repairs on our roads this week; of course, they were badly needed. Whitewashing and house cleaning are now in order, and things general-have often wondered if there was a man on the face of the earth who liked to tear down stoves and shake carpet.

Dr. Loudsbaugh is making friends of many of our people, and we are glad to say is having quite a number of calls, and has also been doing some visiting. When next he comes to the city, we hope to hear more of his work.

Miss Hattie Harner opened a summer school in this place on last Monday with 12 scholars. We are certain that there are double that amount of children in this place and community that should be in school. Unfortun-

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, MAY 5th., 1900.

POLITICS MAKES STRANGE BEDFELLOWS. But a year or so ago, the same newspapers that are now quoting all of Senator Wellington's speeches antagonistic to the McKinley administration, and patting him on the back for more, then called him "dictator," the "Duke," a political "see me first," and other complimentary names. What next?

NOW LET Pennsylvania republicans show the country that they have the power to elect a Senator who has the ability to represent the great commonwealth as a statesman, and not as a manipulator of machine politics—one whose name will appear occasionally as a debater of National questions and not always as a dispenser of patronage.

EVIDENTLY, the island of Cuba will not be Americanized for some time, as 66,869 Spanish residents of the island have retained their allegiance to Spain. This looks as if the withdrawal of American authority, leaving behind the privilege of local self-government, would practically mean giving the island back to its old master, or at least to renewed revolution.

A Political Object Lesson.

Last week, two local laws for Taneytown were published in the Westminster papers, through orders received from the recognized public authorities. One of these laws relates wholly to the extension of the limits of the corporation, the other gives the corporation authorities greater powers in reference to licenses and provides that they may own real property. These laws are exclusively local—applying only within the limits of the town—still, they were published in Westminster, twelve miles away in two papers, the combined circulation of which in Taneytown is insignificant when compared with that of the RECORD.

We thus have the condition presented, that, while our citizens help to pay the cost of this advertising, the most of them derive no more benefit from the expenditure than if publication was made in Texas. Not only is this true, but they are helping to pay, in all probability, three or four times as much for the work as the RECORD would have charged, when nine tenths of our citizens would have had the laws brought into their homes.

It is just such questionable customs as this that keep our tax bills at the same old rate, and which, "because it's politics," disgusts so many of our citizens to the extent that they stand aloof from participation in public affairs, preferring to be flattered rather than mix with the "professionals;" a plan, however, which is not in harmony with the truest and best citizenship.

This sort of advertising is a mere gift to the partisan press. There is not the sign of a valid excuse for it. The party newspapers have not a particle more right to the publication of local laws of this kind than the RECORD would have to the publication of an ordinance for Baltimore city—except as the laws may be so framed as to conspire to the fattening of party papers at public expense, as they sometimes do. We can stand it, if the people can, but some day there will be an accounting for a good many "tricks of the trade," which now pass almost unnoticed.

Another law, requiring the County Commissioners to pay half the road tax collected in Hampstead, to the corporation authorities, should have been published in the Hampstead Enterprise, but that journal is "not in it," either. We are informed that the County Commissioners select the papers which publish the county local laws. Do these gentlemen consult the best interest of the taxpayers, in their public acts, or do they not? Are they elected to office to have the public business well and economically transacted, or not? Have they anything to say, in answer to this article or not? Do the people want to know, or don't they care? The columns of the RECORD are open.

How Long can we Stand It?

The following clipping from the N. Y. World must cause thinking Americans—who have at heart the best interests of the Nation—to ask themselves the question, How long can this country continue to absorb, without great danger to itself, the steady influx of foreigners? Or, is it not rather the question, How long must we stand it? that should engage our attention.

We quarrel over petty differences of opinion as to the management of internal affairs, and grasp at every slip of the tongue of a prominent leader that may be re-produced by used for political advantage, but blindly allow the rift-riff of the world to come in and pick up the prosperity that we had better be appropriating instead of everlastingly quarreling among ourselves for political piques.

The immigration question has been dodged and fooled with, full long enough. Why? The answer is a political question. The people who are coming over, and those who want to come, have friends and relatives here who have votes. Political leaders fear the effect of drastic legislation which would decrease immigration; fear the possible loss of the votes from naturalized foreigners. That is the whole reason in a nut-shell. The World says: "The arrival of the Ivernia with over seven hundred immigrants would be an epoch-making event in any other country. Here it is merely an incident. All Ireland is coming over as soon as it can secure passage. There is no abatement in the immigration from Italy or from Russian Poland, and the news from the Pacific coast is that the Japanese are coming over in shiploads, thousands at a time. The invasion of New England by the French Canadians and by the Portuguese is an old story."

No large admixture from such widely separated nations and peoples will add to the composite character of our future population, but this country long ago demonstrated its capacity for the absorption of the increase by immigration. Fifty years ago, when our population was only 23,191,000, we received in the five years from 1849 to 1853 inclusive an accession of 2,314,000 immigrants. In the five years from 1880 to 1884 inclusive the immigrants numbered just 3,000,000, our population then being 50,000,000. The immigration for the four fiscal years ending with last July was only a trifle over a million and a quarter; for the first eight months of the present year the figures are 255,495. If the spring rush should bring the total up to 2,000,000 it would still give us a smaller total for the five years than during the previous periods of greatest immigration of twenty and fifty years ago.

According to the World, the United States is able to continue, indefinitely, to assimilate this indiscriminate foreign mass. Apparently, it overlooks the fact that while we have plenty of room here, it is not room, especially, that the present class of immigrants want, nor the sort of work which might render their presence here less objectionable. The people that are coming in the greatest numbers, Slovaks, Poles, Croats, Slavonians, Hebrews and Italians, do not fancy agricultural pursuits but prefer to stop in the cities and underbid those who are now receiving little enough for their work. We prefer to accept the following, from the Toledo Blade, on the subject, rather than the unconsidered statement of the World.

There is a change in the tide of foreign immigration—and one which is not desirable. During the three months ending December 31, last, 74,892 aliens landed at New York. Of these, four-fifths landed on the Atlantic seaboard, of which 42 per cent designed to settle in New York, 19 per cent in Pennsylvania, 6 per cent in New Jersey, the same in Massachusetts and 3 per cent in Connecticut.

As to the character of the immigration, it must be said that most of it is undesirable. This foreign cheap labor does not go on the farms. It stays in the cities of the Atlantic seaboard. These immigrants are not skilled in any trade, as a rule. They are common laborers, and their influx adds an undesirable element to our complex city life, and without doubt adds to the difficulties of the labor problem in our great municipalities. The majority of them are very poor material for American citizens, and they do not assimilate easily with our people. Our immigration is becoming more undesirable every year, and this is a perplexing problem that must be taken up sooner or later—to keep out the scum of Europe.

Tortured a Witness.

Intense suffering was endured, by witness T. L. Martin, of Dixie, Ky., before he gave this evidence: I coughed every night until my throat was nearly raw; then tried Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave instant relief. I have used it in my family for four years and recommend it as the greatest remedy for Coughs, Colds and all throat, Chest and Lung troubles. It will stop the worst cough, and not only prevents but absolutely cures Consumption. Price 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottle free at R. S. McKinney's Drug Store.

Pennsylvania Teachers' Pay.

It is a generally accepted fact that Pennsylvania public schools are better than those in Maryland; that is, the claim is made that the course is more thorough, and, especially in the larger towns, the teachers more competent. This claim is likely subject to exceptions; still, it is apparently well enough established to merit general acceptance. We have heretofore used the argument that the best teachers go where they receive the best pay; and besides, where good pay exists, those who contemplate teaching can afford to spend the time and money necessary for a better mental equipment.

The following figures, clipped from a Pennsylvania exchange, establishes beyond question the fact of better pay in that state for teachers, which seems to explain why the schools are better. This statement is the more forcible because the table given represents the average salary per month to female teachers—male teachers, as a rule, command still higher figures: Scranton.....$47.00 Reading.....$40.76 Pittsburgh.....61.00 Columbia.....45.51 Altoona.....58.00 Bethlehem.....45.43 Gettysburg.....37.91 Shamokin.....30.03 Harrisburg.....41.11 Sunbury.....40.12 Chester.....40.02 Pottsville.....38.63 Erie.....40.31 Shenandoah.....45.42 Lancaster.....43.20

Mysteries of the Klondike.

Far up Forty Mile River, several years ago, a party of miners came upon a fissure in the frozen earth. They tried to explore the bottom. They found it bottomless, at least as far as they went. The earth had cracked open here, as any very warm spot of earth or piece of clay will crack open from too sudden cooling. You think this one isolated case doubtful evidence that the warm earth suddenly was made cold and so cracked open as if it had been an earthen pot? But it is not an isolated case at all. At this very hour bold men are trying to find the bottom of a crack or fissure in the earth at the lower end of the famous Berry claims at El Dorado. The miners there were sinking a hole for the purpose of hoisting dirt up from the pay streak below the muck or black ice. They went down through the black muck or ice ten feet, twenty feet. To their amazement, they found no gravel, nothing but inky ice and now and then a stratum of sand, debris, dirt of all sorts, such as might sift in and filter down as the ages went on from spring floods or melting ice that would naturally find their way into an open crack in the earth, and these tons of ice.

The men went down, down and down, forty feet, sixty feet, eighty feet, ninety feet. No bottom or sign of bottom. This is many times the deepest hole ever made in the northern country. And yet the bold miners, urged on not now by a hope of gain, but only by a laudable curiosity to know what may be revealed, keep on and on. All El Dorado, Bonanza, Dawson, everybody, wonders and wonders. Yet there can be but one answer. It is a fissure in the earth, a crack in the earth's crust, made by this North Pole end of the earth turned suddenly from hot to cold. Of course, we have had lots of jokes on the subject. One man, an Irishman, in trying to explain the thing, said it was all simple enough; that the earth was dropped on the ground and cracked when it was being made. Another has said maybe the earth was laid by the side of the road to dry and an Irishman ran his wheelbarrow against the end of it and cracked it. Ay, these are some of the things that men talk about in their Klondike cabins as the long nights creep slowly by. Of course, there are theories, some wild, fantastic, almost terrible; but I have set down only that which seems to my unsentimental mind as reasonable and backed by common sense.

As before said, no verdict has as yet been arrived at as to how, when and in the hands of what great forces the gold was laid in little yellow streaks, so regularly along the beds of streams under the inky lakes of the deluge, although many and many a theory has been advanced. But when these quiet, thinking men of the Klondike cabins do reach a verdict, if ever, or are even half as certain one way or the other on the subject as they are now that here was once the deluge, the awful flood of the old Bible days with all its terrors, I shall be happy to tell you their conclusions and by what route of reasoning they arrive at them.

Naturally, this theme has revived other subjects along the same line. Where was Eden? Where is that river "the gold whereof was good"? "Unto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coats of skins, and clothed them." Yonder stand the poor trembling people clothed in skins of wild beasts, as if but now expelled from Paradise. Yonder flashes the flaming sword which turns every way to guard the tree of life and the gates of Eden all through these icy nights of endless darkness. Maybe yonder is evidence of Eden, as here is evidence of the deluge, for surely yonder Northern Light is the flaming sword that turns continually every way. But here the miners do not follow me.—Joaquin Miller, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May.

Duties of the Presidency.

Some of those interviewed by the newspapers who treated Dewey's candidacy with the most respect criticized his conception of the presidential office as altogether inadequate. His theory that the duty of the President is merely to execute the laws that Congress enacts is remarkably similar to the view that Mr. Grover Cleveland expressed in his first letter of acceptance in 1884; but a brief experience in the presidential office soon convinced Mr. Cleveland that a very great part of his business was to have policies and to urge them. Undoubtedly, Admiral Dewey's long experience in a highly disciplined service like the navy has given him fitness for certain kinds of executive work. But the governmental business of a country like ours is so vast that the executive work comes to be parcelled out among a great number of high officials. The President himself succeeds or fails in the ratio of the wisdom he shows in the selection of men. The ability to exercise wisely the appointing power usually calls for a long experience in politics and public office, and a wide acquaintance with men throughout the country. Apart from the exercise of the appointing power, the President's chief business may be said to lie in the making of decisions relating to a vast number of questions of policy of greater or less importance. It would therefore seem highly doubtful whether a high officer, either of the navy, like Dewey, or of the regular army, like Miles, whose life has been strictly devoted to the service to which he belongs, would be pre-eminently fitted to fill the position of President of the United States, especially in view of the kind of work that will fall to the presidential office in the next four years.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars, free.

She is the daughter of the late Phil Pointer, whose name is well known to veterans who wore the gray throughout the south, and is one of the handsomest young daughters of the Confederacy.

MISS PHIL POINTER.

Miss Pointer is a brunette of great personal beauty. Her figure is graceful and her manner that of the noted southern belle. She has for some time been connected with The Messenger, published by Hon. Fry Woodson of Owensboro, and her work as a writer has attracted attention. Miss Pointer accompanied Miss Lewis of Georgetown to Nashville when the latter was Kentucky's sponsor at the reunion there. The meeting of the grizzled veterans will be the largest in the history of the association.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Using Her Friends.

Society girls who have turned dressmakers, milliners, etc., have a certain advantage over their professional rivals in that they have opportunities to create a favorable impression of their own handwork by manipulating public opinion. A pretty and popular young person, who, while she utilized her manual making talent in turning an honest penny, by no means relinquished the social pleasures to which she had been accustomed, recently called the attention of her partner at a dance to a pretty gown worn by one of her friends.

"Do you like Nellie M.'s dress?" she asked.

"Yes," he said doubtfully. "I do not know much about frocks, but I should say it was nice."

"Nice?" she exclaimed indignantly. "Why, it is beautiful! I made it, and I want you to do me a favor. Will you?"

"Of course," he replied promptly, eager to atone for his lukewarm praise of her creation. "What is it?"

"Why, you must ask Miss M. to dance and praise her gown tremendously. Tell her how well it suits her. And, of course, you must not mention that you know it is mine."

"This instructed as to his method of procedure, the young man sought out Miss M. and requested her hand for a waltz."

"I never saw you look better than you do tonight," he proceeded, carefully following his instructions, "and your dress is lovely. I noticed it away across the room as the prettiest here. I am sure it must have come straight from Paris."

"Yes," was the answer that somewhat staggered him. "I got it from Doucet. How clever you are to know a Parisian gown!"

But the result was all that the little dressmaker desired, for the next day she received the following note from her customer:

"Your dress last night was a great success and was taken for a French creation. I want you to think me out two costumes immediately, a dinner gown and a street frock. I shall call in a few days to see what you propose."—New York Tribune.

Her Success In Architecture.

Every little while there comes the news from some part of the country that a woman has succeeded in entering the domain of some profession the gateway of which has hitherto been closed to the sex.

It has remained for Boston to bring forth a woman who, in the profession she has chosen, is not only doing work remarkable for a woman, but work that would be just as remarkable were it done by any one of what is called the stronger sex.

Her name is Josephine Wright Chapman, an architect, and from her workrooms, at 9 Park street, have come forth the designs for some of the most beautiful houses and homes in eastern Massachusetts and the plans for some of the most successfully beautiful buildings.

Throughout the city and state are monuments to her skill, and her constantly increasing patronage can point to but one thing—that her work is her best advertisement.

At her Park street office she employs several draftsmen, and she has reached that degree of success where she is not impelled to seek for something to do, but has merely to wait for what comes.

The latest building for which it is practically certain Miss Chapman's plans will be accepted is that which is proposed to build for All Saints' Episcopal church at Attleboro. The growth of the church made a larger edifice imperative a year or two ago, and several months past a tract of land was purchased, and Miss Chapman drew the plans for the new church.

The style is that of an old English abbey. The church will seat 275, but could be made to seat as many more if necessary. It is in the form of a cross, with seats in the transepts or projecting sides.

Another church which Miss Chapman has led into the way of beauty is that of the Episcopal parish of Leominster. This will be rather after the old English chapel style and will be 90 feet in length and 40 feet wide. The church will seat 300 persons and the Sunday school room 200.

At present Miss Chapman is working on designs for the clubhouse for the Worcester Woman's club, at cost $75,000.—New York Journal.

Where Women Are Adepts.

General William R. Merriam, director of the census, has put his foot in it. He has decided that women are better fitted to do the tabulating work than men and has so notified members of congress.

And the result of all this is there is wailing and gnashing of teeth.

The wailing isn't confined to the Republicans alone either. Democrats, too, are howling against General Merriam's order, for the Democrats, senators and representatives, were each to have the naming of three census tabulators. The Republicans were to have six each.

The appointment of tabulators will be made June 1. Already hundreds of recommendations have been made to General Merriam. In this, the year of a congressional as well as a general election, it is not surprising that congressmen are hunting for votes. So naturally all of their recommendations are for men who have votes. There is no sentiment about a congressman who is gunning for votes.

Incidentally, the suggestion that General Merriam's list to members of the senate and house created, in his letters General Merriam said that Chief Statistician Hunt, who has charge of the population division and who held the same position in the last census, had recommended the employment of women.

General Merriam, however, they were better qualified for the work than men, not only being more accurate, but swifter. General Merriam decided to follow Mr. Hunt's recommendation and therefore wrote letters to each member of congress announcing his decision and his explanation of the aforementioned wailing and gnashing of teeth.—Washington Letter.

A Woman's AWFUL Peril.

"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation," were the startling words heard by Mrs. L. B. Hunt of Little Rock, Ark., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow fever.

She had been suffering for some time with the disease, and she had been constantly getting worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful stomach, liver and kidney remedy. Cures Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Try it. Only 50 cents. Guaranteed. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist.

Women's Work and Wages.

A practical illustration of the discrepancy between the wages paid to women and those paid to men was shown in a recent experience of a Brooklyn woman with a costume tailor.

She found on giving orders for a spring tailored suit that the price for making and adjusting a number of dollars over the figure set by the tailor late in the fall, and on asking why was informed that wages had increased and that if he was to have good work done he must pay for the higher prices now demanded by the men.

She explained that she was satisfied with the work, and nothing more was said. Another side of the wage question was presented, however, when negotiations were under way for the making of a reception gown or what the tailor called a fancy dress, for tailored costumes do not constitute the entire outfit of an establishment, and he is prepared to accommodate his patrons with whatever kind of a costume they may desire to have. The price for the reception gown was exactly the same as six months ago.

"Why is it that you advance the figures so much in one branch of your work and not in another?" she asked.

"Well, you see," was the answer, "my wife and the girls make the fancy dresses, and I do not have to pay so much for the work. The girls' wages have not increased. Why not? Can't say, madam, and the reply was accompanied by a shrug of the shoulders."

Your best feelings, your social position or business success depend largely on the perfect action of your stomach and liver. Dr. King's New Life Pills give increased strength, a keen, clear brain, high ambition. A 35 cent box will make you feel like a new being. Sold by R. S. McKinney, Druggist.

Attractive Window Boxes.

Flowers, it goes without saying, give to any house a decorative appearance, and in this connection it might be well to ask why it is that the tiny plots of grass in front of many city houses belonging to well to do people are so woefully neglected. Even the grass is sparse and unweeded, and it is seldom that any attempt is made to make it beautiful. Yet these plots might be turned into little spots of beauty in early spring and during the autumn months and in winter made to look cheerful and trim with evergreens and English ivy. Window boxes, too, with dwarf arbor vitas and ivy give a house an air of distinction and in the spring render it really beautiful when filled with pansies. Later in the season hyacinths and tulips may take their place. It is only in recent years that this species of outside decoration has been introduced, and it is to be hoped that it will grow in favor, if only for the sake of the public good. Curtains, too, give a great cachet to the outside appearance of a house and should be carefully considered in that connection. People seldom realize how all this affects the general appearance of their dwellings. If they did, there would be more attention paid to the exterior of the ordinary dwelling.

An Epidemic of Whooping Cough.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time for relief. It relieved the cough and effected a complete cure.—JOHN E. CLIFFORD, Proprietor, Norwood House, Norwood, N. Y.

American Embroidery at Paris.

A beautiful exhibit of embroideries by American women at the exposition in Paris is represented by the French workmanship that skillful fingers can produce and was collected under the auspices of a committee consisting of Mrs. Constance Wheeler, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer and Mrs. Boudinot Keith.

Mrs. Wheeler states that the aim of the committee was to have the exhibit embody the trend of American embroidery in addition to having a novel idea of the American way of decorating table linen. Foreigners have but little idea of the luxury of American table appointments, and the exhibit is one that displays the finest specimens of embroidered table linen. "I have been interested in embroideries since the venetian exposition was held in Philadelphia," Mrs. Wheeler said, "and have devoted my time to encouraging the development of this among American women. There is today no stiffer in the world more to the American, and the exhibit, which has been gathered from various states and is thus national in character, attests this fact."

Many of the pieces are embroidered with flowers peculiar to this country, the Indian hushak, aster, Cherokee rose, the American Beauty rose and characteristic American ferns.

Sometimes Not.

That the old time masculine bluff does not influence the modern woman is seen in a story, and a story that is the truth. It was at the time of the last convention of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs that the name of Mrs. Keating of Muskegon was presented for re-election to the presidency.

There is a Mr. Keating, as it happens, who, prior to his wife's departure, was the clubwoman's convention, sought to prevail upon her to refuse the office. The sisterly persuasion at the scene of action was too much for Mrs. Keating, however, and she was made president for a second time. Thereupon she telegraphed her husband the next day, immediately there came back the message, "Have packed my traps for the Philippines." The rule of the clubwoman, Mr. Keating did not work, so they say, for the only consolation he got was a terse telegram sent by the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs. It read, "God speed you."

ditional animals for their size, that wonderful little cow Red Rose when in Mr. Sutton's herd producing the extraordinary yield of over five tons of milk in one year. Other specimens, too, have shown themselves capable of very high records, and at the recent London dairy show, where everything was carried out on the most exact practical lines, scarcely any breed gave so good results as the Dexters, and doubtless, had food been taken into consideration, they would have stood higher on the list. The Dexter, it must be borne in mind, is native of a district very storm swept and bleak, and consequently nature has so arranged that their coats shall be rather later in coming off than those of cattle bred in warmer parts. Black Knight is an excellent example of the Dexter breed.

Hay Rich In Protein.

A Canadian correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman says: The dairyman must in the future grow hay crops as rich as possible in protein to combine with his cheapest of all feeds, corn ensilage and fodder, prominent among which are alfalfa, clover, and timothy. Canada field peas, beans and oats, according to climatic and soil conditions. Without any of the above class of feed on hand, it may safely be allowed that ten pounds of mixed grain must be fed to keep up the milk flow of a cow while on a full ration. With them this part of the ration, and the most expensive part, too, can be reduced about one-half, and at the same time more crushed corn can safely be fed, that can be home grown and a well known milk producer when properly combined.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the most severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; but not possible for you, then in either case, try Oxy-Bottle, which has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup," if it only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ diseases, but always inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient.
