An Eskimo Breakfast.

No matter how early you may awaken in the morning, you will always find the Eskimo mistress of the house already up, and as soon as she observes that you are rattled and the hands you a small piece of meat to steady your nerves until breakfast time.

Then she goes into the next apartment, which is merely an inclosure for keeping the dogs away from the stores, and after 15 minutes of pounding and chopping returns with the breakfast.

A large, flat wooden tray is placed on the floor, and the landlady takes her position at one end. In the attitude elegantly described as squatting, the family and their guests gather round the board on either side, lying flat on their stomachs, with their heads toward the breakfast and their feet out.

The next course is walrus meat. This is also cut up by the presiding lady and is served in no unattractive hand. After this point has been thoroughly discussed there comes a large piece of walrus hide, which has a small portion of blubber attached and the hair still on the outside. It is about an inch thick and very tough, so that it is impossible to affect it by chewing. It is therefore cut into very small pieces by the hostess and finishes the meal. Really it is the most palatable dish of all.

How to Keep the House Cool.

"Many things can be done to make even the small house a comfortable, restful place in hot weather," writes Maria Parlon, in the Ladies' Home Journal for August. "Of course the windows must be properly shaded with blinds or awnings, and also well screened. All the heavy hangings should be removed, and when possible the carpets should be taken up or covered with linen. Cool colors, such as white, gray, light greens and blues should take the place of the warmer colors. Thin white muslin curtains set on the sun and air pour through the house. About nine o'clock close the blinds and all the windows except one or two downstairs and two or three upstairs. In the open windows place wet grass screens, or cover the regular screens with wet flannel. When the sun goes down open all the windows and blinds. A skylight or window should be kept open night and day in the attic, except of course when it rains. The cellar windows should be open only at night. If they are not closed at the close of the day the warm, moisture laden air enters the cellar and condenses on walls, pipes, metals, etc., and in a few days will make it so sticky and muggy that it is unpalatable place for keeping food."

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and stomach of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holiday, of Deering, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better once." Sold by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneystown, Md.

Mount Vernon, once the home and now the burial place of George Washington, is so situated in a public affection with the name and deeds of the Father of His Country that we always think of the first president of the United States as having been made famous. But George Washington did not name Mount Vernon. It was so called before he came into possession of it. George Washington's half brother, Augustine Washington, was the first owner of the estate and gave it the name of Mount Vernon in honor of Admiral Vernon, a famous British commander in the war against Spain early in the eighteenth century. He was a devoted admirer of the old admiral, and when the war was ended and he came back to his estate he named the place Mount Vernon in the admiral's honor.

Buffalo's Noisy Midway. Bedlam let loose would be as peaceful as a prayer-meeting compared with the Buffalo Midway. There are 40 attractions in this realm of a trifling sort of exhibitions as they are grown in Chicago and Paris. It doesn't pretend to be a world's fair. But when it comes to the sort of success known as howling, Buffalo likes a megaphone into position and bellows defiance to the world.

"Hikes" is quite the correct word in this place. Some of the Midway megaphones are so big that they are hung from a bracket or projection. They are too heavy to be held up to the mouth, even by the big-lunged men who shout through them. The man behind the megaphone is the wonder of the Midway. There are 40 attractions in this realm of fake and fancy and each attraction has a platform in front of it. Every platform has its shouter and almost every shouter has his megaphone. Some of them are of zinc and about four feet long. This refers to the megaphone. The shouters are chiefly M. de Luce's recent address at Paris on the lessons of the Boer war is reviewed, and its application to the military situation in the United States, as well as in Europe, is pointed out.

tionally they turn their instruments upon one another and blare and blow until the Midway reels and rocks with the roar of it all. A megaphone droll is a fearsome thing.

Certainly there is the most hideous conglomeration ever produced. The redeeming feature is the native wit of the barkers. The noise makes one pray for the situation described by the late "Orpheus C. Kerr": And silence, speechless as the grave, is the only sound I hear. At the same time, the fun which is continually bubbling up to the surface of these seething sounds is a good tonic for that tired feeling which the canned tomatoes and overgrown potatoes of the Agricultural Building.

The Magazines for August. Have you read "The Sky Pilot" or "The Amateur Crackman," or "Red Potage," or "The Hosts of the Lord"? If you have, they are probably forgotten, and you will, they are so interesting and so full of stories of one of them have contributed short stories to Leslie's Mid-Summer number.

The August Magazine Number of THE OYSTER. In addition to six or eight unusually strong articles dealing with educational topics, contains another illustrated installment of Jacob A. Riley's "The Making of an American," the continuation of "The Man from Gleanery," by Ralph Connor, author of "Black Rock" and "The Sky Pilot"; a richly illustrated account of a visit to Sienkiewitz, the Polish novelist by Louis E. Van Norman; full-page portraits of the late John Fiske, Governor Tatt of the Philippines, and others. ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 27 Fourth Avenue, New York.)

The Cosmopolitan for August is, as usual, rich in fiction, remarkable both for its vivid interest and its great variety. Irving Berlin writes a refreshing story of the Canadian big timber region, and Herling's drawings catch the spirit of the scene perfectly. A. T. Fuller-Conch's "G" is a pathetic little tale, an effort to enlist our sympathies with the French exile who broke his parole for love. Richard Le Gallienne tells the most charming and least known of the "old French Romances"—the love of honest Squire Robin for the Fair Seahorse. "The Temple of Fate," the late Grand Allen's clever satire on modern society, is certain not to entertain the reader, but also to set "The Man from Gleanery" by Ralph Connor, author of "Black Rock" and "The Sky Pilot"; a richly illustrated account of a visit to Sienkiewitz, the Polish novelist by Louis E. Van Norman; full-page portraits of the late John Fiske, Governor Tatt of the Philippines, and others. ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 27 Fourth Avenue, New York.)

Evidently no effort has been spared to make the Ladies' Home Journal for August a positive boon to its readers during these warm midsummer days. Its light, readable articles, bright stories, clever poems, charming music, and numerous beautiful illustrations afford the easiest and pleasantest kind of entertainment for leisure hours. Enchanting views of the lovely scenery in the Engadine Valley and among the Swiss and Italian lakes, as well as such delightful articles as "The Singing Village of Germany" and "What Girl-Life in Italy Means," allure the thoughts to foreign lands, while there are timely suggestions about "The Picnic Basket," "Keeping a House Cool in the Dog-Days," and "Sea-Side Toys and How to Make Them." Other thoroughly interesting contributions are "The First White Baby Born in the Northwest," "My Boarding School for Girls," and the usual serial and department articles. By the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

New Orleans is Big.

It is not generally known that, excepting New York, and that only since it has become Greater New York, New Orleans is territorially the largest city in the world. On the contrary, old London is one of the smallest and in area not so great as many of our pretentious little American villages. The city of London proper contains but 31 acres more than a square mile. The territory, however, which is commonly known as London is what is comprehended in this country of that name. Even this vast area, containing the immense population of 4,500,000 souls, is only three-fifths the size of New Orleans. Chicagoans think their city very great and very large, but the difference in size in favor of New Orleans is large enough to contain six cities as large as London proper.—New York Times.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured."—R. J. McKinney, Druggist, Taneystown, Md. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then he called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." HARD ON SMOKERS.

Old Time Legislation Against the Use of Tobacco. It is one of the curiosities of old time legislation that the use of tobacco was in early colonial days regarded by the magistrates and clerics as far more injurious, degrading and sinful than that of intoxicating liquors. Both the use and the planting of the weed were forbidden, the cultivation of it being permitted only in small quantities, "for mere necessity, for plisick, for preservation of the health, and for the same to be taken privately by ancient men." But the "creature called tobacco" seemed to have an indestructible life. Mrs. Alice M. Earle writes of these "early restrictions about tobacco in 'Sermons and Tavern Days.'"

Laudable were ordered not to "suffer any tobacco to be taken into their houses" on penalty of a fine to the "victualer" and another to the party that takes it. The laws were constantly altered and enforced, and still tobacco was grown and was smoked. No one could take it "privately" nor in his own house or anywhere else before strangers. Two men were forbidden to smoke together. No one could smoke to within two miles of the meeting house on the Sabbath day. They were wicked backsliders who were caught smoking around the house and among the swiss and Italian lakes, as well as such delightful articles as "The Singing Village of Germany" and "What Girl-Life in Italy Means," allure the thoughts to foreign lands, while there are timely suggestions about "The Picnic Basket," "Keeping a House Cool in the Dog-Days," and "Sea-Side Toys and How to Make Them." police court for smoking in the streets of Boston. In Connecticut in early days a great indulgence was permitted to travelers—a man could smoke once during a journey of ten miles.

HE DID HIS BEST.

Celebrated Musician's Adventure in a Swiss Country Village. The late Sir John Stainer, one of England's most celebrated musicians and composers, was several years ago in a small Swiss village, and the English clergyman was on the lookout for a musician to assist at the service. Stainer was in the smoking room of the hotel when the clergyman found him and started the conversation with "Do you play the harmonium?" "A little," was the reply of the ex-organist of St. Paul's cathedral. "Will you, then, be good enough to help us out of our difficulty on Sunday?" We will read the psalms, and the hymns shall be the simplest I can select," added the delighted parson. "I will do my best," said Stainer, with a smile. The service passed off with all right, but the congregation, instead of rushing away at the close, listened to a brilliant recital. When the parson heard the recital, he was so much interested that he called on Stainer to dinner. "Do you smoke?" he said to the close. "I will do my best," muttered Stainer, and the ensuing laughter was the prologue of an entertaining exchange of Oxford reminiscences.

Stainer was a great story teller. One anecdote he was fond of relating had reference to the days when there were amateur orchestras in churches. The "Messiah" was being sung, and as the line "Who is the King of Glory?" approached the man playing double bass whispered to the violinist in front of him, "Let us have your corn, and I will show 'em who is the king of glory!"—London Tit-Bits.

CABBAGE WORMS.

Hot Water Is the Remedy, but It Needs Deft Handling. We have in this country three different species of cabbage butterflies. The worst of all three is the imported cabbage butterfly (Pieris rapae). This is white, with the tips of the front wings black. The female has two black spots on the front wings, the male only one. Of all the butterflies that are injurious to crops in America this is undoubtedly the worst. The larva work in cabbage, rape and various other plants. From the nature of the case poison cannot be safely used, and we have to resort to other means for destroying them. One of these is hot water. This has proved successful in certain cases, though complaints have come from some parties who have used it. The efficiency of hot water depends upon the fact that it takes a less degree of heat to kill cabbage worms than to injure the cabbage.

The ordinary manner of applying the hot water is through a sprinkler. Water is taken boiling hot to the field and poured into a sprinkler. From this it is poured on the infested plants, killing the worms, but not injuring the cabbages.

Now, the exact distance that must be maintained between the watering pot and the plants cannot be stated, because the watering pots vary so much as to the size of the holes, and the temperature is likely to vary with the distance from the heating apparatus. The finer the holes, of course, the nearer one can get to the plants. If, on the other hand, the holes in the sprinkler are coarse, the drops of water will not cool sufficiently, and the plants will be injured. Every one must try for himself on a few plants at first and then wait to see the effect.

Another remedy that is on some accounts better is kerosene emulsion applied in the ordinary way. Professor Hillman of Nevada highly recommends the addition of one ounce of pyrethrum, or Persian insect powder, to the liquid when it is ready to apply.

The work against the early broods of these insects in spring and early summer should be prosecuted with great vigor. At this time, before the head begins to form, the most effective work can be done.—R. H. Pettit, Michigan.

Gas Lime Revives a Run Down Maryland Orchard.

I have been informed that in Florida gas lime has been used for many years, placing the lime in a circle about the tree, but from one to two feet from the trunk. This would suggest that they dread the direct method. The lime is so esteemed that as much as 50 cents per bushel is paid for it.

James A. Fowler, Maryland, had a run out peach orchard of 1,200 trees and, like many others, grubbed out 800. The remaining 400 were not rescued for lack of lime. They were heavily dressed with gas lime with the intention of killing them and at the same time improve the exhausted land. The lime was applied to the trunks of the trees. They were not killed, however, and not even injured, but bore heavily, the crop selling for $100.

It is fair to assume that Mr. Fowler lost $800 by his good intentions and earned $400 by mere accident. His experience has convinced me that gas lime is not as dangerous as it has been considered. Gas lime is said to contain ammonia and sulphur. Lime and ammonia are valuable as fertilizers, destroyers of many forms of germ and insect life. Many years of thought and study convince me that gas lime affords a safe, reasonable, cheap and efficient remedy for the horror.

American Agriculturist, in which it foregoes appears, says that while the value of gas lime as an insecticide is the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

Theo. C. Fair, of York, Pa., is at home, trying to get some enjoyment out of a ten day's vacation.

A regular meeting of the Fire Company, with drill, will take place this Friday evening, at the customary hours.

C. B. Schwartz has fitted up a building in the rear of his residence on York St., for the better handling of his produce business.

An eight months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Trimmer, of near town, died on Wednesday night of inflammation of the bowels.

The Catholic Picnic will be held next Wednesday, in Hemers' grove. The usual attractions and large crowd are safely sure expectations.

Prof. Henry Meier will return to Taneytown, on Aug. 13th, and will reopen his school on Sept. 9th. See advertisement on this page.

Mr. Jere Steiner, who is employed as proof-reader in the Patent Office at Washington, D. C., paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Sheets, this week.

Wm. Sadler, of Lewistown, Pa., well-known here, spent several days this week on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Yount. He has grown quite stout, and is a picture of exuberant health.

The potato crop in this section will be very short—almost a failure. There is a great growth of top, but the extreme heat during the blossoming period is supposed to be responsible for the lack of root development.

Harry F. Fink, of Hanover, was here this week on a visit. He is out of work, on account of the destruction by fire of the shops, last Friday night. Should they be rebuilt, at once, he will return to his position.

Mr. Abs. Smith, the veteran auctioneer, of Bridgeport, is a great sufferer from gangrene in one foot. Owing to the very active and useful life he has led, his present affliction is all the more unamiable to him.

Republican primaries will be held in this district, to-day (Saturday) at Buffington's Hotel, between 5 and 6 p. m., to elect delegates to the County Convention, on Monday, also three members of the County Central Committee.

A very pleasant time was spent at the hospitable home of Mrs. C. M. Hess, of Pleasant Springs, on Thursday evening. Those present were the children, grand-children, pastor Rev. C. A. Britt and family, and visiting friends.

The democratic primary in this district, last Saturday, was quite exciting, over half of the vote of the district being polled. There was a contest between the friends of Attorneys Thomas and Henning for the Judicial nomination, and the ticket in the interest of the former won by a majority of from eight to ten. The following were elected: Dr. N. A. Hitchcock, Samuel A. Brown, Albert Stoney, Washington Lemmon and Samuel Harnish. Dr. Hitchcock was on both tickets.

Oyster Planting Needed. Crisfield, Md., July 31.—Oyster planting in Somerset county is an absolute necessity, and a five acre law including a general survey of the natural beds and bars should have been passed at the extra session of the State Legislature. The young growth in Tangier sound can only be protected by a planting law, which will render it profitable for the oyster men to return the seed oysters to the bottoms. The oysters available for market are covered with small oysters the taking of which, under a strict construction of the Cull law, would subject the captain to a fine, and the enforcement of the law will have to be relaxed or there can be little dredging. As there are sometimes as high as 20 small oysters clinging to a large one, they cannot all be removed, and must be thrown away with the shells. Under a planting law the packers and boatmen could put myriads of small oysters back upon the bottoms, where many of them would be large enough to ship in one year. Even the poorest man under the present conditions will be able to seed his bed if all this seed should go to the ballast roads, as it did about 15 years ago. The people of Somerset county are in favor of a five-acre law, but are afraid of monopolies and an abridgment of their rights. All classes see that the time for the passage of a five-acre law has come. If there is not a planting law this year, the oyster seed will be carried out of the State.—Swan.

Firemen and Soldiers. There are more firemen in the United States than there are soldiers in Uncle Sam's army.

In New York city, for fire purposes, the two boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, with 1,700 firemen, are separately organized. There are, therefore, in this city 6,100 firemen, paid and unpaid.

There are 1,200 firemen in Chicago, 800 in Philadelphia, 700 in Boston, 400 in Baltimore, 500 in Buffalo, 400 in Detroit, 500 in St. Louis, 400 in Pittsburgh, 400 in San Francisco, 300 in New Orleans and 250 in Washington.

In the whole country there are 65,000 paid firemen, and the number of volunteer firemen varies from 100,000 to 150,000.

There is a saying among firemen that three volunteers are equivalent only to one regular, so great is the value of training and discipline. Thus a city like Wilmington, Del., with a population of 70,000, has more volunteer firemen than Philadelphia, with a population of 1,500,000, has paid firemen.—New York Sun.

Secretary Wilson goes West.

Washington, July 31.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has left for a trip through the Western drought-stricken district. He believes that the reports of damage done the corn crop have been exaggerated, and before making public his forthcoming special report on the effects of the dry spell, he wishes to make a personal survey of the territory.

"Even if the corn crop is ruined in some localities," said the Secretary before starting, "the farmers may relieve part of their loss by taking advantage of the late rains and planting fodder for their cattle. The late reports show that a great many acres of corn were planted and worked in the early spring before the ground dried up. In these districts I hope to find that the crop pulled through without serious damage in spite of the long dry spell that followed."

Hornets Chase Clergyman. With a swarm of hornets about his ears and a crowd of men, boys and dogs in hot pursuit, Rev. C. F. H. Wendell, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was seen yesterday morning, running madly down the village street Thursday morning.

The hornets had nested in the clergyman's razor box delivery man's cart. In went for his mail they poured out. They covered his neck and face, crawled beneath his clothes and whirled about his ears, and he was obliged to retreat, shouting for help. Constable Buckingham gave chase, and the others fell in behind. They could not see the hornets and thought the pastor crazy. Women ran to doorways, and children screamed as the crowd rushed by.

Two miles from the starting point the pastor plunged into the Hunting dog reservoir. No explosion was then needed. The hornets shaken from the pastor attacked his followers and the crowd scattered. Rev. Mr. Wendell's head and neck are covered with stings, and he is quite ill.

The laws of health require that the bowels move once each day and one of the penalties for violating this law is constipation. It is better to take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when necessary and you will never have that severe constipation and headache again. Price, 25 cents. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

A New Attraction at Pen-Mar Park. A beautiful new lake called "Lake Roy" has just been completed and opened for the benefit of the hosts of excursionists and other visitors to Pen-Mar, and the mountain resorts nearby.

Lake Roy is a lovely sheet of water, covering about 21 acres, and is located near Buena Vista Station, and within easy reach of Pen-Mar, Blue Ridge, Monterey and Blue Mountain. It has been equipped with a number of pleasure boats, which can be hired at a very low rate.

Bath houses have also been erected, and bathing suits are for hire for the small sum of 25c. The water of the lake is especially good for bathing, and by this means this almost perfect mountain resort has been supplied with the one only thing necessary to make it an ideal spot for spending either a day's outing or while away a summer's vacation.

DOGS. There are nearly 200 distinct varieties of dogs.

Foxhounds give cry, but deerhounds hunt in silence.

The greyhound is the only dog which hunts by sight.

A pure bred staghound never attacks the head of his quarry.

Only in the temperate zone is the dog found perfect in courage and speed.

The Italian greyhound is reputed to be the most symmetrical of all animals.

Skye terriers have been known to jump into the river and land hooked fish, which they take carefully by the back.

Esquimo dogs are capable of drawing a well laden sledge 60 miles in a day. Their harness is of the lightest, only a single trace and no reins.

Women Cannot Boss Each Other. The old theory that woman is man's helper seems incorrigibly well founded, says E. S. Martin in McClure's Magazine. If the situation isn't satisfactory to her, there is no help for it, for the conditions it came out of seem to be eternal. Women may vote. They will be none the less man's helpers if they do. They never will band together to put man down and teach him his place.

The Knifer. Knives have a simple method of banking. Before setting out to trade they select one of their number as their banker and put all their money in his bag. When an article is purchased by any of those who are in this combine, the price is taken by the banker from the bag, counted several times and then paid to the seller, after which all the bank depositors cry out to the banker in the presence of two witnesses selected. "You owe me so much." This is then repeated by the witnesses. The general accounting comes between the banker and his several depositors when all the purchases have been made, after which all the natives go home.

Varying Values of Food. Fourteen oysters are equal to only one egg. Pea soup is nutritious, but live on it you would need a daily supply of 24 platefuls. A purely vegetable diet is too bulky, yet it may be good for the young and the obese. It is true that the Scottish peasantry, their country's pride, are nurtured on oatmeal, but it is their supplemented with milk. Rational life is a compromise. You want the happy mean "between the tiger pacing its cage and the cow lying upon the grass."—Dr. Hutchinson's "Dietetics."

The Passions. We say of a man who has no will mastery, "He is ruled by his passions." They govern him, not he them. Centuries ago an Arab wrote, "Passion is a tyrant which slays those whom it governs." It is the tyrant which makes the roughly killed man scarcely be quenched, or like the torrent, which when it is swollen can no longer be restrained with its banks. Call him not a prisoner who has been put in fetters by his enemy, but rather him whose own passions overpower him to destruction.

A Puzzler. Tibbetts—So you do not believe in the emancipation of woman? Garton—Well, it is just here. Man is the superior being, but how is he going to show his superiority if woman is his equal? That's what I want to know.—Boston Transcript.

When a merchant draws from his stock day after day, to meet the demands of his trade, he must, if he expects to continue business, replenish that stock as occasion demands, or go out of business. A good farm, or fertile soil, is part of the farmer's bank account. You cannot continue to draw on it without making the necessary deposits. If you do, your farm—like your Banker—will serve notice as follows:—

NO FUNDS! NO CROPS!

You can avoid this notice by buying Fertilizers that have stood the test for years, and proven themselves adapted to our soil. We want to call your attention to the following:

Baugh's Bone Meal, Warranted Pure. Baugh's Pure Dis. Animal Bone, Made from Animal bones and Sulphuric Acid only. Baugh's General Crop Grower, A complete Fertilizer for all crops. Baugh's Soluble Alkaline Super-Phosphate. Baugh's High Grade Acid Phosphate. Guaranteed 14 to 16 per cent.

Especially adapted for the growing of cereals and for general farm use. Reindollar's Fish Phosphate, Tried and true—never failing to produce good results. Reindollar's Ammoniated Bone, A good article for the price—will compare favorably with higher priced goods. Kainit, Muriate, Tankage, Plaster---

In fact, everything used for the manufacture of High-grade Fertilizers, can be found in stock, at prices that will not only please you, but prove to you that we are here in business, and will meet any just competition. We are always busy—time is money—but we want an opportunity to talk. Fertilizers with you, and would be glad to have you call, or see our agents before placing your orders. If you prefer to have your goods mixed, we have the ingredients, and will make it as ordered.

FERTILIZERS FOR 1901! When a merchant draws from his stock day after day, to meet the demands of his trade, he must, if he expects to continue business, replenish that stock as occasion demands, or go out of business. A good farm, or fertile soil, is part of the farmer's bank account. You cannot continue to draw on it without making
