ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, JUNE 22nd., 1901.

THERE ARE even papers men enough to say, in plain language, that President McKinley does not know his own mind in reference to his declaration of third-term consideration; but, such papers are awfully light weight, even in influence with their own constituents.

IT IS officially stated that Philadelphia's public building has cost $25,000,000, less a few thousands. It would be interesting to know how many such buildings this vast sum would have provided, had the city received the benefit of all the appropriations, minus political "jobs."

IN A RECENT editorial, the Baltimore Sun, in condemning the pension system generally, sarcastically remarked that the best way in which to settle the dissatisfaction over pension legislation would be "to award a pension to each person who can show that he votes the Republican ticket." This is both undignified and unbecoming of such a great newspaper as the Sun, which aims to shed light for all, and is but little better than an insult to the many democratic pensioners whose party loyalty is unquestioned.

IT WILL BE interesting to note what those newspapers and individuals, who have always violently denounced the Australian system of voting on the score of its great cost, will have to say in reference to the increased number of polling places provided for, and required by the "special session" election law. As these same newspapers and individuals generally approve the special session and its laws, it will evidently require some difficult mersaulting for them to make it appear that the double extra expense is justifiable under the new, and not under the old, election law.

PENNSYLVANIA AND Philadelphia are likely the most brilliant examples of political boss misrule that have ever existed in any country. The recent gift, by Mayor Ashbridge, of valuable railroad franchises to a coterie of politicians, in the face of an offer by John Wanamaker of $2,500,000 for the franchises, is an act which deserves the condemnation of all honest people, irrespective of party. It appears to take a long while for the great republicans of Pennsylvania vainly to effectually suppress spoils-men who are rapidly bringing complete odium on the state, as well as on the party name. Maryland would not wait so long.

The Senatorial Question.

The democratic county papers are discussing the situation, with reference to their candidate for United States Senator and the fall campaign. While some favor the return of Mr. Gorman, in spite of his past record, designating him as a "great leader," others strongly recommend a return to the Eastern Shore precedent, with a candidate for Senator from that section, especially in view of the fact that the republican candidate is almost sure to be Hon. P. L. Goldsborough, of whom the Eastern Ledger (Dem) speaks as "a pure and brainy man," and asks, "Could we fight him successfully in the doubtful counties of the Eastern Shore with a Western Shore candidate?"

The Chestertown Transcript (Dem) also strongly advises a return to the "traditions of the past," and refers indirectly to Mr. Gorman in the following language: "The present is not a time for the rank and file of the party to array themselves in antagonistic camps as to who shall or who shall not be their United States Senatorial candidate if they expect to win. While it is not desirable, nor is it desired that the old leaders should be either ignored or retired to the shades of forgotten blessings, it is a fact that a change—an infusion of new blood in politics, as in other things, is a good thing. It is a reassurance to the people that new men with new ideas and more vigorous currents of thought and action are at intervals, at least, appearing upon the political stage."

Regarding the situation as a whole, it seems probable that the election this year will be one of the most interesting ever held in the state; and, while all is quiet along the line at present, it is likely the calm which betokens a storm, which, when it breaks, will furnish all the excitement that even the most ardent political worker could desire. Party harmony is likely to be at a premium in both camps, as division would be a guarantee of defeat.

Men Who Talk too Much.

Talking, is not only a faculty, but a decided habit, of the American people. To be "seen and not heard" is not the fashion on this side of the water, as the world now pretty generally understands. "To be, or not to be," in its modern American application, means, "talk, or not to talk," even with the full knowledge of the fact that, talking, means action, and action, means fight—probably. This prolific tongue exercise, while commendable in the main, has its objectionable side—its tiresome side—and sometimes we are led to pray that some people would more frequently "take a rest" in their tongues—in other words, "give us a rest."

We have in mind a recent occasion on which a certain contingent reminded us greatly of animated jumping jacks, assuming that the intelligent outcome of all matters rested wholly on their liberality of advice and direction. This would not have been so bad, had not individual participation been of the bombastic sort, carrying with it a contagion affecting almost the entire number of "heavy weights," who religiously took their turns at enlightening the somewhat less-favored—at least, more modest—majority.

Floor privileges and courtesies to others out a small figure with those who aim to secure leadership, without regard to whether it be assumed or conferred, the gratification of the position evidently outweighing anything like gentlemanly consideration for the rights and opinions of others. Indeed, it is probable that those who have within them the disposition to "boss" and "log-roll," are to be excused, to some extent, for the reason that they do not possess even the elements of modest gentility, coupled with fairness, which forms the foundation stone of the truly high character, consequently are unaware of any requirements of the sort being expected from them.

The cultivation of talkativeness undoubtedly leads to boastfulness and oppression—sometimes, to contempt. It is largely a physical gift, and in nowise an indication of superior intelligence; in fact, those "who think too little and talk too much" are greatly in evidence at all our conventions, and at most public functions except where the man, and not the voice, holds the pass. In reflections such as these, we are led toward that discrimination which acts as a balance between bombast and intelligent discussion.

The Iowa Liquor Laws.

A recent visit to Des Moines, Iowa, revealed, to some extent, the operations and specific features of the liquor laws of the state, which are said to be among the best in force anywhere. Licenses are granted only on the petition of 60 per cent of the state taxpayers of a ward, or district; the state license is $600, and the city license $600; bars must be located above ground, in full view of passers by on the street, and all must close promptly at 10 p. m.

The majority of the citizens seem to like the law, and strict temperance people consider it next best to total prohibition, and preferable to the "wide open," or even the more surreptitious "drug store," system. It is the boast of this city that it contains more churches and schools, and less saloons, than any city of its size in the country, and to the liquor license law is attributed much of the honor for this happy condition.

In addition to the special features named, there are others of minor importance, perhaps, which have a decided tendency toward restricting the business to something like a decent basis. The 60 per cent petition restriction, in itself, amounts to practical prohibition in the better residence sections, and largely confines the saloons to the portion of the cities tenanted by the less respectable classes. As a rule, the saloons are almost unnoticed, as such, bearing considerable resemblance to drug stores or cafes, which might easily be passed by, even by the thirsty searcher for refreshments. It is said that this city—Des Moines—is noticeably free from drunkenness and all forms of law-breaking produced by the use of intoxicants.

Pan-American Stamps.

Washington, June 17.—The Pan-American stamps issued by the Post-office Department in commemoration of the Exposition at Buffalo have proved a great success. The first issue of the new stamps was made on April 27 last, and for the past month the average number requested by all of the 76,000 postoffices in the country has been 5,000,000 a day. But the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has only been able to supply one-half of the demand. This is in part due to the fine work done on the stamps, which requires them to be printed on hand instead of steam presses. At any rate the work is done on hand presses and is said to be much finer because of that fact.

The stamps are printed in two colors and are the first postage stamps printed in two colors since the war time. Revenue stamps are printed in two tints, for a special reason, some of them ranging as high as $1,000. The two tints, black for the picture centers and the standard colors prescribed by the International Postal Union for the borders, is a preventive against forgery. That is the purpose of using two tints on the revenue stamps, but in the case of the Pan-American issue the two tints are used for artistic effect.

A Tempting Accumulation.

"What becomes of all the money orders which are never presented for payment?" asked a Washington business man of a postal official. "Every few days we receive letters from our customers saying that they have forwarded orders for goods, but the orders have never reached our hands. And this is true of every large mail order house in Washington."

"They disappear in various ways," was the reply. "Some are burned or torn up instead of the receipts, and this is particularly true of international money orders, where the receipts are of the same size of the order, only white in color. Some are sent in letters which are not addressed, and these, together with thousands of other orders, find their way to the dead letter office. Ultimately most of these letters find their way back to the remitters, or duplicates are applied for.

the form of a money order at any time upon representation, upon satisfying itself, in the instance of a long lapse of years, that there has been no previous payment by duplicate or otherwise. In Great Britain, I believe, this money becomes forfeited to the government after a certain number of years—four, I think. The British government evidently proceeds upon the theory that if a holder of a money order or the sender does not seek to cash the order within a reasonable time the government can put it to good advantage by applying the amount to its own use. Such a practice undoubtedly facilitates the business of the government's end of the contract and is strictly legal if authorized by law. In nearly all money transactions there is a limitation upon the validity of any voucher which represents cash as to its time for presentation. Even a note payable without date is barred by the statute of limitations in the various States.

There is to-day an accumulation of over $2,500,000 in the treasury of these unclaimed money orders which has been gradually piling up during the years the government has been conducting a money order business. With each individual order the government has made a special effort to effect payment to the payee or restore the amount to the remitter, and, failing, can do naught but keep the amount. The fact that 50,000 duplicate orders are annually issued would appear to indicate that the American people are extremely careless in the handling of these money vouchers. Where the originals go or how they are disposed of would fill a volume.

A single order may be issued up to $100 in amount, and the average is about $7.50, the smaller offices issuing the great bulk of orders and the larger offices cashing 95 per cent of them.

JOHN MCKELLIP,

TANEYTOWN, MD.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under the Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pasting and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and speciality of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharge, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted part. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" or "THE GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

greater and greater. In fact its growth within the past year has been nothing short of marvelous.

But then it might be considered natural enough when the causes of its growth are so visible to all who consider the store's policy and grand trading possibilities.

The character of the stocks we carry has long since stamped itself upon the minds of all within our reach, who like the best.

There's no extravagance in buying from such stock as ours. It's economy—the extravagance, in truth, lies in buying the other kind. Next to the importance of the stock is the service you get. Well, we do almost anything that's reasonable, as far as that goes. But, after all, we're not perfect, so come right out open handed and tell us our mistakes when you find them.

The Free Summer Excursions. Through the philanthropy of the Free Summer Excursion Society, made possible by the generosity of numerous people of this district, the operation of municipal officials, nearly a thousand mothers and children will to-day enjoy an outing to North Point. They will make the trip on the local Lathrop as the guests of the society, which further seeks to contribute as much as possible to the comfort of the excursionists by keeping the grounds and groves about North Point in good condition.

On these trips the children enjoy the pure air, blowing fresh and sweet and clean from fields of growing grain, and inhale the odors of the wild rose and of the honeysuckle. They are restored for a time to Mother Nature, whose children they are and in whose care there is much of good for mind and for body.

To the tired mother, often worn and weak, these trips furnish a helpful relaxation from the daily care that imparts her. She is invigorated and given a new strength for days to come.

The really bright pages in the daily diary of the association of the people of a community or of a whole city are those which are illuminated by evidences of a bond of humanity, of the fellowship of man. The person who can help to show his neighbor that there is more of love than of hatred, more of light than of darkness in this world, is the one who helps to make his fellow beings happier and the world better.

But to the practical part of the work of the Free Summer Excursion Society, the city furnishes a boat free to the society for use upon these trips and the society looks to the comfort of its guests, entertains them at luncheon and keeps the grounds in proper order for their visits.

For the funds necessary to do this the society must depend upon the generosity of the people of the city, and it appeals to the people for aid.

The purpose of the society are laudable in every particular, and the Herald is satisfied that the necessary money will be readily supplied.—Morning Herald.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man to a find a free boat for use upon these trips and the society looks to the comfort of its guests, entertains them at luncheon and keeps the grounds in proper order for their visits.

New Scheme for Sykesville.

Former Governor Frank Brown, who recently purchased the old factory property at Sykesville, Md., is having the upper floors of the building converted into apartments for workingmen and their families. It is a stone building, several stories in height and measuring 70 by 50 feet, with a large L. The factory has been abandoned as such since the great flood of 1888, when the dam was swept away. It is the purpose of ex-Governor Brown to rebuild the dam and to the factory to pump water from the Patapasco river to a reservoir upon a hill 100 feet high, thus furnishing waterworks for the town.

His idea, as expressed yesterday, is that the people of Sykesville will probably have their town incorporated by the next Legislature, and that the municipality thus created will purchase the waterworks, which, he says, would save the residents so much in insurance rates that they could well afford to pay water rents and do away with the use of pumps, wells and springs. He intends to first form a water company, when he returns from Europe next autumn, and then to go to the State, where he will be the head of it.

The reservoir hill is upon a tract of about 20 acres, owned by Mr. Brown, and which has been purchased by the municipality of the town for tournaments, picnics, baseball games and dances, and he says that it could be made into a public park. The surplus power from the river could be employed to light the town with electricity.

A new bank is also being organized at Sykesville by Mr. Wade H. Warfield, with a capital of $10,000. It will occupy a new building, which will be equipped in a modern manner with vaults for banking and safe deposit purposes.—Sun.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap? A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been tried in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues, but destroys the germ disease, but always inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient in a few days. Recommended by many of our best physicians in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac, R. S. McKinney, Taneytown, Md.

Short and Sour. There had been a small bank failure, and the bank had gone into the hands of a receiver. The receiver had proved to be dishonest and had absconded with what remained of the funds of the institution. Expert detectives, however, were on his track, and he was run to earth on a mountain town and taken back to the scene of his financial exploits.

It was after midnight when the detectives arrived with their prisoner, and Mr. Means, the principal depositor in the bank and therefore the principal loser, was awakened at his home and informed by telephone of the capture.

He expressed his gratification and went back to bed. Shortly afterward he was aroused to receive another telephone message to the same effect. "Thank you," he said, "but I had heard of it already. Good night!"

And again he sought his couch. About 2 o'clock he was awakened a third time. The telephone bell was ringing.

In no gentle frame of mind he answered it. "Hello!" he said. "Hello!" responded a voice through the telephone. "Is this Mr. Means?"

"Yes. What do you want?" "Mr. Means, this is Deputy Sheriff Joe Jones. We've caught that runaway receiver. Is there anything you'd like to have me do personally in the matter?"

"Yes!" roared Mr. Means. "Hang up the receiver!"

And he was not disturbed again—Youth's Companion.

Mark Twain and the Serpent's Tooth. Mark Twain's daughter, Miss Clara C. Clemens, in entering upon her career as a concert singer, had a long conference with a manager. Many matters were discussed, plans made and details settled. Miss Clemens dictating her own terms. The young singer, who had experienced considerable difficulty in obtaining parental consent to a public career, showed her earnestness by the businesslike manner in which she looked into affairs.

When matters had been fully considered and the manager was about to sign the contract, she said with the large determination that small bodies not infrequently possess:

"I wish it distinctly understood that my father's name is not to be mentioned at all in connection with my singing in public."

Mark Twain, who had been sitting in the room during the interview, in which, however, he had taken no part, looked up quizzically and said, with a twinkle in his eyes:

"You see what it is to have a thankless child!"—Saturday Evening Post.

A Housecleaning Carol. The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year; The carpets on the clothless and innumerable whisks we hear; The beddings in the kitchen, and the beds are in the hall; The pictures are upon the floor, while some one dusts the wall; We eat cold meat and crackers from a wobbly kitchen chair; For this is equal housecleaning time—so free from toll and care.

The neighbors line their windows and a hasty census is made; Of all the bric-a-brac we have and calculations make; It was brought with pride, or on an installment plan; We rescue our provisions from the dusty garbage can; And life is gay and carefree; it makes one want to— To him, because the folks are cleaning house at home.

The melancholy days are here—the days of soap and dust; Stove polish dials the table war; there's pie on the piano holds some living pens; the bathtub's filled with soap; The washboard falls, ah, who could tell who they were by their looks; Sing hey! The suds housecleaning time, the time of dust and care.

AN OFFICIAL MIX UP.

THE STORY OF AN APPOINTMENT TO A JUDGESHIP.

How the Man Slated For Associate Justice of New Mexico's Supreme Court First Got a Surprise and Appreciated the Offer.

Late in the year 1900 it was decided by the powers in Washington that Mr. Daniel H. McMillan, ex-state senator of New York and for many years general counsel in the city of Buffalo for the Vanderbilt system of railroads, was to be appointed associate justice of the supreme court of New Mexico.

This appointment had been urged not only by those who knew Mr. McMillan in the state of New York, but by lawyers of Santa Fe and of other cities in New Mexico who knew of him and desired to see him obtain the place.

Toward the close of 1900, with Governor Otero of the territory, Mr. McMillan was on a Lake Shore train speeding toward Washington. When the train stopped at Painesville, O., newsboys boarded it, and one of them called out: "All about the new supreme court judge of New Mexico, Silas Alexander appointed." The governor of the territory and Mr. McMillan looked at each other, and they bought a paper, and in that paper they read in glaring headlines that Silas Alexander of Santa Fe had received the appointment to the vacant judgeship.

Mr. McMillan the morning of his arrival in the capital went at once to the office of the secretary of war.

"How did it happen I was not appointed?" he asked.

"Why?" said Mr. Root, "you are appointed!"

"Why," said Mr. McMillan, "you are mistaken." And he drew from his pocket the Cleveland newspaper of the day before. Secretary Root turned all colors. "This is a mistake," he said, "I would not have believed it for I have it from the president's own lips, corroborated by Mr. Griggs, attorney general, that your name was sent yesterday to the senate for action and that the recommendation was duly signed by President McKinley."

The clerk went to the state, war and navy building and found Attorney General Griggs.

"That you have been given the appointment," said Mr. Griggs.

"Then what does this newspaper report mean?" was the reply.

The attorney general was dumfounded. "I cannot conceive what it means," he said. He tapped his bell, and when a messenger came in response he requested the attendance of the clerk in confidential relations with him, whose duty it is to fill in upon appointments, blinks the names of those who are designated for appointments by the executive.

The clerk appeared. "Mr. Blank," said the attorney general, "find out at once whose name was sent yesterday to the senate with the recommendation by the president that he be appointed associate justice of the supreme court of New Mexico."

"I will look," said the clerk. He soon returned with a memorandum slip in his hand.

"Mr. Alexander," he said—"the man from Buffalo."

Then a glimmering of the truth dawned upon the group. "Are you sure," said Attorney General Griggs, "that the name was not McMillan?"

"Certainly," was the reply. "The name was Silas Alexander."

The situation was remarkable, and time was important.

The president of the United States had inadvertently, by the error of a subordinate, been made to set aside the man whom he had intended to name.

There came a pause. Mr. Griggs broke the silence.

"Well, gentlemen," he said, "the fat is in the fire, but we must get it out. My subordinate has made this mistake, and I must do my best to get it rectified, and perhaps the fault is partly mine, for I told him to fill in the name of the Buffalo man, and he, probably, seeing the name Alexander and identifying it with the congressman of the same name prominently known in Washington, thought that he was to be appointed."

And so the three men went to the president and explained matters, and as a consequence a messenger, preceded by a telephone message, sped rapidly toward the capitol with instructions to seek immediately the leader of the senate and prevent any action on the nomination and to make the statement to that leader that it was withdrawn.

The messenger arrived just as the senate was about to take action, and if the telephone had been relied upon the nomination of Silas Alexander would have been confirmed by the United States senate, and the will of the president of the republic would have been defeated.—Saturday Evening Post.

Looking For Work. "Yes, man," said the ragged fat man, "I'm lookin' for work. Yer ain't got no old jobs of scrubbin' or washin' for me, have yer?"

"Why, you surely don't do scrubbin' or work of that sort?" said the house-keeper.

"Sure not. I'm lookin' for work fur me wife."—Philadelphia Record.

FERTILIZERS FOR 1901!

When a merchant draws from his stock day after day, to meet the demands of his trade, he must, if he expects to continue business, replenish that stock as occasion demands, or go out of business. A good farm, or fertile soil, is part of the farmer's bank account. You cannot continue to draw on it without making the necessary deposits. If you do, your farm—like your Banker—will serve notice as follows:—

NO FUNDS! NO CROPS!

You can avoid this notice by buying Fertilizers that have stood the test for years, and proven themselves adapted to our soil. We want to call your attention to the following:

Baugh's Bone Meal, Warranted Pure. Especially adapted for the growing of cereals and for general farm use.

Baugh's Pure Dis. Animal Bone, Made from Animal bones and Sulphuric Acid only.

Baugh's General Crop Grower, A complete Fertilizer for all crops.

Baugh's Soluble Alkaline Super-Phosphate. Tried and true—never failing to produce good results.

Baugh's High Grade Acid Phosphate. A good article for the price—will compare favorably with higher priced goods.

Armour's Grain Grower, Especially adapted for the growing of cereals and for general farm use.

Reindollar's Fish Phosphate, Tried and true—never failing to produce good results.

Reindollar's Ammoniated Bone, A good article for the price—will compare favorably with higher priced goods.

Kainit, Muriate, Tankage, Plaster---

In fact, everything used for the manufacture of High-grade Fertilizers, can be found in stock, at prices that will not only please you, but prove to you that we are here for business, and will meet any just competition. We are always busy—time is money—but we want an opportunity to talk Fertilizers with you, and would be glad to have you call, or see our agents before placing your orders. If you prefer to have your goods mixed, we have the ingredients, and will make it as ordered.

COAL! COAL!

Don't neglect your Coal orders. Our bins are full, and bought at the Low Price. By placing your orders now you get the Lowest Price for the year. Our business is to serve you as best we can; you call to see us, and we will do the rest.
