VOL. 10., NO. 46.
OUR ANNIVERSARY ISSUE.
The Success of the Project now fully Assured Beyond Doubt.

We now have about fifty cuts gathered for our anniversary issue, and for the most part of which the photographs have been taken and the printing has been completed. These representations must come forward within a few days, otherwise the project will be abandoned. The cost of the cuts will cost $15.00, but will run up to $17.50 or $20.00—this includes the whole cost. The photographs will be taken by the photographer, while the cuts will remain the property of the RECORDED, the probability being that they will be used, later on, in a complete history of Taneytown, in a book form.

The rapidity with which the trees have taken on a new life, and the somewhat with securing clear views of buildings, but we hope not to the extent that the value of the picture will be reduced. Many of our owners already have good photographs, which they do not object to having sent away for the purpose of having a cut made, the cost will be about 50c less.

On the whole, while there are yet some cuts needed, the project should be represented in this pictorial history of Taneytown, we are assured of a very creditable exhibition: still we trust that our owners will step forward and give their orders. No further solicitation along this line will be made; this is the third, and last issue, and those who want to get one, but do not, will have only themselves to blame.

The cuts will be nearly uniform in size as possible, about 2 1/2 x 3 inches, sufficiently large to fairly represent the average building. The photographs will be returned to our photographer Zepp at very reasonable prices. It has been heretofore stated, every church, every school, every building will be represented, for which no charge will be made, and most of the business houses and best dwellings will appear, a full list of which will be given next week.

The reading matter in connection with the cuts will be a list of names of Taneytown, of each religious denomination, and of the CARROLL county, together with as much of a "write up" as the members of the committee can be made to give. This will be supplied by themselves. This special number is expected to be printed with an entirely new design, type, the order for which was placed this week, and the number of the issue will likely be made, and we shall make no special effort for increased advertising, but no doubt our friends will see the desirability of taking increased space.

Taneytown District to be Divided.
At a meeting of the Board of Election Supervisors for this county, on Monday, it was decided to divide Taneytown district into two precincts, and for this purpose, the Board will visit the district probably next week. The division line will be between the two existing voting places which will be Taneytown and the new precincts.

Taken Too Seriously.
Several weeks ago the RECORDED, in an editorial, advanced the opinion that certain enemies in connection with the Russo-Japanese war gave evidence of direct Provincial interference in the making of the case, an opinion which had many supporters. The Editor factiously of the journal—dissented, in his characteristic style, and asked if which Providence is giving a list of imaginary Ditties, not only in the recollection, to which we as factiously replied—following the Carroll's good place for Missionary work. The Editor admitted his sentiment by asking the question: "In his recollection, who are the Cassell advances the wrong conclusion that we have seriously charged him with the same?" In his recollection, who are the Cassell advances the wrong conclusion that we have seriously charged him with the same? It would be wholly ridiculous to publish a formal apology, as the RECORDED is not in the business of investigating or measuring the religious proclivities of anybody, and certainly would not be guilty of making any such charge as that which appears in the editorial. We rather followed the Scriptural injunction which calls for a reply to every statement; moreover, if our contentions were remembered back a few years, he will likely be frank enough to admit that we "judged him on an old account."

Wedged Clabough Buys a Home.
Chief Justice Harry M. Clabough, of the District Supreme Court at Washington, has purchased for $20,000 the handsome residence of Harry W. Fuller, the morning session Tuesday, and the building is located on the south side of Nutwood Place, Washington Heights, and is one of the finest of the northwestern residence section. The house was built by Mr. Fuller a few years ago for his home, where he has since lived. It is a fine example of space on the east side, thus allowing an abundance of air and light. A porte cochere with an ornate entrance on that side, which supplements the one at the front of the house. The arrangement is that of an English basement house. The first floor for an entrance and staircase hall, a reception room, and in the rear the kitchen. As the house was built by Mr. Fuller, the general use, the construction is substantial, and the various details which add to the convenience of a home are found there.

ANOTHER ITEM which fits our way of thinking. One day last week the Russians got tangled up in a retreat, a large body of them mistaking a smaller body for Japs, the result being 189 dead and wounded Russians.

ACCORDING to the Sun, unless Baltimore receives a rain every day during this summer, the city will first be depopulated—the citizens will become dust blind, and then succumb to tuberculosis. Because of dust, the Sun says, "Dust thou art and to dust thou shalt return," but the materialization of the final dusty condition is evidently an event to be postponed, through the official banishment of wind and the plastering fast of the dust to the streets, a la Sprinkler-wagons.

IN FRANKLIN County, the public local laws are published in many, if not all, of the papers of the county, irrespective of political proclivities, while in Carroll but one paper gets the job. We should like to hear the explanation of this. Does the state pay to Frederick more for the class of work than to other counties, or is the amount allotted to the county divided among all the papers? We are sure that an explanation of the methods of distributing the public printing would be interesting to many tax-payers in both parties.

Republican Factionalism.

A distinguishing characteristic of the Republican party is its predisposition toward factionalism. It may be asked—why should factionalism exist in the Republican party to a greater degree than in the Democratic party? The answer is, the Republicans have had control of the National patronage for thirty-six out of an hundred years, and it is largely the scramble for this patronage which breeds factional quarrels. In Maryland, the assumed security of this control has led individuals to conspire toward their own indefinite continuance in office, regardless of the claims of others, and even to the extent of making republican state officers succeed a republican consideration. With the Democrats, their state domination has been much better managed; besides, control of the state has given them a large number of offices with which to reward the faithful and to keep the obstreperous in something like harmonious fighting order.

It is not so in every case, but, generally speaking, at the bottom of every faction will be found, either a fellow with a job, or one looking for a job—the odds against the ins—the probability being that there is also connected with the effort to stay in, more or less of dictatorship, or "bossism," which has led to the construction of a line of harmonizing factions having congenial aims—a trust having the disposal of public offices—leaving the rank and file of the party, as well as new leaders, out of the count.

It goes without saying, that, this system once begun, its branches extend far and wide, and even to the minor district primary, and scarcely any political event, however unimportant it may seem to the average voter, is considered too unimportant for "carrying" by the head factionalist, who, of course, poses as the representative of the "administration." The "administration," he is fully understood, means the office-holders; therefore, those who make a contest for an appointive office, are "anti-administration."

Federal appointments, and congressional nominations, have represented the chief inspiration and object of the organization, and some of the brethren have nursed their opportunities so assiduously as to leave the impression on the multitude that they are sole heirs to everything that comes to the state from Washington and that those who would steal away their birth-right will furnish an aggravated case of Esau and Jacob.

This sort of right of way, however, becomes very offensive, in course of time, to the voters, who say ugly words, and raise trouble—factional trouble. Peace and harmony does not prevail. There is a more or less pronounced sentiment for fair play in getting at the jobs labeled U. S. Government; the voters say it is about time for them to learn a lesson in trade or go to work, and stop their living off their political equals; if not better, a show of genuine party enthusiasm, naturally resent the charge of being traitors to the "organization" simply because they become nauseated with the manipulation of primaries, conventions and party tickets by a class having stood before the party's Savings Clause, almost from time immemorial, for the gifts.

There are names so familiar to Republicans—even in Carroll County—in connection with every political event, and with every office of value, that the proverb, "Familiarity breeds contempt" finds ready acquiescence. This being true, the reasons for lack of harmony and multiplication of factions are not difficult to discover. Very few people are either good enough, or strong enough, to "serve their country" for a life-time, especially when their own activity, not for their party or country, but for the "organization"—which means themselves, and the people know it.

thrilllessness. And yet, there is possibly no aim so woefully abused, nor so mischievously pursued; indeed, it too frequently becomes the sole object in life, all other considerations being held subordinate, even those which stand for Christianity, manhood and good citizenship.

It does not pay. If the gain, and holding fast to it, money, made better men, more highly respected men, more useful and broader minded men, the answer would be different; but such is not the case. The man who aims to accumulate wealth, as a sort of mania, will take advantage of his neighbor, skip his family, be stingy toward his church, withhold help from the needy, oppose laudable improvements, and, in a measure at least, become a man unworthy of trust—an object of suspicion.

We do not speak of those commonly known as "skin-flint" or "modern Skylocks" for they are too well known and contemptible to deserve even criticism. We rather call attention to the professedly Christian, and honorable gentleman, sort. To those who want the front seats in church, the highest positions in society, leadership in matters of citizenship, and in general want to pose under false colors without being willing to pay their just share toward the conditions which they see around them, and covet.

There is such a thing as economical liberality—a liberality within one's means—on the "live and let live" plan. This is the mean between two extremes, and the proper plan through which one is justified in laying up this world's goods. It is an inclination toward liberality without letting go of the brakes.

But, after all, one cannot sermonize effectively in this section; the specimen of humanity who has his prototype, to a greater or less degree, in the animal kingdom, is largely set in his ways and nothing short of an earthquake of popular indignation, or some other remarkably searching cure, can reach the secret spring which transforms one's nature. All we can hope for—all we can endeavor to bring about—is, that all who are too penurious to be entitled to the full measure of public respect, be recognized as such.

Exposition Building.

The Maryland building at the St. Louis Exposition which will not be finished for several weeks, will be dedicated during the first week in June, the services on which occasion, it is said, will be very elaborate. The event will be participated in by "two carloads of invited guests, as well as by a number of native Marylanders who reside in St. Louis." Note the first good reason for a Maryland building, rather than for a full display of the resources and products of the state.

After the building is finished and dedicated, it will be in charge of two gentlemen—Messrs Jones and Norris—and the rooms "will be devoted to the reception of Marylanders, for the establishment of an information bureau and for a general meeting place." The visitors from Maryland to the Exposition, therefore, will have in luck. It's a great thing, when one is in a strange city, to have a home and weary kind and far-seeing legislature has provided for ones comfort. Note good reason the second.

Marylanders will be so proud of their $18,000 building—even if it does seem common for its cost—that they will soon cease wondering where the other $29,500 of the appropriation went, which has not as yet been definitely located, though the Commission has positively informed us that there would not be enough left to make a horticultural exhibit. Any way, Marylanders are going to be proud of their state building, and to know that they "kept up with" some of the other states, and this is sufficient for a third good reason.

This may sound sarcastic, perhaps, but isn't it much like ridiculous folly, after all, to "blow in" $65,000 on a far away show, for the benefit of the state and continue to even make a start at building good public roads? That we can give away many thousands each year, to pet institutions of various kinds, and run up legislative expenses without stint, yet not be able to reduce the tax rate, but on the other hand be compelled to increase it?

We predict that the Exposition business will be given a long rest in the very near future. Without belittling them as an educational exhibition, they are nevertheless block-making schemes of heroic proportions, against the tax-payers as a whole, and, as such, are being more and more positively recognized. Let our people call a halt and demand that, for a time at least, missionary work be conducted in Jerusalem.

Some of the Philadelphia newspapers are very properly proclaiming against a plan to send to St. Louis the historic Liberty Bell, at a cost of but $15,000, to the tax payers of the city. The Bulletin scores a good one when it says "If St. Louis is so anxious to have the bell as a show piece in the Pennsylvania building, that city ought to foot the bills for sending it. But waiving that consideration and taking the ground that Philadelphia would be wanting in generosity if she were to exact such a condition, why should she be made to pay for a great travelling blow-out on the part of Congressmen, the Mayor and his official family and a coterie of their political friends?"

says can easily be accomplished by May 15th. Every day tremendous progress is made in the landscape gardening, the final installation of the statues and the perfection of detail which, to the ordinary observer, does not even appear lacking.

But there remains to be told a less pleasant story of the big show. The exhibits, of course, are the feature of the fair. Twelve hundred carloads of exhibits are expected to be shown at the St. Louis Fair, as against 600 carloads at the Columbian Exposition. In its final showing, the St. Louis enterprise must, therefore, still maintain its long, proud lead. But the Exposition is in this essentially featuring the beautiful million-dollar structure of stone and brick, which crowns the hill behind the Cascades and Colonnades and completes the main picture of the Exposition, are the exhibits anything like complete. Here Belgium, France and England have installed their elaborate exhibits, and the Exposition visitor may spend many profitable hours in the chambers allotted to these nations alone without venturing into the bare halls assigned to other nations and the art centres of America, wherein he would find, to his chagrin, nothing more interesting than countless boxes and bales filled with precious treasures that may not see the light of day for several weeks.

In the Education Building the work of installing exhibits is proceeding with more dispatch than in the other general exhibit palaces, but here also the showing is far from complete, and the booths will not all be constructed for 10 days. Colorado, Connecticut, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, New York, Texas, Tennessee, Virginia and New Jersey have completed their exhibits in this great structure; but Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and other great States have hardly begun the installation of their collections, and in some cases—namely that of Texas—the contracts for construction of booths have but recently been let.

Sweden's exhibits probably will not be surpassed in points of variety and general interest. Every kind of work of Swedish boys and girls, from that of sewing schools and manual training schools to art schools and kindergartens, is displayed in neat and attractive form.

In the Varied Industries Building the work of installing exhibits may be said to be but fairly commenced, and a large army of men and women are at work in this great palace, and as the exhibits for this building are said to be coming in more rapidly than for any other it is believed it will be practically ready for critical study by May 31.

The Agriculture and Horticulture Buildings are about one-third filled. The former of these, being the largest department ever erected, probably will be the last to be filled. The vast stretches of space within its massive walls seem adequate to house the entire wheat crop of the world.

Several miles of engines are on exhibit in the Transportation Building, admirably arranged in such order as to demonstrate the progress made in the art of railroading from the time of the first locomotive to the present time; and still the great building has an empty space, and the most casual survey discloses indisputable evidence that the exhibit of transportation will not be complete for a month or more.

The Machinery, Electricity, Manufactures and Liberal Arts buildings are in no better shape, while the Mines and Metallurgy Building will not be filled by the middle of May.

The United States Government has done better than the States and foreign countries in preparing its exhibits, and in a couple of weeks more will have perfected its display. The Philippine exhibit, one of the unique and drawing cards of the Exposition, is almost ready. Several thousand native Filipinos of various tribes may here be found living in self-made huts on a reservation surrounded by a stockade built by the natives of totem poles.

The Alaskan Building, in which are to be exhibited minerals, peoples, novelties and curious handicrafts of Uncle Sam's great Arctic territory, is not so nearly complete, but the curious people of the land of snow and ice are here, and a number of them guard day and night the great boxes filled with the gold ore of the Klondike region and other precious exhibits of the territory just being installed.

It will be seen that the World's Fair, while offering many attractions to all who come during the early months, is yet an incomplete and unperfected enterprise.—J. A. G. in Balt. News.

J. McKelip, Druggist, does not hesitate to recommend Kodal Dyspepsia Cure to his friends and customers. Indigestion causes more ill health than anything else. It deranges the stomach, and brings on all the diseases of Kodal Dyspepsia. Cure digests what you eat, cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Kodal is not only a perfect digestant but a tissue building tonic. Renewed health, perfect strength and increased vitality follow its use.

World's Fair Notes. The Iceland exhibit undoubtedly will be among the most popular during the summer months.

The proposed beauty show of Kansas girls at the World's Fair has been denounced. They must have been afraid that some Cincinnati girl would get in and throw them all in the shade.

Society girls are warned not to carry their poolies to the World's Fair with them—the Igorrotes might eat them.

Those dog-eating Igorrotes at the St. Louis Fair might with some advantage make a tour of the country making one-night stands, without expense for board.

EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATORS!
Over 1400 sold in my territory alone!
Shall We Bring You One?
If you are keeping Cows for a profit, you can't afford to be without one of these Empire Cream Separators and a Silo.

Fairbanks Morse Gasoline Engine
3 H. P. to 150 H. P. The two greatest powers on earth—Uncle Sam and Fairbanks Morse Gasoline Engines. Who do they do their work? They run the above Cream Separator to perfection, saw wood, run chisels, shell corn, run folder-cutters, grinders, shearing machinery, blower fans, lathes, grinders, pipes, cutters, horse clips, and a hundred other things.

WATER POWER!
The Alaskan Building, in which are to be exhibited minerals, peoples, novelties and curious handicrafts of Uncle Sam's great Arctic territory, is not so nearly complete, but the curious people of the land of snow and ice are here, and a number of them guard day and night the great boxes filled with the gold ore of the Klondike region and other precious exhibits of the territory just being installed.
