The resignation of F. S. Landstreet, as vice-president of the W. M. R. R., has caused the election of a new President of the road, in the person of B. F. Bush, of St. Louis. The new president is 45 years old, and well acquainted with the railroad and coal business.

The Catalogue of Ursinus College, at Collegeville, Pa., near Philadelphia, for the year 1906-1907 shows that there are in the faculty 21 professors and instruc-tors whose work is represented by 71 courses of instruction. The enrollment of students is 235. Professor George Leslie Omwake is Dean of the College and Chairman of the Administration Committee.

A conference of the business men was held in Frederick, last Thursday night, to hear a proposal presented by a gentle-man from Baltimore, with a view to locating a concrete building block plant in Frederick. A plant, according to his idea, could be established with a capital stock of from $15,000 to $25,000. He was given encouragement and made a canvass of business men for the sub- circle of relatives and friends. She leaves scription of stock.

Local option in Delaware, through a special election to be held in every precinct in the State next November, is now up to Governor Lea. The State's executive can say whether or not it shall become a law, as, should he veto the measure, the Senate, where it originated, has not enough favorable votes to pass over his veto. That he will approve it, however, is conjectured from the fact that President pro tempore Sparks, who is his nephew, supported the measure in the Senate, and must year. have had opportunity, previously, to get the Governor's views. A. L. Rowe, who was among the first settlers at Blue Ridge Summit, and who was the W. M. Railroad agent and Adams Express agent at that place for twenty-three years, and also postmaster there for fifteen years of continuous service, has disposed of his store business and property to W. L. Mauer, who is engaged in the mercantile business there. On March 1st., Mr. Rowe resigned as pastmaster at Blue Ridge Summit, in favor of Mr. Maurer, who received the appointment. Mr. Maurer will move the postoffice to the building occupied by Frank Happel, and will fit the office up with a cabinet and have about fifty lock boxes. Mr. Rowe has rented property of C. R. Too Long Cold Storage. An agricultural exchange exclaims: A reform, badly needed, is a law to prevent food stuffs from being held too ong in cold storage. Farmers are especially interested in this, as it works J. N. O. SMITH, Auct. against their interest in various ways. When the farmer brings his poultry to market he is apt to be confronted by a lot of cold storage stock left over from last winter. Instead of each season's supply being disposed of as needed, these cold storage sharks stow away the surplus of one Thanksgiving or Christmas and trot it out at the next recurrence of these holidays, though meantime it has become as dry as a bone and as tasteless as chips. Nevertheless it looks natural' and by being put on the market at a lower price undersells the fresh product to those who are too stingy or too ignorant to know when they are cheated. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 24.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE. Topic.—Things you have learned from noble men and women outside the Bible.—I Thess. I, 2-8.

The first epistle of Paul to the church at Thessalonica is of particular interest for the reason that it was the first letter ever written by the great apostle to a church which he had organized. The Thessalonian Christians of this early church must have possessed the Christian graces to a remarkable degree. What greater tribute to their expressed than when he said of them, straining love of Christ.

Christian life. ters are simply human lives. The men proved (Rom. viii, 7).

comes to us from the lives of others. The saints of God do His work not in hope of reward, but in loving gratitude to Him for all He has done for them. In any Christian church many examples of this character may be seen, and they have existed in all the Christian centuries. Again, the lives of others teach us patience and the "patience of hope." Many of us are impatient and especially anxious to have all our hopes in life realized. But here and there, especially among the aged saints of God, we find examples of the sincerest trust and patience. Their lives are a benediction to us as they patiently wait the will of God in all things. But above all there are those whose lives reveal the Master to us. As we look upon them we can see that "they have been with Jesus and have learned

CUT GREEN BONE.

Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass.

A Great Egg Maker Which Should Be Fed Regularly to the Fowls. One of the best and, in fact, one of the most necessary poultry foods is green bone, says R. H. Jones in American Poultry Advocate. No other food can entirely take its place. There are different food elements required for fowls, and one of the most essential is protein. The other elements are also is certain that the advant... fully compensate for them. Green cut bone can be fed advantageously to fowls intended for many different purposes and under different conditions. It is a great help in hastening the growth of young birds. Also when fed to laying hens the egg yield will be increased wonderfully and the poultry raiser well paid for the labor expended. It is a food which all fowls readily eat, and it must be fed judiciously—that is to say, not too much must be given at a time. It is a recognized fact that animal food must be given in some form, and, while it may be supplied in other ways, this is undoubtedly the most economical and satisfactory.

It should recommend itself to poultrymen, as it is of a very reasonable cost. The bones can be obtained in abundance from any butcher, by whom they are generally regarded as waste. Often they can be had gratis, but even if it is necessary to pay a cent a pound for them the investment will be a good one. The poultryman should by all means have a good green bone cutter. The cost price is very reasonable; and they will more than pay for themselves. The bones are put in the machine as they are received from the butcher. There are usually small pieces of meat adhering to them, and these the machine will also reduce to whatever fineness may be desired.

Poultry on a Large Scale. So far every attempt made in this country to establish a large poultry farm has been met by failure, says Farm Journal (Philadelphia). The extensive and successful plants of today are the outcome of a small beginning and a gradual growth. True, the main cause for failure has been the lack of experience. Men have undertaken work for which they were not quali-

Then yellow silk sash curtains, pulled back, tend to make a room sunny.

How to Sleep In a Dlanket.

There are a great many very competent treatises telling you how to build your fire, pitch your tent and all the rest of it, says Stewart Edward White in his article entitled "Camp Equipment" in the Outing Magazine for February. I have never seen described the woodman's method of using a blanket, however. Lie flat on your back; spread the blanket over you. Now raise your legs rigid from the hips, the blanket of course draping over them. In two swift motions tuck first one edge under your legs from right to left, then the second edge under from left to right and over the first edge. Lower your legs, wrap up your shoulders and go to sleep. If you roll over, one edge will unwind, but the other will tighten.

A SPELL OF ILLNESS

A physician having a large practice among the poor of Chicago recently re-ceived a communication from the mother of a child, asking that he come at once to the youngster, who it was explained, had "a very bad cold." After he had attended to the needs of other patients, the doctor made his way to the lodgings of the woman who had

To his utter astonishment the child was suffering with a complaint utterly distinct from "a bad cold." "Can't you see," he impatiently demanded of the woman, "that your child is down with the measles? What on earth did you mean by writing me that he had 'a bad cold?' ''

The English Channel Tunnel. To run a grave national risk for the sake of protecting some thousands of tourists from the very transient discomforts of seasickness would indeed be the climax of dementia. For through goods traffic the tunnel might be of advantage to the continental farmer and manufacturer. In view of the prohibitive foreign tariffs it would be of little use to British trade. We cannot abandon British insularity because some distinguished soldier has asserted that the channel tunnel could be easily defended against 200,000 by fifty. On military grounds a bridge across the channel would be preferable from every point of view to a tunnel under the water. No coup de main could secure a bridge against the action of the British navy. Modern engineering skill is certainly equal to the construction of such a bridge.-Ignotus in National
