HUMOR

BLISS UNSPEAKABLE.

What One Man Would Do If He Were Wealthy.

The commuters were hearing the station. It was early morning. Two men roused themselves to the day's effort by speculation of what they should do if they were rich.

The first man despatched in the usual way. He would build a beautiful house, filling it with fine pictures and rare bric-a-brac. He would travel, keep a steam yacht, etc.

Then, stifling a yawn, he replied: "If I were rich I would hire a man to knock on my door every morning at 5 o'clock."

"Hire a man to knock on your door every morning at 5 o'clock?" exclaimed his friend. "Why, that's even worse than now."

"I would hire him to knock every morning at 5 o'clock, and then, under the command of General Stewart, and the Union Cavalry in command of General Kilpatrick, on June 28, 1863."

WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Correspondence.)
"Before the summer is over," Washington those who are acquainted with Senator Charles Dick of Ohio may expect to see him blossom forth wearing one of the finest Panama hats, with probably few exceptions, ever brought to the United States," said Consul General Dietrich of Guayaquil, Ecuador, who is in the national capital on leave.

"Early in the year," continued Mr. Dietrich, "I received a letter from Senator Dick, in which he ordered for him the very finest Panama straw that could be made. However, the senator was not explicit in his request, falling to give the size, and I also did not care to proceed for that reason as well as the fact that the cost was not aware what such a hat would cost. Therefore I wrote him, stating that such a hat would cost him at least $150 and would require several months to construct it. Senator Dick replied that he would not worry about the cost and gave the dimensions of the desired headgear. I at once placed the order, and when I left Guayaquil the weaving of the hat was well under way and will probably be completed in season to adorn the Jovialite head of the junior senator from Ohio about the time the hottest weather is upon us."

A Rag Weaving Fad.
The newest and most fashionable fad among the women of Washington, in which not only "society" is engaged, but "the outer" well, is the weaving of rugs and carpets—exactly like those that our grandmothers used to make, except that they are made of wool, and are not so much valued for their character as "rag" carpets. Now, however, it is customary to call the fashionable product "society rugs," or "handmade carpets."

The pretty daughters of Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island began it early last winter, and all the belles have caught the craze. The craze has spread to the residents of resident families, but those who are only temporarily in the national capital. Indeed the fad seems to rage most virulently among the aristocratic "old Washingtonians," who look on the return of the craze upon the giddy throng brought here by the exigencies of politics.

Duluth to Have the Fern.
Representative Bede of Minnesota and Guy A. Eaton, commander of the militia at Duluth, were in Washington recently to see the president. The navy department some time ago turned the Fern, which was formerly used by the naval battalion of the District, over to the Duluth militia, but the commander, who repairs or delivers the vessel. These facts occasioned surprise, as it was thought that the navy would at least send the vessel to Duluth.

Commander Eaton is here to arrange for the completion of the orders, which are being made in a shipyard at Norfolk at a cost of about $4,000 and to have the vessel taken to Duluth, which will cost about $1,000. It is not expected that the navy department will accept the return of the vessel, and that it will pass permanently into the hands of the Duluth jacks.

The Capital Invaded.
The insect pests that annually prey upon the shade trees of the national capital are beginning to make their appearance in formidable numbers, and before long the traces of their depredations will be in evidence all over the city. There is a grain of consolation, however, in the fact that the three kinds of insects that annually do the greatest amount of damage to the trees of Washington—constitute one of the city's chief claims to beauty—only one, the fall webworm, appears to have made a good start. The other two, the tent caterpillar and the white marked tussock moth, are apparently having an off year, although it is yet a trifle early to predict with any degree of certainty that they will not later join the ranks of the invaders.

Germany to Return to the Sea.
The German Government has purchased a splendid site for its embassy here opposite the property of the new French embassy overlooking Sheridan circle in 8 street, in the northwest section of the city. The property, which is shaded by magnificent trees and rises to a great height above the street, measures about 300 by 105 feet. On this site will be erected a splendid stone structure of the style of French chateaux, and the embassy will be in general outline the famous Sans Souci castle or the new castle in Potsdam.

To Spend Summer Abroad.
The Ambassador and the Baroness Speck von Sternburg have left for Germany, to be gone for three months. The ambassador will spend on his estates in Saxony. He will return to his post in October. The German embassy will be established in Lenox for the summer, with Baron von Dem Busche Hadenhausen, first secretary and counselor, as charge d'affaires.

Squirrels at the White House.
Squirrels are of comparatively recent date in the White House grounds. They first began to appear in the grounds about four or five years ago. Across Pennsylvania avenue in Lafayette park the squirrels have become so tame that they will get within grasping distance. The gamey trip of one squirrel to the White House grounds is to spend his vacation in Arizona.

The big new production of Fisher & Ryley for next season will be an adaptation of a French musical extravaganza.

Nellie Lynch, who was seen in a song-bird in the "Panderfoot" show, will be a member of the Tivoli Opera company, San Francisco.

Maude Adams, who underwent a minor operation for appendicitis recently at her home in New York, has nearly recovered her health.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is one of the current Chicago attractions, and is booked to run all summer. William Morris is in the cast.

Herbert Kelecey and Edie Shannon are en route to London. They will be seen next season in a new play by the well known English playwright, G. B. Shaw.

Florence Hindley's new musical comedy is entitled "The Belle of the West." Harry B. Smith wrote the book and Karl L. Hoshina the music.

Good for Stomach Trouble and Constipation.

"Being a mild physic the after effects are not unpleasant, and can recommend them to all who suffer from stomach disorder. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md."
