2. That the plan of holding a February 22nd jubilee, and large scale initiations, be continued the coming year.

3. That the pilgrimage idea for July 4th be taken up, and the Camps and Maryland arrange to go to some historic spot like Washington's Tomb or Valley Forge.

4. That the State Camp incorporate as permanent members of the State Camp, as is done by other State Camps and the National Camps.

At the closing session, Wednesday morning, reports of the various district presidents, which were submitted, showed that in each district a section of the state Camps are enjoying an unprecedented era of prosperity and growth.

Prizes for the best proportionate increase in membership during the past year were awarded to Camp 45, of Baltimore; Camp 34, of Chestertown; Camp 17, of Pikesville; and Camp 22, of Baltimore.

Vice President W. E. Vallant presented the prizes, which, in each instance, consisted of a five-volume edition of "Montgomery's History of the United States." Retiring State President Rev. Charles E. Redeker presented to Brother Joseph Cassell, of Camp 50, a handsome iron safe, Bible in English, and a personal secretary served 36 new members for his camp during the past year, since January, 1906.

Union Bridge Farmers' Club.

After a vacation of two months the Union Bridge Farmers' Club held a meeting at the home of Sarah Wolfe and sisters August 9th, 1906.

In attendance were Sarah Wolfe and sisters and Aunt Margaret Hoffman, Daniel Wolfe and wife, Pemberton Wood and wife, Jesse Smith and wife, Mrs. Saylor, W. H. Fieckinger and daughter, Bertha, Mrs. H. Fuss and children Edna and Paul, Wm. Ebbert wife and son, M. T. Haines wife and daughters Lillie and Bessie.

Those present not members were Mrs. Nicolas and son, Dr. and Mrs. Sherman Lansdale, Misses Maria Roberts and Jennie Wood, all of Baltimore, Miss Gladys W. of Wilmington, Delaware, Miss Eliza Rakestraw of Union Bridge.

The men folk, led by the President, Frank Wolfe, and the women, led by Mrs. Saylor, were in charge of the social part of the evening. The corn promises an unusually large yield. A small field of alfalfa seems to be fairly well set but has to struggle in place of a model farm reflecting much credit on the management.

These sisters always have a fine herd of Jersey cows and make large quantities of butter and cream, and are very successful in their business.

It seems that the fine quality of the milk is due to the fact that the cows are kept in such good condition that it can truly be said that the milk is of the highest quality.

Our men members without exception can observe a condition of order and neatness in the club which could be profitable for them to imitate.

When ready to transact the business of the afternoon the meeting was called to order by the President, Mr. Wolfe, and visitors being grouped about the porch and lawn. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Committee "E" reported on the report of the chairman, Mr. C. Ross Mace, the committee on resolutions unanimously reported the following resolutions: Resolved, that the members of the club be urged to improve their farms.

The Republican Congressional convention for this district was held at Rock Hall on Tuesday. All the counties were fully represented, Baltimore county sending a mass delegation.

Harney.—The Sunday School picnic at this place on last Saturday was largely attended; some think that the crowd was as large as any ever had, so that even if there was no wind of music to enliven the occasion it can be pronounced a success in every way.

The different fishing camps along the banks of our streams have broken up and all have returned to their various places of business, well pleased with their short outing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hess who went to Baltimore several weeks ago, we are informed is enjoying her visit in spite of her advanced age.

Mrs. Martha Hess, an aged lady, also started for Baltimore on Tuesday, where she will spend some time with her daughters; then she will return to Hagerstown to spend the winter.

The Adams County Sunday School convention will convene in St. Paul's Lutheran church of this place, on August 20th, at 10 o'clock.

On last Friday afternoon, E. G. Sterner came very near having an ugly fire; the chimney caught and burnt terribly, the fire also escaped from the chimney and started to burn on the attic at a place where it was hard to get at; part of the furniture was burnt and several other places opened up before it could be extinguished. This is another warning for people to be very careful about their fires and chimneys.

Charles Myers has purchased a new horse; we hope it will prove to be a good one. Charles has had rather a hard luck with his horses.

Thomas Lemmon is having his house painted; this will add greatly to the appearance of his home. Let others follow the example because it is badly needed.

The members of the Lutheran church are improving their grounds by putting up a lot of new hitching places.

Some of our neighbors are missing children. We do hope that there is no loss of life in this case.

We have a few very reckless bicycle riders in our town, who perhaps think it is their right to run up and down the streets and make a nuisance of themselves. We are informed that Dr. M. S. Pearce formerly of this place is seriously ill and little hope for his recovery is entertained.

Miss Lavinia Yinging is visiting her father, Adam Yinging.

STEALING another's thunder is deemed to be a crime, without reason assuredly; it is the lightning that does the work and thunder is but an after-clap. If you are to be effective against the lightning and let the other fellow have benefit of the thunder, he'll be trailing along about five seconds to the mile behind you.

"IT IS EASY, perhaps, for a poor man to be happy, but it is a great deal easier for him merely to seem to be so."—Seneca.
Why philosophize? To be good is to be happy. Whether facile or difficult, the analysis of the poor is not miltioned with Sabbath Day's journeys, nor does it invariably lead to the "upper country."

MARYLAND'S GUBERNATORIAL Adams caught the Ohioans in dead shape. He jollied them, read poetry to them, sponged with the ladies, made the kids laugh, and had a high old mutual admiration time generally. Of course, nothing less than a Vice-Presidential bid would settle the score, and our Gov. got it. A sly fellow is Br'er Warfield.

THERE is no element of satire in the proposition that in this congressional district, at least, it will be a case of the office seeking the man. While it is probably true beyond cavil that the present incumbent desired the honor, and that Mr. Garrett may not be over-solicitous about it, it is none the less true that their respective parties have shown a disposition even to consider a second choice.

THE STANDARD Oil Co. has reduced the price of refined oil to 16 per gallon; the Pennys has voluntarily lowered passenger rates east of Pittsburg; Rockefeller has agreed to appear before the Courts when wanted; the meat packers are cleaning up; the Insurance Companies are getting back to legitimate methods; most of the large cities have put "the lid on" violations of the Sunday laws; bossism in general, and graft in particular, are suffering from the searchlight of publicity. What is the matter with 1906, anyway?

Is it the Spectre of Socialism?

Is the new party, of which Senator La Follette tells us, the first real movement toward Socialism? We have had for years the Socialist Labor ticket in Maryland, but like the Prohibitionists it has been recognized as but the unpromising effort to maintain a principle, without thought of it seriously menacing either of the two great parties. Senator La Follette makes the claim that, built up out of the persistent fragments of the Populist and the Granger parties and the more recently aggressive Labor party, the new organization (if it may yet be so called) already numbers more than one million members in the States. Having in memory the rapid growth and eventual wide control of the Abolition, the Greenback, the Populist and the Silver parties in this country and cognizant of the effect had by the recent propaganda against all those evils, condemnation of which constitutes the main argument of the Populists and the Laborites, coupled with the suspicion more or less prevalent, that the two old parties combined with speech which they condone in not their own and confessed evils, one need not fear being charged with pessimism or too little confidence in the sterling and inherent strength of an established civic code, or as it is known, our American institutions, if it should be foretold of such segregation of political elements, as they have given evidence of purpose in the past, a mushroom growth, a startling crest, possible mastery and a serious solution of evils, necessary for which have been confessed, but, from the viewpoint of the extremist, has practically ended with such confession, yet remaining unsolved.

The Russian Horror.

The daily newspaper is now able to classify its Russian reports, in one of the leading heads being "Russian Atrocities." Scores of items from many different localities, the condition of whose affairs are impossible of appreciation here if not incredible, tell of bandits, Terrorists and Anarchists; of the bomb, the dagger on the one hand and platoon rifle-firing in the hands of Cossacks and loyal troops. On the other hand the seeds of discontent are germinating only to be scorched by the hot breath of a military order, as determined in the exercise of authority as is the spirit of revolt and at present promising a mastery which, with frequent fluctuations, keeps the world doubtful of final results. The last and most dramatic event was the attempted assassination of Grand Duke Nicholas who was reviewing and putting the Imperial Guards through bank-firing practice. At least one hundred ball cartridges were fired, the balls hissing about his head.

Recent appointments to the ministry warrant the belief that for the present the Government feels strong enough to challenge the disorderly elements and that it will rely upon government by armed force. The late failure of the general strike has for a time at least dispelled the hopes of the violent reactionaries and strengthened the hands of the authority. Seethe and ferment are constantly present and the wisest hesitates to predict what a week may bring forth in Russia.

Prosperity Follows Big Crops.

Industry in the West has taken on greater headway in the last few days than at any time for several years, as a result of the influences directly traceable to the crops now being harvested or immediately in sight. The Government report on the wheat and corn crop had the effect of stimulating business, for whatever fears men of pessimistic ideas had were dispelled when the figures were given out. There is no doubt now that this is to be the greatest year in the country's prosperity. Money needs have become more insistent since the report showed that the wheat and corn crops were not only the largest on record, but will be harvested earlier. Calls on Wall street have been as high as five per cent., which is the biggest figure reached in early August since 1902.

Assurances have been given that the commercial demands on credit this fall will get precedence over speculative requirements, and that there is enough credit to go round on this basis. With such conditions there is little fear but there will be ample funds to move the crops.

The amount of building being done in Western cities is increasing, despite the fact that this is considered the dead season.

A car famine is predicted when the crops begin moving. The carshops are full of orders and the roads must be content to wait their turn in getting their necessities supplied.

In the local market during the last week or ten days has been recorded the most active buying of iron during the year.

Banks and Advertising.

Time was when beyond the periodical publication of their "Statements," banks were small and considered it ungracious and impolitic to advertise. Altogether new ideas have arisen and for good and sufficient reasons as are well explained in the following paragraph taken from the Wall Street Summary: "Within a comparatively recent period we have noticed a growing tendency on the part of banks, trust companies and other financial institutions to advertise. Nothing could be better. The best possible insurance to a bank or trust company is the stability of its new business. It solidifies the old by the addition of the new accounts, and enables the institution to present a better front to the public and reap the benefit of increased confidence. Without this asset, a bank must fail; with it, success can only be limited by the bank's physical environment. The merchant and trader know the worth of an advertisement, and would as soon discontinue in business as cease to advertise. The banker now understands they will find advertising safe and profitable, with all elements of speculation eliminated."

Free Advertising.

There is considerable sound business sense in the following editorial from the last issue of the Harve de Grace Republic, and the conclusion is in line with the policy now followed by many county newspapers. It is coming to be generally decided that all events held for the purpose of making money—whether a church, Sunday school or society—are legitimate advertisements, and that the newspapers have a right to a financial return for the publicity given them.

Many items which newspapers are sold to contain have a greater advertising value than news value, and every newspaper man fully understands this, though many no doubt think they "work" the Editor without his knowing it. Almost every week, especially during the summer season, these advertising items are diligently sent to the papers, while the same persons never think of sending in genuine news items of great importance, which the Editor would like to have; he is left to get these from the news can. In the almost total absence of reciprocity along this line is found the justification of the Republic's conclusions.

The publication of a newspaper is strictly a private business enterprise, as much so as selling groceries. We offer our columns for proper and legitimate advertising at terms and rates as published—and outside of such accepted advertising contracts, we are under no obligation to give our time and columns to any one to exploit their business, amusements, or vanities to the public at our expense.

We are the sole judge of the space, and the character of the matter, that we may be willing to devote gratis to the readers, subscribers and patrons of the REPUBLICAN. It costs money to publish a newspaper; paper, ink, type, postage and compositors' wages are cash considerations that compel the publisher to go down, at regular weekly periods, deep into his pocket.

Ever since we founded the REPUBLICAN, thirty-eight year ago—like most of our country contemporaries—we have given considerable time and space in our local columns to free advertising and local notices of public services in our churches, church fairs, public school examinations and commencements, plays, base ball contests, etc., but have cost in the aggregate, thousands of dollars, and, in many cases, without the slightest reward in thanks or appreciation of the time, labor and expense of the gratuitously conferred—and sometimes—if the poor editor—in his hurry and worry in getting to press, and in the case of some, a name of some party in the games—becomes the victim of direful and vicious abuse, for his carelessness in the case.

Anti-Free Seed.

A carefully organized attack on the Congressional Free Seed Distribution is being organized. While it is probable that the chief motive power back of it is that furnished by the Wholesale Seedmen's League, it is true that the public sentiment is largely antagonistic.

William Wolf Smith, of Washington, contributes the following to the discussion of this "pernicious practice and wanton waste of public money."
Washington, D. C., August 16.—Indications are that the Congressional Free Seed Distribution will be fought more bitterly next session than ever before. Encouraged by the pronounced opposition of the Senate and the House Committee on Agriculture to this appropriation and its almost universal condemnation by the press and public, those interested have undertaken a "campaign of education," to use a hackneyed term. The seed dealers make no secret of their opposition to the free distribution of common seed. In an open letter to the public, Mr. Henry W. Wood, of Richmond, Va., President of the American Seed Trade Association, says that the seed dealers oppose the practice because it is an unjust interference with a legitimate industry, and because it is a waste of public money. Mr. Wood points out that the total packet-seed trade of the country amounts to 120,000,000 packets, and that the Government gives away 40,000,000 and the dealers sell 80,000,000.

"What industry could survive if the Government gave away free, half as much as those engaged in the industry sell," he asks. He also suggests that it is time for Congress to change off and give away axes, saws, pocket knives and looking glasses to the poor seed merchants a rest. The American Seed Trade Association is composed of growers, wholesalers and retailers, and those who are interested in its opposition to government interference in its business. The Wholesale Seedmen's League is also out against it. Between them there are in contact with about ten thousand persons engaged in growing and selling seeds, and with at least fifty thousand store keepers who carry seeds in stock. As some of the larger seed merchants have more than one hundred thousand customers who purchase seeds in small lots, it is expected that they will have been in communication with hundreds of thousands of people before next season.

The Granges have taken up the matter in a systematic manner. The farmers are tired of the idea that their votes can be influenced by the receipt of a package of seeds which they can buy at the corner grocery for five cents and usually arrives too late for planting. They say they do not want seed and pumpkin seed from Congress, and point out that the $242,000 now wasted in this manner would support a National Agricultural College, the like of which the world has never seen, with eighty professors at $2500 a year and sufficient funds to maintain the institution. Divided among the agricultural colleges, it would give each state institution between five and ten thousand dollars more than they now receive. This, the Granges say, would do much more good than the distribution of rutabaga, turnip or parsnip seed.

An analysis of the vote shows that Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia cast seventy-eight votes for free seeds to six against it. With the exception of Maryland (one), Missouri (two) and North Carolina (three), every vote cast by a member of Congress from a Southern State was in favor of "Free Seeds." In the case of the great agricultural states of the North, East, and West, less than a majority of the whole state delegations voted for the appropriation, while in many cases there were more votes against it than for it. Indiana showed up with five, Illinois with only six, Pennsylvania found ten trusty "free-seeders," while Minnesota produced only one. Massachusetts cast seven votes against it, only two for "Free Seeds." Georgia had the Nebraska delegation, but only four votes from Iowa to six against it. New York cast fifteen votes against it, five for it, with seventeen members not voting. From this it is apparent that the item was put in the appropriation bill by Democratic votes, the bulk of which came from the South.

While there is no politics in the matter, those opposed to this distribution will try to get their friends to write to Senators and Representatives, urging them to vote against the appropriation. The National Grange has already adopted resolutions condemning the appropriation, and other Granges and societies of farmers are expected to do likewise. The press will doubtless continue its hostility as it has always roundly denounced this form of petty graft.

Secretary Bonaparte Defines Anarchism and Socialism.

Secretary Bonaparte in the course of an address on "Anarchism and its Remedy," at the Allegheny Chautauque on Sunday afternoon, defined anarchism and socialism. The relations of the two "systems" were set forth in the following thorough analysis: "It is sometimes said that anarchism and socialism are the same thing, and that they are antipodal and destructive. I should be very sorry to diminish whatever hostility the adherents of either system may feel for the other, for the old adage is a truism, and the consequences of such strife to honest men embodies no small measure of truth, but to my mind this view of the relations is altogether superficial. They are two divergent stems growing from the same root. The root is the doctrine that all men of right ought to be equal, therefore, be made and kept precisely equal. This doctrine is really a wholly arbitrary dogma, a pure assumption, justified neither by reason nor by history, and, in fact, contradicted by the daily experience of all mankind; but it was so earnestly and widely preached by the precursors and apostles of the French Revolution, and has so gravely affected legislation, custom and public opinion wherever the influence of the Revolution extends, that to question its truth even now seems to a certain class of thinkers and teachers little short of blasphemy. In its original and salutary form and as it found echo in our Declaration of Independence the cry for 'equality' was coupled with one for 'liberty,' and in this connection amounted to a protest against arbitrary and oppressive privileges, against distinctions justified by no material difference, to a demand that the law be every man a fair field and no favor. But it was quickly seen that to make men equal that the fairer they start the more quickly and surely some would come to the front and others fall behind—that, in short, if 'equality' were to mean that all men should be made equal, the meaning which leaders in revolutionary thought were more and more inclined to give it, 'equality' was inconsistent with 'liberty,' and they must choose between them. They recognized in fact, though not in words, this necessity and gave up liberty."

The Old National Pike.

A Maryland congressman has taken charge of the bill to rebuild the old National turnpike. This is the oldest east-and-west thoroughfare in the United States. It is the route that Braddock took to Fort Duquesne, Washington marched over it often. More than a century ago it was made a national road, and for 40 years it had more traffic than any other road in the country. Beginning at Baltimore, it went almost due west to Frederick. South of Frederick, Md., it was joined by turnpikes from York, Harrisburg, Lancaster and Philadelphia. Thence it went on to Cumberland and to Wheeling. Joined by the Pittsburg turnpike, the old National road went through the Ohio Valley and on to Illinois, which was then the end of civilization. Over this road the old Conestoga wagons carried Eastern farmers to the western frontier. The old stage coaches brought General Jackson and Henry Clay over it to their seats in Congress. To restore this road and to make it a great thoroughfare between the East and the West would revive many memories and help illustrate the political history of the old times.—New York World.

Gold and Circulation.

Two official statements, one showing the aggregate money in circulation in the United States on August 1 and the other the production of the great South Africa gold region for the month of July, concentration on that date reached the unprecedented figure of $2,757,000,000, being an increase of $12,800,000 for July and $152,400,000 for the 12 months. The per capita on that date was $32.52, against $32.45, the highest point ever reached before. The Treasury report shows that not in half a century has the proportion of gold in our circulation been so great as now, nor as rapidly growing as lately, most of the great gain in recent months being gold and a large part of it through importation by the rest of the South African output.

In July the officially reported output of the South Africa mines amounted to $10,500,000, against $8,700,000 as the highest previous record, and the total product of that district alone for the current year will probably be $120,000,000, or not very far below the low point of the world's gold annual output within the memory of men still living. The mines of the United States are expected this year to add over $100,000,000. The world's gold product for the year can hardly be much less than $350,000,000, or far more than the annual increment of the value of both gold and silver not many years ago.—Omaha Bee.

What Noon Means in Law.

When is it legally noon? Fire insurance policies expire at noon, and the clock is actually to mean exactly at 12 o'clock midday. But standard time has not been adopted in all communities. Many small towns cling to the sun time, which may be from a few minutes to an hour earlier than standard. In one State a fire occurred at two minutes past noon, sun time, and the insurance company held that the policy had expired before the fire. Sun time is used in that town, but the insured sued the company, holding that local customs did not run the policy, and that he was entitled to his money. The State courts sustained him. In another State a similar contention was taken to the courts and just the opposite decision given. Several conflicting precedents have been established in State courts, and it is said the question can only be decided for good and for all when a case has been carried into the United States courts and passed upon by the Supreme Court.—Baltimore News.

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better worker and a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of overeating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. Value of the Philippines.

It is impossible to tell, even approximately, what value the Philippines are capable of developing until the railroads get in operation there—and when we speak of the Philippines now we practically mean the island of Luzon. Some little reason of civilization has been made in the Visayas, but the exploitation of that group will be the work of the next generation, and the cleaning up and opening up of the Moro Islands will be the task which the grandchildren of present workers will complete. But Luzon lies ready and ripe, and a few years will see the mines and fields and forests of that great island filled with an actively and industry which will shake from them the last vestige of the long centuries. The concessions recently granted are already in the process of being transformed into railroads to penetrate the recesses of Luzon, and when these railroads are in operation we shall begin to know clearly, for the first time, what we got for our money when we made our bargain with Spain for the possession of the Philippines.

We bought Alaska for a song, and that, in short, if 'equality' were to mean that all men should be made equal, the meaning which leaders in revolutionary thought were more and more inclined to give it, 'equality' was inconsistent with 'liberty,' and they must choose between them. They recognized in fact, though not in words, this necessity and gave up liberty."

Every week the great value of our "Special Notice" column is demonstrated, especially for lost and found articles, and for the sale of stock, single items of machinery, etc. For short and cheap advertising, there is nothing to equal it. Death of "John Oliver Hobbs."

London, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Pearl Mary Teresa Craigie (John Oliver Hobbs), the authoress and dramatist, died in her sleep last night of heart failure. Her death was totally unexpected, as she had been apparently perfectly well when she retired. Mrs. Craigie had been spending a fortnight at her home, Steep-hill Castle, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, which she left Sunday afternoon to keep an engagement in London. She was 39 years of age.

Mrs. Craigie was a native of Boston, Mass., her father being John Morgan Richards. She was married when 19 years of age to Reginald Walpole Craigie and has one son, now 16 years old. Though of Protestant parentage, Mrs. Craigie joined the Catholic Church in 1892. Her interest in the land of her birth continued throughout her life, and she made several visits to the United States after her marriage, the last one being in November last year, when she lectured on literary subjects.

He Was No liar.

Magistrate (to new policeman): "Did you notice no suspicious character about the neighborhood?" "Shure, yer honor, I saw but one man, an' I asked him what he was doing there at that time o' night. Sez he: 'I have no business here just now, but I expect to open a jewelry store in the vicinity later on.' At that I says: 'I wish you success, sor.' "Magistrate (disgusted): "Yes and he did open a jewelry store in the vicinity later on, and stole seventeen watches."

Why does the mosquito sting?

Why does the mosquito sting? Why does he annoy us? Why do we feel unhappy in the Good Old Summer Time? Answer: we don't. We use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and these little flies don't bother us. Learn to look for the name on the box to get the genuine. Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

The vote being 14 for PITCHER and 7 for Gundry, Dr. Sparks withdrew Dr. Gundry's name and moved Mr. PITCHER's selection be made unanimous, which was done.

Upon motion of Mr. Ingram, the convention adjourned.

The placing of Dr. Gundry in nomination as the last spark of opposition from Baltimore county, Mr. PITCHER has been a member of this board for some years and is a strong friend of Collector Stone.

The Editor's Song.

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber, Who pays in advance, without skipping a cent, Who lays down his dollar, and offers it gladly, And exalts 'round the office a halo of cheer.

Who never says: "Stop it, I can't afford it." Or, "Getting more papers each day than I read?" But always says, "Send it, the whole outfit likes it."

In fact, we regard it a business need. How welcome is he when he steps in the sanctum, How he makes "our heart" throbb, how we outwardly thank him—we inwardly bless him—The steady subscriber who pays in advance!

A word of truth in a few words: "Nearly all other cough cures are constipating, especially those containing opiates. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar moves the bowels. Contains no opiates." You can get it at J. McKellip's Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

The Walls of Cadiz.

The historic walls of Cadiz are being pulled down. It has long been the dream of the people of Cadiz to demolish these picturesque but useless walls to make room for factories and modern buildings. This dream is not without interest to the foreign traveler, since it includes the laying out of gardens and building of modern hotels. It is proposed to utilize the material obtained in lengthening existing piers and reclaiming land from the sea, thus enabling vessels to load and discharge cargo alongside of wharves instead of as now by means of lighters in the often rutted waters of the bay. The advantage of this to the desired revival of trade in Cadiz cannot be overestimated.

Some Dark Statistics.

The number of homicides and deaths by violence in the United States in 1905 was 9,232 as against 8,142 in 1904; suicides, 9,082 as against 8,240 in 1904; insanity, 13,316 as in 1904; 3,142; injured, 1,343; killed on electric and elevated railroads, 464; injured, 2,022. These statistics, collected by the Chicago Tribune, are unofficial, but perhaps they are more reliable than those on that account. We murder and maul our kind more than as many as the Germans, four times as many as the English, Scotch and Welsh. America seems to be a little crazier, but it isn't mad.—Everybody's Magazine.

Lord Kelvin's Ignorance.

Lord Kelvin has just celebrated his birthday. One of the most eminent of the world's scientists, Lord Kelvin has a modest view of his own attainments. He once walked incognito through some electrical works and asked a workman the simple question, "What is electricity?" "I'm an sure I don't know," said the man replied. "Well, I don't either," said Lord Kelvin. He said the other day that, though he had studied hard through fifty years of experiment and investigation, he could not feel feeling that he really knew no more than he knew when he first began.

Cracking Milk.

The idea of cracking milk to make it keep better is not new. In 1827, seven years before the process of evaporating the milk in a vacuum to prevent its spoiling by reaching the boiling point was first used. Commercially the process was first exploited in the United States, where there are at present about fifty factories, which dispose of 200,000,000 pounds of condensed milk a year, valued at over $12,000,000. In Switzerland there is a company which keeps 800 cows and sells over 10,000,000 bottles of condensed milk annually.

He Wanted It.

"I think I'll have to put you under bonds to keep the peace," said the judge to the victor of the fight. "Keep the piece" broke in the vanquished indignantly. "Why, your honor, it belongs to me. He bit it out of my ear."—Chicago Post.

A Race Against Time.

Man: "Why, Howard? Why do you do those cakes so greedily? You have plenty of them." Little Howard: "I know it. That's why I'm afraid my appetite will be gone before the cakes are."—New York Press.
