BRIEF NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Gleaned from the County and State and our Exchanges.

States Attorney W. L. Seabrook, of Westminster, made an address at a big Fourth of July celebration, at Hancock. ···---

Mrs. Hetty Green, reputed to be the richest woman in the world, died at the home of her son, Edward H. R. Green,

It is again reported that Pancho Villa, the Mexican bandit, is actually and surely dead. The information purports to come from two men who buried him, and who say he died of gangrene, from a wound in the leg.

Accidents all over the United States, from the use of fireworks on the 4th., were less than they have been for years, perhaps due to the higher cost of explosives, if not to a change in public sentiment and the more rigid enforcement of

A weather observer in Frederick, who has kept an accurate record of temperature and rainfall during the past seven years, says the past month was the coldest and rainiest June in that period. The temperature ranged from 42° to 89°, and 10.56 inches of rain fell.

... Mr. Hughes, Republican candidate for President, wears a beard to conceal a long sear on the neck, which he received, years ago, in a runaway accident. As beards are not as common nowadays, as they once were, considerable comment has been afloat as to the why? for this particular appendage. The country has been informed of the worst.

Two more vacancies have been filled in the Westminster Postoffice by the appointment of Joseph S. Stoner on Rural Route No. 1, and Theodore G. Kiler on Rural Route No. 4. The carriers on these routes were dismissed several months ago on the charge of not having passed the civil service examination. ---

The Fourth of July was celebrated in Westminster, by the unveiling of a cannon presented to the Mayor and Council by the government, through Hon. Fred C. Talbott. Before the unveiling, the school children, headed by the Boy Scout Band, paraded the main thoroughfares. Rev. J. C. Mallou offered prayer, and Surveyor of the Port Guy W. Steele, made the presentation address. ----

VOLUME NO. XXIII

The RECORD enters upon its 23rd. year with the present issue, in good health and spirits, ready for the additional burdens now bearing heavily on all county week-lies published at $1.00 a year, due to the great advance in the cost of paper and all other supplies. We are quite willing to continue to meet the many problem of the business, and trust that our patrons are as willing to continue their help.

More than ever does the local paper need the earnest co-operation of its near-by support. Every town is benefitted by its newspaper, more than it knows. In a sense, no weekly newspaper is purely local, but the town—the home of its publication—receives decidedly the most of its help, the most of the value disseminatin New York, on Monday, aged 80 years. Its help, the most of the value disseminated by it, in ways too numerous to mention. The fact is, a town without a good newspaper, is quite seriously handicap-ped, and not properly "on the map."

This coming year, we would like Taneytown, especially, to be, if possible, more loyal than ever to the RECORD. The expense of producing our paper will be very materially more than it has ever been before in the 22 years past, and will need more revenue-more patronage of all kinds. Will not everybody-especially the home people—help us over the unus-ual period? May we not ask that a per-sonal interest be taken, as for a friend and helper—as for a partner in business and general endeayor?

----Particulars of I. L. Perry's Death.

The RECORD, last week, contained the notice of Isaac L. Perry's death, but not the particulars. As he has a large num-ber of relatives and friends in this county, we give the following additional information, condensed from the Dwight, Ill., Star and Herald:

Mr. Perry was instantly killed on Wednesday (June 28) when the wall of a store building collapsed. The building was being torn down, and the roof had been taken off and it was when the last rafter was removed that a brick wall fell. Perry was working at the bottom of the wall and was called to, to get away, but before he could do so he was caught and

The accident is doubly sad because a nephew of Mr. Perry, Harvey Burns, who was reared for the past 35 years by Mr. and Mrs. Perry, was struck and killed by an automobile the previous Saturday night, and was buried on Tuesday—a day before Mr. Perry's death.

He is spoken of in words of highest praise by the Star and Herald. It says in part: "Words of praise are superfluous upon the life of a man so well known, so industrious, so tender of his family and to his friends, so faithful in the work of life, so honest and true. We leave the record of his life to speak for itself."

----Reassessment Plans Discussed.

A conference was held in Baltimore, on Mrs. V. Lorne Hummel, of Dillsburg, Thursday, with reference to plans for the reassessment of all property in the state, the object being to equalize values to a much greater extent than heretofore which can best be accomplished through plans of the State Tax Commission, rather than by leaving each county adopt its own plans.

The chief speeches were made by Gov.
Harrington and Chairman Arthur P.
Gorman. The plan provides that the County Commissioners shall appoint the local assessors, but these are to 'co-operate with a supervisor of assessors in each county, whose work is subject to review and correction by the State Commission. The following were present from Carroll county: J. W. Myers, County Commissioner; Jacob N. Dehoff, County Commissioner; Charles E. Fink, attorney for County Commissioners; B. F. Stansbury, secretary to County Commissioners; George W. Brown, Supervisor of Assessments; Martin Hess, Treasurer; W. H. Davis and H. E. Koontz.

----Hot Weather Rules for Horses.

1. Load lightly, and drive slowly. Stop in the shade if possible.

3. Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his

4. When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.

If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge. Use vinegar water if possible. Do not turn the hose on him.

6. Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of

7. Do not use a horse-hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.
8. A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

9. If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at nce, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

10. If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

11. Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

12. If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, be cannot well stand

These rules are prepared by the Boston Work-Horse Relief Association.

COUNTY TAX RATE INCREASED EIGHT CENTS.

Notwithstanding the New Revenue Producing Laws.

The RECORD is not in a position to criticise the increased tax rate for this year, that has been fixed by the County Commissioners at 88c on the $100.00, because it does not want to criticise without a better knowledge of the facts. It will be true to say, however, that the taxpayers will be disappointed, and will wonder where the benefit to them comes in for the taxation of mortgages and judgments, the replacement of the furni-ture tax, and the collection of taxes by our collector, which new laws were expected to increase the revenue of the county approximately $18,000 or $19,000

We were told, last year, that the increase from 68c to 80c was largely due to the loss of liquor license revenue and furniture exemption, amounting to over $12,000; therefore it is a little difficult to understand why, after this sum has been more than replaced, the rate for this year should be jumped from 80c to

We give the division and rate for the past three years, for further light on the

1914 1915 1916 25 30 38 Court and Salaries County Home Large Bridges and Roais 11 County Roads Election and Registration Board of Health Collection of Taxes Miscellaneous New Assessment

From the above, it appears that 'schools' and 'new assessment' have added 10c to the rate, and that 2c has been cut from "election and registration," leaving the net increase 8c, or an increased revenue of about $17,000. Of the increase for schools $8000. goes to Hampstead for a new school building, and the new assessment is an additional item of cost to be metable to the transfer school building and the new assessment is an additional item of cost to be met; but to the uninformed it would seem that the replacement of the mortgage and furniture tax, the taxation of judgments and the saving in collection of taxes should have met these items without the addition of 8c to the rate this

The tax-payers are thinking quietly, but none the less earnestly, over the tax-rate question, and we publish the above for the purpose of drawing out, if possible, an explanation for the present increased rate.

The increased tax rate may be used by some as an indictment of Local Optionthat because of the loss of liquor license revenue, the tax rate has been increased both last year and this year. Such ariment is wholly fallacious, but no doub it may be used, as well as believed, by those who would like it to be true. As fair counter argument, it is a fact that the tax rate in Frederick county was this year increased 7c, and is now $1.05 on the $100.00, and Frederick county has not lost its liquor license revenue.

---An Armored Car for Maryland.

The RECORD has received the following letter, with request to publish for the good of the cause:

'An Armored Motor Car equipped with 2 machine guns, and modern in every respect, that will cost about $6,000 to $7,000, 20% of which has already been raised, will be added to the Maryland National Guard, if the patriotic citizens of this state will do their part towards helping the Armor Car Committee to secure this car. Other states have been presented with cars in this way; therefore,

Maryland must not take the back place. Europe's example has proven the necessity for the Armored Car as a fighting weapon in modern warfare. The Armored Car Committee is ready to man this car as a crew, provided they meet National Guard requirements.

Since the mobilization order came, the campaign for the Armored Car has rereceived the most intense interest in

Adjutant General Warfield is ready to accept this car, and if the boys have come to the front, it will give them a better sort of defense. For this reason the Armor Car Committee asks all citizens of this state to make a contribution towards the purchase of this car.

We earnestly request your contribution. Let us get together and start gomething big for the fine old state of Maryland, and for the United States of America. Address all correspondence to Armored Motor Car Committee, Gordon T. Parks, Treas., 22 E. Baltimore St., Baltimore.

----Maryland's Share of the Bankhead Road Bill.

Maryland will receive $661,750 of the 75,000,000 construction fund appropriated by the Bankhead bill which passed Congress. The appropriation will continue for five years, as follows: First year $44,-150, the second $88,300, the third $132, 450, the fourth $176,600, and the fifth $220,750. The money is available provided the state, or counties, put up the same amount. The money is apportioned among the states according to their area, population and number of miles of rural delivery roads. It is to be spent under the supervision of the Good Roads Commission of the Federal Government and the state good roads commissions. Advocates of the bill declare that the Federal funds cannot be spent in maintaining roads which the states have already constructed. President Wilson is expected to approve the bill.

Information About Mexico.

Mexico is an unknown land to many persons who have, nevertheless, absorbed its recent exciting history as if it were a movie play. But so far only the "plot" has attracted attention; correct information about the "scenery" and the "atmosphere" of the thrilling drama which may lead this nation into war has been generally overlooked.

Therefore it is news to most persons that the total available unorganized military force of Mexico is reckoned by military experts to be close to 3,000,000. Statisticians make the estimate by taking a certain percentage of the total population. But army experts state that in any such calculation, only 50 to 75 per-cent of the "availables" are "effectives."

The total of the various "armies" be longing to the republic south of the Rio Grande is difficult to estimate. According to the latest figures compiled, the "war strength," consisting of "peace strength" and "reserves," amounts to 86,742. What has been done to increase this number in the last half year has probably brought the total number of the men having some military training to over 125,000

Mexico does not pretend to support a navy. Her "fleet," at last accounts, was composed of two third-class cruisers and five gunboats, and five torpedo boats.

The area of Mexico is 765,535 square miles, or between two and three times that of our largest state, Texas. The agricultural sections belong to the most fertile on the globe, and the climate is such that in parts where irrigation is practiced, two crops can be raised in

It is for its gold and silver production that Mexico excites attention among the nations. The country is a treasury of precious ores. It is said to have produced almost one-half of the world's silver in the last 400 years. Sonora, Chihuahua, and Durango, names which appear so often in news columns, are the richest of the ore-bearing states. In spite of her marvelous natural resources, Mexico's credit has for some time been in a chaotic condition. The country carries a national debt of over $255,000,000. While her revenue for 1914 was $64,544,000, her expenditures were $70.296,000. Her exports (1913) were valued at $150,202,808 and her imports at $97,886,169.

Economists say that these figures would be enormously changed to the great advantage of the country if the government were organized in a way to promote her agricultural and industrial activities.

Mexico has something over 15,000 miles of railroads, but cheap fuel is the country's most serious need. Her petroleum output, however, ranks next to that of the United States and Russia, but recent controversies over the concessions to American and British capitalists have prevented its use for the general development of other resources.

According to the census of 1910, 19 per cent. of the population were pure white, 43 per-cent. of mixed bloods, and 38 percent. were Indians.

The republic of Mexico consists of 27 states, two territories, and one federal The state governments are like the federal—divided into three parts, the executive, legislative, and judicial. Governors and legislators are supposed to be elected by the people, and the judiciary

... Prices of Foodstuff.

For the RECORD.) Many of us are complaining of the high prices of food, clothing and other necessities of life. Before me is a letter from a friend in Massachusetts, who, in writing of how wonderfully the automobiles are multiplying, says, "On some of the main streets of this city it is nothing unusual to count one hundred automobiles an nour passing a certain point."

Taking up the subject of foodstuff, he writes, "Do not complain, as you did in your last issue of Home Sunshine of the price of milk in Hanover, Pa. Here it sells at 12% per quart; old potatoes 50% per peck; bread 10% for a small loaf; beefstead 35% per pound; eggs 40% per dozen; butter 42% per pound; sugar 10% per pound; lard 16% per pound; crackers 12% per pound; coffee 35% per pound. In fact many of the necessities are nearly double the former prices. If one has a fat pocketbook it is all right; if not, they can think of many things they cannot

Besides being grateful and content with our locality, we receive many blessings without money and without price. Old and young, big and little, rich and poor, good and bad, do we not all have the privilege of enjoying the pure fresh air, the blessed sunshine, refreshing showers, green growing vegetation, cheering songs of birds, beautiful flowers and kind friends? The Widow's Pension Bill. Reduced to its simplest statement, there are four essential provisions in the bill, as 1. It gives $20 a month to all civil war widows who were married to their husbands during their husband's service. This will include many who were married to their husbands when the latter came home on furlough; also to many thousands of young women who married their husbands when they enlisted during the later period of the war.

2. All widows of veterans who have now reached or may reach the age of 70 years will receive $20 a month.

3. All widows of civil war veterans who were dropped by reason of their remarriage, and who again became widows, either by reason of the death of their second husbands or by divorces, for which they were not to blame, will be restored to their pensionable status.

4. The limitation on marriages is extended 15 years, from 1890 to 1905. This extension of 15 years, it is hoped, will include the great mass of those who mar-ried their husbands after the passage of the Act of 1890.

No claim agent is needed, and the bill has to be passed by the Senate before it

MEXICAN WAR NOT LIKELY AT PRESENT

The Border will Still be Closely Guarded by Troops.

The Mexican situation is very much improved, apparently, as General Carranza has sent our State Department a note that is held to be satisfactory, though t contains no disavowal-of the Carrizal shooting affray, nor any material back-down from its position relative to Amer-ican troops on Mexican soil.

It is true that the note says the Carranza government will seek every means of avoiding new incidents to aggravate the situation, and suggests that the various questions be "arbitrated," but it is far from being anything beyond a pretty independent and self-defensive sort of let ter-just about enough to keep out of war, diplomatically.

This has not put a stop to the sending of our troops to the border, for new troubles are likely to occur at any time, as long as Mexicans with guns prowl about, and have little respect for our lives or comfort. Mexican regular troops are also quite thick, within striking distance.

On the whole, our government seems decidedly more overjoyed at the prospects of no war, than do the Mexicans, which is perhaps wise policy for a war department so illy prepared to equip the few state troops that have been called into It would be a pity to cut short their training, since they are at last on the way, or at the front, even if there is to be no war just now.

The First Maryland Regiment is now encamped at Eagle Pass, Texas. Mexican troops are in camp just across the Rio Grande, directly opposite. It is a desolate spot, as is all the country around Eagle Pass. Miles of cactus, mesquite and chaparral stretch before the eye, with unlimited quantities of sand and no sign of animal life. The mornings are usually comfortable, according to the troops of Vermont and Kansas, which are camped near. The afternoons are intensely hot and the New England and the Western guardsmen tell the Maryland boys, there are severe sand storms every evening, forcing the soldiers to huddle inside their tents. After the storms the nights are cool. The Marylanders and the Vermont and Kansas men began to mix immedi-

Eagle Pass Camp is described as being a great hollow, or basin, without trees or shrubs-nothing but sand and cactuswith the Sun beating down in an intense heat quite unknown in Maryland. It is said that 98° to 105° is considered moderate heat in the shade at this time of the year, but the nights are reasonably cool. When the Sun lets up the wind takes a hand, and covers everything with a fine penetrating sand like a fog.

Special care is taken of the sanitary and medical care is excellent. Less than one per cent of all the American troops there are on sick report, and some of these are only slightly indisposed.

-----English Opinion as to Peace.

Viscount Bryce, at a dinner given in London, this week, to James M. Beck, ormer Assistant Attorney General of the United States, said there is no likelihood of peace on any terms that Germany is now ready to propose.

'In the first place, we do not think this war will be a 'draw.' The Allies are going to win. We believe this not merely because our army in France is driving back the Germans, nor because Russian troops have made a brilliant advance, nor because the soldiers of France have been standing like a rock with magnificent valor against the furious attacks made on Verdun. We believe it because the Allies will prove to be stronger on land than the Germans and because we hold unshaken and unshakeable control of the which would recognize their own failure. 'Thirdly, because peace made now on such terms as the German government would accept would be no permanent peace, but a mere truce. 'We do not hate the German people; we do not wish to break up Germany nor destroy her national unity, nor inflict permanent injury upon her. What we desire is to exercise an evil spirit and discredit the military caste which delights in war and threatens not only Europe, but all countries, America included."

In concluding Viscount Bryce said that Great Britain was fighting for the deliverance of Belgium and France and such changes in the East as will make it impossible for the Turkish allies of Germany ever again to massacre their Christian

The seriousness of the situation is unquestioned.

MRS. JULIA ANN ENGLAR. July 4th., 1844-June 21st., 1916. A Son's Loving Tribute.

Having sown many harvests of happiness for others, at last the sickle has flashed for her and she has been harvested home, the white sheaf of God. Oft she rejoiced in our joys, Oft she shared in our sorrows. Full oft she was touched with a sense of our infirmities. Now she has been redeemed out of pain and sorrow, out of defeat and death. In this hour when she has been clothed with eternal youth and beauty, let none who loved her, fail to give her joy and glad congratulation?

Out of all the thunder of life's battle, she has come forth a victor. She had known almost two and seventy years of childhood, youth, marriage and the cradle song. Life and love, joy and sorrow, health and sickness, defeat and victory, have wrought their uttermost. Never again will she shiver under the blasts of winter! Never again will heat or fierce pain scorch her garments! Now she has found the soul's summerland and immortal happiness. Last night in my dreams I saw her go across the Eden fields. Now she has asked all her hard questions at God's throme and received her. In this hour He wears her like a red rose upon His heart.

We who knew heat and owed her most can see how God stored her beart full of rich treasures and enabled her to pour fem on it in unstinted measure. She see one God's the ordinary folk in ordinary life, I grow imparient for the Judgment Day. Then the truth will be known. In the white light of the Resurrection, purple and fine linen, gold and gems, and the tinsel crowns of earth will shrivel and fade and disappear. But faithfulness, and courage and service and sincerity will shine like the stars. Some of God's most precious gifts to her were: Her Goodness, her Sympathy, and her Faith in God.

1. Her Goodness. Through a good, long life she has gone in and come out before us, as friends and neighbors. You know what manner of woman she was, what words she spoke, what deeds she did, what character she had. In this hour of retrospection, not one but recognizes her weight of personal goodness, the sweath of the result of that for a long time was almost unsuspected by others.

"O! man, this heart, your weary souls be-

"O' man, this heart, your weary souls beguiling, Groaned inly, while she taught you peace and died while you were smiling." Concerning his friend, James Russell Lowell said, "He was the last gentleman of the old school," Well, she was one of the last ladies of the old patrician school, of late, she has been our Lady of Sorrows, through pain, and yet, through hope and faith to the end, she was victor over pain and sorrow alike.

3. Her Faith in God. Great characters represent great principles. She endured as seeing One who is invisible. Faith was the force that made her great. She believed that God cared for her and hers and that events are overruled for good. She was not a materialist, believing that the world shuffles into form. She was not a vitalist, believing that the world was "thought out" by an intelligent, all-wise, all-good Father. She believed that God cared for His own; that right is stronger than wrong; and that God and His dear Son will be victors at last, over every form of evil. She believed in the life immortal; that physical death is a triffing episode in the career of the spirit. Dying is the falling of the flower, that the fruit may swell. For us, the grave is a horizon, beyond which we cannot see. Jesus had a forehead which touched the stars; He saw the far-off hills of God. He carried away upon His shoulders the gates of the sepulchre. With smiles therefore, He wiped the mourners' tears away. Looking at the grave, He whispered to the little child, "Not here, not here, but yonder beyond the stars."

Let us believe that His strong hand has lifted our beloved one over the river of death, and set her down in the Homeland. She has found her revered father and beloved mother. She has been re-united to her brothers and sisters. She has found her dear husband and the fond boy who years ago slipped away from her. God accepted her! Christ received her! Our hearts bleed because of the great loss, but the resurrection light shines into our hearts

THE MEXICAN situation, as we now have it, would have been better placed two years ago, if it will now lead to something like adequate preparation to take care of ourselves in case of emergency. Our efforts to get together the National Guard shows just how unprepared we are. Just brave men alone are not soldiers, nor even police.

A MAGAZINE writer says "preparedness'' does not consist alone in armaments and soldiers, but in preparedness on the part of the resources of the country-an organization on the part of producers and workers to stand a siege of hard-times, and incidentally to conserve all of the productive and industrial interests of the country. Of course, this is excellent advice; but the general government, just now, is expected to prepare to protect its people, in their prosperity. - ....

----"Effective Preparedness."

Gov. Brumbaugh in his proclamation calling for a proper observance of Independence Day, concludes by asking for special attention to the soldiers, and that each person "devoutly pray that they may under God do their full duty and if grant us permanent peace and abounding freed from the trenches start back to prosperity."

Note the words, "effective preparedness." The effective preparedness is the kind that the pacifists would like to replace with mush-kind words and "turning the other cheek." Persuasion, prayer, kindness, disinclination to fight, are all splendid attributes. When one sees danger ahead, whether from man, beast, or natural elements, it is always best to try to step aside and avoid it; but, when this can not be done, "effective" preventive measures, on our part, must be taken-even force must be met with force. There has never been an election as important to the people as this, excepting perhaps the first election of Abraham Lincoln, upon which hinged the question of slavery and national union.

.... Look Ahead.

It is perhaps right that little publicity is being given to the restlessness and ominous agitation in the labor world, existing almost everywhere. The present prosperity, due in a large measure to the European war, has caused an almost unprecedented demand for labor. The munition making firms, owing to their great orders and self-made prices, have been able to offer such wages as caused all industries to pay more.

In consequence the prices of nearly every manufactured article have of necessity been advanced. This active bidding for labor has apparently developed an independent, dictatorial disposition on the part of laborers and labor unions to such an extent as to make present conditions unsatisfactory and the future uncertain. If the conditions found in the Philadelphia district by the Federal Reserve Agent are general, they are disquieting to say the least. The investigation shows that there is an almost universal complaint that as wages increased a large class of wage earners became less productive—less reliable. Instead of taking advantage of the prosperous times, they are not netting much more than formerly when wages were lower, and the whole country is suffering an economic loss through our failcrease in wages was followed by a decrease Whatever one may think of the follow- of the most prominent clergymen and was to close the plant. #### ----Prohibition in Russia Successful.

After a year and a half of prohibition Russia may be said to have successfully abolished the liquor traffic. The sale of intoxicants since Emperor Nicholas put his signature to the ukase forbidding the traffic at the very outset of the war has fallen from nearly a billion rubles ($500,-000,000) yearly to approximately 4 per cent. of that sum. This 4 per cent. largely consists of the sale of liquors for medicinal purposes, although in it is included also a limited traffic in wines for which there is a restricted permission in certain parts of the empire. Vodka, formerly the most easily obtainable commodity in Russia, has become as rare as whisky in the most strictly prohibition community in the United States. Wines are still to be had, surreptitiously for the most part, but also in some cases and under prescribed conditions, with the knowledge of the authorities, but at prices which limit their sale tested and debated for more than 4000 to people of wealth or woeful extravagance. It is possible, in Petrograd or Moscow, for instance, where the ban, away, we are asked to suspend judgment | even on wines, is strict, to purchase wines until both sides are heard! And by in certain hotels, but they may be served only in private dining-rooms, and the privileges enjoyed by these institutions are frequently interrupted by the police for some infraction of the restrictive rules. One of the most noticeable results of the almost complete suppression of vodka naturally is the disappearance from the streets and other public places of intoxicated persons. They have become so rare as to be more or less a novelty. This Every family without exception should state of affairs offers a remarkable contrast to the ante-bellum condition when

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is worth many times its cost when needed and is almost cerities a well-established fact that each one of the 60-odd holidays, irrespective of Sundays, when business houses and factories close their doors, used to mean a crippling of business activity on the following day, and often for two succeeding days, because of the fetes which attended the holiday celebrations. It is said that the saving to the workingmen in this respect alone runs into prodigious figures. In one factory in the Tula government, employing 1000 men, there were 600 lost working days in three months during 1914. For the same months in 1916 these were reduced to 49. The earning capacity of the people appears to have outstripped the advance in the cost of living, with the result that savings deposits have mounted up to an almost unbelievable extent, the peasant is living better than he ever did before and he is acquiring a self-respect which he never possessed in the old days of vodka domination. Among the benefits observed by an independent investigator, A. I. Faresov, who, recently traveled through a number of the central governments are: A noteworthy falling off in the number of domestic rows; a light and more hopeful spirit among the people; a decrease in arrears of taxes; fields better tilled and a growing demand for agricultural machinery; a decrease in alcoholics in the Proved one of the best possible helps charity hospitals and other institutions, and a decrease in crimes and in the number of beggars. According to this investigation, the peasant, instead of feeling that he has suffered an injury by the abolition of vodka, is grateful for having had a temptation removed which he knew he himself was powerless to resist. - Ex-

VARIETIES OF DUCKS.

Rouens and Pekings Most Popular For Market Purposes.

As to the different breeds of ducks and their popular characteristics, if a breeder wants a duplicate of the White Leghorn in the duck family he should choose the Indian Runner. As the name implies, it came originally from India, and instead of waddling, as most ducks do, it literally runs, which accounts for the second part of its name. The standard weight of the Indian Runner drake is about four and a half pounds and of the duck four pounds. Runners are excellent layers, good foragers and, given plenty of ground, enjoy finding a large part of their own food. They are not fond of confinement, but are very hardy and comparatively easy to raise. For market purposes their size is rather against them, although the flesh is of excellent quality.

While a pond or stream is a val-uable adjunct to a duck farm, it is not indispensable. A swimming pond reduces the labor in caring for ducks, but many duck farms are successfully operated without this convenience, the only water the birds get being furnished in drinking vessels. The birds shown are a Peking duck and drake.

One of the most popular breeds of ducks in this country both for beauty and marketing purposes is the Rouen, which came originally from Normandy. The standard weight of the Rouen drake is about nine pounds and of the duck eight pounds. The flesh is considered especially delicate and of delicious flavor, and the bird is also very easily fattened, is very prolific and hardy. Altogether the Rouen duck is rated as one of the most profitable breeds to raise, and the eggs are especially delicious and rich.

Unlike the Rouens, the Peking ducks are very timid and need to be handled with care. They are splendid layers. however, are easily raised, mature early, are very hardy and make excellent table fowls, the weight of the drake averaging from eight to nine pounds and the duck weighing from seven to nine pounds. On the whole, the Peking duck is considered the most popular breed of duck we have, and the other breeds are usually judged for practical qualities by the Peking.

There are of course. kinds, such as the Muscovy, Cayuga Aylesbury, Blue Swedish, Black East India, Crested White, etc., and of these the Blue Swedish is particularly attractive, but the three kinds described above may be counted upon to give the average countryman the most satisfac tion and for all practical purposes stand highest in popular esteem,

EGG LAYING CONTEST.

Result of First Six Months at Missouri Experiment Station.

The first half of the experimental year at the Missouri experiment station has just ended with some very interesting results. The pens making the highest records for six months are distributed among the many breeds and varieties.

One point worthy of note is that seven of the ten highest belong to what is commonly termed the "all purpose class," there being two Rocks, two Reds, two Wyandottes and one Orpington, the other three being Leghorns. This is a fine showing for the medium weight birds, as the six months cover the winter season, when eggs are high, and also the principal part of the breeding season. A White Plymouth Rock pen made the highest record, 624 eggs for the six months, and a White Rock hen was the best individual, laying 145 eggs during the six months. The high water mark in egg production during either March or April has been reached this year, the records having surpassed all previous records.

The records for the first six months of each contest are as follows, each hen's average for the six months, beginning in November: First contest, 63 eggs; second contest, 68 eggs; third contest, 76 eggs; fourth contest, 76 eggs, and fifth contest, 81 eggs.

Stunted Chickens.

You will always find a few weakling chicks in almost every hatch. They seem to lack vigor and vitality. The cause of this cannot always be laid to the parent stock, but to wrong conditions somewhere along the line. While It may seem cruel, the best thing to do is to get rid of them in the easiest way possible. They will never amount to anything, and even though you manage to carry them along for a time they will eventually die or become dwarfed and stunted chicks.

Feeding the Chick. If you are compelled to keep your young chickens shut up remember that they will need more meat and more green stuff than when they have free

COLORS OF NEWLY HATCHED CHICKENS

People who buy pure bred eggs for hatching the first time are much surprised, when the young chicks come, to find that they are not all of a uniform color, says the Kansas Farmer. Two or three parties have written to us complaining about the matter and saying they have been swindled by having common eggs thrust upon them in place of pure breds. One of them had bought White Wyandotte eggs and some dark colored chicks appeared. Another purchased Rhode Island Red eggs, and various colored chicks came. Both believe they have been swindled out of their money. But the fact is that there is uniformity in color in but few of the pure bred chicks when first hatched. Hardly any of them look like their parents or as they themselves will look when they get their adult feathers.

White fowls such as White Wyandottes and White Plymouth Rocks throw chicks that are sometimes decidedly dark in color, but they will change and in six weeks' time they will be altogether different in color and eventually will become pure white.

In their native country-England -the Dorkings are considered the perfection of table fowls, but in the United States they are not so popular, being bred principally for exhiprofitable as general utility fowls as the American breeds. There are three varieties of Dorkings-White, Silver Gray and Colored. The bird shown is a Silver Gray Dorking

Black fowls, on the other hand, such as Black Langshans and Black Cochins throw chicks that are light in color, but when they get their adult feathers they are perfectly black. Barred Plymouth Rocks throw chicks that are black and white and show no sign of the barring that they will certainly have when they are full grown.

The longer a breed is established the more likelihood of uniformity in the color of the progeny. But the newer varieties, such as Rhode Island Reds. Columbian Wyandottes, etc., throw chicks of a decided off color, but are nevertheless pure bred stock. So do not complain of the color of the chicks until they are two or three months old. The chances are that by that time you will be satisfied with the color.

Chickens Need Abundant Water. Chickens are not given enough water. as a rule. They are usually watered once a day, in the morning, and by the afternoon are out of water. After heavy feeding of grain, hens must have water to soften and assimilate it, and espe cially should they have plenty of water before they go to roost. An egg contains 85 per cent water, so if a hen is deprived of a sufficient quantity of this necessity she cannot lay as many eggs as she otherwise would.

Sow Sunflowers In Hen Yard.

If you have no shade in your poultry yards it would be well to be thinking about the matter in time. Sow some Russian sunflower seed, and you will have shade by the time hot weather comes, besides something in the shape of feed when the seeds get ripe, for bens are very fond of sunflower seed. Another quick growing plant that would make good shade is the castor bean. It grows into a fine large bush in a short while.

Culling the Poultry Flock.

While culling should be carried on every month in the year, yet the months of September and October are the best culling months. You can then pick out your most promising youngsters, start training and conditioning for the showroom; also the undeveloped pullets will be easy to pick out from the precocious ones, which are the birds to keep for the breeding pens .-American Poultry Journal.

Egg Noodle Sweet Souffle .- Add half a package of cooked egg noodles to two cupfuls of hot milk, and let stand on back of stove until milk is mostly absorbed, then let it cool and add a teaspoonful of salt, half a cupful of sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs, and whites beaten to a stiff froth. Turn into a buttered souffle mold, set | material: it in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 25 minutes. Serve immediately alone or with sweetened

Turn into a buttered baking dish, set dish in a pan of hot water in oven and bake until the custard is set.

Macaroni Soup .- To one quart of boiling water, salted, add a large handful of macaroni, boil 20 minutes, drain and blanch. Add two cupfuls of strained stewed tomatoes, season highly and just before serving add a cupful of cream. Soup Spanish With Rings .- Simmer in three quarts of water two pounds of lean meat for two hours. Skim well as it boils, then add one cupful of cooked white beans, four onions chopped fine, two cloves of garlic, four red peppers chopped, and two slices of lemon, salt to taste; allow this to cook thoroughly until soft, strain through a colander, rub through the pulp, place on the fire again and boil; add lastly one-fourth package of soup rings, one tablespoonful of butter and one of milk rubbed in two ounces of flour. When rings are tender the soup is ready.

New Apple Salad.

Beat half a cupful of double cream, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a quarter teaspoonful of salt until firm throughout. Cook two apples, cored and pared, in a sirup of equal measures of sugar and water (two or three cloves or an inch of cinnamon bark may be added) and set them aside to become thoroughly chilled. Chop fine four maraschino or candied cherries and eight or ten pecan nuts or blanched almonds. Carefully wash three small heads of tender lettuce, first removing the ragged outer leaves and cutting the stalks that the heads may stand. Dispose the heads on individual plates with an apple in the center of each. Mix the cherries and Allow one pound of sugar to a pound of rhubarb. Peel and cut up rhubarb into small pieces, put into a dish a layer of rhubarb and a layer of sugar until all is used. Do this in the evening, then in the morning pour saucepan and boil hard for 30 mincome to the boiling point and simmer Stand your jars in boiling water to into them while hot. After jars are cool, and when cool keep in a dark place. Strawberries may be put away in the same way, using less sugar.

To Launder Fringed Cloths.

Fringed cloths are often quite ruined in appearance at the laundry. They may be made to look like new for an indefinite period if when they are starched a little care is taken not to starch the fringe. Fold each cloth in four, like a handkerchief, and then the hand and hold it firmly while you dip the middle into the starch. When the cloth is dry shake the fringe well and comb it with a comb and it will fall as softly and prettily as when Cauliflower and Cabbage.

To keep cauliflower white and free from scum when cooking; before placing the cauliflower in the saucepan tie it up in a piece of clean muslin. When ready, it can be easily lifted from the pot into the colander to drain. Untie the muslin and you will find the vegetable beautifully whole. When boiling cabbage, to prevent the unpleasant smell that it always makes, it will be found very good to place a small piece of bread tied up in muslin in the saucepan.

Delicious Pie. Take one cupful seeded raisins, one cupful cranberries (raw), chopped together; one-third cupful water, twothirds of a cupful of sugar with one heaping teaspoonful of flour mixed with the sugar; mix all together and bake between two crusts.

Mashed Turnip With Onion. Cut up turnip and put in salted water with an onion. When tender drain off water, mash turnip and onion together, add butter and a little pepper Serve hot.

ON THE FARM

Directions For Preparing Material For Mixing For Farm Use.

G. P. SPRINGER,

Maryland Agricultural College.

There are many ways of mixing concrete, but to the person having only a small amount to handle, up to about 150 cubic yards, hand mixing is the only economical method.

Mixing on the basis of a two-bag batch; meaning a batch of concrete where the basis of measurement is two bags of cement, a 1:2:4 concrete would require two bags of cement (a bag of cement contains one cubic foot), four cubic feet of sand, eight cubic feet of stone or gravel. The tools that will be required are: A mixing board 9x10 feet, which will require the following

9 pcs. % in. x 12 in. x 10 ft. x 0 in., dressed one side and two edges. 5 pcs. 2 in. x 4 in. x 9 ft. 0 in., rough 2 pcs. 2 in. x 2 in. x 10 ft. 0 in., rough 2 pcs. 2 in. x 2 in. x 9 ft. 0 in., rough

The mixing board should be tight with the 2-inch strips nailed around the edge to prevent water from escap-

Runways will require several pieces of plank 10x12 inches wide.

A measuring box for sand and stone will require for a 1:2:4 mix the follow-

2 pcs. 1 in. x 111/2 in. x 2 ft. 0 in., rough 2 pcs. 1 in. x 11½ in. x 4 ft. 0 in., rough

This forms a box two feet square, the extra length on two pieces is for making handles. There will also be required two or more "square point" shovels, one or more sheet iron wheelbarrows, a rake, a water barrel, several water buckets, a sprinkling can, a temper, a spading tool and a sand

Making The Mixture.

Level the mixing board, place the measuring box at one side of the center, fill measuring box level full of sand, lift off the box and spread the sand evenly over the board until four or six inches deep. Take two bags of cement and spread evenly over the sand. Mix the sand and cement thoroughly by turning three or more times. To mix start at the edge of the sand and cement mass and shovel it over into a new pile. In shoveling do not take a shovelful from one pile and dump it upon the other pile, but in turning the shovel give it a twisting pull, this will cause the sand and cement as it falls from the shovel to scatter and mix. The material is shoveled from one side of the mixing board to the other at least three times, and if properly turned should then show throughout an even gray color. Spread out upon the mixing board to a depth put through the prepared cream and of four or six inches and place the measuring box on the center of the mass, fill level full of stone, lift off and level, replace and fill full of stone again, lift off and level down. (Note that the box is filled only once with sand.) Wet the mixing board upon the side where the mass is to be turned, shovel the cement, sand and stone over to the other side of the off all the liquid you can into a board sprinkling it as turned, wet board on other side and turn mass utes. Then add the rhubarb, let back again, sprinkling as turned. As each shovel of material is deposited for ten minutes. Do not stir at all. drag the shovel toward you, this will spread and mix the wet mass. Turn prevent breaking, and then pour jelly | and sprinkle where dry spots show until a complete turning will not expose secured turn them upside down to any dry material. The concrete mass should now contain sufficient water so that tamping will cause water to flush to the top of the mixture, bringing with it a thin film of cement to the surface.

Use At Once.

The concrete is now ready to be placed in the forms built to receive it. Concrete should not be allowed to stand after mixing but should be placed in the forms at once. If it gather the fringe of each part into stands for a time greater than 30 minutes it will begin to set, and if then placed in the form will produce a weak structure which will give trouble and eventually fail.

The materials to be used in the concrete, the tools for mixing, the materials for forms, the forms as far as possible completed, should all be on the ground where the work is to be done before any of the concrete is mixed. Use only clean water. Mix quickly and place immediately in the forms. Advice and information concerning concrete work and other engineering problems may be had by writing to the Division of Engineering, Maryland Agriculture College, College Park, Md.

When cut worms are found to be abundant on corn land, the use of the poisoned bait is recommended. This may be prepared as follows: Mix 50 pounds of wheat bran, two pounds of Paris green, and six finely chopped oranges or lemons. Then bring the whole mixture to the consistency of a stiff dough by the addition of a cheap molasses, such as is used in cattle rations, adding water when necessary. Distribute this bait over the infested field in small lumps, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around each hill In case bran cannot be readily ob tained, middlings or alfalfa meal may be successfully substituted.

Two New Visitors!

No. 1 Cabinet No. 2 Cabinet T AFFORDS us great pleasure to introduce to you our two new visitors; they just arrived this week from Green Castle, Ind. No. 1 is Mary Green Castle. No. 2 is Jane Green Castle. They come from a family of nation-wide repute—"The Famous Green Castle Family." They have come to us and desire that we find a place for them in the homes of some of the people of Taneytown and vicinity. Since we are not so well informed as to just who has place for a helpful friend in the kitchen, we take this means of bringing them to your attention. They #### have requested us to make the following statements for them: To The Housewife:-

We will save you so many steps in one day that you will wonder how you ever did without us before. We demand but little room—you can place us anywhere. We will not grow tired and weary, but will serve you from morning till night, every day in the year, with no hope or desire for vacation. We promise to do efficiently everything you entrust to our care, and to always be looking for more work. In other words, we are just what you need to cheer you in the kitchen and to lengthen your days of service to your husband. Everyone who sees us says that we look simply grand—won't you come in and look us over? We must admit that we were shocked when we heard how little Messrs. C. O. I uss & Son were asking for us. For my dear sister, Mary, they ask $17.48, in Nickeloid sliding table top, snow white interior; for myself, Jane, they ask $21.48, in a beautiful white porcelain sliding top, with white enameled interior. We cannot believe that it's possible that they will part with us for so little money, but they are determined to ask no more. Won't you come in soon and give us a place in your kitchen? We are fond of Won't you come in soon and give us a place in your kitchen? We are fond of work and cannot work here in the store, so we would be glad if you come for us at once. Our other sisters will likely cost more, for Father and Mother say that it costs so much more to dress their children now in these days of war, and consequently will have to ask more for us. If you want a little help-mate in your home—one that will not grow tired of helping you and that will prove more useful to you every day—come in quick and adopt one of us. Don't forget, the only place you can purchase us at anything near the price mentioned above is at

Remember, the only place we know they can be secured for $2.25 is of

THE FARMERS:

From information secured by our Agents, we learn that some person, or persons, are misrepresenting the Fertilizer Situation for the coming season, by saying that we might look for a great scarcity of ingredients; that dealers would not be able to secure the goods; many contracts remain unfilled; higher prices might be expected; that orders should be placed at once in order to guarantee price and delivery. ALL WRONG.

The True Situation ---

We have in Stock, and in sight, a full supply of material to manufacture all of our well known Brands, including a Potash Goods 1—9—1, if wanted. We are in position to make any formula you may suggest, and as to the prices, they are not higher, as represented, but are lower than the Spring price for the same

The long talked-of "drive" of the entente allies has been in progress all week, and the Germans have been forced back to their second line along a wide front. The English army distinguished itself by making the most terrific artillery demonstration of the war, literally pulverizing the entrenchments and barbed wire entanglements of the Germans, after which the infantry advanced about five miles on a front of twenty miles.

The German losses in killed, wounded and captured, appear to have been much greater than of the English and French, and runs away up in the thousands. The French front was also greatly advanced; and in fact, on all fronts, there seems to be a concerted drive against the central powers. It is confidently stated that Germany and Austria have practically exhausted their reserves, and that from now on the war will represent a scaling down of man power. Germany announces that the advances made are not serious, and that the German army is in no danger, falling back only to even stronger defensive po

Whether England and France can continue their drive, remains to be seen. they can, it would appear that Germany must sooner or later be defeated, which has all along been the claim of military experts, as Germany will eventually lack men by comparison with the resources of the allies, and especially Russia, whose man supply is still much greater than the ability of the country to equip them. The Germans are apparently centreing their strength before the English, and drawing troops from in front of the French lines; and this is explained because of the intense hatred the Germans hold tothe English, and means, also, that if they must give way, they would rather give way to the French Russia claims that the Austro-German forces have recently lost nearly a half-million men, about half of whom are prisoners. The Czar's forces are still con tinuing their tremendous drive.

Practical Suggestion. Immediately after using your eggbeater, wash it in cold water, which will easily dislodge the particles of egg, whereas hot water cooks them and fastens them obstinately to the beater.

Honey Pots.

There have been many honey pots made of china to simulate hives, but the latest has a number of realistic china bees, with wings raised for flight, scattered over it.

Chicken on Toast. Chop the pieces of cold chicken meat into fine morsels. Make a thin white sauce, using the liquor in which the chicken was cooked, and stir the morsels of meat into it. Now prepare thick pieces to toast, put the meat on it, pour over the gravy, and with a ring of cooked rice about the edge. serva at once, piping hot.

NEAR DEATH MANY TIMES

Arrested and rearrested, sentenced to be shot time and again as a spy, Albert K. Dawson, the kaiser's war photographer, returned to this coun-ry recently.

Three times Mr. Dawson waited to be executed by Serbian soldiers, who held him prisoner on suspicion of his peing a spy. Seventy times he was arrested. In his official capacity he has traveled over a great part of the warring fronts, but described the conditions existing in Serbia as being most appalling. Serbian soldiers refused to bring with them their Austrian prisoners owing to lack of food. Signs of war, disease and desolation met him at every turn.

MAKES HIS THIRD ESCAPE

Eugene Gilbert, French Aviator, Flees Swiss Camp Again-Gets to Italy.

Paris.-For the third time Eugene Gilbert, the French aviator, has escaped from the camp in Switzerland where he was interned. The aviator who made several aeroplane records before the outbreak of the war, was compelled by lack of gasoline to land on Swiss soil after making a raid on the Zeppelin factory at Friedrichs hafen.

He made his first attempt to escape soon after his internment and managed when the Swiss authorities declared that he had not given them sufficient notice of his withdrawal of his promise not to attempt to escape.

In February the aviator again tried to make his way out of Switzerland, but was arrested at Olten. According to the Petit Parisien, M.

Gilbert has succeeded this time in making his way to Italy.

PREACHES AND STICKS TYPE

Pastor Installs Press and Will Divide Time Between Preaching and Printing.

St. Louis.-Rev. W. F Kirkpatrick, the pastor of the Pentecostal church at Upper Alton, is going to divide his time between preaching and printing. He has installed a job press and fonts of type in the church building at College avenue and Washington street, and will alternate between setting type and preaching the Gospel. He thinks he will be able to do both acceptably, as he is a union printer as well as an ordained minister. The auditorium and the print shop are in adjoining rooms. The pastor will only have to step through the doorway to become the printer, and the printer will only have to step back through the same doorway to again become the pastor.

Holders of Tickets Must Appear in Rotation in Order to Prevent Rioting.

London.-In order to prevent rioting in front of butcher shops the commune of Griedenau, near Berlin, has decided to number meat tickets, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quoting the Berliner Tageblatt.

The holders of tickets will get their meat according to number at the butcher shops and those who do not appear at the specified time will not receive any.

According to reports reaching the Exchange Telegraph company the supply of eggs in Berlin is so nearly exhausted that the price is $1.68 a dozen, or 14 cents each.

Day When That Implement Was in Use Has Passed Away for All the Time.

The other day a gentleman with pleasant recollections of old-time custom, habit and social usage in American life, wanted a bootjack and tried to buy one, only to find that none could be bought.

It was a melancholy discovery for a man whose memory of other customs was lively and loving and indicated that the whole picture of American life had changed. If the bootjacks have gone, the boots must have, and if the boots have then a whole range of outdoor activities have disappeared.

To see a bootjack would bring them all back, the rustic or semirustic activities of the little American communities in which the day was begun by getting up in the cold and building a fire and was ended by getting the bootjack and dragging tightly imprisoned feet out of stubborn boots.

The bootjack is the symbol of bad roads, faulty means of communication, community and family isolation, narrowed but healthy amusements, bad food, which we now recall sentimentally as ambrosial, bad taste in all the material circumstances of life, which we now recall sentimentally as quaint.

The bootjack was one of the most highly complicated pieces of domestic mechanism, not many generations from this one, which lives by turning electric switches and pressing but-

HAD BROUGHT PA'S PRAYERS

Lad Conveyed Substantial Comforts for the Family of the Afflicted Pastor.

Once upon a time sickness came to the family of the poorly paid pastor of a country church. It was winter, and the pastor was in financial straits. A number of his flock decided to meet at his house, and offer prayers for the speedy recovery of the sick ones and for material blessings upon the pastor's family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened a stout farmer boy was seen, wrapped up comfortably. "What do you want, boy?" asked one of the elders. "I've brought pa's prayers," replied the boy. "Brought pa's prayers? What do you mean?" "Yep, brought his prayers, an' they're out in the wagon. Just help me, an' we'll get 'em in." Investigation disclosed the fact that 'pa's prayers" consisted of potatoes, flour, bacon, cornmeal, turnips, apples, warm clothing, and a lot of jellies for the sick ones. The prayer meeting adjourned in short order .-Omaha World-Herald.

Kills Kitchen Odors.

One of the most useful applications of electricity about the household is a to reach Paris, but he was sent back | motor-driven exhaust fan for the kitchby opening windows and doors is bound to fail, especially in the winter time. Without a ventilator the odors from cooking will penetrate the entire house and linger in the rooms long after the meal itself is gone. The motor-driven fan consists, as the name suggests, of a small motor attached to a powerful fan in an upper pane of a window, near the range. The device is mounted well toward the top of the room. The motor is attached to the lighting circuit and provided with a suitable snap switch for starting and stopping it. During the operation of cooking the switch is turned and the fan forces out a steady stream of air, carrying with it all smoke, gases and objectionable odors.

Where the Games of Yesteryear?

I have wondered sometimes why the boys in the town where I live now nev er play marbles or spin tops. In the past five years I have not seen a single game of marbles or once heard the shrill request. "Gimme a peg at yours." It is not strange that the slingshot has vanished, for automobile tires use up all the available rubber. But why should tops and marbles vanish from the earth? They have gone the way of the delightful children's matinees at the old Boston Museum, no doubt, and the Kate Greenaway books, and the jackstones little girls used to toss by the hour, sitting on the front steps. It makes one feel middle aged and mournfully reminiscent. - From the Atlantic.

Housewife Works for Others.

The "hired girl" does not yearn for technical training, according to the women who have conducted a Minne apolis survey of the domestic help problems; also, they say, the average household could not afford to employ a highly skilled worker in the hinterland of the back porch. Eros, it seems, is quick to discover comely cooks who have gained proficiency, and the housewife's time and labor in training a girl all go to making comfy some home other than her own.

All Should Be Advertised.

There is no legitimate business, manufacturing an article which people want or should have, which cannot be advertised. The thought that there is not enough profit in a line of goods for advertising is frequently a fallacious one. The idea that only novelties can be so exploited and that staples are not susceptible to advertising has been proven to have no real founda

NO LONGER THE BOOTJACK FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

PROPER DIET AS SET FORTH BY AN AUTHORITY.

Mothers Should Realize That Health and a Proper Advancement in Studies Depends to a Great Degree on the Food.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.) A young child may be considered well fed if he has plenty of milk, bread, and other cereal food; an egg once a day or its equivalent in flesh foods; a small portion each of carefully-prepared fruits and vegetables, with a small amount of sweet food after his appetite for other foods is satisfied. If there is too much or too little of any of these, his diet is onesided.

To assist mothers to provide such a well-balanced diet for their young children, Miss Caroline L. Hunt of the office of Home Economics, has prepared the suggested bills of fare given below. With these menus, published in Farmers' Bulletin No. 717, "Food for Young Children," the mother will be able to plan other meals which will give the child the essentials, and yet variety enough to maintain his normal appetite. The meals, therefore, should not be considered as being either the best possible meals or the only good meals, and the house wife should not fall into the mistake of establishing a dreary routine.

Breakfast. Orange (juice only for the youngest children). Farina with milk, bread and butter.

Apple sauce, oatmeal with milk, toast and butter.

Baked pears (pulp or juice only for the youngest children), milk toast, Stewed prunes (pulp and juice only for the youngest children). Cornmeal mush and milk. Toast and butter.

Grapefruit (juice only for the youngest children). Milk toast with grated yolk of hard-boiled egg.

Apple (scraped for very little children). Toast. Hot milk. In each case enough milk should be given to make up the required daily amount, about a quart.

Dinner. Meat soup. Egg on toast. String beans. Rice pudding.

paragus. Bread and jelly. Lamb stew with carrots and potato.

Roast beef. Baked potato. As-

Twice-baked bread. Tapioca custard. Creamed potatoes. Green peas. Stewed plums with thin cereal-milk pudding.

Baked halibut. Boiled potatoes. Stewed celery. Boiled rice with honey or sirup.

Broiled meat cakes. Grits. Creamed carrot. Bread, butter, and sugar sandwiches.

In each case enough milk should be given to make up the required daily amount, about a quart. Supper.

Baked potatoes, served with cream and salt, or with milk gravy. Cookies. Bread and milk. Apple sauce.

Sponge cake. Potato-milk soup. Twice-baked bread. Marmalade sandwiches. Graham crackers and milk. Baked custard.

Milk toast. Stewed peaches. Cup cake. Celery-milk soup. Toast. Floating island. In each case enough milk should be given to make up the required daily amount, which is about a quart.

Roly-Poly Steak.

Procure a good round steak; after beating thoroughly, lay flat on a board. Make a dressing of Irish potatoes, mashed fine, bread crumbs, small piece of butter, some minced parsley, minced onion, salt and pepper. Spread this mixture on the steak, roll over and over like jelly cake, fasten with skewers or sewing. Place in a baking pan with a little water, place in a hot oven and baste every few minutes. Sift over the top browned cracker crumbs. Serve with hollandaise sauce.

The Little Fruit Seller

A Story of a Mexican Girl

By F. A. MITCHEL

One afternoon Leonard Hardman, a young man who had gone to Mexico to assume a position as station agent on a railroad, was in his ticket and telegraph office when he saw a little Mexican girl on the platform outside selling fruit to persons waiting for trains. The girl might have been fifteen, though in the short dress she wore she looked like a child. Among others she approached a man who, judged by the leather whip in his hand, was a driver of a team. He was talking to another man, and when the girl nudged him to attract his attention he looked down at her with a scowl, then gave her a cut with his whip.

Hardman was a strapping fellow, used to fighting his way wherever it became necessary and with enough humanity in him to feel enraged at so inhuman an act. He jumped through the open window beside him and, taking the teamster by the collar of his shirt with one hand, gave him a cuff with the other. The man put his hand to his hip, drew a revolver and fired at Hardman, but the latter grasped the weapon in time to turn the shot, wrenched it from the man and threw it to a distance. Then he pummeled his adversary with his fist till he cried for quarter. By this time others interfered, and the two were separated. The teamster picked up his revolver and his whip and went away, mutter-

Hardman when he had rearranged his disordered apparel returned to his office. The first thing that attracted his attention was the little Mexican girl standing on the platform before his window holding out an orange to him. Taking some coppers from his vest pocket, he handed them to her and took the orange, but she refused pay for the fruit. It was only an orange, but it was a token of her gratitude to her defender.

"Senor is very good," she said, expressing emotion with her fringed eyes. "You mean the other fellow is very bad," he replied. "What's your name. little one?"

"Pepita." "Well, Pepita, if he troubles you again call on me."

"Senor is very brave, but to be brave against such a man will do no good; he will stab you in the back."

"Don't you worry, little girl," he returned. "That kind of a man is a coward, and I'm not afraid of a coward any day."

The avowal was lost on Pepita. She said nothing more and showed no concern, but from that time the teamster was seldom out of her sight when he was watching Hardman. She went about selling fruit as usual, but in her basket was something besides oranges and bananas; a bag in which some living creature was evidently confined. for there was a constant wriggling within.

A few days after the fracas between Hardman and the teamster Pepita was following the latter toward the station. The man lounged along without any evident purpose, but he did not deceive Pepita. She flitted after him, now slipping behind a bush, a fence-any object of concealment. When the man stepped up on to the platform, snatching her bag from the basket she made a dash for him, on tiptoe so that he might not hear her coming, and caught him just as he reached the window of Hardman's office. There she shook the bag bottom side up, landing a tarantula on the back of the enemy's neck. The villain uttered a yell and, dropping a revolver he carried in his hand, grabbed the viper and flung it away from him.

Meanwhile Pepita had darted back behind a corner of the station, where she was out of sight. Hardman hearing the yell looked out through the window in time to see the teamster beating a retreat. He recognized the teamster who had maltreated Pepita. but was ignorant of the cause of his flight, holding both hands to the back of his neck. Presently Hardman saw Pepita walking away with her basket on her arm as carelessly as if she had no object in view but the sale of her fruit. He called her to the window and asked her if she knew what was the matter with the teamster. For a reply she pointed to where the tarantula was crawling about.

"Well?" inquired Hardman. "Senor, he come to kill you. I follow him. Just before he come to the window I put the tarantula on his

Hardman looked grave. He had escaped being shot through the window by such defense as this little Mexican girl was capable of. It was not a man's method, but it had sufficed. A mere child had sent a strong man away howling and saved the life of another strong man whom he had intended to kill. This was too much for Hardman's equipoise of feeling. He reached out through the window, took the girl in his arms and drew her close

Hardman was twenty-seven years old, and Pepita was fourteen. Had he not been a stranger to Mexico he would have realized that a girl of thirteen there was as developed as one of twenty in a more northern climate. He caressed her in a fatherly way, and she received his caresses apparently as a child. He asked her if there was not something she needed that he could give her, but she declared that there was nothing. This surprised him, for never before had he met one of the peasantry of the country who would decline a gift. Indeed, many of them did not even confine their ac ceptances to gifts.

Hardman sent Pepita away after exacting a promise from her that she would not attempt thereafter to defend him against any attack from his enemy, but in case she suspected the man of being about to attack him at a disadvantage she might warn him.

Pepita made the promise with as innocent a mien as if she fully intended to keep it. Conscience was a matter that did not concern her. She was a child of nature, governed entirely by her emotions. As for a truth or a lie, that was simply a matter of requirement. How she kept her promise is best illustrated by the next episode in her eventful childhood, though perhaps, despite her few years, she was already a woman.

The teamster disappeared for a time He was fighting the poison of a tarantula bite. He recovered in time, but he knew who had put the viper on him and feared her. One thing that deterred him from making another attempt on Hardman's life was the fact that Pepita was a witness that he had tried to murder the man he hated. He had counted on doing the deed without the murderer being known, but now he was aware that the little Mexican girl was watching him. He did not often see her, but felt sure that her eves were constantly on him.

And so they were. One night he was improvising a hand grenade. He was working in a hut where he lived with a ragged curtain over the window. There was a tear in it, and through that tear Pepita was peeping. When he had finished his weapon he began to destroy certain articles. The crafty girl surmised that he was intending to kill Hardman with his bomb, then light out. He was evidently afraid of his grenade, for before going to bed he took it outside, scooped out a small hole in the ground, put it in and covered it with earth and leaves.

As soon as all was quiet in the cabin Pepita possessed herself of the bomb and carried it away. Coming to a window within which was a bright light, she examined her find, a tobacco box with explosive contents. She had seen the teamster place percussion powder under a certain point in the side of the box and mark it with a cross. She noted the cross, and, returning to the cabin with the weapon which she knew was intended for Hardman, she scraped out just enough earth before the door to set the box in, leaving its crossed side uppermost and nearly on a level with the ground. Then she placed dry leaves over it.

The next day a report was heard. and later persons passing the teamster's cabin found it a wreck. The occupant was missing. Supposing that he had been killed or injured by the force that ruined his home, a search was made for him, but neither he nor any part of him was found.

For a time Pepita said nothing to any one as to her part in the explosion, but as time passed and the teamster did not reappear she revealed the secret that she had seen him making a bomb. Then it was surmised that it had been accidentally exploded, but that he had not been within striking distance. How the explosion came about without his being its victim was not known to any one except Pepita, who, remembering where she had placed the bomb, was enabled to look more directly than others for the cause. At the time of the explosion there had beer a violent windstorm. Pepita, looking for the cause of the explosion, cast her eye on the limb of a tree that had been broken. The detached fragment she found some distance from the cabin blackened as if by an explosion. She felt sure that this fragment had been blown down upon the bomb. The explosion occurred in the daytime when the teamster was away, so that he was not injured. But it is likely that when he saw his cabin blown to atoms he surmised the cause and concluded that it was time for him to depart.

Meanwhile Pepita was wandering about selling fruit apparently as unconcernedly as if she were not mixed up in an affair of a tragic nature. Ev ery one else in that region was discussing the matter of the explosion. but the little Mexican seemed content to carry her basket about, taking in a few coppers at a time for an orange or a banana, paying no attention to the

There was one who looked upon Pepita with very different feelings from the generality of persons; that was Leonard Hardman. He had learned that she was not a child, but a woman; that she loved him with all the passion of a girl of the south. He questioned her about the explosion and had learned the facts. Twice he owed her his life. What was he to do? Respond to the passion of a Mexican girl but little more than a child and a fruit

Notwithstanding her ignoble position the fact that she had been so devoted to him affected him seriously. His life belonged to her. Without her protection he would not be living. After much thought he came to a conclusion

"Pepita," he said one day, "how would you like to go to school?" She looked at him inquiringly.

"If you go to school you and I might some day be more to each other than we are," he added.

"Yes, senor; I will go to school." This proposition and its acceptance were the keynote to the future of these two persons. Pepita went to school and there came a remarkable change in her. She is now Senora Hardman. She worships her husband and he worships her.

TO COOK MUSHROOMS

METHODS OF PREPARATION THAT ARE ALL DELICIOUS.

Appetizing and Nourishing Food Is Feared by Many Because of Danger From Poisonous Imitations-Some of the Recipes.

Broiled Mushrooms.-Broiled mushrooms are easy to prepare and delicious to eat. Use fresh mushrooms Trim and peel them and put them in a wire broiler. Broil on each side over a slow fire and serve on thin slices of hot buttered toast.

Deviled Mushrooms .- Deviled mushrooms are not much different from broiled mushrooms; in truth, they are a sort of broiled mushroom. But the slight difference adds to their delicacy. For deviled mushrooms peel and trim the mushrooms and then dip in melted butter. Broil slowly and slip immediately to a hot dish to serve.

Mushrooms au Gratin.-For this very appetizing dish select a dozen big mushrooms, trim and peel them, and separate the tops and stalks. Chop the stalks fine, with two tablespoonfuls of parsley and two tablespoonfuls of fat bacon. Add salt and pepper to taste and two eggs, beaten well. Put the dozen tops of the mushrooms in a buttered baking dish and then add the chopped mixture. Sprinkle the top with fine breadcrumbs and melted butter and bake until brown.

Cream Mushroom Soup .- Peel and trim a pint of mushrooms and boil them gently until very tender with a pint of water. Then rub through a sieve. Mix a pint of boiling water with a pint of hot milk. Rub together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour and with this thicken the milk and water. Season with salt and pepper and a grating of nutmeg and add the mushroom paste just before serv-

Mushrooms for Garnishing.-For garnishing, canned mushrooms answer the purpose very well. Fresh mushrooms should be peeled and trimmed and boiled tender and then used whole or chopped, in gravy or sauce.

Creamed Mushrooms.-Boil the mushrooms until tender, after peeling and trimming neatly. Then make a thick white sauce and add the mushrooms to it. It should be well seasoned and rich.

Mushroom Patties.—Heat patty shells, crisp, rich ones, and have ready creamed mushrooms. Put a tablespoonful of the creamed mushrooms into each hot patty shell and serve.

Mushroom Omelet.—Beat the whites of four eggs stiff and beat the yolks until creamy. Fold together and add a little salt. Pour into a hot omelet pan and cover. Cook slowly. When ready to fold sprinkle half the omelet with a half cupful of minced mushrooms, fold, put in the oven for two minutes and serve.

Mushrooms in Brown Sauce.-Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter with two of flour. Then add a cupful of the water in which mushrooms have been slowly boiled. When thick and smooth season well with salt and pepper and add the mushrooms. Cut small. Chicken and Mushrooms .- Broiled chicken is delicious with mushrooms. Have ready some creamed mushrooms and put them, in tablespoonfuls, on small pieces of hot buttered toast around the broiled chickens on a plat-

Mushrooms and Sweetbreads .-Mushrooms and sweetbreads are delicious together. Boil the sweetbreads and mushrooms separately and cut into small pieces. Mix with rich cream sauce and serve, seasoned with salt and pepper.

Baking Powder Biscuit.

Sift together two cupfuls flour, onehalf teaspoonful salt and four teaspoonfuls baking powder. Cut in (with two knives) two tablespoonfuls butter and wet with about a cupful of milk to make a stiff dough. Turn on well-floured board, pat and roll lightly to an inch thickness and cut with biscuit cutter. Put in buttered pan, let stand ten minutes and bake in hot oven about 20 minutes. When done, brush over with melted butter. They will melt in your mouth.

Cold-Meat Relish.

Take any cold meat, cut into small bits and put a layer in a baking dish. then add a layer of sliced onions, one of tomatoes, more meat, onions and tomatoes. Fill dish in order given, season with salt and pepper, moisten with gravy or stock. Make a crust for top and bake one hour. First half-hour cover with a plate, then uncover to make a rich brown.

Nut Bouchees.

Cut some delicate slices of thin white or brown bread and butter, making them into sandwiches with a thick filing of grated or finely chopped walnut or other kernels moistened with mayonnaise or any suitable sauce, and well seasoned with salt and red pepper; divide into triangles, and garnish with watercress.

For Dirty Work.

A good way to keep the hands soft and white is to wash them quite clean, then rub in a little vaseline before doing any very dirty work, such as cleaning floors, etc. Tried with great satisfaction.

To Detect Bad Meat. When doubtful as to whether a piece of meat is good or not, put it in brine; if it rises to the top it is unfit to eat.

Electric Control Buttons at Your Finger Tips

Naturally, you want a car that can be operated easily -you realize that the extent of pleasure and safety in driving depends upon the ease of control.

In most cars the details of control seem to be planned with an eye for convenience in assembling the various parts.

But the Overland control was arranged just as you would arrange it if you were designing a car for your own convenience.

You control the electric magneto, the electric lights, the electric horn, with your finger tips, without bending forward.

To start the motor you merely touch a foot button in the floor.

A woman or girl can drive the Overland in safety. Its control is easy and instinctive.

Lesson III .- Third Quarter, For fles, by Hoare, forms a picturesque re-July 16, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xvii, 22-34. Memory Verses, 22, 23-Golden Text, Acts xvii, 28-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

While Paul waited at Athens for the coming of Silas and Timothy he was so stirred by the idolatry which he saw that not only in the synagogue did he talk to the Jews, but daily in the market place he preached Jesus and the resurrection to all who would listen to him. And as they delighted in any new thing, this was certainly the newest they ever heard, and they desired to hear more. So they brought him to a public place where he could tell them more fully of this, to them. new doctrine (verses 16-21). The thought of the dead coming to life again was too much for them, and while there were some who believed others mocked, even as they do to this day (verses 32-34). The newest thing to this very day is the old, old story of salvation by the sacrifice of the Lamb of God, as told so vigorously by Rev. William Sunday and others, but as strenuously opposed as in the long ago by the enemies of Christ. Seemingly intelligent men still scoff at the resurrection of the body and the thought of a body of flesh and bones without blood. Ministers everywhere do not believe that the kingdom cannot come till Christ comes again, but speak of it as now here, to be advanced or extended, and the truths of last week's lesson in reference to His coming for and with His saints are simply ridiculed. But there are some who believe God.

The people of Athens were very superstitious, or, as in the R. V., margin, religious, and seemed to worship all the gods they had ever heard of, and lest they might have omitted one they had an altar with the inscription, "To the unknown god," and this gave Paul his topic. It is one of the saddest truths of the ages and even of our own time that the true God is largely unknown. "Israel doth not know." "They know not the thoughts of the Lord,' "Hast thou not known me, Philip?" "O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee" (Isa. i. 3; Mic. iv, 2; John xiv, 9; xvii, 25). God can be known only in Jesus Christ, and therefore all who will not receive Jesus Christ as God do not know the true God. Speaking to gentiles, Paul began at the beginning and told them of Him who created all things and who there fore needed nothing from the creatures whom He had made, as only in Him do all live and move and have their being, and He giveth to all life and breath and all things (verses 22-28). It must have been humiliating to these proud and wise Greeks to be told that. they were of the same blood as other placed them on the earth just where they were (verse 26). It is another great truth, and but little considered, that when the Most High, the possessor of heaven and earth, divided to the nations their in heritance He did it with reference to the children of Israel, although they were not then in existence (Gen. x, 25; Deut, xxxii, 8); so that, as one has said, both historically and geographically. Israel is the great center. That, however, was not a truth for the people of Athens just then, for Paul desired to lead them to the true God and to repentance. He told them of Him whom God raised from the dead, the Creator who had come to the world which He had made, but was unknown in it and rejected by it and crucified, but now alive forevermore and appointed to be the judge of all mankind; and not only Was the judge appointed, but also the day, which we learn elsewhere would cover a thousand years, for one day is with the Lord as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day (II Pet. iii. 8). This whole age through which we are passing since Christ was crucified is spoken of as an hour, and a day, and an acceptable year (John v. 25; II Cor. vi, 2; Luke iv, 19). The next thousand Years is also called an hour, beginning and ending with a resurrection (John V. 28).

There shall be a resurrection both of the just and unjust, but a thousand years shall intervene between the two (Acts xxiv, 15; Rev. xx, 5, 6). All who have ever lived shall come into judgment before the same Judge, but not all at the same time. All who truly receive the Lord Jesus can say, "I am crucified with Christ" (Gal. ii, 20). and have passed from death to life and shall not come into judgment for sin (John v, 24). But all such must appear before the judgment seat of Christ, where only saved people shall appear, to have their works approved or disapproved, to be rewarded or suffer loss and to be appointed to their places in His kingdom (Rom. xiv, 10; II Cor. v, 10). Then we shall come with Him to judge the living nations. according to Matt. xxv, 31, with Joel iii, 1, 2; Zech. xiv, and set up His kingdom. The rest of the dead who did not rise in the first resurrection shall be judged at the great white throne after the thousand years (Rev. xx, 11-15). In the face of such plain statements I cannot understand how any who read their Bibles with ordinary carefulness can think or speak of all people that have ever lived standing before the great white throne. We only need to allow the thoughts of God to displace our thoughts.

Keene's Bath Journal. As was the custom in bygone days patent medicines were sold in provincial newspaper offices, and the drawers in which the pills and medicines were kept at the Journal office, were there until the paper suspended. It was nothing unusual for the editor in the throes of writing his editorials to have to step down from his seat to serve a box of pills.

The pages of the Journal were for a long period largely taken up by advertisements of various "cure alls."-London Times

Arsenic In the Hair.

New light has been thrown on the le gal side of arsenic poisoning. It has been found that arsenic compounds are absorbed by the hair of living persons, though not absorbed after death. In the hair of man arsenic has been known to reach a concentration of one to five parts in 100,000. The deposit takes place in the hair after it has been absorbed by the abdominal organs-liver and kidneys in particular. Therefore, in case of acute, quick poisoning, a chemical analysis of the hair would show no arsenic, while it would be found in the liver and kidneys. On the other hand, if slow arsenic poisoning was suspected, analysis would show arsenic in the hair, but not in the liver and kidneys, and it could safely be assumed that the poisoning was not recent. The legal value of such evidence is apparent.-Scientific American.

The Stork's Lazy House Building. The most interesting sight in the Rotterdam zoo was the stork, whose nest is set high on a pinnacle of the buffalo house. He was building in the leisurely style of the British workingman. He would negligently descend from the heavens with a stick. This he would lay on the fabric and then carefully perform his toilet, looking around and down all the time to see that every one else was busy. Whenever his eye lighted on a toddling child or a perambulator it visibly brighten-"My true work!" he seemed to "This nest building is mere by paths of industry." After drinking and overlooking and congratulating himself thus for a few minutes he would stroll off over the housetops for another stick. He was unquestionably a king of the garden.-Lucas in "A Wanderer In Holland.'

Her Only Criticism. Little Dorothy not only liked her tea and coffee to have the appearance of being "real and truly," but she also liked to taste the flavor of each. One afternoon her mother took her to a friend's home, where tea was served at 5 o'clock. The hostess gave to Dorothy what George's Birthday.

The date of Washington's birthday was, according to the calendar at the time of his birth, Feb. 11. This became Feb. 22 when the Gregorian calendar was adopted in 1752. The first place to use the new date in celebrating the event is said to have been Newport, R. I. As late as 1788 Washington himself apparently used the old style in referring to his birthday. His diary for that year has this entry: "Feb. 11 went up to Alexandria to the celebration of my birthday. Many maneuvers were performed by uniform corps and an elegant ball and supper at night."

DAINTIES FOR TEA TABLE IMPOSSIBLE TO AVOID WORK

Sandwiches of Many Kinds Are at the Command of the Hostess-Various Forms of Cakes.

Sandwiches of various kinds and dimensions are always a good beginning. Better have the loaf a day old, and sandwich bread, close crumb, is the best to make them with. Spread the butter on smoothly and add a thin layer of nut paste. The top slice will not need butter. Trim the crusts off and cut diagonally across. Even smaller sandwiches, making four out of the square, are large enough for the Finger rolls, very fresh, with a soft crust and a paste made of chicken mashed with the yolks of eggs, boiled six or seven minutes, and just a little milk to make it smooth, are very appetizing. Graham bread, buttered and sliced the same as the sandwich loaf, spread with a mixture of jam and cream cheese, is very nice, too.

Meat minced very fine, with some milk to moisten it for smooth spreading, or thin slices of tongue with graham bread, makes good sand-

Fresh Boston brown bread, mashed with cream cheese and sugar and made into balls, like butter, only smooth and larger, looks like great chocolate creams and makes a delicious titbit.

Meats that are potted and already minced into a paste for spreading of chicken, tongue and turkey make ext cellent sandwiches of white or brown

If the sandwiches are made in the morning and intended for later use it is well to wrap each separately in paraffin paper. This will keep them soft and perfectly fresh until served. Ginger nuts and cinnamon cakes have some snap to them, and macaroons and kisses are always ready at the baker's if the busy housewife is too rushed to make them. It is not necessary to have so many kinds of sandwiches or cakes, but a choice of two or three of those mentioned here will be sufficient. The finger rolls are especially attractive, as they can be daintily disposed of without removing the gloves.

For Luncheon.

Omelette with tomato sauce is a delicious dish for luncheon. Beat the yolks of four eggs until foamy, then add twothirds of a cupful of milk, with which has been mixed a teaspoonful of flour, one-third of a teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat well together, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a buttered pan in a hot oven.

butter in a saucepan and fry in it until in quartz, pyrites, or even in sea brown a small, finely chopped onion. Add a little of any small vegetables | mentioned in books that gold exists and a half a can of tomatoes rubbed through a sieve. Thicken with a table gone through the ordinary process of spoon of flour moistened to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Season tracted, the waste (or what is called with salt and pepper and cook for five the slimes from a gold mine) is minutes, stirring constantly. Pour used in the manufacture of soap, over the omelette as soon as it comes | grease, paint, paper, toilet powders, from the oven and serve hot.

Rice a la Conde.

One-fourth pound Carolina rice, two "Why, Dorothy, you aren't drinking ounces butter, three ounces sifted sugar, one pint milk, one tin apricots or peaches, one teaspoonful vanilla essence, cherries and angelica. Wash the rice thoroughly in cold water, put into a pan of cold water and bring to a boil, then pour away the water. Add the milk and stir until boiling, then cook slowly for three-quarters of an hour, stirring occasionally. Add the butter, sugar and vanilla, and turn into a bordered mold-one with a hole in the center-and set aside to cool. When cold turn out, fill the center with apricots or peaches and decorate with cherries and angelica. The peaches should be cut in half and the juice poured around.

Good Round Steak.

A very palatable and economical dish can be made from a round steak as follows: Pound flour into both sides of the steak, as much as the meat will take up. Fry in drippings or other fat in an ordinary pan or kettle, then add water to cover it. Cover the vessel tightly, so that no steam can escape, and allow the meat to simmer very gently for two hours. It is then ready to serve, the gravy being already thickened by the flour beaten into the steak. The gravy is delicious and far superior to the kind made in the ordinary way after the meat is cooked.

Vegetarian Turkey.

One-half pint mashed potato, halt pint shelled English walnuts or pecans, one-half pint lentil pulp, one-half pint graham flour (coarse grains sifted out), two beaten eggs, two teaspoonfuls salt, one small onion minced, one teaspoonful sage, one heaping teaspoonful minced parsley and two tablespoonfuls butter. Mix ingredients, press in pan and steam one hour. Let cool, mold in shape of turkey and bake until brown. Baste with butter or meat stock. Serve with cranberry sauce.

Egg Sandwiches.

Try these for the lunch boxes: Boil as many eggs as desired until yolks are mealy. Chop the whites fine, add yolks rubbed to a paste. Moisten with salad dressing. Spread between slices of white or graham brea-

Fine Dish Cloths. One would think there could be no possible use for an old lace curtain, but you will find in washing dishes three times a day that an old lace curtain, cut in squares, makes the finest of dish cloths.

In Some Form Every Man Must Do His Share Toward the Progress of the World.

Colonel Roosevelt says that those who "cloak their unwillingness to toil and endure" are timid and lazy. But what would he say of those who are unwilling to toil and endure, and do not cloak it? Perhaps he would say that they are unjust to themselves and to others, courting unhappiness for themselves, and seeking to extend it to others. If so, he would not be far wrong.

The person who is unwilling to toil and endure does not properly belong in this world, for happily this is a world of work. He ought to go hence or reform. Work is, in itself, not a thing to complain of; rather is it something to be joyous about. Of course, the conditions of work may be unpleasant and the task before us may be distasteful. But the character of the task is generally of our own choosing and we are unfortunate if we have made a poor selection. Loving some work, the effort should be to get into the work we love. As for working conditions, they also are sometimes of our own making; and where they are not, they are always subject to correction. Work is the discipline that makes character; loving one's work is the joy of living. Of all mortals, we can conceive of none more unhappy than those who are unwilling to toil and endure and try to hide their unwillingness .- Columbus Evening Dis-

MINE HAS PECULIAR VALUE

Great Variety of Most Useful Products Taken From the Ground in Verdite, South Africa.

Situated in the beautiful Kaap valley, in the Jamestown district of Barberton, Transvaal, there is a mine known by the name of Verdite. The name was given to it on account of the peculiar greenstone found in the mine, which is unknown in any other part of the globe. Articles of jewelry and ornaments are made of verdite, and it has been called the lucky greenstone of South Africa. This greenstone is a silicate of magnesia, or talc, colored green by nature in the course of its formation. Other silicates of magnesia may be mentioned here; peridote, serpentine, meerschaum and steatite. The mine, or, rather, hill consists of three varieties of talc, green, white and black. But a peculiar fact is that in the black talc there is present pure gold. Some of the finest specimens of gold-bearing rock have been found at this mine. For the sauce melt a table spoonful of Everyone knows that gold is found water, but scarcely ever has it been in talc. When the verdite rock has crushing and the gold has been exgas jets, electric insulators, crayons and many other articles of everyday use. In fact, one might say that everything got from this mine can be used for some commercial purpose.

The Reading of Books.

How are the young folk of today to acquire the reading habit? They all go to school and they are taught much more about literature than it was the custom to teach the boys and girls of earlier generations. Yet somehow it does not appear that when they leave school they read the books written by the authors with whose names they become familiar as the great ones of the literary world. It does not appear, in fact, that many of them read books of any kind unless it is the sensational and trivial novels of the day, and even these they have little leisure for. So many other matters take their attention. The automobile is one hindrance to the formation of the reading habit. The freedom it gives is more fascinating to the average young person than any book of fiction, to say nothing of anything more serious. It invites and knows no refusal. "Movies" attract a multitude to whom motor cars are not available. And there is dances and theaters and the general business of having a "good time" through some form of activity. For in these days youth demands a good time as an inalienable right .-Indianapolis Star.

Spider's Lariat.

There is in this country a species of spider which haunts evergreen trees and catches its prey by means of a kind of lariat.

The web of this spider is triangular in form, consisting of four longitudinal lines and a large number of cross fibers connecting them. Two corners of the triangle are attached to twigs, but the other corner, which terminates in a single thread, is held by the spider perched on a neighboring twig. When a fly strikes the web, the spider loosens his hold and the elastic threads Instantly entangle the victim.

Vision of the Flounder. A flounder deprived of one eye simu-

Flourders fail to simulate the ground in very strong illumination from above and they become white on all grounds when their eyes receive no light directly from above. Adaptation to the ground is not affected by covering the skin with sand so that the fish cannot see it.

IT'S THE LONG

Moral Advice to the Young.

It should be observed that moral depravity is all the more difficult to discern because its manifestations are checked and cloaked by public order, as enforced by law; by the necessity of having a good name; and even by ordinary polite manners. And this is not all. People commonly suppose that in the education of the young their moral interests are furthered by representing uprightness and virtue as principles generally followed by the world. Later on, it is often to their great harm that experience teaches them something else: for the discovery that their early years were the first to deceive them is likely to have a more mischievous effect on their morality than if these persons had given them the first example of ingenuous truthfulness by saying frankly: "The world is sunk in evil, and men are not what they ought to be: but be not misled thereby, and see that you do better."-From "The Basis of Morality," by Arthur Schopenhauer.

Change for Advertising.

If attractive advertising has resulted in the larger use of less meritorious products what might such a campaign mean for meat? The dairymen have projected such a defensive and aggressive campaign. How attractively are some of the cereals pictured in the advertisements, and how appetizing appear some of the fruits marketed through the citrus growers' associations. What then of the possibilities of picturing an elegantly marbled browned-to-a-queen's-taste steak or roast, or of catching the color of a properly cured ham the flavor of which will never be forgotten? Such pictorial presentation would make strong the desire for a savory, strength building steak and increase the "hankering" for ham.—Breeders' Gazette

GEORGIA FISH GO ON SPREE

Finny Tribe Is Alleged to Have Caroused Disgracefully While Atlanta Humans Thirst.

Walter Taylor, city clerk, declares that the fish in South river should have the attention of the Humane society, says the Atlanta Journal. They are being grossly mistreated by the city since the police began dumping blind tiger liquor in the sewers, he

He said after a trip to the river with Oscar Cochran, manager of the city parks, that he found the fish in a maudlin condition due to the excessive use of alcohol. Most of them were in a disgraceful state of intoxication, and the ones that were not were fighting to get their share.

He says the river is rapidly becoming stocked with fish from farther down the stream, coming up to get a share of the liquid. And he adds that the inhabitants of the region are trying to find a way to extract the alcohol without having to eat the fish. recognizing that the two don't go well together.

Put the Children First.

At Broad and Spring streets I saw 20 automobiles held up while Law, dressed as a bluecoat, escorted a little schoolgirl across the street. The thing is repeated forty times, yea, a hundred times every day.

Nowhere else in the city does Education in short frocks and knee breeches meet Mammon in his limousine and fight for the right of way as at that point. And I'm glad to report that with one of the most efficient and best-natured "cops" in the world on guard, Mammon does more waiting than embryo Education.

"Whoa, there," exclaims the Law, as Mammon comes tearing down Broad. "What the devil," roars Mammon.

"I'm in a hurry." "Yes," says the Law, "but so are these children. The school bell won't wait for them." And off goes the Law to help a bunch of laughing children across that "And did the man who made the ex hazardous way, while wealth in its

The Whale Skin Story.

For weeks, papers throughout the country have been printing information that 10 tons of skins of the beluga, or white whale, have been received at Seattle from the Bering Sea, and have been shipped East to be made into leather for white shoes for women.

Very like a whale. The stuff reads ell. White whales for white shoes. Doubtless the report got credence owing to the extremely high prices asked for white shoes for women, which may have indicated to superficial minds that white leathers of all kinds were becoming rare.

The white shoes that have been sold to wemen have nothing fishy about them.
The white sole is made from the hide of the humble, but necessary cow. The uppers of the shoes are made from kid or the theory with shoeshin used where calf leathers, with sheepskin used where cheaper prices were imperative.

Why whale skins should be advertised by the daily papers as being used for the dainty shoe creations we see daily, passes comprehension. Fish skins have their uses, but are not plentiful enough to at- Produce Co., will have their place tract much attention.

Years ago laces made from tanned porpoise skins were so strong and supple that their popularity begat imitations that received every day of the week, except could be sold cheaply. And before long the ever-accommodating caliskin furnish-H. C. Brendle, Manager. 6-16,ti ed enough porpoise laces to meet the great demand for them.

Shark skin in the leather industries is known as shagreen, and is used for specialty purposes. Walrus hide, when tanned, is so thick and coarse that it is used for making polishing wheels. Seal skins, that are not considered good enough for fur garments, can be made into handsome and serviceable leather. But fish skins, as a whole, cut very little figure in the shoe and leather world.

However, the white whale wiggle is a good story for retail shoe clerks to impose on credulous customers. If shoes really made of whale skins were offered to women they would regard the officiating salesman as more curious than the white whale itself.—From Hides and Leather. ---
