It is intended to be a place where the community can find out what is going on in their own neighborhood, and where they can express their views on local matters. It is not intended to be a place for general news, or for the publication of advertisements.

If baseball is going to "break out" in Taneytown this year, it is about time for it to break. Can not some of our energetic young men get together, secure a field, and give us our customary share of the National game?

We are pleased to announce that the degree of Doctor of Philosophy has been conferred upon Rev. Wm. B. Dutera, by the Chicago University. Coming from such a distinguished institution, the honor is one of great value and significance.

A gentleman in Westminster, actively connected with the recent Firemen's Convention, writes to the RECORD, "We are certainly under obligations to the Taneytown Fire Company for its fine showing, and the interest it manifested in the event."

Mrs. Pamela Cash, the mother of Mr. Lewis Cash, of Middleburg district, was buried in St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery, this place, on Thursday morning. She died on Tuesday, in Philadelphia, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Etta Little. She was in her 92nd year.

D. Thomas Reindollar, of this place, has been offered a position as stenographer and typewriter in the office of Maj. Fred Brackett, New York, who has charge of the United States department of the Paris Exposition. Mr. Reindollar left on Monday, and will give the work a trial.

It is said that blowing a dinner horn, or beating a bass drum under a tree infested with caterpillars, will cause the pests to fall to the ground. While it is little late for trial this season, and we do not vouch for the effectiveness of the remedy, it is very easy to prove whether it is any good or not.

E. O. Garner, of this district, who has heretofore held the position of Assistant Agriculturalist, at the Maryland Agricultural Experiment station, has been given charge of both farms connected with the institution, under Professor Patterson, as may be more fully seen on reference to an article in another column.

The Burgess and Commissioners published an Ordinance, last Saturday, which prohibits the manufacture or sale of Fertilizers in any building less than 150 feet from any street within the corporate limits, and provides a fine of not less than $15.00, or more than $50.00, and costs, for each violation; or, in default of payment of such fine, imprisonment for thirty days either in the lock-up, or to the county jail. With all due respect for the wisdom of the powers, etc., etc., we simply propound one question. If fertilizers, in sacks, on sale in business houses for a few months in the year, is a nuisance when within 150 feet of a public street, what is a hog pen that does business every day in the year, in the open, and is not restricted as to location?

News Notes of General Interest from Various Sources.

Dr. Samuel S. Buckley, professor of veterinary science at the Maryland Agricultural College, was married to Miss Clara R. Thomas, of Chicago, on the 12th.

The first American volunteers started home from Manila, on Wednesday, on the transports Newport and Ohio. The troops are chiefly from Oregon, and number 1117.

A new paper, edited by colored men, has made its appearance in Frederick. It is called "The Afro-American Speaker," and is devoted to the religious, moral and industrial advancement of the race.

Among the commencement exercises which took place at Western Maryland College, this week, the dedication of Alumni Hall, on Tuesday, at which Governor Lowndes and Senator Wellington delivered addresses, attracted the most marked attention. The exercises throughout the week were of a high order and very interesting. Want of space prevents giving the details of the event.

The Maryland Bankers' Association will hold its fourth annual convention at Ocean City, on July 20 and 21. The sessions will be held in the convention hall of the Atlantic Hotel, which will also be headquarters of the members. Secretary of the Treasury, George Comptroller of the Currency, Dawes, and other well-known financiers will probably attend the convention, invitations already having been extended.

For humorous yet forcible logic the conclusions of that Kansas man who was buried alive are worthy of special mention. He says that when he began to recover consciousness he knew he was not dead because his feet were cold if he were hungry, and that he knew if he were in heaven he would not be hungry, and if he were in the other place his feet would not be cold. In the line of semi-cherul circumstances these are surely hard to beat.

It is said that Senator Gorman has intimated to his friends in the Senate that he will be a candidate for the democratic Presidential nomination next year. He does not expect to be nominated, but he expects to defeat Bryan by controlling somewhat more than one-third of the delegates. In other words, the Maryland statesman is going in to defeat the Nebraska man in the convention, and trust to chances of securing indirect returns for the job.

Late Monday night just before the concluding act of Welsh Brothers' show at Chambersburg, Pa., a terrible panic was created by the total collapse of all the tiers of reserved seats. Fully six hundred women and children were thrown in a struggling mass upon the ground, some of them falling ten feet. Strange to say the worst hurt person was a man who had two ribs broken. A dozen women fainted, and many people were bruised, but no limbs were broken. The seats were overloaded.

No little feeling has been engendered among the members of the Maryland State Firemen's Association over the alleged action which permitted the three companies from Hagerstown to join the association at $8 each, while the Taneytown, Pikesville and Pooconoke City companies, which joined at the same time, paid $13 each. The action was strenuously opposed by the ex-officers of the association, who contended that the constitution required all companies to pay $13 for admission into the association, and no one had authority to discriminate.

While Mr. Geo. T. Steiner, of the Steiner Milling Company, Jefferson Frederick county, and Mrs. Steiner were in Frederick on Tuesday, their house was completely ransacked by two burglars. Mr. Steiner, who came to Frederick to give to the officers what little he had in the shape of clues, says that the robbers went through the house thoroughly, and broke open a stout safe, from which they took government bonds and bank certificates amounting to ten thousand dollars. They got no cash, however. They also carried off a suit of clothes belonging to Mr. Steiner, and many smaller articles.

Guy Motter, son of Rev. Isaac M. Motter, of Frederick, was frightfully injured in a bicycle accident Saturday evening last. Young Motter, who is seventeen years old, was speeding on a path in front of his home, and was going at his topmost speed, when his wheel struck a rock. The boy was hurled a distance of eight or nine feet through the air and landed on the sharp-pointed pickets of an iron fence, striking with such force that several of the iron rods, half an inch thick, were bent over. One of the pickets tore a gash over six inches long, through young Motter's left breast, and the point of another entered his chest.

The Republican congressmen from Maryland, including the two senators have not yet decided on the four census supervisors from Maryland. Mr. Mudd intends to appoint one, another will be allotted to Messrs Baker and Wachter for the city of Baltimore; the remaining two will be apportioned between Messrs McComas, Wellington and Pearce, but just in what way remains to be seen. Mr. Pearce is determined to name a man, so that the two senators may be compelled to agree on one supervisor. The supervisors must be confirmed by the Senate. Hence, no man objectionable to either senator will be appointed by the President.

FROM NEW WINDSOR.

Closing Exercises of New Windsor College.

In spite of the excessive heat, a large and enthusiastic audience was present at the annual elocutionary contest, on Tuesday evening June 6. Sixteen contestants participated, and the performance was uniformly excellent. The judges had considerable difficulty in making the awards, owing to the fine work done. The first prize for declamation was won by Mr. George O. Brillhart and the second by W. Raymond Anders, both of New Windsor.

The judges decided, that there was a tie for first place in the recitations, consequently first prizes were awarded to Miss Marie Emsley, of Union Bridge, and Miss Elsie Stevenson, of New Windsor; the second prize going to Miss Edna Snader, of New Windsor.

Other notable features of the entertainment were choruses by the school, a concert recitation of "Keramos" by ten young ladies, and a reading of "The Lotus Eaters" with musical accompaniment and Delarte movement by Misses Mary Nourse, Mary Repp and Mary Senseney. On Wednesday evening a lawn fête held on the college campus was largely attended.

Thursday at 11 o'clock, the following program was carefully followed: Invocation by Rev. James M. Nourse; song by the students; annual statement, by Rev. C. B. Ramsdell, D. D., of Washington, D. C.; duet, "Palms," by Misses Daisy Winter and Nellie Hibberd; the giving of rewards by Hon. Robert H. Smith; song, "Hallelujah and Bless of Nations," and addresses by Rev. DeWitt Benham, Ph. D., of Baltimore, and David H. Riddle, Emmitsburg, closing with prayer by Rev. William A. Price, pastor of Bethel Presbyterian church, of Catheart, Md. The aggregate of receipts for tuition and boarding was larger this scholastic year than any of the years since the Presbyterians have had the institution.

Ordinance No. 57, Scored.

Editor RECORD:—Will you allow a subscriber, and a resident of Taneytown, a small space in your columns to call the attention of the public to Ordinance No. 57, passed by our Town Council, June 9, 1899. I would like to have every fair-minded and honest man, take it up, and sift it to the bottom. Study it carefully, look it through and through, learn who was the originator, who solicited the names that appear upon the so-called formidable petition; learn what prompted them to apply to the Council, to declare this particular article (Fertilizer) a nuisance to the exclusion of all others—the barnyards, hog-pens and the filth that flows through our streets and gutters from other sources, after rain, etc.

Why was not this petition zeted upon before the May election; as it was in existence and possibly had been offered to the Board—maybe in its possession? Mr. Editor, this, in my opinion, is unequalled for unjust, and not in keeping with the reputation our little town has heretofore enjoyed. Our Councilmen surely did not give this matter due consideration; there has been, beyond a doubt, some outside influence, other than the one named in the ordinance, brought to bear upon them. It could not be otherwise, for they have taken upon themselves to interfere with a business. The action was strenuously opposed by the ex-officers of the association, who contended that the constitution required all companies to pay $13 for admission into the association, and no one had authority to discriminate.

DEMOCRATIC POLITICS.

The State Convention to be held August 2nd.

The Democratic State Central Committee met in Baltimore, on Wednesday, and decided that the state convention shall be held in Baltimore, Wednesday, August 2nd., which means a long campaign. Primaries and conventions in the counties, will be held at the option of the members of the state committee from each county, after a two weeks notice.

The meeting was fully attended, and it was some time before the early date named was selected, which was the preference of the county members, meeting with opposition from the city. The latter argued that a later date should be selected, in order that public sentiment might have an opportunity to crystallize about candidates for state officers, that the plans of the Republicans might be ascertained, and that the campaign might be made short and snappy.

The county members did not seem to care about republican plans, but desired the state and local tickets in the field early in order that they might have a good effect upon registration; they also desired time to smooth away any soreness that might follow heated primary contests, and to map out thorough and careful plans for the campaign. Being in the majority, the county members had their views adopted by the special committee and the recommendation was accepted by the State Committee without discussion.

Senator Gorman was unable to be present, but sent a letter pledging his active services in the campaign. A considerable number of aspirants for position on the state ticket, were present, but no preference was fore-shadowed at the meeting. The meeting was harmonious, and entirely devoid of sensational features. In the corridors, after the session adjourned, John Walter Smith seemed to be in the lead for the gubernatorial nomination.

The Record Keeps.

The following, from an unidentified exchange, describes the situation truthfully; every line and word is familiar weekly experience, long since learned by heart.

To run a newspaper without occasion for publishing an item that is true, and that gives offense, is like running a railroad without having accidents or smashups. To do either is a physical impossibility. The editor of a newspaper must be great an extent constantly at the mercy of both friends and enemies as the editor of a country newspaper. Rushed continually for news, and in order that the information concerning transpiring events, second or third-hand or not at all. Frequently statements are received from sources, and they are not checked, which are subsequently found to be without foundation. No one editor in a thousand willfully injures either friend or foe by misrepresentation. It is so great an honor for correction, and nine cases out of ten, if your case is just, you will be received politely, and proper correction will be made with pleasure.

Agricultural College Changes.

At the meeting of the trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College, last Friday, the following changes in the management of the affairs of the College Experiment Station, were made: The farm work connected with the Agricultural College proper was divorced from the college work and placed under Director H. J. Patterson. The farm work, which had assisted the abolishing of the office of farmer at the college, and Mr. Lemuel Shipley, of Carroll county, who had held the position for several years, was relieved from duty. Professor of Agriculture W. T. L. Tallafero was appointed assistant agriculturalist at the station, in addition to his other duties, and E. R. Garner was appointed farmer, under Director Patterson, to have charge of both farms. Prof. Richard H. Alvey, vice-president of the college, and professor of English and economics, tendered his resignation, which was accepted. Suitable resolutions were passed by the board, and the resignation of Mr. A. was conferred upon Professor Alvey. Professor Alvey's resignation was of his own volition. He will practice law, probably in Hagerstown, after June 1st. The vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. E. D. Sanderson, assistant entomologist, State Horticultural Department, was filled. Mr. Sanderson has accepted the position of assistant entomologist Department of Agriculture, Washington.

It is estimated that between sixty and sixty-three hundred dollars will be cut from the last year's expenses at the college. The board approved the reports of all college officers, and committee. The president reported 108 students, with 15 graduates. Gratifying reports were received from the state horticultural work, Farm Institute work and state fertilizer control. The trustees inspected the work of the experiment station, and favorable comments were made by the Governor. The present members of the faculty were re-elected, as were the station officers and staff, with the exception of the resignations noted.

How to Fix the Trusts.

What ought to be done with the trusts? Well, the peanut trust should be roasted; the flour trust, sifted; the sugar trust, smoked out; the plug tobacco trust, chewed up; the iron trust hammered thin; the wine trust, twisted; the furniture trust, carried in wheelbarrows; the heated hot; the solder trust melted; the berry trust picked clean; the paper trust stuffed into pulp; the lamp trust, ground up; the oil trust, heated; the bicycle trust, punctured; the mule trust kicked to death, and the coffin trust buried.—Chestertown Enterprise.

We might add, that the oil trust should be burned, the match trust, the type trust set up and left to rot, the separator trust, crushed, the envelope trust sealed and dispatched, the nail trust driven in, the sugar trust crushed soft and pulverized, and all unmentioned trusts, "busted"—if possible.

LINDSAY—EPPLEY.

Union Bridge the Scene of a Pretty Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eppley, in Union Bridge, was the scene of an interesting gathering on Wednesday evening, June 14th., the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Alice Marie, to Frank Clisby Lindsay. At 8.30 p. m., the bridal party entered the room to the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mary Helen Eppley, cousin of the bride. They were met by Rev. R. L. Patterson of St. James Lutheran church, of which both are active members, who united them in the holy bonds of matrimony according to the Lutheran form.

The bride was attired in white tulle and cream, trimmed with lace and rosebuds, while the groom wore the conventional black. After receiving the hearty congratulations of all present, all repaired to the dining room, where a bountiful supper was served. The small boys did not fail to put in their appearance, armed with sleigh bells and tin horns. After receiving a present, they took themselves off, no doubt wishing for a wedding every night. About ten o'clock the Union Bridge band put in the time by playing many beautiful selections, after which they were all invited to a place at the table, which they accepted with hearty good will.

Miss Eppley has been for several years one of the best beloved of Union Bridge's teachers, and is known to every one—especially every child—in the community. Mr. Lindsay is the master car builder in the W. M. Shops at Union Bridge. The best wishes of all attend them in their married life. The presents were many and beautiful. They will reside in Union Bridge.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eppley, Misses Kate, Rebecca Litz and Annie Eppley, Mrs. Ell Hiltabridle, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Little and son, Miss Mary Lightner, Miss Oran Derr, Mr. John B. ### Whitner—Doreus.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Doreus, of Woodsboro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 7th., at which time their daughter, Ella M., was married to Mr. Harvey H. Whitner, of Hanover, Pa. Promptly at the appointed hour, high noon, to the strains of the wedding march performed by Prof. T. A. Caulfield, of the Sanders & Stayman Co., of Baltimore the bridal party entered the parlor, where they were met by the Rev. D. J. Wolf, of Walkersville, who performed the ceremony. The bride was handsomely attired in a blue gray traveling suit, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a bouquet of white carnations; the groom wore the conventional black. After receiving the congratulations of their many friends, they were escorted to the dining hall, where a bountiful collation was served.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, among them being a silver watch and tea set, the gift of the groom. Amid showers of rice Mr. and Mrs. Whitner left on the 3.25 train for a northern tour, after which they will return to their home in Hanover, where the groom, who is a member of the Hanover Bending Co. firm, is engaged in business. Miss Doreus, is one of Woodsboro's most popular young ladies in both society and church. She will be greatly missed by her host of friends, and they send with her to her new home their best wishes for a long and happy life.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

Milton Academy Closes with an Interesting Program.

The closing exercises of Milton Academy, held last Monday, commencing in the forenoon, with examination of the students in the Academy building, before a large number of the patrons of the school. The examination covered all branches and was sufficiently thorough to show both the scope of the course of study and the degree of proficiency attained. The result was highly complimentary to Professor and Mrs. Meier, as well as to the pupils, and those who were present left well satisfied that their patronage of the school was amply justified. The speaking chair was occupied long before the exercises began, and standing room in the rear and in the lobes failed to accommodate all who desired admission.

The main interest centered in the full list of exercises rendered in the Opera House, at night. For the first time, the speaking chair was occupied by a large audience, and a partial interference with the enjoyment of some of the numbers of the program. Every chair was occupied long before the exercises began, and standing room in the rear and in the lobes failed to accommodate all who desired admission.

After prayer by Rev. Charles A. Britt, Professor Meier, in a brief introductory, expressed his appreciation of the presence of the audience, and extended his thanks for the patronage which increased the number of pupils from nine, at the beginning, to forty-four at present. He briefly reviewed the characteristics of Milton Academy, giving thoroughness and moral training as the objects of prime importance. He stated that thorough education does not alone stand for the gaining of a large store of knowledge, or of facts, but includes development of character and soul; moral training must be looked upon as a part of education, and that education should be of a higher character than that of the past. He emphasized the necessity for a definite education, and made the point that parents are too apt to depend on the inclinations of their children, as to course of study, and not enough on their own experience and judgment; that fragmentary education tends toward the superficial, and does not lead far in any direction; thoroughness is the great consideration.

Charles W. Null delivered the Salutatory in a highly creditable manner, presenting numerous gems of thought, his theme being, "Man does not live alone." He emphasized the element of cohesion, both in life and nature, showing the dependence of small things, one on another, in order to produce great things, and that this is the Divine scheme of the world, for everything. He said too little account was paid to small things—small acts and common-place expressions—that practical knowledge, common sense, and even expressions of the countenance, told thoughts of the mind; the young man should be very interesting to parents and teachers. He closed with an appeal for kindness and charity to the poor; for the influence of small courtesies to the unfortunate; and for greater honor to be given to those who have thus far crowned themselves with success.

Some time Tuesday night, burglars attempted to enter Snider's store; quite a number of holes was bored in the ware-room door, also one into the back door. The opinion is that they must have been frightened away before they had completed their work. It is a great pity that these parties should have done this, as they are in Mr. Jacob Yealy's cellar, and moved things around, but no damage was done and nothing missing.

The Supreme Court, A. O. K. of the M. C. met in Lancaster, Pa. June 13th., in G. A. Hall, Post St. J. W. Reek, Supreme Representative from Maryland, informs us that this session promises to be very interesting, and that important legislation will be made for the benefit of the order.

Correspondence.

To all Correspondents.

All communications for the RECORD must be signed by the writer's own name; not necessarily in full, but the name must be legible and correct. Items of a miscellaneous character, and not wanted, will be returned to the sender, if desired.

Very frequently, correspondents send us items, at length, relative to some important event in their neighborhood or town, and would like to have extra copies of the issue containing the item, in order that they may send them to friends. We shall be pleased to respond to all such requests, when made in time, and for a reasonable supply, as the circulation of the RECORD in such a manner, represents to us the distribution of "sample copies," as well as a reward to those who send the items referred to.

We value every correspondence very highly, and cannot get too much of the legitimate sort—the kind our subscribers want to read, for real information. As has been frequently stated, we cheerfully furnish all regular writers with stamped envelopes and paper, and do not object to the sending of more than one letter a week, when it is necessary to do so in order to get the news to us. Always send in lengthy letters by Thursday morning, if possible.

Harney.

We certainly rejoice that our pupils from Harney who attended Prof. Meier's school during the past year, were successful in their work, as to carry off their good share of the honors. We most heartily congratulate Norman Hess, Warren Hill, Miss May Hill and Thirion Null, who were the successful prize winners from this place, this year. We hope that their success thus far will not only cause them to rejoice, but that it will create a greater determination to reach a higher standard of education than they now possess. Harney has a good reputation, thus far, but we leave a wife and four children, young ladies and gentlemen, now to let the good name of your little town go down, but strive to reach a higher standard than has yet been reached, and bring with you still greater honors than have been brought by those of your companions who have thus far crowned themselves with success.

Some time Tuesday night, burglars attempted to enter Snider's store; quite a number of holes was bored in the ware-room door, also one into the back door. The opinion is that they must have been frightened away before they had completed their work. It is a great pity that these parties should have done this, as they are in Mr. Jacob Yealy's cellar, and moved things around, but no damage was done and nothing missing.

The Supreme Court, A. O. K. of the M. C. met in Lancaster, Pa. June 13th., in G. A. Hall, Post St. J. W. Reek, Supreme Representative from Maryland, informs us that this session promises to be very interesting, and that important legislation will be made for the benefit of the order.

Uniontown.

Mrs. Angeline Bowers died at her residence near Uniontown, on Thursday morning, June 8th. Interment in St. Joseph's Catholic burying ground at Taneytown, on Saturday, June 10th., funeral services being conducted by her pastor, Rev. B. J. Lennon. The deceased was the widow of the late David Bowers, who died suddenly three years and a few days ago; he was stricken down while plowing corn. The untimely loss of these fond parents falls heavily upon three children who yet survive.

Last week, while Mr. Lewis Myers was hauling rye from his grain shed, he killed 13 pole cats.

Children's-day services will be observed by the Church of God Sabbath

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, JUNE 17th., 1899.

JUST NOW, the man who "volunteered," is dividing honors with the college graduate, and, in many instances, "loafing," and boasting of scenes through which they passed—self-constituted heroes.

A DOG, USED to eating eggs, saw an Oyster, and opening his mouth to its widest extent, swallowed it down with the utmost relish, supposing it to be an egg. Soon afterwards, suffering great pain in his stomach, he said, "I deserve all this torment, for my folly in thinking that everything round must be an egg."—Isop.

A PHASE of the trust question, not generally dilated on, is, that every manufacturing country in Europe has trusts in the proportion that they have capital and enterprise. Whether or not they are learning from us, we have no means of finding out, but the fact remains—they have them, and greater ones are now being formed. At present, a great steel and iron trust is being organized in Germany, headed by Krupp, the celebrated gun manufacturer.

ADMIRAL DEWEY has cabled a friend that he will not accept the home, which a small portion of the American people is preparing to present to him, but says if the fund is presented he will invest it in a home for sick and disabled soldiers. Taking this decision, and the fact that the fund amounts to only a little over $7000, at this time, the previously expressed views of the RECORD on the subject seem to have correctly represented true American sentiment. Dewey is not only a hero, but has good sense.

The Wish Father to the Thought.

Citizens of Taneytown who like to boast of the growth of the place, and give an estimate of the population which represents an increase of one-third since 1890, are likely to be greatly disappointed with the result of the enumeration which will be announced next year. In these estimates, the wish is father to the thought, because, as a matter of fact, the actual increase in our population is not likely to exceed fifty, in ten years, or a gain of less than ten per cent.

Many, no doubt, confound improvement with growth. While we have, in many ways, added to the appearance of the town—its streets and buildings—and have pulled it, pretty nearly out of the old rut in which it travelled contentedly for so many years, we must not overlook the fact, that, as a rule, our new buildings have simply taken the place of old ones; that the percentage of increase in buildings, in point of number, has been very small, and this fact leads us to another conclusion.

Taneytown has not been broadly enterprising; but, rather selfish, and proud of her ability to improve for her own special enjoyment. It has not opened its gates to strangers and invited them to come in. It has rather advertised the feature of self-satisfaction; and while it no longer runs down in the rut, in reality, it runs none the less after a narrow method, only on a higher and better ballasted track. In competition with other towns for securing a prize, in the shape of a manufacturing plant, or in the matter of offering special inducements to some enterprise to come here and begin operations, we would "not be in it," as we don't offer premiums.

Taneytown gets older and better, but don't expand. In a measure, it is exclusive and its people are perfectly satisfied that this is so. For years, every dwelling has been occupied, and there has been a constantly existing demand for more, but, we say to outsiders, practically, "We don't care particularly to have you, but, if you can get in, we'll be glad to welcome you." After all, this system has one good feature to recommend it; it has resulted in a good class of citizens—people with means, and those who work; "no account" people are scarce with us, because they would be out of place.

Some day, probably, we'll get a "move on," but there does not seem to be much real necessity for it, as big towns are not always the best towns. They, too, it is too late to start in to be real big, particularly as it does not appear among the probabilities that a new county will ever be formed, with Taneytown as the county seat; therefore there does not appear to be any special reason why we should worry ourselves over the matter of population, particularly as we get along "pretty well, thank you," on our present plan.

We do, however, have aspirations. We hope to have electric lights, and a cemetery. There are other things, but these two are paramount. Of course, we would like to try the experiment of extending the limits of the town; of opening up lots at a reasonable price for building purposes, thus giving outsiders a show; but, first of all, we want light, and then, a creditable cemetery in which to lay away the bodies of those who, during the life, had the privilege of living in the only Taneytown in the world. Will this be another case of the wish fathering the thought?

Our County Election.

Interest in the coming campaign in this county is beginning to show itself, like the first green leaves of spring, and before long there will be a general search for ticket-timber, providing the timber does not institute a hunt for tickets. In a quiet way, the people are looking forward to the contest, though both men and issues are yet in the dim background, and, while the campaign may not be one of great flourishing of trumpets, and "wind-jabbing," it will nevertheless be a hard fought contest, unless we are greatly mistaken.

Recently, a change has been experienced in our county elections, in that, now, the legislative portion of the tickets is the one over which the hardest contest is made. There was a time when nominations for the House of Delegates were mere "consolation prizes," given to those who failed to secure something better, and no one cared particularly who was sent to Annapolis to make our laws. This feeling, of course, was wrong, and that it has given place to one from a directly opposite quarter, is a matter of sincere congratulation.

Although no United States Senator is to be elected this winter, the legislative session will be none the less important. As the people now demand a closer scrutiny of the character of the bills which are bi-annually dumped into the State House, it follows that they may escape being plundered through their tax bills, it follows that they make their influence felt, not only in the nominating conventions, but at the polls, and look to the character and ability of the people they elect. We do not presume to say that we have come to know this condition, in fact, but the tendency in this direction is much more in evidence than it used to be.

Our legislative business, therefore, if participated in by honest and capable members, who agree and watch by equally interested and intelligent constituencies, cannot fail to attract the attention of the masses, both before and after the election. We are getting to know more about how certain appropriations are "worked" through both branches every two years, and to know that they are but little better than steals; we are beginning to tire of the argument that such things can't be avoided, because of "pressure and precedent;" we know very well who pays the bills, and we mean to have a look at the items and see whether they represent things we are by right entitled to pay for. For these reasons, no ticket deserves success this year that does not contain incorruptible men for the legislature.

On account of this being the year preceding the Presidential contest, the county campaigns are likely to be influenced to an appreciable extent by National issues, because of the influence the result is supposed to exert on that of next year. This, in connection with the interest always attaching to the election of a Governor and other state officers, and the usual attractions centering around the fight for county officers, precludes the possibility that this will be a dull campaign, even if the issues are not yet clearly before us.

Our Havana Letters.

Probably, no more interesting and truthful pictures of Cuba will be sent to this country, than those from Rev. P. Rioseco to the CARROLL RECORD. The writer is excellently fitted, by birth—his father being a Cuban—to fully understand the character, aims and needs of the native population, and he is at the same time thoroughly American and familiar with our institutions, National, civil and religious. In addition to the above, he is an intelligent and versatile gentleman, accustomed to writing, and his letters to us, are, in fact, communications to old friends, and therefore free from any stimulus whatever to write for effect.

We trust that the series may be lengthy and that every feature of the present situation, or any changes that may arise, whether military or civil, will be covered. The social customs of the people, their mode of life, character, morals and religion, together with the more weighty subjects of their government, the possibilities of the island and the introduction of American customs and methods, will no doubt be fully written up, and cannot fail to be greatly appreciated by every reader of this paper.

Fits Carroll County, also.

The following, from the Catonsville Argus, presents a picture familiar to all Carroll countians who have occasion to attend our sessions of court; whether the substitution of "Westminster" for "Towson," should be made, we refrain from suggesting, particularly as the Argus says the story is "a libel." "As there is an old story to the effect that as soon after birth as possible a Towson baby is shown the courthouse and told that 'that is where you will get your living'—a sort of ritualistic ceremony, as it were. This, is, of course, a libel, but it is at the same time true, that if the courthouse were suddenly to be engulfed, a larger number of county residents than those actually employed there would go down. This would be conspicuously the case if such a catastrophe were to occur on the day of any murder trial, as on such occasions the throng of visitors packs the courtroom to the doors. Visitors from all over the county; cornfield dorkies who hang in a rapture of interest over the rail, shutting off the rail at the rear of the lawyers' seats; countrymen whose hayseed make-up would excite the envy of "Rube" vaudeville stars; unemployed persons who would have no objection to serving as jurors if the panel is exhausted, and the families and friends of the prisoner and his victim—two factions who are not displeased to find how much attention they attract."

ABSOLUTE BAKING POWDER. ABSOLUTELY PURE. Makes the food more delicious and wholesome. DEMOCRATS DIVIDED. National Committee-men Give Views on a Battle Cry.

Chicago, Ill., June 11.—Telegrams sent to members of the National Democratic Committee asking what the tickets is the one over which the hardest contest is made. There was a time when nominations for the House of Delegates were mere "consolation prizes," given to those who failed to secure something better, and no one cared particularly who was sent to Annapolis to make our laws. This feeling, of course, was wrong, and that it has given place to one from a directly opposite quarter, is a matter of sincere congratulation.

While none of the democratic leaders say in set terms "Drop Free Silver," they are unanimous in giving the trust question a prominence it never has had in the platform of their own or any other party. All who speak freely suggest that some other issue will divide the stage with free silver.

Some say "Militarism" or "Imperialism" will be one of the prominent issues. Others frankly emphasize the trust question as the big thing. Still others speak for a twin battle cry, excusing their words in behalf of silver by making their adherence to the free coinage doctrine a battle against "the money trust."

Those who most strenuously insist upon retention of the silver question as a cardinal principle of party faith make concession to the "anti-trust" advocates by calling the trust question a corollary of the money question. Not one of them says flatly, "the issues of 1896 will be the issues of 1900."

Of the committeemen who are either non-committal or refuse to be quoted, one is George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, prominent as a silver advocate in 1896. The others are D. J. Campan, of Michigan, a sixteen-to-one stalwart; B. B. Smalley, of Vermont; Frank Campbell, of New York; T. D. O'Bryan, of Minnesota, and J. G. Dudley, of Texas.

Committeemen who say "free silver" must have first place in the platform, combined with the questions of trusts and "militarism," are from Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas and Indian Territory.

Mr. Troup, of Connecticut, is still enthusiastically for free silver. All the others either put the trust question first or lay much stress upon issues arising from the recent war. Even Montana, a mining state, and southern states, whence the silver idea first spread from the mining regions, through their committeemen go back on the old issue.—Balt. Sun.

ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT

An all day Battle Between the Forces near Manila.

A spirited engagement commenced on Tuesday morning, between the American and Filipino forces, along the shore of Manila Bay...

Manila, June 14.—The Filipinos retreated several miles toward the bay yesterday's engagement, to the strongly fortified town of Imus...

In the fighting yesterday ten Americans were killed and forty wounded. The American officers estimate that one hundred insurgents were killed and three hundred wounded.

The appearance of the battlefields testified to the fierceness of yesterday's fighting. The trees along the river between the lines were almost torn down by bullets.

Further reports of the fighting yesterday state that just before dark the Fourteenth Infantry crossed the Zapote River, charged and carried the trenches, a heavy fusillade of artillery preparing the way and covering the crossing.

Mr. N. Wagner has returned home from Cuba after serving some time in the U. S. Volunteers. Misses Lucy and Annie Gray have returned from a short visit to relatives in Baltimore.

Washington, June 12.—Admiral Dewey will not accept the home which the American people are preparing to present him.

Two Awful Tornadoes. Two tornadoes—one at New Richmond, Wis., and another at Herman, Neb.—are reported to have resulted in the loss of two hundred lives.

The Spaniards also say that the Filipino forces are demoralized and without ammunition and that many rifles have been thrown into the river.

The Mayor of Imus delivers the town up to General Lawton, saying that the residents desire peace and to be friendly with the Americans.

The new First Baptist temple, of Columbus, O., which was dedicated last Sunday, is one of the unique edifices in the West.

From the wide aisle which runs around the rear of the room under the circular balcony a good view is had of the commodious stage which the Baptist minister is to use for his pulpit.

The proscenium arch is elaborately decorated and lacks only the drop curtain and the flies to carry out the stage effect.

An old saying is "Well take care of yourself" but how can you do that unless you take Victor Liver Syrup.

It Was Returned. "I came upon a couple of boys fighting on the street the other day," said the portly man, as he laughed at the recollection.

"As a usual thing I do not believe in interfering with quarrels among children, believing that it is better to let them fight it out and settle their differences in their own way."

"But they were fighting so fiercely and were using such bad language that I thought it best to separate them."

"Getting hold of their collars I pulled them apart and demanded an explanation. 'He threw a rotten egg at me' shouted the younger of the two as he struggled to get at the other boy again."

CLEVER MILITARY TRICK

WESTMINSTER'S Great Model Emporium!

When Philip II debated the question of coming with fire and sword the Dutchman, who did not like the taxes which they had imposed, voted the Duke of Alva.

Indeed in time of war country folk with baskets of eggs and butter excited no suspicion even to alert sentinels. Taking advantage of this fact, Sir Francis Vote determined to recapture from the Spaniards the Zutphen scones, or forts, by a stratagem.

Then, according to arrangement, Vere sent some cavalry forward, as if approaching, and the pretended country people ran in feigned terror toward the forts.
