Topic.—What Christian Endeavor means to me and to the world.—Phil. ii, 1-18. Christian Endeavor day. Consecration

On the evening of Feb. 2, 1881, or twenty-six years ago, the first Christian Endeavor society was organized in Williston church, Portland, Me., by the pastor, the Rev. Francis E. Clark. It was simply expected to be an aid to illed otherwise. There had been hunthousands of other societies and destined to bring about a revolution in the tian Endeavor was to become to the world, and as we look back over the to all that He has said. past twenty-six years and review the marvelous history of this movement we can only say, "It is the Lord's doing and is marvelous in our sight." The meaning of Christian Endeavor to the individual and to the world is today essentially what it was at the beginning. It stood for certain definite principles of Christian life and service, and, while it has always been progressive and added new and attractive features to its foundation principles, yet these fundamental principles made Christian Endeavor what it is and are still today its strength and inspiration. Methods and forms may change, but principles are eternal. This is true of Christianity itself and also true of Christian Endeavor, one of the best products of Christianity. In reviewing these essential principles let us celebrate this anniversary by a renewed consecration to them and a new dedication of ourselves to "Christ and the

1. Christian Endeavor stands for Christian fellowship. "If there be any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit," any one who has had any part in the Christian Endeavor movement can have no doubt that there is "fellowship | of the Spirit." Christian Endeavor has fostered fellowship from the beginning. Fellowship in the local society under the supervision of the social committee has been one of its chief features. Nor does it cease here. Under the inspiration and influence of Christian Endeavor an interdenominational and international Christian fellowship such as the world has never seen before has been developed. Many feared in the early days that Christian Endeavor would loosen or destroy denominational ties. But such was never its aim, and history has proved that it has only strengthened them. We love not our own less because we love others. The very opposite is true. The man with largeness of heart enough to love the world will have all the more affection for his own. No better proof of this fact is needed than the history of Christian Endeavor. 2. Christian Endeavor stands for humility. This passage from Paul's letter to the Philippians is an appeal for boasting have characterized this movement, in spite of its rapid and wonderful growth. Its development has been so great and marvelous that it might have been expected that many at least who were associated with it would have been filled with pride and boasting. But not so. From Dr. Clark down the hosts of Endeavorers have only seen the hand of God in the movement and have always given to Him the glory. "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name, be the glory," has ever been the Christian Endeavor sentiment in relation to this great movement.

3. Christian Endeavor stands for self denying service. It has ever emphasized work for Christ and the church, which means service for those who are

4. Christian Endeavor stands for worldwide missions. It has ever shown as a light in the world, and it is still a bright and shining light, spreading its rays into many heathen lands and doing much to win the world for Public Sale Advertising.

It will be impossible for those who expect to have sale of Live Stock and Farming Implements, this Spring, to invest a few dollars better than by taking advertising space in the CARROLL RECORD. Let the people who get the paper know what you have to sell. Nine-tenths of the people do not get into hotels and public places where the bills are posted, and those who do cannot take the list of articles home with them.

You need plenty of bidders for a good sale, therefore, tell all the people you can, what you have to sell—tell them three or four times, through the RECORD, right in their homes where they have plenty of time

OUR SALE CARDS.

We think a great deal of the colored "Sale Cards" which may be mailed, the same as postal cards, at one-cent. They are convenient to 'hand around,'' through the schools, or at sales or other gatherings. These cards (about 3x5 inches) are especially valuable if you have good stock or implements to sell—500 will do lots of good—some use 1000 and they are not expensive. If you do not know just what a "Sale Card" looks like, send to us for a sample.

OUR SALE BILLS.

We will use, this year, as for several years past, good white paper with a bright red border, for sale bills. Our bills are clean and bright and always attract attention. We print three regular sizes, but can also supply an extra large, and an extra small size. The bill with the red border will please you.

Spread yourself a little-sometimes it pays to "splurge." You want to impress the people with the fact that you have a lot of stock and implements worth buying, and it will pay you to tell all the people you can, around home and away from nome. That's the point—away from home. The RECORD will do it for

About Persian Powder. Young readers will be surprised to hear perhaps that most of the so called "Persian insect powder" now sold and used in this country is the product of a single farm 300 acres in extent in the state of California, says the Chicago News. It is produced from a plant that closely resembles the field daisy and depends for its efficacy on a greenish vegetable oil, which, though harmless to other kinds of animals, suffocates insects. Not many years ago insect powder cost about $15 or $16 a pound: today it is sold for 40 cents or less. In those days the source of the supply and the nature of the product were a mystery. It had been in use in Asiatic countries for centuries, being exported from Transcaucasia, where the natives did a large and profitable business in its manufacture. Eventually an Armenian merchant discovered the secret, which was that the powder was the pulverized flower heads of a species of pyrethrum that grew wild in the mountains. Many attempts were made to introduce the plant into the United States, but at first without success because the seeds sold to Americans had been baked to prevent them from sprouting.

RELIEF FROM CATARRH.

[Special Correspondence.]

Most of the birds that are exhibited outdoors at the National Zoological park during warm weather have to be taken into heated buildings for the winter. The small singing and bright plumaged birds were transferred Nov. 1 from large outdoor cages adjoining the temporary bird house to the interior cages in the same building. Birds in the large flying cage, with the exception of a few which are entirely hardy, have also been removed to indoor quarters in the temporary bird house. These birds, which include pelicans, cranes, cormorants, herons of various species, ibis, etc., were caught mostly one at a time by hand and placed in suitable shifting boxes for the journey to the bird house. There is always more or less trouble and delay in catching some of the wariest birds, but by careful management and baiting with food all of the more tender ones were caught. Most of those from the large flying cage were placed in the cage which occupies the entire north end of the bird house. A few, which are either especially timid or too much given to annoying other birds, were placed in smaller separate cages.
