The Old Well Closed.

The public well, one of the oldest of the old Taneytown landmarks, located in the center of the square from before the earliest recollection of the oldest inhabitants, has been closed. In view this week, by direction of the authorities in removing the iron railing and pump and arching over the top, the well is now closed. The well water supply, which it must support, and it seems scarcely wise to furnish water, free from another source, and, in view of the fact that well water much improves the square for public use. Besides, a chemical analysis shows the water to be very impure.

ENTERED AT TANeyTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER

SATURDAY, OCT. 8th., 1898.

AT LAST, THE Carroll News has come out flat-footedly—editorially—as a republican journal and a supporter of Mr. Baker for Congress. The RECORD is getting very lonesome, and it looks as if it will have to organize a non-partisan Editorial Association of its own with one member, if it wants to participate in the advantages supposed to attach to such organizations. Probably, we, and the Sun might fraternize.

COL. "TRUDY" Roosevelt, the first of the prominent figures of the late war to come into political prominence has commenced to find trouble already. The Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, of Lewox committee fame, has stated in an interview that, if Roosevelt went to Senator Platt with a "see me first" desire, as is charged, the Rev. will fight the Rough Rider as he would the devil, or the Platt machine, two powers in New York regarded by him as identical.

THE FREDERICK Citizen says, "57 cent wheat is not apt to make suckers bite at Republican futures," and intimates that, somehow or other, promised prosperity has not materialized. Well, just look how the "sixth district" made the rest of the world "put up the dust" for peaches, this year. You don't want "prosperity" prices for everything do you? Somehow or other, we kinder think this "57 cent wheat" yarn is used to attract the attention of "suckers" from looking the other way where the sun of prosperity does shine.

Taneytown's Future.

Taneytown is essentially not a "boom" town, and its citizens should be proud of the fact to a proper degree. Neither is it too slow to be "old fogeyish," though, in all truth, it should be said that it has only just within the past fifteen years emerged from that condition. Its progress is necessarily slow, because it is the progress which lasts, and makes no steps backward. Its future is assured, because nothing now exists within its limits that can be taken away, to its injury. As a town, we have everything to gain—nothing to lose.

Surely, we occupy the position of looking forward to the fact, that, in another fifteen or twenty years, Taneytown will have improved almost as much as it has in the past corresponding period, and this is not a rainbow chasing thought, by any means, but is backed up by solid reasons. The spirit of progress is with us to stay. It has shown itself sufficiently, even since our recent fire, to predicate that it is sure to manifest itself in various needed improvements within a few years. We do need many improvements and they will be made.

There is such a thing as town pride, which, when aroused—and it has been slow in our case—overcomes all ordinary obstacles. We have a good location; our citizens are possessed of means, equal to the average; our business men are alert and intelligent; public morals here are up to, or above, the standard; and, in most ways, we possess all the special and natural advantages necessary to a live bustling town for business, and exceptional social, religious and educational elements for the establishment of model homes.

That our individuality has undergone a very decided change, for the better, is proven every time a visitor comes here who has been away for a number of years; and, that this change in individuality has at last made itself realized by our own people—not visitors—is the indisputable reason for the assertion that our future will bloom with still greater progress. The awakening has been slow coming, because we were in a deep sleep, but, it is here, and the natives in adjoining sections will be given the opportunity to exercise their amazement at the development of the latent forces of old Taneytown, and that, before long

A Strong Indorsement.

The following letter, received from one of the most intelligent citizens of Frederick county, was not intended for publication; but, as it is full of pointed paragraphs in reference to abuses in politics, such as the RECORD has frequently directed attention to, we publish it as showing that there are others who agree with our ideas and that there is a sentiment forming, gradually, which will at some future time make its influence felt for the betterment of existing political practices. "I do most heartily indorse your paper, and especially your bold and independent course in dealing with abuses, public and private. Your condemnation of the present methods of making nominations a matter of barter and sale is a timely warning against this prevailing evil. Closely connected with this crying evil are "election frauds." The ballot is the expression of the will of a free people, and its purity should be guarded with jealous care. To violate that purity is the gravest menace to our free institutions. One result of our universal suffrage, is, that elections often turn upon the votes of that large class made up of "the roughs." To control and manage this vote constitutes the "dirty work" of politics. The better class of politicians shrink from this iniquitous busness, but, unfortunately they concede it to come at all. They tolerate bribery and purchase of votes, and thus the right of suffrage becomes a mere farce—money, and not merit, is the test of success.

The right to vote is a solemn and sacred trust. It behooves all good citizens to guard the purity of the ballot. Persistent violation of its people will surely lead to the destruction of our grand republic. Few persons, perhaps, realized the imminent danger of a bloody political strife in 1876; yet such was the excitement of the people over the presidential contest, that ominous clouds hung for weeks over our land—we passed a tremendous crisis—and all came from tampering with election returns."

Banner Year in Business.

Eugene Levering, president of the Baltimore Board of Trade, and late prohibition candidate for the Presidency, submitted his report at the annual meeting of the Board on Monday last, reviewing the business of Baltimore for the past year, as well as that of the entire country. The following condensation of the report is from Tuesday's American:

"The report opens by pointing out that the present has been the banner year in the business of the country, calling attention to the wonderful increase in the production of manufacturing industries, accompanied by a corresponding foreign demand for many of the products, the increased railroad earnings, bank clearings, savings bank deposits, etc., together with a decrease in the number of business failures. The report goes on to speak of the momentous issues now confronting the nation, after the restoration of the annexation of Hawaii, the actual possession of Porto Rico, the probable annexation of Cuba, the military occupation of Manila, and the modern coal-mining stations, the report goes on to say 'And this fact raises the question in many minds as to how far our manifest destiny, or, in other words, God in history, may not be achieved very results be opening the way, particularly in the Eastern Hemisphere, for a wider dissemination of the principles of individual manhood, modern civilization, free government and religious liberty, as represented by these United States.'

"The report then takes up the subject of financial legislation, saying that, owing to the failure of Congress to authorize the appointment, by President McKinley, of a special commission to investigate the entire subject and to report thereon, as recommended by the Indianapolis Conference of 1897, the executive committee of that conference named a committee to do the work, with ex-Senator Edw. B. Chace, of Vermont, as chairman. Their report was introduced into Congress, and referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, where it became the basis for the bill prepared by the sub-committee, known as the McCready bill, now on the calendar awaiting action. 'In the meantime,' continues the report, 'the congressional elections are approaching, and with them an revival of the free-silver-coinsage agitation, and other heresies of the Chicago platform of 1896.'

Our little boy was afflicted with rheumatism in his knee; and at times unable to put his foot to the floor. We tried in vain, everything we could hear of that we thought would help him. We almost gave up in despair, when some one advised us to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We did so, and the first bottle gave so much relief that we got a second one, and, to our surprise, it cured him almost well.—P. W. Christ and his son, Christian Church, Neodesha, Kan.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

The Philippines and Territorial Expansion.

If the Filipinos are not fit to govern themselves, they are not fit to be made part of a self-governing people. If they are fit to govern themselves, up to the standard of their nature and their needs—which is all that any people can do—it would be, as Mr. McKinley has said, an act of "criminal aggression" to annex and rule them against their will.

If "taxation without representation" was tyranny in 1776, as our forefathers declared, is it not so now?

If "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," how can we justify a despotic government of the Filipinos against their consent?

If we had not previously troubles and problems enough of our own, will not the acquisition of Porto Rico and the responsibility for Cuba give us enough, without taking on the burden of governing 8,000,000 Malays and savages 10,000 miles away?

If we have any undeveloped genius for government, would it not be better to apply it to our own affairs? Does the management of our home camps suggest that we are qualified to undertake a military government at the antipodes?

If we care for the verdict of history how can we follow a war of liberation with a war of subjugation?—N. Y. World.

The War of Independence brought into being a new nation, establishing that which the world had never known before—"a government of the people, for the people and by the people." It was, and it is, freedom—liberty.

The war of 1812 severed completely America from Great Britain, made good the liberty purchased in the Revolution. It was not the power of the army that did it, it was the supremacy of the new power on the sea. The Republic had become a nation.

The war with Mexico came; the Latin race in America demanded its place, but the result at the close established the fact that the Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Celtic, was the dominant and the ruling power on this continent, and that this dominant power would hold and would all the time henceforth direct and control. The war for the Union came; the South was arrayed against the North; millions of men gathered on the field of civil war; great battles were fought; great victories won; the war came to an end, and many millions who had been all lives in slavery were made free. The United States entered into the war with Spain. The American people saw, and the American Congress declared that its aim and purpose was solely to give freedom and independence to Cuba; but almost the first event of the conflict was the naval battle at Manila, on the other side of the world, and the placing under the care of the American nation of ten millions of people in two thousand islands of the sea. Our little plan of "humanity" was undoubtedly good, but God Almighty's plan of Home and Citizenship.

Possibly not the "New Woman," concerning whom so much has been said and written, but whose subtle character eludes adequate description...

Every day the demand in this great Commonwealth, for a better quality of citizenship, becomes more imperative. And who can so thoroughly imbue the young heart with the principles of good government...

Have you not too long, already looked with indifference upon many of the great problems now pressing upon the body politic, for solution?

If our boys are to become true citizens, exponents of freedom, truth, justice and purity, I think it is not presumption to say that their first lessons in political and social economy should be received from your hands...

Success, the assessor of the Empress of Austria, on his own confession, declares "that he has been an anarchist since he was thirteen years old."

MUSIC.

"Who does not like music?" This question is often asked, and the answer is not always, "No one." Music is enjoyed by dumb brutes, as well as by man...

There is a certain inspiration in music found nowhere else in nature. It lifts the heart of man above the groveling things of this life; it inspires energy in the heart of the despondent, and courage in the heart of the depressed...

We have our church choirs where a few meet to practice, perhaps once a week, but the great majority take no interest whatever in music.

Just what to do to create an interest in music is a question on which many might express their views. At an impromptu meeting held in Silver Run, sometime ago, was organized what is to be known as "The Carroll County Choir Association."

an interest created in music, which is enjoyed so much, and will be enjoyed all the more when our young people understand the theory of music, and can learn a new piece themselves.

Home Circle! Oh, what meaning there is in those two little words, and how many thoughts they suggest. How many histories could be written from the one word home, and how often the home circle is broken up.

Now let our holiday end, (silence, I mean) as I am sure that very few, if any, of our Circle, has, during the past summer, eaten idle bread. Well, the autumn days and longer evenings have come, and we hope to find time to talk to the Circle.

I am sure Dora will be able to tell us something about the soldiers, and the great ships that sailed from the Pacific coast, during the late war. She has been silent so long, that we will expect one of her long and interesting letters.

"Good evening, Reby, I've come to report." "Well, you needn't because I saw your company ringing the door bell. Come in, I'm going to tell you what happened this afternoon. A large chicken hawk swooped down and captured a little chicken and flew away with it; the helpless chicken creaked so pitifully until the distance prevented me hearing it, when suddenly, apparently from nowhere, came two smaller birds and fought the hawk furiously but it did not save the chicken."

"There, there, Lena, that is as far as we can go with that subject, for there are many whys that can't be answered. Now Lena what do you think of this—Willie said to me, 'If the mind—the mental powers, or spirit of man—lives forever, as the minister said, why do people live for years after the mind or mental power is partly or entirely gone?'"

"I said, 'Willie, if the internal machinery of your watch was in perfect order, and the case was bent in here, or dented there, rusted from carelessness or lack of knowledge, so that the wonderful main spring could not perform the labor for which it was created; when the old battered case was removed and right conditions restored, might not the delicate machinery preform its perfect work again?'"

"Let's think that over, mamma, said Willie." "It will set me to thinking, too, said Lena; and I resolve to do more thinking in the future than I have been doing."

"A very good resolve, Lena, but don't forget that the pathway through life is paved with good resolves." "I'll not forget. Now thank you for entertaining me, and if I don't leave company for supper, to-morrow evening, I will come again."

"All right, I will be delighted to have you, but just wait a moment, if you have that company for supper, how are you going to have it served, stewed or fried? Suppose you take that sentence and correct it for me until you come again."

"All right, said Lena, I'll try, Good-night." TESSIE.

How to Prevent Croup.

We have two children who are subject to attacks of croup. Whenever an attack is coming on my wife gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always prevents the attack. It is a household necessity in this country and no matter what else we run out of, it would not do to be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"The idea of organizing a stock company and putting it on as a permanent attraction is not my scheme. It was all Mrs. Thomas W. Keene, widow of the late tragedian, who will manage Robinson's Opera House this season, is one of the most interesting women in the profession."

lady was dressed in the height of fashion, and owing to the enormous sleeves of her waist, she could only sit on the edge of the chair for fear of crushing them.

Her shoes were new and rather tight and there was unmistakably a look of pain in her face. As I sat and looked at her I could not help thinking there was room to suppose that women lacked brains, for you'd never catch a man torturing himself so for fashion's sake.

Between the hours of two and three that afternoon, Lena has a little time to rest, so taking a book from the bookcase entitled, "getting on in the world" proceeds to see what is in it, but has scarcely read the preface when the door-bell rings. Hastily slipping the book beneath one of the sofa pillows—for to be caught reading anything except the latest novel would have attracted attention—she answers the bell to find her caller is Mrs. Rand, an elderly lady who is known to be quite a gossip and generally knows "the latest news."

"Good afternoon, Lena, how are you to-day?" "Just splendid, and how are you?" "Oh I'm poorly, I think there'll be a change in the weather soon; my rheumatism is so bad the past few days."

"Come in and be seated, Mrs. Rand it will rest you. I'll take your wraps and you'll be more comfortable."

"After several hours spent in useless gossip, in which some of the neighbors were criticised, Lena invites Mrs. Rand to six-o'clock tea, and some time afterwards, she takes her departure."

"Now," says Lena, "this afternoon is gone and I was to report this evening to Reby to tell her what I read in the book. I wonder what she will say when I tell her how I spent it? I'll go anyhow."

"Good evening, Reby, I've come to report." "Well, you needn't because I saw your company ringing the door bell. Come in, I'm going to tell you what happened this afternoon. To a higher plane of living and thinking. The fact that the other women counts for nothing with their realists. The latter have usually studied everything—spiritualism, theosophy, the theories of animal magnetism, magnetic healing and Christian science.

Another woman of the same class is unusually clever and has considerable time at her disposal. She studied all theosophy and isms, then talked with a clairvoyant and high philosopher. He told her she had a mission—that she was to teach her sisters.

That settled matters for her. The moment she meets another woman she begins proselyting or making the effort. She says she declares the other women are so stupid that she can't appreciate or understand her high philosophy. Sometimes she loses her temper, especially if one who listened earnestly until all the theories were explained clings to her own beliefs after thus raising the hopes of the self appointed teacher.

Another woman of this type is in business in Pittsburg. She is really successful despite the fact that she talks more to her customers about her beliefs than she does about her goods. Indeed if one listens she forgets she has a prospective customer and rambles off in the clouds, trying to get a plan to appreciate or understand her high philosophy. Sometimes she loses her temper, especially if one who listened earnestly until all the theories were explained clings to her own beliefs after thus raising the hopes of the self appointed teacher.

Usefulness of Women's Clubs. "That the women's clubs in America are doing valuable work in many directions admits of no doubt," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies Home Journal. "And so long as a woman's club keeps within its sphere—that of the social, mental and educational culture of the sex and the children and the home, and it makes up political questions and go into a melange of purely municipal matters, the conduct of which it is not given women to rightly understand and in which they can do no good, but, on the contrary, effect much harm, it serves a purpose and is of benefit to the community."

Mrs. Thomas W. Keene, widow of the late tragedian, who will manage Robinson's Opera House this season, is one of the most interesting women in the profession. She is 57 years old, was born in New York and is the first woman to undertake the management of a theater in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Keene spoke interestingly of her venture in Cincinnati Friday: "The idea of organizing a stock company and putting it on as a permanent attraction is not my scheme. It was all Mrs. Thomas W. Keene, widow of the late tragedian, who will manage Robinson's Opera House this season, is one of the most interesting women in the profession."

FRUIT JUICES. The preparation of unfermented grape juice has attracted the attention of people to the preservation of the juices of other fruits in cans and bottles. This can be accomplished very easily, and the juices will keep for a year or more without working or souring. The method employed by manufacturers who supply sugar with their cranberry fruit juices is a good one. The juices are first expressed and then gently heated just below the boiling point and kept so for 15 minutes, which will destroy all fermenting agents. Meanwhile the bottles in which the juices are to be kept are heated also. The juice is then filtered through felt into the bottles in order to make it free from all seeds and substances that might sour. As soon as the bottles are filled, while in a warm condition, they must be securely closed. Juices preserved in this way at home are good for flavoring various articles and they are far less injurious than many purchased in the market, for these latter often contain various antiseptics which in time hurt the coating of the stomach and cause indigestion.

A CURIOUS SIGHT. In Japan the traveler sees many curious sights. One of the strangest of which is the population washing itself at the corners of streets toward evening. In Yeddo the citizens frequent large bathing establishments. The street doors of such resorts stand open, and a striking spectacle, to say the least, is presented by the inmates sitting washing themselves with the hot water. This is a general custom, and nothing whatever is thought of it. Such an apparent want of modesty is difficult to comprehend and is not reconcilable with the advanced state of civilization of the Japanese. In many parts of the world the women wash their faces with water from the hot springs. The latter offer a striking antagonism to those accepted by us.
