

resident John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers organization, blames the railroad companies for much of the trouble existing between the miners and the operators. He says, after referring to the companies:

"These nine coal-mining corporations, which are producing approximately 72 per cent of the hard coal, are the sole users of tide-water of all coal mined in the anthracite field of Pennsylvania. They own the service of carriage a distance from 40 to 65 per cent of the total tonnage. According to the size of the coal, is it shipped. Incredible as it may appear, a single charge three times as much to transport a ton of tide coal 100 miles as to transport a ton of upland coal the same distance. So exact are the rates that the legitituguese, however, 'put their shoulder to the wheel,' and have in a great measure brought order out of chaos. Sugar, coffee and tobacco crops flourished this year, and found ready markets both in the United States and elsewhere. As a consequence, the island is in what I should certainly call a period of prosperity and advancement. The people, as a rule, are paying little attention to the furor that political situation in this country has occasioned, and seem perfectly contented. The island, however, is one which heretofore has not been noticed so extensively, has become an industry, and with encour-

The sermon was on the downward path of a sinner, and the clergyman used the illustration of a ship drifting on the rocks.

A jack tar who had strolled in became deeply interested.

"The waves dashed over her!" exclaimed the minister. "Her sails are split! Her yards are gone! Her masts are shivered! Her helm is useless! She is driving ashore! There is no hope! What can save her now?"

"Let go the anchor, my lubber!" yelled the excited seaman.

He meant well, but they ran him for bawling, all the same.—Omaha Bee.

Roosevelt is Mobbed.

Cripple Creek, Col., Sept. 26.—Colonel Roosevelt, who is on a tour of Colorado, was mobbed by a mob of 100 men in the Cripple Creek mining district. Colonel Roosevelt spoke at the Armory Hall, in the town of Victor, which was filled. He had hardly begun speaking when he was interrupted by noisy demonstrations. He said: "In my State the men who were not on the committee on platform to draw up an anti-trust platform at the Kansas City Convention had at that time their pockets stuffed with ice cream. The Democratic leader in New York, Richard Croker, upon whom you base your only hope, and it is a mighty slim hope, too, was another great stockholder. If, in fact, he was filled, and had to go to the stockholders in that trust it would sound like reading the roll of the members of Tammany Hall."

voice—"What about the rotten beef?"

Colonel Roosevelt—I ate it, and you will never get near enough to be hit with a bullet, or within five miles of it.

The candidate succeeded in finishing his remarks, though there was an evident intention among those present that he should not do so. When he left the hall with his party to go toward the train he was surrounded by a company of Rough Riders, commanded by Sherman Bell, one of his former soldiers in the Spanish War.

A crowd of boys and men began throwing stones and shouting for Bryan. The Rough Riders, mounted and unmounted, closed in around Colonel Roosevelt to protect him from assault by the mob. One man made a personal attack upon the candidate and succeeded in striking him a blow in the breast with a stick. The assailant was knocked down by Daniel M. Sullivan, postmaster of Cripple Creek.

A rough man made by the mob to drag the mounted men in khaki uniforms from their horses. The Rough Riders on foot closed around the Governor, making a wedge which pushed through the crowd. They finally succeeded in gaining the train, which was surrounded by the mob.

By this time there were probably 1,000 or 1,500 excited men and boys in the vicinity. Fisticuffs were exchanged on all sides. Many of the mob were armed with sticks and clubs, some with rotten potatoes, stale eggs and lemons. The entire Roosevelt party regained the train, however, without serious injury.

Colonel Roosevelt as he mounted the train platform, said to his pursuers and said: "Gentlemen, you are proving yourselves brave and generous. You should be proud of yourselves. You have done it. The train suddenly pulled out under orders from Senator Wolcott, and Roosevelt was followed by a shower of missiles that pelted him from the crowd.

Honduras a Land of Thieves.

There is one corner of Central America that is not a perfect paradise for men who have committed any crime. It is a place where the outcasts of the world's society rule the officials of the government, protect all thieves that come to them and make it dangerous for any detective to molest them.

This is the republic of Honduras, one of the least advanced of the states in South or Central America. Honduras, indeed, is a curious mixture of things that creep and crawl and sting and bite. A region where life in the daytime is like a lottery, and at night one feels as though sleeping in red pepper.

Here, in every hamlet and city, are to be found men from different lands, mostly outlaws from their own country. Chicago, Boston, New York and Philadelphia all furnish their quota. England, France, Italy, and even far away Russia, have their share. They make no attempt at concealment, bear the names they were born to, and go along about their business as if the laws of their own country had not declared them outcasts.—London Express.

What the Sign Said.

A store in One Hundred and Twenty-first street with a laudable desire to satisfy customers had the following sign painted and hung in several conspicuous places: "No more refuse or you can exchange for anything in the store."

The regular customers nodded approvingly when they saw this, as the rule of the house had been previously that no goods could be exchanged. The first day the signs were up several sums of money were refunded. When the store opened the next morning the signs were gone, and a literary man was engaged to write one less ambiguous.

There was a reason for this. Late in the afternoon of the day the signs were used a young man from downtown bought a pair of 50 cent suspenders in the store, and a few minutes afterward approached a floorwalker and said they were unsatisfactory.

"Very well," said the floorwalker affably. "Can you wish your money back?"

"No," replied the purchaser; "I believe I'll exchange."

"Just as you please," said the smiling floorwalker. "Will you have another pair of suspenders?"

"I think not; I'll just look around and let you know when I find something that suits me."

In less than half an hour the downtown young man called the floorwalker to a counter and said, "What's that I want? Those with the silver backs." And he pointed out an expensive toilet set which comprised military hair brushes, silver mug and shaving brush, razor, manicure, soap box and a fine leather case to keep them in.

"But you are joking," said the floorwalker. "They are worth twenty pairs of suspenders."

"I can't help that," replied the other. "I'm taking you at your word. These are your signs, Money refunded, or you can exchange for anything in the store." It's optional with me, and I wish to exchange for 'anything in the store.' This is the 'anything' that suits me."

They wrangled for awhile, and the proprietor was called. He read the sign several times, and then said: "You are a very bright young man. It's on us this time."

"Turning to the floorwalker, he said: 'Make the exchange as he desires, and hand down the signs before he has time to buy anything else.'"

Four years ago, when Maryland went for McKinley and sound money by over 30,000 majority, every district in the State was carried by the republican candidates for Congress, and Maryland had for two years a solid republican delegation in the House. Two years ago a break occurred, and the democrats regained the House, the districts—the First and Fourth—the republicans retaining the Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth.—American.

WE HAVE for sale the celebrated Crescent Oats Feed which has taken the place of the water for the moistening of the feed. The trade for some time back have been realizing that this Crescent Oats Feed is about the cheapest article in the feed line on the market at present. You see the Crescent Feed is nothing but pure Oats and Concentrated Oats at that. When you buy natural or clipped Oats you have got to pay the same price for the moisture or water in the Oats as you pay for the oats themselves. The Crescent Oats Feed contains the nutriment of the Oats, and in addition the water has been removed from them in the kiln drying. As you are aware the Crescent Feed shrinks 30 per cent. in drying. This of course means that the surplus water has been taken out of the Feed, and that the Feed of itself is practically nothing but the concentrated energy of the Oats. This fact is becoming more and more recognized to day. A trial will convince you of its good qualities. THE TANEYTOWN ELEVATOR CO.
