It looks like taking a great risk for parents to permit their small sons to go out rabbit hunting with guns. It is not uncommon to see three or four boys going off together with guns on their shoulder. So long as they don't shoot themselves perhaps it's all right. The damage they do to the game is hardly worth mentioning, although they do frighten a rabbit awfully bad sometimes by banging at the poor thing.

from the glow of that meeting without a rededication of his life to his holy calling. The dominant theme in all the sessions was, better teachers, better superintendents, better work.

A second thing specially emphasized was, that the work of the Maryland Sunday School Union is not to antagonize, or in any way interfere with, denominaor in any way interfere with, denominational work, but rather to make it more efficient; to enable each one, through the help offered by the Union, to do more successful work in his own particular church. Winter Feeding of Steers.

There are many advantages to be derived from winter feeding of steers, among them being the matter of keeping the help at work during the winter, the saving of manure and the conversion of unsalable materials into marketable beef. Unfortunately for some farmers, the practice of fattening steers is to do so with only such material as cannot otherwise be utilized, but unless the farmers determine to use the best food for the purpose they will not always succeed in deriving a profit. There is no better article for fattening steers than corn, and it will pay to grow such crop for that purpose in preference to feeding it to hogs, as the fodder and stalks may be better utilized. To feed the fodder and stalks may be stalks, however, by throwing if over the fence into the barnyard, to be trampled, is a wasteful practice, and is extravagant, as the farmers derive better results by properly preparing such materials. Every pound of the blades and stalks should be cut into short length, through a cutter that not only cuts them, but also stalks should be passed through a shredder. By thus economizing there is a conversion of waste matter into food, as the difference between whole fodder and that which is cut or shredded is not so much in the amount eaten, but which can be digested, assimilated and con-verted into flesh. Nor should the farmer depend upon such food because it is prepared. He should aim to increase tht of steers as much as possible, and ould feed the materials that will give him the best result in the shortest time, and in feeding the coarse materials it should be done in connection with that which is more concentrated, such as grain and linseed meal, the difference in

The B. & O. R. R. Co. has secured site on the northwest corner of Baltiand Charles Streets for a new office building. This gives the Company a frontage of 167 feet 10 inches on Balti-more street and 155 feet on Charles street. The whole tract embraces about 26,000 sqeare feet, against 10,000 square feet in the old site at the north vest corner of Baltimore and Calvert streets. The property bought represents an outlay of between $350,000 and $375,000. and the building to be erected will increase the total cost to about $1,500,000. Work will be started at once upon clearing off the lots. It will take about 30 daps to work out the plans from a number of tentative propositions which have been submitted. It has been decided to erect a building to accommodate the entire general office force of the Company. This will include about 2,000 clerks, and will make the structure the largest building in the city. It will be 14 stories i height, and will be fire-proof. Our Thanksgiving.

Truly, the American people have had much cause for thanksgiving during the past few years. Barring those afflicted with sickness, and those afflicted with laziness and improvidence, all classe have experienced plenty and prosperity and this has been especially true in agri cultural and manufacturing districts.

Probably the Genesis of prosperit throughout the country is activity i manufacturing centres, for there is th demand created which makes the suppl of the agriculturists profitable. As rule, we hear it said, "when the farme is prosperous, everybody is prosperous, but, while this is true, it is also tru that the farmer must have his prosperit started for him-he must have a profit able market for his products.

Peace at home, and peace with th world, is also a National blessing. W have no troubles, except political one of the less dangerous sort, and our labo strikes are not based on lack of wor and poor pay, but rather on the fact of our great National industrial activity from which labor tries to wrest still greater pay for labor which is alread the best paid in the world.

Without exception, almost, the masse and classes are happy and prosperous, except for the evils brought on themselves; and yet, there is an extreme selfishness which withholds thanksgiving to God, as well as thankfulness to our fellow-man. We are too insistent on the idea that we win our own prosperity; we feel that we are independent, both of Divine and human influences, and forget the truth—that we receive our physical and mental ability from God, and that our fellow-man is daily and hourly contributing to our happiness and suc-

Not alone Thanksgiving day, but every day, should witness our acknowledgements that we are a highly favored people, and our prayers should be that we may merit a continuance of present conditions, and not be blind to the opportunities and responsibilities which devolve upon us because of our prosperity.

Progress Made Under the New Road Law.

So far have the counties of Maryland progressed in the effort to obtain State roads under the provisions of the State aid road law, that the return of another autumn will witness a number of new Irishmen against the caricatures of their macadam roads in the State, built upon race placed upon the stage by writers of

The Election in the South.

Southern newspapers are interesting reading these days. For a few hours note of despondency in some quarters, but that has passed. The situation is such that there is no sense in being mad and every reason for taking the result in good part. This has been the case very generally, and it is reinforced by the official returns, which show that there is a good deal more republican sentiment in the South openly expressed than was considered possible, while there is no doubt that a very large portion of those State of Maryland, County of Carroll ss. who voted for Parker are satisfied with

Thus, it appears that of those states which we used to consider the solid south, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and Missouri went republican. All republican electors would have been chosen in Maryland but for the trick ballots used. What is perhaps more surprising is that the democratic majority in Virginia was so small that, taking it and West Virginia together, the republicans won. In the Old Dominion the republicans made notable gains. In North Carolina, even after the negro vote had been eliminated, one republican congressman was elected; there was a gain of one in Kentucky, while Tennessee gives the lowest democrattc majority in its history. Strangely enough, the vote of Arkansas is still in doubt. It has probably gone democratic, but by a very meagre majority. In Georgia the republican and populist vote will almost equal These are a few of the signs that the people of the South are no longer afraid of negro domination, and the effort to Some of the most conservative newspapers in the South urge that it be dropped forever.

The truth is that the South is prosperous, the old leaders are dying off and the young men want some better sport than chewing over the prejudices of the past. The South is after business, is getting it, and will get more.-Philadel-

Passing of the "Rube."

Now and then we notice protests by the day until probably a day or so before. The result is, as a rule, a poor sort of Christmas, both for themselves and for those who naturally look to them for some suitable recognition of the day and season, especially in the gift-giving line.

Scarcely a family is so poor that there cannot be some interchange of gifts at Christmas, or the enjoyment of some good-cheer. In many cases, neglect of the customs of the sason stands for the counties are endeavoring to file their ganized revolt. Nor has the farmer been to completed under the supervision of the saboulevard. Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 27. Topic.—How intemperance hinders missions.—Rom. xiv, 13-21.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE. In this chapter Paul enjoins the weak and the strong to treat each other considerately. If the strong can do what strong, for God is our judge. On the in all. other hand, because the strong can rightfully do what the weak cannot they are not to press their rights even to the point where their exercise is injurious to their weaker brethren. They were to give up no principle, yet would it pay to sacrifice a soul in order to assert the right to eat all kinds of meat because all was of God? Christ died to save the souls of men. Will we destroy him with meat for whom Christ died? No true Christian could take such a position. For mere gratification we are not to endanger immortal souls.

This truth may be applied to intemperance and missions. Intemperance has always been a foe to religion, and wherever it has gone on mission fields it has been one of the greatest hinderof the world. But it is the old story of personal gratification, personal gain. Eliminate the large profit of the liquor men to own and manage them? If the it nice and clean for next time. against the saloon. Men will do almost anything for money, and hence the same vessel carries the gospel and him for whom Christ died? Infinitely our lives than to barter in the traffic of human souls.

That intemperance hinders missions is a self evident fact. The people any nation to permit alcoholic drinks to be sent to the nations of the world who are in religious darkness and to whom its Christian citizens are striving to send the gospel of the Lord Jedown and attempt to build up at the the opposite. same time. The mission fields are surrounded with enough problems. Let us as far as possible eliminate the intemperance one, so that Christ may be the more exalted and the gospel placed in a more favorable light before the unevangelized nations of the world.

In a certain town of Western Massa chusetts two of the most prominent citi zens are a Methodist brother and a Presbyterian brother. These are neighbors and, for the most part, dwell on good terms, except when they try to effect an exchange of horses or to talk religion. On one occasion the two had traded horses, and, although the outcome rankled in the breast of the Methodist, they had met and started a discussion on the subject of predestination. As usual, an altercation ensued, when the Metho dist lost control of himself. With mixed ons concerning horse trades and John Calvin in his mind he suddenly ex-

To Be told at Dinner.

The clever Dr. Ritchie, of Edinburgh who liked to badger his pupils, met with his match while examining a student. He said: "And you attended the class r mathematics?"

'How many sides has a circle?" "Two," said the student.
"What are they?"

What a laugh in the class the student's answer produced when he said: "An inside and an outside." But this was nothing compared with what followed. The doctor said to the student: "And you attend the moral philosophy class, also?"

"Well, you would hear lectures on the U. B. church at Harney, conducted various subjects. Did you ever hear one by the pastor, E. C. B. Castle. "Does an effect ever go before a

An officer of the North German Lloyd steamer Cassel, on shore leave to-day, went into a downtown lunch emporium of the eat-quick variety at noon. He was in civilian attire. His order was given in English with a tinge of the Tentonic. "Gif me some ham und aigs und a cup of coffee," said the navigator to the King Menelik's Gift.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—General J. S. Clarkson, surveyor of the port of New York, reported to President Rooseto-day that upon his return to Nev York he would order shipped here at once the Abyssinian animals King Menelik sent to this country as a gift to the President. At the request of officials of the New York Zoological Gardens, General Clarkson asked the President to permit some of the animals to remain in that city. On the grounds that the gift was made to the nation, the President Alva O. Reid, of Niagara Falls, son of ordered that the entire collection, con ons, ostriches, nubian lioness and other animals shall be given to the Na tional Zoological Garden in this city,

MENTAL PROPS.

Various Tlings That Give Us Confidence In Ourselves.

We each have the need of our mental "prop." One woman tells me that when she wishes to give decided orders to her cook she always puts on her hat and gloves, then, as she floats into the kitchen surrounded by a cloud of dignity and courage, she feels equal to | Press.

Good and well fitting clothes are props to us all and bring about a certain confidence in ourselves, a sort of mental pat you on the back, which says, "Brace up, old boy; the shell is perfect; let's hear from the kernel." To the little school niss on the day of the entertainment what a prop is the bristling blue sash. The doctor depends much upon his gloves. He can be busy with them when vital or difficult questions are asked. They are a sort of moral safety

She finds the waggish 9ld world rather a jolly place and loves to watch frail humanity leaning gently upon their "mental props," while they are happily quite uncon scious of her scrutiny,-Jeannette Young in Critic.

CAVALRY HORSES.

English Military Method of Training Them to Swim. The most interesting and amusing of all the sights of Aldershot, England, is the big reservoir, or line, whe. cavalry horses from all parts of the world are trained to swim with a thorough-

It is well known, by the way, that cavalry horses in the Italian army go through almost as much training as though they were intended for a circus, and the writer has often been amazed to see patrician Roman officers riding their fine chargers down steep flights of stone stairs and down especially constructed precipices which look as though they were especially invented. though they were especially invented to encompass the destruction of both

Again, the writer witnessed the astonishing army maneuvers of the Italian troops in the river Arno at Florence and also at Spezzia, the great naval arsenal of Italy. The Count of Turin was seen leading his regiment "out to sea," the prince often dis-sat upon his prostrate opponent, bumping his head against the ground, he shot, however, coming as they do most-"Take it back, take it back, or I'll seated objection to the water, and as counts; you're not a robber nor a liar, tutor and "pupils" are ludicrous in the but you're a blamed old Presbyterian if extreme.
