Death of George Stonesifer.

George Stonesifer, one of the best known citizens of Littlestown, Pa., died in that place, on Thursday of last week from dropsy, in his 84th. year

He was born near Crider's church, near Westminster, and resided in Littlestown for over 60 years. When he first - moved there he engaged in huckstering. Afterwards he went into partnership with the late Samuel themselves to provide the necessary Study in the dry goods business, and was in the same business for many years on his own account. For years he was the President of the Littlestown Savings Institution, and also held many of the most prominent offices in the borough.

Just before the close of the Tuesday morning session of the Methodist Protestant Conference, held this week in Baltimore, Rev. S. B. Southerland, the president of the faculty of instruction and the senior member of the conference offered a resolution disap-proving of any union of the Methodist Protestant Church with other churches by which the identity, principles, doctrine and economy of the denomination would sooner or later be destroyed. Dr. Southerland said in presenting his paper that he had prepared it some weeks before the conference assembled and before he had known of the overtures that have since been presented by the Methodist Episcopal Church looking toward the union of those two branches of Methodism. He had had in mind, he explained, the negotiations under way concerning the proposed union of the Methodist Protestant with the United Brethren and Congregational Churcheg.

Discussion on the resolution was trict conventions. made a special order of business for the afternoon session and would prob ably have occasioned a lively debate. as a large proportion of the members of the conference do not favor the proposed union of the three denominations. But discussion was averted by the adoption of the following resoution, introduced by President Lewis, of Western Maryland College:

"Since no proposition for denominational union can properly come before an annual conference until submitted as an overture from the General Conference

Resolved, That while freely according to our venerable father, Rey. Dr. Southerland, the right to express his views on this important matter, we yet deem it inadvisable to open In Hyattsville, Prince George's the question to general discussion at this time, and direct that the paper of Dr. Southerland be published in our minutes with this explanation."

Dr. Southerland was quite satisfied with this disposition of the question. He had presented the paper fully understanding, he said, that such a prop-osition could come to the conference only after it had been acted upon by the General Conference, but that as he could hardly hope to be with the the system inaugurated by next Octoconference at another annual session he had merely wished to record his views as a "Methodist Protestant up ber. good streets, is well lighted, and with a sewerage system will be thoroughly and down, in and out and through and through." up-to-date as a place of residence.

One-fourth of all the people in the United States drink alcoholic bever-ages. The amount of moncy spent in this way during 1903 was $1,451,633,-379, or an average expenditure for each drinker of $62.16. All this is, according to "The American Grocer's" annual estimate of the nation's drink bill based upon effect of the training of annual estimate of the nation's drink bill, based upon official United States reports and carefully compiled statis-World. tics, and not annoanced in the interests of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, or intended for anything but cold, actual information, for the nation to face and ponder uptown, Md

These statistics show, also, that every man in the United States who drinks at all drinks twice as much as his forefathers did-or as he himself did if he was drinking twenty-three years ago. For in 1880 the consump-tion of alcoholic drinks per capita was 10.50 gallons. To day it is 19.98 gallons. All of which goes to prove that prosperity leads to an increased use of stimulants; that as the American people grow bigger and richer they drink harder, or else as they drink harder they grow richer.
