THE EXPOSITION TRIP.

The Various Items of Expense Reviewed, with General Information.

As many of the readers of the REC ORD are no doubt contemplating a visit to the World's Fair, the question of cost is naturally an important matter for advance consideration and in order to help toward an intelligent conclusion, this article is written. After the time and route have been selected, we would advise a very care ful reading of the pamphlets issued by the Company, and it would also be wise to secure in advance a map of St. Louis, as well as a map and guide of the Exposition itself. Those especially who are not accustomed to travelling long distances, and to such events, should post themselves in advance as fully as possible, as they will thereby not only save money but much unnecessary worry and fatigue after their arrival. All Eastern Railroad Companies reaching St. Louis, have practically may attach to the route, and the con- sults will be disastrous. venience of starting point. There are four plans for the transportation end of the trip, yiz; Season tickets, good going one way and return another, the return to be made at any time until Dec. 15, the cost of which has been fixed at 80 per cent of double the one way fare, or about $33.00 for this section.

Sixty day tickets, also good over variable routes if desired, return to be made not later than Dec. 15, the cost of which has been fixed at one and one-third of regular fare, or about $28 00 for this section.

Fifteen-day tickets, good only over one route, the cost of which has been fixed at regular one way fare, plus $2.00, or about $23 for this section. Ten-day excursion tickets, sold only on certain announced dates, good going only on special day coach trains and on regular trains returning, but not good in dining cars, the cost of which has been fixed at about $17,00

It is probable that but very few will purchase season tickets, especially as they do not seem to possess any special advantage, other than length of time over the 60 day tickets, therefore we will leave them out of consideration. The 60 day tickets, for those who will want to travel in good style, have the privilege of going one way and return another, as well as the advantage of ample time to visit western relatives or friends and are very

Fifteen-day tickets necessarily limit ones time for side trips from St. Louis as well as the choice of return via another route, but in other was remarked by Justice Michael Glennan, of Freedom district, Carroll county, to the House of County, to other route, but in other respects are as desirable as either of the first mentioned. By paving the extra charge Judge Thomas on a writ of habeas for sleeper (about $4 each way) one may have full advantage of comfortable travel, including dining car ser vice (meals $1 each) and not be limited to going on certain fixed days.

The ten day plan, while cheap, has its disadvantages. For those in good health and strength, a ride of a thousand miles in a day coach requiring 25 to 30 hours time, can easily be accomplished without serious results, those who have not an abundance of yitality. At best, one is likely to arrive at St. Louis tired and not in condition to immediately enter upon the strenuous days of sight seeing at the Fair, without considering how the Roberta Roelkey, Andrew McKinney. Aledeander March, Czerny. "inner man" will feel. Three stops will be made for meals, and the run Polka, will cover from 25 to 30 hours. Those who desire to make the trip study, in good shape, should take the fif Chant of the Sol teen-day plan-providing the time is or even stops for meals. The cost at St. Louis must necessarily depend upon the tastes and inclinations of each person. Hotel rates are from 50c to $3.00 per day European plan (room only) and from $2.00 to $4.00 a day on the American plan (room and meals.) Of course, these are the popular rates, not including the exclusive and fashionable Hotels. The average person, we be Christian Endeavor Hotel advertised in the RECORD, the rates at which are $1.00 a day European, and $2.00 a day American plan. The cost, therefore, can easily be figured, according to the

Much of the real enjoyment to be derived from great expositions rests in the amount of money one has to spend, and the opportunities are innumerable. The "Pike"-the equivalent of the Chicago "Midway"—will call for a good many quarters and halves; admission to the grounds is 50c a day; street car fare is another item; souvenirs another, and "tips" and service of various kinds will be required to make the trip pleasant. Figuring on a six days stay, and the transportation allowance given above, the following ought to represent the total cost of the entire trip, done in good style and comfort, for one person; Transportation, round trip $39.00

Hotel, six days Incidentals and souvenirs 13.50

The cost for man and wife is likely to be more than double the above, even should both occupy one sleeper berth, as there is apt to be more "souvenirs and incidentals." It will be safest to count on $150 for two, as it is especially desirable not to travel on a cheap plan when one has a member of the weaker sex to care for, and when economy may stand for a physical break down and consequent curtailment of enjoyment and sight-see-higher than the actual cost will be to many, is nevertheless modest. Those who can stand the practical "roughing it" of the ten-day plan, and are economical in every way, will no doubt slip through with a total expenditure of $40, or even less, but it will not pay anybody to travel on such a plan unless it is absolutely necessary. If one wants to see the sights, and enjoy himself fully, he must pay the price; and the item of must be taken account of, no matter how strongly we may object to the system, if we desire to save

The Raymond & Whitcomb personally conducted ten day trips are advertised at from $107 to $117, from Philadelphia. They include expensive Hotel accommodations, relief from all worry incident to the transportation of self or baggage, as well as more meals en route than the desire of the case of five cents per line. The tax-rate in Virginia is much higher than in Carroll county, but they have county roads better than some of our turnpikes, and their pikes are as level as a floor, built of rocks hammered and by much travel transformed into an ideal road. There is a head tax of $1.50 for each

I talked with quite a number who did not pay their oli-tax, who said, "I do not care if I can't vote: it will make no difference if my vote is not cast.' Of the hospitality of the people of "Valley of Virginia," I cannot speak too much. They can't do

An Old-fashioned Contest. The Illinois republican state convention was one of the good old-fashioned kind, in which balloting continued for days before a candidate was selected for Goyernor. While such occasions are very tumultuous affairs, and lead to considerable personal "scrapping," they are still less dangerous than "packed" conventions in which the voice of the majority is scarcely heard, and where the iron rule of the organization passes for harmony, but which in reality is like will be necessary for the accommodathe harmany brought about by the use of a club. The people can be pretty safely trusted to settle their differences. A fair open contest leaves sores for a time, but ultimately the knowledge of an open field and fair fight brings submission to the will of the majority and earnest support to the victor. One of the most beneficient laws enacted by the last Legislature is that committing dependent insane patients to the care of the State. The fact that a man was born and raised where brick houses and pavements predominate is no more proof of intelligence than is ignorance established by birth on a farm.

As an unknown writer puts it: "The farmer of the stage and of the humorous press is about as near like the real farmer as the caricature of Uncle Sam is like the real Americans. The man why buys the gold brick is not the ungrammatical scare-crow in cowbide boots and ragged hat, 'with a little bunch of whiskers on his chin,' but the man who thinks the modern farmer looks like that."

The truth is the American farmer is up to date, and in most sections enjoys most of the conveniences of the city, and these, too, coupled with advantage that city folk do not have. Electric light and gas companies are extending their lines to the rural districts, the electric cars go by the farmhouse door, the telephone is All these conveniences are costly in what constitutes a false and what a true Christian ambition, 1. In the kingdom of Christ the ambition to have rank or power superior to the other members of the kingdom is a false ambition. Christ teaches us bition to have rank or power superior is a false ambition. Christ teaches us this very clearly in this incident. Such was the ambition of James and John, and Christ rebuked it. Moreover, He declared that His kingdom was unlike worldly kingdoms in this particular. "Ye know," he said, "that the rulers of the gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Not so shall it be among you." Displace in the kingdom of God, for in it all are brethren, and one is the Lord of all, even Christ Himself. Certain Christian denominations have ignored this teaching of Christ and have set up ecclesiastical distinctions as to rank and power, but it is no less true that the one. Therefore, "in honor preferring one another," let us guard against false desires for place and power in the church of Christ.

2. In the kingdom of Christ the ambition to be of the greatest service is the rally of junior endeavorers which took true ambition. "Whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister, and whosoever would be first which Dr. Clark acknowledged to be now, like a good boy. Don't make among you shall be your servant, even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many." "Christian greatness is greatness of service." It is therefore a closed door to none, for all can serve. BIBLE READINGS.

Twelve years have elapsed since Dr. Clark last visited Sydney. During tinctions of rank, of power, are out of the interval the movement has grown from fifty-three societies with 1,650 members to 412 societies with 14,624 members, a very respectable increase for a single State. That the movement has taken great hold of the juniors in this part of the world is evident from the magnificent place at the Sydney town hall to greet the founder of the movement and the largest of its kind he had ever seen. It was a wonderful spectacle, that junior rally, with the thousands of fresh young faces gazing lovingly at the founder of their movement, the girls dressed in white adorned with sashes in orange, purple and blue while the boys, at any rate a goodly number of them, wore helmets and swords and shields symbolical of the | ry?" virtues which they were endeavor-ing to practice in their daily lives. the wall, while the British, the Australian and the American flags were wayed together, and the children all the many who ad- sung out their welcoming song in joydressed the Denver international con- ous tones. The Gapes in Chickens.

Of all the trials that poultry raisers have to contend with the gapeworm is the most exasperating. After contending with all the little details necessary for successful incubation, and then, when the chicks are a few weeks old, thrifty and sprightly, to hound. have them die off by the dozen with gapes, is, indeed, a serious disappoint-

There are some people who claim that with one or two hairs from the mane or tail of a horse doubled and twisted, forming a loop at the end and passed down the windpipe of the affected chick, they can by a "simple Shylock was the man who twist" draw up all the gapeworms. One of the most successful methods for getting the gapeworms from the windpipe is the old-fashioned feather way. Take a stiff wing feather—one of the outer flight feathers—strip the quill off all the feather part except a little at the end. How much of the feather to leave on the end of the quill should depend on the size of the chick to be operated on, for it should always be borne in mind that the windpipe of young chicks is small and the membrane exceedingly tender. Dip the end of the quill in coal oil, twisting it around so to make as small as possible on the end. Hold the chick with its legs between your knees, facing away from you. With one hand straighten up the neck and open the mouth. In looking down the throat it will be noticed when the chick breathes the windpipe opens, and then the feather should be carefully inserted. Push well down and then with a twisting motion remove it. The gapeworm or worms, if the operation has been successfully performed, will be found adhering to the feather. Often the chick will cough common roads of the country has or sneeze up others. It is a good plan spread and the eagerness with which to give after the operation some scalded meal, in which a little turpentine has been mixed, to give the mess an introduction of the Brownlow bill in odor. Electric Bitters tried to make their readers believe that the Eskimo dogs are liable to become dangerous fellows, even to a powerfully built man, when simply hungry and to be worse than wild beasts when ravenous. Any onslaught of Eskimo dogs is unknown among the natives where I traveled.

"It was pitiable in the extreme to see their sufferings as they devotedly helped us along, many of them up to the very minute they had to be taken from the harness and abandoned along the road. As they dropped out along the way we harnessed ourselves in their places to the sledge traces, and it was thus we were not compelled to leave certain parts of our load."

The best time to build a snow statue or an elaborate snow man, says Country Life In America, is just before the formation of a crust on the snow-that is, during a thaw and just before a cold snap. The thaw is sure to occur at the right time, but to be "real smart" one should consult the weather map for the cold snap. A subject should be chosen and thoroughly committed to memory in advance, since the actual work of modeling must generally be begun and finished between 2 or 3 o'clock and dark, and there is no time for "courting one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indiges tion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of ind gestion. All food taken into the stomac which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Who Was to Blame?

A fault which seems trifling in ourselves may wear a very different complexion when we discover it in another. To illustrate this truth, there is a story, in the Young People's Weekly, of a baker living in a village near Quebec, who bought the butter he used from a neighboring farmer:-One day he became suspicious that the butter was not of the right weight and, therefore, decided to satisfy himself as to whether the farmer was honest or not. For several days he weighed the butter which the farmer brought and found that the rolls were gradually diminishing in weight. This angered him so that he had the farmer arrested on a charge of fraud-

New Hampshire, the old home state, and Delaware are the states referred to. In New Hampshire a fund for participation is being raised pri vately by patriotic citizens, so that in the event of legislative inaction this commonwealth may be represented. The states and territories are expending over $7,000,000 in their efforts to show off to best advantage at the Exposition. This is a million and a third more than was expended at the Chicago exposition by the states. In addition to this, large cities in many states will have municipal exhibits, the funds for which are not included in these figures. The municipal exhibit idea is entirely novel. From a number that cannot be taught from books and of the states there will be prominent county exhibits provided by special appropriation of county funds. This City of the States presents a picture of surpassing beauty. Nature has done much to aid in the creation of the picture. Never before has any exposition been able to grant such advantageous sites for state buildings The buildings are situated on a plateau about seventy-five feet higher than the level ground to the north upon which stand the main exhibit palaces. There are hills and ravines here and there, enabling the landscapists to lay out a most delightful pattern of roads and
