Roosevelt's 1908 Pledge.

The great access which the peace of Portsmouth treaty has given to the popularity of President Roosevelt, large as it already was, has caused fresh speculation over the question whether he will not be an irresistible candidate for reelection in 1908. But those who take affirmative ground on this interesting point do not reckon enough on the fact that President Roosevelt took pains to pledge himself, after having apparently arrived at a well-fixed determination, not to be again a candidate, to construe his present term as a second term, and to respect the old traditions against a third

It will be more like Roosevelt to stick to that declaration than it will be to forego it or to palter with it, or to find some pretext of getting around it. Besides, he is too clever and too well-read a man not to understand that all the Iowa promises to become the Mecca glory or distinction which the office can

Topic. - The great surrender. - Acts in 1-22; Rom. vi, 16-23. In the ninth chapter of the Acts we have the record of the wonderful conversion of the Apostle Paul. On his way from Jerusalem to Damascus to persecute the disciples of Christ he had a remarkable vision of Christ, and three lessons from the wonderful book from Saul, the persecutor, he was of Daniel, but more would have been transformed to Paul, the apostle. Convinced of the sinfulness of his course, he cried out, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" and in that exclamation we see the great surrender of Paul rendered himself to Christ he was a great national figure and was already recognized as one of the great leaders of Judaism as against Christianity. He was an educated man, a deep thinkfound an especial field for proving his greatness to the world. No human void has ever been more powerful than his, and no pen of man has wielded a greater influence than his. But the greatness of his surrender was greatly increased by the cause to which he surrendered. Great men have sometimes surrendered themselves to causes anything else than great, but no man ever surrendered himself to a worthier cause than religion, and the vast majority of the world's great men have been religious men. Young men, if they will follow the example of the world's great men, need never be ashamed to surrender themselves to Christ, the greatest of the world's great men.

2. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its completeness. It was an absolute, entire consecration to Christ. He surrendered self to Christ, in that he surrendered his will, the citadel of self, to Him. "What wilt Thou have me to do?" he asked. And from that moment the will of Christ was his will. He went where Christ would have him go, spoke what Christ would have him speak, did what Christ would have him do, suffered without murmur or complaint what Christ would have him suffer, and, last of all, as the crowning act of his entire surrender to Christ, he died as a martyr for Him. What surrender could have been more complete? He surrendered all-time, talents, life. They were all asked of him, and he gave them. Such a surrender should be an inspiration to all young Christians. Let us not only sing "I surrender all," but, following in the footsteps of the great apostle, do it.

3. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its results. It brought to him eternal life. Every one of us must surrender ourselves to some supreme influence. Shall it be to sin, the wages of which is eternal death, or shall it be to Christ, the reward of which is eternal life?

Rom. xii, 1, 2; II Cor. viii, 1-5.

The Name Beautiful. After quoting Marianne Farningham's description of Christian Endeavorers as "young people of the beautiful name," the Bulletin of the District of Columbia Christian Endeavor Union says: "It is, indeed, a beautiful name. And a beautiful thing about it is that it is appropriate to young people of different denominations. There are Baptist Endeavorers and Presbyterian Endeavorers and Lutheran Endeavorers and Endeavorers of forty or fifty denominations, but all Christian En-

Nuggets. Endeavorers, remember your history as well as your present opportunity .-Dr. Clark.

Sir Isaac Newton said, "He who denies Daniel's prophecies undermines Christianity, which is founded on Daniel's prophecies concerning 1. Paul's surrender was the surrender | Christ." Believers are somewhat like Daniel at Babylon, in the world, but not of it, and from him and his companions we may learn how we should live in these evil days of this present evil age. In whatever part of the Bible we may have our studies there are two things we must always note, and those are God working and the devil working, and they work, as a rule, through visible agencies such as people and circumstances, but also by invisible agencies (Eph. vi, 12; Heb. i, 14; Dan.

Among the captives of Judah are found Daniel and his companions, and they are chosen to be trained and taught that in due time they may from the king's table, but Daniel determined that he and his companions would not defile themselves with food which had been offered to idols, they being worshipers of the only living and true God and believing that what is not offered to Him is offered to demons (Lev. xvii, 7; Deut. xxxii, 17; I Cor. x, 20).

All true believers are commanded to do all things, even to eating and drinking, to the glory of God (I Cor. x, 31), and this one command covers the whole temperance question for the that the world's dainties would not of duty toward others in this matter, and bottle of Liquozone, and doses a half a help him to know the secret of the Lord, which is only with them that

Mr. George Pullman once said, when asked the secret of easy riding, that the secrets are so many that no one can keep them. This is true, but the easing of the curve is one of them.

Curves, no matter how slight, have always been laid as arcs of true circles. the outer rail is raised according to the sharpness of the curve and the estimated speed of trains that are to round it. This is so, also, with every other sphere of life. The real environment, the mighty forces that play upon life and mould character, are thus spiritual; and this is where we have pow-

It has remained for Joseph Tolman, proprietor of the Twentieth Century poultry plant, Norwell, Mass., to take a step somewhat in advance of the majority of his fellow poultrymen by adopting a new type of fresh air poultry house, which has proved itself poultry keepers, writes P. T. Woods,

The pigeon forms a small though by no means unimportant class. The highly forced young pigeon, popularly known as the "squab," finds much favor with certain classes of people. Chickens have been divided into three groups, each comprising many breeds. These groups are, first, the Mediterranean, egg producers and nonsitters, represented by the Brown, Buff and White Leghorns; second, the American, general or dual purpose, represented by the White, Buff and Barred Plymouth Rocks, the Wyandottes and the Rhode Island reds, and, third, the Asiatics, meat producers, represented by the light and dark Brahmas, the Cochins and the Langshans. The selection of the breed necessarily depends upon the kind or kinds of products desired. If egg production alone is sought, then some one of the area where no trees grow must make Mediterranean breeds should be selected. If meat alone is the desideratum, the selection should be made from among the Asiatics. But if both meat and eggs are demanded either two breeds must be selected and maintained or the selection must be confined to the American or dual purpose The selection of the breed is important, but the maintenance of the purity, health and vigor of that breed is vastly more important. If pure breds possess merit over the scrub, the truth of which no well informed person will undertake to controvert, it would seem to be desirable that the identity of the breed should be maintained. Therefore the selection of the breed must be followed by proper methods in handling. Otherwise the good results sought SPECIAL ADVERTISEMENT! The Chance of a Life time!

Owing to heavy purchases, we will be pushed for room during the coming season. We need space for duplicates, and have decided, for the present, to close out all goods now in the basement at a tremendous sacrifice.

Beginning on Saturday, August 12th., 1905, we will sell everything in the basement of our store—Tinware, Graniteware, Boilers, Baskets, Buckets, Dishes, etc., AT COST.

Don't Miss the Chance!

All 15c Articles at 12c. All 5c Articles at 4c. All 25c Articles at 20c. All 10c Articles at 8c. A Big Lot of Hats and Remnants will go this week at Cost also. Don't forget the date! Goods sold at Cost from Saturday, August 12, 1905, to Saturday, August 19th., 1905. We must make room for the Fall and Winter

$2.50 Nickel Lamps, $1.25. $1.25 Meat Saws, (good) 90c. Remember This, Also.

Taneytown is noted as a cheap place, but, considering quality, this 10.00@11.00 sale will surpass anything in the way of Bargain giving that has ever 11.00@12.00 been offered to the people of this community. Call early and get your 15.00@16.00 pick of the useful articles which we are about to offer at cost. We must have more room.

Very Truly Yours. REINDOLLAR, MEHRING & BASEHOAR,

TANEYTOWN, MD.
