NEWS NOTES HERE AND THERE

Condensed Items of Interest from County, State and Our Exchanges.

Senator Daniel, of Virginia, noted for his scholarly ability and oratory, is dying at Daytona, Florida, of paralysis.

The President has named Harry P. Gorsuch, as postmaster of Westminster, and his name has been sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Municipal elections in the state of New York, this week, show Democratic gains. It is claimed by Democrats that these elections show the turn of the tide. and that the same results will be in evidence, in November, at the Congressional elections.

The Cumberland City Hall, which was also used by the Masonic fraternity, Odd Fellows, Opera House and several stores, was destroyed by fire, on Monday. The loss is about $75,000. The Masons lose about $15,000, with onefourth insurance, while the city carried about $60,000 insurance.

The House Committee on Naval affairs, on Tuesday, favorably reported a bill appropriating $500,000 to raise the sunken battleship Maine, from Havana harbor. This project has been discussed from various view points, for several years. Many claim that the raising of the vessel will show that it was wrecked by an explosion on the inside, and not by a Spanish torpedo.

The dissolution of the Standard Oil Co. is now a question for the Supreme Court of the United States to grapple with alone. The final argument of the famous suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as a conspiracy and a monopoly in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Law, was made on Wednesday, and the court took the matter under consideration.

Because his parishioners attend a roller-skating rink in preference to his church, Rev. R. E. Aiken, pastor of the Methodist Church at Partello, Mich., has closed his church. Before deciding to shut up the church Mr. Aiken told his church board that he thought the only way the parishioners would attend church would be to take the pews out of the church and give a dancing party, and then, he said, even the churchyard would be crowded.

Getting drunk on "candy" has become such a widespread practice among men, women and children in the Chicago stockyards quarter that the State Food Department has announced its purpose to stop the sale of intoxicating bon bons. 'One particular 'candy' excels the vilest whisky for intoxicating results," said Assistant Commissioner John B. New-'These bon bons contain a medical intoxicant containing 32½ per cent. ness, but sickness. We found that many candy shells filled with whiskey are sold to women and children."

Blood flowed freely, faces were battered, one man was knocked unconscious and many others were more or less seriously injured Tuesday night in one of the worst class fights that Gettysburg College has ever witnessed. The affair was the outcome of the annual banquet of the Sophomores. The Freshmen had heard of the affair and proceeded to the hotel to await the coming of the second year men. When the latter appeared the voungsters swooped down on them with a free-for-all fight as the result. It was necessary to convert several nearby business places into temporary hospitals and some of the injuries were found to be severe. The banquet was held with a dozen members missing.

Bill Providing for $500,000 Bond Issue for Public Roads.

The proposed Road law for Carroll county, which provides for a road Commission and the issue of $500,000 in bonds for the improvement of the roads of the county, was introduced in the House, last week, by Mr. Hesson.

The bill provides for the issue of $500,-000 in bonds, not more than $100,000 of which shall be expended in any one year, to bear interest not to exceed 31 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and to run 50 years but re-deemable at the pleasure of the county commissioners after 35 years.

The County Commissioners, and two other persons appointed by the Judge of Circuit Court, one of whom shall be from the minority party, will constitute the Good Roads Commission of Carroll County. The Compensation of the two special members of the Jommission is fixed at $600.00 per-annum, and the County Commissioners are to receive as their compensation their usual per diem for additional duties imposed on them. Each district in the county is to have spent in it the proportion of the fund which its road mileage bears to the total road mileage of the county.

The bill also provides for a roads engineer, and for meetings in each district giving citizens the opportunity of dis-cussing plans reported by the engineer and commission, the selection of roads to be improved, etc.

The Board of Election Supervisors of the County shall place on the ballot, in 1910, the proposition, "shall Carroll County borrow $500,000., to build good roads" and the words, "For Good Roads Loan' and "Against Good Roads Loan," and the vote shall be returned with the other returns of the county. If the majority of votes is "Against" the proposition, then it shall have no effect.

The bill also contains details for advertising and selling the bonds, the laying of a sufficient amount of taxes to provide for interest and redemption, contracting, etc.

Reindollar---Leister.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Norman R. Reindollar and Miss Elsie V. Leister were united in marriage at the Lutheran parsonage, by Rev. Wm. E. Wheeler. The ceremony was private, the only attendants being Mr. G. Walter Wilt, of Taneytown, and Miss Bessy Zile, of near Frizellburg. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Periodeller were divers to Korman. Mrs. Reindollar were driven to Keymar, where they took the afternoon train for Baltimore.

The couple are both prominently known in Taneytown, and while their marriage was suspected, it was nevertheless a well kept secret. Mr. Reindollar is a salesman in the general store of D. M. Mebring, and his bride is a daughter of Mrs. A. H. Bankard, of the Hotel Bankard. On their return from a brief wedding trip, they will continue to reside in Taneytown. Their many friends unite in wishing them a long and happy

Death of Mrs. Joseph Myers.

Myers, living just outside of Taneytown, on the Westminster road, died very suddenly, on Thursday evening. She had been in her usual health during the day, but while pursuing her household duties, after supper, suddenly fell to the floor, unconscious. She recovered consciousness, after a short time, but died soon afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers were preparing to move, in a few weeks, back to their old home near Baust church, in order to be nearer their children. Mrs. Mvers was in her 67th. year. The funeral will be held on Sunday morning, meeting at the house at 9 o'clock, and services and interment will take place at Baust church. Mrs. Myers leaves a number of sons and daughters, and many relatives and friends.

Death of Mr. Philip Jacob Rinaman.

Philip Jacob Rinaman died suddenly on Wednesday of last week, of heart failure, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harris Vandiver, near Hampstead, at the age of sixty-six years and three

Mr. Rinaman was born near Hampstead, and was a carpenter by trade.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs.
Harris Vandiyer, who lives near Hampstead, and Mrs. Dr. Coburn, near Philadelphia; also by one brother, Wm. H. Rinaman, of Taneytown, and one sister, Mrs. Curtis Eckard, of Taneytown dis-

The funeral services were held in the Greenmount U. B. church, last Saturday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. Strine conducted the services and interment was made in the Greenmount cemetery.

Death of Mr. Samuel Roop.

Samuel Roop, 63 years old, a wealthy resident, died in Westminster, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Woodward, Wednesday afternoon. He was a member of the firm of Roberts Roop & Co., proprietors of a large roller mill. Until coms pelled by ill health to retire, he wapresident of the First National Bank of Westminster. He was also president of Westminster and Meadow Branch Turnpike Company and the owner of a fine estate at Meadow Branch. He was one of the leaders of the Republican party in Carroll county and a member of the State Central Committee. In 1881 was a candidate for the : House of Delegates, and was beaten by only 37 votes; in 1888 he was on the Republican Presidential electoral ticket and in 1892 was a delegate to the Republican national convention. Thirty-five years ago he married Miss Eugenia Cleveland, of California, a sister of Mrs. Charles night the House was still in session. #### CENSUS INFORMATION

An Official Statement Made by Director of Census to the People.

On April 15, in the present year, 1910, the census of the United States begins. It occurs every ten years. It is the basis of the distribution among the states of representation in the National House of Representatives. It is also the means by which the United States Government ascertains the increase in the population, agriculture, industries, and resources of the nation. It is required by the Constitution and by act of Congress. The information sought will be used solely for general statistical purposes. It will neither be published nor used in any other way to disclose facts regarding any individual or enterpaise.

The census is not, never has been, and can not be employed to obtain information that can be used in any way in the assessment of property for purposes of taxation or the collection of taxes, national, state, or local; for deportation proceedings; extradition measures; Army or Navy conscription; compulsory school attendance; child-labor law prosecutions; quarantine regulations; or in any way to affect the life, liberty, or property of any

It has nothing whatever to do with the detection, arrest, prosecution, or punishment of any person, for any suspected, or actual, violation of a law, whether of a city, or state, or the National Government, or of a foreign na-

The census inquiries are defined by act of Congress. The questions on the schedules are framed by the Director of the Census in conformity with that act. They apply to all persons living in the United States on April 15, next, the "Census Day." The same questions are asked about each person. All persons must answer all the questions.

The census law, with reference to population, requires that the enumerator's questions shall, for each inhabitant,

"The name, relationship to head of family, color, sex, age, conjugal condition, place of birth, place of birth of parents, number of years in the United States, citizenship, occupation, whether or not employer or employee, and, if employee, whether or not employed at the date of enumeration (April 15, 1910,) and the number of months unemployed during the preceding calendar year (1909,) whether or not engaged in agriculture, school attendance, literacy, and tenure of home, and wheth-er or not a survivor of the Union or Confederate Army or Navy; and the name and address of each blind or deaf and dumb person."

The same law, with reference to agriculture, requires that the enumerator's questions shall call for:

"The name, color, and country of birth of occupant of each farm, tenure, acreage of farm, acreage of woodland and character of timber thereon, value of farm and improvements, value of farm implements, number and value of Mrs. Elizabeth C., wife of Mr. Joseph live stock on farms and ranges, number and value of domestic animals not on farms and ranges and the acreage of crops planted and to be planted during the year of enumeration (1910,) and the acreage of crops and the quantity and value of crops and other farm products for the year ending December thirtyfirst (1909) next preceding the enumera-

Census enumerators wearing badges with "U. S. Census 1910" stamped on them, will go from house to house, farm to tarm, beginning April 15. They are not to be regarded as spies, detectives, policemen, constables, tax assessors, or officers of any city, county, or state. They are employed by the U. S. Bureau of the Census. They do not represent any other department of the United Sattes Government, or any foreign nation.

No person should hesitate, neglect, or refuse to answer all the enumerator's questions. He only asks those necessary to fill the schedules which are required by law. Nothing that is told him can in any way be used to the detriment or damage of any person, or his family, or his property.

Replies to enumerators are, and must be, held by the Census Bureau in strict and absolute confidence.

All the U. S. Census officials, supervisors, supervisors' clerks, enumerators, and interpreters, before entering upon their duties, are obliged to take a solemn oath not to disclose any information they may obtain, except to the Census Bureau, and a violation of the United States law in regard to this oath means a $1,000 fine, or imprisonment for two years, or both, in the discretion of the

If any adult person refuses or wilfully neglects to answer an enumerator's questions, or, if any person willfully gives answers that are false, he or she can be arrested carried to court, and fined up to $100. Keepers of hotels, apartment houses, tenements or other buildings, in which persons make their homes, must help the enumerator when asked, or they will be liable to arrest and punishment by a fine up to $500. E. Dana Durand, Director.

Revolution in the House.

A big fight is going on in the House of Representatives, at Washington, against the Rules Committee and Speak-Insurgent Republicans and Democrats are united in demanding material changes in the rules, which will minimize the power of the Speaker. This fight has been brewing for some time, and on Thursday continued throughout the day, and up to mid-

The Regulars and Mr. Cannon are holding off a vote and the battle will continue to-day. Members have been summoned by wire from Philadelphia and New York and all points possible to reach. The outlook is that the revoter, and the latter's sons and daughters lutions will win, as the rules are very objectionable to many not classed as insurgents.

Reply to Dr. Lewis' Letter.

(For the RECORD.)
Having read President Lewis' letter, recently published in many papers, I admit it to be ably gotten up, such as is to be expected from the president of a College, but do not find anything in it to refute the following facts:

1. That Western Md. College did not originate from public necessity, and is entirely a creation of the Methodist Protestant church.

2. That the Methodist Protesant church has no claims on the State other than such claims as rightfully belong to all other churches in the State, and that the State has no right to afford financial aid to one without doing the same to all, and with such aid, all other churches could carry on the same sort of school. The State furnishing a large number of students to each and paying for them out of the people's money; and, like Western Md. College, their continuance would soon become a burdensome charge on the people, amounting to millions every few years, and at the same time excluding at least 95 per cent. of the people of the whole State from all benefit therein.

3. That other churches have been clamoring for the same favor, for the same purpose, and how can the State consistently refuse them and at the same time continue to shell out for Western Md. College.

4. Western Md. College builds and improves its property with money furnished by the State and then takes students from other States for no higher charge than students from Maryland. A generous State indeed.

Let the State of Maryland give us more College Park, where students can all enter on the same terms, and have a chance to get industrial training along with the classical education.

I deem it proper to mention that the Trustees of Western Md. College in so far as I am acquainted with them, are my personal friends, and that the above is not written in prejudice. JNO. T. CASSELL, Westminster, Md.

Coming of the Shad.

At scores of the towns and hamlets located along the Maryland tidewaters the arrival of the first herring is an annual event, for the first herring is known to be an advance guard of a vast oncoming army of intermingled herrings and shad. Reports from the lower end of the Chesapeake Bay indicate that the annual ocean tribe invasion has begun. Before the 1st of April this advancing army of fishes will be more than 100 miles long. several miles wide and probably from 12 to 20 feet in depth. More than a thousand tons of these fish, judging by past experience, will be taken. Not only every table in Maryland be served with them, but they will be sent outside the state in trainloads and shiploads during the three or four weeks that the catching season is on.

The State of Maryland possesses an immensely valuable asset in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, not alone from the commercial advantages which the waterways afford but, because of the vast and varied food supply which these waters annually yield. The oyster crop, taken during the cold weather months, has a monetary value in excess of $1, 000,000, which might be increased to an annual value of many millions. The yield of swimming fishes, upon whole, is of much greater value than the oyster yield and the crab yield, including softshells and hardshells, annually distributed over half the United States.

By artificial breeding and by intelligently directed conservation methods the food yield of the Chesapeake and its tributaries can be doubled and perhaps quadrupled. Mankind is just beginning to learn how to farm the waters. Some day our Maryland tidewaters will be made to yield as intensively as an Anne

WORK OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Another Disfranchising Amendment likely to be Voted on in 1911.

A bill has been presented asking for another $1,000,000. to be added to the $5,000,000 road loan. The additional million is to be used for bridges across county lines, and also to build a boulevard from Baltimore to Annapolis.

No more public hearings are likely to be given, after this week. Some of the committees claim that the number of hearings, and the persistency of delegations, has been partly responsible for the delay of action on important measures. A large number of bills are still in the hands of committees, unreported, although but two weeks of the session

Senator Dodson, on Wednesday, introduced the Antisaloon League's local option bill. All of the provisions in the state-wide measure are retained, except that it eliminates Baltimore city, applying only to the counties, and that, instead of submitting the question at a special election, it is to be decided at a general election. The bill went to the Committee on Temperance. This measure has a better chance of passing than had the other, but it will probably be further amended before it reaches the passing stage. The senators from Baltimore, Washington and Allegany counties will surely ask that their counties be excepted. Whether they will be accorded what is termed senatorial courtesy remains to be seen. If they are, then others may follow suit. The Democratic leaders have committed themselves to the bill, Senator Gorman being outspoken in favor of the new bill.

A bill to repeal the Wilson election law was defeated in the Senate, on Wednesday, after a long debate, by a strict party vote 20 to 6. In the debates on such questions, there is little or no attempt to urge intelligence qualifications, but sentiment is openly manifested that the negro should be disfranchised, regardless of any qualifications which would entitle him to vote, as compared with ignorant white citizens.

Chairman Murray Vandiverannounced on Wednesday, that the Democratic members of the Legislature would hold a caueus next Tuesday night in the House of Delegates Chamber on the question of submitting another suffrage amendment to the voters of the State. The petition for the caucus, which was circulated by Senator Frere and Delegate Digges, both of Charles county, was signed by every Democratic Sena-tor and Delegate and was presented to Senator Lee, of Montgomery county, who will act as chairman of the caucus. Senator Lee turned it over to General Vandiver, who, as the chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, is

To Owners of Wood Lots.

In order to promote by object lessons the practice of forestry throughout the State, the Board of Forestry makes an offer to wood-lot owners that should meet with general approval. Under the plan proposed anyone who is interested may apply to the State Forester, Baltimore, Maryland, for an examination of his woodlot with a view of making it one of the model demonstration forests. The State Forester will then examine it and if found suitable for the purpose, a plan of management will be submitted to the owner for his acceptance or rejection. There is no expense to the landowner on account of the exami-nation. If the plan is mutually satis-factory, work begins. The general scheme is indicated by the following extract from a circular that has just been

"Since the object of this work is to demonstrate practical forestry in all of its phases, the aim will be to treat each woodlot in the most approved manner to secure its greatest productiveness, thereby meeting the needs of the owner and showing his neighbors, who may be similarly situated, what they can do for themselves. The general plan will be for the forester to outline the work in Where thinnings and improvement cuttings are to be made he will mark the trees to be cut; where fire lines are to be constructed he will lay them out; where planting is to be undertaken he will locate the areas to be planted and recommend the species of trees to be used and show how the planting is to be done and so with all parts of the work that may be agreed upon. The owner will be required to furnish all the labor that may be needed and be will have full control of the disposal of the products from the woodlot, and receive all revenues derived therefrom. In consideration of the advice and assistance given and in order that the woodlot may serve its full purpose as a demonstration forest, the owner shall agree to carry out in good faith the plans agreed upon and to permit the State Forester to give public demoustrations of practical forest operations, while the improvement work is in progress and to publish such results of the Arundel strawberry farm. - Chestertown | work from time to time as he may think proper.

Through a photograph of Miss Viola Barnes, who resides about 10 miles from Westminster, which she sent to an ac-quaintance, Albert Jeffries, 20 years old, of Shoreham, Long Island, was arrested on Monday on a charge of stealing a watch from the mails.

Miss Barnes is a daughter of Levi Barnes, a prosperous farmer. When she visited the family of Herbert Pickett, at Shoreham, last summer she became acquainted with Jeffries. They became close friends, and before she left for home she gave her photograph to Jeffries. Jeffries has been employed in the Shoreham Postoffice and had often been left in charge of it by the Postmaster, H. M. Whiting. Early in December Mr. Whiting was told by O. A. Randall, of Shoreham that a watch mailed to him term a factory on Newspher 17, had not from a factory on November 17, had not been received. Postoffice inspectors questioned Jeffries, but he denied knowing anything of the watch.

About a month ago Mr. Randall received a package which contained the watch and on opening the lid of the case he discovered a photograph of a young

Wagner the Litigant, in Jail.

Washington, March 15.-Arousing the United States Senate to a sense of its ignorance of national history by his claim that he alone won the battle of Gettysburg and that be lost property by reason of the fact, valued at $45,600, Dr. Harrison Wagner, of Montgomery county, Maryland, who has the reputation of instituting more law suits than any man in his State, was arrested by Detective Cliff Grant of the United States Attor-ney's office and sent to the District jail, where he will be examined by physicians as to his sanity.

Yesterday he petitioned a committee of the Senate that the Government reimburse him for loss sustained by "his winning the Gettysburg battle," but the committee declined to consider the demand and announced his story "might do well for the story books and pamph-lets, but when it is to be weighed as evidence it is worth nothing."

He recited in his petition that the Government owes him an inestimable debt "for having saved the battle of Gettys-burg from being lost to the Government and the Union Army by having the rebel spy arrested in Woodsboro, Frederick county, in 1863, during the Gettysburg campaign." Further details of the coup, which as it now develops, snatches the laurels from General Meade, are not given by the element.

given by the claimant. It is set forth, however, that his activity in capturing the unnamed spy drew down upon his head the wrath of his community; that his stock of medi-cine, valued at $45,600, was destroyed; that he sold his lands at a sacrifice, and that he has never been rewarded by the Government which he saved from de-required to issue the call.

It is believed that the Democrats will decide to submit another amendment to the voters at the general election in November, 1911. The Democratic members from the counties in which the newbors from the counties in which the newbors of fact is its weakness. The barrenness of fact is its weakness. The gro vote is heavy are demanding that the fight for the elimination of the illierate negro from the politics of the State may do well for story books, but when

When Dr. Wagner learned of the action by the "ungrateful" Senators he was sore at heart and decided to bring suit against the Federal Government. But the saddest blow of all was when Detective Grant placed him under arlows, therefore, that additional funds rest. The action was based on the comestate, against which Wagner filed a claim for $5000.

Roosevelt Back to Civilization.

Khartoum, Atrica, March 14.-Looking the picture of health and physical fitness showing in every line. Theodore Roosevelt came back to-day from the long trail over which be had spent nearly a year in the pursuit of game. Thousands of persons had gathered here to see him, and they descried from afar the familiar form and more familiar smilemade so even to those who had never before set eyes on the ex-President of the United States by the countless pictures of him which have recently been pub-

Later in the day there was a joyous reunion of Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt and their children, Kermit, and Miss-Ethel, in the North Station of Khartoum, Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter arriving there about half-past five o'clock in the evening.

A launch carrying the representatives of the governor general of Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Major General Sir Francis Reginald Wingate, sirdar of the Egyp-tian army, met the steamer Dal up the river. On this small craft Colonel Roosevelt and the members of his party had voyaged for more than 1,300 miles from Gondokoro in Uganda, where they embarked on February 28. It was a wearisome trip, for there was little to be seen, and the latter part of the voyage was exceedingly uninteresting, the river sometimes being a mile and a half wide, with mud flats on either side where only crocdetail and to organize and superintend odiles abound, and towards the end Colonel Roosevelt displayed considerable anxiety to be ashore.

For several hours the Dal tied up opposite Gordons Tree, within sight of Khartoum, and during that time Colonel Roosevelt occupied himself in answering hundreds of cablegrams and letters which had accumulated here. All observers remarked his fitness and energy, and among them were those who had noted in Colonel Roosevelt when he left New York a year ago the effects of the strain of a long and strenuous term in office. From these effects he has now completely recovered, and although apparently the hardships which he underwent in the wilds of Africa have not reduced his flesh to any appreciable degree, he looks, to use his own words, able to "hit the line hard.' Although the ex-President has refused to grant an interview or give out a statement on public questions until he is in possession of the fullest information on points, he realizes, he says, that he has before him a series of harder working days than jungle hunting.

End of Lent, and Shopping.

As Lent will soon end, the women of the land are considering the Easter hat and gown more than the daily church service. So the shopping season is in full blast, and soon the milliner and dressmaker will be working night and day. A man gets over his Easter shopping easily and quickly. He can select lief that their party is the one first en-titled to be entrusted with the cares and and decorated infernal machines? In over with the business.

But shopping is a large part of wo-man's existence and a vital part of her daily life. It no doubt consumes time, often to a wasteful extent, but yet it does good in others. It is the source of competition. No store is sure of a stable patronage so long as our sisters run from one to the other to get an article a cent or two cheaper or a shade or two

So shopping not only compels the merchant to sell at the lowest possible margin of profit, but forces manufac-turers to get out the most artistic styles for body and head adornment. Of course, Fashion makes a sad mess of things with either a dough dish, peach basket or chanticleer hat, but in the main she

But no amount of ridicule has stopped the increasing number of department stores During recent years, in fact, England and the continent have been compelled to provide similar gymnasia in order that American women need not get out of training when temporarily away from their native facilities.

Little as they may like the idea, moreover, men are themselves regarded in the light of bargains, and the process of shopping for them may be watched any summer, at any summer resort. The bargains in this case range all the way from imported noblemen to native clerks on vacation. #### SEED CORN EVANGELIST.

How Professor Holden Taught lowa Farmers to Plant Good Grain.

One day in 1904 an Iowa college professor worked out a problem in arithmetic which caused him to catch some of the zeal which the evangelists had caught in their training schools, and he resolved on a campaign in behalf of yellow and white, variegated and red, dent and flint, Indian corn, almost as unusual as that adopted by the traveling evangelists who had been calling men to account for the waste of life by wickedness

Professor Holden's little problem showed the farms were increasing in value because of the new and complex development and new armies of pioneers pushing into the west. At the rate they were producing the best would soon stop "paying dividends" on a valuation of $100 per acre.

Thirty years ago, with land worth $8 to $20 per acre, a farmer did not need to be as careful as he must be today, when the same land is worth from $75 to $150 per acre. "There must be better farming in the middle west, and one way to do it is to go out among the farmers and show them that the 'book farmers' in the agricultural colleges are practical farmersthat they are capable of making more than a living on forty acres and would not starve to death on 160 acres, as the farmers say sometimes," said Holden after having thought the matter

Other men were giving thought to the same problem of rising land values and lagging production. As early as 1896 Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, in company with State Dairy Commissioner Boardman, had made a trial of the special train as an educational agent in a campaign for the stimulation of dairy interest through the Des Moines valley. Now the former and Superintendent Given of the Rock Island road turned their attention to the corn question. They called Professor Holden into their councils. It was at once manifest that he was the ideal executive—the man to do the work.

Accordingly Professor Holden planned a campaign in lowa with the as sistance of railroad managers. He would take a special train and go out on the railroads where he could meet the farmers and show them that science only simplifies.

Professor Holden's plan was not to go into plant breeding, but to confine himself largely to insisting that the farmers plant selected seed corn, seed which had been tested in a simple device which could be made in any farm workshop. Given this hint in lectures and by the use of charts, the Iowa educator believed the direct result would be instantaneous, while the fairyland of science would be opened a little' way to the farmers, and they would realize after the first year or two of experimenting that by harnessing up and using the forces of heredity in corn and other farm crops production could be greatly increased and consequently the profits of farming become greater, the land "pay dividends" on a higher valuation, because brains had been mixed with muscle in meeting

The work Professor Holden proposed to do was evangelistic, and when his trains were started down the long lines of shimmering steel they became known as "seed corn gospel trains."

Some of the figures Professor Holden presented were startling, but they sent large audiences of farmers away from the meetings pledged never again to select seed corn from a crib with a scoop shovel.

Remedy For Potato Blight.

An effectual remedy for potato blight has been found in bordeaux mixture, which consists of four pounds of copper sulphate and five or six pounds of fresh lime in sixty gallons of water. This remedy is also effectual against what is known as the early blight, which attacks the early varieties, while the late blight seldom appears before the first of August and does not attack the late kinds unless they are planted late in the season. This mixture can be used in connection with paris green or arsenate of lead for the potato beetle. The arsenical article is especially valuable, as it does not burn the foliage and adheres so firmly that it is not easily washed off by rain. When spraying with this in connection with the bordeaux mixture, use two pounds of the arsenate in fifty gallons, and use when the beetles first appear. This will prove very effective, though if other beetles appear later in the season it will be necessary to spray again in order to protect the growth made after the first application.

POWER CONCRETE MIXER.

Homemade Device That Is Useful on

Of interest to farmers who need cement for any purpose, such as laying floors or walks or making posts, is a bulletin issued by the Colorado experiment station which tells of mixing concrete by machinery and prints the accompanying illustration of a homemade mixer, which is described

Two pieces of 4 by 6 form the sills. Upon these two, uprights about three feet high are fastened. A one and onehalf inch pipe passes through holes bored in the top of the uprights. Upon this pipe the mixing box is turned, and through the pipe the water is added to the mixture at the desired time. The water is poured in at the top of the upright pipe and flows down and out through holes which are drilled in prices in the lower side of it. The other end of the pipe is closed by a wooden plug.

POWER CONCRETE MIXER.

The ends of the box are made of pieces of 2 by 8 bolted together. A hole bored in the center of each end forms the bearings. The sides of the box are made of one inch lumber and are simply nailed to the ends with twelvepenny nails. One-half of the box is made so that it can be detached and lifted off when the mixer is to be filled or emptied. The detachable half is secured to the other half by means of strong hooks so placed that by slipping this 'half about an inch to one side all of the hooks are loosened at once. After it is in position the removable portion is held in place by means of a barn door latch.

The driving gear is simple, but very effective. It consists of the rim taken from the wheel of an old rubber tire buggy. With the tire removed the grooved rim makes a very satisfactory wheel upon which to run a three-quarter inch rope belt. The belt is driven by a small sheave pulley, which is fastened to the countershaft. A belt tightener is used upon the rope, and by using a very loose belt the tightener is made to act as a friction clutch. This particular mixer is driven by a two horse gasoline engine, which is belted to the countershaft. The engine runs continuously, and the mixer is started and stopped by means of the belt tightener.

Many other systems of driving might have been used in place of the rope belt. The main gear of an old self binder makes an excellent gear for a mixer. An old mower gear may also be put to good use in this connection. It is not necessary to have the mixer driven by an engine or horse power. A crank may be attached and the ma-chine turned by hand. Many prefer turning such a machine rather than mixing the concrete with a shovel.

CITY MEN FOR FARMS.

Many Would Make Good Hired Hands if They Had Chance.

Many farmers throughout the country find it a difficult matter to get hired hands, while in the great cities there are thousands of men out of work. The problem of inducing some of the down and outs of city life to go out on the farms is claiming the attention of social students.

A commission of the New York legislature recently has been making an inquiry into the matter, though it has not taken up the subject exhaustively. John Mitchell, the noted labor leader, was present at one of the sessions and made suggestions.

The chief trouble seems to be that those in the cities who are always deep in poverty know nothing of country life, seldom if ever having seen the green fields. They were born to their conditions and know nothing

Thousands of these men, no doubt, if they should be taken out and given jobs on farms would return to the city as soon as they earned money enough. That is because the city sights and sounds have become second nature to them. They would pine for the filth and furore of their native element. But, on the other hand, there is no doubt that many men in the cities would welcome a chance to get away to the country for themselves and their families and would develop into excellent farm hands. The problem is to put these men in touch with farmers who need them.

Beef and Dairy Cattle.

When a dairyman has faced the actual practice of selling cows from his herd for beef he will not feel encouraged over the outlook of combining beef and dairy qualities in the same herd. There is a popular prejudice against eating beef from an old, played out dairy cow, and there is no advantage in trying to combine the two qualities in on animal.

Sweet Cucumber Pickles.

Slice the cucumbers and lay in strong brine for three days, then drain and lay in fresh water for a day. Line a kettle with grape leaves and arrange the cucumbers in it in layers, strewing a pinch of alum over each layer. Cover with cold water, put over the top layer of cucumbers three layers of the grape leaves, fit on the lid and steam the pickles at the side of the range for six hours. Drain and throw into cold water and when firm drain with boiling vinegar that has been seasoned with a cupful of sugar to each quart, eight black peppers, eight six allspice. Seal the jar while still overflowing. Set aside several months to ripen before using.

Profuse Perspiration.

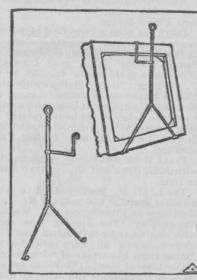

Some of its most unpleasant effects may be allayed by bathing the parts affected with a lotion made of one part of boracic acid to twenty of hot water. Boracic acid in the form of powder may also be dusted on the skin and will be found a valuable agent in overcoming the trouble. Sleeves which are too tight, either along the arms or in the armholes, frequently occasion excessive perspiration of the hands. For the latter use a spoonful of ammonia in the rinsing water and then before putting on gloves bathe the palms with the following solution: Powdered alum, onehalf an ounce; boiling water, one pint; spirits of ammonia, one teaspoonful.

Spiced Celery.

Fifteen ripe tomatoes, five bunches of celery, two cupfuls of sugar, one and a half cupfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of mustard, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, one teaspoonful of ground allspice, one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of celery seed and one good sized red pepper. Chop the celery, peppers and tomatoes together, then mix all the ingredients and boil slowly one and a half hours. This will be found delicious with any kind of meat and will keep well if sealed up in bottles with parffin melted over the cork.

Handy Picture Hanger.

Illustrated herewith is a handy picture hanger that can be adjusted to fit any size of frame. The device is of wire and the body has a loop at the top by which it can be hung on a nail. The legs flare outward and have supporting hooks for feet, and the single arm, bent at right angles at the elbow has a hook at the top. The picture frame rests on the feet and is kept in place by the arm, which can be moved up and down the body so that it can be adjusted to almost any size picture The trouble of measuring wire and gauging it so that the picture hangs flat is obviated, as the device described is so made that the body rests flat against the wall for its whole length and keeps the picture at a proper angle.

Washing Tinted Fabrics.

To wash delicately tinted fabrics and have them retain their color make a large panful of thin flour starch. When sufficiently cool take one-half of the starch to wash the garment in, rubbing carefully by hand, and when all the soil has been removed rinse in the clean portion of starch and hang in the shade to dry.

Stenciled curtains are nicely laundered in this way which would fade if washed in the usual way or sent to be dry cleaned.

Mending Table Linen.

A neat way to mend a hole in table linen is to darn it with linen threads off an old tablecloth. It will look much neater than a patch sewed on. It is advisable to keep a piece of a discarded tablecloth in the mending basket for that purpose.

For Aching Feet. Bathe feet in very little water with a good deal of yellow bar soap-common bar soap-or rub a little soap on the feet for awhile. Do not wear black hose unless they have white feet.

To Iron Pongee.

When laundering any article made of pongee iron it without first sprinkling it and you will find it looks far newer and silkier than when dampen-

Temples of Siam.

Once a year all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king or his deputies, bearing the phra kathin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha monks and priests were sent out to beg for old castoff garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required roles. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from a new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suit. The king on arriving takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.-Wide World Magazine.

Won by His Wit.

A story is told of an English clergyman who owed his appointment to a rich living to a lucky pun. He was tutor to the son of a nobleman and had not long taken orders when he attended the funeral of the rector of the parish in which the nobleman's seat was situated. The father of his pupil was patron of the living and was also present at the funeral of the deceased rector. There was a young clergyman present also whose grief was so demonstrative that the noble patron was much affected by the sight and asked if the young man was a son of the deceased gentleman. "Oh, dear, no, my lord-no relation at all," said the tutor.

"No relation!" exclaimed the nobleman in a surprised tone.

"None, my lord. He is the curate, and I think he is not weeping for the dead, but for the living." His lordship, who was something of a wit and a cynic himself, was so delighted with the bonmot that he conferred the living upon the ready pun-

Through a Big Telescope.

The first look through a great telescope is disappointing, but the novice soons sees that the flat appearance which the heavens present to the naked eye is replaced by a curious concavity; the moon and stars seem to be hung in space rather than spread out on a flat surface. For a moment one feels at the telescope like a child watching the swift moving balls kept in the air by a juggler and expecting to see one of those great, bright bodies fall. Then comes the thought, What keeps them there, apparently suspended in space with absolutely nothing to hold them firm? The explanation of the learned astronomer causes the brain of the layman to whirl, and he sees himself, perhaps for the first time, as a child gathering pebbles on the great shores of the sea of knowledge or as "an infant in the night, an infant crying for the light, and with no language but a cry."-National Maga-

Of the late Atherton Blight, one of the founders of fashionable Newport, a Philadelphian said:

"Mr. Blight was amused by the antics of the militant suffragettes. At a luncheon at the Bellevue he once sat next to a lady with suffragette notions. Plovers' eggs, hard boiled, formed one course, and the lady called Mr. Blight's attention to the high cost of plovers' eggs that year.

"'Even though,' she said, 'they have to be shipped from England, I don't see why their price should have nearly doubled, do you?'

"'Well-er-not exactly,' murmured Mr. Blight, 'though they do say the hen plovers have taken to acting very oddly of late-strutting around, and growing topknots and spurs, and even trying to learn to crow." -Exchange.

Court Dress of Laureate. Tennyson's court dress when he received the laureateship did not cost him much, for it was the same court dress worn by Wordsworth, who in turn had it from the old poet Rogers, and it is still in the Wordsworth family. It is a wonder how Tennyson and Wordsworth got into it, for Rogers was a little fellow. Tennyson had no passion for courts, and so he went in second hand to save cost. - New York

Latest Items of Local News Furnished by Our Regular Staff of Writers.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

The Record office is connected with the C. & P. and United Telephones, from 7 a. m., to 5 p. m. Use telephone, at our expense, for important items on Friday morning. We prefer regular letters to be mailed on Wednesday evening, but in no case later than Thursday evening.

Frizellburg.

There was no news last week, so your correspondent took a little rest. There are folks, living at a distance, who desire to be kept informed of the current news of this locality, through the columns of the RECORD, and request a weekly let-ter. So I will fall in line again. That unwelcome visitor the "grip," is again in almost every home, and the frequent calls for physicians is keeping the telephone lines busy. The epidemic has gotten among the juveniles and is very perceptible in the day-school at-

David Myers, of Fountain Valley, had the misfortune to lose his eight year-old driving horse, last Tuesday. He had been hauling wood, and was returning with the empty wagon, when suddenly the animal made an unusual plunge, fell to the ground, and died instantly. It bled profusely from the nose and mouth, but had shown no symptoms of illness prior to the attack. George Welk and family are making preparations to locate in North Dakota, about April 1st. His son, who went there one year ago, is doing well and has no desire to return.

Mrs. William Brown, who spent the winter with her children, in Pittsburg and Baltimore, arrived home last week and will remain for the summer. We are glad to see her return, looking hale and hearty.

Harney.

On Tuesday evening, of this week, a irthday party was given to Mrs. Alma Heck, at the hospitable home of Mr. William Fox, near this place. A large number of friends began to assemble early in the evening and the time was pleasantly spent in the various games of the season, music and social conver-sation, but the most important part occurred when all were invited to the dining room to partake of the bountiful supply of good things that had been prepared for the occasion. All wish Mrs. Heck many happy years, and return thanks to those who were able to arrange for the evening's enjoyment.

On Friday night of last week, the Harney degree team of the A. O. K. of the M. C., conferred the degree on eight members and reinstated two more.

On Wednesday night, the Taneytown degree team of Taney Lodge I. O. O. F., visited this place to confer the degrees for Mason & Dixon Lodge I. O. O. F. on about nine members.

On quality for quality basis, the mail order house cannot compare with the dealer. To illustrate this, they will describe a harness as solid nickel plated mounting. The phrase is true, but the deception is that solid nickel plating is on iron and will rust in less than 10 days' use, and the leather is hemlock stock, instead of oak. Remember, solid nickel will never rust or get brassy. If you don't wish to buy of me, come in and 1 will show you the difference, and you will be wise wherever you do buy. Good Black Harness Oil, 50c Gal. CHAS. E. H. SHRINER, - - . Taneytown, Md.

The Influence of the Newspaper.

(For the RECORD.)
In response to the business and social demand, the newspaper has grown from a sheet of irregular appearance at the beginning of the Eighteenth century to a daily edition of many pages. This growth has been contemporaneous with that of the nation, hence it has all the characteristics of the age and may be newspaper covers every side of our complex modern life and brings into the when public conscience was more acute, national conditions. That reading matworld, should have great influence in molding thought and conduct, is inevi-

The such men meet their fate, is presented, modern Christian is moved to translate and their every act is given, to be read his prayer into deed, his religion into and lingered over by the students in action. The old-time piety has given crime. Here is their ideal; the murderer place to another variety infinitely less is their hero whose life they emulate. selfish. True, care is taken, to some extent, that the objectionable does not reach the eyes of the immature. The theory is even advanced that the worst in life must be learned and thus prepare the youth for maturer years. But we lose sight of the fact that, to the developed mind, the real in life assumes a mysterious, and even worse, an exaggerated, aspect. Now, where the conditions are such that the effect of the undesirable is reduced to a minimum, the newspaper is, without doubt, of great value to the youth approaching manhood and womanhood. For by this means they may obtain a knowledge of their surroundings, be initiated into the activities of the world and prepare themselves for the postion they will take as men and women with their fellow-members of society.

Then to the youth developed into manhood, when character is fixed, when moral and intellectual standards are formed, the newspaper appeals as a means of acquiring a knowledge of the affairs of the day. Nevertheless its influence does not stop there. The events chronicled in the dailies must arouse in man feelings of aversion, or sympathy toward the movements in which mankind is interested. This result is plainly seen during political campaigns and in the visitation of such catastrophes as that of the San Francisco disaster, or of the more recent Paris flood. Hence, men often have their opinions changed through the instrumentality of the daily.

It is in such problems as affect society, that the greatest value of the newspaper is to be found, for many a reform has come about by such means; conversely, any movement working against the recognized welfare of society is weakened by this publicity.

Viewed in the light, the newspaper unifies society by putting men in touch with one another; acquaints them with the needs of others, their failures and successes; brings to light the forces working for good and evil, and what is so important it reveals to us, as in a mirror, our social condition. And yet despite the benefits of the paper, it presents, as we have seen, much matter that is undesirable. Unquestionably, this is because some of its readers are interested in just this kind of news. In other words the intellectual and moral plane of the people needs to be raised, it

THE CARROLL RECORD our dailies is thus seen to rest on us, its readers, and not on the publishers, who use our moods to fill their purses. Then if we would be patriotic, if we would be interested in the welfare of mankind, we should aim to better our dailies by bettering ourselves. We can not decry the press, when we eagerly read every detail of some affair whose import is of a questionable nature. Under the enlightening influence of the educational Her part to hold a drippy dip, and his attainments of the 20th. century, these manhood to awaken and repel the silent enemy that is breaking down the defences of the nation.

We are a religious nation although our church attendance may be low, asserts Rheta Childe Dorr in The Delineator for said to represent it. The work of the April. #### Living on the Equator.

Without a mosquito bar a white person would be unable to live on the equator, writes Ida Vera Simonton in The Delineator for April.

No matter how hot and stifling the night-and no other place can be so stifling as the equatorial African night during the long rainy season in the midst of the jungle-one must sleep under a closely tucked-in mosquito bar -not the ventilated kind civilization knows, but one of closely woven stuff, hrough which no air circulates. When the mosquito-bar was let down it took in almost the entire room, but it proved especially useful in sickness and onvalescence. It permitted existence free from insect bites. As malaria is the white man's most insidious foe, and comes from the bite of the mosquito, every precaution must be taken against

it. Three things are absolutely necessary in Africa: a mosquito-bar, a water filter and quinine.

The bed was made by a native carpenter. The frame was of wood, the slats of bamboo ribs, fitted closely together with the pith side uppermost. The bamboo was slippery, and insomnia kept me and the leaves on the move, so that most of the time I slept on a hard surface. My pillow was of dried sweet-smelling grass. Whoever says that hard beds are beautifiers should sleep upon an African bed.

One Kind of Manners.

"If I had my way there should be bu one kind of manners, and that good," says Virginia Terhune Van de Water in the Woman's Home Companion for March. "I would have each child drilled to be as scrupulously polite to the members of his family as to the guest within his father's gates, as courteous to the employee in the kitchen or chamber as to his mother's callers. If trom birth he knew no alternative of behavior, he would practise none.

"If we are honest, we must admit that with many educated and refined persons there is, all unknown to themselves, a difference in the courtesy displayed to home people and that directed toward strangers. The man who does not consider it worth while to rise when his wife or mother comes into the room will spring to his feet when the guest of wife or mother enters. #### Easter's Date.

The festival of Easter is to be celebrated on the Sunday following the first full moon after the beginning of spring.

Therefore, if the moon becomes full upon the day on which spring begins, the Sunday after the next full moon is of course indicated by the directions of the council, as Easter day. And if the moon becomes full on a Sunday, the next Sunday similarly must be Easter

The history of this controversy respecting the date of Easter, which the Nicaean council happily settled, includes a number of diverting anecdotes based upon the disinclination of different people to accept even the council's rulings.

A story is told of a European of prominence who celebrated Easter every year on the very same day on which his wife celebrated Palm Sunday. Another story is told of a devout old couple in Germany who refused to abide by a new church decree relative to Easter. The decree altered the date, and on the day on which they had always attended the Easter services the old people walked from their home to the church. They found the church closed and no Easter service in progress. The old gentleman beat upon the door with his stout stick and demanded admittance, and when there was no response from the uninhabited church the old people retraced their steps to celebrate Easter at home.

Potato Salad.

Scrub the potatoes, cut a slice off of each end and boil in their skins; allow one good sized potato for each person; when done pour off the water and let the potatoes cool until they can be handled easily; peel and cut in slices in a large bowl; mince fine a small onion and put with the sliced potatoes; while they are still warm, dress with oil, salt and vinegar; allow one tablespoonful of vinegar and one saltspoonful of salt to every three tablespoonfuls of oil; dust with black pepper; stir thoroughly but lightly with a silver fork that each slice of potato may be seasoned with the are liver and bowels sometimes; seem to dressing; set aside in a cool place until an hour before serving; then add a third of the quantity of potato sweet-pickled beets, cut in cubes, a tablespoonful of capers and a dozen olives stuffed with ach and Liver remedy. So easy. 25c at sweet peppers; if whole olives are used, stone them first; mix all together with a rich mayonnaise which contains plenty of mustard; let it stand in the mixing bowl until the last minute that it may be thoroughly blended; garnish with lemon points or hardboiled eggs cut in quarters.

Worth a Dollar a Drop. Fred Patchen, Manlius, N. Y., writes: "For a long time I was affected with kidney trouble which caused an almost constant pain in my back and inflammation in my bladder. Other remedies did not even relieve me, but two fift, cent bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy completely cured me and I have not had any symptons of kidney trouble for over two years." R. S. McKinney, druggist, Taneytown, Md.

That Darning Egg.

A darning egg may be a household friend, at least to the mending members of the household.

Darns in sleeves can be much more neatly repaired if the break is stretched over a small black darning egg. The egg can likewise be slipped into trousers pockets that have torn and make their mending much simpler. A torn place in the crown of a hat or in a portion of the trimming can also be repaired quickly by the use of a darning When the darning egg cannot be found for mending purposes the break can be stretched over the top of a small egg cup. Thus held taut it can be neatly darned. This is particularly good for holes in lace, which must be repaired by working as nearly as may be in the mesh stitches.

Lesson XIII .- First Quarter, For March 27, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark xvi, 1-8. Memory Verses, 6, 7-Golden Text, Rev. i, 18-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Having the option of a review or a resurrection lesson, we choose the Easter lesson, as there is nothing so grand as His resurrection, by which He was declared to be the Son of God, with power and without which preaching and faith are vain and no one ever has been or can be saved. The resurrection, however, must include all of His earthly life that preceded His death. His life as the Son of Mary, the seed of David according to the flesh. Matt. i gives the royal line of David's descendants through Solomon to Joseph, who became the husband of Mary, while Luke iii gives David's descendants through Nathan to Heli, whose son-in-law Joseph became by his marriage to Mary, and thus Jesus became heir to David's throne.

The quarter's lessons might be outlined as, first, the genealogy and birth of the King; second, the visit of the Magi and the flight of Joseph and Mary to Egypt and their return to Nazareth; third, the herald of the King and the declaration of the Father concerning Him; fourth, the King's victory over the great adversary, His testimony and the calling of some disciples; fifth to seventh, the laws of the kingdom; eighth and ningh, some samples of the nature of the kingdom.

Now, as the kingdom was postponed by the rejection and murder of the King we in this age must know the power of His resurrection if we would walk worthy of Him and manifest His life in these mortal bodies. The resurrection of the Messiah was plainly foretold in Ps. xvi and xxii, Isa. liii and elsewhere. It was wondrously foreshown in Isaac being given back to Abraham from the dead in a figure (Heb. xi, 17-19). In His teaching the Lord Jesus Himself many times spoke plainly of His death and resurrection, and the great truth of Christianity is that we have at the right hand of the Father in heaven a risen living Christ, truly a Man and truly God, in whom alone is salvation, the only Judge of all mankind and the only One who can set up a kingdom of righteousness on the earth.

The most horrible thing that ever happened on this earth and that which shows the desperately wicked nature of the human heart was the cruel murder of the Son of God, but God raised Him from the dead and gave Him glory and will yet give Him dominion over all the earth, and His redeemed shall share the kingdom with Him.

His disciples never received His words that He was to be crucified and rise from the dead the third day (Matt. xx, 17-19), but some of His enemies remembered them (Matt. xxvii, 62, 63). His mother and some of the other women who ministered to Him remained by His cross to the last, and some of them after His body was buried returned and prepared spices and ointments and rested the Sabbath day according to the commandment, intending on the first day to bring the spices and anoint His body (Luke xxiii, 55, 56; xxiv, 1). When they come to the tomb on the first day morning early they find the stone rolled away; they see an angel, who tells them that He is risen and that they must go quickly and tell His disciples. When Mary Magdalene saw the stone rolled away she ran to tell Peter and John, who ran to the sepulcher and saw for themselves and returned, but Mary remained near the sepulcher, weeping, till Jesus Himself, whom she thought at first to be the gardener, spoke to her and called her by name. When she and the other women told the disciples that He was risen from the dead they believed not, and some thought it an idle tale (verses 11, 13, 14: Luke xxiv. 11), giving Him occasion to unbraid them with their unbelief and hardness of heart. Many who now are told that the same Jesus is coming again think it an idle tale and believe not, not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God and perhaps forgetting that Jesus said, "O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken" (Luke xxiv, 25). The angels believe and desire to look more fully into these things (verses 5-7; I Pet. i, 12). Dr. Scofield gives in the margin of verse 6 this rendering: "Jesus ye seek-the Nazarene, the crucified. He arose. He is not here." He also gives in his notes on Matt. xxviii the order of the events of that morning and also the order of the different appearances during those forty Note in verse 7 of our lesson how Peter is mentioned by name, the true disciple who had treated Him the worst, denying with oaths that he knew Him. How true it is that weakest lambs have largest share of this tender Shepherd's care! However weak and unworthy you may be, remember that "having loved His own He loved them unto the end" (John xiii, 1).

A mere knowledge of the facts of His life and death and resurrection will benefit us nothing unless, knowing these things, we truly receive Him as our own personal Saviour and place our whole trust as lost people in the efficacy of His great sacrifice. Then the joy of being redeemed will lead us to obey with gladness His com. mand in verse 15, counting upon a fulfillment of verse 20. Our daily life will be "serving the living and true God" and our attitude "waiting for His Son from heaven" (I Thess. i, 9, 10).

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 27, 1910.

Topic.—Getting ready to live forever.— Eccl. xii, 1-7. (Easter meeting.) Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The immortality of the human soul, the existence or the continuation of the human life beyond the grave, are practically universally accepted truths today. It is foreshadowed in nature. by the numerous forms of life that seem to die, only to put on a newer and fuller life at a future time. The dream of Socrates has practically become an accepted fact of both science and philosophy. There is a yearning in the human heart for continuation of life, and therefore it must be so. else whence this longing hope, this fond desire for immortality. The foreshadowings of nature, the teachings of science and philosophy, the dreams of the human heart, are demonstrate? by Christianity. Jesus Christ died. His body lay in the tomb for three days. His soul still lived in paradise. On the third day soul and body were united again and raise. from the dead. proving both the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body.

We are therefore to live forever. This life is but the threshold of an eternal life, and here it is to be determined whether we are to live forever in happiness or in woe, depending upon our relation to God through the Lord Jesus Christ. It should not take us long to decide our destination for the future. Only the thoughtless and careless can let the days go by without deciding to live forever in heaven with God than in hell with Satan and his fallen spirits. If we have not decided to live with God forever we should do so this Easter season and get ready to live forever with Him. If we have decided to spend the immortal life with Satan little preparation is necessary. Live a life of unbelief and sin or of indifference and the preparation will be made. But an hour of eternal happiness costs something, and preparation is necessary and should be made. It will well repay us for all our efforts and all our

Getting ready to live forever! What a solemn thought! If we were going to some other place to live than where we live now how earnest we would be in getting ready. Perhaps days, weeks and even months would be needed. It takes time also to prepare for the life that is to be forever. The journey itself is brief, but the preparation may take some time. We should get ready early. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Just as soon as we reach the age of responsibility we should get ready for our future and eternal home. This is quite reasonable, for if we neglect getting ready then evil days may come, in which indifference or sin may take possession of us and persuade us that getting ready is unnecessary, at least for long years. But what folly! We do not set the time when we shall move into our eternal home. Death is certain, but nothing is so uncertain than the time of His coming, and, having made our peace with God and possessing the assurance of our soul's salvation, we should keep ready at all Years may pass before we make the journey, trials and tribulations may be met, but we should keep the faith at any cost or sacrifice, for again "no man knoweth the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh." Constant readiness, as in the case of the five wise virgins, is an absolute necessity. The matter of our eternal dwelling place is of too infinite importance to be neglected even for a moment. In that moment we may be called to the life that is never to end and, like the five foolish virgins, find ourselves unprepared and shut out of the kingdom of heaven. Accept Christ as your Saviour, be ever faithful unto Him, and when He calls you will be prepared to enter the heavenly home which He by His death has prepared for you.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xix, 25-27; Isa. lv, 1-7; Eccl. xii. 13. 14; Matt. xvi, 24-26; xxv, 1-13; xxviii, 1-10; John xiv, 1-6; I Pet. i, 1-5; II Tim. iv, 1-8; Rev. ii, 10.

China's Great C. E. Convention. China's great Christian Endeavor convention of 1909 met in Nanking, and the large mat tent erected for the meeting proved inadequate, so admission was by ticket or badge only. Many of the Nanking people had to be turned away, but at the close of the convention a series of revival meetings opened in the tent, and to these all were invited. The structure itself was said to be most suitably and beautifully decorated with Christian Endeavor banners and flags of all nations. The gathering proved that Christian Endeavor is meeting a long felt need in China, the training of leaders. The older missionaries say it has surpassed their greatest expectations and are delighted to see the Chinese men and women creditably taking the lead in these large meetings. Chinese women have never before spoken in any but women's meetings. The earnestness and intensity of purpose which characterized these meetings was said to be wonderful.-Ohio Endeavorer.

Making Ministers.

"One of the results of the Christian Endeavor meetings at Sagamore Beach, Mass., 1909," writes William M. Leach, president of the Progressive Christian Endeavor union, Massachusetts, "is that I am going to study for the ministry." Excellent! In these days, when the bitter cry of the church is the dearth of men entering the ministry, it is pleasing to note that Christian Endeavor is one of the influences that tend to direct the thoughts of men to that field of usefulness.

THE BRASS BOX.

It Brought About the Speedy Marriage of the Lovers.

By CLARISSA MACKIE. [Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.] The curio dealer weighed the brass

box in his outstretched hand. "It weighs all of a pound, sir," he said to Hayward. "I bought it ten years ago from the estate of a French antiquary with a lot of other stuff. No one seems to care for it, although I've offered it for almost nothing. It really is a paperweight. You see there is no lock or hinge. It is merely a lump of brass shaped somewhat like an ancient chest. If you care for it you can have it at your own price. It may interest you to know that it was once owned by"- He leaned forward and whispered a few words in his customer's ear.

"I'll take it." said Hayward promptly. "I thought you would." said the dealer with a nod as he wrapped the brass box into a neat package. Once in his own rooms Hayward examined the box with interest. It was, as the dealer had said, merely a lump of brass roughly molded into the shape of an ancient chest. The tracings that had once outlined false locks and hinges and nail studded bands were almost obliterated by dirt and discoloration. Restored to its original brightness, it would make a unique paperweight for his desk.

He would reserve the cleaning of the brass box, as he chose to call it, for a rainy evening. Some night when he was not due at Edith's-those evenings were the dullest of the weekhe would restore the brass box.

Ten days afterward the rainy evening found him smoking a pipe before a cozy fire. The brass box was within easy reach of his hand, and near by was a drawer full of rags and oil and various chemicals, so he spread a newspaper on the floor and fell to

Little by little the discoloration yielded to his efforts until at last the brass box shone forth in the splendor of its primal luster, beautiful indeed. Hayward admired the delicate engraving that the acids had revealed. and as he turned the box over in his hands the conviction grew upon him

"I CAN'T DO IT," HE SAID FRANKLY.

that the piece of brass had been intended for some other purpose than that of weighting piles of documents.

If the curio had really belonged to that beautiful woman, a favorite of kings and whose lightest words had changed the destiny of an empire, as the shopkeeper had hinted, in itself it was valuable as a souvenir of the most famous woman of her time.

With his penknife he idly scraped clean the tracery of a little circle drawn on one end of the box. It was perhaps a quarter of an inch in diameter, and in the center of the circle was a dot. The circle and the dot formed part of a similar decoration that ran around the ends and sides of the box.

As he worked it appeared to Hayward that this circle was different from its fellows; the line was more deeply indented than the light tracery of the others. As he realized this the young man pursued his labors until the point of a fine blade could be inserted to the depth of an eighth of an inch in the aperture.

Examination of the other end of the box revealed the same conditions in the center circle of the row. After diligently cleaning the second circle Hayward now had before him what appeared to be a small round rod running from one end of the box to the other, yet so tightly wedged in as to be immovable by ordinary means. The purpose of this rod was yet to be determined. Its presence there convinced him that the box was indeed a box.

He placed it in his vise and with hammer and tools prepared to force the rod out of the box. It was long after midnight when it suddenly yielded to his efforts and fell to the floor.

Hayward picked it up and carried it. to the lamp. It was a small steel cylinder four inches in length, capped on either end by the circle of brass It was the work of another hour to pry out the rusted cap from one end ! and reveal a hollow cavity.

From the cavity there dropped a small roll of stiff parchment, yellowed! with age and much creased and worn. Hayward's fingers trembled as he unfolded with reverent fingers this missive that had come so strangely to him

His face paled as he saw the royal crest that topped the sheet and the kingly signature that followed the finely written words. The letter was in French, and as he read the tender, endearing epithets to this woman whom a king had loved Hayward realized that into his alien hands had fallen a great secret which, if revealed, with its hint of plot and counterplot, would prove the literary sensation of a life-

He had but to go forth and say: "See what I have found in an old brass box picked up in an auction room. It is a monarch's autograph letter to his sweetheart. It is as simple and pure in its tender sentiment as a letter that you or I or any other commoner might write, and yet it contains a secret which the world would snatch at eagerly, a mystery for which historians have probed in vain, a doubt which has inspired a mighty volume of speculation! It is here. How much am I

If he published his find to the world it meant riches to him. It meant more than enough to marry upon and be happy. Edith had waited two years for him to make good the promise of his brilliant college career. Another year or so of upward struggle and he would have arrived at his desired goal. But if in those years he might have Edith by his side!

If he published the letter he had found in the brass box he would be rich. They could be married immediately. Not one man in a hundred would have hesitated, yet Robin Hayward did. He was the exceptional

He carried this problem, as he had many others, to Edith herself. The next evening found him explaining his purchase of the brass box and the wonderful secret it contained.

Edith Layton brooded over the royal love letter with tender eyes.

"That is real love, Robin," she said at last. "The poor woman must have treasured the letter. See how it is worn and creased with much reading. She could never bear to part with it. and so she had this box made with the secret cylinder in which to conceal her precious possession. She would not have dared keep it otherwise, and possibly she hoped it would be buried with her." Hayward nodded. "She died suddenly, you know."

"She probably did not realize that she might be leaving the letter for posterity to scoff at. I know you feel just as I do, Robin. If it would do any good to the world, if it taught a lesson or added to the world's literature-but it does not! What shall you do with it?" Her question came directly at him, as he knew it would come. Her clear gray eyes sought his anxiously, as if she doubted whether he might withstand the temptation.

Hayward stiffened in his chair. "1 am tempted to sell it for money, for a price that will enable me to offer you a home worthy of you. That is what I want to do," he said bluntly.

She made no reply. She knew the temptation that assailed him, and she knew the struggle he was making against his better principles. No man had greater pride fruits of his personal endeavor than Robin Hayward. She wanted him to prove his capabilities, not to purchase an easy road to fortune through bartering the frailties of persons long dead. She wanted him to fight a fight and come out victorious.

"We could be married at once," sa Hayward, rising and going to her with outstretched hands. She placed her hands in his. "We could," she said slowly. "Do you mean it, darling?" he cried ecstatically. "Yes, Robin."

Five minutes later he was on his way to the door. "I am sure Latham will want the whole thing. You know. he is writing a history of the French courts, and this will be a 'find' for him." He paused abruptly as his glance encountered the stern visage of Edith's grandfather in its gilded frame near the door.

That sturdy American pioneer, Simeon Layton, had asked no odds of any century save his own. No other hands had helped to pile up the immense fortune that arose like a barrier between Hayward and the girl he loved. High ideals, hard work, pluck and steady application had made him a model citizen and a rich man.

With a sudden revulsion of feeling Hayward looked away from the portrait to Edith standing before the fire. She always wore her plainest gowns when Robin came, and now, standing there in her simple white dress, with his modest ring shining alone on her slender hand, she seemed very near within his reach. He would win her by work alone. Every dollar that he earned might pull down a dollar of that great wall of wealth that stood between them.

"I can't do it," he said brusquely. With a single stride he was beside her. and the king's autograph letter fluttered from his hau 1 and fell into the fire. In an instant it was licked into flames and then flew, a gray ghost, up the chimney.

"I was sure you'd do that, Robin," she said, leaning her head against his shoulder. "And now, if you like, I will marry you any time!"

"Dearest, I cannot let you. I shall he poor for a year to come, and you will miss all this!" He flung his hand toward the richly furnished room. "I must work hard and make you a fortune and then"-

"And we will keep the brass box for a mascot," he said.

The "Front Page" Fallacy.

Some people have a curious idea to the effect that the first page of a news-paper is the only one that is read. beaking of this the Springfield (O.)

Times comments:
"'Put it on the front page' is the common request from people who want special prominence given to an announcement of some kind. The thought of course is that being on the front page it will be read, while if it occupies an-other space it will be overlooked. We think this is a poor opinion of news-paper readers, especially of small city dailies. The newspapers of from eight to twelve pages are read through by the average reader. It is a reflection on the intelligence of newspaper readers to suppose that they read only the front page. If you don't believe this let us publish an article derogatory about you in the most obscure corner of the paper and see how both of us hear from it. 'Front page fallacy' rightly expresses it. We insist that every page in our paper is a good page and that every page is read, and we can prove it to the satisfaction
