We are indebted to Geo. H. Kuhns, Lansing, Michigan, for a bound copy of the report of the Attorney General of Michigan for 1895. Mr. Kuhns is a competent assistant to the Attorney General, and was formerly one of the bright Taneytown boys.

The transfer of the Western Maryland Telephone exchange took place on Wednesday, from the Elliot House to Shriver's harness shop. Manager Hazlett superintended the work. This line is now regarded as such a great convenience, that being cut off from its use even for the time required to make the change, was a hardship.

Mrs. Sophia Smith, a sister of the Misses Galt of this place, with whom she has been living for a number of years, died on Thursday evening. Mrs. Smith was a confirmed invalid, and has been a sufferer for many years. The funeral will take place on Saturday, services at the house at 12:30. Interment in Piney Creek cemetery.

A fire broke out in the laundry connected with the Western Maryland College, Westminster, about 10 o'clock on Thursday night, which caused considerable excitement for a time. The fire department was called out and the whole town greatly alarmed with the report that the College was on fire. The damage was but slight.

The mail route from Taneytown to York Road has been established, with James A. Reid, Taneytown, contractor. The schedule calls for leaving Taneytown daily except Sunday at 4:30 a. m., arrive at York Road by 6 a. m., leave York Road after the arrival of train from Baltimore due at 6:07 a. m., arrive in Taneytown in 1 1/2 hours. McC. Davidson and family will remove from this place to Hanover, Pa., on Tuesday. Mr. Davidson has rented a store and dwelling in Hanover, and will enter into the general heating business on an extensive scale. He thinks it a better headquarters for his rapidly growing business than Taneytown. W. H. Harnish and family will move into the Davidson property here, and Mr. Harnish will have charge of closing out the stock of hardware, etc. We are sorry to lose Mac, as he is a live, hustling, business man, but we wish him success in his new field, all the same.

NOTES FROM EVERYWHERE.

Items of current news boiled down, for busy readers.

A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives, appropriating $600,000 to procure lands to complete Gettysburg National Park.

On April 29th, Dr. Andrew Annan, of Emmitsburg, celebrated his nineteenth birthday. The doctor is enjoying unusually good health for one of such an advanced age.

As predicted in the RECORD several weeks ago, George E. Sharrer, of Westminster, has been appointed clerk by J. P. Marshall Lawyer, at a salary of $1200, per annum.

W. C. Duval & Son, of Frederick, have been awarded the contract to build a new P. C. church at Buckeystown, to cost $18,000. It will be the handsomest church edifice in the county outside of Frederick.

A party of prominent New York State veterans and politicians arrived in Gettysburg Saturday night to consider the location of the statue of General Henry W. Slocum, for the erection of which the New York Legislature has lately appropriated $25,000.

The Middle Conference of the Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church, will convene in Bethany Church, at Brunswick, Frederick county, on May 11th, and continue in session three days. The president of the conference is the Rev. J. U. Asper.

Possible candidates for nomination to Congress in the Second district are, Herbert Stump, of Harford; C. C. Crothers, Cecil; J. F. C. Talbot, Baltimore; B. F. Crouse and T. Herbert Shriver, of Carroll. Dr. J. W. Hering, who serves at another Legislature as Senator, will probably not be in the race.

The committee of New York state veterans and members of Legislature, headed by General Sikes and General Webb, have decided to have the statue of General Slocum placed on Stevens' Knoll, between Culp's Hill and East Cemetery Hill. It was Stevens' battery, stationed upon this particular spot, that poured such a deadly enflaming fire upon the Louisiana Tigers. The statue will cost $25,000.

H. H. Holmes, the most prolific murderer of recent years, was hanged in Moyamensing prison, Philadelphia, on Thursday morning at 10:13 o'clock. He made a short statement on the scaffold in which he said that he was only responsible for the death of two women, who died as the result of criminal operations performed by him. He denied having taken the lives of any of the Pitezel family. His statement is supposed to be the last of a long series of lies.

Fire last Friday morning destroyed the large beer brewing establishment of John Kuhn, on West All Saints' street, Frederick city, entailing a loss of about $15,000. The plant consisted of a two-story stone dwelling, adjoining which was the brewhouse and outbuildings, together with a large bowling-alley in the rear. The entire plant, including a quantity of household goods and barnyard fixtures, is a total wreck. A valuable ice plant, which was recently constructed, together with a new engine, at a cost of $6,000 was also destroyed.

Dr. Peter Fahrney, the millionaire Chicago patent medicine man, is constructing a memorial near Mapleville, in Washington county. He is remodeling the old Fahrney homestead, which was at one time owned and occupied by his grandfather, a practicing physician. On each side of the door he will place marble tablets, containing the names of all his near relatives. He will construct a brick vault to the house, in which he will store relics of the Fahrney family. Along the road he will have a memorial fountain for the free use of man and beast.

The town of Salisbury has not a liquor saloon open within its bounds. The law passed by the last General Assembly is so stringent that no one has yet been able to comply with its provisions, and, as a consequence, liquor dealers were compelled to close up, because all licenses have expired, and none can be renewed until the law is complied with. The law requires dealers to file an application with the county commissioners signed by fifteen freeholders, each having $500 worth of real estate (assessed value) over and above all liens, twenty days before the granting of the license. So far only one dealer in Salisbury has been able to secure fifteen signers to his application, and some of these were rejected by the county commissioners on the ground of property qualification.

The members of the Republican State Central Committee of Frederick county have made; so far, the following recommendations for assessors for the various districts of Frederick county; Frederick district—Charles F. Fleming, Charles B. Fout and Calvin C. Crouse. District No. 3—D. M. Culler and J. C. Kidd. District No. 2—John Kayser and W. Scott Keffer. District No. 4—John P. Jones, District No. 5—William Cutsail and William F. Miller. District No. 6, Charles H. Danuth, Albert H. Maxwell and Calvin C. Loy. District No. 8—Charles C. Grossnickel, George D. Toms and M. E. Sheffer. Names are still to be chosen for the First and Seventh districts, and additional names for the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth. The Board of County Commissioners have deferred the appointment of assessors until their meetings on the 18th. and 19th.

NOW FOR WATER WORKS.

The Vote on Monday was in favor of the Bond Issue.

At the election on Monday, by a vote considerably less than the one cast two years ago on the improvement bond issue, when the amount of debt involved was only half the amount of the present water bond issue, the citizens expressed themselves favorably to the erection of water works, by a majority of thirty-three. Notwithstanding the importance of the election, there was but little open opposition, everyone voting quietly according to their convictions.

A survey will now be made, and specifications for a plant suitable for the town be drawn up, on which to advertise for bids for the entire work. The question now is, whether the plant can be secured for $12,000.

The American, in its issue of Wednesday, comments editorially on the result of recent town elections, as follows:

This is a splendid showing for the towns in Maryland, and the example set by these progressive places will, no doubt, be followed by many others as soon as they get a chance. Some of these places have waited long for the improvements they will now secure, but the progressive spirit they showed at the polls on Monday must not be allowed to stop here. With better water works will come better protection against fire, and then there should follow better government, better streets, better police, better sanitary methods, a better era generally. The Maryland towns are waking up to the great possibilities before them. The spirit they are now showing bodes well for their future and for the future of the state.

An overdose of Morphine.

Westminster, May 5.—Dr. George M. Martin, of this city, who was at one time engaged in the active and successful practice of his profession at Uniontown, this county, died suddenly from an overdose of morphine, about eight o'clock this morning, at the home of his mother, on East Main street. The drug was taken last night in the presence of his mother and sister, but, as he frequently resorted to the use of anodynes to quiet his nerves and induce sleep, they felt no alarm.

Soon after taking the fatal dose, Dr. Martin sank into a profound but apparently natural slumber, and continued to sleep peacefully during the night, exhibiting no alarming symptoms, as he was visited from hour to hour by his mother and sister; but when they attempted to arouse him this morning they were unable to do so, and, becoming alarmed, sent for Dr. J. H. Billingslea, who found that the morphine had been absorbed into the system, and all efforts to save the life of the unfortunate man were futile. There is no doubt that the drug was taken only for the purpose mentioned, and without suicidal intent.

Dr. Martin was about 37 years old. He was the oldest son of the late Dr. William N. Martin, who died about six years ago, while serving as clerk of the Circuit Court for this county—an office to which he was elected in 1885. The son, whose sad death occurred this morning, graduated from the Maryland University School of Medicine in 1881, and immediately he became associated in practice with his father at Uniontown.—American.

Glass Eye Scheme.

A "glass eye" scheme was worked in Baltimore last week. A man apparently in great distress holding a handkerchief over one eye, rushed up to an Italian fruit stand and notified the dago in charge that he had just lost his glass eye but had not time to wait and hunt for it. He offered $10.00 for its return, saying he would call the next day to see whether it had been found, then rushed off apparently to catch a train. In about an hour, another stranger appeared before the Italian, exhibiting a glass eye which he had just found. After some parleying he disposed of it to the fruit man for $5.00, and the latter is now patiently waiting for the "other fellow" to come for it as promised.

Publication of the Laws.

President Bruce, of the Senate, and Speaker Mudd, of the House, have designated the newspapers in the state which will publish certain Acts passed by the legislature. The work will be done by sixty papers, and the cost will be $15,000. Each county is allowed $600, divided between two or more papers; in Carroll county the Advocate and Sentinel each receive $300, in Baltimore city the work is placed in three papers, each of which receives $300, viz. The Sun, the Journal (German) and the Daily Record (a law journal).

In Frederick county five newspapers divide the amount, as follows: Citizen, $150, The Guide, $150, Valley Register, $100, Banner of Liberty $100, Examiner, $100. In two counties, Montgomery and Queen Annes, the $600 goes to but one newspaper.

DEMOCRATS CONFER.

Meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee on Wednesday.

The Democratic State central committee of Maryland met on Wednesday at the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore. The following account of the proceedings is condensed from the Sun.

The primary object of the meeting of the State central committee was to name a date for a State convention which will select four delegates at large to the national democratic convention, to be held at Chicago July 7. District members of the committee selected dates for the congressional conventions.

The results of the deliberations of the committee were as follows: For State convention, June 10, at Baltimore.

For district congressional conventions:

- First District—Ocean City, August 30.
- Second District—Havre de Grace, September 2.
- Third District—Broadway Institute, Baltimore, September 16.
- Fourth District—Music Hall, Baltimore, September 16.
- Fifth District—Cross Street Hall, September 3.
- Sixth District—Oakland, August 27.

Resolutions providing for dates and places of holding the congressional conventions were introduced by Mr. Roger McSherry, of Frederick county, and were unanimously adopted.

The date of holding the State convention caused some discussion. The date selected, June 10, for the State convention was a compromise between the friends of those who favored a later time. Mr. Edward W. Mealy, of Washington county, proposed the resolution for the date of the convention and his resolution was adopted. June 17 and June 24 had been suggested as convenient dates for the meeting of the convention.

The members of the State central committee for the counties and for the two congressional districts of Baltimore city will designate the places and times for holding primary elections to select delegates to the conventions which will name district delegates to the national convention. The same conventions will name delegates to the congressional district conventions, which will nominate candidates for Congress.

Reformed Classis.

The Maryland Classis of the Reformed church met in Hagerstown, on Wednesday, Christ Reformed church, of which Rev. Geo. A. Snyder is pastor. Forty-seven delegates answered to the call of the roll from churches at Baltimore, Washington, and the various counties in Maryland. Rev. A. S. Weber, of Baltimore, the retiring president, preached at night the annual sermon. Rev. E. R. Eschbaugh, D. D., of Frederick, was chosen president; Elder Frisby J. Doub, of Baltimore, vice president, and Rev. Atville Conner, of the Glade, Frederick county, corresponding secretary.

Delegates to Potomac Synod, which meets in Altoona, Pa., next fall, will be chosen. Rev. Chas. A. Sautee, pastor of the Cavtown and Wolfsville churches, who recently accepted a pastorate to Merceersburg, Pa., will be dismissed to the Merceersburg classis. Rev. Atville Conner, pastor of the Glade church, at Walkersville, Frederick county, made a statement in regard to the litigation now in progress in connection with that charge. He said: "The four members who took the legal proceedings to stop the work were backed by a very few. When one sided with the opposition five discontinued the steps they have taken. All the work and meetings of the building committee had been legal, and the only opposition to the new church at the time the subscriptions were made was from those who thought the old church ought to be left standing and not used in the construction of the new."

KANSAS STORMS.

A former Carroll County lady gives some unwelcome experience.

Charles F. Beck, of Berrett, this county, sends the RECORD a letter recently received from his sister at Talmage, Kansas. Mrs. Amy I. Bear, containing several remarkable statements which may be of interest to our readers, therefore a portion of the letter is reproduced:

"We have had very discouraging times. In the first place, John sowed sixty acres of wheat which looked fine until March, when those awful dust storms came and blew it nearly all out by the roots. He then seeded it all in oats except eight or ten acres, and Friday afternoon, there came a storm and took it all, so we have neither seed or anything else. John says it will take $30.00 to repair our fences. Four inches of rain fell in less than an hour, and hailstones measured here, twenty minutes after they fell, seven and one-half inches. Two miles north of us hail broke holes in roofs and broke the backs of chickens. John was at the creamery yesterday and saw milk cans with holes knocked in them by hail. Three miles west of us it peeled the trees of bark from top to bottom. It is a pitiful sight to see one orchard in that neighborhood; it is stripped of everything. My garden looked very nice but it is all destroyed now. The RECORD comes to us regularly, and is the same as a letter to me. It does me good to hear all the home news each week."

Proceedings of the School Board.

Tuesday May 6th, 1896.—All the members were present. A petition from the trustees and teacher of Morgan's Run school was presented asking for a new school house to be built at that place, as the old one is unfit for further occupancy.

A committee of the Board was appointed to visit Jenkin's school district, on the 8th instant, to confer with the patrons of the district relative to a new house to take the place of the present old one.

The resignations of Augustus C. Barnes, at Franklinville, and Marshall G. Shaw, at Springdale, were accepted.

The following appointments of trustees were made: 1st. District, John Duffield in place of W. W. Crapster, at Taneytown; Samuel Flickinger in place of Wm. H. Flickinger, at Oregon; James Shorb in place of Millard F. Hann, at Martin's; 2nd. District, Uriah Foglesong, in place of Albert L. Wentz, at Bear Mount; George Brooks at Muttontown, colored; 3rd. Barber in place of Howard M. Zile, at Winfield; 10th. District, Middleburg placed in charge of the commissioner; 11th. District, David M. Young in place of Marshall G. Shaw, at Springdale; E. E. Lovell and Jacob Kiler, at Baile's; 13th. District, Robert Sellman in place of C. D. Winebrenner; at Chestnut Grove; William Dempsey in place of Joseph Gosnell, at Mt. Olive; Henry W. Clary and William Etchison, at Mt. Airy.

With the exception of the above and a few changes that will be made, the old boards have been reappointed.

The action of the Board, at its last meeting, on the petition of the patrons of Walnut Grove school, being omitted in the publication of the proceedings, was substantially as follows: That Mr. Harry L. Feeser, whose appointment as teacher of Walnut Grove school was requested, can best subserve the interests of the School Board, as also the interests of the public, in his present capacity as teacher of Oregon school.

A Proposed Dunkard Home.

The German Baptists of Lancaster county, have had under consideration for some time the establishing of a home for their aged and indigent members. Steps have been taken to assure the success of this movement at an early date. It is the purpose to purchase a farm, probably near Manheim, and erect a large hall in which regular church services will be held. In this home all aged and indigent members of the congregation will be supported by the church. The farm is to be arranged in such a manner that most of the necessities of life can be grown. All the aged and indigent now dependent upon the church for support will be concentrated there, and can, as a matter of fact, be better cared for and supported at a less expense than in the manner now in vogue.—Wagnerboro Gazette.

The Unconstitutionality of the Mortgage Tax Law.

Union Bridge.

The concert held here on Thursday evening last, by the Union Bridge band, proved quite a success financially and otherwise, there being about 400 persons in attendance, and all left very well pleased with the evening's entertainment. On Monday evening, members of our Fire Company opened the water plugs and allowed the accumulations to pass out. Some of them were so badly obstructed that the flow of water was nearly stopped. We think such matters as these should have prompt attention from the water company.

The New Windsor base ball club was defeated by the Union Bridge club on the home grounds, in a hotly contested battle, on Wednesday afternoon by a score of 7 to 6. Battery for New Windsor, Babylon and Myers; for Union Bridge, Stein and Davis. This was the first game of the season for the Union Bridge team.

New Windsor.

The famous elocutionist, Gilbert Walden, gave an entertainment in Old Fellow's Hall, on last Saturday night, which was pronounced good by all those who attended. The bad weather caused many to remain at home who would otherwise have gone.

The next noteworthy event of which we have any knowledge, will be the lecture on "The Queens of the World," by Rev. Dr. D. B. Greigg, of Baltimore, May 14th, at 8 o'clock p. m., in the Presbyterian church here.

When your correspondent said the next noteworthy event, he did not have in mind the game of base ball between New Windsor College and Oak Orchard teams, which was postponed from last Saturday to this Saturday, on account of inclement weather. This game will be played on the college grounds, at 2 o'clock.

The municipal election of this city was held last Monday; the following were elected, mayor, Joseph N. Smith; councilmen, Jacob Handly, John B. Saylor, Simon P. Weaver, Martin Leamy and John J. Reese. There was only one ticket in the field. "Mamie," the four-year old daughter of Mr. M. M. Babylon, of this city, met with a very painful accident. While playing, her foot caught, and she was thrown against a plank; in falling her tongue was caught between her teeth and nearly bitten off. At one time it was feared she would lose her speech, but she is getting along nicely at present.

Mr. Clarence Orndorff, of the firm of J. T. Orndorff's Sons, and Gussie Friss, daughter of Mr. Allen Friss, proprietor of the Montour House, both of this city, were quietly married last Sunday at Silver Run.

Bicyclers should use a little more discretion when riding on Main St., of evenings, as little children are liable to cross the street not thinking of any longer, while the cyclist goes along noisily and very few use lamp or bell, as the ordinance calls for, while they go at full speed at crossings.

Linwood.

Mr. Editor will please correct a misprinted statement in last week's issue from Linwood. It should have been: Mr. Sam'l McKinstry has erected a butcher shop, Mr. Tommy Hesson, butcher. If Linwood is slow as regards an increase in building, it is alive; &c.

The ladies in this community are about through house cleaning and have now taken up the next thing in order, making their dandelion wine. It is not only considered very palatable but very healthy, and the idea is a very good one at this time to re-inkite the good feeling among the sterner sex, who have had their feathers ruffled by the late panic of house cleaning.

Mr. Joe Englar is having some of his buildings repainted adding to the appearance of our little town.

Mr. Unger of Mayberry has entered as one of the assistants in the elevator. Business is always brisk in Linwood, and it takes quite a number of employees to wait on people that come here to buy and sell.

The many friends of Mr. Isiah Kreglow, formerly of this community will receive with sorrow the sad news of the murder of Miss Elsie Kreglow, his sixteen year old daughter. Doctor Glazebrook describes minutely the condition in which he found the body when he preformed the autopsy. The clothing was badly torn. On the left side of the neck were four cuts made with a dull knife. One cut severed the carotid artery, and this alone would have caused death. In the Doctor's opinion she could not possibly have lived more than five minutes after the wound was made.

In as delicate a way as possible, the doctor stated that the examination proved that while the murderer attempted a felonious assault, he was not successful, and fled before he had accomplished his purpose. While the detectives are still at work on the case, up to this writing they have failed to find any clue that would lead to the arrest of the murderer.

Owing to the fine weather, our farmers are getting a good start with their May work. Quite a number have finished planting corn, and others will finish this week. How about the cut worm? Farmers say that sod ground plowed this spring was full of cut worms; where will the early planted corn be until the hot sun comes and destroys the worm? Fields that were planted last spring on new sod ground as late as May 15th, had to be replanted. Mr. John W. Eyer has a field of corn that is up.

Mr. John D. Dotterer thinks he will have as many peaches in his orchard this season as last.

Misses Mattie Barnes, Pearl Hoff and Daisy Barnes attended a fishing party on the banks of Morgan Run and also were photographed by Stubbins, the artist of Caldonia Mills, on April 30th. Their catch of fish included one sun fish, which by accident fell into the water again, but yet the girls say they had a grand time fishing.

One day last week while Colonel Caple was engaged in hauling saw dust from Mr. Benj. Poole's Mill, his horse became frightened, ran away, came up through town at a pace that would have made Nancy Hanks green with envy, and succeeded in demolishing his wagon bed, leaving a trail of saw dust behind. The horse by good fortune was not injured, though badly scared.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Barnes paid a flying visit to friends in Union Bridge on Wednesday last.

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER

SATURDAY, MAY 9th., 1896.

THE MAN who hesitates is lost, but the man who advertises is a winner every time. The world runs so fast these days that when you have a good thing it is necessary to stand out where people can see you, and say so, otherwise nobody will find you out, for there are so many good things going that the buyer has no difficulty in finding exactly what he is looking for.

The official reports of the receipts and expenditures of the government from 1866 to 1893, show that each year the expenditures were less than the receipts, and there was a surplus to apply to the payment of the public debt, which, during this time was reduced $1,796,496,034. For the first time since 1866 we have deficiencies of revenue. From March 1, 1893, to December 1, 1895, the national debt has been increased $123,602,245.

IN HIS DEPARTMENT entitled "The Progress of the World," the editor of the Review of Reviews makes a suggestive comparison between the Spanish and American navies of the present day. As against the five first-class battle-ships of the United States now afloat (to say nothing of the four in process of construction and the six others already ordered), Spain has but one battle-ship; while our navy has about twenty vessels adapted for port defense, Spain's has only one; in cruisers also, the United States is far in advance of Spain. All of which goes to show that Spain's navy can hardly know what they are talking about when they assert their preference for a war with the United States rather than the acceptance of mediation in the Cuban trouble, for such a war would of necessity be chiefly on the sea.

Victory for Water.

The vote on Monday on the bond issue, resulted as was predicted in the RECORD last week, and now we can look forward to having a good water supply, possibly by the end of the summer. Like all other improvements, the works will cost money, but, if they are complete, and give us plenty of the kind of water we want, it is quite probable that in a few years we will be so well satisfied that a return to the old way would not be accepted, even at a saving of twice the amount of the annual tax.

It is not often that a town makes a mistake in voting for improvements. It is true that such questions always arouse a certain amount of opposition, but it is generally in some way proven by time to have been misguided, and the town is all the better and more prosperous in the end to take steps, which, to the over cautious, seem at the time to be the height of folly.

Our water supply, it may be confidently predicted, will not be an exception to this general rule. Fortunately, our officials are honest and representative citizens, in whose hands can safely be entrusted the working out of this considerable undertaking, and there need be no fears that the work will not be satisfactorily consummated. Let those who opposed the project, oppose it no longer, but accept the result as an evidence that it is a step toward a greater, and in which all are interested because all must be benefited.

Shut the Doors Awhile.

During the month of April, 36,917 immigrants came into this country through the port of New York alone, of whom, 14,303 were Italians. On Thursday last, the Belgravia landed 1400 at the Ellis Island station, not one of whom had over $20.00 in money, and many of them not twenty cents. These people are mostly a bad lot, which their own country is glad to get rid of, and we, it appears, must take them whether they are wanted or not.

The immigration bureau does the best it can in the way of detention, and deports all it can under the laws, yet the time and facilities for making searching examinations are insufficient, and thousands each month gain foothold on our shores who do nothing but injury to the country. Particularly at this time, when there is so much depression in all kinds of business, and honest American citizens with families to support, can barely make a living, these hordes of pauper and criminal foreigners are allowed to come here and still further add to the difficulties our own people experience.

Surely Congress could afford to stop for a while arguing questions of financial policy, politics and tariff, and give the country real relief by totally ending immigration for a time at least. If times are hard for those already here—and all admit this—why should the gates be kept open for more. It is like taking more passengers on a leaking ship—crowding them on, in fact. What a change for the better it might make in this country, if the thousands of Americans who go to Europe each year and spend millions of dollars in travel and dissipation, would stay at home and spend the money here; and what a benefit it might be, if our people were given a chance to make the best of their situation, without being continually underbid and crowded out by a continuous army of foreigners who have no claim on the resources of America. Two years trial of these two ideas would show remarkable results.

We are aware that some people are ready to bristle up and prate of the "freedom" of our country, and accuse those who favor a policy of total or very much restricted immigration for being "haters of foreigners," but such talk is sheer nonsense. No man with good sense opposes any decent person on account of color or nationality, and no one who can lay claims to being a good American citizen wants to keep a single person out of this country who will do it any good, but, it is plain that the time is about here when it is incumbent on us that we should choose the lesser of evils, and pass such restrictive laws, which, while they might shut out a few desirable people, would certainly keep out ten times greater amount of undesirable ones. This is not a time for sentiment, but for protection.

A Dangerous Craze.

The report of the sale of an old postage stamp, last week, for $4,000, is calculated to produce comments of amazement as to the extent to which the craze for stamp collecting has reached. People with nothing to do, who have plenty of money to do it with, seem to be on the increase, and one cannot help but wish that they would find better uses for their time and money than in spending them on a fad which does no one any good, and which has nothing to recommend it other than a certain notoriety gained and the perpetuation of a science (?) of no earthly use.

Those who have been favored with the possession of great means, certainly have, under the law, the privilege of spending it pretty much as they please, yet it is not hard to see their everlasting dissipation when they allow a selfish whim to direct their money into channels where its only value is practically lost. There are two ways worse than spending money foolishly—spending it criminally, and not at all.

It is scarcely to be wondered at that such items of news inflame those who are mentally unsound; who rail at the unequal distribution of wealth and are on the verge of socialism; nor is it strange to understand why the ranks of this class are being constantly increased from the multitude of unfortunates whose struggle for existence, though often heroic, are too often met with failure and suffering, and result in a feeling that life was not meant to be so hard for them, when there is so much wealth in the world to be squandered. Truly, the possessors of great wealth carry great responsibilities.

INCREASE OF CRIME.

Edward Everett Hale does not wonder at it a bit.

The serious attention of thoughtful people is more and more engaged in the study of criminality in the United States. Especially the increase in what are scientifically called, crimes against the person arrests attention and requires more consideration. In a valuable address, prepared with great care by Mr. Andrew D. White, lately our minister to Russia, he has brought forward the facts in this matter so as to state the even those who thought themselves best informed. He delivered this address at a large meeting of gentlemen of standing in Boston, who are accustomed to use the power which they have for the improvement of the social condition of Massachusetts. He confined himself, however, rather to a statement of what is and what seems to be the tendency in all parts of the United States. He has left the solution of a great many questions, not only to the men who heard him, but to others who see a great present evil, and one which seems to be increasing.

To cite single details, Mr. White showed that there are more murders in the United States, in proportion to the population of the country, than in any other country of the globe. It would seem as if a certain indifference accompanied these murders. In the year 1895 the statistics will show that not more than one in seventy-four murders was executed by the process of law. Indeed, the total number of executions under the law was but 132. Perhaps it is hardly to be wondered at that Mr. White had a larger list of lynchings where murderers, or people supposed to be such, had been executed without the process of law. The number of these in the same year was 171.

Not the Immigrants.

It is very easy to say that this increase in crime results from the large immigration into the country, of the criminals of other lands. But, unfortunately for those who take this easy solution of very sad questions, the figures do not bear out the statement so far as they could wish. On the other hand, a very large proportion of the persons who commit these crimes, and a proportion equally large of persons imprisoned for other crimes of violence, are natives of the country, who have grown up with such training as the country has yet afforded them. Undoubtedly there are great faults given in Europe for the emigration of criminals. There have been well-attested instances in which even the civil authorities have been mean enough to send their criminals to other countries. We wish it could be said that in no court of the United States did it ever happen that a nolle prosequi was entered by the prosecuting officer on condition that the criminal should leave the state. This is simply to do what it is understood has been done in some instances by the authorities in Europe who wanted to get rid of the people. They

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

arranged some way in which these people should "leave their country for their country's good."

Mr. White, at some length, showed the danger which has resulted from the reckless use of the pardoning power. He dwelt, however, at some length on what he called the criminal education of children.

Effect of Criminal Posters.

The facility with which cheap newspapers, dime novels and other literature of sensation are circulated makes what educational people would call a seminar of crime. Mr. White showed, with sad humor, the effect which is produced upon a boy by the posters and pictorial title pages which show, apparently with truth, this or that or another success of the revolver or of the bowie knife.

It should not be impossible that, by some concerted movement of the directors of the press, a counter-check might be found to this tendency, if proper illustration were given of the consequences of crime. The average street boy has yet to learn that the way of the transgressor is hard. It is not simply that it leads to a bad place, as to the prison or to some other place of punishment, but the way itself is a very hard way to travel. Mr. Sayles, the director of the public library at Pawtucket, in a simple way carried out an excellent system of education in this affair. He prepared a separate scrap-book for the juvenile readers in that library, which showed what happened to boys who had tried the sensational method of life, and volunteered upon piracy or burglary for the amusement of those careers. Mr. Sayles found this scrap-book was even more attractive to the unwashed youngsters of Pawtucket than were the somewhat stale picture books which represented murder, escape and robbery.

Plan for the Friends.

We have received with great interest an appeal from the Society of Friends in Baltimore, which in the most temperate and sensible way, has called the attention of the directors of the press to the danger of results from the exaggeration of the details of crime and the presentation of its methods to readers who might otherwise have never heard of it.

I myself was a guest of the city of Pawtucket on the brilliant occasion when it celebrated the centennial of the cotton manufacture. This was on a lovely autumn day, the streets were bright with decoration, the movement of well disciplined troops everywhere was heralded by the music of some of the finest regimental bands in the world. With all this temptation to the boys of the city, who were released from work on that day, and those who were released from school, found, really to my surprise, somewhere between 50 and 100 such boys, ragged, perhaps, in their dress, in attendance in the great reading rooms of the Pawtucket Public Library. I asked Mr. Sayles, with some surprise what was the magnetism by which he draws them, and he showed me in reply the immense piles that he had of bound volumes of illustrated newspapers. He told me that it made no difference to the average street boy whether the newspaper were L'Illustration, of Paris, of ten years before, or whether it were the last number of Harper's Weekly.

So soon as Mr. White's address is printed in full we shall be glad to call further attention to some of the details which he has suggested.—Y. Y. Advertiser.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Gosport, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from experience that it will do all that is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflammatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain, and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md."

HISTORY OF UNIONTOWN.

BY DR. J. J. WEAVER, Jr., 1896.

PART XIII.

THE ENTERPRISE.

There was no effort to issue any newspaper from the time of the removal of the Star of Federalism, in 1816, until the publication of the Enterprise. This paper was a neat four page sheet of four columns, issued on the first Saturday of each month at the price of sixty cents a year. It was published by Charles A. Gosnell, and edited by Jacob Christ; its columns were devoted entirely to local affairs and such county affairs as interested the community. "Intelligence and Virtue" was its motto.

The first issue bears the date, October 1st, 1859. It possessed no party affiliation, and advocated no particular political views. The village and neighborhood appreciated the enterprise of the publisher and gave him a generous support. It was a bright, newsy sheet. The number which the writer has, gives the details of the execution of John Brown, at Charlestown, Va., without comment.

The advertising columns announced that William Roberts & Son, and Thomas H. Rounton were engaged in the dry goods business; that Charles A. Gosnell kept a first-class drug store; that Drs. J. J. Weaver, J. C. Kemp, Uniontown; vice president, John E. Miller, Sparrows Point; master of forms, John J. Stump, Cumberland; secretary, P. B. Englar, Taneytown; assistant secretary, Geo. W. Ritter, Baltimore; treasurer, Jos. W. Lidard, Baltimore; conductor, A. A. Fortman, Sykesville; inspector, R. H. H. Shipley, Gist; guard, A. J. Brown, Hancock; trustees, W. S. Davis, Hagerstown; L. D. Reid, Taneytown, and S. P. Weaver, Westminster; chaplain, Rev. George W. Morgan, Baltimore. These officers will serve until the next meeting of the citizens of the village, and encouraged by the support which they had given to the small weekly sheet, Jacob H. Christ, as editor and proprietor, began to issue a weekly paper, the name of which was The Weekly Press. Mr. Christ purchased the plant of a paper which had been published for two years in New Windsor, and also the plant of the Enterprise.

The first issue appeared on February 17th, 1860. It was the equal of either of the county papers, and in the judgment of many persons was better edited. It was a wide six column, four page sheet, 16 by 22 inches, and the price was one dollar a year. It was not partisan, but followed the motto adopted by the publisher, "Independent in all things, and neutral in none." It advocated fearlessly the maintenance of the Union, and condemned without reserve, every effort made to draw Maryland into the Secession movement; the earnest and firm course of this paper did much towards influencing the local sentiment at this critical period; some of its editorials were republished in Northern papers.

Its publication was quite a success, and it promised to be a permanent fixture of the town, but the general depression of business, the interruption of the mails and the demand for daily news, ultimately caused its suspension; notwithstanding all these difficulties, its publication continued for nearly three years. For a number of years after the suspension of the paper, Mr. Christ conducted a job printing establishment at the Press office.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN. Wyoming Tribe No. 37, I. O. R. M. was instituted March 18th, 1859. The charter members were Dr. B. Mills, Charles S. DeWitt, Frank E. Roberts, John S. DeWitt, George H. Rounton and Charles A. Gosnell. The first officers were, Prophet, Frank E. Roberts; Sachem, Dr. B. Mills; Senior Sagamore, John S. DeWitt; Junior Sagamore, George H. Rounton; Chief of Records, Charles A. Gosnell, and Treasurer, Charles DeWitt. The first elected members were Col. W. W. Dallas, Dennis Cookson, John A. Brown and David Segafosse.

This Tribe was organized and met in Christ's Hall for the first year; in 1860 it removed to the hall over the store of William Hiteshue, which it occupied until the "Red Men's Hall" was erected by William H. Starr in 1862. This hall took possession of in the following spring, and has occupied it ever since. This order was instituted entirely on account of its beneficial and social qualities. Its prosperity dates from the day of its establishment; its greatest active membership at any one time was about one hundred and fifty.

This Tribe has always occupied a prominent position in the Order in Maryland, and has given to the Great Council of the state two of its past grand officers, namely, Dennis Cookson and J. J. Weaver Jr., both of whom have filled the office of Great Senior Sagamore. It has distributed among its members in the payment of sick and death benefits over ten thousand dollars, and has now an invested reserve fund of over $3700.

Charles S. DeWitt is the only one of the charter members in affiliation with the order. Of the present members, the following have been connected with the Tribe for a period of twenty-eight to thirty-five years; William H. Baust, Wm. H. Starr, J. H. Singer, John Bowers, John T. Anders, Isaac Hailley, J. Wesley Gilbert, Jonas Ebbert, Jesse T. H. Davis, Joseph T. Fleagle, Wm. A. Anders, Thomas F. Myers, George A. Davis and Jeremiah Haines. The chairman of the trustees, who are the custodians of the investment fund, have been Henry H. Harbaugh, Dennis Cookson, Wm. H. Baust, Dr. Frank T. Shaw, and Dr. J. J. Weaver Jr.

Some visitors going through a country jail, under the escort of the chief warden, came to a room in which three women were sewing. "Dear me," one of the visitors remarked, "what vicious looking creatures they are; what are they here for?" "Because they have no other homes. This is our sitting-room and they are my wife and two daughters," blandly responded the chief warden.

A STATE CAMP FORMED.

Convention of the Patriotic Order, Sons of America.

A state camp convention of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, was held in the hall corner Gay and Exeter streets, Baltimore, on Tuesday for the purpose of organizing a state camp of the order. There are twenty-three subordinate camps or single bodies of the order in the state, located in Baltimore, Woodberry, Sparrows Point, Mt. Winans, Sykesville, Gist, Winfield, Westminster, Mayberry, Pleasant Valley, Middleburg, Unionville, Hagerstown, Taneytown, Ellerslie, Piney Grove, Hancock and Cumberland, aggregating a membership of over 1,000. The convention was composed of five delegates from each camp and six district delegates located at various points in the state. The attendance of delegates was very general, and the meeting was harmonious and enthusiastic. L. D. Reid, of Taneytown, was made presiding officer, with S. P. Weaver and J. C. Smith, of Cumberland, secretaries.

The first business of the convention was the adoption of a state constitution, after which the following persons were elected as the first state officers of the new organization; Past state president, Warren Lincoln, of Baltimore; president, J. C. Kemp, Uniontown; vice president, John E. Miller, Sparrows Point; master of forms, John J. Stump, Cumberland; secretary, P. B. Englar, Taneytown; assistant secretary, Geo. W. Ritter, Baltimore; treasurer, Jos. W. Lidard, Baltimore; conductor, A. A. Fortman, Sykesville; inspector, R. H. H. Shipley, Gist; guard, A. J. Brown, Hancock; trustees, W. S. Davis, Hagerstown; L. D. Reid, Taneytown, and S. P. Weaver, Westminster; chaplain, Rev. George W. Morgan, Baltimore. These officers will serve until the next meeting of the citizens of the village, and encouraged by the support which they had given to the small weekly sheet, Jacob H. How to treat a Wife. (From Pacific Health Journal.) First, get a wife, second, be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, but do not therefore, carry to your home a cloud of contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in making her brow all clouds of gloom. Do this we would add, always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is the best, and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by E. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Colonel North, commonly known as the Nitrate King, died in London on the 5th. He was the wealthiest man in England, his fortune being estimated at $100,000.

The Shah of Persia was shot and killed last Friday in the sanctuary of the Shrine, near Teheran, by an assassin disguised as a woman, who was promptly arrested. It is thought that it was the deed of a fanatic, and not the result of an organized design.

Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford has paid in full to the trustees of Leland Stanford, Jr., University the $2,500,000 will be the last installment by the late Senator Stanford. The payment was made in railroad securities, from which the university will receive an income of $120,000 a year.

It is reported upon what is believed to be good authority that the expert accountant employed by the Secretary of State has found a shortage of $127,000 in the trust fund account of F. J. Keefe, who until recently held the position of chief of the State Department. This, together with the $12,000 shortage said to have been previously found in Keefe's general account, brings the total up to $139,000.

James Creelman, correspondent of the New York World at Havana, and Frederick W. Lawrence, correspondent of the Journal of New York, have been expelled from the island on the ground that they have calumniated Captain General Weyler, the government and the army, and have attributed insurrection to the Spanish army. They have been ordered to leave Cuba by the first steamer sailing.

So far as the published foreign relations of the United States show, the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain respecting the Venezuelan boundary controversy have not advanced in any respect since February 9, last, on which date Mr. Bayard cabled Secretary Olney that Lord Salisbury readily placed at the disposal of the United States government any information in the hands of her Majesty's government relating to the Venezuelan boundary, and was then engaged in collecting documents for presentation to Parliament.

A lively debate occurred in the Senate last Friday between Senators Tillman (S. C.) and Hill (N. Y.), in which the sensational was decidedly prominent. Senator Tillman bitterly attacked the administration and the sound money theory, stating that unless the sensational was decidedly declared for free coinage he would leave the democratic party, but not to become a populist. Senator Hill followed the senator from South Carolina, and stated that whatever would be the result of the deliberations at Chicago, all true democrats would abide by the result.

DIFFERENT FORMS OF SWORDS.

The Rapier, Cut-throat, Sabre, Yataghan, Selceker and Claymore.

The rapier was in general use on the continent some years before it made its appearance in England, where, it must be said, it was received with scorn and ridicule, as being much too effeminate a weapon for any soldier respecting from the Mars to trifle with. The cavaliers of France, Spain and Italy, however, were adepts in the intricate science of sword play, and used it with a fatal subtlety. The cut-throat, which we read about in Captain Murray's stirring tales, and in the thrilling stories of the exploits of pirates on the Spanish Main, was short and rather broad and flat in the blade, which had an exceedingly sharp double edge. The yataghan and selceker bear the evidence of their oriental origin in their curved blades, and suggest the ancestry of the sabre. The sabre is the most important cutting implement of modern armies. It is distinguished from the sword proper by the single edged blade, which attains its greatest thickness at the back, and is grimly suggestive of the dire effects of severing cavalry charge. The selceker—a notable sword of the Italian soldier—carried a complete set of armor, from the quillons to the pomel, formed of a lattice work of metal bands that resembled the plating of osiers in a basket. This basket hilted sword, as it was called, was so closely allied to the claymore that it does not seem to have been frequently mistaken one for the other.

The gladius epoch of the sword, however, was reached in the sixteenth century. Great manual skill and a thorough training in the art were united in a marked degree in the artisans of this period, and gave to the products of the industrial arts a permanent value and beauty. In the shops of the metal workers this proficiency reached a rare excellence. The workmen were united in a guild, and civil and military pageants were the favorite pastime of royalty. The armorers, consequently, were in constant demand, and were uniting in their efforts to produce costly, brilliant arms and coats of mail.

Great artists devoted all the resources of their genius to the enrichment of the sword. No metal was too precious, no jewel too rare, no fancy too ingenious for its incorporation. This sword, with gems set with medallions, carved, embossed, inlaid; scabbards of Spanish leather or Genoese velvet were wrought with gold and silver embroidery; blades of the finest steel were polished to a dazzling finish, engraved with arabesque and hieroglyphic designs. Every article that a fertile imagination could devise and cunning skill carry out was lavished upon the decoration of the beloved weapon.—Mary Stuart McKinney in St. Nicholas.

A Typewritten Love Letter. Fancy the enormity of sending a typewritten love letter, a crime of which the nineteenth century loves to offend. One cannot picture even a new woman caring for such a letter; one cannot imagine even the most sentimental maiden reading and rereading such a missive, much less preserving it among her treasures. Its proper place is in the wastebasket, to which, be sure, it is promptly consigned.

And fancy, too, the enormity of dictating a love letter—or, worse still, the stenographer's train of thought as she takes down the words and words, and later the ardor of the sighing swain as he glances over the blue lettered sheet before he affixes his signature.

And, then, what must be the feelings of the recipient of this soulful communion. The weathered man that reads a typewritten—perhaps even fairer than herself—has had the felicity of hearing the endearing epithets at first hand! Truly the typewritten love letter is the very apotheosis of the de siècle romance. Women have ever been the accomplished letter writers of the world—with here and there, it may be, a Horace Walpole—so to them must we look for a revival of the dying art.

Though the old lengthy epistle will never again be popular, the short letter, like the short story, may be brought to perfection and can be made as distinctive a feature of this age as was the lengthy discourse in the less hurried days of the seventeenth century, when letter writing was regarded as an art, not as a burden, some necessity.—New York Advertiser.

A New Version of an Old Story.

Poor Mr. Floquet is hardly cold in his grave before posterity has set about stripping him of it, chief claims and glory. Everybody remembers that the Radical politician's reputation was built upon an incident which occurred in 1867. The Czar Alexander II, then on a visit to Napoleon III, had been shown over the Palais de Justice, and was stepping into his carriage, amid cheers, kindly provided by his host, when somebody in the crowd shouted, "Vive la Pologne, monsieur!" Floquet got the credit of this audacious bit of impertinence, and on the strength of it secured a seat in the chamber. M. Jules Claretie declares that he heard from Floquet himself that the real author of the cry was Gambetta, who generously allowed his friend a profit by it. On the other hand, M. Andrieux has invented the Gambetta legend to amuse the readers of a provincial paper, and that he did so at Floquet's request.

But another curious piece of evidence has been brought forward. The editor never heard the words at all, but he noticed the tumult to which they gave rise and saw the mob gather round a figure in their midst. "What on earth," he exclaimed, "does that old priest mean by shouting like this?" He thought possibly he had looked like a disheveled ecclesiastic, but a man who was a close spectator of the scene positively affirms M. Delatour, a barrister of very advanced views, to have been the real singer. The case of the invention would apply to him, and the language resembled his utterances in the tribune. Here we must leave the question, which affords, at all events, one more proof of the uncertainty of history.—St. James Gazette.

Vegetable Properties.

It may be well to mention that an eminent physician who has been examining the properties of the different vegetables announces that a diet of carrots ameliorates harshness of character and reduces nervous irritability. It creates fatty tissue and encourages fatness, which turns him into the opposite effect. Celery taken in excess causes eye trouble, while cabbage is beneficial in pulmonary ailments, and lettuce aids as a sedative owing to the opium contained in its milky juice, which keeps the skin clear and fresh. Red beets are blood purifying and will add plumpness to the thinnest form, providing they are boiled tender.—New York Journal.

Liberty, Equality and Fraternity. Liberty is of no value in itself, but is valuable only as a means to equality, and equality that did not enervate in fact, but enlarged the mind, and made it as fast as people learn that in likeness there is the only rest and comfort and pleasure that men can know, and fraternity will come as a result of the same conviction.—W. D. Howells in Century.

A SHY DANCER.

Stories Told by Westerners of the Antics of the Sand Hill Crane.

The sand hill crane is a very bright bird. A Recreation writer says that its very name is synonymous of vigilance and alertness. It feeds on the treeless plains or in the barren wheat stubble, where it can see a long way beyond gunshot, or one of a flock is posted as sentinel, and this bird stands with bill half open, ready to give an alarm. It can be killed by decoying it with pastebard painted cut to proper size and shape and figures, but mounted birds are better. A very deep enough to conceal a crane, the decoys are put out, and the cranes are shot as they come over. The best region to shoot them is in the Columbia river watershed and south of it in the Pacific coast states.

When one shoots a bird of the size and build of a crane in midair, it collapses, like a card house or a tent. But such apparent collapses are sometimes deceptive, as, for instance: Before I could reach him he soared off into the air with whistling flight. Again he hit the ground with fearful violence, but again he got on his feet. Running up, thinking to get him alive for a decoy, I tried to tap him on the back and stum him. He showed fight, and I used my gun as I backed off, and he took to his wings."

The sand hill crane is something of a fighter of men if wounded, and the only safe crane is a dead one. Their bills are long and sharp and are capable of putting out a man's eye. All wool Black Mohair 30 inch wide, others sell at 30c., our price 27c.

SIZE UP THE SITUATION!

We have all heard about the silly man who thought he could live without eating, and who died just about the time he was "getting used to it." The man who tries to sell goods without profit, is just about as silly, and is sure to meet with financial failure. While I do not claim to be able to sell without profit, I am in a position to make that profit lower than it is possible for other dealers to do—and I am doing it.

Everybody Knows that for a year I have been trying to get a purchaser for my stock, desiring to retire and devote my entire time to my other interests. This offer is still open. It shall be my aim during the year to further clean up the stock, and reduce it—thereby making it easy to dispose of. The little old stock remaining over from last season will be sold this summer at a great sacrifice—much less than cost.

PRICES ON NEW STOCK are greatly influenced by my desire to go out of business, as only enough profit is added to pay actual running expenses. Clothing was never cheaper than now, and this fact, coupled with the advantages that customers derive from my desire to go out of business, logically makes my store the place for unusual bargains this Spring. Those who know me best, know that my statements are correct.

Late purchase of my entire stock enabled me to secure goods—by closing out lots—at less than cost of manufacture.

For instance—five colors in spring style Tourist hats—sometimes called the "Fedora"—all of them worth from $1.50 to $2.00—closed out the whole lot—the price while they last will be $1.25.

Sizes from 6 3/4 to 7 3/4, but principally from 7 on up. You don't want to delay getting one of 'em—for you won't get another chance.

Mixed Cloth Tourist Hats $1.00 " " " " $1.25 (The latest out.)

You never saw such bargains before in Clothing—no matter where. Don't take my word for it, but come and see.
