INDEPENDENT IN POLITICS.

Published every Saturday, at Taneytown, Md., by The Carroll Record Printing and Publishing Company.

P. B. ENGLAR, Editor and Manager.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.
Dr. G. T. MOTTER, Pres. G. A. ARNOLD, Sec. F. H. SEISS, Sec. & Treas. Dr. C. BIRNIE, GEO. H. BIRNIE, P. B. ENGLAR, JOHN S. BOWEN.

TERMS: One Dollar per annum in advance. Six months, 50c. Subscriptions will be continued, as a rule, after the time for which the paper has been paid, has expired. Subscribers who wish to discontinue, should notify us, or ask their Postmaster to do so. The label on paper contains date to which the subscription has been paid. No notice will be discontinued until all arrears have been paid, except at the option of the publisher.

ADVERTISING rates will be on an application, after the character of the business has been definitely stated, together with information as to space, position and length of contract. The advertiser reserves the privilege of declining all offers for space.

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, JUNE 8th., 1901.

THERE ought to be some limit to the power of lawyers to summon witnesses to court, and keep them there when they know nothing about a case. Their plea is that when the life or liberty of the accused is in danger people ought not to mind the inconvenience. Generally, however, it is only the witness who is inconvenienced, and not the lawyer. They ought to be obliged to find out whether a witness is of any use, the day before reports, and if not discharge him. Witnesses are kept hanging around the court house for days, and then never called to the stand, and all the time their business is suffering and their expenses greater than the pay they get. Of course, any one whose testimony is really needed, ought to be compelled to go, but that a person can be compelled to go to court, day after day, and wait the pleasure of the very leisurely gentlemen of the bar, is a shame.

THE FIRE in Taneytown last week shows the value of chemical fire extinguishers, which can be used by one person. A small fire can either be put out, or kept in check until a stream of water can be turned on. The great thing in all fires is promptness; once a fire gains headway it is almost impossible to do more than save the surrounding buildings especially when you must depend on the pressure from a stand pipe or reservoir. It would be a good thing if there was a chemical fire extinguisher in every alternate house in Taneytown.

THE SOUTH is evidently progressing. Wooden nutmegs and gold bricks used to be the product of Northern industries, and were called Yankee tricks, but a story is told in the papers of a Georgia Editor which equals the doings of any Yankee in guile, and as an advertising dodge, was a grand success. He put a notice in his paper that he had just been kissed by the prettiest woman in Georgia, and in a short time he would publish her name in his paper; of course society was all agog, and for the next few issues the circulation of his paper increased rapidly. When the name appeared it was his wife's, and the community was disgusted.

THE RECORD'S quartet of Editors pro tem, is composed of three doctors and a banker. As seems eminently proper, the banker is proof reader and is thus enabled to see that every thing is done with regard to propriety. We hope the dose our subscribers are obliged to take, may be a pleasant one. Whatever success attend, the effort to supply the vacancy made by the temporary absence of the Editor, is in no small measure due to the hearty co-operation of the foreman and employees of the RECORD office, who are all doing their best to second our efforts. At any rate we can comfort ourselves with the sentiment: "Who does the best, his circumstance allows Does well, his nobly; angels could do no more."

TALKING THE other day to a man who has been a prominent member of the G. A. R., ever since its organization, he said, "I would like to see Decoration Day appointed on Sunday, and make it a strictly religious ceremony, have the people attend church in the morning, and put flowers on the graves in the afternoon. He gave as a reason for it, that in some places it is turned into a day of revelry, and in others it was used as a means of making money, and in this way the great object of the day was lost sight of. There is some truth in this; in many places there is nothing objectionable—take our town for example—but surely a service in memory of the dead ought not to be either an instrument of gain, or an opportunity for fun, and there is some danger of losing sight of the object for which the day was instituted. It is perfectly impossible to get the present generation to look at it in the same light as those do, who took part in the war, but it ought to be a solemn occasion for us all.

The New Election Law. Political prophets seem to be trying in vain to solve the problem of what effect our new election law will have on the next state election. Both sides profess themselves satisfied with the prospect. The Baltimore election certainly was a republican victory, and if it is a fair criterion to go by, the law will fail of its purpose, which is, of course, to disfranchise the negro. Would it not have been better for the democratic party to say so openly, and face the issue squarely, as they did in North Carolina? It will disfranchise many worthy men, and leave many rascals with the ballot. It is no doubt desirable that intelligence govern the casting of the ballot, but the amount of intelligence necessary to tell the difference between a "D" and an "R" is not very great. Moral honesty and a proper understanding of the principles of our government, which many of the older men among us have, who read not at all or very poorly, is more necessary than the mere ability to spell out the word democrat or republican. We could have fair elections at any time, under almost any of the past election laws, if the people demanded it, and especially if the politicians of all parties wanted them. The bribery and corruption that exists is known to them all, not only the general fact that it does exist, but in most cases the names of the men who give and take the bribes; but nothing is done because it seems to be a matter of honor not to tell, or a bargain and sale for the distribution of patronage.

The Firemen's Meeting. The annual meeting of the State Volunteer Fireman's Association will be held in Westminster next Wednesday and Thursday, June 12th. and 13th. There will be, as usual, a grand parade on the 12th., in which all the Carroll county companies, the majority of the volunteer companies from the other Maryland counties, some of the Baltimore Fire Department, and companies from Virginia and Pennsylvania, will take part. On the 13th., there will be contests, with hose and reel, with steam fire engines and with hook and ladder companies; also a competitive drill in which the Taneytown Fire Company expects to enter.

We hope there will be a good attendance of citizens. The volunteer fire companies deserve to be encouraged; they often save towns and villages from disastrous fires. The insurance rate is always lower where there is a well organized fire company, and they sometimes save life. The boys often get a little wild, and sometimes do those things they ought not to do, and leave undone those things they ought to do," but therein they do not differ much from the rest of mankind. Of course, every member of the fire company will be on hand and do his best to uphold the honor of his county and town.

The Maryland Public Health Association. The Maryland Public Health Association is an Association of Physicians and others of both sexes, who are interested in Sanitary Science. Its object is to educate the people in that science, and to aid the State Board of Health in its work. Some of the most notable triumphs of modern medicine have been in preventing disease, and along that line lies much of its future usefulness. It is a singular fact that most people will take quantities of nauseous drugs; others use charms, spells and incantations; accept all sorts of wild theories and beliefs; in short, invoke all the powers of earth and heaven to be cured of diseases, and yet will seldom take much pains to keep from getting sick.

This is true of individuals, and it is equally true of communities. How often is it the case that in many of our towns and even in some cities, the sanitary condition will be simply deplorable. Then when an epidemic of some kind threatens, there will be a desperate effort to clean up, when all the filth that has been accumulating for a long time will be stirred up, and much filth placed in floods of so-called disinfectants. It is true, that in the last few years much improvement has been wrought—especially in our larger cities—but much remains to be done; and in our village and larger towns, there is little or no attempt at sanitary inspection, and almost no effort to enforce even the few sanitary laws that are on our statute books.

Our Maryland State Board of Health is very efficient; its President, Dr. Welch, of the Johns Hopkins University, is a very busy man, a scientist known all over the world. He, along with the other members of the Board, are giving their time and work without pay. Dr. Fulton, the Secretary is an earnest hard working and efficient man, but no law or set of laws can be enforced in the United States, without the co-operation of the people, and our Sanitary laws in Maryland are still very defective. There ought to be a local health association in every county, or better still, in every community, to aid the state association in getting better sanitary laws and in enforcing those that we already have.

It is impossible in a short space to give more than a few hints as to what has been done to prevent outbreaks of disease and to check them, after they have broken out. One of the most important things is to have reliable statistics. Take, for instance, a report read by Dr. Jones, assistant Health officer of Baltimore city, at the last meeting of the Health Association. The whole city was represented on maps on which the house were marked by dots of different colors—one for diphtheria, one for scarlet fever, one for typhoid fever and one for consumption. By this he showed that diphtheria was not most prevalent in the slums, but in the more comfortable residence portions of the city; that the number of cases decreased rather suddenly in June, and increased in September, or in other words, it was most prevalent among children who attended school. The same was true of scarlet fever, but on the contrary, consumption was most prevalent where the ventilation was poor and the houses damp; in tenement houses and sweat shops, for instance.

The day will come, I hope, when every part of the United States will be mapped off in the same way, and the sanitary condition of every house known, so that if an epidemic occurs, it will be known what was its exciting cause. It is certain that many diseases can be almost, or altogether, abolished by proper preventive measures. Take cholera and yellow fever, for example. Not so very long ago, if they once got a foot-hold in civilized countries, they swept the larger cities, causing not only loss of life, but panic and loss of property. Now, no one fears them, for they can be stamped out with absolute certainty. The plague, which is now prevailing and has killed so many people in the East, was at one time just as fatal in European countries, and it is estimated that in one of its ravages, it killed about one fourth of the people in the known world. But it is not only such diseases as these whose very name used to bring terror, but more common diseases can be either eradicated or kept in control. I believe typhoid fever can be wiped out altogether by proper sanitary measures. For example, in the city of Munich, Germany, the death rate from typhoid fever from 1881 to 1890 was 202.4 per 100,000 inhabitants; with improvement in drainage and water supply, it fell to 5.6 per 100,000 in 1896. Consumption, or as physicians call it, tuberculosis, is the most universal scourge of the human race; one-seventh of all the deaths are due to it. Accurate statisticians say that at least 150,000 persons die every year from some form of consumption. An estimate based on the census report of 1890 gives the total number of persons afflicted with consumption in the United States 1,050,000, or one in every 60 of the population, and lately some eminent physicians, who have made a great many most mortem examinations, claim that every person who lives to grow up, has tuberculosis at some time or other, although it may be a very slight attack. At any rate it kills many more people than any other known disease.

Lately it has been proven to the entire satisfaction of many of our most eminent men that mosquitoes carry the germ of yellow fever and malaria, and it has been proven beyond a doubt, that flies carry typhoid fever infection from sewers or outhouses to patients. Sanitary Science is yet in its infancy, and the day will come when at least a great many of the diseases we now or are presented from either wiped out or presented from spreading. A great deal of attention is now being paid to consumption, and the death rate seems to be slowly decreasing, but all this can only be brought about by the hearty co-operation of the people with health boards and health associations containing scientific men, who make a life study of such matters.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea," mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and the Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Huge Comparative Value of Corn.

The value of the country's corn crop in 1900 was $751,000,000 at farm prices; the total wheat crop was valued at $324,000,000, and the value of all the cereals in the United States, including wheat and excepting corn, was $855,000,000. This shows the overshadowing importance of corn to the American agriculturist as no amount of talk can show it. No country in the world has at any time produced a cereal crop of any kind equaling the corn harvest of the United States in either volume or value.

Now let us look at another phase of the corn question. On the basis of the normal production in recent years, the ten cents a bushel which has been added to the price of corn, as a tardy recognition of the rapidly changing relations between supply and demand has added $200,000,000 to the annual income of the corn growers of America. Divided among the great corn States this sum distributes as follows: $15,000,000 to Indiana, $10,000,000 to Ohio, $30,000,000 to Iowa, $18,000,000 to Missouri and $30,000,000 each to Kansas and Nebraska. Do we need to look further than this for the real basis of the improved agricultural conditions in America during the last five years?

During the Paris Exposition more than 200,000 people secured at the "American Corn Kitchen" their first taste of corn prepared as human food. This enterprise was organized by Hon. Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, formerly United States Minister to Denmark, and Mr. B. W. Snow, the well-known corn expert.

The opening of the Kitchen was attended by the highest officials of the French Government, the commissioners representing other foreign Governments, and by United States Ambassadors Porter. When the corn dainties were served to these distinguished guests it was found that the force of waters provided by our Government was wholly inadequate. There was no time in which to summon outside help, and Colonel Carr, with characteristic American decision, quickly excused himself from his guests at the table, wrapped his ample form in a white apron, and with his silk tie still on his head, took a position "behind the counter" and played the part of chef in serving his guests. The latter included such distinguished persons as the Danish Count and Countess Raben, of Denmark; Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe, of the American Banking House in Paris. Commenting on this incident the Paris press observed that: "No person but an American would dare do a thing of this kind; and in the race for commercial supremacy no nation can hope to stand against a country whose diplomats will, in order to promote its trade possibilities, put on an apron and assume, temporarily, the role of waiter."—The Saturday Evening Post.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers are aimed to cure. While pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE."

Send prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. C. 345 EDWIN B. GILES & COMPANY, 2330 and 2332 Market Street, Philadelphia.

This Business is Growing

greater and greater. In fact its growth within the past year has been nothing short of marvellous.

But then it might be considered natural enough when the causes of its growth are so visible to all who consider the store's policy and grand trading possibilities.

The character of the stocks we carry has long since stamped itself upon the minds of all within our reach, who like the best. There's no extravagance in buying from such stock as ours. It's economy—the extravagance, in truth, lies in buying the other kind. Next to the importance of the stock is the service you get. Well, we do almost anything that's reasonable, as far as that goes. But, after all, we're not perfect, so come right out open handed and tell us our mistakes when you find them.

Our Home Circle.

Original articles solicited for this department on any subject relative to "Home" matters, whether of a social, decorative, culinary or general character.

Contentedness.

This old-fashioned word seems to be more expressive than the more often used—Contentment—in describing a very desirable state of mind.

Let us notice some of the rules laid down for the exercise of contentedness. For one thing, we should never compare our condition with that of those whom we think are better off.

Then, if instead of thinking of the things which happen to trouble us, we would think of the pleasant things in our lives, we would find much food for content.

Look at nature, how from apparent death, and without taking thought or care, it has blossomed into life and beauty.

Grant me so much patience as a blade of grass grows, contented through the heat and cold.

A Good Cough Medicine. It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other.

Limits of the Audibility of Sound. An interesting matter, from a scientific point of view, in connection with the death of Queen Victoria is the distance at which the sound of ringing was heard when the fleet saluted as the body was conveyed from Cowes to Portsmouth.

Another thing, let us make a habit of appreciating the blessings we do possess, in the same proportion that we would grieve at the loss of these particular blessings.

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets...

IT MADE HIM A HERO.

AN ACT THAT BROUGHT A LAWYER FAME AND FORTUNE.

It looked like an Exhibition of Pure Nerve and Daring, but in Reality It Was Simply an Outcome of His Neighbourliness.

"A person who enjoys good eye-sight," said a man who most decidedly does not, "would be greatly astonished to know how little is seen by those who are nearsighted even in a moderate degree.

And since, when we consider the matter, we find that no one who ever lived has been exempt from misfortune of some kind, why should we expect to be an exception to the rule?

These are only a few of the arguments of the episode were a lawyer in a city in Ohio where I spent my boyhood.

A SOURCE OF WASTE.

Enormous Quantities of Raw Flax Burned Up Each Year.

In 1898 the United States produced 17,217,000 bushels of flaxseed, but did not utilize a million pounds of fiber, according to a New York correspondent of The Prairie Farmer...

"In explanation of my inside knowledge of the case I don't mind saying that he was a distant relative of mine, and in the family circle, where his nearsightedness was well known, he was said to be a good joke.

THE GLASS OF FASHION. French and English chevrons are very popular for spring tailor made gowns.

A Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured. "At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says George E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va.

It is a startling sign of the instability of the times when European sovereigns go to America to invest their private fortunes.

Males and cluny leces are still popular for dress trimming, and they are all the other well known kinds which have lost some of their prestige.

Variety distinguishes the assortment of flowers which appears on the new hats, but size and quality are the main features after all.

Why Spiders Are Not Insects. The spider is not an insect, though probably nine people out of ten would class it under this term.

DOCTORS say "Consumption can be cured." Nature alone won't do it. It needs help. Doctors say Scott's Emulsion is the best help.

Our Job Printing has a deservedly high reputation. Why? Because it is always clean, first-class work.
