How School Teachers could be Better Paid without Increasing Taxes.

Carriers as Paper Agents.

Quite a row has been raised by Mr. Bristow's order prohibiting Rural Carriers from carrying and selling papers over their routes, and powerful influences will be brought to bear to have it recalled. There are two papers are "out of the mails" when ed. delivered to the carrier, just the same as a weekly is "out" when delivered to the subscriber, and under the law neither daily nor weekly can be remailed without again paying postage; in other words, the Carrier, as the party addressed, takes the place of the subscriber addressed. On the other hand, if we are to connewspaper agent, and not as a Carrier of mail, when he sells a newspaper, then the postal laws would not apply; and it seems reasonable that this is the proper view, for a Postmaster, or Assistant, is permitted to sell papers, or merchandise, in his office, or while having custody of mails, and thus delivers and sells papers out of the mails, without the payment of additional postage. If the money is appropriated, the Commissioners will be able to erect a state building. At present there are only two states that have not made only two states that have not made preparations to put up state buildings: Maryland is one of them. Some of the states have appropriated as high as $250,000 for their buildings and exhibits. This state has already appropriated $25,000, of which sum $15,000 has been divided for exhibits as follows: Geological survey, $5000; agricultural and horticultural, $5000, and education, $5000. The rest of the appropriation is to be used in paying the expenses of the Commissioners

Preparations are being made to sup ply each member of the Legislature with a pamphlet containing pictures of other state buildings, in order to impress upon them the necessity of passing Mr. Linthicum's bill.

Favorite Royal Dishes. The German emperor is particularly fond of thrush salmi, a kind of stew made of thrushes. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland prefers roast joints, and the king of Spain likes underdone beef. Custards are the favorites of the king of Italy, while cod fried in oil finds ton is chosen by the president of the Journal, French republic. The grandfather of the king of Italy had a peculiar taste for a monarch. He preferred bread and cheese and used to carry it about with him even to the opera. King Edward has a special liking for well

MEASURING HEAT.

How Science Defermines Exact Degree of High Temperatures. Until within a comparatively recent period the man in charge of one of the very hot ovens used in many industrial operations, such, for example, as the making of pottery or the manufacture of various kinds of gas, could only judge the heat of his oven by looking at it. Nowadays, however, as a result crude oil. The last thing he gets is a of the increasing demand for heat experts, pyrometry is taught as an exact

> Even the most expert optical judgment, as was shown in a series of experiments made at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston at the time when heat measurement was over 2,500 degrees with more than approximate accuracy. Pyrometry, however, has invented instruments that can exactly measure heat that is thousands of degrees above and cold that falls hundreds of degrees below the zero

> One of the simpler instruments for determining a high temperature is the calorimeter. A ball of nickel or platinum is heated in the furnace whose temperature is to be tested and dropped into water. The water will immediately rise in temperature, and, the change having been noted by a thermometer, the amount of heat generated by the furnace itself may be readily calculated. Another interesting device is a small torpedo guaranteed to explode when exposed to a certain degree of heat, and there are various mechanisms that may be connected directly with ovens.

> Modern pyrometry deals with cold as well as heat and has yet other instruments for measuring the lowest obtainable temperatures. One of the most curious of these is the so called thermophon, an electrical measuring instrument with a telephone attachment The device is connected with a coil exposed to the temperature under question, so that a man in the central station of a refrigerating plant can hear reports from each without the necessity of making a daily inspection of all the local thermometers.

Trade Methods. Facts came recently to the attention of the London Chronicle which the editor hopes do not make quite a repre sentative comparison between English and American trade methods.

A manufacturer in Florence who makes boxes of a novel design and character, especially suitable for jewelers, submitted, post free, a sample box to a leading firm in the United Kingdom, accompanying the same with a letter. His letter, marked over with a huge cross, was returned to him with Big Genuine Reductions an indignant rebuke for his presumption and notice that the box would be returned unopened.

At about the same time this same gentleman sent a letter and sample parcel to a leading jeweler in the United States, equally unknown to him per Reduced Prices and present with States, equally unknown to him personally, and, though the American had to pay 60 per cent duty before he could Soon the horse began to improve, and after a few months Herr Martin had the opportunity to sell it for $250. The German says he has brought round by the same treatment many horses which had been overworked or were run down, with loss of strength and appetite.

> Climatic Cures. The influence of climatic conditions JOSHUA KOUTZ, JOHN S. BOWER, in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the ex haustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and

I wish boys didn't have no pas
Or mas to watch them, blame the luck!

Pa takes molasses on his cakes And sugar in his coffee, too;
You ought to hear the row he makes
When I want sweets! I never knew
The time when he let doughnuts go
Because they might be rich, you bet!
I wish the doctor 'd fix it so
He'd only get the things I et He'd only eat the things I et.

At dinner when it comes to pie
Pa says I mustn't have a bite
Because I might get sick and die
Or have the nightmare in the night,
And then he takes two pieces, 'cause
He gets the one I ought of had.
If boys would never have no pas
I guess they'd all be pretty glad.

When I grow up to be a man
I'm go'n' to be a doctor then,
Because I've thought about a plan
For boys to even up with men.
I'll fix it so their pas can't eat
A thing unless the boys can, too;
I guess that then the things that's sweet
Won't be so bad to take, don't you?

It makes my pa and ma feel bad It makes my pa and ma feel bad
To have me ast for sweets or pie;
You'd think one little doughnut had Enough bad stuff to make me die.

mands of Christ and should therefore have the more weight with His disciples. Just before His ascension He deavor. said to them, "Ye are witnesses of these things," referring to the things concerning His life and death. It was at this time that He said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Nor did these commands simply apply to His immediate hearers, but to all who in future time should become His disciples. The command "This do in remembrance of Me" was given to the disciples, yet no one would claim that it was for them alone. No more were the missionary

According to the commission of Christ every Christian should be both a home missionary and a foreign missionarythat is, an interested supporter of both home and foreign missions. He declared that "repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." The fact is, Christ made no distinction between home and foreign missions, and it is unfortunate that the church has done so. All work of discipling others is missions, whether it is done at home or abroad. Missions is the one word that should be used. The making of this distinction gives many a person a loophole of escape from contributing. When the foreign missionary offering is being taken up they are in favor of home missions, and vice versa. Missions is the one great work-the sending of the good news of salvation through the only begotten Son of God.

Instead of trying to escape our missionary duties every Christian should look upon it as a great privilege to have some part in winning the world for Christ. Nor should we forget that if there had been no missionaries we would never have known Christ. Through missionaries He came to us, and through them we should do all we can to send Him to others. Gratitude demands it as well as duty. Then, too, we should remember that Christ Himself has taught us by example te be missionaries. He left His home in heaven and came to earth "to seek and to save the lost." The disciple cannot be above his Lord. Where Jesus leads we must follow. Are we following His missionary example? If not, let us take up the work which comes to us along these lines. "The world for Christ" should be the watchword of every Christian until the kingdoms of this world shall have become a part of the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Value of a Direct Gaze.

The effect of a full, straightforward considered. And yet there is nothing in personal intercourse that carries more weight than a direct gaze. It is the medium for sympathy, the mental elegraphy that brings speaker and hearer in touch with each other. Every one has experienced the gene of talking to a person whose wondering glances betray their part of interest, but one often fails to analyze the that stimulates and inspirits one all to in the holes mentioned, each adinto the eyes of anyone who addresses of the compartment, having started hem; the habit will be of good service to them in after years. The prevailing idea that shifty eyes betoken duplicity, however, while a steadfast regard shows an honest disposition, is not a correct one. Shyness is responsible in many cases for an avert. sons like these:
First.—Because of the emphasis the movement puts upon the local church.
Second.—That it is so thoroughly a religious movement is another reason for my enthusiasm.
Third.—A third reason for my glad indorsement of this movement is the specific pledge of service it exacts.

Is not a correct one. Shyness is responsible in many cases for an averted glance, while the bold, bright eyes of many a young vagabond often serve only as an aid to deception and fraud, so that it is hardly fair to condemn a person who is unable, as the saying is, to 'look one straight in the face,' and it should be considered more of a misiortune than an evidence of untrustworthiness.

Is not a correct one. Shyness is responsible in many cases for an averted glance, while the bold, bright eyes of machines makes several tests to ascertain the fertility of the hatch in progress, and it is amazing how fertile and infertile eggs are discovered without error.

The incubator in question will take, the place of about forty smaller machines, each of which was heated by Eating Before Retiring.

Not only in the popular mind but also in the opinion of medical men there seems to be a lack of unanimity about the best condition in which to have the stomach when going to had have the stomach when going to bed. There are no end of proverbs on this subject, and much conflict between them. Possibly the majority of them are like that relative to apples, which are pronounced "gold in the morning, silver at noon, and lead at night." One which is common with the Portuguese reads: "If you would be ill, sup and then go to sleep." On the other hand, a little nap after the midday meal is generally considered beneficial, while the Italians have a saying to the effect that if a person goes to bed supperless he will tumble and toss all night.

The real truth probably is that both down on this subject, any more than ferences in people in this respect. Those who are troubled with indigestion would unquestionably suffer from eating certain things—pies and salads, for instance—at night. Those who have no trouble with their digestive apparatus could indulge in the same articles without any ill effects, unless they were to overeat. Much any other same articles without any ill effects, unless they were to overeat. Much any other same articles without any ill effects, unless they were to overeat. depends, of course, upon the manner in which one eats. A Record In Titles. The Duke of Fife holds a record. He is the only man who has ever been known to change his rank while he ate his breakfast. After the marriage ceremony had been celebrated in the private chapel of Buckingham palace, on the morning of July 27, 1889, he led his royal bride into the dining room, where the wedding breakfast was laid, as an earl. When the meal was half over the late queen, in raising her glass to the toast of the young couple, conferred a dukedom upon him, and thus as he ate he passed through two ranks of the peerage—surely the quickest promotion ever recorded.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, John Nilssen's figures 1 1-15 seconds.
On the same day he put the 75 yard the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery repregeneral debility, sour risings, and catarrh of record to 8 1-5 seconds and the 100 sents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stormach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—
"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years.
Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for haby."
