

ELECTRIC LIGHT SENTIMENT.

Prospects about as Bright as Our Present Street Light System.

A little agitation of the subject of electric lights for Taneytown, has been going on for some time. A few conclusions drawn from previous experience, lack of interest, and imagination for the rest, leads the Record to conclude that the ruling public sentiment is something like the following:

"Oh, yes, we would like to see a first-class electric lighting system in Taneytown, but, the business didn't pay in Littlestown, and how do we know it will here?"

"The cost of the lights would be greater than our oil lamps. Of course, the light would be far superior to lamps, but—"

"There's the additional cost of wiring our houses and stores, and we really don't like to increase our expenses. Then, you see—"

"So far as street lights are concerned, a good many people don't want any more light than we now have, and say that they can get along just like their forefathers and as we have, up to the present—"

"Besides, suppose a Company is organized, how do we know that the town authorities will give them a license, and if they don't, won't it increase the borough tax? We oppose any increased tax, even if we do get value for it, well, it's a question of houses. Even a little more tax would cause us to sell our property and move away—"

"No, the town can't, for years, own a light plant. We will jump on that like a thousand bricks. Probably, after twenty years or so, when the present public debt is paid off, the people may vote for another one, but we're not in favor of that—"

"Really, it's awfully unfortunate, you know, that somebody won't just give us a light plant, but, in the meantime, even then, whether it wouldn't cost too much to run it—"

"And then, you see, these gasoline lamps make a terrible nuisance, and maybe they're not so dangerous, or maybe they'll invent a gasoline that isn't explosive, then we will have a nice cheap light—"

"And there's no use in being so fast about it, for you know, but Edison or some other fellow may get electricity in such a shape, that, in the meantime, that we can buy it just like oil, and as cheap as that, wouldn't it be a pity if we had a lot of our money tied up in an outfit that would not be used?"

"Yes, there are lots of things to be said against electricity—live wires, and the like—and who knows whether it would surely be a nuisance, and of course, if it were to be used, it would take some stock, but, such things are so uncertain, even when the figures look all right—"

"And—well—don't you think the proposition is a little too 'tongy' for Taneytown? Besides, I want to accommodate a few parties by taking some mortgages in the spring—"

"No, it wouldn't cost much to get a charter and give the subject a thorough investigation, and, if somebody feels like going into it, of course, he has no objection, but, as for myself I don't like to be so prominent in such matters—"

"Of course, the town—the property would likely be increased in value—but, rents are too low now for profit, and the taxes so high, that, if we had a few parties by taking some mortgages in the spring—"

"Really, I am glad to see the Record so public spirited—even talking about it sounds real progressive, and all that. The paper has undoubtedly brought Taneytown into prominence, and—"

"A public meeting for the discussion of the subject? Well, I guess I would look all right—"

"It does seem to be a pity—particularly as the old town is sprucing up, and not a bad sort of place, after all. But, we don't want to be too 'tongy' here, but, we can't see how the thing is to be done. Too bad isn't it?"

The Talmage Sermons.

On investigation, we find that it will be impossible for the Record to publish Talmage's sermon, as it is nearly eight inches in length, or nearly four columns. Some weeks we could give this space, but, as the chances are that there would be more in this could not be done and this fact renders the whole proposition not feasible. If we can get our way clear for the enlargement of the Record—a matter which has been in mind for some time—it is probable that we will be able to publish the sermon, and the next preacher will then be given regularly.

He leaves a widow and eleven children, ten of whom are daughters. They are: Mrs. Belle Pike, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Mary Rose, of Berkeley Springs, W. Frederick Wants the Road.

Frederick city is greatly interested in the prospective Electric road to Baltimore, and a strong effort in the direction of securing it will be made. The Examiner says editorially this week:

"If Frederick is to be connected with Baltimore by an electric road, it can not come too soon, and it is to be hoped that our citizens who have the means will give the project their most liberal support. Our city is now left practically without a competing railroad and our citizens and business men are at the mercy of one large corporation. We must prosper or fail according to the wishes of this corporation. Already we have lost one large industry, and capitalists are slow to invest money in manufacturing industries in a city with but one railroad. A competing electric road to Baltimore will give our town a new lease of life, and there is little doubt but what it will do more for our welfare than any project that has been started here for some time."

Brief Items of General Interest.

Mr. Charles T. Riley, of Waynesboro, Pa., has leased of Mr. Charles M. Anders, of Woodbury, the Malvern Hotel, near Pen-Mar, a three story frame structure erected two years ago and will take possession April 1st.

The Western Maryland Railroad will, it is understood, soon be compelled to purchase more engines and cars to handle its increasing traffic. It appears that 8 or 10 locomotives and 150 freight cars will be required.

PROPOSED INSURANCE LAW.

Important Legislation Directed Against Fire Insurance Companies.

An insurance bill, which will no doubt arouse considerable comment, as well as opposition from the Companies, has been introduced in the Senate by Senator McCullough, of Cecil county. It applies to the real estate, and provides that in cases of total loss the full face of the policy shall always be paid. While the bill, on its face, seems reasonable, it is probable that its passage would not benefit anybody. If, under this proposed law, the Mutual Companies would be compelled to pay out great sums for losses, the members of such companies would simply have heavier assessments to pay; and, should the stock companies meet the same condition, rates would be correspondingly raised.

The chief objection to the measure, is that the bill is made for probable depreciation of the property insured, not for improper valuation, both by the insured and the representative of the company. It is not that the proposed law will benefit the honest insurer, who does not place a fictitious value on his property, but that it will benefit the dishonest insurer, who places a value on his property which is not its real value, and the operation of the law would be in the interest of the class of dishonest insurers, already too numerous.

The bill applies only to real property and to fire insurance companies, and provides as follows: "Whenever a policy of insurance shall be issued to insure property in the State against loss by fire, tornado or lightning, and the property insured be damaged by fire, tornado or lightning, the amount of the insurance stated in such policy shall be taken conclusive evidence of the true value of the property insured, and the true amount of the loss and measure of damage."

It is also provided that all policies heretofore issued shall be deemed endorsed across the face the following: "It is agreed between insurer and insured that the value of the property insured shall be taken conclusive evidence of the true value of the property insured, and the true amount of the loss and measure of damage."

It is also provided that all policies heretofore issued shall be deemed endorsed across the face the following: "It is agreed between insurer and insured that the value of the property insured shall be taken conclusive evidence of the true value of the property insured, and the true amount of the loss and measure of damage."

Elopements—The Other Side.

Last week, Taneytown was the scene of an elopement which furnished considerable food for discussion for a few days. To most of us, the affair was simply an incident of a day which will soon be forgotten. With the principals, it was a step, taken "until death shall part," and in this comes in the other side—the serious side—of the escapade.

In such cases, the world usually takes the lovers' side. "All the world loves a lover." The outwitting of parents and the law, is held to be justifiable under the proverbial "All's fair in love and war," and yet, we question the righteousness of the view. There is too strong a disposition to laugh at the disfigurement of everything which has a proper right to interfere—even a mother's love.

After all, does it not make a vast difference to us whose young daughter it is who elopes? In the case in point, it is highly probable that many who enjoyed the affair would have found themselves with quite different opinions and feelings had the young "school girl" been their daughter. It is scarcely probable that there would then have been joking and connivance from the same people.

As a rule, young people are the best judges of their love affairs, and no doubt make fewer mistakes than when parents interfere; yet, there must, in reality, be but very few instances in which young people cannot, and ought not, await the legal age for marrying, and the consent of parents ought always first be asked. There is time enough, after this, to take the law and responsibility in one's own hand.

Agricultural Education and State Appropriations.

As noted in the RECORD several weeks ago, the Board of State Aid and Charities reported adversely on the request of the M. A. C. Experiment Station for $45,000 a year for two years, and on that of Organized Farmers' Clubs for $30,000 a year for two years, giving as the reason that the Agricultural College already receives an appropriation.

Asa B. Gardner, Secretary of Combined Farmers' organizations, has published the following letter, giving the reasons why the $30,000 appropriation should be granted.

"Without going into the details of our appearance before the Board, in which the need for this appropriation was carefully explained, I would say that the Maryland Agricultural College receives annually from the United States Government the sum of about $20,000 under the first and second Morrill acts and the Hatch Experiment Station Act.

Under the statute by which these grants are made this money can be expended only for specific purposes, and new buildings or repairs to old buildings, or similar expenditures, are barred by the act.

At a meeting in June last of twenty-three of the organizations of Farmers' Clubs the state of affairs of the college, its lack of dormitory accommodations, its overcrowded plant and the overcrowded condition of the Mechanical Arts Building, the limitations of the Experiment Station and the usefulness of the Farmers' Institute (which is a lecturing body of practical men, visiting each county in the State), all appealed to those present, and a committee of nine, composed of the representative farmers of the State, was appointed to examine into the needs of this institution most carefully and to apply to the Legislature for relief. The total amount necessary was found to be $30,000 for two years—a total of $60,000.

The first of the legislative bodies that passed on this measure was the Board of State Aid and Charities, with the result as given before, and it is evident that it does not comprehend what was asked for or the benefit to the State by granting the appropriation.

There is no politics whatever in this movement, and no one who can get a cent except a State institution, in which the Governor and other State officers are trustees, and the money will be expended under their direction.

Among the other states of this country the improvements in agricultural training on scientific and practical lines are more thorough than in this State.

While other states have given large sums to furnish buildings and equipment to their agricultural colleges, the last to do so was Wisconsin, which made an appropriation of $35,000 a few weeks ago.

statements, will be made toward this end. Secretary Gardner seems to be arguing the whole case, instead of for the appropriation. If this be true we think the chances of securing state aid have been injured, rather than improved, as the double appeal has the appearance of a "raid" on the treasury, the like of which Maryland has not been used to.

Our state cannot be compared to Ohio, or any of the great western states. Here, liberality to agricultural interests must be cultivated. There liberality is already in force.

An examination of the lists of appropriations, for many years, will show that it has been "Maryland style" to dispense its favors to certain institutions which have long since come to regard these favors as theirs by right; therefore, our agriculturists must recognize, first of all, that they have a long-standing and most pernicious system to defeat—and all that this means—before they can hope for even an approach to the treatment accorded their profession by the states of the west and north.

The Mail is Plighty.

The Hagerstown Mail attempts to be facetious over the office of Fire Marshal, and as a fair sample of its intelligence on the subject, makes the home of Fire Marshal, R. M. Price, Westminster, instead of Queen Anne's county. This is the style in which the Mail convicts itself.

"It is admitted and known everywhere that during the past year not a single fire occurred in Westminster and there the Chief Marshal of all this State holds his home and exalted sits. If there were no other excuse for the marshaling that would suffice; not one fire in all that big town in a whole year; marvelous but true, and now we shall hear arising this high clamor from all the other cities of the plain. Why not a State Marshal in our midst that the fire fiend may perpetrate and avoid us?"

Deputy Marshal, Chas. V. Wantz, or "Clerk," as his proper official title seems to be, is likely the gentleman referred to by the writer of the above paragraph; and, we may truthfully say, he would fill the higher office as conscientiously and intelligently as he has been filling the minor place.

The Mail should not attempt to do little this office—it would not do so if it was held by a Hagerstown man—as it is likely as ill informed of its objects and benefits as it is of the home of its official head.

Safety Appliances on Trains.

From the fifteenth Annual Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, we reproduce the following from the number of very interesting and instructive items reviewed, and will likely take the same liberty in a succeeding issue:

"The safety-appliance law became fully effective on August 1, 1900, and the beneficial results of its operation are now being realized. The greatly increased security to life and limb by which the men on freight trains and in freight yards now perform their work is now apparent on every hand. Evidence of the improved conditions resulting from the practically universal use of automatic couplers on freight cars appears in the records of accidents and in the testimony of railroad officials and employees. Further proof of the value of the law is also found in the records of the railway claim departments, as well as in those of the several trainmen's associations.

It is gratifying state of affairs is due to the Federal statute, the railroad company's united action, and the efficient performance of their duties by the inspectors employed by the Commission. These inspectors, who are competent men of long experience in car and train work, have taken note of all features of operation, improvements, and repairs which seem to be germane to the work in which they are engaged, and this has proven satisfactory to the railroad presidents and managers, and has resulted in establishing amicable relations with the employees. The various railroad technical associations, including the American Railway Association and the Master Car Builders' Association, have contributed in marked degree to the success of the law.

The report then shows that for the year ending June 30, 1901, the number of employees killed in coupling accidents was less than in the preceding year by about 35 per cent, and the number injured was less by about 52 per cent. Attention is called to the form of accident reports promulgated by the Commission under the accident law of March 3, 1901, under which precise definitions are given for the purpose of these reports to the words "killed" and "injured," and that this has resulted in a uniform system of reporting. According to the accident returns for the month of July, only 4 employees were killed during that month while coupling and uncoupling cars. This warrants the expectation that casualties due to this cause will be less for 1902 than for 1901. For the full year ending June 30, 1902, the number killed in coupling accidents averaged 234 per month. A table showing the complete statistics for 1893, and 1897 to 1900, inclusive, is given. Another table shows for those years the number of persons killed or injured by falling from trains and engines.

There was a material increase in the ratio killed in 1900 from the three years preceding, the causes for which can only be conjectured. With the use of air brakes on freight trains it is confidently expected to lessen the deaths and injuries under this head, and it is observed that air brakes were not nearly as generally used in 1899 and 1900 as they are now. It is pointed out, however, that with more powerful locomotives, heavier cars, and longer freight trains the use of air brakes on these trains has been the occasion of an increased number of violent shocks, which tend to increase the danger to men on the cars."

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this Remedy.—MRS. J. A. MOORE, North Star, Mich. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Carelessness on the Increase.

It appears that the American public has not made any improvement recently in the direction of avoiding the annoyances incident to misdirected mail. An abundance of advice on this subject has been given from time to time; but, notwithstanding injunctions and notwithstanding a general familiarity with the fact that such an institution as the dead-letter-office exists, and is kept busy, carelessness in the mailing of letters and packages is stated to be on the increase.

A postal official quoted by the Washington Star gives an array of facts and figures in support of this statement which are worth noting. The complete failure of persons to address letters before posting them is a common fault, and over 87,000 pieces of unaddressed mail matter were posted during the past year, being 600 more than for the preceding year. Of this number 15,000 pieces contained money.

Unstamped letters and parcels reached the total of 156,000, an increase of 11,000 over the preceding year, and misdirected letters and parcels amounted to nearly a half million pieces, an increase of over 20,000 pieces. In fourth-class matter a half million pieces went astray from the various reasons noted, an increase of nearly a quarter of a million in a single year.

It is probably but natural that increases in mistakes of this kind should accompany increased business, but some of the mistakes that are made are almost inexcusable. The efficiency of the postal department operates to make the quantity of misdirected mail much less than it otherwise would be. No doubt many Baltimoreans have received missives on which the name of the city looked more like "Batt" than anything else, the omission of the name of the state being quite frequent.

It is the party who commits the fault of being careless in the mailing of letters and parcels who is often put to the greatest inconvenience thereby.—Morning Herald.

Proposed Pensioning of Teachers.

The proposed law providing for the pensioning of school teachers of the state appears to us not to be the most magnanimous proposition we have ever heard of. It is quite Israelitish in complexion. This paper is a staunch friend of the public school teachers. We know that the pay they receive is shamefully inadequate, and we have so stated on more than one occasion.

While it may be an agreeable anticipation that the wolf will be kept from the door when old age arrives there are but few of us who desire to postpone this consummation until the ability to enjoy its fruits has become deteriorated. The suggestion to pension these heroic servants of the state is a laudable one, but it is no excuse for a continuation of the present starvation salaries.

While the knowledge that they would be provided for when their labors were finished would unquestionably be an incentive for proper persons to engage in teaching, yet we believe that salaries commensurate with the present work of educating the youth of the state would be a far greater incentive and would not postpone unnecessarily and unjustly rewards now deserved.—Hyattsville Independent.

Senator Allison.

In being elected United States Senator for the sixth consecutive term, William B. Allison, of Iowa, has attained a distinction which has belonged to but one man—the late Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont. John Sherman, of Ohio, was elected Senator six times, but his period of service in the Senate was twice broken by resignation to accept a cabinet portfolio. Mr. Allison has in his legislative career showed himself entirely worthy of the confidence reposed in him by the legislators of his state. He is one of the most influential leaders in the body with which he has long been identified, and Iowa's appreciation of his services will be universally applauded.—Morning Herald.

Mr. Wheeler Got Rid of His Rheumatism.
"During the winter of 1898 I was so lame in my joints, in fact all over my body, that I could hardly hobble a body, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. From the first application I began to get well, and was cured and have worked steadily all the year.—R. WHEELER, Northwood, N. Y. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Germany Friendly to U. S.

The National Zeitung (Germany) concludes a page editorial on the friendship between the United States and Germany in these words:

"The only object of the visit of Prince Henry to the United States is the cultivation of this sentiment. The German Emperor could give the United States no better proof of the feeling and sentiments animating him and the German people in regard to the greatness and development of the union as a civilizing power than in sending his brother there. Prince Henry goes, as it were, as the interpreter of Germany's friendship for the United States. He is the first German Prince from the old reigning house who will tread the soil of the great Republic, and undoubtedly his acquaintance with the most prominent statesmen of the Union will exercise a beneficial effect upon national relations.

The visit of Prince Henry must dissipate all the foolish and malicious assertions of political antagonism between Germany and the United States and of German plans of conquest in the American sphere of influence. Instead it must strengthen feelings of mutual recognition and equality of standing. No treaty or alliance between Germany and the United States is needed. Ever since the existence of the United States, peace, friendship and trade intercourse have prevailed between us. Prince Henry's trip shows that we wish to remain in the same relations in the future. The reception which the people, the Government and public opinion are preparing for him on American soil will give splendid proof that the American cherish similar sentiments and hopes."

A Musical Social.
(For the Record.)
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hahn gave a musical social on Wednesday evening, Jan. 22nd, at their elegant home near Silver Run, in honor of the teacher, Mr. W. C. Grubb, of Union Bridge. Music was rendered by the Hahn orchestra. Miss Rita Vingling, cousin of Westminster, and Miss Margaret Clifton, Koons, were the soloists. The piano and organ. Mr. Keefe's six year old daughter also sang and played, which was all much appreciated.

Singing and playing was continued until 10 o'clock when refreshments—orange, cakes, after which selections were sang by Mr. Keefe and wife, and Mrs. Harry Hahn and Mrs. E. A. Spangler, of Maryland. "Home, Sweet Home," was sung by Misses Grubb and Mary Hahn, when all departed to their homes, after thanking Mr. Hahn's family for the pleasant evening. About 70 persons were present.

Social, near Keysville.

C. Reid.

A Wedding Truthfully Described.

A Western editor who believes in telling the truth printed the following:

Willie Short and Bettie Smith were married at the M. E. Church last evening. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers and potted plants, borrowed promiscuously from over town people who didn't want to lend them. The decoration was done under protest by some of the members of the church, who were asked to do so by the bride and couldn't well refuse. The ladies are of the opinion that if the couple were bent on having a stylish wedding they should have been willing to pay some one to chase all over the town for a day getting flowers together and then taking them home again.

The bride wore a handsome Silvertone gown, made at home, and the groom was decked out in a $10 hand me down suit. The ushers wore cataway coats, borrowed for the occasion. Sallie Potts was maid of honor, and the consensus of opinion was that she was two-to-one better looking than the bride. The young couple took the morning train for St. Louis, where they will spend more money in a few days than Willie can earn in a month.

Willie says that now he's married he's going to settle down. Some of our merchants think it would have been better if he had settled up first. The groom gets a salary of $37 a month, which is about the allowance Bettie has been used to for pin money. We wish for Willie's sake that the bride said that it takes no more to support two than one wasn't a lie.

The bride sent us a shoe box full of a conglomeration of stuff supposed to be cake. If this is a sample of Bettie's cooking, we feel sorry for Willie. Our janitor's dog fell heir to the cake and now he's lying in the cold, cold ground. But this wedding is none of our funeral. If Willie and Bettie are satisfied, we've got no kick coming.

For Stomach Troubles.
"I have taken a great many different medicines for stomach trouble and constipation," says Mrs. S. Geiger of Dunkerton, Iowa, "but never had as good results from any as from Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets." For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneysville, Md.

Show Him Your Paper!
A short time ago some men were engaged putting telegraph poles up in some land belonging to an old farmer who disliked seeing his grass trampled down. He ordered them out of his land. The men produced a paper which said that they had leave to put the poles up where they pleased. The old farmer went back and turned the bull into the field. The savage beast made after the men, and the old farmer, seeing them running out of the field, shouted at the top of his voice: "Show him your paper! Show him your paper!"

When you lack energy, do not relish your food, feel dull and stupid, after eating all you need is a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets. They will make you feel like a new man and give you an appetite like a bear. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneysville, Md.

The Cat and the Kid.
Once upon a time a cat and a kid were traveling in company and stopped in front of a window of a store to admire a miscellaneous display of merchandise. "Doesn't it make you glad," asked the cat, "to see those kid gloves? Just think, that may be the condition of your skin next May!"

The kid laughed and then answered: "That's no skin of my family, for it comes from your two enemies, the dog and the cat. But see those kid gloves. Don't they give you a pain in your stomach?"

Now the cat laughed in his turn and then replied: "The interior department of my family doesn't furnish those any more than your skin does into the gloves. They come from your cough, the sheep."

"Yes, I've got a little money put away," said the talkative speculator. "I've managed to get in on the ground floor once or twice."

"No, too," whispered the burglar, who sat next to him in the train. "Shake!"—Philadelphia Press.
