The officials of the Baltimore custom house received an application one day last week that revealed a pathetic story. Michael Jodice, a native of Austria, had been in Baltimore for some time, and was the subject of the officials that he be sent back to his old home across the Atlantic. 'New Political Factors.'

Editor RECORD:—Allow me to extend my congratulations on the editorial in your last issue, entitled "The Political Factors."

Your happy division of the subject matter of the resolutions adopted by the Farmers Club of Copperville appeals to the hearts and minds of all farmers. Your caution as to the first, while timely, need not cause us to lose sight of the interests of the American people.

The farmer and his friends of the agricultural communities throughout the United States are not for their great conservatism, and their patriotism to the country in time of need. They are the bone and sinew of our country, and the backbone of the government, as evidenced by their volunteering in all the wars in which this nation has been engaged.

The second proposition, as to the view of candidates in advance of election day, must commend itself to every farmer and his friends, whose interests are identical and mutual, will realize and appreciate the advantages and benefits certain to accrue from this line of action, which will stand together in solid phalanx, as one person, and the result will be a more successful and efficient government.

The Agricultural College, the Extension Agents, the Farmers Institutes are the great educational factors of the farming classes, who constitute more than 60 per cent. of the population of this country.

Whatever tends to make these institutions popular and efficient is in the interest of good, wise, economical government, and in the interest of every patriotic citizen.

UNION BRIDGE FARMERS.

Proceedings of the first Meeting of the Club for the Season.

Our summer's vacation being over, the Union Bridge Farmers' Club met at Maplewood, the home of Sarah Wolfe and sisters, August 15, 1901. The members and visitors present were Sarah, Annie, Margaret, Grace, Bessie and Abram Wolfe and Margaret Hoffman, Daniel Wolfe, wife and son Oscar, President David Rinehart, W. S. Rinehart and wife, Henry R. Fuss, wife and children, Edna and Paul, K. Sawyer and wife, Wm. Elbert and wife, Edward, Ida and Elbert Garber, M. T. Haines and wife, Jesse Smith, wife and son Nathan, and Miss Rosa Jones and Miss Riva.

The time since our last meeting in May has been a long one, and we were glad to again meet face to face with our fellow-members, at this pleasant home. The contrast between the agreeable temperature of the day and the heat that prevailed at the time of our meeting here one year ago, was commented on. A short walk from the house, through the orchard, the firm's agreement to pick and pack the fruit for shipment. Thousands of barrels have been packed and shipped from this region within the past two weeks. Martin Wolfinger, a large grower of near Leitersburg, disposed of his crop of 1500 barrels of apples, peaches and pears, of which we saw an abundance for home use.

The peach trees in this section of the country are heavily laden with choice fruit; an inspection of the latter shows a large supply of many varieties, and the orchards are heavily laden with choice fruit. The orchards are heavily laden with choice fruit. The orchards are heavily laden with choice fruit. The orchards are heavily laden with choice fruit.

Returning from this digression to the premises under observation it may be of interest to mention a new dairy building, which is now being erected. It is a well planned and modern building, and will be a valuable improvement to this well appointed farm. An approach to the building is now being made, and the building is now being erected.

Western Md. Fruit Prospects.

Hagerstown, Aug. 17.—The opinion prevails among fruit-growers in this section that the big city firms are endeavoring to secure a corner on the apple market, and they are struggling between the tempting offer to local growers of a large price for their fruit, and a desire to hold a little longer before selling. They are mindful of the apple crop of two years ago, and think that by waiting until later they can get more money for their fruit.

Representatives of city firms are swarming over the county and are not so large as they were through this section, and for this reason the firms are desirous of preparing for the winter. SMALL-POX MAY INCREASE.

A Precautionary Letter to Health Boards and Physicians.

John S. Fulton, M. D., Secretary of the State Board of Health, has issued the following circular letter to local boards of Health, as well as to physicians, in reference to the increase in the number of small-pox cases, and the possibility of the spread of the disease in this county.

"For the past three years Maryland has been constantly threatened with serious outbreaks of small-pox, and in 30 instances, the disease was confined to the county in which it was first discovered. The exact number of cases which occurred in these outbreaks is not known, but it is estimated that the disease has been spread by the house first infected gave rise to more than three-fourths of the total number of cases of small-pox in the same period, the disease has in no instance spread beyond the house first infected.

During the three years there have been in the counties over four times as many cases of small-pox as in the city of Baltimore. One county was visited by the disease in one year against Baltimore's 48 cases in three years. It cannot be said that the State as a whole has done very badly, a few of the counties outbreake Baltimore City. If we should compare our records with those of neighboring States, we would find that the result of our efforts, but the State has not done as well as is possible, nor as well as public safety and business interest demand.

It is the duty of the local health officers to consider the prospect, make sure of their defenses, and in advance of the outbreak of the disease to take such steps as will insure a wider prevalence of small-pox in the United States than the country has experienced in thirty years, and it is therefore important for all the local boards of health to consider the prospect, make sure of their defenses, ## Slate Making.

The will of the people, freely and independently expressed, without influence or manipulation, is now almost as rare as it is a curiosity. The professional "slate-makers" have usurped the greatest of all prerogatives of the people, and in so doing make use of the most unscrupulous methods and most conscientious "deals," as to strike at the very heart of American citizenship, and so defeat the honest expression of the wishes of the majority.

Many people are pleased to think that all the corruption and shady transactions are used in the subversion of popular sentiment in our public elections; but the time has arrived when we must recognize the fact that the same disgraceful methods are used in our religious and fraternal bodies. Indeed, to such an extent has the methods of the "slate-maker" prevailed, that nearly all of the real honor or attached to election to office, public or private, has been removed.

Public sentiment, it is argued, needs direction. It is catalogued as a dangerous force, apt to go off at a tangent and create disaster—make egregious blunders. The patriotic and all-wise people, in order to prevent such calamities, effect combinations which tend to lead this unsteady giant into proper paths, and so neatly is the act accomplished that the giant is frequently unaware of the halter and the chain.

Should the leaders always be honestly and unselfishly interested; should they never be inspired by personal ambition, and vindictive aims; should they not aim to fill their own pockets and reward their personal friends, their officiousness might not result in anything but the greatest good to the greatest number, but we have not yet reached the materialization of such a philanthropic, self-sacrificing, class.

The sad truth is, "slate-making" is the result of the most selfish and despicable aspirations. Scarcely a movement can be indorsed without first inquiring—What is in it for you? Eloquence may easily pass for bogus honesty, and it too frequently does; plausible argument may be, and is, the merest sophistry; the most religiously clothed methods conceal the choicest machinations of the devil—the man with the ballot is the prize of all forms of deceit.

Honorable ambition to serve, is commendable; indeed, the "making of a living" through the means of a public office, is far from a disgrace and often a position to be honorably sought. There is a vast difference, however, between seeking, honestly, and fighting for office, using every hook and crook to win. Many a man wears his honors over a besmirched character and an uneasy conscience.

Appointments and Nominations.
Lancaster (Pa.) Examiner expresses itself, editorially, as follows, on the subject of candidates for the legislature, and office holders:

"Surprise is sometimes expressed how it comes that certain men, of no moral or mental attainments, so frequently get our chief offices. There are often men chosen for no other reason would like to entertain, even occasionally, and surely not with any degree of familiarity. Men have been elected to the Legislature who could scarcely write their own names and even with difficulty read the ordinary news of the day.

At all this, outsiders wonder in view of the fact that no county spends more upon education, has so many school houses splendidly built and finely equipped. There is a church in every hamlet, a literary club in every borough, a debating society in every school district, while the number of papers published and read in the county is marvellous in their variety and the strength of the subscription list. Truly, we have all the outward appliances of education, and it is needless to say that the masses have been affected by them.

ment or the tax rate goes up annually. Why is it, then, we have so much mechanism running our politics and such a low moral and mental tone in our official life? The answer must be that too many of us do not like the atmosphere wherein practical politics works.

The force of the Examiner's logic is irresistible. As long as the people let a few anxious leaders shape the affairs of the several parties, control primaries by the votes of the least intelligent, but most willing to serve, element, and manipulate appointments and nominations, just so long will the kind of nominations complained of, be made. We think Carroll county means to do better, hereafter, in this respect, and we shall be pleased to add whatever influence we may have, in this direction.

The right status of the situation will never be reached until the offices are given to those best qualified, mentally and morally. The great cry against civil service examinations is raised chiefly by party leaders and political theorists who see in it a power for breaking up the sway of their own machines, and for weakening party fealty. Government by the people and for the people is not desired; but, the inspiration comes from the motto—by the party and for the party. Rewards come by party service, rather than public service.

As our contemporary points out, even the splendid educational system of Lancaster county has not brought about good nominations. The pity of this is that those who oppose a popular system of education for the public, use this very argument against it—that it does not benefit the state. We do not agree to the truthfulness of the claim; but, that it dare be used at all, is directly chargeable to the indifference—practically criminal neglect—of the educated, better class of citizens.

Calling for New Routes.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The magnet which is now drawing the few members of Congress who find their way here in this dull season is rural free delivery. The pressure for the installation of new routes has become so great that they will soon have to be put upon a quota basis by Congress districts. While only $3,500,000 was appropriated by the last Congress for the current fiscal year, it is said that the service, which will be in operation on June 30, 1902, will be costing $4,300,000, with $600,000 more for superintending. In other words, there will be a service requiring about $5,000,000 to maintain, put into operation by an appropriation of seven-tenths of that sum. The reason is plain: A new route may be installed in March, the expenses of which will fall upon the current appropriation for only a small part of the year, while after July 1 the route would call for a whole year's cost. So, if Congress desires to extend the service any, it will have to appropriate about $7,000,000 next time. This would probably give a $10,000,000 service by the end of the fiscal year, for which provision was then made. But free delivery has come to stay, and it will be only a question of time before it is made practically universal. In the combination of the city letter carriers and the rural free delivery men we shall have a chance to see how successful Congress can be in regulating wages on business principles.

In strict justice there ought to be a revision of the laws relating to postmaster salaries, with the incoming of rural free delivery. Fourth-class postmasters' salaries, as is well known, are paid upon the basis of their cancellations, the smaller offices getting the total amount and the larger ones a percentage, which is, in any event, necessarily high. Now the rural mail carrier brings his collections into one of these offices for cancellation, and thus raises the fortunate postmaster's salary without any increase of his work. The situation is essentially the same in the Presidential offices, with many of the routes will become feeders. There the compensation depends on the sale of stamps, and as the rural carrier will buy his stock from the office with which he connects, its business will be increased. Without an adjustment of postmaster salaries to meet these new conditions the much heralded saving which the rural free delivery is to accomplish cannot amount to very much. Occasionally an office will be cut off entirely, but villages of any considerable size want their offices kept open, regardless of the house to house delivery. Sometimes a saving in such cases, however, will be made by converting a fourth class postoffice into a postal station for money order and other general business, leaving the mail distribution to the carrier. For such stations it is now the custom to pay $100 a year. The saying between this sum and the income of the fourth-class postmaster whom it succeeds may be credited to the rural free delivery service, but this will amount to comparatively little.—N. Y. Tribune.

Church Gambling.

The Church of Christ should be above reproach. Its mission is to win men not only to a profession of faith in Jesus as the Saviour, but to present to the world the highest ideal of life. Its duty is to set an example to the watching world of the strictest integrity, purity and truth. Every official act, every project bearing its sanction must be above the suspicion of evil, both in fact and in the principle involved. It must practice what it preaches, and the world is right in holding it to strict accountability. When it fails, and for whatever end, sets the seal of its approval on things which in principle it must and does condemn, it sows the seed of untold evil, and for shame it must keep silence when the harvest of its sowing comes to fruit. Not long ago a barber was reprimanded for having a wheel-of-fortune slot machine in his shop. His answer was that it was no

Worse than the chancing which some of the churches of the town resorted to, to increase their funds. Nor was it. When influence is considered, it is incomparably worse for a church to indulge in "chancing," or "messing" or anything of the sort, than for the same things to be done under other auspices. That they are "for the church" makes them worse, not better. Their character is not changing. It is still the principle of the gambling table that is behind them. They teach gaming under the sanction of the church, and many a one has had his first lesson in the course that has led him to ruin in winning or losing some trivial prize in a church lottery.

Right for the church, why not elsewhere? he argues. If right in chancing, why not in other things? The Church which sanctions such things could not consistently censure its members or its officers if they chose to "play the races," or spend their nights at the poker-table. It is not an extreme or an unreasonable view. The courts of law of New Jersey and several other states have decided in a number of specific cases, that chancing at church fairs is as much a violation of the laws of the land as are any of the games of professional gamblers. Custom does not make right. In these days men look at the principle which is involved, and they rightly demand that the Church of Jesus set an example which all may follow without fear, and which shall be free from every appearance of evil.—Lutheran Observer.

The Grain Situation.

Movements in the grain markets are being watched with unusual interest throughout the United States, owing to the extent of damage to growing crops resulting from the prolonged drought in the West. That serious injury has been done to corn is no longer questioned, but it is doubtful if the shortage will be as great as some estimates would indicate, while some of the early rumors were wildly exaggerated. According to the United States Government report, the yield will be smaller than that of any other year since 1894, when the crop amounted to 1,200,000,000 bushels. Since the publication of the Government report, which dated August 1, there has been such improvement in crop conditions in the Trans-Mississippi region that many experts have raised their estimates by from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels, which would give a crop of between 1,600,000,000 and 1,800,000,000 bushels. The disquieting opinions have sent the price of corn soaring, and this week the record set the highest figure since 1891.

The strength of corn is reflected in wheat, which is steadily climbing, the current price being about 25 cents a bushel higher than the quotation of a year ago. As a result of prevailing conditions in the United States and uncertainty regarding the crops in Russia and other grain-producing countries, there has been a good foreign inquiry for grain, especially for wheat, and close observers of the market predict a continued advance in values. Experts agree that the yield of wheat will exceed early estimates, and this, with the increase in price, will more than compensate for the loss in corn.—Balt. News.

The President's Mail.

From the date on which the President begins his annual message until the close of each session of Congress, from 1000 to 1500 letters are received daily. Even in summer the daily average is rarely less than 300. The President sees only the letters of his friends, and those of high officials in regard to personal matters. Only those of obvious importance reach the desk of Mr. Cortelyou, who makes a memorandum or brief of the contents of any letter that may be likely to require the President's attention. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE, and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine, sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLIC in the HEAD.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under The Sun."
All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs for many years. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing the inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE, and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine, sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

This Business is Growing

greater and greater. In fact its growth within the past year has been nothing short of marvellous.
But then it might be considered natural enough when the causes of its growth are so visible to all who consider the store's policy and grand trading possibilities.
The character of the stocks we carry has long since stamped itself upon the minds of all within our reach, who like the best.
There's no extravagance in buying from such stock as ours. It's economy—the extravagance, in truth, lies in buying the other kind. Next to the importance of the stock is the service you get. Well, we do almost anything that's reasonable, as far as that goes. But, after all, we're not perfect, so come right out open handed and tell us our mistakes when you find them.

The prime cause of the little excitement is not likely to be known—probably it was a match and a mouse?

The Ruminations of an Editor on his Fiftieth Birthday.

Editor McCormick of the Princeton (Ill.) News, on the occasion of his reaching the half century mark, gives vent to some recollections which are frankly pathetic, rather than humorous.

To-day, July 6, 1901, the editor of this paper is fifty years of age. Our half century seems a good long time and it does seem that a man of ordinary good sense would learn something in that space of time. We have been, since fifteen years of age, a butcher, farmer, hotel keeper, patent right man, loafer and newspaper man. We have made temperance speeches, and drank a good deal of mean whisky. We have led prayer and class meetings, exhorted and called sinners to repentance. We have made prohibition speeches and edited a prohibition paper. We ran for secretary of state on the prohibition ticket in 1892, and have always thanked the Lord that we did not get votes enough to elect us.

We have gone the whole gamut of sport and have sowed at least a bushel and a peck more wild oats than should have fallen to our portion. We have seen lots of so-called fun, but a thundering sight more trouble. We have found that all is not gold that glitters, nor is every man your friend who pats you on the back and tells you to "give 'em thunder" when you attack some prevailing vice or sin. We have also found, in our newspaper career, that when attacking popular vices you had just as well make up your mind to go it alone, for the very element of society from whom you would expect at least moral support, will say you are a fool or a crank, and leave you with the sack to hold.

In the fifty years we have lived, and especially thirteen and a half years we have been in the newspaper business, we have found that the good old idea that "honesty is the best policy" is a fallacy and a humbug when brought in contact with modern methods of doing business. We have observed the fact that no matter how much a man may act the rascal so long as he has plenty of money that simple fact alone covers a multitude of sins.

Big Increase in Pensions.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Commissioner Evans' statement of the operations of the pension bureau shows that the number of pensioners on the rolls June 30 last was 907,735, a net gain of 4,206 over last year. The total net loss to the roll during the year was 43,586, which includes 38,155 by death, 533 by remarriage, 1,382 by minors reaching the age of 16, 1,338 by failure to claim pension and 1,460 from other causes. A comparative table shows that the roll for the year just closed is the "high water mark" in the history of the pension bureau, the next highest having been reached in 1898. Of the gains to the rolls during the year 3,840 were from the war with Spain.

The professional liar braced himself when he felt the thrill of a bite along his fishing pole. When the cork went under he gave a deft jerk and landed a minnow about five inches long. "Shucks!" he muttered with chagrin, as he took it off the hook. "I wish that tin had got away! It would have been so much bigger."—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible. If not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but always inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get "Boschee's Prize Almanac." R. S. McKinney, Taneytown, Md.

Sign Painting and Gymnastics. Sign painting is added to the list of trades practiced by women in Berlin, says the British Inveicator. Young sign painters undergo a regular apprenticeship. They are taught how to use the brush and to mix paints. Gymnastic training is carefully gone into before they are allowed to ascend the scaffolding, so that they may not lose their nerve when standing on a ladder. They wear the gray linen frock and cap which are the house painter's badge as well as his defense against paint.

Grass in New York's Streets. Perhaps the only thoroughfare in New York city below One Hundred and Tenth street in which grass is growing in the middle of the road is that part of East Forty-first street from Second avenue to the river.

There the blades of green are shooting up between the cobble stones and giving the street the appearance of a country lane. The houses which front the street on either side are survivals from an earlier and quieter New York. —New York Mail and Express.

In Memory of Ruskin. Ruskin's burial place in Coniston churchyard, England, has been marked by a headstone from the design of W. G. Collingwood. The monument is a tall cross of the simple early English type, which would have been approved by Ruskin himself, hewn from the hard green stone of Coniston. It stands some nine feet from the ground and bears carved figures representing symbolically the activities of Ruskin, poet, artistic, ethical and social.

Maryland Collegiate Institute. The Md. Collegiate Institute, of Union Bridge, Md., will hold its opening exercises, Sept. 10, 1901, at 10 a. m., to which all kind friends and patrons are cordially invited.

The M. C. I., begins its session with splendid facilities to accommodate its first-class style, a large number of boarding students, at moderate rates. The Annex erected during vacation furnishes a very large Dining hall and Gymnasium, above which is an Assembly hall with seating capacity of about 1000. The next floor provides new recitation rooms, one of the large rooms will be used as an Art Studio, where classes will be taught according to the most modern and improved methods.

The former Assembly hall has been converted into a commercial department, one room for Type-writing classes, another fitted up as a Bank; also apartments for Book-keeping and Short-hand. It will no longer be necessary for our boys and girls to seek a Business College in the City, as this course will be thorough and practically taught by a proficient and capable instructor.

The entire school will be fitted up with the most modern sanitary improvements, and heated thoroughly by steam.

You may read about this promising school, but since "Seeing is believing" — come visit us and find out for yourselves.

Fertilizers for 1901!

When a merchant draws from his stock day after day, to meet the demands of his trade, he must, if he expects to continue business, replenish that stock as occasion demands, or go out of business. A good farm, or fertile soil, is part of the farmer's bank account. You cannot continue to draw it out without making the necessary deposits. If you do, your farm—like your Banker—will serve notice as follows—

NO FUNDS! NO CROPS!

You can avoid this notice by buying Fertilizers that we stand the test for years, and prove themselves adapted to our soil. We want to call your attention to the following:

Baugh's Bone Meal, Warranted Pure. Armour's Grain Grower, Especially adapted for the growing of cereals and for general farm use.

Baugh's Pure Dis. Animal Bone, Made from Animal bones and Sulphuric Acid only. Reindollar's Fish Phosphate, Tried and true—never failing to produce good results.

Baugh's General Crop Grower, A complete Fertilizer for all crops. Reindollar's Ammoniated Bone, A good article for the price—will compare favorably with higher priced goods.

Baugh's Soluble Alkaline Super-Phosphate. Kainit, Muriate, Tankage, Plaster—

Baugh's High Grade Acid Phosphate. Guaranteed 14 to 16 per cent.

In fact, everything used for the manufacture of High-grade Fertilizers, can be found in stock, at prices that will not only please you, but prove to you that we are here for business, and will meet any just competition. We are always busy—time is money—but we want an opportunity to talk Fertilizers with you, and would be glad to have you call, or see our agents before placing your orders. If you prefer to have your goods mixed, we have the ingredients, and will make it as ordered.

COAL! COAL!

Don't neglect your Coal orders. Our bins are full, and bought at the Low Price. By placing your orders now you get the Lowest Price for the year. Our business is to serve you as best we can; you call to see us, and we will do the rest.
