wages on the farm, and the prices of the products of the farm, that the laborer buys.

Then, we will say that there has been a withdrawing of the day laborer to various manufacturing establishments in our country, and there will soon be an over-production in those line—the farmer will not buy all that is manufactured—and then the second and third grade of laborers will return to the farm. What is the quality of the majority of the farmers' help available? About 2 laborers in our vicinity have left since March 1st, for other places making big promises to them, but if we wait until winter sets in, one-half of the boys will return and expect the farmer to winter them. Then again we have had the usual amount of store-loafers in the country, until recently they turned out and went

There was a time, about 50 years ago, when it was an honor to go to the harvest field and help gather the crop. The clerk, the apprentice, students and fair maidens—as well as older ones—all took part, and the crop was gathered. But now, we are having nearly daily excursions and entertainments for people, and the day laborer is always present; but the farmer and his wife and sons must keep to the field, and gather the crops. And then again, we started this Spring on a two week's system behind time, on account of the weather and those who were not wide-awake to the fact are suffering now. The farmer must get awake and start off in time at the first of the year, for harvest time, and have everything prepared for the busy season of the year, and then he will get through in time. Our binder agents, after they were through, stepped in to the field, and so must every one assist the farmer at such times. We think if the Editor would have lent a helping hand, he would understand the question better.

of patience and perseverance, we rejoice that the harvest of 1901 is ended whether the summer is or not. O almost every farm, beside the barns being filled to their full capacity, one can count from one to as many as four racks of grain or hay—certainly an indication of the bountiful yield.

ing at Georgetown, S. C. Harmon's, the pastor of the church, stated that the annual conference of the Reformed church of the Synod of the Carolinas will be held at Sydney, S. C. The date has not been fixed yet, but we presume about the middle of September. The grove in which it will be held is owned by Mr. Brillhart and has, we are informed, every convenience to add to the enjoyment of the conference. We are glad that with the co-operation of the Sydney congregation, the committee of arrangements hopes to make this the best of any heretofore held in the county. We hope the different churches who have so faithfully responded in the past, and who have so materially Tyrone.—Some of the farmers are hauling in grain, while others are done, and some are still making hay. Some of the farmers are breaking the ground for fall seeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gilbert, visited Mrs. Gilbert's brother's family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arthur, near Linwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Bankert, of Westminster, visited their farm occupied by Mr. Theo. Cummings. The Christian Endeavor society will hold a festival on Saturday evening August 17th., in Mr. Jacob Rodkey's grove, at Tyrone. All are cordially invited.

Mr. Charles I. Carbaugh, at Fairview, is building a first-class class mill, which will be operated by steam. While Mr. C., was attaching a four-teen foot iron shaft to the machinery the scaffold broke, throwing him down and bruising him severely.

Bark Hill.—The excessive heat and tormenting mosquitos have rushed many city folks to this village and vicinity during the past week; among them are: Mrs. Ida Rowe and daughter Hilda, Mrs. Pierpont, and two sons, of Baltimore, rusticating at Mrs. Levi Rowe's hospitable home. Master Maurice Hooker, of Baltimore, is enjoying the breezes with his grand-parents at Seraggy Maples.

Miss Linnie Keefe, of Thurmont,

Mr. Edward Yingling, Sr., who was overcome by the heat a short time ago, and was very ill, is now convalescing, but not able to be at work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL pic-nics, Camp meetings, County fairs, Apple-butter billings, Political meetings, Election day, hog killing, Christmas—then the Legation. Six months fun ahead, and something to please everybody—it's a pretty good old world, after all.

ONE of the gratifying features of the extremely hot summer is the fact that but few fires have resulted from lightning. Farm barns, especially, are objects of unusual danger at this season, but, up to the present time, losses of this kind are at the minimum.

IT IS ABOUT time to have a new chapter on the Gettysburg-Washington Electric road, and another on the sale of the Western Maryland. For a sensation, how would it do for the G-W, to buy the W. M. R. R.—in the papers—it don't cost any more for a "big one!"

The Lesson of the Census.

The state census has proven nothing, except that all enumerations of the population, taken hurriedly, and in many instances by those not fully qualified for the work, are sure to be more or less unsatisfactory, except as approximately truthful results are concerned. The recent state census shows an increase in Baltimore city, over the federal census, and a decrease in the counties, the former being taken a year after the latter. As disproving the correctness of the federal census, the work, as a whole, has failed to do anything of the kind, as another census, taken a year hence, could as easily disagree with the figures just arrived at.

That there were discrepancies in several counties, because of dishonest as well as incompetent enumerators, seems to be a fully established fact; and yet, this same condition has likely existed, heretofore, in every census in the union in every previous census. We would suggest that it would tend to absolute correctness in enumeration, if both the government and state, would, at the same time, conduct separate enumerations, the results of which should be placed before an impartial board, for examination and correction, after both efforts had been conducted on one clearly outlined system.

As census-taking seems to have taken on the form of political maneuvering, no other method will likely be productive of satisfactory results. Apparently, no public function, which in any way relates to political representation, can now go un-questioned when the slightest opportunity is presented for increasing or decreasing the representation of parties in state legislatures; and this leads to the thought that we are brought yet another step nearer to the election of United States Senators by the people.

The result of the state census, from a political standpoint, and as justifiably costing the state nearly $40,000, is not quite clear. Under the Federal enumeration, a representative was gained from Washington, Montgomery, Prince George's, St. Mary's, Charles, Anne Arundel and Kent counties; apparently, five republicans, one democrat, and one (Kent) doubtful. Under the state census, Kent loses its member, but, Dorchester, another doubtful county, takes its place; St. Mary's, Charles and Anne Arundel also lose, and these appear to represent the net political democratic gain—or, a republican loss of three members.

The Federal investigation and recount, however, which was undertaken as soon as it became known that the schedules had been "padded," would, of itself, have had practically the same result; therefore, it seems very questionable, whether, from any standpoint, the re-enumeration was justifiable.

Johnson and Roosevelt.

The following paragraph is from an editorial in the Baltimore Sun:—"Hon. Tom L. Johnson, Mayor of Cleveland, has given fresh proof to his friends, as well as to his enemies, that he is an erratic statesman. Ohio, as everybody knows, is in the throes of a political campaign, and the managers are hustling for contributions to the campaign fund. Mayor Johnson, it is reported, heard that his own manager was assessing city employees in Cleveland. He at once called him to account and ordered that every cent should be returned to those from whom money had been taken. His manager was startled by the Mayor's prohibition of a custom which has never been regarded with disfavor in Ohio. 'How are we going to run this campaign?' he asked. 'Let the various candidates produce,' said the erratic statesman, 'and any democrat who wants to be voluntarily, I'll help a little, too.'"

In so far as the above statement of fact goes, we are a "Tom Johnson" man. The system of taxation of public employees, for the purpose of keeping a political party in power, is execrable, and is in nowise excusable because it has been "custom" from time immemorial. Some of the "regulations" must be shattered, irrespective of the enforced tolerations of certain "regular standing" political practices, if we are ever to have honest government by the majority.

We have, for some time, been admiring the Hon. Tom Johnson, and the Hon. Teddy Roosevelt, for just such shocks to the "regulations." The men who have the nerve to be honest, in spite of recognized, but universally practiced, evils, are the men, in our judgment, who are the best fitted for leaders and administrators of the highest of public trusts, even to the Presidency of the United States. Johnson and Roosevelt, in their respective parties, are such men; but, this very fact is likely to prevent their nomination in 1904.

When the time is apparently not yet ripe, the men will be chosen to office by force of their honesty, capacity and broad-minded patriotism, but it is not without the realm of hope that many of us will live to see the day when the scheming, hungry politician, will be relegated to his proper place as an enemy to free, honest government of the people, by the people.

These two—Johnson and Roosevelt—are our ideals. Both are far removed, financially, from any sordid motives on their own behalf, and both have proved, time and again, in public office, that they hold said office as a "public trust," and are not influenced by those who would subvert their power for mere partisan ends. Their examples are reassuring for the government of the future—the honest men are not all dead yet.

The Editorial Will Endure.

We have heard much, indeed, and printed somewhat, about the decline or the decay of the editorial—or, to put it more explicitly, the degeneracy of the newspaper's influence upon the public it essays to serve. But the last word has by no means been said on either side of this interesting discussion; for while the one argument seems to point to the inability of all editorial utterance, the other exhibits pretty good proof to show the influence never was so strong and so instant. No matter, then, how fervid is one's personal belief in the matter, nor how conclusive one's own list of experience may appear, it is not well nor even sensible to lay down a final law about the editorial, its excellence or its worthlessness; because there is no weight of evidence to sway the scale of decision toward either side, and arbitrary pronouncement can but display one as a prigish and cocksure disputant. The most defined and substantial views have been expressed against the worth of the editorial; but perhaps the one out of them all that will be accorded readiest and widest approval by both sides was put forth lately by a veteran Ohio editor of unusually broad experience in active newspaper work. To him, he said, it was very plain that the editorial in the metropolitan newspaper—and by metropolitan he meant any local community of more than 75,000 population—carried no conviction to four-fifths of its readers save when it dealt with topics essentially local. But the country press—and he meant particularly the weekly of the strong sort and thriving character—swayed and guided its readers (in any degree it was able to through the personality of the man behind it.) If the country editor had brains, and was known, or thought, to be honestly minded and disinterested, his editorial speech got hearing and conviction.

Obviously, this survey of the question bases its conclusions on the assumption that the country editor is the personification of the power of the press, notwithstanding that these are the days of the metropolitan daily above all else. And that has been said before, but it has never been proved.—Newspaperman.

Where the Immigrants Go.

Four fifths of all the immigrants who come to New York declare their destination to be the North Atlantic States. New York attracts the greater number of these—42 per cent in all. Nineteen per cent declare for Pennsylvania, while but 6 per cent favor Massachusetts. The same number go to New Jersey, and but 3 per cent are bound for Connecticut.

A comparatively small proportion of the immigrants go to the far West. It is supposed that the cheapness of land and other attractions offered in the Middle West attract the greater part of them. Last year, of the 75,000 odd immigrants who landed in New York, only about 300 went to Iowa, 600 declared for Minnesota and small numbers were bound for Kansas, Idaho and California. Yet many of these states contain large foreign colonies, which might be expected to attract those of the same tongue.

The so-called foreign population of the larger cities of New York state is increasing rapidly. The new census shows that many of the foreign elements seem to have singled out a particular city to settle in. In Buffalo, for example, there is a large Polish colony numbering over 1000. Rochester has a Russian population large enough to support a Russian newspaper. Auburn has a population of native Englishmen nearly as large as the Russian colony in Rochester. Troy has a large population of Irish-born citizens, while Oswego has a large colony of French Canadians. Syracuse has more than 1000 German-born residents. In Jamestown is the largest Swedish population of any city in the state apart from New York. Utica is well known for its colony of Welshmen.

There is a Greek colony as well as a Syrian one in New York.—N. Y. World.

New Factory in Town.

If a new factory is to be erected, men employed, wages paid and profits realized I would rather the factory should be started in my town than in some other town. Why?

First: If I am a wage worker my opportunities of employment will be increased by an enlarged demand for labor close at hand. Even if some of the employees are brought from elsewhere, the setting up of the industry will open new avenues of employment both directly and indirectly.

Second: If I am a farmer the market for my products will be improved. Every additional eater means a reader sale and possibly a better price for the output of my land, my dairy, my hencock. The nearer the market is, the better for me. Give me a clear field to supply a factory village of five hundred people with their butter, eggs, pork and "garden sass," and the other farmers can send their stuff to London, Paris, Bombay and Peking for aught I care.

Third: If I am a merchant I must live on the folks within easy reach of my store. Unless I am a big gun and have a long distance pull, the folks in the towns twenty miles away won't do me much good. Double the population of my town and you double my opportunities.

Fourth: If I own real estate I am very sensitive about comings and goings. Every new man or new family interests my pocket at once. They must abide somewhere. Tenants or customers to somebody they must be. A hundred new families in my town would be a "sweet boon" to my business. By all means locate the factory here. Why, I'll give the land for it myself.

Fifth: If I am a professional man I surely want more people here, more pupils, more patients, more clients, more people to build up the church in this place. The greater my opportunities the more good I can do. Let 'em come here.

Sixth: As a member of the Town Council, it is my duty to develop the town, to increase its population, add to its means of earning a living, bring yacac land under improvement, so that the wealth of the municipality may be enlarged, thus making easier the burden of taxation and enabling the local government to provide better schools, roads, lights for all, without hardship to any. Every new industry or old one enlarged is a help to us all. Bring the factory here and it shall pay no taxes for ten years. As it is with the town, so it is with the country. Don't buy anything abroad that you can get made at home. It is bad business policy.—American Economist.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. C. B. Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. "Something New Under The Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and special study of CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES THE GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" has ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD IN THE HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" THE GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE."

The brick work on G. W. Baumgardner's dwelling is progressing, and soon that section of the town can boast of one of our best buildings.

The P. O. S. of A., will give a banquet to its members on the evening of August 22nd., in the hall. The exact program has not been decided upon.

Miss Regis Shriner and her friend, Miss Katie Cherry, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. E. C. Crouse, of this place, and Miss Shriner's mother, on the Middleburg road.

On first page, we make a special offer of the RECORD to new subscribers to January 1st., 5 months—for 25c. The offer is good only until August 10th., and should result in several hundred subscriptions.

A valuable driving horse owned by Franklin Bowersox, died on Friday night, from eating too much corn. An employee left the feed box open, the night before and the animal found his way to it, with the result as stated.

The horses are now wearing straw hats, and, next summer, unless the style is changed, it is reasonable to presume that many of the females will "kick" against coming to town and going to church, wearing "last year's" style.

The election officials in Taneytown district, this year, are as follows: Registrars, J. V. Eckenrode, W. W. Withrow, Judges, J. Sylvester Fink, Robert S. McKinney; Clerks, Chas. A. Elliot, Thurlow W. Null. The first named, in each instance, being a democrat.

During the thunder storm on Thursday evening, about 5 o'clock, lightning struck and killed two valuable cows belonging to David Ohler, lying near Hobson's Grove school house. The animals were found lying about four feet apart, in exactly the same position, in the open field.

Rev. P. Rioscoe, writing from Havana to the RECORD, says: "We do not have the extreme heat in Cuba which you had in the early days of July. The temperature ranges from 85° to 90°, seldom above 90°. The summers are more tolerable than here in the states, but they are too long."

While the dry and hot weather of the week prevented the further sprouting of wheat, a great deal of it will not grade No. 1, and will not make good flour. Those who had their wheat unhusbed, during the week of rain, are to be congratulated on their narrow escape from greater loss.

The Fred. Div., mail train was over two hours late, last Friday evening, which compelled us to send the RECORD for all W. M. R. K., points, to Westminster, by team, in order that the fast mail might distribute the packages along the line before the departure of the Rural Carriers Saturday morning.

D. W. Garner, creamery supply dealer of this place, received a very handsome present, last week, from the U. S. Butter Extract Co., in the shape of a check for $286.50, extra bonus on the business done by him for the year. Mr. Garner is a "hushtler" in his line, and his company appreciates the fact, substantially.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crouse, of Hagerstown, have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton D. Crouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Shank. Mr. Crouse returned home on Wednesday, but Mrs. Crouse will remain until next week, on account of her mother's illness. Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs, of Kempton, have also been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Milton D. Crouse.

Mr. Allan Farquhar, of Montgomery county, and two other gentlemen interested in a proposed steam railway from Washington to Gettysburg, passed through this section on a tour of inspection, on Wednesday with the object in view of approximating the best route for such a road. From what we learn, the gentlemen were following practically the preliminary survey made by Engineer Lehman a number of years ago.

Wm. H. Overholzer, of Wellington, Kansas, writes the RECORD that he was elected Clerk of the District Court of Sumner County, while visiting his parents in this district last spring, and qualified here, before a Notary. His predecessor refuses to surrender the records, and the office, on the grounds that Mr. Overholzer qualified outside the state of Kansas, and the case has gone to the Supreme Court of the state. As Mr. O., was legally elected, he ought to win out, notwithstanding the technicality.

Rev. Jos. A. Seiss, D. D., of Philadelphia, who is now here on his customary annual visit to his nephew, Dr. F. H. Seiss, preached in the Lutheran church on Sunday morning. The congregation, of which the Docteur is pastor, recently sold its church property—Broad and Arch Sts.—for $325,000, and is now looking for a new location on which to build. Owing to the extension of the business section of the city, the old location became very valuable, and, at the same time, somewhat inappropriate for church purposes.

Pointers on the Exposition.

There is no place in the world where common sense, good temper and consideration for others are more desired than at a big Exposition, where there are all kinds of people and all sorts of grievances to be met. In going to the Exposition, be sure to take with you not only a trunk and a large grip with plenty of changes of clothing for a long stay and all kinds of weather, but also pack up several pounds of common sense and all the good humor you think you will need for the period of your trip. Do not forget to be reasonable, and do not imagine that somebody is trying to "do" you at every stage of the game. Do not expect a $10 suite of rooms with private bath and telephone in your room and all the other luxuries which go with these accessories for fifty cents or seventy-five cents a day, including meals and cigars.

The visitor ought to buy copies of the Buffalo papers in the morning before he starts out for his day of sight-seeing, for the local papers treat the Exposition very generously and are bound in interesting descriptions of what is going on at the Rainbow City. They contain many pointers about what to see and what to hear on the particular day the visitor may be desirous of such information.

Visitors wishing to have the program of the day in convenient form should buy the official program, for sale for five cents, at the hotel, at the gates, and in various parts of the grounds. The official catalogue, costing twenty-five cents, gives complete lists of the exhibits, which will be found very useful and the Art Handbook is invaluable to the visitor who wishes to form an intelligent idea of the art exhibits, and the color scheme, the landscape gardening and the Fine Arts Exhibit. This is also a handsome Exposition souvenir. It costs twenty-five cents. Of course they charge for beer, lemonade and fancy drinks at the Pan American, but good water, fresh from Lake Erie, is free, and there are numerous drinking fountains. There are also ample toilet provisions, there being both free sections and sections where a small charge is made.

Many people spoil their impressions of an Exposition by seeing it from the wrong point of view, physically or mentally, or both. Don't enter the Exposition by the side doors, or the Amherst street. Use either the Lincoln Parkway gate, on the South, the Railroad gate, on the North, or the Elmwood gate, or the best of all, go in by the water gate, leaving the car at the corner of Forest and Delaware avenues, and get your first glimpse of the Rainbow City from across the Park Lake and while journeying over its glassy surface by launch or gondola.

Don't fail to get the view of the buildings of the Pan American which the trip around the grounds on the canals gives you, and the best time to take it is by twilight, when the approaching dusk spreads a romantic haze about the cascades and minarets and Towers and fountains of this Spanish City. Then your voyage ends, at the Triumphal Canseway, we will say, after passing through the gates, and just as it is time for that marvelous illumination to begin. The turning on of the lights is now signalled by the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by all the bands; and as the music of the stirring anthem is heard, the vast audience ranged up and down the Court of Fountains and along the Esplanade rises with one impulse to its feet and patriotic emotion and admiration for the grand sight that is before them.

Legal Anecdotes.

"Two Dutchman, who built and used in common a small bridge over a little stream which ran through their farms, had a dispute concerning certain repairs which it required. One of them declined to bear any portion of the expense necessary to the purchase of two or three new planks. Finally the angry party went to the neighboring lawyer, and placing ten dollars in his hand, said: 'I'll give you all dish moneys, if you'll make Hans do justice mit the bridge.'

A Good Cough Remedy.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial, for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

A Genuine Lincoln Anecdote.

The following anecdote is vouched for by the editor of Leslie's Monthly, who has it from a very old lady, Mrs. H. A. Baldwin, now living in Los Angeles, Cal., who was a close neighbor of the Lincoln family when they resided in Springfield, Ill.

"I can remember clearly a very hot incident which occurred one little hot Sunday morning in summer. It was just about the time Mr. Lincoln had received the nomination for President. My husband had gone to church alone that morning, as I was not feeling well. I was sitting at the window looking out at the street, when I saw a little 'Tad' Lincoln trotting down the walk past our house as fast as his legs could carry him. He was between two and three years of age, and at that time was the sharpest little chap imaginable. His father had nicknamed him 'Tadpole,' soon shortened to 'Tad,' as all the neighbors knew."

"Mrs. Lincoln had gone to church, leaving the children at home in charge of Mr. Lincoln, and the little fellow had escaped from the yard in some way or other. As I watched 'Tad' trotting past, I heard some one calling him from up the street. Glancing up, I saw Mr. Lincoln coming as fast as his legs could carry him. As I have said, it was an exceedingly warm day, and people were wearing their thinnest clothes. As long as I live I shall never forget Mr. Lincoln's appearance. He was coatless, vestless bareheaded and barefooted! Think of it! The man who was later to be President of the United States, actually striding down the street barefooted after his runaway child! It was the most comical sight I have ever witnessed. 'Tad' was soon overtaken, and Mr. Lincoln, grasping his rebellious son around the waist, tucked him under his long arm like a sack of meal, with his head to the rear, and started for home again. Unfortunately church services had just closed, and the streets were crowded with people. Fashionably dressed, Mr. Lincoln stared in astonishment and with meriment upon the comical sight. Little 'Tad' was screaming, kicking and squirming in a vain attempt to escape. His little arms and legs were revelling in all directions and the sight of Mr. Lincoln, barefooted and half-dressed with that boy under his arm, would have sent his wife into spasms had she witnessed it. He, however, was not embarrassed in the least, but ducked and bowed right and left to acquaintances, responding cheerily to their 'Why, good morning Mr. Lincoln,' with 'How are you Mrs. So-and-so,' or 'Fine day, Mr. So-and-so,' all the while wearing a pleasant smile, while the spectators were nearly convulsed at the sight."

The Stingiest Men on Record.

An exchange has heard of three of the stingiest men on record. The first will not drink as much water as he wants unless it comes from a neighbor's well. The second forbids any of his family writing anything but a small hand, as it is a waste of ink to make large letters. The third stops the clock at night to save the wear and tear of the mending. All of them refused to take a newspaper on the ground that it is such a terrible strain on the spectacles to read.

THE WEST IS HOT.

Corn and Vegetation Burning up, Arizona, the Hottest.

The past week has been a record breaker in the way of heat, throughout the west, from Ohio to Nebraska. The government thermometers have registered from 104° to 108° in the private thermometers ran up as high as 138° in Kansas City, Mo. Throughout the great corn belt, crops are suffering severely, and in Kansas the best estimates are for but one quarter of a corn crop.

On Monday, the temperature was officially reported as follows: St. Louis 107°, Springfield, Ill., 108°, Cincinnati 106°, Louisville 106°, Kansas City 106°, Indianapolis 106°, St. Louis 104°, St. Paul 104°. In the east, the average was about 10° less. In nearly all cases, the record has never heretofore been reached, since temperatures have been recorded.

Throughout Kansas, as well as other states, cattle are being rushed to market on account of the scarcity of water. In one day the receipts at Kansas City alone amounted to 25,500 head. Vegetables are becoming scarce and high, and, unless heavy rains soon come, the wheat will be damaged and suffering throughout a vast territory.

In Arizona, the thermometer registered 127°; consequently vegetation is literally burned up. While the effect of the heat is great, it is not prostrating, as the air is entirely free from humidity and exhilarating, even if scorching. In the cities, work goes on as usual—bricklayers, carpenters, and even tin-smiths covering roofs, ply their trade, and the farmers, in Arizona, an excellent idea of the condition there being given by a resident, as follows:

"Cattle seek the meager shade of their pastures and lie with heaving sides and lolling tongues while they breathe like a dog after a hard run. When the sun is high, the cattle stand as when on the dog. Fowls go about with open bills and drooping wings. The small boy dare not leave off his shoes, for the hot earth will bake and blister his bare feet. He is even held back from a swim in the lake when it is full of water, for he knows that if he gets out after sundown, the water is scalding hot. Advantage is taken of this by prudent housewives, who set vessels of water in the sun to be heated as hot as they can get. The traditional cooking of eggs in the sun-heated sand may be accomplished here without the sand by merely laying them in the sun. The ironwork of all kinds become too hot to handle with bare hands. A wagon standing in the street has been known to catch fire from sun-heated tires."

The latest reports from the great corn belt of the west, indicate no relief from the abnormally high temperature of the first of the week. Scattered thunder showers have given some temporary relief, but there is no immediate prospect of a general rain. In portions of Kansas, thermometers register as high as 108° to 112°, and there is an alarming scarcity of water. In the southern portions of Nebraska corn and pastures are abandoned as failed, and farmers are disposing of stock as rapidly as possible.

Legal Anecdotes.

"Two Dutchman, who built and used in common a small bridge over a little stream which ran through their farms, had a dispute concerning certain repairs which it required. One of them declined to bear any portion of the expense necessary to the purchase of two or three new planks. Finally the angry party went to the neighboring lawyer, and placing ten dollars in his hand, said: 'I'll give you all dish moneys, if you'll make Hans do justice mit the bridge.'

"How much will it cost to repair the bridge?" asked the honest counselor of the determined litigant.

"Well, den, not more dan five tollar," replied the Dutchman.

"Very well," said the lawyer, pocketing one of his notes and giving him the other, "take this, and go and get the bridge repaired; it's the best course you can take."

"Yaas," said the Dutchman, slowly, "ya-as, dat ish more better dan quarrel mit Hans; but as he went along home, he shook his head frequently, as if unable after all quite to understand the lawyer's meaning, and he went on his way, and gained nothing by going to law."

Here is the second legal anecdote: "There is a well-known counsel practicing in our criminal courts, and signing counsel to such prisoners as have no one to defend them."

"On one occasion, the court finding an accused of theft, and without counsel, said to a lawyer who was present: 'Mr., please to withdraw with the prisoner, confer with him, and then give him such counsel as may be best for his interest.'

"The lawyer and his client then withdrew, and in fifteen or twenty minutes the lawyer returned into court alone."

"Where is the prisoner?" asked the Court.

"He has gone, your honor," said the hopeful legal limb.

"Your honor told me to give him the best advice I could for his interest, and, as he said he was guilty, I thought the best counsel I could offer him was to cut and run, which he took at once."

His Crafty Scheme.

There is an old German living in Catonsville with a constitutional liking for the catnip herb, and the age of his native land. On occasions, in fact, he has been known to imbibe too much of it at one sitting—greatly to the indignation and mortification of his wife, who looks upon all drink but water as poison.

Some time ago he came home one day rather befuddled with catnip, and was put to bed by his wife. After awhile he awoke—it was in the afternoon—and came downstairs. And then he was attacked by that powerful and almost irresistible thirst which follows a seance of thirsts quenched and satisfied. Delicately and meekly he hinted to the partner of his joys that a glass of beer would make a new man of him. But she would not hear him. Then, craftily, he attempted to sneak out by the back door. He had covered it up with the track to the nearest cafe when she collared him and brought him back. Then she closed the door on him and locked him up.

By this particular behavior she was an ingenious old man, and he was not to be fooled. For a moment he examined every nook and corner of his cell, and in a cage. Then he returned and conspicuously and uncertainly, and re-entered his cell. Ten minutes' work saw the door in place again.

Some time later his wife unlocked it to take a peep at him. She found him in a condition of innocuous desuetude, and since then she has been wondering day and night how he got out and in again. Very wisely he refuses to tell her.—Catonsville Argus.

Mrs. Milton V. Miller of Ladlesburg who has been spending the past two weeks with friends and relatives at Conowingo, Md., York, Pa., and other points of interest, has returned home, much pleased with her visit.

ALL IS SELFISHNESS.

The Wise Man's Theory and How It Was Exploited.

"After all," said the wise man, "what is it but selfishness? The optimist who goes through life whistling and singing songs of cheer is not entitled to any special credit, because it is a pleasure to him to be happy. If he didn't make him glad to be happy, he wouldn't be that way. So you see selfishness lies at the bottom of his good cheer."

"Then there is the pessimist. Is he discouraged because he thinks it is his duty to mankind to paint dark pictures? Not at all. His is another case of selfishness. He gratifies his self by being unhappy and trying to make others so. Love, too, is selfishness. The maiden doesn't love the man to make him glad. It's her own happiness that she promotes in looking upon him as the noblest work of God. Man's love for woman has back of it the same selfish motive."

"So, too, the philanthropist's love of the world. He loves it and loves to do great things for it because it gives him a satisfaction to know that he is doing well."

"I consider it from whatever standpoint you please, and you must always arrive at the same conclusion. Everything that man does he does selfishly. It is always a case of gratifying his own inclinations. 10—"

Just then the wise man turned a somewhat angry and a little more against a water plug. When he got up and looked around, with the look of one who was beginning to remember things that had long been forgotten, his pupil asked:

"Was it selfishness that impelled you to study your text?"

"Say, you confounded idiot," the wise man replied, "you ought to have that grin photographed. It would make a good frontispiece to Darwin's works."—Chicago Herald.

GOT A SENATOR'S HAT.

Actor Crane Appropriated the Head-gear of a Kansas Statesman.

Among the stories that are retailed in the courtroom of the senate when that body is in session at Washington is one of how William H. Crane, the actor, put the finishing touches upon his great character study, "The Senator."

"As you well know," said one of the group, "Crane took his character all most directly from Senator Plumb of Kansas. Crane had just started out with 'The Senator' and had opened in Washington. We had all seen the performance and liked it immensely. But I thought I saw one defect. Crane wore a high silk hat, which was not at all, according to my thinking, in keeping with the imitation of Plumb, who always wore the characteristic broad brimmed hat of the southerner. One evening when Crane, Ingalls, Plumb and myself were dining together I remarked to Crane about the matter of the high hat."

"You really ought not to wear it, for it is not in keeping with the character," said I. "You ought to wear one like Plumb's."

"Crane did not say much in answer, but when he arose from the table he reached out for Plumb's hat and calmly put it on. Leaving his own hat for Plumb, Crane went off down the street with the old felt jammed down over his eyes. Plumb followed him, and went to the neighboring lawyer, and placing ten dollars in his hand, said: 'I'll give you all dish moneys, if you'll make Hans do justice mit the bridge.'

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is a thing that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you give to a warm and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the OXY remedy that has been introduced in civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boesche's German Syrup." It not only heats and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle.
