ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, DEC. 14th., 1901.

The message of President Roosevelt must have been a pretty good document, as there are but few criticisms on it, and they are of the far-fetched sort. "Teddy" is something of a "writer," himself, and knew just how to shut off the reviewers.

Now it is the "car famine" which is playing hob with prices. Sometimes we read, that, owing to lack of cars for transportation, the prices of certain kinds of produce, in the markets, are "away up," while in other cases, producers are told, because cars are scarce, prices are "away down." Evidently, this new famine is a very accommodating one, as it appears to "work both ways," with ease.

The Centreville Record and Observer, both democratic, are having a somewhat acrimonious tilt over numerous questions of a more or less private-political-business character, but it is hoped that the affair may end without the use of swords or pistols. Kiss, and make up, gentlemen, or the first thing you know the public will want to see the "skeletons" in the closets of both establishments.

To Count, While Voting.

There is apparently but little hope that any appreciable change will be made in the present election law, for the prime reason that to do so would be to admit its impropriety. The best that may be hoped for, is, that a plain and uniform type for the ballot for the whole State may be provided, along with several minor changes in the law.

It is also probable that a change will be introduced providing for an additional set of judges and clerks in each district to count the ballots at certain hours while the voting is going on. For instance, it is the idea of Isaac Lobe Straus, a democratic member from Baltimore, that, at 11 o'clock on election day, the ballot box containing the ballots already cast, may be taken to another room by the extra judges and clerks, and another box substituted for use, while the ballots in the first box are being counted.

Again, at 8 o'clock, this second box may be removed and its contents counted, so that by the time the polls are closed but few ballots will remain to be counted. This plan, if adopted, will be in all probability, will add considerably to the already excessive cost of our elections, for the reason that it will require probably three ballot boxes in each district instead of one, an extra set of election officials and an additional room, besides increasing the opportunities for falsifying returns.

The voters of Maryland may make up their minds that the unpopular ballot, and its disfranchising features, will stay with us, unless we greatly mistake the temper of those in the saddle, and the question of expense for additional improvements to make the brilliant production work, will not be given much consideration, for the reason that the tax-payers have this little matter to settle, and of course they will.

Keep with the Procession.

The day of slipshod business methods has passed. It is no longer possible for a man to succeed, in an enterprise in which any degree of individual effort is necessary, without an observance of modern business requirements. In a very few instances, old firms manage to do business along old lines, without loss, but, even in such cases, the use of newer methods would return much greater percentages.

It is urged, by some, that certain business men succeed without advertising, and yet this is not good argument against the value of advertising. Certain branches of business seem to be in a class apart from other lines, because closely allied with trades and professions; for instance, there is but little use in advertising drugs, used in prescriptions, or hardware used for building; the demand for the one depends largely on the health of the community and the activity of physicians, while hardware is called for, as carpentry, and the necessity for building, progresses. In both lines of business, except for the specialties and side lines, advertising could not increase demand.

Advertising unquestionably pays. Appropriately printed stationery, is advertising, and it is a well grounded fact that business concerns in the cities gauge their country correspondents partly through the style of stationery they use. Indeed, a well printed and prosperous looking letter head, in itself, a financial rarity. As a rule, firms, careless, or impetuous with their stationery, are also careless and to be watched in their dealings. They at least advertise the fact of their not being up-to-date.

It is also true that it no longer pays to be stingy and half-cent counting, in business, when dealing with a customer. Business economy and shrewdness is not synonymous with petty grasping for little advantages. The former is absolutely necessary, while the latter is absolutely ruinous. In few words it may be said that business success depends now, more than ever, on a course of honest dealing on the most liberal possible lines—on a reputation for fairness coupled with reciprocity.

Thoroughly wide awake is the condition which must be observed now, and, and this in connection with figuring—book-keeping. The storekeeper, farmer, mechanic, laborer, all need to become alive to the changes which are continually taking place, and change with them. The failure to do this is the explanation of the present financial difficulties of a good many people.

Proposed Fish Laws.

We publish, for the benefit of our readers, the following synopsis prepared by the Maryland State Game and Fish Association, which explains itself. It is in order for those who disagree with the proposed legislation, to come to the front and say so, giving reasons.

"The Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association desires to give notice to all who may be interested, that it proposes to make a most earnest and active effort to secure the passage of certain general fish laws, from which it believes it has successfully eliminated all provisions, which past and present experience have shown to be objectionable, and the purpose of which is set forth in detail below.

It makes this announcement for the following reasons:
First, and foremost, because it not only fully realizes the need, but most earnestly desires, the aid and advice of every one interested in the preservation and increase of the food fishes in our waters, whether such person be engaged in fishing for a living or for pleasure.

Secondly, because it believes that hitherto its motives have been misunderstood and that it has been unjustly charged with favoring legislation in the interests of a few sportsmen, to the exclusion of the rights of the much larger and more important class of our citizens, who are employed in the landable business of capturing fish for market and for a livelihood, whereas the Association can, with a clear conscience, affirm, that, while in such measures, which it has from time to time proposed, it may have erred in judgment, it has never been intentionally desirous and mindful of the best interests of all—the market fisherman and the sportsman alike.

Thirdly, because it has been unjustly charged with endeavoring, in times past, secretly to introduce bills for passage in the Legislature, whereas it has always believed, and still believes, that all under-handed methods in this regard are both obnoxious and reprehensible and it therefore desires, to make known in advance, and most fully, what legislation it is now projecting, in order that this time, at all events, there may be no misunderstanding of its motives.

Fourthly, and finally, because it believes that every one who stops to consider will appreciate and admit, that one general law, applicable to the whole State, is far more desirable than many and often conflicting local statutes, for the simple and manifest reason, that it is more readily enforced, and of such a character are the proposed laws whose provisions are here set forth and for which it bespeaks, in advance, the cooperation and counsel of all interested citizens of the State of Maryland.

The Association proposes three separate, general bills:

(1.) A bill applicable to all tide and salt waters and only to them.
(2.) A bill applicable to all fresh waters above tide and only to them.
(3.) A bill whose sole object is to abolish the use of pound, purse and stake or other fixed nets, in tide waters, for a period of five years.

The first and second bills contain the following provisions:
1. Fish to be caught only for food.
2. Hand seines, buck and gill nets to be lawful in the Chesapeake Bay proper the entire year and in the tide water tributaries of the same from November 1st, to June 13th, inclusive. The object of this provision being to so frame a general law as to meet the requirements of fishermen both in the upper and lower Bay and its tributaries.

3. Dip nets and hooks and lines, (i. e., used as trot lines or with the hand or on rod and reel or in any other way,) lawful throughout the entire year.

4. No seines hereafter to be landed on the shore; the object of this being to prevent destruction of under sized fish.

5. No white perch less than seven inches, no yellow perch less than eight inches, no rock or tailor less than ten inches, and no pike less than fourteen inches to be retained.

6. Unlawful to extend any nets more than half way across tide waters.

7. A penal offense to use dynamite or any explosive substance in tide waters, except for bona fide engineering or mining purposes.

8. A license necessary for all residents of this State if engaged in the business of fishing, i. e., if they use haul seines, buck or gill nets to capture fish in tide waters for sale, the cost of which license shall be $5.00 per annum, together with a fee of 25 cents to the Clerk for issuing same, to be paid by applicant; but no license necessary for those who use dip nets or hooks and lines.

9. Non-residents not allowed to fish at all for market within the limits of the State of Maryland.

And after these provisions follow only the penalties and methods of procedure applicable to the respective violations.

The fresh water bill contains the following provisions:
1. Black bass, pickerel and pike, otherwise known as wall eyed pike and California salmon, not to be caught between April 1st. and June 13th., (the object of this provision being to protect these fish during their spawning season.) None of these fish to be caught at any time of any size less than ten inches in length or in any manner except in the manner known as angling, i. e., with rod and reel, or with any long pole, or with single hook or hooks, either baited with natural bait or tied with artificial flies or by the use of spoons or spinners, each equipped with a single hook only.

2. Unlawful to take white perch under seven inches long, yellow perch under eight inches long, pike under fourteen inches long and rock or tailor under ten inches long. This, a repetition of salt water bill.

3. Dip nets and hooks and lines, protected during their spawning season, i. e., from April 1st, to October 31st., and unlawful to take them at any time smaller than five inches long on the under shell or to keep them in confinement during their spawning season, or at any time to hunt or destroy their eggs.

4. Unlawful to obstruct streams containing or stocked with trout as to prevent said fish from freely going up and down stream.

5. Owners of all dams on all rivers required to keep fish ladders on same, so as to permit fish freely to go up and down said rivers.

6. No nets or seines to be landed on the shores of any waters, salt or fresh and no under sized fish to be left to perish on the said shores, or anywhere else, when caught; but to be returned alive to the water, if possible.

7. Lawful to catch or destroy German carp, or any kind of carp, and eels, at any time and in any way, except by dynamite, poison, acid, sawdust or shavings.

8. A penal offense to put in any fresh water, except for bona fide engineering purposes, any dynamite, or other explosive, or any lime, poison, acid, sawdust, shavings or anything injurious to fish life.

The third proposed law, which prohibits the use of pound nets, purse nets and all staked or other fixed nets, for a period of five years, has the following object in view:
To induce the sea fish, by not destroying their natural food, to run further up the Chesapeake Bay, to permit them to reach their spawning beds in the uppermost waters and tributaries, and so as to give all of our citizens, alike, a fair and equal chance to capture them, and to fine this privilege to a few fishermen at the mouths of the rivers; it being the firm conviction of the Association that long and careful investigation of the subject, that nothing so large a contributor to prevent the general distribution of ocean fish running up to our magnificent Bay, or is so ruthlessly destructive of under sized fish, as nets of the character sought to be prohibited by this bill.

Copies of the proposed bills will be forwarded, without charge, upon application to the Treasurer.

Postal Abuses.

The report of Postmaster General Smith presents some facts and figures of special interest to publishers. The postmaster general devotes considerable space to the abuse of second class rates and points out the enormous growth of advertising publications under the liberal interpretation of the law which has prevailed for a number of years. While we are agitating tariff reform and opposing ship subsidies it may be worth noting that this particular industry has flourished under the fostering care of the government, availing itself of a law which was never intended for it. Mr. Smith points out that cheap paper and nominal postage have resulted in "the upspringing of thousands of so called periodicals which are established primarily for advertising purposes."

Mr. Smith gives a remarkable example of the abuse of the law. He states:
There is a single periodical of which copies sent through the mails for the quarter ending March 30, 1901, averaged 23,688 pounds for each issue, or about 112 tons, or nearly eight carloads, reckoning the weight of a carload of paper at 30,000 pounds. It is reported each issue of that periodical the circulation actually paid $11,184.40, against which it collected $2,236.88 in postage. It also paid $479 for handling, making a direct net loss to the government on every issue of $13,427.41. As compared with this cash gift by the government, the publishers, besides the postage paid about $479 for the white paper and, as shown by an expert reckoning, $127.16 for composition, all these items together amounting to $6,357. There is not a well informed publisher in the country who would not say that $600 was an extraordinary liberal allowance for all other expenses, making a total cost to the publishers of $5,757.41 against a net cost to the government of $23,688, so that the government contributed about $2,000 more on every issue to the expense of running that publication than the publishers themselves contributed.

This statement needs no comment. The figures speak for themselves. Publishers of newspapers and periodicals legitimately entitled to second class rates will have no criticism to make of the enforcement of the law.

Do Not Want Gorman.

So great was the indignation against Wellington last week that two republican senators had arranged to introduce resolutions asking him to resign, and they would have done so but for the fact that he had been noised about that Governor Smith intended to appoint Arthur P. Gorman in his place.

This would give the minority party a leader in the Senate whose fitness in the art of legislation is not questioned among the republicans by any senator, with the possible exception of Quay or Platt. In the opinion of many public men neither the senator from Pennsylvania or the senator from New York possesses the same acumen to block legislation that does Gorman, and the latter's presence was altogether unnecessary to the republicans.

There are administration matters of such great import to be dealt with that Gorman would undoubtedly be a most serious thorn in the side of the republicans.—Morning Herald.
