P. B. ENGLAR, Editor and Manager.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.
DR. G. T. MOTT, President.
DR. H. SEISS, Sec. & Treas.
GEO. H. BIRNIE, JR., Sec. & Treas.
JOHN S. BOWER.

TERMS: One dollar per annum in advance. Six months, 50c. Trial subscriptions, Three months, 25c. Subscriptions will be continued, as a rule, after the time for which the paper has been paid, has expired. Subscribers who wish to discontinue should notify us, or ask their Postmaster to do so. The label on paper contains date to which the subscription has been paid. No paper will be discontinued until all arrears have been paid, except at the option of the publisher.

ADVERTISING: Rates will be given on application, after the character of the business has been definitely stated, together with information as to space, position and length of contract. The publisher reserves the privilege of declining all offers for space.

ENTERED AT TANEYTOWN POSTOFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

SATURDAY, MAY 31st., 1902.

MANY of the newspapers of the country received a severe shock last week when the national sentiment was received from the Ladies Home Journal—in the elegant language for which it is editorially so conspicuous—that, henceforth no copies will be mailed free (7) to newspapers, or exchanges. The reason given, is, that the cost of doing so has been very, very, large, which carries with it the intimation that the free advertising received in return has been very, very, small. Altogether, this is a sad commentary on the liberality of the country press; or rather, on its failure to properly appreciate the Journal (price $1.00 a year) in not giving it at least $10.00 worth of free advertising a year. Serves 'em right.

How General Laws are Published for the People.

A number of our democratic exchanges reached us last week, bulging out with a supplement containing certain Public General Laws, published by authority and expense of the state of Maryland. To the uninitiated, these "supplements" appear to have been printed in the offices from which they are mailed, but, as a matter of fact, they are bought by the 100 copies, all from one printing office, the name of each paper and its date line being changed to suit, but, otherwise identical for all papers, favored with the distribution of the laws.

The difference between the price charged the various papers for these "supplements," and that which each paper receives from the state for "publishing the laws," would make a most interesting exhibit to the taxpayers who indirectly foot the bills. The injustice and rottenness connected with the publishing business of the state will be wiped out, some day, but the prospect is not encouraging. The people can do it, but they are awfully hard to awaken to some things.

We have a number of these "supplements" on hand, which may be had on application at this office by those interested. As all tax-payers of the state are not subscribers to the chosen few democratic newspapers, it is reasonable to presume that a very large number of the citizens of Maryland who "pay the freight" in this little transaction, will not receive their proper share of the goods.

Where, and Why, they Go.

The RECORD, last week, contained two advertisements for young men, wanted in York, Pa., and Hagerstown, Md. In a few words, and without need of much comment, the circumstance carries a very important truth with it. It shows where our young men and mechanics are wanted, and, as a matter of course, where they go to. The same truth is also illustrated by an examination of the mailing list of the RECORD, as our subscribers, except in this country, are very largely those who once lived in this neighborhood.

There is no use to talk to the capitalists of Taneytown about the advisability of establishing manufacturing enterprises; not because they are too mentally obtuse to see the benefit of building up our old town and neighborhood through the introduction of home enterprises, but rather because it is not in their line of business—they have neither talent nor predisposition in that direction.

It is all very well to say, "we need manufacturing," but, such things do not come for the saying or wishing—there must be the intelligence and business ability of the manufacturer back of it, or even well-meant efforts in the right direction may meet with flat failure. A manufacturing enterprise backed by those not thoroughly acquainted with the business, is a foolish step in the dark; therefore, as our citizens have had no training which equips them for entering this branch of business, we are very likely to see Taneytown remain, for years, much as at present.

Indeed, there are reasons why this may not be a discouraging outlook. A large town is not necessarily the best town, and, while we must expect our young men to go from us, and from the surrounding farming community, there nevertheless remains to us the satisfaction and privilege of going through life in a comparatively modest way, but at the same time in one of the best small towns of the country, in one of the best farming communities of the country, and there are decidedly worse prospects than this.

What we can do, and ought to do, is to make our town and country homes just as comfortable and attractive as we can. The country districts are not nearly so much sneered at as they once were; in fact, thousands of those who live in the city, and are envied by their country friends and relatives, in turn, deep down in their hearts—when they do not openly acknowledge it—wish that they might exchange places with their country friends. One of the greatest things on earth is contentment.

To be Court Martialed.

Washington, May 25.—Capt. Harry E. Smith, of the Coast Artillery, on duty at Fort Mifflin, Md., will be tried by court martial before instructions of Secretary Root. Captain Smith was ordered before a retiring board, which recommended him for transfer from the active list. Secretary Root was incensed at the recommendation, and made this comment: "The evidence before the board, not considered, but practically admitted by the officer, shows that he was suffering from chronic alcoholism, and that upon at least one recent occasion he has been drunk on duty."

"These are not grounds for placing an officer on the retired list and supporting him the rest of his life in idleness at the expense of his country, but they are grounds for dismissing him from the service which he has disgraced; nor does it furnish any reason for keeping such an officer under observation and treatment for six months, or for any period. Immediate and severe discipline is called for and nothing else."

"My observation has satisfied me that the standard of sobriety and good personal habits among the officers of the army is very high, but it would not remain so if cases of this kind were to be condoned or disposed of in the manner which has been proposed in this case. Officers who observe such cases and fail to report them promptly for discipline are remiss in the performance of their duty and I desire the army to understand that they will be so considered."

Mr. Root followed these remarks up with a provision that Captain Smith should be tried by court martial. Another army officer, Lieut. William R. Mc Gill, on duty at Vancouver Barracks, Wash., has been reported for intoxication. He has been allowed to resign from the service in order to escape trial by court martial.

"American Business Methods."

Some plain suggestions regarding American business methods are given by the British Consul at Chicago, Mr. Wyndham, in a report to the British Foreign Office, a copy of which has reached the Treasury Bureau of Statistics.

The commercial success in the United States, and especially of the city at which he is located is described by Consul Wyndham as being due in part "to the education which teaches the boy independence and knowledge of their future responsibilities, and does not set the professions above business as a means of gaining a living."

"Athletics of all kinds are much encouraged in schools and universities, but very few men continue to take part in them after completing their education. Americans are as fond of outdoor life, shooting and fishing, as are the men of any European country, but they gratify their taste as a relaxation only and never allow it to interfere with their business."

"Another cause of success is the keeping of the money, which has been made in the business, and the brains which have made the business, in it as long as possible, and great thought is devoted to arrangement whereby, after the death of the builder of the business, it shall not fall into the hands of his heirs, unless they are practically fitted to take care of it."

"Another and probably the chief cause is the reward of merit. The percentage of men fitted for the highest posts in business is very small compared with the total numbers employed, and the heads of the big business, bank corporations and wholesale firms, are always looking out for men, not only among those already in their employ, but also outside, capable of filling some post under them. To these men, when found, large salaries are given, which are drawn by them as long as they show that they are capable of earning them. Men employed in business houses of all descriptions are encouraged to discover new methods of carrying on the business which may in any way lessen the cost of production or carrying on business, and specialization is carried on to an extreme point."

"The advantage of a well dressed show window in every kind of retail trade is more than ever understood, and very great trouble, expense, and ingenuity are used in getting good results. Many shops now put mechanical toys in the windows to attract the attention of passers by. The trade papers are also taking up the subject and give illustrations and ideas."

"In machine shops and factories the use of the best machinery is understood and appreciated by the men, but the success of the American manufacturer would appear to be owing not to the machinery but to the system of shop management. Every man appears to be fully aware that success depends upon his doing his best work, and no idleness is tolerated in anyone. The highest positions in a shop are open to anyone who can prove his worth and every man works with this incentive."

"Many visitors from the United Kingdom blame the men there because the same results are not obtained from machinery as is done here, but the more the factories are seen the more certain it becomes that it is the incentive to work and the energy of the managers, superintendents and foremen, and the example set by them that has the wonderful effect on the output. This holds good in every kind of trade and business."

Whooping Cough.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl was called lastly for cough syrup by the name of—JESSIE PINKNEY HALL, Springville, Ala. This Remedy is for sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

The Strike Situation.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 26.—It is still a matter of conjecture whether the mines in the anthracite region will be completely shut down next Monday when the order issued by the executive boards of the United Mine Workers, governing the hours of labor and wage, is put into effect. The operators claim they will have all the help necessary to keep the pumps and engines in running order.

The United Mine Workers and the officers of the Stationary Firemen's Association, on the other hand, claim that unless the coal companies grant the demands of the engineers, firemen and pumpmen will quit work. There seems to be no question but that both sides are straining every nerve to make the best showing possible.

The operators are bringing all the influence they possibly can to hold the men now at work, while the striking miners are also doing missionary work. Many of the engineers do not like the predicament they are placed in. If they quit work, they will displease the company of officials and may never be reinstated, while if they remain at their present posts and the miners should win their strike, they would not be so pleasant for them at the collieries in the future. In order to reach those who are wavering a call was issued to-night for a mass meeting of all engineers, pumpmen and firemen in the Wyoming region in this city next Friday evening.

American Flour Abroad.

Although the capacity of the flour mills of the United States is more than ample to grind into flour all the wheat that is grown in this country, yet many of these mills are out of commission for many months each year, owing to the exports of wheat. The growing tendency to export wheat rather than the flour manufactured from this wheat, is caused, not by the lack of demand in foreign countries for our flour, nor by their ability to manufacture flour of equal quality, but by the fact that the transportation companies make a lower rate on wheat than on the manufactured article—flour.

While American flour is wanted in European markets, the next best thing, and much cheaper by reason of the lower freight rates, is flour made from American wheat in foreign mills. Great Britain draws its supplies of wheat from India, Argentina, Australia, and Russia. While the British miller prefers American wheat, nevertheless he can and does use the supplies from other countries in accordance with the prevailing price. If Russian wheat is cheaper, he uses more Russian. If Indian wheat is cheaper, he uses more Indian.

American wheat, therefore, stands in the severest competition. The supplies of wheat for the British miller, then, may or may not afford cargoes for the railroads of America and the steamships from American ports. How is it with flour? American flour, as already stated, surpasses that of any other country for general bread-making purposes. The brands of American flour have in Great Britain a trade-mark value in addition to an intrinsic value. American wheat entering a British mill loses its identity, and therefore to the consumer has no trade-mark value. In other words, if the transportation companies of America should help in the development of the American flour trade in foreign countries by transporting flour at the same freight rate as wheat, they would enjoy a permanent traffic for their cars and ships, because American flour can be obtained only in America, and, having a trade-mark value, cannot be so easily rejected for substitutes.—From "The Fallacy of Exporting Wheat," by Charles C. Boyce, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

A Historic Theatre Program.

J. Sherwood Case, of Brooklyn, N. Y., possessor of the identical theatre program which President Lincoln held in his hand at the time of his assassination, has applied for space for its exhibition at the St. Louis World's Fair. In reply to a letter from him asking about provision for the safe keeping of the precious relic, Secretary Stevens has written as follows: "Your application has been filed with the committee having charge of the historical exhibits. It is strongly probable that one of the Washington University buildings will be set apart especially for the exhibits, which promise to be not only numerous, but of great value and interest. The Exposition management has received tenders of historical relics from this and other countries which encourages the belief that the collection will form one of the most interesting features of the Exposition."

IMPROVED EMPIRE

Cream Separators

ARE THE BEST.

We can boast justly that more Empire Cream Separators were sold during the past five years within a radius of 50 miles of Taneytown (the best private dairy section of the state) than all others combined. After repeated contests will all make worthy the name, over 600 were sold in said section alone.

Testimonials.

We can now furnish more testimonials than there are people living in Taneytown, Md. Think of it: an army of Empire users of over 500,000, sold since 1894; if but one of these users would sell but a single machine during the coming year, just think where it will put the number of Empire machines. A proof of the Empire's merits is a trial thereof.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Stand as a Prophet.
A sensation in the book world is William T. Stead's "Americanization of the World." Interest in this latest contribution to current literature is not lessened by the author's close connection with the late Cecil Rhodes, whose will provides for the education of American youth at Oxford. Mr. Stead says that the resentment which is held in England to the extension of American influence is entirely uncalculated for, as the Americanization of the world is but the Anglicizing of the world at one remove. In the words of the gentleman himself, "There is no reason to resent the part the Americans are playing in fashioning the world in their image, which, after all, is substantially the image of ourselves." Of the American Declaration of Independence Mr. Stead in his book says, "It is the epitaph of our empire."

WILLIAM T. STEAD.

"Hub" Smith Decorated.
Somewhere in the custody of the government is a handsome decoration which ought to sparkle upon the breast of Hubbard T. Smith, secretary of the United States commissioner to China and consular clerk of the United States.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somewhat the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

SCOTT'S EMULSION

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

It was presented to him by the emperor of China, but he cannot accept it until congress grants him the necessary permission.
"Hub" Smith made an enviable name for himself as an official during the settlement of the Chinese troubles; but after all, he will always be known to fame as the author of the song beginning—
A little peach in an orchard grew;
Listen to my tale of woe.

That little tale of woe has been sung all over the world. Smith composed the music one Sunday afternoon while sitting at a piano in his bachelor home, Paradise Place, Washington, after reading Eugene Field's poem, and he sold it to a local music dealer for a mere pittance. It caught on everywhere and for some time the most popular song in the United States. Hundreds of thousands of copies were sold. Smith suddenly found himself famous. He wrote quite a number of other songs including "Swinging In the Grapevine Swing," but the tale of woe will be remembered when all the others are forgotten. And this does not please Smith, for his other songs are much more meritorious productions.

An Innocent's New Home.
Samuel L. Clemens, known the world over as Mark Twain, the American humorist, has purchased Hill Crest, a mansion overlooking the Hudson, at Tarrytown, N. Y. The mansion house at Hill Crest contains thirteen large rooms. There are fine stables and a henry on the place, which consists of nineteen acres of as picturesque land as lies off of floors. The place was laid out and improved by Captain W. T. C.

sey, of whom Mr. Clemens purchased it. "I am in love with the spot," exclaimed Mark Twain as he stood upon a big rock in front of the house and beheld the Tappan Zee to the west and the valley of Sleepy Hollow, the land of Washington Irving, to the north.

Michael Droogin is caretaker of Twain's new home in the owner's sense on a West Indian yachting trip.

Mr. Wellington's Instructions.
During the spring floods Senator Wellington went down to the railroad station in Washington and took a sleeper for his home at Cumberland, Md. He did not know that the train was likely to be laid off indefinitely and that schedules had been abandoned. Calling the porter, Mr. Wellington said, "Be sure and wake me up in time to get off at Cumberland," and then turned in.

When Mr. Wellington awoke the next morning, it was about 9 o'clock. After looking at his watch he raised the curtain and gazed at the surroundings. He soon realized that the train was still standing in the Washington station, just where it was when he boarded it. He hustled into his clothes and started for the porter. That functionary explained that he had carried out his instructions to the letter and that if the senator had quietly slept for an other day or two he would have called him in ample time to get off at Cumberland.

Won't Follow Advice After Paying for It.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable such as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

STARTING FLOWER SEEDS.

A Florist's Method Reported For the Benefit of Amateurs.

Take a shallow box, say three inches deep, bore holes in the bottom, cover with moss, which saturate with water. Over the moss place the prepared soil, filling the box even full, and compress it moderately with a trowel or board. Then wet the soil thoroughly with several sprays, not applying enough water after this to saturate the soil muddy, the wetting to last until the seeds germinate.

Over the surface sift a very light coat—say one-eighth of an inch—of the same prepared soil, using a sieve of about one-half inch mesh and taking care to sift it evenly over the surface. The seedling in the damp soil will be in that condition. Do not compress, but leave it open and porous; the fine seeds may find lodgment between the particles of soil and thus gather more moisture than they would if resting on an unmoist surface.

Then dust the seed evenly over the surface, cover with a fine netting, over which spread some wire mesh, so that the moss shows dryness at any time, dampen it.

As soon as the seed is fairly well sprouted place under a glass, allowing air space at the sides. Cover the glass for a time with tissue paper. Apply moisture as needed with a fine spray, but do not water frequently, yet the surface must on no account become dry.

Be sure to allow no strong sunlight to strike the young plantlets and at the same time do not apply too strong a shade. Tissue paper allows all the light needed at this stage of growth. Eternal vigilance is the price of success.

As soon as the little seedlings have made sufficient growth to be handled transplant them in fresh soil. Be careful that the fine rootlets are not injured and that they are down full length into the new soil.

After transplanting water with fine spray.—Farm Journal.

EUROPE'S HIGHWAYS

PERFECT SYSTEM BY WHICH THEY ARE BUILT AND MAINTAINED.

Some of the Splendid Roads in France, Belgium and Italy—$10,000,000 Spent by Latter Country on Her Highways in Five Years.

It will interest you to know about the roads of France. In that country there is no such diversity between the material progress of the farmer and that of the merchant, between the country and the town, as is found in this country, says Isaac B. Potter in The Gospel of Good Roads. The farmers prosper and have always prospered. Every dollar spent by the French government to bring itself more closely in touch with its rural population has been well invested.

Of course these roads of France are not built by farmers who "work out" their highway taxes after the manner followed in this country, nor are they repaired by the use of plows, hoes or scrapers, like those which are brought into use at the annual farmers' picnic which takes place when you go out to "work the road" in your township. On the contrary, they are built and kept up under a system which is perhaps the most perfect in the world. There is an official in chief who takes charge of all the main roads of the republic and requires from his subordinates complete reports at frequent intervals. In this manner information is always at hand showing the condition of the roads in all parts of the country. Of course the work is divided into different sections, which in turn are in charge of subordinate engineers or superintendents. Broken stone is furnished by contract, and, considering the amount of labor accomplished each year on the French roads, the cost is surprisingly small. The roads of our own states, at least the important ones, should be maintained in the same way.

Ready For Use Plant Food.
Many ready made for use plant foods are put up by different companies, and, while most, if not all, of them are genuinely good, they are often hard to procure, as they are sold only by dealers in certain lines. The following formula can be filled through any druggist and is one of the very best plant foods in use: Sodium nitrate, three-fourths pound; sodium phosphate (dry), one-fourth pound; sodium sulphate, one-half pound. Pulverize and thoroughly mix the ingredients dry. It may be kept for any length of time by covering closely, when required for use, dissolve in the proportions of one rounding tablespoonful to a gallon of hot water, using a half teaspoonful to a six inch pot. Apply once in two weeks by pouring the solution on to the soil, not on the plant, varying the amount used according to the size and vigor of the plant and also the size of the pot.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

In Italy the minister of public works is at the head of the department of roads. The construction of roads is in most cases undertaken by contracts, the work being carried on under direction of government engineers. The government road laborers are called "cantonnieri" and are selected with great care, and referred to by the name of "cantonnieri". They must be of robust constitution and must be able to read and write. Each one of these cantonnieri is provided with a full set of tools and implements specified by law. His hours of work are from sunrise to sunset, and the entire track of road placed in his charge. He must be constantly upon the line of his work in all kinds of weather and in case of necessity is bound to work on public holidays. His chief duties are the leveling and repair of the highways, the removal of snow, mud, dust, etc. He must assist travelers in distress and vehicles disabled by accident or by weather, and for any neglect of duty he may be fined, suspended or dismissed, according to the degree of the offense.

The fines accumulated during the year are divided among the deserving cantonnieri or given to one of the mutual benefit association of which they are members. Cantonnieri who serve with credit and distinction for three or more years are promoted and given an increase of money wages. In the five years from 1873 to 1875 Italy spent about $16,000,000 on her roads, although before that appropriation was made many excellent highways existed in all parts of the kingdom. In 1881 Italy constructed about 120 miles of new road and had then about 11,040 miles of roads of construction.

In the Netherlands, as in the countries already mentioned, the principal roads are maintained at the expense of the state.

New Alkaloids in Tobacco.
A. Pietet and A. Roitzy report to the Paris Academy of Sciences that they have found a series of new alkaloids in tobacco. The first of these is a liquid, nicotine; the second, a solid, nicotineine; and the third, nicotineine. These alkaloids occur in much smaller quantities than nicotine.

Holds Up A Congressman.
"At the end of the campaign," writes Champ Clark, Missouri's brilliant congressman, "from overwork, nervous tension, loss of sleep and constant speaking I had about utterly collapsed. It seemed that all the organs in my body were out of order, but three bottles of Electric Bitters made me all right. It's the best all-around medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter." Overworked, run-down men and weak, sickly women gain splendid health and vitality from Electric Bitters. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

How Yager's Sarsaparilla with Celery Purifies the Blood

The glandular system of the body is the connecting link between food and blood. Its purpose is to perform certain offices of absorption and assimilation, and to assist in keeping the blood in normal condition. If the glandular system becomes clogged, the part affected becomes diseased.

Yager's Sarsaparilla with Celery acts directly on the glandular system. It keeps the blood purified by keeping in good condition the machinery which nature intended to do this work.

The result is self-evident. The blood is renovated and invigorated. The liver and kidneys are healthy and easily perform their work. The root of ninety per cent. of diseases having been reached it is only a question of time when the whole body responds to the healthy action of the remedy.

Yager's Sarsaparilla with Celery is sold in large 50-cent bottles by all druggists.

YAGER'S LINIMENT for external application relieves pain of any name. Cures cuts, burns, bruises, stings, bites, neuralgia, stiff joints, rheumatism, etc. 25 cents a large bottle.
