Miss Jane LeGore, of LeGore, Md., and Miss Nell Goehring, of Zelenople, Pa., are visiting Miss Mary Reinhold.

Dr. C. Birnie is on a visit to his sister, Mrs. G. W. Clabaugh, in Omaha, Nebraska, and will be absent for several weeks.

Mr. Robert Weaver, who was seriously injured last week, by a hay fork penetrating his back, is reported very ill with pneumonia.

Taneytown property owners have been officially notified to "clean up" their premises, and have been given until July 10, to put things in good order.

Don't Forget. The festival at St. Joseph's Parochial school will be continued this Saturday night. Attend, and enjoy the attractions and refreshments.

Rev. A. C. Crone will attend a Christian Endeavor Convention to be held at Wormeysburg, Pa., next week, and will be absent from June 29, to July 3.

The Lutheran Sunday School is preparing to newly carpet the Sunday School room, and the walls and ceiling will likely be abliterated, to correspond.

Mr. J. F. Delaplaine, city tax-collector, of Waynesboro, paid his sister, Mrs. J. Frank Kiser, and other relatives and friends, a visit, the first of this week.

Mrs. Wm. Carpenter of New York City, Mrs. M. J. Sheffer and little son, Maurice, and Miss Anna Sharrer, of Hanover, visited at the home of D. W. Garner during this week.

Miss Margaret Elliot was operated on, last Saturday, at the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, for appendicitis. She is reported as getting along very well. Her sister, Miss Bessie, is her nurse.

The P. O. S. of A. will celebrate the 18th. anniversary of the Camp, on July 23, and also the remodeling and re-furnishing of the hall. State Secretary, Wm. James Heaps, will be present as the chief speaker.

Saturday, July 4th, is a legal holiday for rural letter carriers. There will be no delivery of mail on that day. Post-office will be open from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m., and from 3:30 to 6 p. m. Baltimore mail will be received on 10 o'clock train.

Mrs. Christina Stooffer, one of our well known citizens, was seventy-eight years of age, one day last week, and her many friends congratulated her on the fact by presenting her with 102 souvenir cards, of which, she is becoming proud.

Harvesting is in full blast, having commenced in this section, on Monday. Some have finished cutting. The wheat is said to be of good quality and the heads well filled. The hay crop, which has pretty generally been harvested, was a heavy one, and was cured under very favorable weather conditions.

Mr. Edward Harner and Miss Grace Bowers, were united in marriage by Rev. A. C. Crone, at the U. B. parsonage, Taneytown, on June 17, 1908, at 8:45 p. m. The bride is the estimable daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bowers of Taneytown district, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Harner, of Harney.

The excessive heat, of this week, which made everything highly inflammable, suggests that extra care be observed in not maintaining anywhere about buildings, nests of rubbish which would easily be set off by a spark. The town authorities have very properly called attention to such dangers. Stray stable yards belong to the list.

A suggestion to our town people. Do not put off until Saturday night your shopping which can just as well be done at some other time. During this season of the year, country people are very busy during the day, and naturally Saturday night brings them to town, from far and near, in great numbers. Let them have the full time and attention of our merchants, at least this one night of the week.

Sometimes, when people get something for nothing, they are very ill-natured and thoughtless over the favor. Mr. Daniel Noll complains that persons who have been picking cherries from his trees have greatly damaged the trees by breaking off limbs. In one case, nearly 100 limbs were broken off a tree and thrown into the growing wheat, which was also trampled under foot. Actions such as these constitute offenses to severe punishment—and no cherries hereafter.

For a Sprained Ankle.
As usually treated, a sprained ankle will disable the injured person for a month or more, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle faithfully, a cure may be effected in many cases in less than one week's time. This liniment is a most remarkable preparation. Try it for a sprain or bruise, or when laid up with chronic or muscular rheumatism, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which it affords. For sale by R. S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

KEEPING COOL.

There are various ideas about how best to keep cool in hot weather. If Weary Willie was asked for his recipe he would probably answer: "Sit on a chunk of ice in the shade." Lazy Lew, if interviewed, would undoubtedly say: "Be careful not to heat yourself by doing any work." Rest.
But we are forced to state that the ideas of both gentlemen are based on error. To check the sweating process does not cause coolness. If W. W. and L. L. would get up and work—moderately and with due regard to noon-day heat—their temperature would be really lowered, for coolness comes with perspiration.
Then if they would stop using alcohol, tobacco, ice-drinks, spicy and stimulating foods, and strong tea and coffee, they would feel still cooler.
Yes, and they ought to wear a few fresh leaves in the crown of their hats, and take frequent dips in cool water, not icy water. These precautions, together with freedom from hurry and worry, will keep any man cool in hot weather.

ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE.

But the Pensive Young Man Was More Than Faxed Over the Result.

"I'm in love!" sighed the pensive young man as he threw himself into a morris chair in his friend's apartment. "I know it!" calmly replied his friend.

"You don't know anything of the kind! Why, I didn't know it myself until last night!"

"Nevertheless I know it. Furthermore, I knew it the minute you came to the door and the look at your face told me all about it. And I can describe the girl."

"Suppose you try," challenged the young man, settling back defiantly in his chair.

"To begin with, she's neither short nor tall, but just the right height. Her figure is slender and perfectly well proportioned. Her eyes—why, when one looks into those eyes he thinks of all the shameful, wicked things he has done in the past and resolves to execute many brave, manly deeds in the future for the sake of those two eyes, which seem to stretch clear back to her beautiful white soul. Her cheeks! Ah! They flame instantly into wonderful crimson when by accident you touch her trembling hand—crimson that would make a tropical sunset blanch with envy. And her hair! Why, my boy, her hair is the most beautiful sight on the face of this old earth! To secure a lock of it any fellow would endure the world's bitterest hatred and scorn!"

"Stop!" cried the young man, his face livid with jealousy. "What right—why, how long have you known Marguerite?"

"To secure a lock of it any fellow would endure the world's bitterest hatred and scorn!"

"Then how?" I never saw her!"

"That's easy," said the friend. "Once I was in love myself!"—Dwight Spencer Anderson in Puck.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No. 430 Houston St., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at R. S. McKinney's drug store, 50c.

THE REAL BRYAN.

We have received a copy of "The Real Bryan," published by Personal Help Pub. Co. of St. Louis, Mo., at $1.25, which contains the best things spoken and written by Wm. Jennings Bryan, on over 150 subjects, and covers about every issue of the coming campaign. Admirers of Mr. Bryan will not be able to find any work which will give them, in 320 pages, more of what they will want to know about him. Agents are wanted to sell the work, or it may be had by mail at the price named.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are a proven remedy and will in very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

THE CAKE POINTER.

In the sidebar apprehension "Tillie the hidden answerer. Doughnuts, shrinking from attention. Silver with a maniacal dread. In the pantry doors of the coming campaign. Now begins his ruthless rule. Hungry from all creation. Little Willie's home from school! As the pointer scans the rabbit, As the needle seeks the pole, Willie moves by force of habit Toward such gaseous goal, Swifts the air and uptoes sly To the sidebar, with an smile. "He can smell a cake a mile!"

Once we had a maid named Tillie, Who was shy as any mouse. "Me for angel cake!" said Willie As one day he searched the house. Later Tillie cried, "I did it!" (Saved the cake was what she meant) "Nenth the onions Tillie hid it, Thoreville Willie of the scene!"—Earle Hooker Eaton in Harper's Weekly.

A New One.

Armless Wonder—Chance for a job? Museum Manager—No chance. You armless wonders is chestnuts. A. W.—Yes, but I've been in jail for pickin' pockets.—Cleveland Leader.

Do You Believe This?
An individual in the westland of Tennessee had been stowed away in the best bed of the cottage afforded. Late in the night he was awakened by the creak of a paterfamilias addressed to the daughter, who was entertaining company by the fire.

"Mandy," growled the old man, "is that young man there yet?"

"Yes, pap."

"Is he got his arm around yer waist?"

"Yes, pap."

"You all tell him to take 'a way."

"Aw, ye tell him yerself, pap," replied the girl in a dull, lifeless voice.

"He all a nether stranger to me?"—Success Magazine.

The Melodrama Again.

The beautiful heroine stamped her foot on the villain's head and said: "And you dare deceive me?" she hissed. "Didn't you make a vow that you would never tell me another bare-faced falsehood?"

"And I have kept my vow, Helene Homily. I am barefaced no longer."

In reply the heavy villain flashed a pair of automobile goggles from his pocket and put them on.

"And I have kept my vow, Helene Homily. I am barefaced no longer."

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

Aunt's Valentines

Three sorrowful little faces appeared at Aunt Flora's door at a quarter after 7 on Wednesday morning. They had listened outside to be sure that she was peevishly awake, then softly tapped on the door. Aunt Flora called, "Come in!" with her cheerful voice, and the procession entered.

"You dear little chicks!" she said, as she hurried across the room and bestowed on each pitiful face a morning kiss. "Now, what is the trouble this morning? Why, it looks quite as much like rain right here in this room as it does outdoors!"

"Well, Aunt, it's raining," volunteered Alice, the oldest.

"And you know what you said," added Frank.

"Sure enough, we were going to the store this morning to buy valentines."

"And for a very long time, as it seemed to the children, Aunt Flora's face was puzzled."

"I've thought of a plan," she said at last, "but first let me tell you a story. A very long time ago, when I was a little girl."

"How long ago?" inquired little Dick.

"Oh, a very long time ago, chick," replied Aunt Flora, "longer than any of you are old."

"Aren't you an old, old lady?" remarked Alice.

"Yes, very old," laughed Aunt Flora, who had just celebrated her twenty-eighth birthday.

"But as I was saying," she continued, "when I was a little girl we couldn't buy such pretty valentines as you can today, so we had to make them."

"Make 'em?" inquired Frank.

"Yes, we made them out of paper and drew or painted pictures upon them and wrote verses, and they were pretty too."

"Why can't we do that?" asked Alice.

"Yes, that's just why I told you the story. But now skip to the nursery, and after breakfast I'll come and show you how," said Aunt Flora.

Just as the clock was striking 9 Aunt Flora entered the nursery carrying with her paper, scissors, glue, paints and brushes and all kinds of pretty ribbons. Nurse drew the big table over by the window, and they all sat down while Aunt Flora showed them how to make pretty valentines out of paper.

There were heart shapes with smaller red hearts in the center, hearts with flowers painted upon them, hearts with verses written upon them, squares with frilled edges decorated with hearts and cruel arrows and tokens of love of all sorts. One by one as they were finished they were tied with the pretty ribbons and hung on the curtain rod to dry.

Little Dick made a protest at first because Alice refused to allow him to help decorate her valentines on the plea of his lack of experience and soiled hands, but Aunt Flora suggested that Dick make some all by himself and pin them on the window sill. This suggestion was gratefully received, and such works of art as he conceived! At times he forgot to decorate the paper and adorned his hair, his face and hands and his clothing with large supplies of the red paint.

All day while the rain pattered on the roof the children worked diligently, making valentines for their little friends, and when nurse came to call them to tea they all declared they never had such a fine time on a rainy day.

"Mamma," cried Frank when bedtime came, "you will get something tomorrow! It's round like a heart and says, 'I love you,' but I shall not tell you what it is!"—Youth's Companion.

The Story Telling Club.

Elsie suggested it, and as Elsie led all things the other girls were as quick to follow. There were soon a dozen choice spirits who met only on rainy days for the special manufacture of indoor sunshine.

The club at each meeting was given the names of twelve popular stories. Each member selected one, which she was bound to read before the next meeting. She was also required to carry out the end into a new story of her own writing. This continuation might be as fanciful as she liked, but 500 words were her full allowance.

When the club met one time there were twelve short stories to be read, and the girl at whose house the meeting took place was allowed to choose a judge who was to give an impartial opinion as to the merits of all.

The best story was awarded a prize, and as they were all unsigned and distributed indiscriminately among the members, who did not know whose production they were required to read aloud, the judge was unbiased.

How to Clean a Fan.

To clean a fan place it in a dish and cover with gasoline. Do not attempt to rub the material or the chiffon or lace will in all probability tear and Press tightly until the dirt comes out, and a fan certainly collects a great deal of dust. After freeing it from dust and all blemishes put it into clean gasoline in which there is a drop of bluing. Spread the fan out on a piece of white cloth, pin the two points to stretch the material and let it dry. After it has thoroughly dried cover with talcum powder highly scented and leave for one day. This destroys the odor of gasoline and makes the fan as beautiful as new. If the edges are the least worn, bind with chiffon ribbon, lace beading or a soft felt of lace or ribbon to match the cover.

How to Soften Water.

If one has an irritable skin and the water for bathing is hard something should be used to soften it. Hard water makes hard water very soft and is good for the skin. A couple of quarts of bran put into a bag of cheesecloth will be sufficient for an ordinary bathtub full of water, and its use will make the skin velvety and fine. Oatmeal, barley, rice and other farinaceous substances are often recommended for the same purpose, either alone or in combination, but bran is the cheapest and best of them all. Tincture of benzoin added to the water makes it soft and agreeable. A few drops of ammonia, not too much, will soften water used for the hands or the face.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little early risers, are sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

A DRAMA OF VILLAINY.

Just Suppose That Johann Hoch and Mrs. Guinness Had Met.

"If the paths of Johann Hoch and Mrs. Belle Guinness had crossed and each had conspired to take the life and worldly possessions of the other, each ignorant of the other's plot, the psychological developments and result would have interested criminologists."

The above statement is the substance of a hypothetical proposition originated by the Deputy Sheriff Charles Peters, who finds what he considers striking parallels in the lives and records of these two persons.

"It would have been interesting," he said, from a criminological viewpoint to watch a contest between Mrs. Guinness and Hoch had they met as a result of a matrimonial advertisement of the woman and their schemes had crossed wires.

"She was a female Hoch, and he was a male Guinness. He watched the death notices of men and found out who of them were insured and married the widows whenever he could, putting them out of the way to get the insurance money."

"Mrs. Guinness, according to the reports, advertised for well to do husbands, stating that she was comely and possessed of a fortune, and after getting one would put him out of the way for his money."

"Suppose, now, that Hoch had seen one of her advertisements, answered it and a meeting had been arranged. She would have had him in her mind Hoch's money, and Hoch would have had in his mind her money. They would have come the contest, each plotting, scheming with all of his or her cleverness to get the better of the other."

"It would have been, I believe, any drama of villainy ever produced on the stage. Who would have done the deed? Which of them would now be under the ground, a victim of the other's treachery, and which enjoying the money of the other?"—Chicago News.

A Grotesque Ruler.

Possibly somewhere in the jungles of Africa or perhaps in the mystic east or on the planet Mars there is a president, potentate, shah, rajah, sultan or some other sort of ruler who is as strange and grotesquely impossible as President Nord Alexis of Haiti, but certainly there is none to compare with him in this hemisphere. Castro of Venezuela comes close perhaps, but Castro's style differs, and, while he deifies the great powers of the earth, he does not approach in pure madness the venerable man who sits in the presidential palace at Port au Prince and runs the little black republic to suit himself. Imagine a typical Eastern potentate in a pure Eastern dress of red, orange, blue and gold, a dried yard of age, bloodthirsty and apparently only half civilized, a dealer of death to political enemies, a believer in voodooism, and you have a faint idea of what he is. For anything more one must go to Haiti and see for himself.—Argonaut.

Frozen in For Half a Century.

The old wooden English cabin, an investigator, which has been frozen in at Mercy bay, Bering Island, since Sept. 24, 1851, has at last been freed from the ice. It seems almost incredible that the vessel still remains free. There was melted before in the course of half a century, but nevertheless that is the truth. Last summer was, however, a mild one, and the ship was liberated, while the winter having been open, the vessel still remains free. There will be a general desire to have the ship brought to England, and this will be easy, for it appears she is in sound condition. Sir Robert McClure was commander of the Investigator during the search for the Franklin expedition. The vessel had to be abandoned, and it has been frozen in ever since.—London Mail.

Automatic Coin Assorter.

A recent issue of an Austrian journal gives an account of an automatic money assorter that will assort metal coins which have been thrown together regardless of their denominations, placing each denomination in a separate basket. The various coins are thrown into the assorter in a funnel at the top of the machine, and from the funnel they slide downward, alighting on a spiral track. This track has a projecting edge or raised border containing silts corresponding to the various sizes of the coins. As the coins of various denominations glide downward on to the track through some peculiar mechanism of the machine they pass through the silts corresponding to their various sizes and fall into respective baskets at the bottom of the machine.

Packard

The Best Friend

to you at all times. Books? No. They express the opinions of their authors. Sometimes you agree, sometimes you don't. A good musical instrument? Yes. It expresses your own sentiments, is always in harmony with you.

The Packard is just such a friend. Strong, inspiring, brilliant when you are joyful. Mellow, tender, sympathetic when you are sad. Always perfect, true, dependable.

Come in. It will be a pleasure to run over this instrument. Its touch is so responsive, its tone so plastic, it expresses your every mood.

You have no idea how sweet a piano can be until you hear the Packard.

To our Customers and other Business Farmers within Rail and Hauling Distance.

Gentlemen:—

In the purchase of Fertilizers, the first point for the buyer to consider is the importance of securing from his dealer, the product of manufacturers whose integrity can not be questioned, because they can be relied upon from every standpoint.

We are offering to our customers the BAUGH make, as we believe thoroughly in BAUGH & SONS COMPANY, and are satisfied that you will be convinced of the desirability of using their goods permanently, if you will call upon us, or place a trial order with us for their products. Or, should you happen to be in Baltimore or Philadelphia, if you will visit the BAUGH plant.

The character of the BAUGH goods is well known, as they are used throughout the Middle and Southern States, and as far West as freight charges will permit. Indeed, there would be no limit to their territory if it were not that freight rates become prohibitive beyond a certain distance.

The question of their quality is never raised among those who are well informed on the subject of Fertilizer, because it is admitted everywhere that the BAUGH goods are Superior.

They were the original make of Raw Bone Manures placed upon the market, and have been used successfully for more than half a century.

Never in the history of our business have we felt more confidence and satisfaction in offering the BAUGH brands to our customers than at the present time. We feel that in them we have the quality of Fertilizers that will pay you best, and as our interests are common, and nothing but mutual good can result from a straightforward business transaction between us, we shall look forward to getting your order or seeing you before many days.

In the meantime, we are

Truly Yours,

THE REINDOLLAR COMPANY.

THE CARROLL RECORD COMPANY.

Taneytown, Md., July 1, 1908.

Mr. Business Man;

Dear Sir:—

Although a little late, we have added a large supply of Type-writer type for circular letters, owing to a continuous demand for it, and are now able to do this class of work in any color. The face imitates that of the latest improved type-writers—neat letters and perfect alignment—and at slight extra cost we can imitate the ribbon effect, print the heading in one color and the type-written body of the letter in another—purple, blue or green.

This is a good time of the year to provide your business stationery needs for Fall. Take a look around and let us have your orders now. Perhaps you want to use Calendars, or a neat Booklet, or Blotter, or something attractive in the way of a Card. Perhaps you want to advertise more extensively. We can fix you up in good shape, if you will give us the chance.

Very Truly Yours,

THE CARROLL RECORD CO.
