DIED.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE Of our Dear Mother, Mrs. George W. Baumgardner

Mother left us early in the morning, Without a word of warning. 'Twas so unexpected by all. And Oh, how we miss her loving call. For mother is dead and gone To that bright and happy home, Where there are angels to greet her, And to welcome their loved one home.

We cannot awaken her from that sleep, For mother is dead—for her we weep; And no one can tell of a mother's loss, Except those who bear that heavy cross. Sleep on, dear mother, thy toils are o'er: Sweet be your rest on the eternal shore, And when our life's work on earth is ended May we mingle with thee in Heaven.
