Washington, Aug. 19.-Plans are un der consideration in the War Department which may be laid before Congress at its next session for increasing the war strength of the army to 250,000 men. Certain officials of the War Department have been working on the plain for several weeks, and now have it in tangible The regular army now consists of 60,000 men, with the war strength estimated at 100,000.

The new plan involves the creation of a "regular reserve," consisting of able-bodied discharged soldiers, whose names would be on file at the War Department, and who would be ready for service at any moment. The regular reserve would consist of 40,000 men, each of whom would be paid $3 a month. They would be required to furnish their addresses to the War Department and notify the department of any change in address. Thus an army of 100,000 men, with military training, could be quickly mobilized. The plan next includes the creation of "national reserve of 100,000 men. Their names and addresses would be on file in the department and they would be paid a small sum yearly, probably about $2. Together the regular reserve, the national reserve and the militia of the various states, estimated at 50,000 by the department, the war strengthof the army would be 250,000 men, -- A merican

Davidson as missionary of the Presbyterian board in Manila, says: "We have Endeavor socleties in almost all of our churches, though it is a difficult thing to give them the personal attention they so much need. Our Tondo congregation here in Manila has a strong society, and every Friday night they fill the little room. This is a sort of first training school for young preachers. I mean by that that they begin to do their talking in the Christian Endeavor meeting, and it is usually the young men who develop in this way who become our evangelists."

Ebed-melech was so sorry for Jeremiah in his trouble that he did not seem to consider that he was only a servant and that the princes and the king were the cause of the prophet's suffering. The woman of Samaria in the joy of her new life and in her desire that her townsmen should have the same joy seemed to forget all about herself as she carried to them the glad tidings. When we have really found a Saviour who has without a doubt saved us and filled us with the joy of being redeemed and know that others might have the same joy if they only knew Him, we will be very apt to forget all about ourselves and act as Ebed-melech and the woman of Samaria. If we do not thus act it would seem that we are more occupied with ourselves than with Christ and His salvation or with sinners and their need. Paul Jones Relics

In the national museum at Washing ton there are but three relics of John Paul Jones. These consist of an old flag which flew at the masthead of the Bonhomme Richard, an old flintlock musket and a fierce looking cutlass both of which were captured from the Serapis when Captain Jones took that battleship in the famous naval engagement in September, 1779. The flag which flew at the masthead of the Bonhomme Richard is an interesting relic of the period. It was originally sixteen feet long. It has twelve white stars in the blue background and four red and four white stripes. During the battle between the Richard and the British frigate Serapis this flag was worn by the former ship, and it was borne to the British frigate by Captain
