More Taney History.

The following interesting communica-OF GENERAL INTEREST tions, received this week, will explain themselves. We gladly give them publicity for their general connection with the history of Taneytown, heretofore given in Gleaned from the County and State history of Taneytown, heretofore given in the Record at various times.—ED. EDITOR RECORD:-When I saw in the RECORD the name of G. A. Taney, as the writer of an arti-cle for the Md. My Dear Miss Beam:- Your rare thought/ulness in sending these old jour-nals to me is very highly appreciated. I have read them, and am returning them by this mail. WHAT WILL THE VERDICT OF THE PRIMARIES BE?

No "Walk-over" Apparently in Sight for Anybody.

The Senatorial contest, being state-wide, naturally dwarfs the fight for House of Representatives, and so far as any sure result on either side is concerned, it is largely a matter of guessing, or the wish being father to the thought.

In the Democratic contest, the Balti-more organization is for Lee, while the state organization is for Lewis, with the Baltimore. Sure as the special power here. Baltimore Sun as the special power back of Bruce. If there is any advantage ap-parent to the impartial observer, it ap-pears to be with Lewis, with Lee a good second.

In the Republican contest between France and Goldsborough, there is great France and Goldsborough, there is great confidence in claims made by both sides. The Goldsborough following claims to be making gains every day, and his man-ager, Mr. Gould, says he is "supremely confident" of capturing the nomination. The France men, on the other hand, are inst as confident and foure on winning just as confident, and figure on winning easily. In the contest for the House, there is apparent confidence that Talbott, Demo-crat, will carry Baltimore and Carroll counties, and win. In fact, there seems to be but little life in the contest in the district.

The Republicans have a three-cornered fight on hand, between Clark, Heaps and Lawrence. The following of these candidates is difficult to forecast for the entire district, but the opinion seems to be that Heaps will lead in Carroll. It is literally true with reference to all of the candidates that neither will have a "walk-over." Interest is confined chiefly to the candidates and local leaders, as the great majority of the voters do not appear to be greatly interested.

The Primary Election.

The Primary ballot will be small, this year, and easy to mark, requiring 7 marks for the full ticket; one for Senator, one for Representative, and five for Delegates to the State Convention. The Dem-ocratic ticket, however, provides for a "second-choice" vote for Senator, as there are three Senatorial candidates on that ticket.

The ballots will be white for Republicans and pink for the Democrats, and there will be no envelope voting, nor outside marking. The primary will be conducted the same as a general election, and the same laws will apply, except that there will be separate boxes for the two kinds of ballots.

No factional line-up of Democratic candidates for Delegates to the State Conven-tion has been made public, but the Republicans have lined-up in two camps named after the two candidates for Sen-ator, though these delegates will have nothing to do with the nomination of a Senator.

The Goldsborough delegates are as fol-

Patrons and Pupils.

Plans for the Public School Contest and Athletic Day are progressing favorably. Superintendent Morelock and his assistants on the program committee have been at work this week getting into shape the final details of the program for the day's exercises. The program finally de-cided upon will be as follows:

9.30-10.30. Contests in spelling and number work. These contests will be held in the class rooms on the first and second floors of the main building at the High School. Owing to the limited space and the large number of contestants expected, only those actually taking part will be admitted, but the results will be announced at the conclusion of the educational mass meeting. 10.30–12.00. Educational Mass-Meet-ing in the Assembly Hall of the High School Building. This meeting will be especially for the parents of school chil-dren, and all others who are interested in the parents of the the progress and improvement of the public school system. Dr. M. Bates Stephens, State Superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Edward F. Buchner, head of the Department of Education, Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. T. H. Lewis of Western Maryland College, will ad-dress the meeting. There will be special music by the Westminster High School Orchestra and other music including choruses by the High School girls. 10.30-1.00. Moving Pictures. "Guard-ing Old Glory" will be shown at the Opera, and all school children participat-ing in the various contests will be given free tights.

free tickets. 1.30. The parade line will be formed on Green and Center streets near the High School grounds to march to the College Athletic field, where the athletic contests will take place. It is desired that as far as possible the schools should march in a body to the athletic grounds. The parade will start promptly at the hour named. A full corps of officials has been selected, including prominent citizens from Westminster and other parts of the county. A complete program of the athletic events will be prepared and dis-tributed on the day of the contest. A list of the various committees and offiials follows:

The Law of Subscriptions.

Newspaper subscribers are probably ignorant of the law protecting the pub-lisher, and what follows will no doubt be news to many people in some respects. As will be seen by a careful persual of the decision of the United States Courts on this subject, as recently compiled by Dr. Tuckerman, editor of the Workman, at Cleveland, much trouble may be avoided and money saved. Here are the decisious:

1. If subscribers order the discontinu-ance of their periodicals without paying all that is due, the publisher may con-tinue to send them until all arrearages are paid. 2. If s

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

3. The courts have decided that refus-ing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for

4. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it.

ing it. 5. The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest anyone for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law, the man who allows his subscription to run along for any length of time unpaid, and then orders it to be discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and have a postal card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself to arrest and fine, the same as for theft. It will be seen from this that not own-

It will be seen from this that not own-ing property does not excuse a man from the payment of the debt that he owes a newspaper publisher. The man who re-fuses to pay such a debt, thinking to escape paying because he has no proper-ty that can be levied on by a constable, justice of the peace or sheriff, is liable to a criminal prosecution on the charge of willful frand, and may find himself in willful fraud, and may find himself in serious trouble, and perhaps land in prison.—Frederick Post.

A Cheap Stone Road.

Through the co-operation of property owners and the utilization of material taken from nearby fields and stone ledges, the county commissioners of Frederick county feel that in the Deerfield-Wolfs-ville highway they have established a record in the economical construction of stone roads in the county. The link of three miles cost the county $849.28. The average cost per mile is slightly more than $283. which, enthusiastically declared one county commissioner re-cently, "is going some in road building." The first mile, however, was built at the Extensive rioting in Dublin, Ireland, this week, has been giving England great concern, and the extent of the uprising is not definitely known. It is generally supposed that Germany is at the botton of the trouble, and aims to strike England a serious blow through Ireland. German auxiliary cruiser loaded with arms, was sunk near the Irish coast. The government claims to have the situation well in hand, and it is believed that a formidable attempt has been suppressed at its outset.

In defining on Monday more clearly than ever before what constitutes dishonest advertising through the mails, the Supreme Court held in effect that advertisers, even though they give purchasers value received for their money, are guilty of fraud if by exaggerated advertising propaganda they have led clients to expect more. Officials declare the decision will pave the way to scores of prosecutions and make possible the enforcement of a much more stringent federal supervision of mail advertising.

A near epidemic of influenza, which has attacked horses of Frederick county, is now flourishing, according to a local veterinarian. The disease has developed in colts. The veterinarian said that unless the infection is checked it may result in serious loss to farmers. The seasen for hog cholera is approaching and farmers are urged to see that all animals dying from the disease are buried. These precautionary measures, declared a veterinary surgeon, will prevent anything like an epidemic of the disease, which attacks swine, and which often resulta fatally.

District Meeting.

(For the RECORD.) The Eastern District of Md., Church of the Brethren, convened April 20, 1916, at 1 p. m., in the Meadow Branch church, for district conference. The devotional services were opened by Elder A. B. Barnhart, of Hagerstown. The holdover officers J. H. Beer, J. J. John and W. E. Roop, presided until the new organization was effected.

The organization resulted in the election of J. J. John, Moderator; C. D. Bonsack, Reading Clerk, and M. C. Flohr, Writing Clerk. The delegates, from the seventeen churches, were then seated. Each church is entitled to two, and several three delegates.

Within the past year one mission point on the Eastern Shore, was organized into a church, to be known as "The Green Hill Church." Instead of preparedness for war, the Elders recommend a peace program. Elder William E. Roop was elected delegate at large, to represent the district on Standing Committee, in the General Conference of the brotherhood. This will assemble in June, in Winona Lake Park, Indiana. One query was sent up to this General Conference. Elder S. K. Utz was re-elected trustee on the Mission Board; W. Englar and Dr. H. P. Fahrney are the holdover Sunday School Secretaries. J. H. Young, S. E. Englar and J. E.

The "Second Choice" Proposition.

A great deal of misunderstanding and confusion exists regarding the operation of the second-choice provisions of the Direct Primary law not only among the voters, but among the election officials and party people. The Democratic Senatorial primary between Mr. Bruce, Senator Lee and Congressman Lewis is the first time these provisions-which are designed to obtain majority rather than plurality action—have become operative. Hitherto there has been no more than two candidates at a time for State officers and necessarily one of them received a majority. There being three candidates in the present primary, it may be that no one will receive a majority on the

The second-choice provision which has been discussed most is that governing the action of the State convention in making nominations. It provides that if there be more than two candidates, and if none of them has a majority of all the delegates in the convention, the candidate having the fewest delegates shall be dropped and his delegates shall cast their votes for one or more of the other candidates, according as they were instructed | nesday. by their people.

In case there are only three candidates, as in the present instance, the dropping of ane candidate and the distribution of his votes among the other two necessarily would cause one of them to receive a majority and to be declared the nominee. But in case there were more than three candidates and the dropping of the one having the fewest delegates and the distribution of his delegates among the others failed to give any of the others a majority, in that case, the candidates who started with the next fewest delegates would be dropped and his delegates distributed as above, and so on and so on, until one of the candidates had a majority of the delegates.

There are other second choice provis ons which are not so well known. One is that a candidate, in order to win the delegation from any county or any legislative district of Baltimore city, must receive a majority of the votes cast in the primary in that unit. In case none of and his votes distributed among the revoted for him. - Sun.

Had the RECORD known that there would be such an unusual demand for advertising space, this Spring, the "Buy at Home'' Page would not have been undertaken. For the past two weeks we have declined additional advertisements, as we will not further curtail the reading mat-

The loss by tornadoes already this year s much greater than for any past year in which records have been kept, and they have not been confined to any particular section of the country, nor to any par-ticular class of property. Buildings, trees the candidates receives a majority, the man receiving the fewest votes is dropped never before, and the chances are very decidedly toward increased rates of inmaining candidates, according to the surance against storm loss, as such in-second-choice preferences of those who ists, but are in business for profit.

----- C----A New Street for Taneytown.

The Phillips lot front, in addition to that of Mrs. Crossfield, has been deeded to the Burgess and Commissioners, which means that the alley past the Lutheran church will be widened and made into a new street. But one side of the street has as yet given the additional land, and this was bought by the Lutheran church in order that a good sidewalk can be made from the church to the cemetery. If the lot owners on the opposite will now agree together and donate a strip about ten feet wide to the town, desirable building lots can be made on both sides of the new street. The street already has two dwellings and a blacksmith shop on it, and while it will be narrower than the other streets of the town it will be wide enough for residence purposes. In the near future the corporation authorities will grade both the street and sidewalk, after which the Lutheran church will finish its part of the work-a good walk from the church property to the corner of the road leading to the cemetery, and perhaps some improvement to the remainder of the way to the cemetery.

ERB-HAHN.-A very pretty and im-pressive wedding took place at the Luth-eran Parsonage, in Uniontown, Md., Wednesday, April 26, when Miss Emma Hahn, oldest daughter of David Hahn, of Tyrone, Md., became the bride of Mr. Oliver Erb, of Mayberry, Md. The ring ceremony of the Lutheran church was used. The couple was attend-ed by Miss Mary Hahn, sister of the bride, and Martin Kuhns. The bride wore white lace over white crepe de chine. The groom wore the conventional black. The bridesmaid wore a pale green dress, and carried pink flowers. The newly weds left for a honey-moon Baltimore, Washington and West Virginia. After their return they will reside in Mayberry, where the groom is engaged in business.

gress into his counsels before acting. On the whole, though, the country is supporting his so-called "policy," and is not disposed to make political capital out of his plans, even when they have not been always fully agreed to.

The demands of the President on Germany, coming at this late day, are not very much to create enthusiasm over, to say the least. In a measure, there seems to be a straining to produce a case now, that could much more forcibly have been produced earlier, and have had less the appearance of an effort to make a belated bid for favor from the element that indorses a more strenuous American policy, and which may be one of the main shibboleths of the coming campaign.

History is making itself rapidly, these days, and a vast amount of the critical wisdom expressed is of the "hind-sight" variety, and not to be compared with the sort of wisdom that is needed as intitiatory to situations that happen. The President is very likely sincere, according to his views and temperament, in trying to steer this country in a dignified course, and the people will be slow to attribute to him mere political motives.

It is a very easy matter to see mistakes after they are made, but quite a different matter to prevent making them. After all, a President's policy must be based largely on the conscience and convictions of the man, and men's minds vary. Humanity everywhere is constituted pretty much on the same basis, and is susceptible to all sorts of numan weakness and limitations, and President Wilsonno President, in fact-is an exception to that rule.

Duties of Voters.

It is the duty of every voter to inform himself of the merits of the various candidates for nomination at the Primary Election, and then vote for the one he thinks best represents his ideas. The primary law has developed factions in both parties, to a much greater extent than they ever existed before, and these factional line-ups, which may represent the future political aspirations of local individuals, often obscures the real merits of the candidates to be voted for. This is a condition that prevails, to some extent at least, in Carroll county today. Voters will be solicited to vote for certain candidates, not so much because the candidates themselves are superior, but because their success will "strengthen the fences" of local leaders who are in turn "looking ahead" for something on their own account, or perhaps only to strengthen their own particular party faction. The sooner that voters get wise to these side affairs, the better it will be for good government. As a matter of fact, these factional line-ups are antagonistic to the real influence of the voting masses, that the primary election law apparently stands for, and if "the people" are really to make nominations, they must first destroy the factional machines that aim to 'boss'' the party.

It is another duty of voters, therefore, to try to get real information as to the candidates, and not take too easily the One candidate is to be voted for, for instructions handed out to them by interested local leaders, at least not without finding out more about what is back of their interest in candidates, as well as both sides of the points of difference at issue. party "bossism," has merely enlarged it, and made it a matter of factional leadership instead of the leadership of a few individuals. There is a distinction without a real difference-except a difference

Another Primary.

On May 1st, the voters of Carroll county in common with the voters of Baltimore city and the other counties of the State, will enjoy the privilege and blessing of another direct primary election. How many of the voters of the State will take advantage of this much lauded privilege, we do not know, but if 50 per cent do it, it will be surprising. The primary will cost about the same as an election, as the rooms must be rented, booths erected, notices published, ballots printed and the same number of officials employed. The direct primary was to be a great reform measure and under its benign workings, we were told the people would rule. It has proven an expensive and miserable failure, but if a man criticizes it he is called a reactionary or a politician who opposes it because it robs him of his power to control nominations. This is all right in theory and sounds well in speeches and newspaper articles, but experience has proven the direct primary is a failure as an expression of the intelligent choice of the voters, and there is no direct or indirect advantage over the convention system. By the direct primary frequently men without regard to merit qualification, or availability are chosen by a fraction of the electorate. Many men in both parties of the type and character needed for positions, absolutely refuse to engage in a primary fight which almost always engenders enmity and bitterness within the party, and operates against the success of the candidates at the election. These and many other objections can be urged against our present direct primary system.

Personally, not committing The Times to our views, we think it a colossal, expensive humbug, a burlesque on the true expression and wishes of the people, a source of unfortunate factional quarrels in the parties, offering every advantage to the candidate, regardless of his fitness or ability, who has a "pull" and sufficient

Court Holds That Bacon Wrote Shakespeare Plays.

Chicago, April 21.-Francis Bacon was teclared in a decision rendered in an injunction suit today by Judge Richard S. Tuthill, in the State Circuit Court, to be the author of the works of William Shakespeare. The decision dissolved an injunction issued on the petition of William N. Selig, motion-picture manufacturer, to restrain George Fabyan, publisher, and others from completing publication of books supporting the Baconian theory.

The spread is eight feet or wider. That shortens the unloading time. The manure is thrown well beyond the wheels. That enables the driver to match up the edges of his strips without driving on manure-covered ground. You know what a big advantage that is.

The manure gets two thorough beatings. It lands on the ground in a finely-pulverized condition. The soil immediately takes up the fertilizing properties. There is no loss or waste of valuable fertilizing material.

GRAIN FOR LIVE STOCK.

Grinding Corn and Oats For Hogs and Horses of Doubtful Value.

It is somewhat doubtful whether the grinding of corn for some classes of live stock is worth the labor and expense involved. Tests conducted for ten years at the Wisconsin experiment station showed an average increase in gains of about 6 per cent from grinding corn for hogs. The results for individual years ranged from 11 per cent loss to 18 per cent gain. The Iowa station has also done considerable work in testing various methods of preparing corn for hogs and found that, while grinding showed a slight increase in the feeding value of corn for older hogs, such gains did not begin to pay the cost of shelling and grinding. Soaked shelled corn showed to much better advantage than the cornmeal and also proved somewhat better than the dry ear corn.

It was a question, however, whether the differences in feeding value paid for the labor of shelling and soaking. It is advisable to grind small, hard grains, such as Kaffir, milo, barley, rye or sorghum seed, as otherwise a large proportion of the feed may not be digested.

Ground oats for horses have not shown any great advantage over whole oats, except in the case of horses that are at very hard work or have defective teeth. Grinding oats for hogs, however, will increase their feeding value from 20 per cent to 30 per cent, since the hog is not able to digest the whole grain to advantage.

As much as 25 per cent of whole corn may remain undigested when fed to cattle. It is therefore desirable to grind the corn to prevent this waste. Sheep will handle whole grain to much better advantage.-Charles I. Bray, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Keep Hog Accounts.

On a farm where the growing of pure bred breeding hogs is the principal enterprise a special hog account should by all means be kept. Of course, it is necessary to keep pedigree records, but on many pure bred hog farms the owner is not able to say at the end of the year just what his hogs cost him. A business account should be kept as well as pedigree records .-Kansas Farmer.

Highland cattle had their origin in the mountainous sections of Scot-land. These cattle thrive on scanty herbage and are able to forage even when snow is deep. They are very poor milk producers, but make a good carcass of beef. These cattle have never secured enough of a foothold in America to result in permanent herds of importance. The cow shown is of the Highland breed.

per 100 pounds of 74 cents, this being due to the fact that hay is a more expensive feeding product than ensilage. In some of the trials the selling price of the steers fed some dry hay was enough higher to offset the more expensive gains and therefore returned greater profit. In others feeding ensilage as the only roughage was the most economical. Where the silage was from corn that had nearly matured and hence was high and dry matter the addition of dry roughage did not always increase the gains, according to Professor Henry.

At the Indiana station Professors Skinner and King found that steers fed liberally on ensilage ate but little hay, but the small amount consumed supposedly satisfied a craving for dry roughage. Accordingly experiments were conducted to ascertain the value of oat straw as a means of supplying this requirement. The steers in these experiments consumed an average of one and one-half pounds of oat straw daily, and they made as large gains at less cost for feed and sold at fully as high a price as steers that were fed clover in addition to the ensilage. Of course enough cottonseed meal was fed to the steers fed ensilage and straw to balance the liberal proportion of flesh forming material in the clover hay.

Teiling Age of Sheep.

Buying mature sheep is a good deal of a gamble to the inexperienced would be flock owner. An old sheep may look well, but only last for a year or two of profitable service. After a sheep is over four years old the teeth do not show much change except where they drop out as old age draws near. Brief. ly stated, a sheep with one pair of permanent teeth is a yearling; two pairs, a two-year-old; three pairs, a threeyear-old, and four pairs, a four-yearpld.-Farm and Fireside.

has to say about cream separators this week

Don't delay buying a De Laval Cream Separator a single day longer.

TF you are selling cream or making butter and have no separator, or an inferior one, you are wasting cream every day you delay the purchase of a De Laval.

There can be only two real reasons for putting off buying a De Laval. Either you don't really appreciate how great your loss in dollars and cents actually is, or else you don't believe the De Laval Separator will make the savings we claim for it.

In either case, there is one sensible way to settle this matter. Let us set up a machine for you on your place and then you can see for yourself what the De Laval will do.

You have nothing to risk, and nearly two million other cow owners who have made this test have found they had much to gain. You can't afford to wait. Let the De Laval eparator start saving cream for you RIGHT NOW.

If you would really like to know just how much more cream you can get with a De Laval let us set up a machine for you on your place and have you try it out for yourself. Isn't this as fair a proposition as you ever heard of?

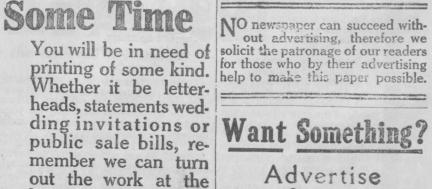

Just phone or drop us a postal and we will be glad to bring a machine out to your place any time you say.

Miss Maria Cook, of Aspers, Adams county, Pa., is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Gideon Smith. Miss Annie G. Smith left, ou Sunday, April 16, for a visit of several weeks to her sister, Mrs. Martin L. Koons, of Atlantic City.

^AEdward S. Smith and wife, and Frank Koons and wife visited Mr. Koons' mother, Mrs. Albert Koons, of Feesers-burg, Sunday afternoon. They also called at George Simpson's, whose daughter is very ill with consumption. Painters commenced painting opera-tions on Edward S. Smith's residence on Benedum Street, Wednesday morning.

They have a very fine motor wagon which they expect to use in distributing ice. Thus they can give the people of Farquhar Street service without fear of the train frightening their steed. Grace, wife of Roy Gilbert, of Hagers-town, formerly of Union Bridge, died at 7 o'clock, Wednesday morning, at Union Protestant Infirmary, Baltimore, where she was taken about four weeks ago for an operation. After it was performed she was thought to be improved picela she was thought to be improving nicely, but complications set in and another operation resorted to; this failed to give elief and the case was pronounced to be hopeless. She was the daughter of Dennis and Lydia Fogle, both of her parents dying in 1915. She was born near lemsonville. The survivors, besides her Clemsonville. The survivors, besides her husband, are the following sisters and borothers: Mrs. Frank Haines, Mrs. Harry Greenholtz, Mrs. Douglas Ramo, Hanson, Harry and Oden Fogle. Funeral services in M. -Tennyson. The killing and maiming of combatants are not all that is terrible in war. When the mailed fist is raised law, which has been the sole arbiter in the affairs of men, hides its face. The general commanding takes his place on the bench. But the general cannot even control his own troops. The victorious trooper frequently becomes a plun. derer. When an army invades an enemy country those who have lived securely under the law flee before it as from an enguling wave. And it matters not whether one is friend or foe; the soldier unrestrained by constant military discipline becomes a wild beast.

Paul Stanislaus, a Russian Pole, early developed a taste for music. When but eighteen years of age, being very poor, in order to make a living he enlisted in the band of a regiment stationed at Warsaw. The instrument he played was the cornet. At this he became so proficient that when the band played in the public gardens he was frequently selected to play a solo.

On one occasion when the band was playing the national hymn at a ceremony attending the reception of the czar Paul led with his cornet. His instrument, accompanied by a hundred other pieces, rang out in such clear and inspiring tones that the emperor's admiration was excited, and he sent the musician a present of 100 rubles.

When Paul Stanislaus left the band he took his instrument with him, and many a time some ceremony was made impressive by his rendition of the national anthem. Then would the Pole forget the dismemberment of his nation or dream of the day when its three parts—Austrian, German and Russian —would be again united under one independent government.

Stanislaus drifted northward and finally married and settled down within the border of East Prussia. There he worked a little farm, but so great a portion of the year was given to winter that there was not much time left in which to grow farm products, and there was little profit.

A family grew up about him. His wife was a good manager and made the most of the scanty income. Little by little, year by year, she added something to the family comforts, and what she and her husband had not money to pay for they made with their own hands. When a child was born to them Paul would add an additional room to his little home, and in time there were six of these additions nestling up against the central building Then came the Russian drive into East Prussia. The army, a vast horde. crossed the line by a route leading directly toward the Stanislaus home. On they came with fire and sword, accompanied by the thunder of their guns. "We shall be swept away before the hurricane!" cried Stanislaus. "All we have been gathering for so many years will be lost." "You are a Russian subject," said his wife. "You have been musician in a Russian regiment. Can you not make them understand this?"

"We will be overrun by stragglers and pillagers. They will have no mercy."

One morning the devastating horde reached the Stanislaus home. They were moving to attack the Germans farther within the border. There was no fighting, but one wing of the army passed down a road not a hundred yards from the Polanders' home. A number of men bent on loot, seeing the comfortable looking house, with its additions and a vegetable garden beside it, broke away from the column and scudded along, bending low to the ground so as to escape detection by their officers. The family saw them coming. The father seized a gun, but put it back. The mother fell on her knees and began to pray. The children wrung their hands, and some of them sought places in which to hide. A dozen men entered the house and began to appropriate everything in sight. They were a savage lot, and soon all thought of what they were taking was overtopped by the occupants' fear that they would be murdered.

Stanislaus believed that if he could attract the attention of an officer he might secure protection. He started out for the purpose, but one of the troopers, probably realizing his intention, hurled him back.

Stanislaus' cornet, on which he had played when a member of a Russian military band, hung on the wall over a fireplace. An idea occurred to him for calling for assistance. Seizing the instrument, he began to play the Russian national anthem. Clear and solemn, the beautiful air rang out, passed through the open door, its vibrations sweeping over the land far and near.

At the first notes off came the head covering of every pillager. Then they began to drop such plunder as they held in their bands; then they unloaded their pockets, all the while their heads bowed reverently.

A general riding at the head of his staff reined in his horse and listened. A brass instrument needs distance. It is "thin and clear" when heard from afar, and its harsher tones are softened. The general recognized the hymn of his fatherland. He doffed his hat. His staff followed his example. Men marching in the ranks, hearing the hymn and seeing the general uncovered, took off their hats. When the last notes died away he said:

"There is only one man who can play the hymn as it has been played. that is Paul Stanislaus of the old —th regiment, in which I was once a captain."

Then, turning his horse's head to ward the house from which the sounds emanated, he rode thither, followed by his staff.

The looters saw him coming, and by the time he reached the door they were standing at attention before it, dread

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xi, 19-26; xiii 1-12 — Memory Verses, xiii, 2, 3 Golden Text, Matt. xxviii, 19—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M Stearns.

Before the Lord Jesus visibly ascended to heaven after He had appeared many times to His disciples during those forty days between His resurrection and ascension and spoke so often of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God He commanded His disciples to go and teach all nations what He had taught them; to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; to proclaim repentance and remission of sins in His name among all nations. And He sent them, as the Father had sent Him, in the power of the Holy Spirit that people might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and, believing, have life through His name (Acts i, 1-3; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Mark xvi, 15: Luke xxiv, 47; John xx, 21, 31).

The disciples were slow to obey this command, and the Lord permitted Stephen to be killed, a persecution of the saints to follow, and the believers thus scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word, but only to the Jews. Some went as far as Antioch, and everywhere they preached the Lord Jesus, and the hand of the Lord being with them a great number believed and turned unto the Lord (verses 19-21). In the chapters which we have already studied in this book of the Acts of a risen and ascended Christ through His witnesses we have seen how Peter and John and Stephen and Philip and Paul, and now these scattered abroad ones all have the same topic-namely, Jesus Christ crucified, risen, ascended and returning to set up His kingdom. And as they thus speak of Him the Spirit inclines many to turn to Him, and they become joined to or added to the Lord. Thus His body, the church, began to grow, as the word of God grew and multiplied (xii, 24). The one only calling of the believer is to proclaim Jesus Christ and win people to Him, that His Eve may be builded and the marriage of the Lamb come, for only after that will His kingdom come.

If denominations and societies and the so called boards could sink their self seeking and see and seek Jesus only and His kingdom so much more might they see of His good hand upon them.

When the brethren at Jerusalem heard of the good work at Antioch they sent Barnabas, true son of consolation, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and when he came and saw what the grace of God had done he was glad. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ is briefly but fully set forth in II Cor. viii, 9, which with Rom. iii, 24; Eph. ii. 8, 9; Tit. ii. 11; 111, 4-1, and other passages teach us that the benefits of the finished work of Jesus Christ are for Jew and gentile alike, without exception, and that without any works of ours or any merit whatever on our part, any and every sinner truly receiving Jesus Christ becomes a part of Him, has in him eternal redemption and may become a messsenger to win others to Him. Barnabas and Saul, having been sent twelve apostles nor one of the committee of seven, but just a Levite of the country of Cyprus, who became a true believer and handed himself and his possessions honestly over to the Lord for His services (Acts iv, 36, 37). It is not necessary to be on the board or on the committee nor an elder or a deacon or a trustee, but it is necessary to be saved by grace and then to be in His hand for His pleasure, seeing no one but Jesus only. So Barnabas exhorted the believers to cleave unto the Lord with purpose of heart (verses 22-24). and much people was added unto the Lord. May we see Jesus only and sing, "Ever, only, all for Thee." The last we heard of Saul was that he had returned to Tarsus (chapter ix, 27-30). but Barnabas evidently has him much on his heart, for he went to Tarsus and found him and brought him to Antioch and for a whole year taught the believ ers there more fully of Jesus Christ (verses 25, 26). Either as a term of honor or reproach believers were first called Christians at Antioch. The affix "ian" may signify nothing more than "belonging to," but I like the suggestion of some one that a Christian is one who can truly say, "Christ is all, and, as the letters of the affix suggest. "I am nothing." Barnabas and Saul, having been sent to Jerusalem with an offering from the saints at Antioch, in due time returned and continued to minister to the Lord there (chapters xi, 27-30; xii, 25; xiii, 1-3). As they thus continued the Holy Ghost called for the separation of Barnabas and Saul for a special work to which He had called them. So with fasting and prayer and laying on of hands they were sent forth by the Holy Ghost and preached the word of God at Salamis, in Cyprus. Saul had, no doubt, been a good witness at Tarsus, and now Barnabas has a like privilege in his native island. Note that John Mark sister's son to Barnabas was with them (verse 5; Col. 4-10). The principal thing to note is that all was under the control of the Holy Spirit (verses 2, 4, 9), always the director in all that is truly the work of the Lord. All true ministry must be unto the Lord, to glorify Him (I Pet. iv. 11).

There is already an enormous demand for this big four cylinder Overland.

With certain improvements, it is the same car of which 55,000 Overlands were sold last season for $750.

The price is $55 less.

Standardization of product and the purchase of raw materials at before - the - war prices, made this reduction in price possible.

It will not be lower, for materials are rising in price.

Formosa's Umbrella Snake. Venomous snakes take the place of wild beasts in Formosa, and their attacks are formidable, says a Japanese traveler, who has just returned from a trip in the southern island. There is a venomous snake on that island by the name of amagasahebi, so called from its umbrella-like head. This snake is generally found in watery places, often in a ditch flowing out of a kitchen. A maid working in a kitchen is not infrequently startled at the ugly appearance of the snake. The animal makes a peculiar noise by the nimble movement of its tongue. A slight touch of its fangs is fatal. A native of the island was bitten by the snake in the thumb. A doctor who treated the wound made a simple application. The man returned home, thinking the wound would soon be cured, but to his consternation his arm had swollen up. He soon lost sight and hearing. Next morning he was dead. -East and West News.

like so many chicks against the mother hen.

Then, too, there were frequent additions to the furniture. Paul was handy with tools, and, though he had never learned the trade, he was no mean cabinetmaker. Now it was a bed, now a crib, or, rather, a bunk for one of his children, now an easy chair, all made out of plain material, but strong and not rough. And as for quilts, the wife was as apt at saving odds and ends for the purpose as patching them together.

In this way the nest grew in size and in comfort, though so slow was the process that it was like the hands of a clock that are not seen to move. Paul and his wife loved their home because they had not received it all finished at the hands of some generous giver, but had made it all themselves through a term of years. As for the children, they loved it for the best reason in the word—because it was home.

There had been when the property was bought a small mortgage on it. From the first the couple put aside a certain sum each year, if it were only 20 rubles ($10), and slowly during a long term of years they had seen the amount they owed becoming smaller. At last it was reduced to 100 rubles, then 50, then 10. When the last 10 rubles were paid the couple invited their intimate friends to sup with them, and when all were ranged around the table Paul took the mortgage document and burned it before them. Then all drank health and prosperity to the happy family who owned their home and everything in it.

Amid the rejoicing a horseman rode up to the door and cried out:

"Are there any reservists here?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"The kaiser has declared war against Russia, and all reservists of the first line are called to the colors."

The happiness of the Stanislaus family was turned to anxiety. They were Russian Poles living in Germany. The boys were too young for military service, and the father was beyond the age for first line troops. But they lived on the border, on German territory, and the tide of battle was liable to sweep over them.

Day after day spark after spark lit new flames." Russia declared war against Germany. France, as Russia's ally, did the same. Germany hurried across the border into Belgium, which drew England into the fray. All was preparation, while troops were being moved to points for defense or attack. Germany, having hurled its first strength westward, gave the slow moving Russians on the east time to concentrate and take the offensive.

" | ing his wrath. "Paul Stanisiaus, where are you?"

"Here, general." Stanislaus, his cornet in his hand, came out of the house and saluted. "Do you recognize me?" asked the general.

"No, general."

"I have heard you play that anthem many a time when I was an officer of the —th regiment of the line at Warsaw and was present when you played it before the czar, and he sent you a gift. As soon as I heard it just now I knew that you were the musician." "Many years have passed since I

"Why did you just play it?" "To call an officer. I need protection."

The general understood and looked at the men who stood trembling before him. He ordered one of his staff to march them away, then dismounted and went into the house. Seeing the confusion, he knew what had occurred. A table, on which were writing materials, stood near, and approaching it he wrote a safeguard which he handed to Stanislaus. Then he asked him to stand in front of the house and play again the Russian hymn.

Stanislaus did as requested, and as regiment after regiment marched past on the road below each burst into song, above which rang the clear tones of the cornet. When the anthem had been repeated again and again the general said to Stanislaus:

"You may be too old to fight, but you are not too old to inspire others to fight by the soul you put into music. Here are a hundred rubles to make up for the ruin done by these pillagers, who, I promise you, shall be severely punished. After you have repaired the damage done by them I desire that you follow the army and join me wherever I may be. You shall be with me at my headquarters, and before we go into battle you shall breathe love of the fatherland into the souls of my men. I as their general am expected to inspire them to deeds of valor, but were I the god of war himself I could not move them as you can move them by the power of song."

While the general was speaking these words Stanislaus and his family stood in respectful attention. When he had finished he put spurs to his horse and rode on.

Then father, mother and children clung to one another in an embrace. Then they all fell on their knees and gave thanks. Then—they began to clean up.

Animal and Plant Life In Brine.

Just west of Promontory Point sta tion, Utah, is a pond cut off from the Great Salt lake by the railroad embankment. At times of high water in the lake this reservoir fills by percolation through the embankment, but during the summer this water is concen trated to a brine by evaporation. The deep pink color of the brine is a phenomenon that appears in salt ponds generally when a certain concentration is reached. In the salt ponds of San Francisco bay this color is due to a certain bacillus which lives in saturated brines and also in the heaps of salt as it is piled for drainage and shipment. Prohibitive to life as such an environment might be considered. strong natural brines are, in fact, inhabited by a number of minute organisms, animals as well as plants. The pink color disappears in winter or when fresh water is introduced into the pond .- United States Geological Survey.

"Those twin boys of yours are so much alike that I don't see how you can tell them apart."

"That's easy enough. When they're on their good behavior they answer to their own names, and when they've been in mischief each one answers to the name of the other."—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

That Was All.

DON'T BE CARRIED AWAY BY THE CATALOGUE HABIT

A RE YOU among the thousands of men and women who are carried away by the catalog habit? Is there anyone in your immediate family circle who is allow-ing this habit to run away with him? If so, there is work for you to do. This habit started more than forty years ago. It is this same habit that has stunted the growth of thousands of communities. It has built up a few enormously large cities at the expense of your town. Don't allow a habit like this to run away with you. Take the bit in your own teeth. Investigate for yourself. Find out. Talk it over with your home merchant. Get your heads together. That habit is hurting you both. By killing this habit you benefit yourself, your children, your neighbors, your community. LOST-$10 Bill, on Middle St., two

The RECORD is running a lot of campaign advertising, as a matter of business revenue, and without any special favoritism. The cash of one candidate is as good to us as that of another.

Word was received here this Friday morning, from Miss Mary G. Wivill, of the death of her mother, on Thursday, at Cresson, Pa. The body will be brought here for interment in St. Joseph's cemetery, on Saturday evening or Sunday.

Mrs. Gassaway Ohler, who had a light stroke of paralysis in her left side, is improving. Mrs. T. A. Martin, who has been critically ill, is still in that condition. Mrs. Johnathan Allison and daughter, Miss Minnie, who have pneumonia, are reported better.

The dress factory is coming here, for a certainty, but no time has been set for the opening. Those who have not yet applied for work, but desire to do so, can leave their names with D. J. Hesson, A. G. Riffie, D. W. Garner, Wm. E. Burke or any others who have heretofore acted as solicitors.

We have received from Rev. Thurlow W. Null, of Calumet, Mich., two post card views showing winter scenes in Calumet. The pictures show snow banked much higher than a man, or about half as high as the average house, in the streets. The track for cars and vehicles looks like a deep cut, such as we have here on our railroads. He says there is plenty of snow there yet.

Taneytown and vicinity is always very responsive to home talent entertainments, and this is the proper spirit. It encourages more than anything else, development and better efforts. Another opportunity to express this spirit will be given, Friday evening next, May 5th., when a double play will be given in the Opera House, likely the last of the season, an advertisement of which appears in another column.

The only political meeting of the primary campaign will be held this Friday evening in the Opera House. The speaker will be Hon. Wm. T. Warburton, who made such a popular address at the Grangers' Fair, last August. Mr. Warburton will appear in the interest of Ex-Gov. Goldsborough, now a candidate for the Republican nomination as U.S. Senator. The Taneytown band will enliven the occasion.
