right to the ballot. She says, in a recent interview on the subject:
"Women are not sufficiently enlightened on the subject to want suffrage, and I am not so sure that it is wise to give anybody anything unless they show a desire for it. They would be just like deadheads, who always growl. They never appreciate what they get, while those who pay their way sit out the show, and generally like it. I believe in the justice of women's suffrage. I believe they have as much right to it as men. I don't see that women in Wyoming and Colorado are a bit different from the women in the States where they have no suffrage."

"Women want some mental distraction. They want to get away from the humdrum existence they lead. Men have their clubs and political meetings and such things to give spice to their lives, but do not appreciate the narrowness of the circle in which women move. When women have such serious things as politics to interest them they will drop a great deal that is trifling. If anything in the world could reduce the number of hours women devote to shopping, what a blessing it would be! There are no gadders on earth like American women. If they gadded to some purpose—if they took up fine cooking or artistic dressing for instance—it would be different."

Onnces of Prevention.

"Salt added to new milk will curdle it; therefore, in preparing porridge, custards or gravies, do not add the salt until the last thing."

Clover tea is excellent for purifying the blood, clearing the complexion and removing pimples. Dried clover may be used for the tea.

Do not wash oleoethers or linoleum in hot soapsuds. Wash them with tepid water and wipea cloth dampened in equal parts of cold milk and water.

To remove the finger marks from varnished furniture rub them with a cloth dampened with sweet oil. To remove them from oiled furniture use kerosene oil.

To prevent a bruise from discoloring apply immediately hot water, or, if that is not at hand, moisten some dry starch with cold water and cover the bruised place.

When baking cake, on removing it from the oven place the tin containing the cake on a damp towel for a moment, and the cake will readily be taken from the tin without sticking.

To set color and prevent delicate colored fabrics and dainties from fading when washed, dissolve five cents' worth of sugar of lead in a pail of cold water and soak the garment in it two hours; then rinse and wash.

To stain wood to look like ebony take a solution of sulphate of iron and wash the wood over twice. When the wood becomes dry apply two or three coats of a strong decoction of logwood. Wipe the wood dry and polish with a flannel wet in linseed oil.

In filling cracks in plaster mix plaster of paris with vinegar instead of water. It will be like a mass of putty. Push it into the cracks and smooth it over with an old cake knife. The plaster will not become hard for half an hour if mixed with vinegar, but if the water is used it will become hard immediately, almost before you have time to use it.

The American Kitchen.

A French chef has jotted down in his notebook a few of the causes of waste in an American kitchen:
Scraps of meat are thrown away.
Cold potatoes are left to sour and spoil.
Dried fruits are not looked after and become wormy.
Vinegar and sauce are left standing in tin.

The tea canister and coffee box are left open.
Bones of meat and the carcass of turkey are thrown away, when they could be used in making good soups.
Sugar, tea, coffee and rice are carelessly spilled in handling.
Soap is left to dissolve and waste in water.
Dish towels are used for dish cloths, napkins for dish towels and towels for holders.
Brooms and mops are not hung up. More coal is burned than necessary by not closing dampers when the fire is not used.
Lights are left burning when not in use.
Tin dishes are not properly cleaned and dried.
Good new brooms are used to scrub kitchen floors.—The Chef.

If you find yourself irritated and unhappy, take hold of yourself by the collar and set yourself down hard, and say to yourself: "Well, what is it? Suppose that is so, how long will it stay so? What difference will it make a short time from now? A good night's sleep will dissipate the most of it. If nothing else will remedy it, death will, and that is not very far away. Why should I allow the brief time I have to be happy in this brief life to be turned into misery? I will not permit myself to be fretted and chafed and embittered. Then go and dash cold water over your head, and take hold of some sort of work."

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

TRICKS OF HORSE SHARPS.

Some of those that are said to be Practiced down in Tennessee.

The greatest day in every county in Tennessee and other southern states is "horse swapping" day, which comes to the county seat the first Monday in each month and the other towns on every other Saturday. It is one of the oldest customs of the country and each county numbers hundreds of men who make their living on the profits of horse swapping. There are about 65,000 of these horse traders in Tennessee alone. Some grow rich and others grow poor by it.

There are lots of tricks about this business," said one of the horse traders, "and I'll give you some pointers that everybody doesn't know. Unless a man is accustomed to horses it's the greatest folly in the world to depend upon his own knowledge in purchasing for the horse swappers make their living by bringing up horses with all sorts of defects, and their art enables them to cover them long enough to make a good sale. These tricks are practiced in buying as well as selling."

"When a man wants to make a true pulling horse balk he mixes corrosive sublimate and tincture of cantharides and applies it to his shoulders. To make a horse appear lame a single hair is stuck from his tail and run through the eye of a needle; the front leg is lifted, the skin pressed between the middle and outer tendon, and the needle shoved through. The horse will go lame in 30 minutes. To make a horse stand by his food and not eat it, his front teeth are greased with tallow, and he will not eat until it is washed out. A fine wire fastened tight around the fetlock between the foot and heel will make a horse appear as if badly foundered. The hooves are covered up by a half pound of birdshot given to the horse. When a jockey wants to 'nerve' a horse that is lame he makes a small incision about half way from the knee to the joint on the outside of the leg. At the back part of the shinbone is a small cord, which is cut off and stitched. The horse will walk on the hardest pavement and not limp a particle. When a horse goes dead lame in one shoulder it is disguised by creating a similar lameness in the corresponding leg by taking off the shoe and inserting a bean between it and the foot."

"Black spots are put on a horse by applying a mixture of lime and litharge. A star is put on a horse easily enough. A piece of towel the size of the desired star is spread on the part and warm pitch applied. After two days it is washed until the hairs grow out white. Old horses are made to appear young by filling down the teeth and removing the dark markings with a hot iron. The depressions over the eye are filled up by puncturing the skin over the eye and filling the tube by air from the mouth, then closing the aperture."

The average tree peddler is to be avoided. Buy what you need direct from some reliable nurseryman, and you'll get what you want at reasonable prices.

Nearly every seedsman in the whole country is out with some new variety of potato this season, that is the "largest yielder" of anything yet introduced to the public. We hope all of them have some basis of truth in their claims.

The successful fruit grower works for a good reputation as well as the finest fruits. Others as it is necessary to succeed as the other. It takes longer to get the reputation than it does the fruits, and it should be maintained at all hazards.

In every neighborhood where special attention is given to gardening or fruit growing there should be a horticultural society. There is always some good seed sown at these meetings, and they help to make one enthusiastic in the business.

If you haven't lots of grapes don't allow the coming spring to pass you by without starting a dozen or so vines. They soon come into bearing and furnish us with the most luscious of fruits the whole season through, by having a well selected variety.

Electricity and bicycles will never hurt the fruit business. Inventive genius will never discover the means necessary to produce artificial apples that will become popular on the market. There is nothing ahead to discourage the industrious horticulturist.

While wheat and clover have frozen out badly in this locality it seems that winter oats are coming through nicely. The greenest fields we have lately seen were those of winter oats. They will make some good early pasture, and must be pastured if a good crop of grain is secured.

If you have unproductive fruit trees in your orchard try grafting some desirable sorts in several of the limbs this season. This will give you good fruit earlier and more abundantly than if you should cut down the tree and plant another in its place. And the new one might not do so well.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE CHAIRMAN OF PRESS COMMITTEE OF THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION.

Women Who Work at Building Roads—An Enterprising South Georgia Woman. Women in the Pulpit—Persecuting a Woman—Glas Dress and Curtains.

The woman editor may be, and probably is, indigenous to the north, but the confines were extended when Maude Andrews Ohl took charge of the "better half" of the Atlanta Constitution. That event happened several years ago, while she was still a struggling, ambitious girl and before her marriage to Mr. Joe Ohl, one of the editors of that paper.

In person Maude Andrews Ohl is a most charming woman, a gracious hostess and a pleasing guest. In fact, she is a true "daughter of Dixie" and just one's ideal of a sunny southern sister. Her home is situated on one of Atlanta's prettiest residence streets, and its hospitable doors have welcomed many a guest who still holds dear the sweet remembrance of a delightful entertainment. Mrs. Ohl is proud of the fact that she is an excellent cook, and I doubt not that this accomplishment gives her friends quite as much satisfaction as it brings to herself.

She is always exquisitely gowned, and her dresses are of her own designing and selection.

It is to her house that all the young people flock when they want help in arranging some gayety or crave a sympathetic ear in which to whisper their heart's troubles and delights. Her pretty home is furnished in the luxurious fashion of the aristocracy for which Mrs. Ohl has a strong partiality, which may be accounted for in the strange mingling of blood that flows in her veins. "The ruddy tide from the olden dukes of Buckingham crosses the redder blood of passionate Paris; the chill pulse of Danish nobility thrills with the beatings of Gallic vivacity."

Mrs. Ohl is just now brought prominently before the public eye of the public as the president of the press committee of the Atlanta exposition. She has been one of its hardest workers from the beginning. The interior decorations of the pressroom in the Woman's building are entirely of her selection and arrangement, and everywhere in this much frequented spot the touch of the original predominates. When in the pressroom, she is ever ready to greet all out of town newspaper women who may accept the kind invitation that is tacked outside the door to bid them enter and "make this their business headquarters during their sojourn in Atlanta."—New York Record.

The Athletic Girl.
It is a cheering feature of the new woman movement that the athletic girl is coming to the front in a prompt and sprightly manner. For a long time she has been the attractive heroine of fiction. Now she is the equally attractive heroine of fact. Hitherto it has been the English girl who has been held up as the model for the American girl to follow in all departments of physical culture. Now the American girl is fast demonstrating her physical superiority over her Irish checked English cousin.

All admirers of graceful, athletic, robust and patrician are entirely out of place anywhere outside of the society of the American girl. Another creature has taken her place. She has as good an education as the girl of the old times, and she has besides this the boon of health and strength adding to her sweet whole-someness.—Chicago Post.

Women's Rights in Germany.
Only so far as the legal position of the married woman may exercise a moral influence on the life of the married is it necessary to say a word of the legal foundation of marriage in Germany. It rests entirely on the view of the superiority of man, of the subordinate position of woman. Even the notion that she is bought by her husband survives, in however slight a form, in the ceremony of betrothal. Her husband is her master, her guardian, her natural supporter. Above all he is her educator. She shares his rank, his name, his dignities, his fortune, but without him she cannot administer her own. "In the domain of all she remains a subject," Bohm argues, "and if she reigns at all it must be by the free will of man."

In the country like Germany, where, in all matters connected with moral and intellectual life, the links of tradition have never been severed, the present is explained by the past. Disdainful silence is the mildest form of criticism opponents will offer whenever the platform or the professional chair the attempt is made to plead in favor of women's political rights. On this point all the female advocates of the emancipation of their sex are unanimous in their lamentations.—Boston Post.

After a Bargain.
"A dollar!" she exclaimed when the clerk had told her the price. "Why, that's exorbitant."
"We can't afford to sell it for any less," replied the clerk.
"Well, I know what I can get it for less," she returned, "and I am too good a business woman to pay more than a thing is worth."

And then she marched out of the store and paid ten cents for ear fans to go to a place where she could get the same thing for 99 cents.—Chicago Post.

A Good Speculation.
Philanthropist (jocosely)—I am delighted to learn that you have promised your sick daughter $50 on the day she is well enough to go out.
Old Closefit—Yes, the doctor said she only needed encouragement.
"That will, no doubt, do her good. Fifty dollars is a good deal of money to her."

"Yes, and to me, too, but it would cost more than that to bury her."—New York Weekly.

AS AN

Advertising Medium,

LOOK NO FURTHER!

Having a large circulation in a prosperous section, among different classes and professions, and as the RECORD itself is made up attractively and on the modern plan, an advertisement can scarcely be given a poor position at any place in its columns. It has been our rule not to contract for reading advertisements which must be sandwiched in with news items, and this rule will continue to be adhered to.

By keeping our space for reading matter entirely separate from advertisements, we not only please the reader, but help the advertiser too, by placing all on equality with each other; we offer monthly changes without charge, so that advertisements will form a real news feature for the paper. Frequent changes, and special offers, will pay both the advertiser and newspaper, and benefit the reader.

HISTORY OF UNIONTOWN.

BY DR. J. J. WEAVER, JR., 1896.
PART IX.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.
The present Methodist Protestant church and congregation was originally a part of the great Methodist Episcopal denomination; its existence as Methodist Protestant began in 1829, when certain principles and issues caused a division in the M. E. church. The congregation existing at that period in Uniontown was unanimous in its advocacy of what the principal members, led by the Rev. Daniel Zollicoffer, thought to be just and right, and in the maintenance of the same, and as a justification of their course, the congregation, as a unit, became Methodist Protestant. The date of the organization of the original Methodist Episcopal congregation is not known.

The first building for worship was a log building, erected upon lots Nos. 8 and 9, as marked in the plat of Uniontown in the survey of 1815. Said lots, as the records prove, were the property of Mary Cover, widow, and the children of Earlhart Cover, deceased. These owners conveyed lot No. 9 to Henry Cover and Deborah, his wife, on December 28th, 1816, and lot No. 8 to William Roberts and Ellen, his wife, on March 3rd, 1828.

On September 10th, 1833, "Henry and Deborah Cover, and William and Ellen Roberts conveyed the above-said lots Nos. 8 and 9 to John Smith, William Roberts, Peter Christ, Philip Babylon and Dr. James L. Billingslea and their successors, trustees of the Methodist Protestant church. The last named deed mentions the fact that a log "Meeting House" was situated upon the land conveyed; such being the case, said meeting house was erected previous to 1833.

The question has frequently been asked, why did not the Meeting house remain in the possession of the Methodist Episcopal denomination, after the division, and how could the Methodist Protestant organization retain possession of a building, which before the creation of said organization, was possessed by the M. E. organization? The answer to this question is very evident from the records. Previous to 1833, and during the time the meeting house was occupied by the Methodist Protestant organization, it was the private property of Henry Cover and William Roberts, and the M. E. congregation, as a distinct organization, possessed no legal title.

The Methodist Protestant congregation waxed strong and vigorous, and included within its membership many of the most prominent families in the neighborhood; Zollicoffer, Gosnell, Wright, Smith, Billingslea, Roberts, Babylon, Starr, Meredith, Devlin and Myers are names prominently identified with this church.

That this church was active and alive to the needs of the community is demonstrated by this fact. On December 5th, 1834, there was a meeting of the citizens of the town held in the Methodist Protestant church, for the purpose of establishing a college to be situated in Uniontown, and to be under the control of the Methodist Protestant denomination. The prospectus issued, solicited aid for the establishment of a "first class Literary Institution," and stated that whilst such institution would be under the control of the M. P. Society, yet it was not designed as a medium through which to inculcate sectarianism. Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., was presented as a "fair specimen" of the principles by which the contemplated institution would be governed. Rev. Daniel Zollicoffer, William Roberts and Dr. James L. Billingslea, were the committee of organization. There is nothing to show that their efforts accomplished any result. I may be mistaken, yet I am inclined to think that this movement was the first effort made by the M. P. denomination to establish an institution of learning.

The congregation continued to worship in the log meeting house until 1837; in the meantime the remainder of the lots not occupied by the meeting house was used as a cemetery. The first interment being in 1829. During the summer of 1837, the brick church now occupied by the congregation, was erected at a cost of $3,200. John Smith, Edward Zollicoffer and John N. Starr were the managers and building committee.

There is one rather unusual circumstance connected with the erection of this church; it is this, all the monies subscribed for its erection had been collected and all expenses settled previous to the day of dedication, and there was no collection taken up on the anniversary day. In 1839, the property owned by Dr. Fletcher Zollicoffer was purchased by money presented by the Misses Salm, of San's Creek, Frederick county, and decided to trustees for a parsonage; the original house has since been replaced by the present parsonage, which was built under the pastorate of the Rev. Reese Murray in 1884.

In 1860, during the pastorate of Rev. R. S. Norris, quite a flourishing young ladies school was established. Rev. R. S. Norris, Alfred Zollicoffer, William Starr, and other citizens not connected with the denomination, were the managers. Rev. Norris was president of the board of managers and Miss Annie Hance was preceptor. This school continued for several years, and its discontinuance was a decided loss to the community. The Methodist Protestant organization of Uniontown has always occupied a prominent position as part of said denomination, and the earnest attachment and generous support which it has given to the denomination at large, has been justly recognized by the Maryland Annual Conference.

The following ministers served this congregation: Rev. Daniel Zollicoffer, who resided permanently at Uniontown; D. E. Reese, Sr., 1829; J. F. Steir, 1830; Isaac Webster, 1832; Josiah Varden, 1834; H. Doyle, 1835; John S. Reese, 1837; E. H. Hinkle, 1839; D. G. Hamilton, 1840; John S. Reese, 1841; L. R. Reese, 1842; W. Collier, 1844; J. Morgan, 1847; D. E. Reese, 1849 and 1860; R. P. Jordan, 1851; Thomas Wilson, 1853; F. Swentzel, 1855; J. Thos. Ward, 1857; P. L. Wilson, 1860; R. S. Norris, 1863; David Wilson, 1868; John R. Nichols, 1871; H. S. Cushing, 1872; J. W. Charlton, 1874 and 1880; C. H. Littleton, 1877; C. F. Cocheil, 1882; Reese Murray, 1884; Thomas Murray, 1886; T. D. Valiant, 1887; J. T. Lassel, 1893.

Mayberry.

Winter does not yet appear to be over, and the appearance of snow flurries, and the cold breeze.

Moving and changing residences has now partly subsided, and those that have made changes are making themselves comfortable in their new homes.

W. L. Fiegle removed to Friezellburg after residing here for quite a number of years. We much regret to lose such a good citizen; the house formerly occupied by him is now vacant, something unusual, as no house in our village has stood empty for years.

Uriah Yingling, a prominent farmer, has moved into his house, formerly occupied by his son Grant, who takes the farm. Chas. Wantz, who occupied the tenement house of Mr. Yingling, has removed to Silver Run, leaving his former home vacant. Mr. Augustus Myers has moved near Harney, Mr. John Hesson of near Keysville moving into the house vacated.

The greatest excitement that prevailed here for quite a time, occurred on Saturday afternoon, March 28th, in the way of a fox chase. Quite a large crowd congregated to see Reynard let loose. The fox was given ten minutes start, when about thirty hounds were turned on in hot pursuit. After a distance of 3 miles Reynard made a narrow escape in a cove of rocks along Pipe Creek, near Weist's mill, the nearest house disconcerted a grab for him as he disappeared. Another fox which Mr. Wm. Copenhaver, the expert hunter and trapper, had in his possession was immediately brought forward and another chase started. This time the fox was killed within half a mile of the starting place. Mr. Copenhaver succeeded in trapping four old and six young foxes, thereby showing that they are becoming quite numerous. Hunters and hounds from Taneytown, Union Bridge, Westminster and Bridgeport participated in the chase.

Mr. Jesse Hesson, who was reported as seriously ill sometime ago, is gradually growing weaker; as he but little hopes of his recovery.

H. E. Fiegle, preacher, was in Baltimore on Thursday purchasing his spring stock. The lateness of the season caused his delay in not going sooner.

Gen. Harrison Married.

Ex-President Harrison (the only ex-president) was married on Monday evening, in St. Thomas church, New York, to Mrs. Mary Lord Dimmick. The number present was limited to twenty, relatives and select friends of the bride and groom. The decoration of the church was not elaborate, but very handsome and tasteful. Mrs. Dimmick arranged all the details, and selected the flowers, which were principally lilies and white lilies. The ceremony lasted about fifteen minutes, during which Mascagni's "Intermetto Cavalleria" was softly rendered on the organ. After the ceremony, light luncheon was served at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot, Gramercy Park, after which, the party donned traveling attire for Indianapolis.

Mrs. Harrison's wedding gown was of pearl gray gros grain silk; the skirt was made plain, with a short train falling from the waist in full soft folds. A Louis XVI coat, opening in front over a full vest of white chiton, with broad revers, draped with rare old Honiton lace, extending down each side of the front and draped over the hips, forming a coat effect. The sleeves were long and full, tapering to the arm below the elbow, and ending in a fall of lace at the wrist. Around the neck there was a plush collar of palest blue velvet, over which was entwined a row of magnificent pearls, fastened with a diamond clasp, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a large bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. The bonnet worn by the bride was a dainty French creation, composed of lace and blue velvet, with a white egretta, held in place by jewel pins. The groom wore a Prince Albert coat, closely buttoned, with trousers of dark gray; white gloves and a white silk four-in-hand tie completed the bridegroom's attire. He wore a boutonniere of lilies-of-the-valley. General Tracy, who was attired in conventional afternoon style, wore a boutonniere of lilies-of-the-valley and white violets, and the ushers wore white violets.

Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, will canvass his congressional district again this year, for nomination to congress. The women are again perfecting their organization against him, and the flight of two years ago will be renewed.

The property known as the Girard House, the famous old hotel located on the corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, has been purchased by a syndicate of capitalists for $1,500,000. The lot has a frontage of 17 feet on Chestnut street and 171 feet on Ninth street. The purchasers will erect upon the site a massive office building sixteen stories in height, which will be the tallest building in the city.

The statement has been circulated that McKinley missionaries have been making overtures to Gov. Lowndes promising him the second place on the ticket in return for the Maryland delegation. Incidentally this same promise is said to have been made to Governor Bradley, of Kentucky, General McAlpin, of New York, and other prominent Republicans in the East. So far, at least, as Mr. Lowndes is concerned, the statement is not correct. No proposition has been made to him.

HUMOR.

SHE WAS UP ON THEOPHANY.

How a Little Waitress Checked the Scheme of Two Restaurant Swindlers.

A cruel rebuke was administered several nights ago to a party of gay young men who were in a Fourth avenue restaurant. They ordered a costly supper, each supposing that some of the others had the money to liquidate the bill. Shortly before the repast was finished it was discovered that they all together had considerably less than enough to pay the demure little waitress who stood behind their chairs. With a wink, one of them turned the conversation toward theophany, and the cue was soon caught. Each declared that he had known the others in a prior life some 1,300 years ago, and one of them went so far as to say that he remembered how they had sat together at just such a supper one moonlight night in March, 1,200 or 1,500 years ago. The little waitress became interested in the conversation and eagerly drank in the details of the supper eaten so long ago.

Thinking that the time for action had come, the leader of the party arose and remarked that he clearly remembered that the little waitress had also served them during the famous supper in question and that he could never forget her bright eyes and her rosy cheeks, to all of which she responded modestly, and the conversation was fast assuming a sentimental turn when the girl noticed that the young men were leaving one by one. Finally only two remained, and as they showed signs of going without paying she remarked:

"Your bill is $6.30, gentlemen."

"Oh, that is all right, Marie," responded the spokesman cheerfully. "We will settle this when we dine here March 12, 3006. We will all meet here on that date. You remember when we were here 1,200 years ago, don't you?"

"Oh, yes, sir," she replied naively. "but it is not the present bill that I am asking for; it is the bill you made 1,200 years ago. Don't you remember that you said you'd pay me the next time you came to earth?"

And there was such a malicious little twinkle in her eyes that the two handsome light overcoats were left as a pledge of payment.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Thoughts on Spring.

Some thoughts on spring are not fit for publication.

Spring is the season when poets and lovers get into order.

If you have flames to shed, prepare to shed them in July.

The well known poetical reference to spring as an "eternal mildness" was promulgated long before the introduction of the weather bureau.

Spring poets are the great propagators of pulmonary complaints.

Spring, ghastly spring!

Even a spring chicken is a delusion and a snare.

If the robin is really a sign of spring, he ought to be ashamed of himself.

In these latter days blizzards are the only genuine harbingers of spring.

That "tried feeling" incidental to spring is greatly aggravated by reading spring poetry in one column of a newspaper and the weather report in another.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of cough and sinus.

The most effete monarchy of modern times is the one presided over by the May queen.

Frailty, thy name is spring.

Spring by any other name would not be nearly so deceptive.

Possibly it is because spring is the youth of the year that it is so disagreeably fresh.

"Sweet spring, full of sun and blowing roses"—sore throats and blowing noses.

Spring, gentle spring, get a thaw on yourself.—New York Sun.

A Puzzle For an Indiana Postmaster.

A letter mailed at West Point, Ind., is now in the Lafayette postoffice addressed thus: "What though the snow be high as any mountain; what though the sleet and rain in torrents pour, so much that earth would seem like one vast fountain. No matter, what the rain swirl swiftly round Mr. Garibaldi D. McGinnis, whom rumor whispers dwells on Burwell place. As 'D' implies, his middle name is Dennis; this pointer use his whereabouts to trace."—Indianapolis Sun.

Getting Even With Him.

Have—I had a good joke on my coal man today. I told him he had a pretty heavy coal bill, and he disputed it.

Nnt—Did you prove it to him?

Hazel—You bet. I told him to weigh it on his own scale.—Truth.

One of the Requisites.

She—Did you have a pleasant evening at Hayley's?
He—Glorious.
She—What did you do?
He—That's just like a woman. How could it have been a glorious time if I could remember anything we did?—New York World.

The Brooklynite and the Swordfish.

"Step up and see the great swordfish. It'll cost you but one dime," is printed in glaring type over a drop scene on which is a crude picture of a swordfish.

This invitation hangs in front of a small tent which is pitched on a vacant lot in Brooklyn.

The other day a trolley dodging perambulator pushed stopped and read the notice. He called the showman's attention to the way in which swordfish was spelled.

"Now," said the showman, "you just pay your 10 cents before you find fault, and if the name ain't spelled right I'll give you a dime."

The trolley-dodger as requested and gazed upon a codfish which had been saved in halves.

"Now," said the showman, "are you satisfied? I'm a better educated man than most people know of, and you ain't the first one who's tried to kerret me."—New York Sun.

The carmine flower has for thousands of years been used to dye fabrics a yellow color. The mummy coffins found in Egyptian tombs are dyed yellow with this flower.

"Restaurant of Death."

"I have seen a few gruesome sights in my life," said a well-known East Baltimorean at the Monday Club recently, "but nothing so gruesome as the Restaurant of Death, on Broadway, New York.

"When you enter the restaurant you are received with a clanking of chains and by a man dressed as Charon, the ferryman of the Styx. Above your head is written: 'He who enters here leaves hope behind.' Your order for beer or other liquid refreshment is served on coffins in glasses formed like skulls.

The waiters are dressed as pallbearers, wearing long ribbons of crepe and carrying their high hats. All the decorations and upholstery are in the undertakers' colors, of black and silver.

"Among the numbers on the programme of entertainment is one in which you look through an aperture with your hat off and see yourself laid out in a coffin with flowers about you. A lecture is given by Charon, who tells you that death is man's proper sphere, as it relieves you of all the troubles that begin with your birth.

"A man and woman got into a coffin whilst I was there. They laughed and talked with the funeral robes about them. Then they appeared dead. The mould of death spread over their faces and at the end they became skeletons. This was an optical illusion.

"The chandeliers and wall-brackets are real skeletons, in whose boy hands are held electric lights. From their grinning mouths lights also hang. The pictures are skeletons of men, birds and animals.

"I saw ladies and gentlemen there. Some came in, got one look and bolted out as if they had been shot. Indeed, I would not go into that place by myself. I was wondering what a fellow who was getting over the jitters would do if he suddenly dropped into the Restaurant of Death for a settler."

The restaurant is like one in Paris, which has attracted many tourists as visitors.—American.

Senator Allen has introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate providing for the restoration of the names of widows of soldiers to the pension rolls after the death of the second husbands, who, by reason of a second marriage, have been dropped from the pension rolls.

The complacent manner in which the Spanish authorities view the adoption of the Cuban resolutions, and the absence of violent demonstrations against this country by the lower classes is believed to indicate that Spain regards the action of Congress with little apprehension, and anticipates no immediate action on the part of the President. One of the unexpected features of the present situation is the absence of popular outbursts following the action of the House. Minister De Lome is said to be responsible for the calmness which prevails now in Spain with reference to the attitude of this government, as it is understood he has cabled that the administration expects to take no action immediately, and will not act upon the expression of Congress without mature deliberation.

The general outline of the program of the fifteenth international Christian Endeavor convention, which will be held in Washington in June has been made public. It is expected that fully 60,000 people will attend the convention. The formal opening of the convention will occur on Thursday morning, July 9, in three great tents, which will be pitched on the White lot, just south of the treasury department, executive mansion, and state war and navy buildings. On Saturday, the Endeavorers will then march to the capitol, where it is hoped that permission may be obtained for a brief address to be delivered from the steps of the capitol. The local committee are preparing for the entertainment of the hosts of visitors, and choruses aggregating 4,000 voices are rehearsing the convention music.
