NEWS NOTES OF INTEREST.

Brief Items from the County, State, and our Exchanges.

Wm. L. Amoss, Director of Farmers' Institutes, who has been ill from gastritis, is reported to be slowly improving.

Reed Smoot, the Morman Senator, was confirmed in his right to seat in the Senate, by a vote of 42 to 28, on Wednesday.

One day this week, Mr. Frank Weant, of Four Points, and his dog "Ring" captured a large gray fox measuring from tip to tip 3 ft. 3 inches.

Mayor Rayburn and the entire Republican city ticket was elected, in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, by about 33,000 majority in a vote of 230,000.

The sale of the Blue Mountain House property has been finally approved by the court. The owners of the property are H. A. McComas and Charles S. Lane, of Hagerstown, who held a two-thirds interest, while persons represented by Mr. Hurlock, of Baltimore, have a one-third interest.

The council of the Lutheran church, of Middletown, Md., has issued a call for a congregational meeting at 1 o'clock on Saturday, March 9, in Middletown, and at Mt. Tabor at 2 p. m., to vote on Rev. W. E. Brown, of Crafton, Pa., who is a candidate for pastor of the church.

On Feb. 13, a party of young people, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clabaugh took advantage of the snow and good sleighing and drove to Mr. E. P. Myers', of Harney, where they were delightfully entertained by the family. The young people were indebted to Miss Carrie and Anna Clabaugh for the pleasure of the trip.

Rival applications for letters of administration on the estate of Charles E. and Alice V. Bentz were filed in the Orphans' Court of Frederick county, Monday afternoon by Mrs. Catherine E. Dertzbaugh, an aunt of the deceased, and Catherine E. Bentz, a cousin on the side of their father. The Orphans' Court will hold a hearing before taking action.

Surveyors of the Hanover and McSherrystown Street Railway Co., started last week to make a preliminary survey for a trolley line between Hanover and New Oxford by way of Carlisle pike. The first intention to build the trolley to Littlestown and thence to Gettysburg it is said is likely to be abandoned and that the line now proposed to Gettysburg is by way of New Oxford.

Miss Elizabeth Gardner, who died recently in York, Pa., left an estate valued at $78,955. Appraisement of the real and personal property was made on Monday by John A. Lehr, a clerk in the office of the register of wills. The property includes various corporation stocks and real estate, most of which is located in York county. The deceased for many years prior to her death lived the life of a recluse, with her two sisters.

The basis of the agreement reached between President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Mayor Schmitz and the members of the San Francisco School Board on the Japanese school controversy, made public Tuesday night by Mayor Schmitz, provides that "all children of alien races under 16 years of age who speak the English language, may be admitted to the white schools. Special schools are to be established for children of alien birth who are deficient in the elements of the English language." The amendment to the immigration law, drawn to satisfy the San Franciscans, will doubtless prevent Japanese coolies from landing in California. The agreement is not fully satisfactory to Japan.

TANEYTOWN P. O. BOX RENTS.

Notwithstanding the protest of the Postmaster and the objection of many patrons, the Postoffice Department has decided that a higher rate of rental for boxes must go into effect at the Taneytown office, April 1, 1907. By general order No. 1388 in the December number of the Postal Guide established a rule for collection of rents that raised the price at this office. Postmaster McKinney wrote the Department in regard to the matter and got permission to continue the old rate, and refunded the excess to those who had paid.

Early in January a communication was received from the Department asking for information as to the number, size and kind of boxes in the office. This information was given and with it was sent an urgent request that the rates be left as at present, believing them to be high enough. This request however was ignored as the following has lately been received from the Department.

Postmaster, Taneytown, Md.

SIR:-

You are hereby instructed to collect box rents at your office at following rates from April 1, 1907.

Call Boxes, Small	20c	per quarter
Lock Boxes, Small	35c	,, ,,
Lock Boxes, Medium	45c	,, ,,

Respectfully,
(Signed) F. H. HITCHCOCK,
First Asst. P. M. General.

The Postmaster therefore, has no choice in the matter but must charge the increased rates. A recent order also directs that bills be presented ten days before the end of quarter and that all rents be paid on or before the first day of the quarter.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

Preston S. Bosley, appellant vs B. F. McGlone, agent appelle; appeal from John T. Hill, J. P. Tried before the court. Judgment reversed and judgment for appellant for $23.88 and costs. Bond & Parke for appellant; Henning for appellee.

Preston S. Bosley, appellant vs B. F. McGlone, agent appellee; appeal from John T. Hill, J. P. Tried before the court. Judgment reversed and judgment for appellee for $1.00, each party to pay their own costs. Bond & Parke, for appellant, and Henning, for appellee.

Raymond P. Bankert, appellant vs Westminster Water Co., appellee; appeal from Jas. F. Rinker, J. P. Tried before the court. Finding of the court for appellee and judgment affirmed with costs. Henning and E. Oliver Grimes, Jr., for appellant, and Roberts & Crouse for appellee.

Jury discharged February 18, until March 5, 1907.

THE SUGAR WE EAT.

America ate $300,000,000 sugar plums last year. Every citizen consumed one-half of his weight in sweets during 1906.

Honey, maple syrup, sorghum and molasses are not counted, but the total amount of the sugar consumption, without such liquid additions, reached the impressive figure of 6,500,000,000 pounds. The cane product of the Louisiana, Texas and Florida plantations furnished some 800,000,000 pounds and the beets of Western States added approximately 500,000,000 pounds of native sweetness.

To this fifth of the total another fifth comes from our islands. But for three-fifths of our sugar we must look to foreign markets. Of this fully 85 per cent. is cane sugar from the tropics. The remainder is beet sugar, chiefly from the fields of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The Man in the Country.

Last week we had a little sketch to the "man in town" on the subject of the Mail Order Catalogue. We hope he read it.

Now, a few words to the man in the country on the same subject. Don't the prosperity of the town stores interest you? We guess, yes; that is, the growth and prosperity of towns interests farmers and country people generally.

Why? Because property near a good big live town is worth much more than when far away from one. A farm five miles from Baltimore is worth double as much as one twenty miles away, isn't it? The bigger the town the more the country around it is worth.

It is not the town, as such, but the market it represents, that increases the value of land. As long as a town is prosperous and booming, your land is at top notch; when the town gets dull, your land values tumble.

See where the Mail Order Catalogue comes in? For every dollar you send to Chicago or New York, instead of spending it at home, you reduce the value of your country property, or your produce, or labor, or whatever you own near a town. You can argue against this, but if you are fair you will admit that there's something in it.

You think town will never benefit you—too far away? Not a bit of it. A town is a centre of a community. Build up and make prosperous the centre, and the good results will radiate from it. Throw a stone in the water and see how far in every direction the waves will reach.

The business man in town does many a good turn for you, after all. Of course, you help him, which permits him to help you in turn. Suppose you stop helping him—send your money hundreds of miles away—then what? You lose added value to your property and help in time of need at the same time.

This is not intended for a deep argument but there's just a few grains of sound common sense in it. Suppose you think over it.

FLORENCE—HYSER.

On Tuesday morning, Feb. 12th., at 8 o'clock, Mr. Felix F. Florence, of Emmitsburg, and Miss Myrtle Hyser, of Taneytown, were married at St. Joseph's Catholic church, by Rev. Father J. F. McNelis. At the High Mass the three altars were beautifully decorated and Miss Grace Lansinger played appropriate selections on the organ and sang with great effect. After the ceremony there was a large reception at the home of the groom where the newly married couple received the congratulations of their many friends. On Monday the day before the marriage, Miss Myrtle was received into the Catholic church and took her first communion the morning of her wedding. Mr. and Mrs. will reside near Emmitsburg, remaining in St. Joseph's Parish. On the following Sunday, Feb. 17th., Mr. Samuel Hyser, gave an elaborate dinner in honor of his two newly married daughters Misses Annie and Myrtle, at which about forty-two relatives and friends were present.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Florence, Mr. Samuel Hyser and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Florence and son, Kavanaugh; Miss Bernadette Florence, Maurice Topper, Romaine and Walter Florence, of Emmitsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mummert and two daughters, Edith and Blanche, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bowman and daughter, Ethel, of Littlestown; Miss Fannie Hooker, Mrs. Leala B. Harner and son, Ralph, of Union Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Harner, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hyser and daughter. Beulah; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Harner, Howard Hyser, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Barrick, Benjamin Hyser, Jeremiah Harner, Eddie Hyser, Mettie Ridinger, Eva Hyser, Charles Ridinger, son and daughter; Edna Hyser, Clarence Ralph and Alva Hyser.

The guests were entertained by select music on the graphophone. The presents were numerous and handsome. All wished Mr. and Mrs. Spangler and Mr. and Mrs. Florence a long, happy and prosperous life.

A Delightful Quilting Party.

(For the RECORD.)

The home of Mr. Chas. E. Haines, near Dennings, was the scene of a very delightful quilting party, on Wednesday, Feb. 20th. The guests began to arrive at an early hour and were soon busy with the needles and three comforts were quilted. Then a bounteous repast was served to which all did full justice.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Haines, Mrs. Uriah Lambert, Mrs. A. L. Luvall, Mrs. Wm. Winter, Mrs. Geo. Harris, Mrs. Leonard Kress, Mrs. Oden Barnes, Mrs. Howard Bower, Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. Roy Baile, Mrs. Harry Lambert, Mrs. Harvey Bankert, Mrs. Ernest W. Winter, Mrs. David Haines, Mrs. John Beaver; Misses. Etta Keefer, Lulu Haines, Florence Baile, Esther Baker, Maud Haines, Gladys Lambert, Pauline Haines, Catherine Lambere, Treva Haines, Ruth Haines, Ruth Baker; Messrs. John Beaver, Chas. Winter, Wilbur Lawrence and Norman Winter.

An unusual number of Public Sales are advertised in full, in the RECORD. We believe it will pay big, as the plan is sure to draw bidders from a distance who read the paper but do not get to see the bills.

MARRIED.

FOX—OVEHOLTZER.—On February 19, 1907, at the Lutheran Parsonage, Taneytown, by Rev. Wm. E. Wheeler, Mr. Norman B. Fox, of Keysville, to Miss Lizzie S. Overholtzer, of Taneytown district.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions, charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free one.

RINEHART.—On Feb. 15, 1907, in Union Bridge, Mr. Winfield S. Rinehart, aged 63 years.

CRAPSTER.—On Feb. 15, 1907, in Westminster, Mr. Gustavus W. Crapster, aged 85 years.

SPEAKE.—On Sunday, Feb. 17, 1907, near Keysville, Mr. Maurice C. Speake, aged 22 years, 7 months and 4 days.

How sad it was to lay,
So near a friend away,
In his bed of cold cold ground,
To sleep his last sleep so sound.

Oh, the expression that was on his face.
When he saw his future resting place;
It surely was beyond description,
To see him receive heaven admission.

It certainly seems hard, for the rest
To part with such a loved one;
But, alas, God knows the best,
For he does nothing unless it should be done.

By his friends,
Wm. and Carrie Stonesifer.

It was surely hard to part,
With such a noble friend;
It did not matter, in light or dark,
He was always there to defend.

But, indeed, it was with joy,
And one almost felt like shouting glory
To be sure that you were saved,
Before you were laid in your lonely grave.

Oh, Maurice how I will miss you,
In most everything I try to do;
I will think of you dear friend,
Through all my life unto the end.

By his friend,
Wm. Stonesifer.

Oh, the misery of that dreary morning,
When we stood around his bed,
'Till death stole upon him softly,
And we knew his soul had fled.

By a Friend.

OUR SALE BUSINESS.

Last week there were 64 sales in our register, for all of which we did the necessary printing, except seven. This is a pretty good record, we think, especially as new ones are still being added taking the place of some that have been dropped. Whether it be for value and extent of advertising, or the character of printing done in this line, the public evidently has a pretty good opinion of our service.

Judge Motter Makes a Record.

Frederick, Md., Feb. 21.—Judge Motter took up the criminal docket in court this morning and made a record of disposing of criminals not equaled for years in the Frederick Courthouse. State's Attorney Arthur D. Willard conducted the prosecution, and almost every case tried resulted in conviction. The following cases were disposed of:

James Frey, a negro, sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, and Charles Marshall, a young white man, to three years, for breaking into the residence of Miss Ellen Stauffer, near Emmitsburg and robbing her of a pocketbook. The negro entered the house and held up Miss Stauffer, while Marshall, who is her nephew, stood guard outside. Both pleaded guilty to the charge.

William Posey, James Allen, William Bond and Hugh McGuire, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and an attempt to break jail, and were sent to the House of Correction for two years.

Jerome Baton, colored, convicted of assault, House of Correction for three months.

George T. Davis, convicted of non-support of wife and children, sentence suspended.

J. E. Wantz & Co., selling liquor to minors and keeping a gaming table; fined $75 and license suppressed.

John Fletcher, colored, assaulting County Constable Morgan Runkles; House of Correction for 18 months.

Alfonse Demayo and Frank Doe, selling liquor in Petersville district; fined $50 each.

Nicholas Jackson, colored, selling goods without a license; fined $20.

Frank Staley, for keeping a gambling table fined $25.

Daniel Heiser, bastardy; Frederick jail for six months.

W. G. Saffel, of Winchester, Va.; to jail for 60 days for larcenry.

Charles Powell, colored, House of Correction for two years for larcenry.

For the Starving in China.

The Christian Herald, which is always foremost as a medium of relieving distress, and which has heretofore done so much for famine sufferers, has opened a fund for the relief of the millions who are starving in Northern China. This paper has already given $35,000 and has pledged $50,000 per month for four months.

The RECORD has been asked to cooperate in the matter, as it has done in previous like cases, and this we cheerfully agree to do, but will not be able to give the subject much room; that is, we will not be able to use the illustrations and long articles which the Herald agrees to furnish free. Briefly, the situation is as follows;

For more than three months the region in Northern China, known as "Kianpeh" (meaning "north of the river," the river being the Yangtse) has been in the grasp of famine and famine-bred disease. All the calamities named in the opening paragraph, if rolled into one stupendous horror, could not have caused a tithe of the suffering the forty days' rain and the consequent floods wrought upon the 40,000 square miles (an area nearly as great as that of New York State) of affected territory with its 15,000,000 of people. Before new crops can be raised the death list will be appalling—will be greater by a hundredfold than that chronicled in Naples, San Francisco and Jamaica.

Death and anguish of body and mind will reign in Kianpeh for months, despite the most sympathizing efforts. But Americans can mitigate sufferrng and lower the death rate by contributing the smallest tithe of their possessions. One dollar will prevent one death for one week.

The RECORD will be glad to receive and forward subscriptions—large or small—and will give proper credit to each contributor.

THE HEAD IN A TREE.

As was noted in our Littlestown correspondence, last week, what resembles a human head was found in a tree by a Mr. Woodward while sawing lumber, near Arendtsville, Pa. The Gettysburg Compiler gives some further details of the find, which are interesting:

"He had a log on the sawing table and had removed several slabs from the log to find it faulty and to find in the tree the features of a man's head in every detail. In speaking to Mr. Cole of the find, he said every feature of the face was preserved in minutest detail, eyes, nose, ears, hair and lines of face. To the question whether it was a petrified human head, he expressed doubt about the head being stone. In his judgment, the substance of the head was wood. Dr. Geo. F. Tate has taken the remarkable formation to his home in Altoona, and believes the find is one of great value. The explanations for the formation are numerous. It is supposed by some to have some connection with Lewis, the robber, as near the locality in which he operated. Others think it tells of a murder, and the head was placed in a fork of a tree and petrified. But the head was not found at any forking, but in the trunk of the tree. Then the fact that the substance is wood would seem to knock out the idea of petrifaction.

The explanation may be some photographic process of nature, and whatever the explanation may be, the formation is most remarkable and interesting."

THE HATLESS BRIGADE.

Dr. Thomas L. Shearer, the Baltimore physician who has stopped wearing hats and who, as announced in The American, would soon prepare a statement showing his reasons for trying to get other men to join his hatless brigade, has finished his preliminary study of the subject and Wednesday gave a partial result of his investigations. Dr. Shearer has come to the conclusion that the constant wearing of hats will lead to partial or complete baldness; that the most destructive type of hat is the derby; that those nations whose men wear no headgear at all possess the finest heads of hair, and that an abundance of fresh air playing around the scalp makes the hair stronger and more lively. The American Indian and the Esquimo are cited as examples.

The Baltimore physician freely admits that the winter season is not the best time of the year to begin going without a hat, and cautions those who do begin at the right time of the year, during the summer, to keep it up for at least two years. Dr. Shearer says that it is better to wear a hat all the time than to go without it on ordinary occasions and then don it when an acquaintance is seen approaching. The changing of the temperature about the top of the head, caused by the removal of the hat, is liable to bring on influenza.

After going into the scientific reasons for discarding the derby hat, particularly on account of the pressure on the scalp, Dr. Shearer states that if one must wear a hat it should be a soft felt one, that is loose on the head, and which will give the air some room to circulate about the scalp. The silk tile is tabooed altogether.—American.

The Right Man for Mayor.

Just now a considerable degree of interest is manifested in who will be the nominee for Mayor, in Baltimore, this spring, especially by the Democrats, as it is pretty generally conceded that either Mayor Timanus or Congressman Wachter will head the Republican ticket. Some of the interviews on the subject, with "prominent" men, are decidedly interesting, especially as they relate to the necessary qualifications of a candidate.

According to Mr. William M. Maloy; "We hear a great deal from public speakers and we see a great deal in the newspapers about the qalifications of the candidates. Some people believe the Mayor should smoke a pipe; some people believe he should walk on Hopkins Place and let the merchants look over him; some people believe he ought to go to see the ex-Governor. The man should be Mayor who is acceptable to the people of Baltimore. We heard the cry that Linthicum was a jellyfish; some people said: 'Put him on ice awhile.' I want to tell you that Linthicum is efficient. He has the backbone. He is a fighter and a sticker.

"Now the man to be Mayor should not be a dyspeptic; he should have a good stomach and a merry smile. Look at our candidate. Look at the health that shows from his face. He looks like a Mayor. Comparing him with the other Democratic candidates he is far their superior. The Mayor needs to be a strong man. One day he is required to go to River View to attend the Hibernian celebration, and, you know, it takes a man with a good stomach to get up the morning after with a smile on his face. And again the Mayor must go to Darley Park and talk to some of the men who made Milwaukee famous, and there, too, he must be a good man."

According to Mr. "Bill" Garland; "It don't make any difference who he is so he is straight. I believe in a broad policy. Just because a man happened once or twice to vote a Republican ticket in the past ain't any reason why he should be barred out of the Democratic party forever. It ain't so much what a man has been; it's what he is.

"I want a man," he says, "who won't turn his back on the people that do the work for him after he gets the job. We've had about as much of that kind of thing as we can stand. If you want to see the Democratic party go to the dogs, why just give us another Mayor who will use the organization to get in on and then turn around and kick it out of the City Hall. I'm no croaker, but another dose of medicine like that will make the party so sick it won't get in shape again for many a year."

ALASKA TO WASHINGTON.

Mail Carrier Wins $10,000 Traveling Across Continent Drawn by Dogs.

The following letter from a friend of the RECORD, at Hagerstown, is quite interesting, and we appreciate the kindness of the writer;

"I will give you a brief account of Eli A. Smith, who has came all the way from Nome, Alaska, traveling on a wager, due to reach Washington on the 20th. He arrived here Sunday afternoon at four o'clock with a team of Eskimo dogs, which he has driven all the way from Nome, Alaska.

"Smith is a United States mail carrier, en route to Washington, where he will deliver a letter to the President on the 20th. of this month on a wager of $10,000. He says he drove here from Hancock, over the mountains, by pike, in two hours, a distance of about 26 miles. Some persons think his watch must have stopped several hours.

"Smith left Nome, Alaska, on Nov. 14, 1905, and took the trail for 1,538 miles, to Valdes. Then he went by boat to Seattle, Washington, a distance of 1,600 miles, and from there started on his long trip across the United States.

"He arrived in Milwaukee May 14 and remained there until September 8, 1906, when he put his gear in shape and again took to the road. He knew Jack London, when that author was in Alaska, and says that either one of the two of his dogs could have been the original of the principal canine character in "The Call of the Wild".

"His longest day's journey was 65 miles on the first stretch, where he had plenty of snow, and during that part of his trip he went eight days without seeing a human being.

"Mr. Smith's outfit consists of three of the most beautiful wolves that were ever captured, and which he has trained to perform the same duty as his dogs, of which there are four. The others which he had when he left Nome were poisoned in a park in Milwaukee. It is supposed that all of his dogs might have been poisoned but on account of them fighting he does not let them all out together. He says if he lets them all out together and they get to playing, if one runs against the other it causes a fight. The leader of his team is one of the finest specimens of wolves trained to such service and which bears a close resemblance to the description given by Jack London, of "White Fang". Pasco is now the leader of the string, while the others in pairs are Wolf and Frank, Sport and Jim, and Spot and Jack. The disappearance of the snow means little to him as his sled can be adjusted to run on wheels. The vehicle and its pack weigh 450 pounds, but the wiry dogs pull it along at rapid gait. Mr. Smith gave lectures at the Antietam Fire Department's Hall. He left on Monday about 1 o'clock for Frederick.

The team was a very fine one, the dogs being of nearly one size. One of the dogs is said to carry fifty pounds. The dogs are not driven with reins or bridles of any kind, and he speaks to them the same as a man would speak to the leader of his team. The leader obeyed his word better than many horses when spoken to by his driver. The dogs are valued at from $100.00 up."

Eli Smith, the Alaskan mail-carrier who has made the trip across the continent from Nome, Alaska, in his sled on wheels, drawn by his team of seven Eskimo dogs, reached Washington about noon Wednesday. He drove his team from Georgetown down Pennsylvania avenue direct to the White House. The dogs seemed in splendid trim, the little mongrel—half wolf—which led the other six canines held his bushy tail erect and gave a yelp of pleasure when he turned into the White House grounds. Behind the sled ran a mud-bespattered fox terrier—the faithful little dog which had followed Smith and his team all across the great continent.

The President received the Alaskan in the Cabinet room. Smith was coatless and over his woolen shirt, which was much besmattered with mud, were swung two heavy arctic gloves. Around his neck he had a dog whistle and his short knee breeches and long stockings showed much wear. On his feet were odd-loooking rubber boots. He wore a cap of heavy material, with ear flaps. After greeting him the President took him into his private office and chatted with him for sometime. The President wrote a brief note certifying to Smith's arrival in Washington and his call at the White House. Smith stated that he had left Nome on November 14, 1905, and had made the trip across the continent two months and eight days ahead of the time allowed him in the wager.

It was part of the bet made by Smith before leaving Nome that he should end his journey by seeing the President, and if he crossed the continent in his sled, drawn by the dogs, and secured an audience with Mr. Roosevelt he would receive $10,000.

Put Your Money in a Bank.

Speaking of banks reminds us, says an exchange, that there are yet some people in this country who have a little money on hand and consider it safer in the bureau drawer, in old stockings, or under the bed clothes than it would be in a bank. In this idea of the safe keeping of money they are directly opposed to the ideas in practice by the business world. The men who have most risk wtth money—that is, those who have most money to risk—always deposit it in bank for safe keeping. If the most successful business men adopt this as the safest plan, surely a man with only a small amount of money can safely afford to follow such example. Don't keep your money at home. It's not safe there, and it makes it more risky for your own personal safety. A burglar who is mean enough to rob you of your money is mean enough to kill you, if it's necessary to get it. If you deposit it subject to check you don't have to even go to the bank for it, but you take your check book and write a check for any amount not exceeding the amount of your deposit, and any business man will accept it the same as cash. Banking is the business way, the sensible way, and the safest way of keeping money.

A SOCIAL PARTY.

A very pleasant evening was spent at home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fogle, near Taneytown, on Feb. 14th. The evening was spent in games and plays until about 11 o'clock, when the guests were all invited to the dining room to partake of refreshments of all kinds. At a late hour all returned home having spent a delightful time.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fogle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reck, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Forney, Mrs. Tobias Martin; Misses. Blanche Rice, Lola Slonaker, Margie Stouffer, Lucy Reifsnider, Elizabeth Study, Nettie Flickinger, Effie Slonaker, Annie Erb, Bernice Basehoar, Lillian Sell, Fannie Martin, Dorthy Stonesifer, Carrie Forney, Belle Shriner, Florence Martin, Jennie Weishaar, Rosa Forney, Mary Forney, Grace Haugh, Carrie Martin, Mary Smith, Pauline Martin, Addie Fogle, Grace Martin, Grace Fogle; Messrs. Harry Flickinger, Edward Curtens, Howard Dern, Charles Flickinger, Robert Eckard, Thomas Weishaar, Walter Hilterbrick, Ralph Bair, Oliver Erb, Allen Brown, Glen Rice, Charlie Shoemaker, Clyde Hesson, Jere Garner, Herbert Lemmon, Charles Sell, Roland Baker, Samuel Hawk, Oscar Warehime, Luther Sentx, Harry Fleagle, Charles Cashman, Charles Goodwin, Bernard Weishaar, Ralph Sell, Andrew Graham, Robert Shriner, Cleveland Weishaar, George Baker, Raymond Deyhoff, Charles Fogle, Harry Forney.

Another Bank Safeguard.

National bank officers are interested in a circular received from the Comptroller of the Currency in reference to a departure in bank examinations. This provides that bank examiners may call for the books of depositors so that comparison might be made with individual accounts on the bank's ledgers.

The circular sent out is as follows, the names and figures being assumed for purposes of a better understanding:

Mr. John Smith: Please send your deposit book to the Upton National Bank, and request that it be balanced up to the close of business on the date specified, unless already so balanced. Upon its return to you please state hereon, over your own signature, as indicated below, the amount of the balance thereon and whether the same is correct or not.

If the bank holds for you special deposits of any kind which do not appear on your deposit book, please state their amount and what they consist. The usual periodical examination of the bank has been made, and this information is requested solely for the purpose of verifying the correctness of the bank's accounts, and is not intended to reflect in any way upon the bank's condition.

Return this circular to me, and not to the bank. Respectfully,

J. C. JOHNSON,
National Bank Examiner.

The bank officers do not object to this plan. In fact, most of them welcome it as a further safeguard to customers and as a check against any possible dishonesty on the part of bookkeepers or others in their employ who might seek to defraud by false entries or otherwise.

It is understood that this system has already been inaugurated in some parts of the West and has been found to work satisfactorily. It was for this reason that the Comptroller has decided to introduce it here.

Therefore it need surprise no customer of any national bank if the above request be received from the bank examiner. Of course, as was pointed out, there is no obligation on the part of the depositor to comply with this request. It is purely optional with him whether he accedes or not, as not even the government has a right to pry into his private affairs without his consent.

Bank officers generally, however, are of the opinion that depositors receiving this request should comply with it. The result will be greater safety to the bank and will insure greater protection to the customers it serves.

The examiner, in making this request of depositors, will probably select at random from the bank's ledgers a certain percentage of accounts. It may be 1 in 20, if the accounts are numerous, or 1 in 10 if they are limited. One false account in such a percentage, it is thought, will point the necessity for a more searching examination of all. The system, it is believed, will act as a general check on falsifying, as the bank's employees cannot possibly know whose special account the examiner is looking into.

Appropriations for Maryland.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Chairman Tawney, of the House Appropriation Committee, late this afternoon reported the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill to the House of Representatives. This is the last of the great supply measures to be reported and one of the largest, the total amount carried by the bill being $104,137,540.23.

The bill carries an appropriation of $75,000 for the completion of an addition to the Postoffice and Courthouse at Baltimore under the present limit of cost for the addition, which is $150,000. The total limit of cost was $1,684,000, of which sum the amount of $1,609,000 has already been appropriated, leaving a balance of $75,000 to be appropriated and recommended in the bill reported to the House today. The original estimate submitted to Congress by the Treasury Department was for $50,000, but in order to make proper progress on the work it is desirable, from the standpoint of the Treasury officials, that the entire balance of $75,000 be now appropriated.

The sum of $4,000 is provided for improvements to the Marine Hospital at Baltimore. The sum of $15,000 is provided for the improvement of the depot for the Revenue Cutter Service at Arundel cove, Maryland. The last session of Congress provided for a constructor for engineering duty in the Revenue Cutter Service. The bill passed today provides for two constructors for engineering duty.

The bill provides for an appropriation of $45,000 for the completion of the proposed new postoffice building at Hagerstown, Md. The limit of cost set upon this building by Congress is $75,000, and the appropriations to date have amounted to $30,000. No estimates were sent in originally at the beginning of this session of Congress for an appropriation for the Hagerstown postoffice building, for the reason that no site had been chosen. Since then Supervising Architect Taylor, of the Treasury Department, has notified the House Appropriation Committee that the department had obtained an offer of a site which could be selected, and recommendation was then made for the item, which was reported in the Sundry Civil bill today because the department has announced itself practically ready to purchase the site and go ahead with the work of building.

Eyler is not Worrying.

Gettysburg, Feb. 17.—With the material on which Governor Stuart will set the date for the hanging of William Eyler, in the hands of Pennsylvania's chief official with the time for his chance for a new trial being granted by the Supreme Court growing desperately short; and with his wife critically ill with a severe attack of pleuro-pneumonia, William Eyler, the man convicted of the murder of Howard Miller, on last Memorial Day, sits in his cell in the Adams County jail as though he had no care in the world.

This strange individual, who only once during his entire trial—when the jury returned the fatal verdict—showed any emotion whatever, is apparently utterly unaware of the fate which the future holds in store for him. He manifests scarcely any interest at all in things told him, has the same good appetite which he has possessed since placed in the keeping of Sheriff Colestock and acts as one who is living in a realm of his own.

Hats Off to Editor Livengood.

The following is from the Somerset, Pa., Star, Peter Livengood, editor, and for which this paper assumes no responsibility whatever, but commends it to the earnest consideration of the ladies of Taneytown:

"It is just as much of an annoyance to sit behind a woman with a stuffed menagerie on her hat in church as it is to sit behind such an aggregation of barbarity in a theatre. Women are no longer permitted to wear hats in well regulated theatres, and their vision obstructing headgear should also be taken off in church. To thoroughly appreciate a sermon, one must be able to see the preacher, and the vision should not be obstructed by dead birds, stuffed crocodiles artificial flowers, gorgeous ribbons or anything else. No one can get the benefit of a sermon, good, fair or tolerable when he has to inwardly "cuss" the woman who sits in front of him wearing a hat as big as a coal hod. And all this is true, all fired true, even as it is recorded in the Somerset County Star, by Peter, in the thirteenth volume and the fifth number."

Over in Franklin County recently, Mary Biesecker was injured by falling to the floor, when her employer, a man named Reichard, pulled a chair from under her, presumably for fun. In court at Chambersburg, Friday, Miss Biesecker was awarded $850.70 damages in a suit against Reichard.

Pleasant Valley.—We noticed a sketch in your paper from the Laurel Democrat that the ground-hog is dead. Perhaps he is dead about Taneytown, or at Laurel, but he is not dead in the vicinity of Pleasant Valley for he made his appearance about 11.50 o'clock, on February 2nd., and ran around about 15 or 20 feet and then returned to his den and has not been seen since, though we expect to see him when his time expires

Misses Elsie Leister and Anna Hahn spent from Friday until Sunday visiting friends and relatives in Baltimore.

Miss Pauline Nusbaum, who has had pneumonia, is able to be up again.

A. P. Bish, of Hanover, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. M. Brown.

On last Sunday the residence of Vernon Smith narrowly escaped conflagration. Mr. Smith, accompanied by his family, had gone to visit his father-in-law, David Petry. Mr. and Mrs. John Ebaugh in passing noticed smoke issuing from the windows, and not knowing where the family were, Mrs. Ebaugh drove rapidly to Mr. Petry's, while Mr. Ebaugh summoned a nearby neighbor, who by forcing an entrance, extinguished the flames before Mr. Smith arrived. The fire originated in the kitchen and was caused, it is thought, by the stove becoming over-heated. The mantle, carpet and floor were damaged.

Mrs. Lucinda Miller, wife of George Miller, near this place, died suddenly on Sunday evening, 17th. She was a patient wife, kind mother, and good neighbor, and will be missed in her home and in the community. She leaves a husband, one daughter, and five sons to mourn their loss; Mrs. Elmer Leppo, of Baltimore, Edward, of Pittsburg, Theodore, of Baltimore, and Harry, Herbert and Charles, at home. Her funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Jas. B. Stonesifer officiating. She was aged 60 years, 7 months and 29 days.

Geo. W. Yeiser, of Union Mills, will address the Sunday school, on Sunday morning, Feb. 24th. Let there be a filled house.

Harney.—We have quite a number of sick in our community at present. Measles seem to be taking the rounds. Mr. Charles Moore's two boys are down with them at present and Eyster Heck has been confined to the house for some time with the same disease.

H. A. Heck, who has been confined to the house for several months, is still unable to get around.

J. V. Eyler has accepted the agency for Bliss' Native Herbs and he seems to be making quite a success out of the business. As we have no doctor we need some good medicine here to keep people from getting sick.

Our houses are about all rented, but the Daniel Hess property, and that could have been rented, but for the price.

Miss Sallie A. Eyler is having a well drilled at her property, on Gettysburg street, which has been rented by Mrs. Samuel Ott.

Public sales will be quite numerous in this community. Unfortunately there are several very close together on the same date.

There are so many people who like to see their names in the paper but unfortunately we are not always in a position to know that Betsy Jane is suffering from an ingrowing toe nail, or that Augustus had something like cramp colic which lasted for about five minutes the other day, and many more such important happenings, so if your name does not appear in the paper just at the time you think it should, do not go around growling to your neighbors, but come and tell us direct and if you have anything that is worth publishing we will gladly see that your name gets there.

Sunny Side—Mrs. Milton Null, who had been very sick, is improving.

Mable Bechtel, of Mount Pleasant, visited Esta Sholl, of this place, on Sunday.
