The project to widen Baltimore street was effectively and finally killed by the Baltimore City Council, on Wednesday night. At this distance, this looks like a wise conclusion, as the city will have ample street space under the plans already approved.
Many who favored widening likely

Fellow citizens, you who battle f did so with the idea that unless this was done, some of the adjoining streets would be equally as valuable for business as Baltimore street.

The warrant under which John Bunyan was apprehended and placed in jail at Bedford for six months during the reign of Charles II, was sold at aucticn in London on Saturday, for $1,525. The warrant, which is signed by 13 justices of the peace, 6 baronets and 7 esquires, charged the tinker with contempt of law by preaching and teaching otherwise than "according to the liturgie or practice of the Church of England."

The authorities at Washington have fixed a penalty of $200 on any one taking mail out of a postoffice other than their own. All postmasters are liable to make mistakes and get mail in the wrong boxes, and the law says that people must examine their mail before leaving the of fice, and if they have mail not their own it must be returned at once. Advertising space, either with or without cuts, must be applied for before June 1st. As it is very desirable, not only that a satisfactory historical sketch of the town be given, but that it's business enterprises be properly represented, it follows that our business men should heartly co-operate to this end.

In addition to the above, we expect to inaugurate certain improvements in the RECORD, at this time, of which we do not desire to speak now. It is sufficient to say that our part of the work will be executed in a first-class manner, and that it will be our aim to earn commendation for an issue which will be far ahead of anything ever attempted in Carroll County.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, It has pleased God, in His Allwise Providence, to remove by death our Brother, Clayton Harner, from his family and from our Brotherhood, and WHEREAS, by his death we are again reminded of the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, and we can not tell who of our number will be the next victim to fall by the way; Therefore be it Resolved, That while we mourn the loss of our Brother, and extend to the widow our heartfelt sympathy, we at the same time bow in humble submission to the will of Divine Providence, and, commend the widow and children of the deceased to Him who hath said, I will be a husband to the widow, and a father to the fatherless. And be it further Resolved, That the Charter of the Lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days, and, that these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Lodge; published in the Carroll Record and, a copy be sent to the widow of the deceased.

Topic.—Answered prayers.—Acts iv, 23-The habit of prayer has been as worldwide as the human race. Men everywhere have prayed to something, They talk of knitting needles, of spinning have felt that there was some power of how the oldtime methods gave the cloth outside of themselves able to harm or to help them, and to these powers they have directed their supplications and prayers. And prayer has been universal because men everywhere have believed in answered prayers. Who would pray without faith in the ability to receive the thing prayed for? The doubting soul may pour out its petition in fear and trembling and yet with hope and in that hope a spark of faith perhaps at least the size of a grain of mustard seed. But, alas, many have cried to those who were not able to hear or to answer. They have prayed, but no answers have been received. But with the child of God it is different. Our God is a prayer hearing and a prayer answering God. We may firmly believe that God answers prayer for several reasons. 1. God has commanded us to pray, "Ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you." "Ask," "seek," "knock"—these are the commands. But how absurd these commands if there are no answered prayers! 2. God promises to answer prayer, and all His promises are "yea and amen in Christ Jesus." He not only commands us to ask, seek, knock, but promises that we shall receive, find and have it opened unto us. If we believe God we must believe in answered prayers. 3. Godly men have testified to answered prayers. The psalmist says,

"I cried unto the Lord, and He heard me out of His holy hill," and again, "I love the Lord because He hath heard my voice and my supplications." A tion. All prayers are not answered. Prayers that prevail must be offered in faith, in persistency, in submission to the will of God and in the name of Jesus Christ. 3. The will of God. God

A Cure for Headache.

Very terrible in its sinister signifiance is the custom of putting coins under the foundation stone of a building about to be erected, for these pleces of gold and silver and bronze pleces of gold and silver and bronze are the latter day equivalents of the human beings that would once have been immolated there and there immured. They constitute the ransom for blood that by rights should be shed, but is not. This latter terrible use was at one time wellnigh universal, and traces of it survive almost. al, and traces of it survive almost everywhere. In many parts of Europe for instance, when the hole is dug to receive this same foundation stone, the masons will entice to the spot some stranger. Then while one engages him in conversation another will creep behind and measure his shadow, the measure stick being afterward buried and mortar stamped down on top of it. Or they prepare a tiny coffin, inside which is a doll, for use in the same way, or rude images of babies in swaddling clothes are similarly immured.

And in not a few out of the way parts of the world, whose inhabitants stand psychically about where we did twenty centuries ago, the original custom still prevails in all its primitive hideousness. Only last year, at Mosdok, in the Caucasus, three builders were arrested for kidnapping and murdering a lad, whose body they afterward built into the foundations of a tower they were erecting. Thoughts For a Young Man.

When a young man reaches the age of twenty-one he is free as never before to go out into the world and act his part. Much depends on beginning Any man, woman or child suffering from headache, biliousness or a dull, drowsy feeling should take one or two of DeWitt's Little Early Risers picks.

The young man should adopt as his guide the words of the Great Teacher, and he will be sure of success. He needs to have his heart changed by a power aboye himself.
"Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God," is a and Africa, the Sahara desert, India, radical truth. "As a man thinketh in China and Australia and then to Amerhis heart, so he is." We should voluntarily put ourselves under good influences to strengthen and help us.

Character should be prized above everything else. This is the real wealth of the man. Success does not consist in what we are. Money is not to be made the chief aim in life; as a means it is not to be despised, and has its proper use. A selfish life is always a failure. Success in the true sense is within reach of all. A rich man was once asked by what motive he had been prompted in accumulating his wealth. "Power," he said, "power," and then clenched his hands and contracting his muscles to their highverything else. This is the real wealth contracting his muscles to their highest tension, added, "I wanted power, and I got it." "Yes," said his friends, "you have power over any quantity of water or steam, and over any number of wheels. Decline of Card-playing.

The passing of card-playing is predicted by the people who are watching social tendencies in this country. Pastimes invented in the dark ages as a substitute for talk and beneficent action are doomed, they say, in the course of evolution gradually to disappear. A Connecticut judge has just started a campaign against the giving of prizes at whist parties, on the ground that the practice is contrary to an old law; but the matter, like that of drinking, is in reality kely to settle itself gradually through e upgrowth of a new type of public There is an increasing disnclination on the part of people of well-ordered lives to waste much time or energy in petty gambling or
