Although the flag-raising has not taken place, it was learned at the Navy Department that the transfer was effected in a quiet manner seyer-al days ago. Under the arrange-ment Cuba will pay the owners of the property. It was explained that the moving factor in the transaction was the knowledge that Cuba was without a navy, and as the United States has undertaken the protection of the island against a foreign foe and desires the station as a naval base to protect its own interests, the transfer was made in order that this government might complete its plan mapped

Those 189 Rejected Ballots.

Those who are especially partisans of Taneytown and everything pertaining to it's vicinity, as against any other like section of this county, have worried themselves since the election trying to account for the 189 "reject ed ballots" charged against the intelligence, apparently, of our voters. We say, "apparently," and this word had better be adopted by our critics -who are having amusement at our expense—unless they want to fight. It is reported that in Bruceville a subscription list is being circulated for the purpose of "building a Col lege" in Taneytown, and even old weather-beaten Middleburg is putting on airs, boasting of the small number rejected there, intimating the possession of a greater degree of 'culchah." Perish the thought. From the result of investigations, we are impressed with the belief that we were simply victims of the disregard, upon the part of our judges, of the "intent" of the yoter. They followed the law, as she has been written A Carroll County pensioner, named Burkey, was found dead in an old and most rigidly interpreted, no doubt on the principle that, "the building just across the Baltimore building just across the Baltimore county line, near Hampstead. Regular Correspondent. Our last items included September transactions. Since that time we have finished up a great deal of work. Dur-October we finished seeding, nade quite a quantity of second crop hay, cut corn, and are now engaged in husking it. This work goes somewhat slow on account of the great amount of outside work, principally hauling. We commenced to haul gravel to day on our section of Counv Road, and have been promised $200.00 for that purpose. They said that Taneytown district must either contain a great many negroes—peo-ple who could be bought—or else their intelligence was far below the average. Although these comments were made good naturedly, at the sametime we felt that the amount of ballots thrown out was no credit to our district.

During October, the Prince George's County Road League held another meeting. The chairman appointed a committee, consisting of three lawyers, to examine all laws bearing on the question of roads, as well as the Haman oyster bill, and report at the next meeting. The consensus of opinion was in favor of the Haman oyster bill, and also in favor of taking all questions relating to roads out of Mr. Ager, Master of the Maryland

Dand is now selling as high as $50.00 per acre, and some higher, depending largely upon location. We are having fine weather now; it had been a little dry early in the fall, but last week we had about three days rain which made the soil in good condition, and we now look forward to a big wheat crop. In this country if we can get the wheat to go into the winter in good shape, we are pretty nearly sure of a good crop the following year. I hope we shall have a good big crop as I have out about 340 acres. Wheat is our main dependence here and when we fail in wheat we are left in bad shape. have not enjoyed the advantages of a two additions: liberal school education, it is absolutely essential that education be ed. secured by reading. When we have before us the lives of Lincoln and Grant and the hundreds of men who attained greatness in spite of poverty and the lack of early education, it is stitutions remarkable, to say the least, that so many of our present day young men do not understand the importance of storing their minds with the valuable information contained in current history (daily news) which is so cheap, as well as so easy to secure.

Fifty years and more ago, books were the property of the fev, and entirely out of the reach of the impecurious, except by borrowing. Now, they are so common as to be easily within the reach of all, in actual ownership, while access through other be adopted for disfranchising negro means, in every town, may be had to voters? es of knowledge and re search; but, through the perversity of human nature—the blind carelessness of our young men for the futuresuch opportunities go begging, unsought and unappreciated.

There is hope for the young man who reads, and is ambitious to know things; to know something of politics and political differences; who aims to know, that he may be superior to the common run; who reads, that the conversation of intelligent persons may not be Greek to him; that general knowledge may, in part, bridge over his lack of a college education. When this ambition is lacking, as it too frequently is, that which the future holds for such a young man, can only be estimated with the utmost uncertainty.

The women of to-day are to be complimented, not only because of their der to complete the count. All this greater propensity for reading than men, but because of a greater ambition to become self-supporting and "make their mark" in the world. Women, as a rule, are the better talkers on almost every subject, eyen those not commonly supposed to belong to their world, and this is largely because they are superior self-educators-greater readers-as compared with men. Besides, they do not dull their mental faculties with the habits swogglement and a delusion."—Thurand practices of men, and cultivate mont Clarion (Dem.) their wits to help themselves over the rough places which they would otherwise find impassable.

We find the superiority of women exemplified, frequently, after marriage, when we say of the wife that "she made a man" of her husband. This simply means that the man had neglected to make the best use of his opportunities, and was not awakened to what he had lost, until his wife made the loss clear to him. With all the advantages before our young men, especially, there is no valid excuse for the crop of ordinary minds which is undoubtedly threatening the welfare of the country and the status of society. Just how to bring about the awakening is a most serious ity of the voters of the county. But

Success Covers Sin.

Recently, a religious body severely censured one of its clerical members and reduced him to the laity, pending his repayment of all the money he borrowed, and lost, in speculating in stocks. There was manifest a strong sentiment for deposing the culprit from the ministry, indefinitely, and to "make an example" of him; but, beneath all, the fact of the failure of was due entirely to the manner in his yentures to turn out successfully, seems to emphasize the crime.

While we cannot say so from posisat in judgment in this case, were ity."—Chestertown Enterprise (Rep.) equally guilty, the only difference being that their speculations succeeded. At least, this is the fact; that a sin of the vote but it took the election officials a night and a day to the speculative class, followed by pecuniary profit, loses a large measure of its sinfulness—it is simply shrewd speculation—while one which fails, [Rep.] especially if it causes others to lose, is damned by the failure of its promoter

It must be said to the discredit of the ministry that it is not free from the ministry that it is not free f that sort of speculation which is which necessitates the reading of pression in the stock market has not rightfully denominated gambling, though such instances are, of course, the polls closed the country polls of the republic though such instances are, of course, the exception and not the rule. One thing is sure; the habit is not likely to grow in this direction, for the very excellent reason that but few of them have the surplus wherewith to speculate while the number who would borrow—as in the case cited—is too insignificant to consider.

How the Law Worked.

As many of our readers no doubt read but a comparatively few papers, they are unaware of the feeling which exists all over the state in reference to the election law. For their information, we add the following from a few of our last week's exchanges;

"There were 584 votes cast in this district on Tuesday and although no time was wasted, beyond that naturally to be apprehended under the system, the election officers were kept in continuous service for 30 hours in orto accomplish a secret ballot, and it is our unbiased and positive view of the matter that the old "yest pocket" ballot cast here on Tuesday would have shown practically the same result, so really, what does all this folder of about ballot secrecy amount to? The intention of the law may be good enough, but it is so completely ircumvented by the wiles and devices of the party workers that the whole business is, practically, a dead letter and the claim of ballot secrecy and

"That some change in the election law of Maryland which will facilitate the counting of votes is needed is demonstrated by the slowness with which the returns of Tuesday's election have been received. A system of counting which leaves the result of an election in doubt for twelve or possibly twenty-four hours after the polls have been closed is eminently unsatit possible to have the result of an election known within a reasonable Frederick News (Ind.)

have met with an overwhelming defor the future. The causes of this defeat and their relative importance are, n my view, as follows: First—The election law, with its technicalities, and the ballots thrown out, was our greatest difficulty. Of course, some Democratic ballots were hrown out, too; but in the shuffle we ere very largely the losers. Second-Our factional differences, ome of which have existed for several years, but the most serious of which are of recent growth. These bickerings caused many who would have been willing to aid us, had we been thoroughly united, to become disgusted and doubt our ability to make an effective and winning fight. When we become so thoroughly interested in the work for the public good lying near the hand of every Republican in this State that each of us prefers to do it rather than reach over it to aim do it rather than reach over it to aim a blow at some other Republican, we will surely win again. If we really wish to be a majority party, we must act as if we regarded fights for measures as the chief work of the party—not fights for officeholding. Until we do this, our success will be but local and occasional. Third—The Democrats have a better organization than the Republicans. Such work with the former is more professional than amateur. Ours, n most cases, is more amateur than

Fourth—The race question un-loubtedly cut a considerable figure, for there are many of our people who get very much alarmed about it.

Valuable lessons for the future may e learned from these causes of our defeat. Topic.—How may we help abolish the saloon?—Eph. vi, 10-13. (Temperance.) That the saloon should be abolished should admit of no question. That it is the direct cause of drunkenness cannot be denied, nor can it be so regulated by the state as to make it possible for the saloon to exist without making drunkards. License as a preventive of excessive drinking is a failure. The most stringent laws about selling to minors and to confirmed drunkards have proved a failure. The young Natronize the saloons, and those cursed with the appetite for strong drink have no difficulty in obtaining it. If the saloon were abolished and alcohol used only for medicinal purposes drunkenness would soon pass away. But it never will while the saloon exists. In the face of the terrible effects of intemperance how can any one interested in humanity advocate the saloon or oppose its destruction? The problem of abolishing the saloon is beyond question a gigantic one. Its patrons are legion, and there are legions more who are absolutely indifferent to the havoc it plays among the children of men. But this only makes it the more important that those who do desire and pray for its overthrow should be instant in season and out E. Clark in "Fellow Travelers." of season for the accomplishment of their purpose.

The saloon can be abolished. To some this may seem a vain boast, but it is not so. The saloon has been abolished. In some towns, in some counpeople of the larger sphere can be Store. made to see and act as have those in the smaller one. The abolishing of the saloon in the smallest hamlet in the United States is conclusive proof that it can be abolished throughout the entire nation if the people of the nation will act as the people of the hamlet. Since the saloon should be abolished and can be abolished, what may we do to bring about this desirable end? 1. We may help abolish the saloon by personal action. No one who desires the overthrow of the curse of saloon, and if all men could be led to totally abstain from intoxicating drinks as a beverage the saloon would soon close its doors and cease to exist.

2. We may help abolish the saloon ion should be educated against the saloon, and every antisaloonist should be an educator of the public upon this subject. The saloon is firmly intrenched in our national life. It is supported by tremendous financial and political influences: but, for all that, when the people of the United States want the saloon to go and say to the saloon "Go!" it will go. "Educate" should be the battle cry of all opposed to the saloon in our land.

3. We may help abolish the saloon by political action. The ballot is the decisive influence in our land, and if all Christian and temperance people would upon every occasion cast their hallots against the saloon the day of its doom would be hastened. But here it is well to remember that denunciation should have no part in our campaign against the saloon. Denunc tion of friends and fellow laborers who do not see as we do never won a battle, much less a campaign. God never made two men exactly alike. Intemperate zeal upon the part of many advocates of temperance has done more to injure the political campaign against the saloon than all other causes combined. Education and toleration should be our watchwords rather than denun-

4. We may help abolish the saloon by prayer. In spite of sin God's power is still absolute upon the earth, and His people should cease not to appeal unto Him for help in the great struggle against this gigantic evil. In His strength we should fight against it and earnestly call upon Him for divine power to bring about its overthrow.

All the different methods or "systems" thus far invented for combining these two materialsmay be grouped in two categories, viz., those in which the lime is slacked separately and then mixed with sand, and, secondly, those in which the dry sand and quicklime are thoroughly mixed and then slacked. The latter method is generally practiced. Throughout the whole process, whichever method of slacking is used, the point of prime importance is uniformity, without which there can be no excellence in the product or profit in the manufacture.

Thanksgiving Day.

Only in the New England states do we find the true Thanksgiving spirit: there the day is held sacred and celebrated with a due sense of what the day signifies. In the South and West it is observed more as a matter of form, or for the close association i has with the old home "back East," where Thanksgiving was eagerly anticipated for weeks. Changes have ome since then, but the memory of those happy times lingers. We can all find something to feel thankful for if we try; therefore let us enter into the true spirit of the occasion, and put forth our best efforts to make this a day of true thankgiving and joy for the dear oxes in our home.

Last week, 2250 hedge plants were set around the Lutheran Cemetery, and 39 Norway maple and Gingko trees planted on the inside of the hedge, and on both sides of the main drive. It is probable that the work for the year, at the cemetery, will be concluded with the erection of three iron gates; an arched gate and two without arches. This old burial place of the Lutheran congregation has been greatly improved during the past two years, and, with the work | Frank Byers, in New Windsor last contemplated for next year, it should be one of the handsomest in this section of the state.

Taneytown indulged in two politi- here. cal demonstrations this week. On Tuesday night, several hundred of the unterrified republicans went up "Salt River," accompanied by band ed the funeral of their uncle, Ephraim and drum corps; and on Thursday Yingling, in Baltimore, last week. night the democrats celebrated the result in a torch light parade, with three bands and drum corps. The latter event was quite a creditable showing, and was participated in by many from the adjoining districts. Both parades were punctuated with transparencies, and more or less elaborately costumed individuals who appeared to enjoy the occasion. At the close of the democratic parade, Messrs Guy W. Steele and C. O. Clemson delivered brief addresses, at the

Quite an original species of narcoma nia is noted by the British Medical Journal as having been discovered by Major Jennings, D. S. O., during the recent operations in South Africa. It consists in the eating of cordite, with which the Lee-Metford cartridges are charged. The existence of the vice first became known to Major Jennings from the suggestion of a regimental noncommissioned officer that a certain man had possibly been taking cordite in order to escape service, but in concluding his notes Major Jennings suggests that the effects are so exceedingly unpleas ant that none but the most depraved would ordinarily resort to it as a stimulant and that no man could escape service through its means except by the exchange of service for incarceration as a hopeless lunatic or for death by suicide.

The recent fatal eruption of the Wai mangu geyser, in northern New Zealand, will be of interest, particularly to those who have seen the geysers of the Yellowstone. A party of thirty-two excursionists were making the tour of the geysers under the control of an experienced guide. Four of them, two ladies and two gentlemen, advanced within twenty feet of the Waimangu geyser basin. The guide shouted to them to come away from such a dangerous position, and so did the mother of the two girls. One of the latter replied, "In a moment, mother; when I have taken this snap shot." The next instant there was a terrific eruption of stones, mud and boiling water to a height of 800 feet. When the steam had cleared away the unfortunate four were nowhere to be seen. They had been hurled into a river of boiling water, and their bodies, fearfully battered, were found a mile away. - Chicago

GERMANY'S NAVY.

The Kaiser's Policy For a Mighty Fleet of War Vessels. The following is Germany's naval programme which was to be completed by 1916, but the work has been so hastened that the maximum strength of the fleet will be reached before that year: Thirty-eight battle ships, fourteen large cruisers and thirty-eight small cruisers. In accordance with the emperor's scheme six more large cruisers and seven smaller ones were demanded for use on foreign stations, but this portion of the programme could not be carried through the reichstag, and for the present it has been dropped, but only for the time.

Germany pins her fortunes to the battle ship of moderate dimensions and on a small displacement arranges a heavy gun power, and except as scouts to the great fighting ships she spends little or no money on cruisers. She has four armored cruisers of just over 9,000 tons in hand, but one searches in vain for leviathans of 14,100 and 14,800 tons, which figure in the plans of Great Britain and the United States. Germany knows that she has not a long purse, and she knows that the next naval war will be decided by battle result of a hemorrhage. actions. Since she cannot afford to B. S. Dillon, a pacer by Sidney Dilrepare for the sea fight and also make provision for protecting her commerce with war cruisers she concen trates attention on the battle which will decide the issues of a quarrel, and her armed merchantmen will have to render what aid they can to her ship-

In 1906, when the numerical strength of the fleet will have been doubled, the task of replacing the older battle ships will be taken in hand, and long before 1916, in addition to the vessels which will have been built as net additions to the fleet, Germany will have seventeen new first class battle ships, ten large cruisers of the armored type and twenty-nine smaller cruisers. Consequently, when the scheme is completed, the first line of the German navy will comprise thirty-eight battle ships, the oldest dating back no farther than 1898; fourteen large and thirty-eight smaller cruisers and also the ships she possessed in 1898 when she began the great scheme of augmentation. The bedrock on which the emperor is building is this: Germany, owing to the many claims she has to meet for her predominating army, her colonies and her protective commercial system, cannot hope to have a fleet to equal that of Great Britain, but it must be ship for ship more efficient than any navy afloat, and in this manner its inferiority may be minimized and even wiped out. "Germany," to quote from est power a war with her would jeopardize its own supremacy."—Archiardize its own supremacy." - Archibald S. Hurd in Cassier's Magazine.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach. The worn-out stomach of the over ed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dvs. pepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Spain's Lucky Rulers. That the rulers of Spain are less likely to be killed by assassins than the rulers of other countries a Madrid historian claims, and the statistics which he gives are certainly favorable. Queen Isabella was attacked on two occasions-by Martinos on Feb. 2, 1852, and by Fuentes on May 28, 1856-yet on neither did the would be assassin succeed in accomplishing his task. Amadeus I. was attacked in 1872, but escaped, and so did Alfonso XII. when Moncasi and Otero tried to kill him, the former on Oct. 25, 1878, and the latter on Dec. 30, 1879.

Up to date Alfonso XIII., against whom a plot was recently formed, has been equally fortunate, and the Madrid historian is confident that his good fortune will never desert him.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

Every type of woman this town or county can boast of-be she blonde, or brunette, pretty or only passable—can be made to pay tribute to our Millinery Department, with such attractive and stylish Headgear, at such extremely Low Prices.

If we don't save you 25 per-cent on this line right here, don't buy from us, Coats, Caps and Jackets.

The newest fashions are embodied in our goods, not only in this or that feature, but in absolutely everything pertaining to the garments, and that is what makes our lower prices so popular with clever, close-buying

Leather and Gum Boots and Shoes!

Why do we do such a business in this line? Not because we are related, or have a claim on you, only that you get satisfaction, and are not humbugged and deceived. Our line is complete. If you have not tried us, this is your time. We are just as enthusiastic about our goods and prices for the coming season, as though this were our first
