

Local and Personal.

This is meant to be a purely local news column, to which the RECORD invites contributions. Events of local importance—whether current or in the near future, accidents, cases of extreme illness, society and church happenings, marriages, deaths, etc., should be reported to the Editor in writing, otherwise they may not appear.

Our Special offer—25c. for RECORD to Jan. 1st—will not appear again.

Mrs. Emma Forrest and daughter, Miss May, are on the sick list.

Worthington Fringer sold his property, at Longville, last Saturday, to Luther E. Hiltzbrich, for $805.

Miss Nellie McDermott, of Baltimore, has been the guest of Miss Mollie Williams for the past two weeks.

The Lutheran picnic at Round Top, on Wednesday, was well attended, notwithstanding the extreme heat.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nickum, two of our oldest citizens, are seriously ill. Owing to their advanced age, recovery is doubtful.

Dr. U. A. Sharetts, of Frederick, well known here, is at Ray Brook, N. Y., for his health, and is said to be improving rapidly.

S. Galt Birnie, of Philadelphia, arrived here on a visit, Tuesday evening. His numerous friends are pleased to welcome him.

Harvey Weant, George Koutz and M. C. Duterra, left on Wednesday for Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Atlantic City. They will be gone a week or ten days.

D. W. Garner has been appointed by D. H. Burrell & Co., to exhibit a large creamery supply at the Granger's Picnic, to be held at William's Grove, Monday, August 29th.

Ezra Conover, a well known citizen of the northern section of this district, died suddenly on Saturday evening, last, of paralysis. For further particulars see Bridgeport correspondence.

Those who send the RECORD copies of newspapers from other states, containing items of interest to Maryland people, should mark such items plainly, and also write "marked copy" on the wrapper.

O. T. Shoemaker, on Saturday last sold his Harney property to David A. Staley for $2300, and on Monday, his property in this place, formerly belonging to F. H. Elliot, for $3500, to James Neely.

Now that the war is over, and Taneytown has sufficiently demonstrated her patriotism, so far as a display of flags is concerned, why not take down the large flags suspended across the streets and save them for special occasions in the future.

There is decidedly too much economy practiced in lighting our town. When the moon is young and the nights cloudy, the lamps ought to be lit, especially on Sunday nights, when the streets, on account of closed business houses, are naturally dark.

Elmer W. Flegle, of Yonkers, N. Y., formerly of this place, will leave Monday for the Catskill Mountains, where he will spend part of his annual summer vacation; before returning to his place of business, Mr. F. will pay a visit to relatives and friends throughout this vicinity.

A portion of our last week's issue was "run off," dated "August 27" through error. As we have received many notifications of the fact, it is reasonable to presume, that, if even the date line is read each week by subscribers, advertising in our columns ought to be of great value.

A gentleman, from a neighboring town which has a fine cemetery, had occasion to enter the Lutheran cemetery in this place, last Sunday, to visit his mother's grave. The comparisons he drew were anything but complimentary to Taneytown. There's no other way to put it.

Richard Manning, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Westminster, died on Thursday morning, aged seventy-six years. He was secretary and treasurer of the Carroll County Mutual Insurance Company, and was regarded as a man of sterling integrity and considerable ability. His death was caused by paralysis of the brain.

J. W. Luckenbaugh, of Hanover, Pa., bought 33 old vehicles at J. H. Reinhold's sale here last Thursday, for which he paid $17.50. On Saturday, he removed the property, hauling sixteen buggies and a wagon, with two horses, making probably the longest string of vehicles that ever passed through the town, drawn by a pair of horses.

There will not be an excursion train over our road, on Monday, for Pen-Mar, as the I. O. H. had not sufficient guarantee that there would be 100 passengers from this place. A considerable number, however, will drive over to the Western Maryland. In addition to the other trains on that road, there will be a special afternoon train, passing Middleburg at 3.16 and returning, leaving Pen-Mar at 9 p. m.

President McKinley will take a brief vacation, the first since the commencement of the war. On Saturday he will leave for Somerset, Pa., the home of his brother, Abner McKinley, making a short stop at Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa. The President wishes as little display as possible, as his object is real rest.

Among the many bills received by the Key Monument Association of Frederick for expenses attending their unrolling exercises of the monument to Francis Scott Key, on the 9th, was one from the Fourth Regiment, Maryland National Guard, for $30, for firing the "national salute." The members of the association were very much chagrined to think the state should charge for such a service, but sent Col. Willard Howard a check for the amount.

Wm M. Steffy, Sergt. in Co. M, 5th Pa. Vol. Inf., which was recruited at Gettysburg, died in camp at Chickamauga, last Thursday night at 10.30 of typhoid fever. About 600 delegates were present, and a total of nearly 1000 members of the order from all parts of the state. The event was quite enthusiastic and taxed the hotel facilities of the city to the utmost. The order is in a healthy condition, having a membership of 50,000 in the state. A. J. Colborn, of Scranton, was re-elected president, this being his third term.

A fire on Monday night destroyed a barn on the farm of Mrs. Annie Cullison, of Hood's Mills, Carroll county. The farm lies half a mile from Hampstead, and is tenanted by Jonas Lippy, whose agricultural implements were burned. Mrs. Cullison lost 300 bushels of rye in the straw, 15 tons of hay, a lot of seed wheat and a lot of straw. The aggregate loss is about $1,000. Mrs. Cullison had a policy of insurance in the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Carroll county, and Mr. Lippy a policy in the Dug Hill Company. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Jesse Claggett, of "Teddy's Terrors," is at his home near Mother's station, on a furlough. Mr. Claggett took part in all the engagements around Santiago, and shows the effect of the climate upon the American soldiers, of which he is one of the best specimens, standing over six feet in his stocking feet. Mr. Claggett had the yellow fever and other diseases prevalent in the "Queen of the Antilles." He has three weeks upon his back and lost forty-five pounds during his sickness. "Uncle Jesse" was given a cordial welcome by his neighbors and was warmly congratulated upon his bravery in the field and his narrow escape from the Spanish bullets and the fever.

CARROLL REPUBLICANS.

Harmony in the Ranks and United for Mr. Baker.

Westminster, Md., Aug. 22.—The Carroll county republican convention today adopted resolutions eulogizing the administration of President McKinley and endorsing the course of Congressman Wm. B. Baker, and instructing the delegates to vote for his renomination. The convention was perfectly harmonious.

Dr. J. J. Weaver, Jr., presided. He had been a congressional aspirant. On taking the chair he spoke in warm praise of the administration of President McKinley and the faithfulness and high merit of the Hon. Wm. B. Baker as Representative of Congress of the second district.

Delegates to the congressional nominating convention, representing each district of Carroll county, were elected as follows:

Taneytown—Harry M. Clabaugh, Uniontown—Dr. J. J. Weaver, Jr. Myers—Lewis E. Shriver. Woolery—John W. Ogg. Freedom—Marshall G. Selby and John W. Pickett. Manchester—John H. Landis. Westminster—Chas. T. Reifsnider and William W. L. Seabrook. Manchester—C. M. Murray. Franklin—Andrew P. Frizzell. Middleburg—Dr. Chas. H. Diller. New Windsor—Philip H. Babylon. Union Bridge—W. Scott Wolfe. Mt. Airy—Rodney T. Gilson.

Mr. Chas. T. Reifsnider responded to calls in a forcible and telling speech, which elicited wild applause. He advocated harmony in the ranks and a united front to the enemy. The convention closed with a veritable lovefeast.

No Such Law.

An article is going the rounds of the papers that the postoffice department has ordered the discontinuance of "postage due" stamps, which is wholly incorrect. In other words, that all classes of mail matter must be fully prepaid by the sender, and that no deficiency in postage is collectible from the person charged.

On the other hand recently made was in reference to second, third and fourth class matter—printed matter and merchandise—which prohibits its being forwarded to another address without full prepayment of postage each time such matter is so forwarded, but this does not apply to first class matter—letters and sealed packages. As heretofore, on mail matter arriving at office of destination, not fully prepaid, the deficit is rated up and collected from the addressee, "postage due" stamps being used for that purpose; and first class matter may be forwarded without an additional prepayment of postage.

Birth-day Party.

(For the RECORD.) A very pretty little birth-day party took place at the residence of Mr. E. Dorsey Diller, August 23rd., in honor of their daughter Cora. The child was the recipient of quite a number of nice presents. Those present were Misses Rosa and Lulu Eyer, Anna Miller, Nettie and Mammie Myerly, Sarah Eichelberger, Mary Grossnickle, Bernice Curfman, Lizzie Coleman, Lucy Spellman, Margaret and Jennie Weybright, Gertie and Vernie Eyer, Mary Elmer, Mrs. Ella Weybright, Mrs. M. C. Flier, Mrs. E. H. Koons, Mrs. Lizzie Irving, Mrs. J. W. Kolb, Mrs. E. D. Diller, Miss Sarah Saylor; Masters Charles and Willie Diller; Raymond and Russell Miller, Willie Curfman, Earl and Leroy Irving, Roy Eyer, Wilbur Kolb, Russell Koons, and Saylor Weybright.

Mr. Huber Explains.

The editor of the RECORD has received a letter from A. H. Huber, in which he takes exception to some of the statements contained in the article, clipped from the Sun, published in our last issue. Among other things, he says: "Hon. Wm. B. Baker never promised to postpone, until after our primary here, the recommendation of Mr. Schaeffer for postmaster, but, on the contrary, wrote me that he would, in advance of the primary, recommend his preference." He also disclaims, having, by word or act, hastened the appointment of Mr. Schaeffer.

Old exchanges in bundles of 100, only 5c.—at RECORD office.

CONOVER.—On August 20th., near Bridgeport, Mr. William E. Conover, aged 59 years, 7 months and 13 days.

Our beloved has departed. While we tarry, broken-hearted, In the dreary, empty house. He has ended his brief career; He has reached his home of glory, Over death victorious.

Hush that sobbing, weep more lightly— On we travel, daily, nightly, To the rest that he has found. Are we not upon the river, Sailing fast, to meet forever, On more holy, happy ground? By his wife and children.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

Of my beloved father, William Martin, who departed this life, one year ago, August 22, 1898.

"Gone but not forgotten." The night dew that falls, Though in silence it weeps, Shall cover the verdure, The grave where you sleep; And the tears that I have shed, Though in secret they flow, Shall long keep in memory, Wherever I go. By his daughter Mrs. M. C.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Hyattsville, Md., Aug. 25.—Prominent farmers, representing every county in the State, met yesterday afternoon at the Maryland Agricultural College to attend the first session of the State Farmers' Institute.

In the absence of Governor Lowndes, the meeting was called to order by Charles H. Stanley, of Laurel, Md., who extended a welcome to the visitors on the part of the State. Mr. Stanley spoke encouragingly of the work done by the State Agricultural College and Experiment Station, President R. W. Silvester, who has been instrumental in bringing the college to its high state of efficiency, and who has gathered about him an able body of professors and assistants, was next introduced. The President explained to his guests the work of the college, experimental station and the farm in general.

The meeting then temporarily adjourned, and an inspection of the campus took place. This proved very interesting to the visitors, many of them expressing surprise at the magnitude of the college work and the equipment for carrying it on. The mechanics department, under the direction of Prof. H. Gwinner, was first visited, and then the other departments in the following order: Chemical department, Dr. H. B. McDonnell; barn and implements, Dr. S. Buckley; poultry, incubators, brooders, apiary, Prof. C. H. Lake, and college greenhouse, garden and grounds, Prof. James S. Robinson. Supper was served in the college dining-room from 7 to 8 o'clock. The second day's session drew even a larger number of visitors than yesterday.

James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, was present, and delivered an instructive and interesting address. The Secretary stated that the meeting today was one of the largest gatherings of agriculturists he ever had the pleasure of witnessing. Other speakers who addressed the meeting were Director J. H. Patterson, vice-president of the Maryland Agricultural College; R. H. Alvey, Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro and Prof. J. S. Robinson.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the ladies' meeting, presided over by Mrs. John T. Graham, president of the Mount Washington Lend-Hand Club.—Balt. Herald.

SAMPSON AND SCHLEY.

Royal Reception to the Naval Heroes in New York.

Your readers doubtless keep in touch with public events, hence have heard of the grand welcome and royal reception given to the Naval heroes after the matter and fact transmitted are legitimate and correct. Items of a miscellaneous character are not wanted.

Being a member of the Mayor's staff, and on the committee of reception, I had a splendid opportunity of witnessing all the ceremonies, and of assisting in the review of the Nation's fleet, the vessels of war, the finest in the world.

Commodore John H. Starin, who owns and operates a fleet of a hundred or more steamboats in and around this port, placed the Glen Island, a handsome passenger steamer, at Mayor Van Wyck's disposal. The Mayor, heads of departments, the committee of reception, and their families to the number of five hundred, boarded the Glen Island at 8.30 a. m., and at 9.15, the boat got under way for Staten Island, six miles distant, where lay Admiral Sampson's flag ship New York, the Iowa, and Indiana, Admiral Schley's ship the Brooklyn, a sister ship to the New York, the Massachusetts, the Oregon, and Texas, the last, flying the pennant of Commodore Phillips.

In shore lay the St. Paul, commanded by Vice Admiral Schley, and the Old Monitor Katabidji. The Mayor went aboard the New York, and gave Admiral Sampson and his men a hearty welcome, assuring him of a good hospitable time in the Empire City.

Fully two hundred steam vessels, loaded down to the water's edge with 100,000 people, surrounded the monsters of war, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The procession up the bay and the majestic Hudson to Grant's Tomb at West 122nd St., was the grandest ever witnessed in American waters. Five lines of vessels, with those of the Navy in the centre column, moved northward at 10.30 a. m., amid the shrieking of thousands of steam whistles, booming of cannon, and the exultant shouts of a million people, who had assembled to do homage to the victors. The procession was three miles in length, and made an imposing spectacle.

When the New York, escorted by the Mayor's party on the Glen Island, reached Grant's Tomb, the saluting by the war ships began, and as each vessel passed the last resting place of the hero of the Civil War, the guns roared forth, and the result in honor of the men of 1861 to 1865.

Riverside Park, a beautiful sloping piece of ground running from 72nd, to 135th St., on the banks of the Hudson River, and with the Tombs in the background, was packed, a living mass of humanity numbering fully 500,000 people sitting on the grass and shouting a loud shout of welcome to the grand and glorious victory of the American Navy, and the welcome of the people of a grateful nation to the heroes who did the fighting, and the proves and patriotism of the United States, was over, and a part of the history of the war.

As the head of the G. A. R. in this camp for all the troops under General Shafter, known as the Fifth Army Corps. These troops were the men who did the fighting, and braved the dangers of a campaign in Cuba. The victory of the United States, was over, and a part of the history of the war.

On Thursday last, 10,000 troops were then in camp, the white tents dotting the various hills tops. The hospital tents with the yellow flag floating over them, contained at that date, 1200 patients sick with fever. Near station is a very pretty sheet of fresh water, half a mile in length, known as Fort Pond Lake. The Volunteer Regiments will be speedily mustered out, and the men sent home to recuperate, and enjoy their well earned laurels. A proud and grateful people will ever remember the heroic patriotism of the men who carried "Old Glory" to fresh triumphs, the wonder and admiration of the world.

New York, Aug. 24th., '98.

Union Bridge.

The community in and near Union Bridge was shocked to hear of the death of Cora Crabbs, nee Graham, which occurred at 11 p. m., last Sunday evening. She was married to Jesse Crabbs, on the 16th, of this month, by Elder Solomon Stoner, near Uniontown. Her parents objected to the match on account of her extreme youthfulness, not being quite fifteen years old, took her home and threatened to have the marriage annulled. Exasperated at the thought of being separated from her husband, she decided to end her troubles by suicide, and took a large dose of arsenic, which was being used by the family for killing rats. Everything that could be done proved of no avail, and finally death came to her relief. After realizing that she must die, she sent for a minister, and sought to make preparation for death. Her friends have the sympathy of all in their terrible sorrow and bereavement. The funeral services at the Pipe Creek meeting house were largely attended. Rev. Spessard and Stoner of Union Bridge, officiating.

Alice M. Eppley has returned from a two weeks visit to Baltimore. Four young students from the Juniata College have just concluded a series of meetings here and at Pipe Creek.

Mr. Geo. W. Englar, of Gettysburg Seminary, will preach in the Lutheran church at Union Bridge, next Sunday morning and night.

Mr. John E. Shivers, whose extreme illness we reported some time past, has so far recovered that he contemplates starting for Illinois on September 5th.

The public schools will open September 12th. Our teachers for the ensuing year are Messrs J. T. Walz, Wm. J. Crambs and Miss Alice M. Eppley.

The Toms Creek M. E. Sunday school will hold their picnic on the 3rd of September. ## New Windsor.

During the past two weeks, some excitement has been created in this vicinity, and much annoyance to the family of Wm. Harman, living at the toll gate, along the turnpike, near town. Some vicious person or persons has been making almost a daily practice of throwing stones through the upper windows of the dwelling, occupied by Mr. Harman. The act has been done repeatedly by day and night, as well as at night, and notwithstanding the fact that a constant watch has been kept for the last ten days, guests at the place have

Surplus of Teachers.

As there are now said to be twenty unemployed public school teachers in this county, the profession seems to suffer from overproduction; but, like in other lines of business, when this occurs, the situation has a redeeming feature—the demand will be for the best goods. We have had too many so-called teachers. Too many mere boys and girls, even though holding certificates, who presumed to teach, in many cases, those who were, in reality, equipped to instruct the teacher. Too many teachers who became such, from favoritism, and not real merit.

While teaching in this county does not offer sufficient remuneration to secure the highest grade instructors, such as are found in counties where the salaries are higher, yet, we can see that some degree of improvement to the service is likely to result from the present oversupply, providing patrons are allowed to have a say as to who shall teach in their respective districts. We say, patrons, because local trustees are not always free from the bias of relationship claims, and other considerations of minor importance to that of capability, while the consensus of opinion among the patrons, who are interested in securing the best instructor for their children, is decidedly the more likely to make the best selection possible.

The abundance of teachers, too, is likely to permit of a more rigid system of examination, and the abolition of the lower grades entirely. We have too many grades of teachers—three, should be the limit, we think.
The low grade teacher is a constantly in evidence menace to the efficiency of our school system; because, while he stands self convinced of having a small amount of ability to teach, yet, offers the inducement of low priced services—a sort of economy—which has weight, undoubtedly, in securing a school, because the difference between the lowest and highest grade, in salary, is considerable.

Our standard for teachers should be set just high enough to keep the supply sufficient; when the latter increases, it is sure evidence that the former may be raised—a simple case of the "survival of the fittest."

Free Advertising.

The RECORD, as well as many other local papers, does a vast amount of free advertising. In our case, it is probable that the limits of liberality are too wide, and we may, in the near future, adopt certain rules already in force in most places; namely, the classification of all notices of pie-nies, festivals, fairs and entertainments generally, which are operated for profit, as legitimate advertisements which should be paid for as such, according to space used.

Of course, such notices are, to a certain extent, news items, yet they are, to a greater degree, advertisements, because held for money, getting, and this is the opinion usually held, and acted on, by most of our exchanges. A newspaper must necessarily be liberal with its columns, using them for the interests of its patrons in a reciprocal way, yet, the line must be drawn pretty sharply, else unfair advantage will be taken of the generosity of the publisher.

Correspondents and occasional contributors, work the free advertising scheme, very frequently. No doubt, in most cases, innocently; yet, in others, "axes to grind" are so apparent to the watchful editor that he cannot help but use the blue pencil with a certain degree of grim satisfaction, backed by a clear case of justifiable self defence. When one who is not a subscriber, furnishes the so called news—in reality an advertisement not labeled—the pencil marks grow broader and of a deeper blue, and the editor sleeps that deep calm sleep which betokens a conscience perfectly at ease.

A newspaper is apt to be charged, by some, with meanness, if, for instance, it asks pay for the insertion of a notice of a church fair. A little reflection, however, should change this opinion, providing the promoters of the church fair are also friends and well-wishers of the paper; because, no paper can live without a liberal revenue, or be a model representative of the town in which it labors, and this revenue should be supplied, first, by those who reap the most benefit from it—the home people.

Very few country newspapers make money—most of them fail to make a decent living for their proprietors—and there is always more or less of a struggle to make ends meet, and lay by a balance with which to replace worn out type and machinery. Before imputing meanness, therefore, when a slight charge is made for something which some think ought to be free, the question should first be asked—Can't we afford to pay the charge, and thus help our home paper, which needs our support as well as the church or society, and which, in its own way, benefits our community?

Charity Begins at Home.

The homely phrase, "Charity begins at home" unfortunately suffers greatly from disuse. Somehow, or other, the things at home, in the eyes of many people, are not such as deserve a great amount of support—we don't like "charity"—and the stranger, both within and without, our gates, comes in for a liberal share of our patronage on the assumption, we presume, because his wares are foreign, they're better. What a mistake.

Ask the pack peddler or the medicine vender for a dollar for your church, or a quarter for the poor family across the way, and see whether you get it. Ask the metropolitan quack advertiser for a small sum to assist in some local charity, and see whether you get it. Ask the western machine dealer for assistance for your neighbor whose barn has burned down, and see whether you get it.
Send to some of the people you take pleasure in ordering goods from by mail, to come and take a turn at sitting up with a sick citizen, and see whether they come. Ask a "cheap man" in the next town for goods on credit, or a small loan, and see whether you are accommodated.

These are very homely arguments, but they're worth considering and remembering; because, while they may not apply, word for word, to fair propositions, the principle—the policy—underlying them, applies to us in our dealings with the world, and has to do with a vast amount of wasted cash and misplaced support, without considering fraternity and the golden rule.

Take, for instance, the rheumatism and catarrh cure fakir. Why is it that people—often intelligent people—will stand on a street corner at night under a flaming gasoline torch, and let a slick tongued fakir talk dollars out of their pockets for a lot of bottled cheap stuff he probably bought from the village druggist in the afternoon?
Why? Well, we just said it—because he was "slick tongued." But, after all—why? Here's a fellow who never saw before, know nothing about, and will probably never see again. A fellow who has no interest in you whatever, and cares nothing for you, your friends, your poor people, your church, or anything, except to get your cash.

Isn't it remarkable, when one thinks quietly over the matter, how little confidence one class of people have in their neighbors of another class? Isn't it strange that we say—"Dr. Blank is an excellent physician, and has been attending our family for years" and then, instead of applying to him for medicine, or the home druggist, in whose intelligence, we have absolute confidence, pay a street corner fakir a dollar for a bottle of stuff we're afraid to take after we have it. It's more than remarkable—it shows something radically wrong in the construction of our humanity —a lack of common sense and the simplest principles of religion. "Charity should begin at home," which means that, home, its interests and people, should command our support and protection—but, in practice, she operates a long way from home.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for many years and bear cheerful testimony to its value as a medicine which should be in every family. In coughs and colds we have found it to be efficacious and in croup and whooping cough in children we deem it indispensable.— P. B. ENGLAR, 4137 Fairfax Ave., St.
Louis, Mo. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

President McKinley.

Much of the success and of the good feeling marking the action of Congress at its late session is due to the conciliatory temper, the excellent judgment and the personal tact and the undeviating veracity of President McKinley.
He was a representative himself for twenty years. A large majority of the members of both Houses are his personal friends. Neither his intercourse nor his confidences were affected by political considerations. He was freely and frankly conferred with what is called the opposition as with the men of the party in power. While slow to give his word he was careful to keep it, and he did not make proposals that he might, and probably would, meet their views, only afterward to find reasons or excuses for disappointing them. While the supreme tests which the national situation has laid upon his statesmanship have been met to the satisfaction and admiration of the country, the multiplied tests of another sort which have been put upon him by the necessity of bringing Congress into substantial unity with the purposes of the Government and by the obligations to ignore partisan considerations in the many army and navy appointments to his hand have shown him to be one of the most upright, far-seeing and masterful politicians of the world.

His administration is bound to achieve greatness as well as to have greatness thrust upon it; but his personal conduct or employment of unexpected powers has been so admirable, and his bearing has been alike so sunny, so natural, so sympathetic, so dignified, and so consistent that he will be surprised if, in the retrospect of history, he is not reverently regarded to be as truly a providential man in the presidency as any of his predecessors in times of great national stress and strain have been declared to be. To him is largely due the fact that Congress has been a tribunal of great public service instead of a wrangling menagerie of quarrelers, marplots, and of the victims of cross purposes.—The Eagle (Ind. Dem.), Brooklyn.

Decay of Drunkenness.

The United States Bureau of Labor finds that the American people, who consumed per capita two and a half gallons of whiskey and other fiery spirits and only 1.36 gallons of beer in 1880, now consume per capita only one gallon of high spirits and 15.16 gallons of beer.

There can be no doubt that this means an enormous decrease in drunkenness. It means that the habits of the people in the matter of taking stimulants have been revolutionized.

What is the cause of this change?
Those who have studied the results of moral suasion and moral legislation in other directions will hardly admit that changes so sweeping could have

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

been produced in so short a time by causes so gentle, so slow of action and so often misdirected into producing just the reverse of the intended effects.

There is, however, a cause lying right upon the surface that completely accounts for the change. The struggle for existence under modern conditions makes short work of the man who keeps his brains befuddled with liquor. In many of the greatest lines of employment the man who drinks to excess is barred. In many others he is hopelessly handicapped. The drunkard or the tipsy man no longer excites amusement or sympathy, but suspicion and disgust. The heavy drinking is done by the two leisure classes—the one at the top and the other at the bottom—and neither of these classes is of much account in this busy world.

Twenty years ago this drink problem was discussed as one of the great perils. It is solving itself. And that is the fate of all problems, however perpetual, when they are faced by an intelligent progressive and industrious people.—N. Y. World.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has Lame Back and Weak Kidneys, Malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to Liver and Kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures Constipation, Headache, Stomach Spasms, Sleeplessness and Melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor.
Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at R. S. McKinney's Drug Store.

Pension Payments.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Commissioner of Pensions Evans believes the high-water mark—1,000,000—will soon be reached in the number of pensions paid by this government, and during the current year there will be a steady decrease, which will not be interfered with by the pensions granted to soldiers in the present war. At the end of the fiscal year there were 970,014 pensions on the rolls, which is an increase of 7,000 over last year, while for the year ending June 30, 1897, there was a total increase of only 5,000 over the previous year. Disbursements increased $5,000,000 for the year just ended, and the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, showed an increase of $1,510,000 over the previous year. The total disbursements for the year just ended were $145,000,000.

Fifty-two thousand new claims were allowed last year, but on account of deaths, attainment of majority by minors, widows marrying, and fraudulent claims being out, the total increase was only 17,000. There are now 900 claims pending, which is equal to two-thirds of the present pension list.
Special effort will be made to adjudicate them, and little, if any, additional legislation will be recommended by the commission.

At the close of business yesterday ninety-seven claims for pensions had been made which grew out of the present war, and it is estimated these claims will reach about 20,000. No new legislation will be required to adjudicate these claims, as laws providing for them are already on the statute books. No increase will be required in the pension office force to handle these claims, as about 20,000 pensions are granted each month with the present clerical force.
