BRIEF NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Gleaned from the County and State made known. and our Exchanges.

Keymar and Statewood baseball teams played an interesting game on Western Md. College grounds, Westminster, last Saturday. Score 7 to 3 in favor of Key-

Registration days for the coming election were announced last week by the Supervisors of Elections to be set for October 3, 10 and 17, The 17th will be for revision only, and no new names will be added to the books on that date. ----

The Congress that adjourned, last week, appropriated nearly Two Billions of Dollars. A few years ago, when a Congress appropriated One Billion Dollars, it was used in the campaign following as a disgraceful exhibit on the part of the party in power. Times appear to have changed.

It is claimed that the main reason for the surrender of great number of Austrians to the Russians, is, that they are tired of war, and welcome a plausible opportunity to get out of it. The same spirit is not observable among the Ger-

Nearly 15,000 National guardsmen have been released from service by order of August 31. Of these, 4946 were discharged for physical disability, 4919 because of dependent families, 156 to return to government civil positions, and a number for other reasons. ------

The Board of Election Supervisors will sit in the office of the County Commissioners, in Westminster, on Tuesday, Sept. 19, for the purpose of granting transfers to voters. This is an opportunity separate from the sitting of the Registrars of each election district.

----Rev. H. D. Newcomer, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, Baltimore, and former pastor of the Silver Run charge, this county, has resigned his charge in Baltimore and accepted a call to St. Mark's English Lutheran church, at Van Wert, Ohio. Rev. Newcomer has been in Baltimore eleven years.

----Salary increases for rural mail carriers, provided for in the last Postoffice bill, will be applied to the fiscal year of 1915. Postmaster-General Burleson secured authorization from the Comptroller of the Treasury on Tuesday for use of the unexpended balance of the 1915 appropriation as back pay to carriers to make up the difference between the new scale and the one then effective.

----William Key, 80 years old, who draws $24 a month as a pension, and who during the Civil War piloted ammunition boats down the Potomac river, called at the Navy Department, Tuesday, and asked for a job. He said he would starve on a $24 pension and did not believe the Government would let him die of starvation. He said all he wanted was a job

----Rev. Charles Bonsack, of New Windsor, gave the principal address at the rededicatory services at the Church of Brethren, Hanover, Pa., on Sunday morning. Revs. Daniel Bowser, Presiding Elder, of York, and Charles Baker, of East Berlin, also made addresses. The local church resumed worship after a six weeks' period, during which time repairs were made. A new heating plant was installed, the walls of the edifice were frescoed, the pews were varnished, and a new carpet was laid.

At an organization meeting, last week, the Emmitsburg Grange elected the following: Master, David H. Guise; over-seer, E. F. Ohler; lecturer, Miss M. Belle Rhodes; steward, George A. Ohler; assistant steward, Thomas Baumgardner; chaplain, Rev. E. L. Higbee; treasurer, J. Lewis Rhodes; secretary, J. E. Zimmerman; gatekeeper, J. T. Long; ceres Mrs. J. Lewis Rhodes; pomona, Mrs. Edwin F. Ohler; flcra, Mrs. Ida Gillelan; lady assistant steward, Miss Mary Ohler. James T. Anthony, official organizer, installed the officers.

-.-O-The State Health Board has modified the order requiring the use of paper drinking cups for all soft drinks, to extent that glasses may be used provided they be thoroughly washed in an alkaline solution and subsequently submerged in boiling water for at least five minutes before they can be used again, The dispensers say that it is an expensive proposition to install such a plant as would be required to sterilize the glasses. While the paper cups are costly, most of the dealers will probably continue to use them now that they have been installed, and special holders provided for them.

----E. L. Torsch, an enthusiastic chess player, is willing to stake $1,000 in an effort to revive interest in the game in Baltimore and to strengthen the Baltimore Chess Association. In a formal letter he offers to place the $1,000 to the credit of the association, provided certain conditions that he names are met. Upon this fund, which is to be expended solely in the payment of rent, the association is to have the right to draw about $15 a month and not more than $200 in any one year. Mr. Torsch's plan is for the only $4 or $5. This, he believes, will put the association in a better financial posiSOME TAX RATE FACTS.

As the fight will likely be on again, this November, between the "drys" and the "wets," and as the latter are using the argument of increased taxes to help them to get votes, let these positive facts be

The county tax rate was increased 8 cents; and 38 cents instead of 30 cents was levied for schools. In other words the school tax was increased 8 cents. Had this not been done, there would not be any increased tax rate this year. Let it be further known, that 2 cents was added to the rate this year, for reassessment of property. Also, that the Commissioners did not make any reduction in the rate this year because of the great saving that is expected to result from the new plan of collecting taxes; nor from the replacement of the furniture

Also, no reduction in rate was made for the greatly increased income that will result from the taxation of mortgages and judgments, presumably because of doubt as to when that law goes into effect.

Next year there will be a county elec-tion on hand, which means that next year may be a better time than this to lower the rate.

These are also facts. "Wet" Frederick county increased its tax rate this year, 7 cents; and "wet" Washington county increased its rate 21 cents-and neither has lost the liquor license revenne.

Let the fight be made, if it must be, on the truth with reference to the tax rate. Approximately $12,000 of the increase for schools goes to Hampstead and Taneytown, for buildings, and the remainder largely for improved buildings at other The majority of people looked for no increase in the rate, due to new legisla-tion bringing in more revenue, but the Commissioners decided otherwise, and so it is. But, by no reasonable argument can the 8 cents increase be charged to loss of liquor license revenue. Even should it have been absolutely necessary to replace the lost license revenue, not over 3½ cents increase would have been needed, or so small an amount as to have been readily anticipated as an increase from the new sources mentioned. Let these facts be committed to memory, and used, as a reply to the increased tax argument of the "wets."

> -10-63-0-Rally Day at Baust Church.

A splendid program is under preparation at Baust Reformed church to be rendered on Rally-day, Sunday, September 17, 1916. The Harvest Home services will be conducted in the morning, at 10.30 o'clock, by the pastor, Rev. Paul D. Yoder.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, will be held the Sunday School Rally and the young people's rally. There will be plenty of good music under the leadership of Dr. Luther Kemp consisting of an orchestra of 10 pieces and a choir of about 15 voices. In addition to the music there will be registricing by the children reports. will be recitations by the children, reports of the various church departments and a ort address.

In the evening at 7.30 o'clock, the Missionary Society, the Mission Band, and the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip will hold their rally. The nature of the evening program will be similar to the one of the afternoon.

Luncheon and supper will be provided by the ladies of the congregation for those who come for the day. To all these good paying enough for him to keep "body things the public is very cordially invited.

-0-63-0-"Receipt Not Necessary."

We frequently receive remittances acccompanied with the words, "Receipt not necessary." This is largely true, in most cases, for when a check is sent, the check itself is a good receipt, and is always returned to sender through his bank. In case of a dollar note being sent, the change in date on address label—when for a subscription-is all the receipt nec-each year, in a newspaper office, if mail receipts were discontinued, and we are thinking seriously of adopting the plan, at least for subscription remittances by mail. We are also thinking of another saving-that of discontinuing notices of approaching expiration of subscriptions. Subscribers ought to attend to that themselves, and not expect notice from usthat is exactly why we print the date on the label of the RECORD, each week.

> ----Mt. Airy Progressive.

During the past five years a number of mprovements have been made in Mount Airy. Owing to a fire one entire new block has been built in which there is a splendid bank building, several stores and a large mill and elevator. Besides these a number of homes have been erected, a postoffice, a high school building and an ice and electric plant.

A park has been opened, streets are better payed, the village is lighted with electricity and at the present time a thoroughly up-to-date canning factory is in full operation. On the site of the old Methodist Episcopal church a handsome church edifice is in course of erection that will cost when completed between $30,000 and $35,000. The main auditorium will seat about 850; there will be seven class rooms, an infant department, kitchen, official board room, lecture room and gymnasium. The little town is certainly keeping abreast of the times.-Frederick -----Temperance Meeting, this Saturday.

The Union Temperance League of Carroll county and co-workers will meet in Westminster, this Saturday afternoon, at one year. Mr. Torsch's plan is for the present 35 members to continue to pay their annual dues of $8 as heretofore, but their efforts this fall to bring back the that new members be required to pay saloons. The meeting will be a mass-only $4 or $5. This, he believes, will put meeting open to all friends of temperance, and will be held in the Opera House. tion, increase the membership and pro-vide for and induce master players to the anti-saloon cause, and should be largely attended.

DEATH OF EDITOR

WM. L. W. SEABROOK

A Long and Honorable Career Finally Ended.

William L. W. Seabrook, editor of the American Sentinel, Westminster, died Monday afternoon, due to an extended physical break-down because of advancing years. His age was 82 years, 11 months, 2 days. He was born near Fairfield, Pa.,

When 17 years of age he went to Get-tysburg, where he learned the printing trade. In 1852 he purchased an interest in the Frederick Herald, and became its editor. In 1857 he was elected Commissioner of the land office, and in 1863 was re-elected without opposition; the office was abolished in 1868 by the Democratic Convention which vacated all offices but Governor.

After that he became part owner of the Sentinel, and in 1874 resold his interest to the former owner. For three and a half years he was superintendent of stores in the Baltimore Custom House, and for ten years following was U weigher and measurer of the port of Baltimore. In 1886 he again became editor of the Sentinel.

In whatever position of life he was engaged, he gave his best service, always a leader of the best thought and action ac cording to his conscientious views. His recent work on the Sentinel has been the wonder and admiration of much younger men in the same line of work, as it demonstrated that the accumulation of years n no way dimmed his mental vision, nor his capacity for keeping abreast of mod-

In political life, as in the newspaper field, his ideals were always lofty. Though a strenuous Republican, Mr. Seabrook always enlisted the full respect of his opponents, not only as a foe worthy of their best attention, but as one commanding influence over the public mind. He was vigorous in thought and word, but never beyond the line of dignity and the fair logic of his convictions—no wonder he had a host of warm friends and prominent acquaintances.

In 1864 Mr. Seabrook was a delegate to the National Republican Convention which renominated President Liucoln, and was the Maryland member of the and was the Maryland Hember of the notification committee. He was the last survivor of the 14 Maryland delegates in that convention, and possibly the last survivor of all who then took part in it.

He was an active member of the Lutheran church for 64 years. In 1858 he was made a Mason by Annapolis Lodge and in 1862 he was elected senior grand warden of the Grand Lodge; re-elected in 1863 and 1864 elected Deputy Grand Master. As the senior past grand officer of the Grand Lodge, he carried the Bible square and compasses at the dedication of the present Masonic Temple in Balti-

In 1855 he married Harriet P. Thomas, daughter of Levin and Elizabeth Thomas. of Mount Philip, Frederick county. His wife, who was an aunt of Dr. John B. Thomas, of Baltimore, died March 26, 1907. Two sons survive him: William L. Seabrook, a Lutheran minister, also the state's attorney for Carroll county, and Clarence Seabrook, of Syracuse, N. Y. Two grand-sons also survive him: William D. Seabrook, a journalist and publicity man, of Atlanta, Ga., who is now on the Verdun front in France, an officer in the American Ambulance Field Service, and Charles Roberts Seabrook, structural engineer with Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., New York city; also one grand-daughter, Miss Florence Seabrook, of Westminster.

Funeral services were conducted in Grace Lutheran church, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. William H. Hetrick. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Frederick, on Thursday, by the side of his wife and deceased children.

> ------Harvest Home and Raily Day.

The Church of God in Uniontown, will hold their annual Harvest Home and Rally, on Sunday, Sept. 17. Sunday School at 9 a.m. At 10.15 a.m., Rev. School at 9 a. m. At 10.15 a. m., Rev. W. H. Snyder, of York, Pa., will deliver the Harvest Home sermon, and at 2 p. m, one-half hour will be devoted to Junior Christian Endeavor Rally, conducted by Miss Arminta Murray. At 2.30, Rev. Paul H. Bowman, President of Biue Ridge College, New Windsor, Md., will deliver an address. Theme: "Thanksgiving and Temperance." At 7 p. m., one-half hour will be devoted to a special song service, after which Rev. W. H. Snyder will deliver an address. Theme: "The need of more efficient work by the church and Sunday School, in Home and Foreign Special music has been selected for each service. The public is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Superintendent of Lime Plant.

Joseph Blandford, of Prince George's county, a member of the House of Delegates the last two sessions, and who introduced the bill to establish state Lime plants in southern Maryland, has been selected for superintendent for several lime plants to be established in Charles county.

It is claimed by the lime manufacturers, in effect, that Mr. Blandford has secured his position, which they claim to be in the nature of a sinecure at the expense of tax-payers, for acting as sponsor for the bill. The bill carried with it $12,000 for the establishment of lime plants, and it would now be interesting to know what the salary of "Superintendendent'' is to be -----Compulsory School Attendance.

The RECORD gives on the editorial page of this issue, the essential features of the new Compulsory school attendance law, now in force in this state. We would advise its reading, especially by those who have heretofore neen inclined to keep their children out of school.

Opening of Gettysburg College.

Gettysburg, Pa., Sept. 12, 1916. Gettysburg College will open September 20 with, according to present indications, the largest enrollment in the history of the nstitution. The new professors added to the teaching staff are:

Dr. S. N. Hagen, English, from Vanderbilt University; Dr. M. H. Valentine, History, from Philadelphia; Dr. J. K.
Lamond, Mathematics, from Yale University; Dr. W. S. Barney, Romance Languages, from Syracuse University; and five new instructors.

During the Summer extensive improve-ments and additions have been made to the college plant to care for the increasing number of students. Thaddeus Stevens Hall has been made over into a college dormitory with all modern conveniences and a brick addition has been built to the Chemical Laboratory to accommodate 160 more students, the Lecture Room having also been enlarged.

The Football training season will open

Thursday, Sept. 14, with Athletic Director Doyle Leathers and Coach Berryman in charge. Three full elevens will report for practice. With a large proportion of last year's team returning and several promising new candidates entering the prospects for a successful football season this fall seem very bright.

On account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis the opening of Gettysburg Academy has been postponed to Tuesday, Oct.

3. On that date Gettysburg Academy will move into the new $50,000 building now being completed. This is a strictly up-to-date boarding school plant in every respect, in fact, it is not excelled by any Preparatory School building anywnere. The chief contributors towards its erection were the P. H. Glatfelter family, of Spring Grove, Pa., who generously donated $6000.

Republicans Sweep Maine.

The election in Maine, on Monday, which was looked to with great anxiety by both parties for its effect on the result in November, was a complete Republican victory. All of the candidates of the par-ty—Governor, two U. S. Senators and four Congressmen—were elected, which means a clear gain of one Senator and one member of the House, as well as Governor, who is now a Democrat.

The campaign, admittedly by both parties, was fought largely on National issues. Hughes and Roosevelt, as well as Speaker Clark and members of President Wilson's cabinet, made appeals to the voters, and the heaviest vote in years was the result. It is especially significant as showing a return of the Progressive vote to Republican ranks, and as rebuking the very recent stand of the administration on the railroad strike, in Congress, which was made a definite issue by both sides.

The Republicans also espoused the strict enforcement of the Prohibition law of the state, which, under Democratic of the state, which, under Democratic rule, has brought the whole law into disrepute, and has made the Maine law one of the chief arguments of the liquor in-terests of the country against the inefficiency of prohibitory laws to prohibit.

Milliken (Rep.) for Governor, received a plurality of 13,355 over Curtis (Dem.) The Senatorial candidates were elected by slightly less pluralities, while the four Congressmen had from 700 to 4000 plur-·•· ()·•· Maryland as a Road Builder.

Maryland's roads are being accepted by nation-wide experts as models. The ast demonstration of this fact was given, Monday, when Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in charge of public road construction, and Austin Fletcher, consulting engineer of the department, and chief highways engineer for California, called up Chairman Zouck, of the State Roads Commission, over the phone from Washington and asked that they be conveyed over the States' improved highways on the Eastern Shore. Mr. Zouck arranged to give them the opportunities to inspect what are said to be the best public roads in the country, those on the Eastern Shore, where the country is level. and where no grades are encountered.

Another demonstration that Maryland s on the map as a road builder is furnished by the forthcoming visit of inspection by the heads of the New Jersey Department of Roads. They will visit the Eastern Shore next week, accompanied by assistant engineer B. P. Har-

Loud in their praise of the Eastern Shore roads are members of the Board of Trade of Atlantic City, who, last week, journeyed over those roads. A Lancas ter, Pa., automobilist, after a trip to Ocean City and back, made this comment in the Philadelphia Press:

What good roads have done for Mary-land he who runs may read. That Maryand has the question of good roads solved is indisputable, and while it's beautiful to indulge in the thought of 'this, my own, my native land,' its a positive fact that the average citizen of this section, after riding from Calvert to Lancaster on a section. a return trip from touring Maryland, must suffer a sense of humiliation.

The inspection trip is noteworthy because Assistant Secretary Wilson and Mr. Fletcher are in quest of data to guide them in directing the expenditure of $85,000,000, to be distributed among the several States during the next six years for public road construction.

The petition of the Lord's Day Alliance for a writ of manadamus to prevent the Board of Supervisors of Elections from printing on the official ballot to be voted at the general election next November the ordinance recently passed authorizing baseball and other games on Sunday was filed in the Superior Court on Wednesday, by Isaac Lobe Straus, attorney. An order signed by Judge Ambler requires cause to be shown by September 25 why the writ should not be issued.

ANOTHER STATE ROAD FOR CARROLL COUNTY.

The Old Westminster--Littlestown Pike to be Resurfaced.

From an article in Wednesday's American, it appears that the State Road Commission has agreed to resurface the old Westminster and Littlestown turnpike, due to influence of E. O. Weant and others, of this county, thus furnishing another improved route through the county from Baltimore to Gettysburg. The article says:

"The point at issue before the roads commission was whether the Westmin-ster--Littlestown turnpike or the link between Taneytown and Emmitsburg should be improved. The contention was made that the state could not afford both undertakings. It has been agreed, however, to carry through both projects. It was first proposed that the turnpike between Westminster and the Pennsylvania line should be improved on the state aid plan without prejudice to the Taneytown-Em-

Mr. Weant and other influential citizens of Carroll county would not agree to this suggestion. They contended that a road should be constructed through the center of their county, according to geographical lines, from which it had been diverted. Governor Harrington also took this view. With the assurance of federal aid the commission sees its way clear to begin the construction of the four-mile ink as stated, thus starting the Maryland connection with the Lincoln Highway at a point nearest that thoroughfare.'' In all probability, this will operate strongly against the construction of the agitated Taneytown and Harney road, which would have furnished a more direct Gettysburg route, as it is hardly probable that the state will undertake three connections of this kind. This road, however er, may yet be built on the plan of the Keymar--Taneytown road, by co-operation between the county and the property

·•·--All Grain Crops Short.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Heavy damage to the country's cereal crops during August caused a loss of many millions of bushels in prospective production and cut down the outlook for wheat to below the amount required for home consump-

The Department of Agriculture's monthly forecast, issued today, estimates the wheat crop at 611,000,000 bushels, or 9,000,000 bushels less than is calculated to be necessary for domestic use. A carry-over of approximately 160,000,000 bushels of old wheat from last year's record-breaking crop, however, will make up the deficiency and leave something like 100,000,000 bushels available to supply the heavy demands of foreign nations for American wheat.

Spring wheat, parched by hot and dry weather, showed a loss of 43,000,000 bushels since the August forecast of production, while corn estimates were 060,000 bushels smaller than forecast a

A preliminary estimate of the winter wheat crop places the production at 455,-000,000 bushels and that of spring wheat at 156,000,000. The prospective spring wheat crop is the smallest in 22 years and 200,000,000 bushels less than harvested last year. The total wheat crop is placed at 611,000,000 bushels, which is 400,000, 000 bushels less than last year's recordbreaking crop of 1,012,000,000 bushels. The combined winter and spring wheat crop is the smallest since 1900 and the acre yield the lowest in 23 years.

The heavy loss in prospective production of corn was due to drought. In many sections, particularly in Kansas and Okla homa, many fields of corn were cut for ensilage or fodder. The total crop is forecast at 2,710,000,000 bushels, which is 22,000,000 bushels smaller than the average for the last five years.

An unusually short output of white potatoes for winter supply is forecast. Production of 318,000,000 bushels is indicated. That is 46,000,000 bushels less than forecast a month ago and the smallest crop since 1911.

Other losses from the production estimates made a month ago are: Oats, 43,-000,000 bushels; barley 11,000,000 bushels; buckwheat, 1,300,000 bushels; rice, 1,400,000 bushels; cotton, 1,100,000 bales; apples, 3,900,000 barrels, and peaches, 3.400,000 bushels.

Hay, tobacco and rice, show a considerable increase in this year's crop.

Urges State Grain Bins.

A. W. Thompson, vice-president of traffic of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad returned Wednesday from the Central West and conferred with a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce concerning the storage of grain from the Eastern Shore counties in the elevators at Locust

Mr. Thompson explained that the circumstances which led to a congestion at the elevators were unusual. The recent destruction of the Pennsylvania elevator and an accident to the Western Maryland elevator so overtaxed the facilities of the Baltimore and Ohio that it was necessary to place an embargo against grain ship-ments through this port. With the ele-vators filled and 2,000 cars waiting to be unloaded there was no alternative. The elevators would be operated at a loss to the railroad, he added, if it were not that they are the means of obtaining grain traffic from which revenue is derived.

To deny the elevators to grain shipments coming from the West and Canada in order to handle that produced in the Eastern Shore counties, on which the railroad receives no transportation reve nue, would be more than could reasonably be expected, in the opinion of the Balti workers at the Opera House, Westminster, tomorrow, Saturday afternoon at 2.30. This will be the opening gun in the campaign to keep Carroll county dry.

The public is invited.

The deexpected, if the opinion of the Bathmore and Ohio officials, and would be detrimental to the port. Mr. Thompson said that the State or some private interests should build elevators for bay grain.

—Sun. The Mexican Commission.

New London, Conn., Sept. 13.—Suggestions as to what methods shall be employed to establish peace on the Mexican border were submitted today to Major General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., by the members of the American-Mexican joint commission. The officer's opinions were sought on subjects ranging from the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico to the possibility of creating an international police to guard the border. The joint commission dealt wholly with

The joint commission dealt wholly with uestions raised by taxation decrees issued by General Carranza which affect American mining property in Mexico. The Mexicans explained in detail the purposes of the decrees, insisting they were designed to promote the mining industry, not to drive out American capital and confis-cate its holdings. In their conference with General Bliss the American commissioners took under consideration the advisability of proposing such a system of border patrol that a part of the Mexican troops now engaged in this duty would be released for the pursuit of bandits. They considered also the atti-tude of Americans living along the border, as reported by General Bliss, and obtained from him estimates as to the number of soldiers necessary to put into effect any of the plans that have been suggested.

Discussing the wider aspects of the commission's work, Secretary Lane said that it was probably unique in the history of international bodies in that it was going into all that concerned the life of a nation; its economic problems, its political struggles and every phase of government. He said that the Mexicans would have knowledge of the views held in the United States as a result of the deliberations, while the American commissioners were gleaning a wide knowledge of conditions below the border.

While no very great battles have been fought in Europe, for several weeks, the Allies are gaining slowly but surely in taking advanced positions, and are on the offensive almost everywhere. Germany and Austria seem to have "lost their punch," and are kept busy on the defensive. Whenever they make an artillery attack, they are answered back with fully as much as they give, or more, all of which seems to show that the Allies now have the best of the general situation.

There is no prospect of the early closing of the war; while it is practically assured that the central powers have done their worst, and must eventually lose, they are very far from being defeated to any peace-making condition. Besides, when finally driven back to their own borders, their lines will be shortened and at the same time very greatly strengthened, and will be in almost impregnable positions.

It seems probable, however, that Austria is being very much weakened, and is in large part ready to quit—at least so far as the rank and file is concerned—and if Bulgaria should be cut off, which means Turkey as well, the Allies would then be in a position to close in with greater force on Germany proper, but nothing like this now seems to be in sight before next year.

THE CARROLL RECORD fault with any stand that gives them

Whatever responsibility there is connected with the legislation, originated with the President, whose bidding Congress did. For we take it as a fact, reasonable beyond serious question, that had the President stood for investigation and arbitration, Congress would have the more readily followed him, and it is preposterous to assume that the brotherhoods would have inaugurated their threatened strike. The President's course made their course courageous and arbitrary. Otherwise, they could not successfully have "held up" Congress, and temporarily-at least-gained their purpose. On the other hand, the President is qually likely to lose a percentage of votes otherwise his, from those opposed to his course, but it seems likely that he will gain more than he will lose, unless the fear of an enforced 8-hour day, through this legislative act, should extend to farm and day labor, and to mechanics. All in all, it is most unfortunate that a question of this kind has been injected into the campaign, as it is one that appeals to mere selfishness rather than to unbiased reasoning-to class prejudices rather than to general benefit.

----The Automobile Hazard.

Taken at its very best, and giving it due credit for all its advantages, the automobile, in many ways, even when handled with reasonable care, is a dangerous vehicle, and always will be. It will take its heavy toll of lives, and leave a long list of painful accidents, every year, and in addition will add yery materially DEMOCRAT to the "cost of living" of all who own and operate a machine.

The Country Editor Great.

If a lot of familiar complimentary stuff is to be accepted at even half its face value, the average country newspaper editor is a great and good man; a paragon for despatching a multiplicity of varied duties; a great preacher and moulder of public opinion; a broad-minded philosopher whose chief aim in life is to boost and build; who is so obsessed with the milk of kindness to humanity that he paints the rose and hides the thistle; who occupies a sort of unpassable high seat in social circles, and whose title to everlasting bliss is unassailable, because all he does-is write. And more, without limit, along the same line.

These things are all true, of course, to the list should be added his well authenticated propensity for handing out charity, full measure, pressed down and running over. If not, then why should a certain State Press Association, in a feeling of desperation and hard-up-ness. adopt confessional resolutions like the following-

"That all complimentary or "dead-head" papers be removed from the mailing and carrier lists; that only papers necessary to give proof of publication be sent to foreign advertisers; that any home free list be eliminated; that the number of extra papers for the files and for future orders be reduced to as small a number as possible; that the return of papers sent out to dealers be discontinued; that the margins on papers be made smaller as to reduce the weight; that papers be urged to make plans for a uniform size; that there be a revision of exchange lists, wherever possible putting exchange papers on a pay basis; that there be no further giving away of white paper to be sed as covers at bazaars, barbecues and picnics, and that where possible editions be reduced in pages.

Why We Need The Navy.

Never at any time since the foundation of our republic have American rights been so flagrantly disregarded by the maritime powers of Europe as during the past two years. We have made protests in words, but Europe has not thought we meant what we said because we have taken none of the obvious and simple steps that would have secured respect for the rights of neutrals. absorption and terrific strain.

The most fatuous people on earth are those Americans who say that the end of the war will leave Europe exhaused and helpless, while leaving us vigorous and invincible. Canada alone, if the war should end within six months, could thoroughly defeat the United States long before our ill-prepared country could find rifles or ammunition for its recruits. Never at any moment in their history have any of the European powers been as strong for war as today; and it is perhaps within bounds to say that they have never been as little regardful of the rights of other nations as now. In the early weeks of the war they were all rather sensitive as to what is called "the public opinion even if some have their doubts. And of the world." But the longer they fight and the more they spend of blood and money, the more hardened they become and the more contemptuous of such abstract considerations as right and wrong.

It is not one side alone that acts upon the cynical precept that "necessity knows no law." The Allies, even more than the Central Powers if anything, have determined to make the world somehow recoup them for their sacrifices. The only thing likely to stand between the people of the United States and profound national humiliation within the next five years is a greatly increased navy. That the party in power begins to see the truth is fortunate beyond expression. -From 'The Progress of the World,' in the American Review of Reviews for Septem-

-0-5.3-The Editor as a Policeman.

As a force for the uplifting of morals and the prevention of crime, the country newspaper editor stands head and shoulders above the most efficient police force that can be assembled in any corumunity. Publicity-that one word-explains it all.

Little does the offender object to paying the small fine that is imposed in a police court. Little does he mind his friends knowing that he has stepped momentarily out of the straight and narrow.

But after the court proceedings his steps invariably lead to the local newspaper office. Cornering the editor in some remote part of the sanctum, a conversation something like this follows:

"I guess you heard that they pulled me last night. I forgot myself and wouldn't have had it happen for the world. It doesn't make so much difference about myself, but just for the sake of my wife and children and other people, I want to ask if you would do me the little personal favor of leaving it out. You know I have always been a steady subscriber and always use a want ad. in your paper when I need anything, and I just thought that maybe you could leave this out this time. It won't ever happen again, you can bet on that, and this is the only time I'll ask

Here is a true story of a little southern city: A leading attorney was arrested for gambling. He didn't mind paying the small fine, but immediately after court he entered the newspaper office and said: "I'd rather have my right arm cut off than have my name go in the paper." He meant it too. Petty crime would increase a hundredfold were it not for the horror of publicity.

Whether or not it is better to leave such items out or to print them is a problem for each individual editor to decide. There are good aruments on both sides. But nevertheless the editor is the greatest preventive for crime that any town has. -American Press.

Enormous Cost of Bad Roads.

There is no need of discussing the importance of good roads. They are essential to comfortable travel, to the economic production and distribution of farm products, to the development especially of satisfactory rural schools, and to the improvement of the social life of the nation. Bad roads are very expensive possessions. It is estimated that it costs 23 cents under existing conditions to haul a ton a mile on the average country road and only 13 cents on a properly improved road, but this is not all the story. The direct cost is very great and the indirect costs are possibly even greater. With bad roads. the farmer is compelled to haul when he should be engaged in other activities, while with good roads he can plan his operations without reference to the weather. The states and the local units, as has been intimated, have strikingly recognized these truths by greatly increasing their appropriations and by devising better machinery. From "The Government and Good Roads," by Hon. David F. Houtson, in the American Review of Reviews for September, 1916.

CHICKENS IN SUMMER.

Good Management Pays In Increased Health and Vigor.

I am a great advocate of having large numbers of chickens on a farm, writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. Then I have found the single colony coops and colony houses are both indispensable. Grow to near maturity some fifty, more or less, of young chickens in the coops, then as .cool or freezing weather approaches place them in the quite large colony houses, allowing some eight to ten dozen to each building.

Have both the coops and the colony houses clean and well ventilated at all times. Summer as well as winter demands clean food, pure water and strictly sanitary surroundings, and the air at all seasons must be plentiful and pure. All coops and colony houses, I find, must be so constructed that there is the best of ventilation and yet for most of the time avoid direct drafts.

The first summer is the hard one for chickens. I have found that hen mothers are the thing out on the farms. The flocks learn to range. The chickens get exercise, green food and many insects. After they are old enough to wean they range about from habit, and then I prefer the food that is given them be such things as wheat in the sheaf and German millet thrown to them in the bundle. They scratch out the grain and seed and eat only what nature craves. Such feeding is easy, healthful and reasonably economical. I have German millet cut when fully ripe and stored in a convenient building in the sheaf are all very fine winter as well as late summer foods. They give a change of diet from one week to another, and, the fowls having to scratch and pick out the grain, they get much exercise, a thing they need.

The little egg machines—the Leghorns—are always in demand, not only with those who measure the worth of a flock of fowls by the number of eggs produced, but also with the fanciers. They are bred in several colors, but the white is the most popular. This is due perhaps because it is easier to breed white fowls than colored ones. The fowl pictured is a rose comb White Leghorn.

I am writing advice to farmers who have abundant room for large flocks of chickens and can grow most of their food. There is room, too, for large lots and as many colony houses as will accommodate several hundred. I find there is practically no limit on a large farm to the number of chickens one can and should keep. Nothing else pays better if all the conditions of proper food, shade, freedom from lice and mites, thorough ventilation of coops and buildings and keeping strictly sanitary surroundings are observed.

Buy the Best Fowls.

When buying pure bred fowls do not seek "culls," but endeavor to secure those that are good. A "cull" may have some fault-may be lacking in hardiness or may have been tried with unsatisfactory results. It will always be an advantage to visit the breeder and make a selection rather than order by mail, unless the breeder is known as one who is reliable and whose stock is first class. Sometimes, however, a "cull" is simply not a show bird; in which case it may be equal to any in the flock in other respects .-Poultry Record.

Don't Overfeed Chicks.

Don't feed your young chicks as though they were laying eggs every day and needed a heavy diet for the operation. They need a growing ration rather than a food heavy with grotein. Where they get a rich ration vou have bowel trouble, leg weakness and l'er complaint. The light foods should be fed during the fore part of the day and the heavier or more solid grains should be given late in the afternoon and at night.

Treatment For Pip.

Pip is not, as many suppose, a disease, but a symptom of a cold or roup. The nostrils become closed, and in breathing through the mouth the tongue becomes dry and the bird makes a peculiar noise. Cleanse the nostrils by injecting warm salt water and follow by injecting camphorated

WITH THE POULTRY IN WARM WEATHER

Most poultrymen remove the male birds from the flock as soon as the breeding season is over, and do not again remate until after molting is through, writes M. K. Moyer in the Western Poultry Journal. It will be better for both the males and females, and the hens will lay just as well without the attentions of a male as with them. Where the sexes are not separated during the summer they should be by Sept. 1, as then molting is on.

During the summer months there will be more broody hens than needed, and to break them up all sorts of methods are used. That some of them are cruel is a fact. There is but one sensible and human thing to do, and that is either place them in a slatted coop or have them in a house and run by themselves, where no nests are provid-By the latter plan I am able to break up all broodies in a week or two, and it does them no harm. I look upon broodiness as a provision of nature to afford rest for the hen. She needs it after a heavy laying period. Where it is not advisable to continue summer hatching, it is best to place them in a run, as aforesaid, and allow them to gradually get rid of this fever.

The eggs should be gathered several times a day. It is just as important to do this in summer as it is in winter. In winter they are gathered often to prevent chilling and in summer to avoid staling. It is remarkable how quickly heat will stale an egg. As gathered, the eggs should be placed in a cool cellar or room where the temperature will not go above 55 to 60 degrees. When eggs are allowed to remain in the nest until evening they do not have that freshness so noticeable as when eggs are gathered several times a day. Every time a new hen gets on the nest to lay she imparts more heat to the eggs which stales them, and in case of broodies, allowed to remain in the henhouses and set a few hours on these eggs, the germs will frequently start to grow. Broodies should be removed as soon as noticed. A good plan is to once a week gather up all hens found on the nests at night and remove them to a separate pen. When hens are set in summer the nests should be made of tobacco stems -no straw. The heat of the body of the hens sends the tobacco fumes up through the feathers which suffocates the vermin. I have adopted this plan for fully ten years and have yet to find the first chick that become droopy or died on account of the presence of

The Indian Runner duck has been bred for eggs in England for many years, and, while it has not been bred so long in this country, it is generally conceded that no other bird approaches it in egg laying capacity. It excels not only in numbers, but in the size of eggs compared with size of bird. The ability to lay a large number of large eggs is inherent in the breed, and only proper handling and feeding are required to bring out this quality. The duck shown is an Indian Runner.

Fowls Need Fresh Air.

Fowls are obliged to throw off much of the waste of their bodies through their lungs. They do not perspire, but instead breathe several times faster than perspiring animals when heated. To keep in good health a fowl requires nearly seven times the amount of fresh air in proportion to its size than does

Make the Chicks Work. Overfeeding makes the chicks sluggish and gets them in the habit of "hanging around" from one feeding time to another, when they should be ranging, scratching for bugs, worms and tender growing sprouts. Keep them active if you expect them to develop sturdy frames and vitality.

Short Skirt With Us.

The return of the short skirt and the popularity of the modern dances have called the feet into prominence again, This means that the woman who cultivates beauty must pay particular attention to her feet. If the ankle is not slender it must be made so, and if the feet are not of a patrician mold their form must be corrected as much as

Exercise and massage will do much for unshapely ankles if the bones are not misshapen. Remove shoes and stockings and sit with one knee crossed over the other. Move the foot about in a circle, using the ankle joint only. When you become tired move the foot up and down until fatigued and then change to the other foot. Another effective exercise is to stand on both feet and turn the feet from side to side at the ankle.

After exercising fill a foot bath with hot water, as hot as you can stand it with comfort, and plunge the feet in this bath. The ankles should be covered, and if a tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda is added to the water it assists in the flesh melting process. Allow the ankles to remain in this bath fifteen or twenty minutes; then rub them dry and apply a strong solution of alum or camphorated oil. Use firm, vigorous strokes to rub the oil well into the flesh and as a final end of the treatment bind the ankles with strips of linen saturated with the oil. Do not draw these tight enough to hinder the circulation.

ORIGIN OF PARTY EMBLEMS

Tom Nast of Harper's Magazine Given Credit for Introduction of Elephant, Tiger, Donkey, Etc.

Why, when and where did the elephant become the trade mark of the G. O. P.? This question propounded to a number of leading Republicans at a former national convention revealed the fact that few had any but the most hazy idea how or when the emblem came to be adopted, the New York Tribune observes.

Chauncey M. Depew, who is said to have attended every Republican gathering since 1856, said frankly that he didn't know, but he believed the elephant first appeared on the stage in the Harrison campaign of '88.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts answered: "If I were to make a guess I would lay the invention on Tom Nast of Harper's. I believe that the creation was the result of the adoption of the tiger by Tammany. We couldn't let them show us dust and we went right to their own territory, the jungle, and got the elephant to fight the tiger."

There appears to be evidence to support the belief that Nast created not only the elephant but also the tiger and the Democratic donkey as well. The caricaturist is said to have adoptel the donkey in January, 1870, basing the selection on the Democratic party's reputed ability to do the wrong thing so carefully and persistently.

The tiger as an attribute of Tammany is shown by unofficial records to date from Tweed's downfall in 1871. Engine Company No. 6, of which Tweed had been a foreman, carried a stuffed tiger on its engine, though the reason is not now known.

So Nast, during the crusade against the Tweed ring, having in mind Tweed's connection both with the volunteer fire department and with Tammany, symbolized the latter in his cartoons as a tiger.

In November, 1874, it is related, the elephant was introduced by Nast to represent the Republican vote, which at that time appeared to be timid and unmanageable. For the same reason it became the party emblem soon after.

The selection of the camel as the emblem of the Prohibitionists needs no explanation, bearing in mind that beast's well-known ability to go for a long time without a drink.

HENS UNAFFECTED BY POISON

Poultry and Quail Eat Strychnine and According to Observers They Appear to Like It.

Experts in universities and colleges of the state have been asked to inform the state department of agriculture why strychnine will kill crows and not affect chickens when eaten.

The state live stock sanitary board stirred up the question by sending out a notice urging that crows be exterminated and giving instructions as to use of the poison. Some people wanted to know if chickens would not be harmed by it, but the board officials replied that they would not, and gave the result of an experiment by one man who had written to the department that he had fed strychnine in corn to brown Leghorn chickens and that they had not minded it a bit. When he threw it out for the crows to eat he had to send out burial parties. On the other hand quail did not seem to mind it a particle.

A number of men versed in chemicals were asked the question why the drug would kill crows and not chickens, but they have passed it along to the folks in colleges.—Harrisburg (Pa.) Dispatch Philadelphia Inquirer.

Painful Explanations.

A man entered a Minneapolis saloon, shoved a lap robe across the bar and said: "How many drinks will you give me on this?" Patrolman Leaman who saw the man enter the saloon followed and placed Johnson under arrest. The explanation as to the possession of the lap robe evidently did not sound convincing.

"Where did you say you got that robe?" Judge Page asked the man, who was haled into police court on a charge of vagrancy.

"I met a young lad down here and he gave it to me."

"What was his name?" "I don't know his name."

"This man, a total stranger, walked right up to you on the street and without saying a word, handed you this lap

There is no such word as "degrading" in the lexicon of youth, save in a moral sense. COUNTRY LIFE LESSONS FOR MARYLAND MINISTERS

Annual Country Life Conference And School At Their State College Of Agriculture The Source Of Much Practical Benefit.

Progressive rural ministers of Maryland have come to look forward with much anticipation to their annual country life conference as guests of the State College of Agriculture. In this conference many earnest workers, perplexed with the problems of ministry in rural Maryland, have found inspiration and opportunity to learn new ways of solving old problems or profiting by the example of others, have gone back to their own particular fields with renewed hope and energy. The intensely practical nature of this conference appeals to the rural minister, who has neither time nor money to waste in attending purely inspirational conferences or to listen to theoretical instruction. The occasion is a definite conference of Maryland ministers—an opportunity for them regardless of sect or creed, to get together on the common essentials of every day country life, and work out their common salvation and that of their several communities. The addition of a country life school extending over the period of a week preceding the conference itself has added much to the value of the latter. Many a minister unfamiliar with rural conditions and farming practices has the opportunity to post himself on these matters, and is thus enabled to discuss more intelligently the economic features of rural ministry. More and more the life of a country minister appeals to the intelligent young man as an end in itself instead of as a stepping stone to a city church. More and more he realizes that the man who is qualified to effect the physical regeneration of his community is better fitted to be its spiritual leader. Champion Of Country Life.

This thought is well expressed in the statement of the Rev. Wm. S. Gerhard, of Frederick county, regarding the mission of the conference: "A suggestion was made to me recently that very often in our country schools the teacher is a city-bred boy or girl, and the ideas and the ideals of that teacher are entirely connected with the city, and he or she is constantly presenting before the pupils those ideals. The suggestion is made that one reason why there is such a tendency for boys and girls to go to the city is because they have imbibed their ideals from the teacher.

That is true somewhat of the min-Most of the ministers are trained in institutions that are located in the city, and even if they were born in and spent their early years in the country, yet, they were associated with city ideals in their courses and they hold them up before the country.

One of the needs, I believe, is the vision of the country on the part of the school teacher and the country minister, and is suggested, I think, in this program, that the ministers should not make the country ministry a stepping-stone for a city field; but that they should make the country ministry their life work, and that they should hold up ideals before the young people of the wonderful opportunities of the country and of country life." The Country Life Conference for 1916 will be in session August 1-4, being preceded by a Country Life School beginning July 24, announcements regarding which are being issued by secretary of the Conference Organization, B. H. Darrow, College Park, Md.

THINNING FRUIT A PROFITABLE PRACTICE.

S. B. SHAW Maryland Agricultural Extension Service.

Thinning is fully as important as pruning in securing the best development of the fruit crop. It not only causes the development of much finer fruit, but it is a means for conserving the energy and vitality of the trees. Orchards that bear heavily one year do not, as a rule, produce much fruit the following year. While trees are producing a crop of fruit they are also forming buds for the next crop. Overloaded trees cannot well develop a proper number of fruit buds for the following year, consequently many trees perform each function in alternate years.

In some sections systematic thinning has come to be regarded as an indispensable practice in successful fruit growing. It costs but little, if any, more to thin at the proper season. than it does to pick the same fruit at the harvest time. In addition there will be a higher percentage of good fruit. and more assurance of securing a crop the next year. The best time to start this work is after the season for the "June Drop" is safely past. The sooner excess fruit is removed after this, the better will be the development of the remaining fruit.

The ideal method of thinning is practically the same as in harvesting. Hand-picking is most desirable as it causes less injury to the fruiting wood. Another advantage of this method is that the best developed fruits can be left on the trees. For most ideal results fruits should not be closer than from four to six inches. When first thinned to this distance they may appear very scattering and the prospects will not look at all good for a profitable crop, however, if the average size of the fully developed fruit will be kept in mind it will soon become evident that a normal crop can be ex pected.

REAL DISCOVERER OF AMERICA

John Cabot's Memorable Voyage Never Has Had the Recognition It So Well Deserves.

It is one of the ironies of fate that the new world should bear the name of America, thus perpetuating the name of an adventurer, Americus Vespucius, whose claim to being the "first discoverer" of the western continent was based on a falsely dated letter, remarks the New York World. On the 4th of June, John Cabot set foot on the soil of North America. He set up the banner of England and from that hour the fortunes of this continent were destined to be swayed by the Anglo-Saxon race. His discovery laid the foundation for the future supremacy of England in North America.

Whether Cabot touched the shores of the continent on "the dismal cliffs of Labrador," or on the wild coasts of Nova Scotia or Newfoundland, will never be definitely known, but the consensus of modern opinion seems to favor Cape Breton, which forms a part of what is now the province of Nova Scotia.

Columbus had succeeded only in attaining the island fringe of the continent before Cabot set foot on the mainland. Cabot sailed over waters far stormier and more difficult than any encountered by Columbus, and his equipment and resources were vastly less, for he had but a single tiny vessel, the Matthew—the first vessel to touch our American shores. His discovery of the North American continent preceded by more than a year the third voyage of Columbus when he came in sight of the mainland of South America.

Like Columbus and Vespucius, John Cabot was a native of Italy, and it is believed that he was born in Genoa, the native city of Columbus. Later he settled in the English city of Bristol, and it was thence that he sailed on his memorable voyage of discovery, having received a patent from Henry VIII, authorizing him and his three sons to search for islands, provinces or regions in the eastern, western or northern

PROPER REVERENCE FOR LAW

Situation in the United States as Secretary of Pennsylvania's Board of Education Sees It.

As a boy he attended a little gray school in the country. Then he taught a country school at the age of sixteen. Afterward he was superintendent of all the country schools of Lycoming county. And still later he was at the head of the State Normal school at Clarion, which educates teachers for these little gray schools. At present he is secretary of the state board of education, alert, active on the job 23 hours and 60 minutes every day.

Hence, when I get a school opinion from Dr. J. George Becht I know it is not a shoemaker's theory of building a cathedral, a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger observes. Listen to him: "The school must be taught a reverence for the law. What must be the effects upon the children of the alien when in high schools they note the pupils strike because someone has been punished or because a teacher has been promoted or a holiday refused?

Respect for the law? Not respect for part of the law that applies to somebody in Kansas, but respect for all the law that applies to each boy and girl in Pennsylvania. "But this is a free country," you say.

Let Doctor Becht answer that: "No word is so misunderstood as liberty. A man swinging his arms violently in a crowd struck the nose of a passerby. The injured man objected, but the other retorted, "This is a free country.

"'So it is,' was the answer, 'but your liberty ends where my nose begins.' "

They Live in Pickle Salt.

Just west of promontory Point Station, Utah, is a pond cut off from the Great Salt lake by the railroad embankment. At times of high water in the lake this reservoir fills by percolation through the embankment, but during the summer this water is concentrated to a brine by evaporation. The deep pink color of the brine is a phenomenon that appears in salt ponds generally when a certain concentration is reached. In the salt ponds of San Francisco bay this color is due to a certain bacillus which lives in saturated brines and also in the heaps of salt as it is piled for drainage and shipment. Prohibitive to life as such an environment might be considered, strong natural brines are, in fact, inhabited by a number of minute organisms-animals as well as plants. The pink color disappears in winter or when fresh water is introduced into the pond. The Southern Pacific company has done some experimental work on preserving piles and railroad ties by soaking them in the pond.

Just Self-Confidence. It is a vanity of a sort that enables men and women to push to the front. They believe that they can do about what they please and their very faith is an aid. The devotees of new thought claim that confidence in oneself is a sure ticket to any place. "Don't say that," pleaded a woman who had just heard another declare her inability to talk on a subject with which she was thoroughly familiar. Say you can talk and prove it to this club. And come to see me tomorrow and I will tell you how to increase your self-confidence." She kept her word with the result that the timid woman blossomed into a brilliant speaker.

RISKS HER LIFE TO SEE HUSBAND

Belgian Woman Braves German Electric Fence to Escape to Holland.

MANY KILLED BY DEADLY WIRE

Poacher Leads Woman Through Hidden Tunnel at Night-Complaining Cry Tells of Cat and Dog Victims of Current.

London.-A Belgian journalist named Egbert Hans, until recently serving with the Belgian army, narrates the following story of the electric cable which the Germans have fixed along the Dutch frontier to prevent the Belgians from escaping into Holland:

"During the first few days only dogs and cats were struck, and one could hear their howls and cries a minute before they died. The first human victim was a young Belgian who had heard King Albert's call and wanted to go through Holland to join the Belgian army. The second victim we heard of was a poacher who brought letters into Holland. He knew every inch of the country, as 'hey all do, and thought he could defy the electric cables.

"One morning very early I found a young woman sitting on one of the Dutch 'steps' in Sluis. She looked worn out, but her face wore that happy expression which told me at once that she was one of those who had crossed. A few hours later I met her arm in arm with a young man whom I knew was an escaped Belgian soldier. I met them again and again, and the young woman told me the name of her town, how things were going there, and how she had got into Holland.

"Clara Vermel was the young woman's name. She was an inhabitant of Oostkerke. In the beginning of the war her husband had been called to the colors. She heard from him three times, then his letters ceased, and for months she had lived alone, hoping that her husband was still Face Death for Husband.

"One day Clara Vermel was brooding over her misfortunes when the door opened and in walked 'Limping Victor,' a cripple who was employed by the Germans to do errands, and had often to go to Holland.

"'Clara,' he said, 'I have seen Robert. He is at Sluis, just over the border. But don't ask any more. I risk too much already.'

"She heard the door bang and was again alone. Robert alive! Robert at Sluis, only a few miles away? Then she fell on her knees before the Holy Virgin in the corner and prayed.

"Then a shadow crept over her face. Sluis is in Holland! The electric cables! They meant death for those who came near them.

"But she would go. She would face death for him. Her father tried to dissuade her, but finally gave in.

"'There is only one man, Clara,' he said, 'who can help you if you really want to go to Sluis, and that man is Mor, the poacher. He knows every inch of soil for miles round and miles into Holland. Let us go and see him, or rather you go alone; that would be safer. You know where he lives."

"'So you want to get to Sluis to see your husband, who was a soldier?' said Flor, when Clara called at his hut. 'But do you know what it means, young woman? Do you know how many have been killed by that devilish wire?'

Crawls Through Tunnel. "It was about midnight when the poacher and Clara left the hut. "'This is the time that the guard is changed, and those old landsturms are always late,' he had said, cautioning her not to make any noise. "Near the little River Mendel running half a mile distant the poacher knew a kind of tunnel. This tunnel had been made many years ago to deliver water to a factory, standing just across the border, near Sluis. "'The cable is only a few yards distant from us,' whispered the poacher to Clara. 'We must keep to the right, as we will soon turn with the path and leave the cable. A cat rushed past. Clara was frightened. A few seconds after the poacher stopped her. 'Listen; that cat has been killed,' and she heard the 'complaining cry' which always followed contact with the wire by man or animal.

bridge he was looking for. 'Now about a hundred yards further,' he said. He searched the grass and the rushes near the water until his foot sunk deep into a hole. Soon he found the opening. 'Come,' he said.

"The tunnel was not high enough to stand in, so they had to crawl. Clara thought it would never come to an end. She had never been in such darkness. She banged her head, hurt her feet, but thought only of her husband. At last she heard the poacher say: 'Here we are! This is Holland. But be quiet for another hour, for I want to go back. You follow this little river about five minutes. You will then come on a road which will bring walk. And your soldier will be sleeping under one of the roofs there."

REPORTER GOT WRONG STEER

Story Written Undoubtedly Was a Good One, but the Facts Didn't Bear It Out.

Some years ago Carl Crow, author of "Japan and America," was the cub reporter on a Texas newspaper, one of his duties being to cover the police station. One day, just before press time he made his usual trip to see the desk sergeant.

"Have a great story for you," said the sergeant. "We arrested a parrot out on Front street awhile ago on a charge of using abusive language. The neighbors complained so much we had to go out and lock the old bird up."

After getting a few more details Crow rushed back to the office and wrote a funny story about the arrest of the bird. He was congratulating himself on landing a story on the first page, an hour or so after the paper got on the streets, when the telephone bell rang and he had to listen to a torrent of abuse from an irate lady at the other end of the line. It developed that she was Mrs. Parrot, and she had been arrested for using abusive language, but she bitterly resented being written up as a bird. After she had exhausted her vocabuary and was preparing for a new, tart, she asked:

"What is your name?" "Crow," said the reporter.

"What did you say?"

"I said my name was Crow." "You think you are blamed smart, don't you?" said the freshly insulted Mrs. Parrot as she hung up the re-

ELASTIC FASHIONS IN CHINA

Everything in Any Way Suitable for Wearing Apparel "Goes" in the Province of Kiangsu.

Hail, Kiangsu province, North China, home of the slant-eyed Flora McFlimseys of Far Cathay! Not like Madison square there; you can't plead "nothing to wear" in Kiangsu, for anything is in style; everything goes! From Suchien, in the North China Daily Herald, comes this:

"The fashions here this year are ideal. Every man wears what is right in his own eyes and there are few to ridicule. A panama goes jauntily down the street followed by a fur-covered brim cap. Felt hats of scarlet and verdigris green follow along with grays and browns that really do the amateur hatters credit. Eskimo top capes, a few derby hats and the smart military uniforms give the streets a piquancy that one used to miss in the monotonous China-blue crowds. "Of all the notices posted on the city gate the one that attracts the most attention is the fashion plate that has been exhibited for weeks. It displays two or three of the typical 'Western' suits. There are the 'swallow-tailed' and the low-front frock for evening functions. There one finds the plaited skirts recommended for the women. The proud silk of 'stove-pipe' hat has its corner with the other felts. "A wise concession to the soaring prices of leather is made in the op tional styles of shoes. The cloth boot now has . its place with the newer Remains of Cliff Man.

While driving their sheep out of & natural cave in a lonely part of the Navajo Indian reservation several miles south of Bluff, Utah, Indian herders discovered the remains of a man. The matter was reported to Frank Hyde of Bluff, who got in communication with the Indians and bought from them a perfect mummy of an ancient cliff dweller.

The Indians also gave Hyde the skin of an animal that resembled a muskrat stuffed with tobacco leaves. Two pipes made of soft lime rock were also found, and a fine wound reed basket. A pair of sandals were also among the articles brought in by the Indians. The features of the mummy resemble those of the present-day Chinese. The man was of small stature.

More Insane Than in College.

Enforcement of the law by probate judges preventing epileptics and feebleminded from being married would correct many of the evils eugenics are striving to abolish, Harry C. Bowman of the Kansas board of control told the Kansas Conference of Charities and Corrections. Talk of eugenics, he said, was useless. The speaker said juvenile courts accomplished much reformation, but county and city jails seldom cause permanent reformation. He deplored the increase in imbecility, declaring the census from 1904 to 1910 showed an increase of 25 per cent in hospitals-12 per cent of the entire population.

"There are more insane in the United States than students in colleges "The poacher had now found the and universities," said Bowman.

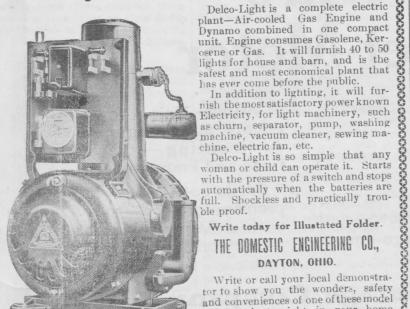

> Irish Soldier Gave Warning. A new story of the British encounter with the Prussian Guards is told by a corporal of a Warwickshire regiment who is wounded and at home in > England. "The night the Prussian Guards attacked us around Ypres," he says, "it was only by chance and heroism that we were warned in time. An Irishman of the King's Liverpool regiment had gone out of the bounds to meet a girl. Coming home late he stumbled on the Germans stealing quietly toward our position.

"Without a thought of consequences to himself he dashed toward our you into Sluis after twenty minutes' guard to give the alarm. The Germans shot him in both legs, but he got through with the warning."

The Girl at Clancy's Ball

She Had One Short Romance.

By CHARLES ALBERT WILLIAMS Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

John Harmon of the Morning Bulletin puffed abstractedly upon his cigar and gazed around the tumultuous hall. It was the night of Boss Clancy's ball.

The dancing floor was crowded with rotating men and women. Girls of the shop and factory swayed and gyrated in the clasp of men, coarse featured and unintelligent.

Harmon roused from his contemplation of the noisy scene and turned to his companion, Mowbray of the Re-

"If anything's going to break here to-night let it come soon," he remarked. Mowbray shrugged indifferently.

A young girl, her face flushed from the last dance, hurried toward the reporters' table. She was a frail little creature of twenty, blue eyed and blond. Frequently as she approached she looked back and fluttered a frightened glance at a man following her.

"Excuse me," she said half breathlessly, halting before the newspaper men and addressing Harmon. "Help me out of this, please. This man has been annoying me-wants me to dance with him. I'm afraid of him."

"Sit down," Harmon said crisply. He faced her and affected a conver-

The man came up presently and, pausing only to glare belligerently at Harmon, reached over and seized the girl's arm.

"Never mind your dandy dude friend," he blurted; "spiel this with me." The girl drew back and shook her head.

"Come on," the stranger insisted, retaining her arm.

The girl made a sudden, violent movement and wrenched herself from his grasp. He leaned forward to after. Her visits were brief and unclutch her, but Harmon caught his eventful. She remained for a few mohand.

"What's the use?" he remarked, laughing. "You can't make the girl dance. Don't insist. You'll cause a scene.

The stranger turned to Harmon, his mouth drawn into a menacing snarl.

"Don't mix in this unless"- He waved his hand threateningly. "Well, you don't want to be sorry, do you?" He became enraged at Harmon's cool

"Who are you, anyway?" he bawled. "Know who I am? I'm one of Clancy's men."

Harmon smiled. "I'm not at all interested in your pedigree," he said. "It seems to me you might let her alone in spite of it.'

A malignant light glowed in the stranger's eyes.

e said, "I do things my own way." His voice rose to a shout. "An' this is my gal, see!"

He placed his hands upon Harmon's shoulders. Before the reporter could rise from his chair he was hurled backward, but he caught the edge of the table and escaped a nasty fall.

With lips compressed in an effort to control an outburst, he scrambled to his feet and stood silent a moment considering what he might best do to avert the fellow's violence and yet assist the girl.

He opened his lips to speak, but was interrupted by the cry of "A fight!" which went up from a nearby table. There was a scuffling of feet, and a group of eager eyed, expectant men and women gathered about them. Mowbray stepped between the two men. "Steady, John," he said. "This sort

"A young woman called to see you early this morning," the nurse told him as he handed her the tray.

"A young woman?" he asked. The nurse nodded. "She said she'd be back."

Young woman? Harmon was plunged into perplexity by the incident and turned at once to the consideration of this new phase of his adventure.

Of the many young women of his acquaintance he could think of none who might call upon him in his present predicament. One would doubtless visit him upon hearing of his plight, but she had left the city only the preceding afternoon to visit her people in Chi-

Curious Raincoats. When rain falls in tropical countries there is no mistake about it. The rain comes as if it meant to sweep away all such trifles as trees and bushes. A man who goes out in this deluge must protect himself, but he finds that a mackintosh of the lightest kind has its disadvantages, for if it keeps the rain out it also keeps the heat in.

The raincoat devised by the Mexicans is called a "chino" and is so porous that the heat of the body readily escapes, while, owing to its construction, it keeps the wearer dry. The chino is made of numberless long, narrow strips of dried palm leaf, one end of each strip being woven into a light fabric and the rest falling loose. The wearer of this garment rustles as he walks, and the rain pattering upon it makes a pleasant sound. Arrived at the house, he takes off his palm leaf hat, shakes it and hangs it up to dry. Then he slips off his chino, shakes that also and hangs it up. He himself is un touched by the rain, but the chino as it hangs up looks like a huge, damp brown cassock.

Healthful Whipping. It is considered beneficial to be whipped or spanked provided it is done mechanically. In the mechano therapy departments of up to date institutions the whipping post, a mechanical device for therapeutic paddling, is an accredited healing machine. You are whipped by straps of heavy cloth or leather attached to two rapidly revolving posts. When you take the treatment you step backward into the flying whips and receive their blows upon your legs, back, abdomen or chest, depending upon the malady from which you are suffering. The impact of the straps is just sufficient to set the blood in free circulation. There is no smarting, stinging sensation because the straps are broad enough to eliminate any possibility of a cutting blow. You are paddled rather than lashed. The whipping post is valuable in many types of nervousness.-Popular Science

Using Up Energy. "A calory is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one int of water 4 degrees Fahrenheit. If a man rises from his chair and walks about eight feet, then returns. he uses up one of these units," writes Dr. Edwin F. Bowers in "Sidestepping Ill Health.

"Yet the body, even while resting or quiet in sleep, is constantly using up energy. It is also giving off heat about as rapidly as a sixteen candle power electric lamp."

To make up for this constant loss of heat and energy from 2,000 to 3,000 calories are needed every twenty-four hours. This is why we eat, and it behooves us to see that our food furnishes about the right number of calo-

Lesson XIII.—Third Quarter, For Sept. 24, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Cor. iv, 18-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—Paul at Thessalonica and Berea, Acts xvii, 1-15. Golden Text, Acts v, 31, "Him did God exalt with His right hand to be a prince and a Saviour." May we so see these men of God going from place to place preaching Jesus Christ crucified, risen, and coming again, that we shall decide to do likewise at all costs, knowing that everywhere some will believe, though others believe not.

Lesson II.—The Thessalonian Christians, I Thess. i and iv, 13-18. Golden Text, I Thess. iv, 14, "Them that are fallen asleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." It is refreshing to note how these people received the message, not as from men, but from God; how effectually it wrought in them and how they proclaimed it to others, seeking to please God and not men (i, 8; ii, 4).

LESSON III.—Paul at Athens, Acts xvii, 16-34. Golden Text, Acts xvii, 28, "In Him we live and move and have our being." In this gentile city, very religious, but wholly idolatrous, Paul preached Christ as the Creator of all things and the sustainer of natural life in all His creatures, but also as crucified and risen from the dead and the appointed Judge of all mankind.

LESSON IV .- Paul at Corinth, Acts xviii, 1-22. Golden Text, Acts xviii, 9, "Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace." Working at his trade of tentmaking, along with Aquila and Priscilla, he continued at Corinth a year and six months teaching the word of God among them (xviii, 11). The opposition was great, but a night visit from the Lord Himself with the gracious message of verses 9, 10, was an unusual strength and encouragement.

LESSON V.-The word of the cross, I Cor. i, 18, to ii, 2. Golden Text, Gal. vi, 14, "Far be it from me to glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." Although Paul knew much of the wisdom of this world, he renounced it all for Jesus Christ, who had become to him the power of God and the wisdom of God and who was made unto him and to all believers wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption (I Cor. i, 17, 18, 21, 24, 30).

LESSON VI.—The greatest thing in the world, I Cor. xiii. Golden Text, I Cor. xiii, 13, "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, and the greatest of these is love"-greater than the gift of tongues or understanding mysteries or the power to work miracles, for God is Love, but without faith it is impossible to please God.

Lesson VII.—The grace of giving, II Golden Text, Acts xx, 3 member the words of the Lord Jesus that He Himself said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Giving is easy when the love of Christ constrains us, because of His great grace and love to us, and when we remember that we have nothing that we have not received, that all things come from Him and we can only give Him His own which He has first given to us.

LESSON VIII.—The riot at Ephesus, Acts xix. 29-41. Golden Text, I Tim. vi. 10. "The love of money is a root of all kinds of evil." The record of the riot is the least important part of this chapter, but teaches what may happen when business is interfered with. Carrying the word of the Lord into all Asia and bringing the special gift of the spirit to believers, this is something worth while.

LESSON IX .- Journeying to Jerusalem, Acts xx, 16-27. Golden Text, Acts xx, 32, "I command you to God and to the word of His grace." The greater part of this chapter tells of Paul's farewell to the church at Ephesus through the elders who came to Miletus to meet him, with a mention of three months in Greece and seven days at Troas, on his way thither. He reminded the Ephesians that for three years he had taught them the whole counsel of God (verses 27, 28).

LESSON X .- Paul's sorrows and comforts, II Cor. xi, 21-33. Golden Text, II Cer. xii, 9, "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my power is made perfect in meekness." I think that the record of his sufferings, as in xi, 23-28, cannot be equaled in the case of any other mere man. But he must have been sustained by the glory which he saw on the way to Damascus and while he was dead after his stoning at Lystra (xii, 1-5).

LESSON XI.—The arrest of Paul, Acts xxi, 27-40. Golden Text, Acts xxii. 15. "Thou shalt be a witness for Him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard." The first half of this chapter tells of the remainder of his journey to Jerusalem and his welcome there, with some incidents by the way at Tyre and Caesarea. The last half tells of his failure to pacify law keeping Jews.

LESSON XII.-A prisoner in the castle, Acts xxii, 17-29. Golden Text, Ps. lxli, 2. "He is my refuge and my fortress, my God in whom I trust. The story of Paul's conversion is the real topic of this lesson, and to me the central saying is, "I could not see for the glory of that light." The choice by God of such a man for such a great work and the manner of his call is one of the greatest marvels of the whole Bible story concerning any mere man.

Astonishing the Chinese.

"When I was in China," a fireworks man said, " was astonished to find how little the people knew about pyrotechny beyond their own Chinese crackers. They can make these crackers much more cheaply than they could be produced in America. But of set pieces, rockets and such like, the Chinese know practically nothing, and their attempts to make them are crude in the extreme.

My Chinese opponent set off a lot of gigantic crackers and made a terrifying noise, but the mandarin had been used to that from infancy and wasn't at all impressed. My show, however, astounded him, although it was really a mean exhibit, for I wasn't going to waste my best pieces on a private competition. I got the award easily enough.-Washington

French Army Helmets.

There are sixty-four distinct operations necessary in turning out one of the plain steel helmets worn by French soldiers. The first step is stamping out disks from large sheets of steel. A special machine is used for this purpose, exerting a pressure of 150 tons and capable of cutting out 5,000 steel disks a day. Each disk is placed under a shaping machine, which presses the disk into the form of a helmet with a broad rim. Polishing and cutting machines remove all irregularities in the helmet, after which it has holes punched in the crown, some for ventilation purposes, others for fastening on the regimental crest. Each helme! is cleaned and dipped in a special mix. ture which makes it a dull, inconspicnous bluish-gray. A lining and leather chin straps are then fastened on, and the helmet is complete.-Pearson's

The Wesley Oak.

The Wesley oak, according to the At lanta (Ga.) Journal, stands on St. Simon's island, less than a mile from Fort Frederica. It is 200 feet high, and its cool shade rests like a bene diction over an area of several acres. According to local tradition, this tree marks the exact spot on which the Wesleys preached. Charles Wesley engaged himself to Oglethorpe as private secretary before leaving England, But he afterward took orders and devoted much of his time to preaching near Frederica. From time to time John Wesley came down from Savannah to join him. This famous oak stands at the gateway to the churchyard of Christ church, and several generations sleep within the inclosure that it guards. Mosses hang down from its limbs, and it is solemn and beautiful.

Soldier's Experience With Turkish Officer Who Was Not Above Bribing.

I had had experience with corruptible Turkish officers; and one day, when barrack conditions became unendurable, I went to the officer commanding our division-an old Arab from Latakieh who had been called from retirement at the time of the mobilization. He lived in a little tent near the mosque, where I found him squatting on the floor, nodding drowsily over his comfortable pauch. As he was an officer of the old regime I entered boldly, squatted beside him and told him my troubles. The answer came with an enormous shrug of the shoulders.

"You are serving the sultan. Hardship should be sweet!"

"I should be more fit to serve him if I got more sleep and rest." He waved his fat hand about the

ODD PLACES TO HIDE CASH

Woman Concealed Savings on Her Mother's Grave-Safety Deposit in Cannon.

The woman who, as just revealed in the law courts, hid her savings on her mother's grave in Forest Hill cemetery probably hit upon a unique cache. But there is no saving. The person who mistrusts savings banks generally looks around for the most unlikely spot in which to deposit wealth, and more than one may hit on the same idea.

Denounced the "Topper."

The case against the "topper" was summed up many years ago by the famous Punch editor, Mark Lemon. "It is hot in summer," he said, "it is not warm in winter; it does not shade us from the sun, it does not shelter us from the rain; it is ugly and expensive; you cannot wear it in a railway carriage; it is always in your way in a drawing room; if you sit on it you crush it, yet it will not save your skull in a fall; it will not go into a portmanteau: it is too hard to roll up, too soft to stand upon; it rusts with the sea air, it spots with the rain; if it is good you are sure to have it taken by mistake at a soiree; if it is bad you are set down for a swindler."-London Chronicle.

The Title "Esquire."

What gives a man the right to be termed "esquire?" The title comes from the French "ecuyer," a "shield bearer," but has, of course, long since lost all military significance. According to usage it was, however, strictly applicable only to the younger sons of the nobility, to officers of the king's household, to counselors of law, justices of the peace, sheriffs, holders of commissions in navy or army, and graduates of the universities, though by courtesy it is given to solicitors, bankers, the landed gentry and gentlemen "of independent means."-New York Morning Telegraph.

War Smothers Hearts.

One of the melancholy by-products of war is the diminished valuation of human life to which it leads. We are so sated with the horrors of the wholesale destruction of men that the sinking of a ship with all on board creates a ripple of comment, where, years ago, as when the Titanic went down our minds would have been paralyzed by the anguish our sympathetic imaginations compelled us to share. War that has been the making of man has brought home his minuteness as an individual.

Insect Activity.

The insect world represents an unlimited field of life and activity. The number of insect species is greater by far than of the species of all other living creatures combined. Although more than 300,000 have been described, probably twice that number remain to be examined. Virtually all living animals, as well as most plants, supply food for these incomputable hordes .-Indianapolis News.

HOW IT IS DONE IN THE EAST WAR BREAKS UP ENGLISH ESTATES

Owners Are Forced by High Taxes to Dispose of Their Holdings.

FARMERS ARE DOING WELL

Squires Cannot Raise the Rents and Cannot Live on Their Income in Old Style-Newly Rich May Buy.

London.—"Country life in England will undergo and is undergoing a revolution such as England has not witnessed since the Norman conquest."

In these words Frank Hirst, editor of the Economist and one of the leading authorities on economic subjects in England, summed up one of the most striking effects of the war. What he means is that the country gentlemen of the old school are disappearing, squeezed out by the high taxation, the death duties, and killed off in many instances in the service of their country. Their places are being taken by men who have grown rich in supplying goods that are needed by England's immense armies, or who are making tremendous profits out of the necessities of the people by taking advantage of the conditions created by the war.

"What will happen to the stately mansions of England after the war?" Hr. Hirst asked. He answered his question as follows: "In individual cases the answer depends on the investments of the owners. A man who has invested in Brazil or Mexico is in a specially sad way, while the man who has put his money in ships or coal is very fortunate indeed. But on the whole the fate of the landed gentry and of the country seats depends on taxes.

Savings Swept Away.

"Taxes have already risen high enough to make it certain that most large houses will be to let or for sale, for most country people before the war had places which fitted their income, with a comfortable margin for savings or special expenditure. Most of them will have to move into smaller houses if they can find tenants or purchasers. The doubling and trebling of the income tax has swept away the margin, and the higher the flood of taxation rises the fewer country seats will remain unsubmerged.

"Evidently there will be a wholesale migration and country life will undergo a revolution such as England has not witnessed since the Norman conquest. Some of the finest estates, I expect, will be bought up by English and American contractors who have made fortunes out of the war office and the ministry of munitions. Others will perrefer to Venezueia. In almost all parts the value of £100.-London Chronicle. and parceled out among disbanded soldiers whose jobs are gone and for whom no other employment can be found.

"The present public expenditure of the government is supposed to be about equal to the whole of the private incomes of all the inhabitants of the United Kingdom. If Alfred the Great had lived until now and had throughcut his long life of more than a thousand years burned one £5 ($25) note of the Bank of England every hour of the day and night he would not have destroyed as much money as Mr. Mc-Kenna is adding every fortnight to the national debt."

Selling Their Estates.

Mr. Hirst's view is fully borne out by the men who are in close touch with the landed gentry. A member of a famous firm of estate agents through whose hands most of the sales of property of this description pass told me that hardly a week goes by that he is nct called on to arrange the sale of some large country estate and that the smaller estates are being placed in his hands for disposal by the score.

"The country gentlemen of England," he said, "simply cannot live under the new conditions. Most of them are dependent absolutely on their rents for their income A man has a couple of thousand acres which have been in his family for centuries. He lets the land out to farmers, many of whom have been on the land as long as himself. The rents were fixed years ago when agriculture was depressed and although times are good for the farmers now, it is too soon to raise rents.

"No one knows whether the present high prices for agricultural products will last, and at any rate the farmers have a good many bad years to make up. The squire simply cannot raise the rents and he cannot live on his income in the old style. The taxes now take more than a quarter of it, and the death duties, if the property should happen to change hands two or three times in quick succession, as may well happen and has happened recently in many cases in these days of war, eat up the capital. What is the man to do but try to get rid of the property which instead of a source of income has become a burden to him?

"So far there has not been much dif ficulty in finding purchasers, for there are many people in this country who have made money out of the war, and the Englishman who makes a fortune is always in a hurry to acquire a coun try seat. There have been a good many American inquiries, too, and some purchases by Americans, but not so many as one would have expected.

FINALLY GOT HIS DESERTS | CANDY FOR YOUNG THIEVES

Originator of One of the Meanest Kinds of Fraud to Have Some Time for Reflection.

Ferdinand Drabina, a young man who emigrated to the United States in 1907, and who after a varied career as waiter, hotel porter, laborer in the gold mines in Colorado and salesman, settled down in 1912 as a correspondent for a banking firm in Chicago, has just been sent to prison for two years and a half for obtaining money from Austrian banks on falsified orders from Austro-Hungarians in America. A part of the business of the banking firm that employed Drabina was the transfer of money from emigrants to their families in Austria-Hungary. The young man conceived the idea, and at his first opportunity carried it out, of making the orders payable to himself rather than to the stipulated payee. The drafts thus falsified he mailed to a "co-worker" in Austria, and in the summer of 1914 he followed the bogus paper across the Atlantic. After collecting several thousand kronen-17,000 in the city of Ostrau alone-he took lodgings with a humble family and by means of his apparent wealth succeeded easily in infatuating the daughter. When, however, he threw her over and took up another charmer she denounced him to the police as a "suspicious American" who had no visible means of support, and who must have something to conceal because he had never gone through the necessary formality of registering with the police. An investigation resulted that has only been concluded with Drabina's conviction. -Pittsburgh Dispatch.

PUT TAYLOR IN WHITE HOUSE

Chief Executive Made Possible Because of War of the United States With Mexico.

Zachary Taylor became president when he was fresh from victories in Mexico. In November, 1847, he held the valley of the Rio Grande. In June, 1848, he held the nomination of the Whig party. He was elected in a three-cornered contest, in which the Democrats were represented by Cass, and the Freesoilers by Van Buren.

Taylor was a soldier and the son of a soldier. He received his commission as a lieutenant of the Seventh infantry nearly forty years before the battle of Buena Vista. He was a captain at the beginning of the war of 1812, and so gallantly defended Fort Harrison against the Indians that he was breveted major and then promoted to full rank. As a colonel of the First infantry he made his mark in the Black Hawk war in 1832, and in 1836 he broke up the power of the Seminoles at Okeechobee.

No two men could be more unlike than Zachary Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready," and Woodrow Wilson, college president. No circumstances could be more unlike than the circumstances in which Zachary Taylor was put into the White House because of his participation in a war with Mexico and the circumstances in which Presiden Wilson might become commander in chief of the American army and navy in a war with Mexico.-Chicago News.

Making the Best of Things.

Those who are overtaken by blindness need never despair. Capt. Ernest Towse, V. C., who had both his eyes destroyed by a bullet in the Boer war, is now with the army in France. Naturally, he is not there as a combatant, and is unable to be with his old regiment, the Gordon Highlanders, in the trenches. But he is busily engaged in the field hospitals, where, though sightless, he spends his time writing letters for wounded and dying soldiers, and in other charitable work.

Since becoming blind this brave man has acquired quite a large number of accomplishments, including that of typewriting, which he does with wonderful speed and skill. Indeed, this sightless man is a remarkable illustration of making the best of things, and a splendid example of Christian determination. He might have flopped. He might "have cursed God," as Job was advised to do, and die. Instead of which, there he is bravely doing his best, and helping soothe the last hours of the wounded and dying.

When Boston Phones.

Manners are now being taught to the telephone-using public by the telecompanies' advertisements. Courtesy is described as beginning when the bell rings, as demanding promptness in answering a call, as making helpful an immediate statement like this: "Corydon 5543. Rudolph speaking;" and as calling forth in return. "Mr. Greatorex of the Eureka wishes to speak with Mr. Minimum." The way having thus been cleared, Greatorex and Minimum can proceed to talk without a period of feeling round, saying "Hello" and making sure that the man desired is at the other end of the wire. There can be the salutation of the day, and then to business. Long ago the telephone operators were made pupils in this school of good will, and willy-nilly they have to be courteous.—Christian Science Monitor.

Sweden's Ostrich Farm.

The northernmost ostrich farm in the world is in a suburb of Stockholm, The birds were taken there last year. They spent the winter mostly in the open, in perfect health, and toward the end of May the females laid their eggs, just as if they had been in South Africa. It takes six weeks to hatch an ostrich egg.

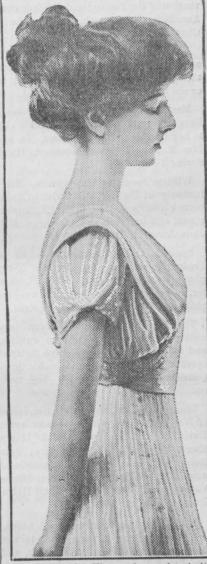

Infants Ran Off With Horse and Buggy and Were Treated When Arrested.

Richmond, Ind.-Mrs. E. R. Smith reported to police headquarters that her horse and buggy had been stolen from North Seventh street, where she had left the outfit when on a shopping tour. Two hours later the police received a telephone call from the town marshal at Boston, six miles south of Richmond, who informed the police that he had a "couple of horse thieves" in custody and believed the stolen vehicle which they had in their possession might have been taken at Richmond. The police sent two armed men in an automobile to Boston to get the "thieves."

Chief Goodwin and other officers were nearly all night awaiting the return of the men and the "desperate characters." When they arrived the "horse thieves" were found to be Jesse Smelser, age five, and Jack Smelser, age three. The tots had climbed into the buggy after unhitching the horse and, without point of destination in view, Jesse, the older, had driven straight south until Boston was reached, where the marshal stopped them.

Chief Goodwin said the prisoners were too small to be even scolded, so, instead, he bought them each a bag of candy and turned them over to their parents, who were vainly searching for

BOONE TREE BLOWN DOWN

Historic Inscription Cut in the Bark by Pioneer Is Severed in Twain.

Bristol, Va.—The historic beech tree known as the "Boone Tree," on which Daniel Boone, the famous pioneer American hunter, carved the information that he had killed a bear, has at last yielded to the elements, after having withstood the storms of time.

This tree was blown down by a fierce wind recently and split in two, so that the historic inscription in its bark, which read, "D. Boone cilld bar on tree in year, 1760," is severed.

This tree occupied a picturesque position in Washington county, East Tennessee, five miles northwest of the historic old capital town of Jonesboro. The territory referred to was at the time a part of North Carolina, but later was embraced in the short-lived state of Franklin. The tree now can be preserved only by the efforts of some interested society, as it will have to be removed from the scene, after discarding all but that section which bears the inscription.

CATTLE IN TERROR OF DOG

erd Runs Over a Horse and Buggy in Their Mad Haste to Get Away.

Arlington, Ky.-E. W. Benson of Bardwell had a novel experience the other day. While driving along the road out of Barlow, Mr. Benson saw a herd of yearlings ahead of him turn into a lane. In a few seconds he also noticed a dog sneaking in the direction of the cattle. The dog made a dive for the herd and they made a run for the road, arriving there just as Mr. Benson drove up and the cattle ran over the horse and buggy, knocked the horse down and came near turning the buggy over. In their mad haste to get away from the dog one of the calves fell, going under the buggy. Mr. Benson says this is the first time he was ever run over by a herd of cattle.

It is but plain English and plain truth to say that the appearance of the lot between the Opera House and railroad, is a disgrace to Taneytown. Its combination of junk, rank weeds, the pit of an old wagon scale, could hardly present a more disreputable and unsanitary appearance. Who is responsible for its presence, we will not attempt to say. Perhaps it is the fault of the whole town for not protesting? Perhaps such blots should not be left wait for a protest? Somewhere-near-water, Sept. 14. EDITOR CARROLL RECORD

Happening luckily upon a high muckamuck of the Walton-Nimrod Rod and Gun Club, of Tittepoo, we were politely informed that our August presence was absolutely necessary to the real suc-cess of the club's proposed raid on the Finny Tribe some distance up the Ten-iwgodenoc streamlet at Retsy's Point, and that today was the jaunting time.

We surrendered without a shot. A hurried breakfast and a wild rush for the electric launch gave us the much desired before-daylight start. The going was fine. the crowd select, the equipment gilt-edged ora Jones, in Taneytown.
Samuel J. Flickinger was taken to Walton.

And now the story. Well on our way photograph to be taken of his broken leg, in order to be sure that it was set properly. It was found to be all right.

The dry, hot weather, has been very unfavorable to seeding and corn cutting, all hands, save the skipper, scampered off to the culinary department and heaved all our gastronomic trimmings hard at the glaringeyed spectre. In a jiffy—not a vestige of victuals remained to remind us of our irreparable loss.

But the pursuer still pursued. A box of oranges, hard by, had been overlooked A large comfy chair, reserved for the grand potentate of our party, was held aloft by our fattest fat man and shot plexus of our uninvited guest, but he merely rolled over once more and swallowed the chair as though it were a demi-

There wasn't much time to groan and gape—so a hurried council was helplessly held. One thing more remained to us viz: we must draw lots to find out the comforting news who was to be fed to our Tarrs, Pa.; Mrs. H. C. The lot fell into the lap of our most But to our utter arrangement and positive alarm the shark was still on the sleuth job. Then it happened that one of our crew reminded us that he had once followed the whaling business and a long unused harpoon was secreted among his sparse belongings. made more comfortable—and so all hands laid to and made a sufficiently commodious cavity in the cause of our confusion. Imagine our glad surprise on opening the shark to find our friend, Joe, sitting on the chair selling oranges two for a nickle!

Of course, our trip was befritzed-but not for naught, for we disposed of the shark to "Speedy & Company, Packers," for a handsome sum, when you considered the trifling fact that our only catch for the day tipped the scales at exactly 4 tons, 11 pounds and 44 ounces.

And, mayhaps, when some of your readers are delighting in the mild and mellow flavor of their Luna-fish salad at no far distant luncheon, they may find proof of this most extraordinary recital of a most exciting each of the state of the st of a most exciting catch "Somewhere-Near-Water!" My only regret, Mr. Editor, is that I am quite unable to promise my fisherman friends anything like the same blissful chance at the finest of pastimes.

Recruiting Marine Corps.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—The United States Marine Corps recently opened recruiting stations in forty small cities from coast to coast. This action was taken to meet the demands made necessary by the recruitment of 5,000 additional enlisted Marines just authorized.

Recruiting activities of these "soldiers of the sea'' were formerly confined to large cities—this new procedure opens the door to virgin recrulting fields. This organization has always been recruited to full authorized strength and Marine Corps officials are confident of filling their increased ranks in one year. The following additional Marines have been authorized, making their present total strength 15,000; 28 sergeants major; 117 quartermaster sergeants; 107 first sergeants; 107 gunnery sergeants; 500 sergeants, 835 corporals; 50 drummers; 50 trumpeters, and 3,235 privates.

-At the recent competitive examination held at the Naval Academy, an insufficient number of applicants for professorships were found qualified to fill the positions in the teaching staff. The Academy authorities have therefore determined to conduct another test. The second examination will be held on September 20 to fill the remaining nine positions in Mathematics, and four in Marine Engineering. These appointments are annual, and depend upon the capability of the instructor to sustain order and effi-The positions pay a salary of
