It is explained that coal is high, and likely to be higher, because of the un-usual demand by factories turning out war supplies. This war game is hitting the country pretty hard, from almost all directions, and to a very large number it is "all going out and nothing coming in."

They tell of a man at Westminster who daily goes to the spring on his farm, (3 miles out in the country) for 5 gallons of pure water. But that's nothing. We know of a man from the same city who comes all the way up to Littlestown, (14 miles) just to get a drink. - Adams County Independent.

During the past week, 33 drunks were arrested in Frederick city and on the fair grounds. Of this number, 12 were sent to jail for the county taxpayers to feed and support. These 12 boozers were sent up as follows: 3 for 90 days, 1 for 70 days, 1 for 60 days, 4 for 30 days and 2 for 15 days. Three of the arrests were for drunk and indecent exposure along the streets. One of the persons arrested was a man 71 years old, who said he had never been arrested before. This is what the saloons of Frederick are doing for the unfortunates and for the county taxpayers.-Middletown

A Record-Breaking Automobile Parade.

The automobile parade of the ''drys,'' on Tuesday, was ''some parade.'' The number of cars in line varied at different points. There were over 200 as far as Hampstead. There were 169 leaving Taneytown for Middleburg, while a few dropped off for repairs and a considerable number left directly, for New Windsor. In round figures, there were 200 cars in the demonstration in Taneytown.

The cars would average 5 passengers each, or 1000 persons in all. An automobile dealer says the average value of the cars was $700.00, or the aggregate sum of $140,000. It was a fine, prosperous looking crowd; a lot of solid tax-payers; in fact, the best people of the county gave an emphatic answer to the "higher tax"

In Taneytown, addresses were delivered by Dr. Thos. M. Hare, Dr. T. H. Lewis, and Dr. Elderdice. A feature of the stop was the singing of Prof. Loose, and Mr. and Mrs. Christie, of Baltimore; and male quartet (colored) of Sykesville. The Boy Scout Band of Westminster, came first, a short time in advance of the parade, and played several selections on the square. Rev. J. L. Hoffman, of Silver Run, and Chas. H. Mayers, of Littlestown, rendered several duets as the final

Fully 1500 people greeted the paraders, and by arrangement in advance, coffee and sandwiches were served. It was a great demonstration, splendidly carried out, and unquestionably forecasts the result of the ballots next Tuesday.

The meeting at Sykesville was perhaps the most enthusiastic of the day, as the citizens of that town are more active in their interest than any other in the county. The whole event was carried off without accident, or any feature to mar it in any way. All in all, it was a great day —one that will long be remembered, not one by the active participants, but by thousands who witnessed it.

-----For the Albanian Sufferers.

The Albanians are a people who have suffered most in the so-called Balkan war —more, if possible, than the Servians. They were not at war, on either side, but their country has been over-run and desolated, and there is no country to help them. A relief bureau has been opened in New York, with Rev. Frederick Lynch Editor of The Chistian Work, as Treasurer. The RECORD is soliciting aid, by request, of this Fund.

Amount already sent "Linwood Shade" 6.00 P. B. E. We have received requests for contributions for the relief of the Belgians, also for the Lithuanians. If any are disposed to make such donations, we will be pleased to forward them. Quite a num-ber contributed to the Belgian Christmas fund, last year.

Settle the Question for Good.

The RECORD never makes an excuse for taking a stand that it knows to be proper and right, therefore has none to make "Pastor" Russell died on Tuesday on a ain enroute to New York from Texas. become monotonous to some, it is not train enroute to New York from Texas. become monotonous to some, it is not He belonged to no denomination, his folforced; but, it is our hope that the majority against bringing back the sale of liquors in the county, shall be so emphatic, that the question may never come up again to require newspaper space and the time of busy people to fight it.

And, this will be the result, if the good thinking people of the county are alive next Tuesday. Nothing but lukewarm-ness and overconfidence can prevent this county from rolling up a much larger than the former 1216 majority "For the proposition" to hold Carroll county as Anti-saloon territory. It ought to be, and will be, 2,000, if the voters do their duty and act on their honest convictions.

Settle the questien effectually, and keep it from muddling our elections, and being. an expense, hereafter. Majority public sentiment is Anti-saloon, not only in this county but in the state, and the sa oon forces should be made understand this fact beyond hope of changing it. Moreover, just as fast as public sentiment is given the opportunity to vote on the question in other states, just so fast will the same truth be in eyidence everywhere. National prohibition, we honestly believe s not further than ten years in the future.

There has been ample time, for the past month, to combat and refute the tax figures given by the RECORD, and by the excellent series of "dry" advertisements published in all of the county papers. Not a single denial, nor correction, has been made, for the excellent reason potency administration Lam going to course of this great nation is during this week, but we chire enough ment. There only remains the voting— VOTE DRY.

----Mr. Lawrence's Mother Dead.

William H. Lawrence, Republican candidate for Congress, was compelled to stop campaigning, the first of the week, owing to the death of his mother, and the seri ous illness of his wife. His mother died on Wednesday morning, after a long ill-His wife requires the services of a nurse. The remainder of Mr. Lawrence's campaign will be left in charge of his secretary and the campaign committee. -----

The County has been flooded with circulars, this week, striving to inject the Catholic church into the political situation, and to prejudice voters against certain candidates, in the interest of socalled "American" candidates. These circulars are of the usual character of ali "eleventh hour" schemes, and will not bear the light of truth. Take no account AGAINST THE PROPOSITION of them.

THE BALLOT AND

HOW TO MARK IT

Post Yourself Thoroughly Before Trying to Vote.

Many who were expecting a small ballot, this year, and one easy to mark, will likely be surprised when they unfold the ballot in the small voting booth, for the size of the ballot will be about 18 inches wide and 28 inches long. The reason for this is that there are five groups of Presidential electors and one blank, as follows: Democratic, Republican, Labor, Prohibi tion and Socialist. One group of candidates for Senator, one group for Representative in Congress, one for a vote for or against the proposition "shall this county continue to be Anti-saloon terriand one for a vote for or against a Constitutional amendment regulating the making of appropriations by the Gen-eral Assembly. These various groups are arranged in three columns, as follows. The first column contains, at the top, the names of the Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President, followed by the names of the Democratic electors. The next group is that of the names of the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President, followed by the names of the Republican electors. Then follows, as the third group in the column, the names of the Labor candidates and electors; and the fourth and last group in the first column contains the names of all candidates for U. S. Senator,

The second column is headed with the names of the Prohibition candidates for President and Vice-President and the Prohibition electors. Then the Socialist candidates; then the blank group, and last, the names of all candidates for Representative in Congress.

The third column has at the top, the proposition "shall this county continue to be Anti-saloon territory," followed by the Constitutional amendment, with two-thirds of the column blank. Now, as to marking the ballot. In order to vote a full ballot, including the Constitutional amendment, 5 cross marks will be required—1 for President, 1 for Senator, 1 for House of Representatives, 1 on the Anti-saloon proposition, and 1 on the Constitutional amendment.

In order to vote for Wilson and Marshall, an X mark in the first large square opposite their names will be all that is necessary-it is not necessary to vote for the electors. In order to vote for Hughes and Fairbanks, an X mark in the large square opposite their names, about onethird of the way down the column, is all that is required.

In order to vote for U. S. Senator, make one X mark in the square opposite the name of candidate, in the last group of the first column. The name of Dr. France, the Republican candidate, is first sentatives-or Congressman. The arrangemeut of names is as follows: (1) Champ-lin, Socialist; (2) Green, Prohibition; 3) Lawrence, Republican; (4) Talbott. Democratic, and (5) blank,

In order to vote For the proposition, "shall this county continue to be Anti-saloon territory?" make an X mark in the first upper right hand corner square, third column; to vote against, make the mark in the second square. The Constitutional amendment follows this, in the last column. Voting on this amendment is not essential.

The ballot, at best, is a monstrosity, made so by our laws, but it can be mastered, through the exercise of intelligence and good eyesight. It will be noted that the squares for marking are larger oppo-site the names of Presidential candidates, than those opposite the names of the electors and candidates for Senate and

Also note that the Prohibition ticket occupies the top of the second column; but a vote for the Prohibition candidates not a vote for anti-saloon territory. Make no mistake about this, but make your mark in the top square at the last umn—the "north-east" square.

Be sure you know just how the ballot is arranged, and just where you want to make your X marks, before you go into the booth to vote; and do this, even if you can see and read well. Take no chances.

----The Constitutional Amendment.

The Constitutional amendment submitted to the voters this year, is what is commonly known as the "Budget system" of levying taxes; that is, levying has been said on the subject, as that the voters are fully posted on the argument. There only remains the content of the subject of the second of the argument. sented to the legislature showing approximately the needed amounts for the specified objects, together with the estimated revenue of the state treasury.

No other appropriation bills are to be passed until the regular budget has been provided for, and unused balances revert to the Treasury instead of being used for other appropriations. In general, the intent of the Amendment is tematize expenditures, and not to appropriate moneys in excess of revenues. Constitutional amendments are usually difficult for laymen to understand, but this one seems businesslike and desirable.

.... HOW TO VOTE "DRY."

In order to vote For the Proposition "shall this County continue to be anti-saloon territory," make your X mark in the first square at top of third column of the ballot, like this—

Horrible Tragedy near Woodsboro.

The Baltimore American, on Thursday, from its Frederick correspondent, contains the following account of a horrible tragedy that occurred near Woodsboro, on Wednesday;

"Lying in pools of blood within a few feet of each other, aunt and nephew, Mrs. Daisy Marshall, 30 years, and Charles Michael, 25 years, were Wednesday evening found dead by Catherine Marshall, in record of the dead woman. six-year-old daughter of the dead woman, on returning from school to her home, near Legore. On the floor between the two was a 32-calibre revolver, containing four exploded shells. A bullet entered the left breast of the woman, penetrating the heart. Michael had a bullet wound in the forehead and in the roof of the Mystery surrounds the double tragedy. Michael, who was a laborer for James W. Legore, had been lodging with his aunt for the past three weeks. Mrs. Marshall had for two years been separated from her husband, Jesse Marshall, who lives near Rocky Ridge.

According to neighbors, Michael returned to the Marshall home at noon.

About 2 o'clock three revolver shots were heard by Harry Redmond, whose home is about 200 yards from the scene of the tragedy. He did not investigate and thought no more of the matter until the bodies were found by the daughter. Just before noon Mrs. Marshall called at the roadside store of Rev. George Nichols for groceries. Later, it was reported that a man whom Michael is said to have disliked called on his aunt. He heard of it as he was returning from the Legore quarries at noon. After a deliberation of but a few min-utes the coroner's jury, Justice Adam Roser, of Woodsboro, presiding, at 10.30 o'clock, Wednesday night, rendered a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Marshall came to her death by revolver shots fired by Charles Michael and that Michael, in turn, shot himself.

A later report is that a third party is suspected, and that an investigation of the whole case may be made by the au-

Mothers Day at School.

Last Friday was Mothers' Day at Stonesifer school. The week before, each one in school made invitations for their mother, asking them to come and see the work the school is doing this year. In the afternoon, about 1 o'clock, the mothers came, each bringing a delicious cake with them. Of their ability to bake good cakes we can be sure!

We had music and recitations by the girls and boys. We had one dialogue called "A band of Happy Helpers." In order to vote for U. S. Senator, make one X mark in the square opposite the name of candidate, in the last group of the first column. The name of Dr. France, the Republican candidate, is first in the group, while that of Mr. Lewis, the Democratic candidate is fourth in the group.

The second column, as before stated, contains the names of the Prohibition and Socialist candidates and the blank group; then, the bottom group requires an X mark for your choice for House of Representations.

Senator, alled "A band of Happy Helpers."

There were a number of other recitations, stories, and a composition about the American flag. Miss Ruth read, "The Landing of the Pilgrims," to describe the Pilgrim seene on our sand table. We sang, "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Flag of the Free", "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and our October song. Then we saluted the flag, which we got by selling buttons at 10c apiece. After the program was over we were served with coffee and cake. Everyone felt that they had a Schmidt, Dr. S. J. McDowell, Schenck, W. C. Waltemyer, Carl happy time. NAOMI BIXLER.

· C-A Big Week in Politics.

This week has been a strenuous one politically, all over. The big ones and lesser ones, from the main contestants on down, have been busy in the big cities and the towns. Big stories of one kind or another, have occupied first-page positions in the newspapers, while editorial pens have been as busy handing out the real stuff to the select few who get their inspir-Every available ation from such sources. light, big and little, has been employed, trying to reach the man in the office, the workman in the factory, the man in the field, the busy man, the leisure man, and in general, the multitude in the highways

Ohio, Indiana, New York and New Jersey, have been given the "best in the shop" by both sides, and it has been something of a job. The people are not talking much, but there is little evidence that they are disinterested. The vote promises to be a big one, but it is a vote

The Republicans are claiming in the neighborhood of 310 electoral votes, while the Democrats are figuring on 290. These are both comfortable estimates, as they allow a fair margin for mistakes. Ohio and Illinois are the big problems. The big German and labor vote in the former, and the liquor question, have greatly mixed the situation; while in Illinois it is largely the 600,000 women voters that has both parties guessing.

Mr. Hughes spent several days in Ohio and Indiana, this week, following the visit there of Mr. Wilson last week; while Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft have been busy more on the outskirts of the centre of interest. The quietness of Mr. Bryan throughout the campaign has excited considerable comment, the wonder being whether he is exercising his preference, or whether the Democratic National Committee does not want to feature his serv-

Mr. Wilson wound up his campaign in New York, speaking in Buffalo and New York City, besides making short stops in many towns. He is also scheduled for an address in New Jersey, Saturday night.

Policy Holders Sued.

One hundred and forty-four suits have been entered in Frederick county court against as many policy holders in the defunct Grangers Insurance Company of Carroll County, who are residents of Frederick county. The amounts involved range from 60 cents to $87.50.

a large number of suits pending in other counties, including Carroll. The suits have been entered by Francis Neal Parke and Chas. O. Clemson, of Westminster.

THE TAX QUESTION AGAIN VENTILATED

All of the Facts Are Against the Wet

Argument.

(For the RECORD).

The "wets" have based their campaign almost entirely on the tax situation. This would have been a shrewd move, if the facts and figures supported their claims; as the case actualty stands, it exposes the weakness of their position.

The revenue from saloons was $7659.38.

A levy of 3½ eents on the assessable basis will raise this amount, and it is an insult upon the intelligence of the voter to claim that the 20 cents increase is caused by loss of saloon revenue.

Why, then, was the 20 cents necessary? Why, then, was the 20 cents necessary:
The last three wet years the county borrowed $52,000, going in debt $16,000 in 1912; $26,000 in 1913, and $10,000 in 1914, the last wet year. Of this $52,000 debt, $20,000 was paid off the first dry year and nearly $2,500 in interest besides. In addition, the county paid all its current expenses, including unusual items amounting to nearly $20,000.

This year the remaining $32,000 of the wet debt has already been paid; the county is paying cash and saving interest; is spending $26,000 more in improving her schools than in 1914, (when the license money was used for school purposes) and has the lowest county tax rate in the state. If Carroll county had paid her debts in 1912 (a wet year) the county tax rate would have been 68c instead of 62c; in 1913 (a wet year) it would have been 73c instead of 62c, and in 1914 (the last wet year) it would have been 72c instead of

If Carroll county had had no wet debt to pay when the county went dry, the county tax rate in 1915 would have been 69c instead of 80c, and this year it would have been 72c instead of 88c

With new sources of revenue next year, a saving in the collection of taxes, and no more debt or interest to pay, the county taxes can be considerably lower next year, and still have an increased amount to spend for the betterment of our schools.

From the standpoint of money-a low plane on which to base an argument against saloons—there is no reason to regret that the saloons are gone, and the gains along moral and business lines offset, by long odds, any loss of liquor

----Maryland Lutheran Synod.

The Maryland Synod of the Lutheran Church, which is holding its ninety-seventh annual convention in the Church of the Reformation, Lanvale and Caro-line streets, Baltimore, began its business sessions Tuesday. The president, Rev. Dr. E. K. Bell, made his report, covering the work of the past year.

The new members received into the synod during the year were formally introduced. They were Revs. K. W. Schenck, W. C. Waltemyer, Carl Mumford, M. H. Frank, G. C. Leatherman, W. O. Ibach, N. J. G. Wickey, F. B. Brist, Dr. J. M. Francis and John B.

Dr. W. H. Dunbar presented the applications of Revs. N. J. G. Wickey and J. G. Knipple for ordination, and of William B. Baker for admission to the The report of the statistical secretary, Rev. W. G. Minnick, showed substantial growth in the synod. The number of churches is 126, with a membership of 43,939, and church property valued at nearly $3,000,000. During the year $343,-000 was contributed for all purposes.

Dr. W. A. Granville, president of Gettysburg College, made an address on the work of that institution. Rev. C. R. Botsford spoke for Susquehanna University, at Selingsgrove, Pa.

At the afternoon session the treasurer, L. Russell Alden, read his report. It showed the largest amount of money contributed for benevolence in the history of the synod. Mr. Alden was unanimously re-elected treasurer. The report of the committee on education was read by Rev. Dr. Luther Kuhl-man. Four new students for the ministry were taken on the funds, and appropriations made for those already under the care of the synod. The amount appropriated was $2,150.

The following Resolutions offered by Rev. Dr. J. S. Simon, of Hagerstown, on Wednesday, were unanimously adopted:

Wednesday, were unanimously adopted:

In view of the vast importance of placing the influence and power of the church on the right view of all questions which have to do with life and morals, and

In view of the untruths which have been industriously circulated concerning our Lutheran Churches, pastors and people, by those who espouse the cause of the licensed saloon.

Therefore, be it resolved,

1. That the synod of Maryland nereby unequivocally declares itself as in favor of the Prohib'tion of the legalized liquor traffic:

2. That we call upon all our patrons and people, for the sake of conscience and the good name of the church to lend their influence, and to use their votes for the overthrow of that which overthrows all the great and good things for which the church stands.

3. That we disapprove of any of our people bringing reproach upon the name of the church by espousing the cause of the saloon, and call upon them to seriously consider the demand upon them of our Lord, who came into the world to destroy the works of the devil, with which works the whole Christian church has classified the saloon.

living help Mr. Hughes? (7) To what extent will the tariff question, which has been obscured by the war, influence voters? (8) Has the general policy of the present administration deserved another four years of power?

These are the main issues, and they can be asked in various forms. Taking the evidence of many large newspapers and magazines, not supposed to be partisan, the preponderance of trade journals and what are generally termed "business interests," Mr. Hughes seems to be decidedly the favorite, and practically all of these-especially the magazines-opposed Mr. Taft. The 8-hour law has had much to do with this. Mr. Wilson has certainly given the "captains of industry" a big scare

Against this, is the effect of the temporary law on the organized labor vote; also, the effect of it on labor as a whole, not benefitted by the law. It is argued that the labor vote can't afford to openly ally itself with Mr. Wilson, for fear of a Republican victory; also, that there is no assurance that the present administration is willing to take any further steps in the direction it has taken, but in the event of the election of Mr. Wilson, and another National campaign four years off, it may reach very different final conclu sions over the whole matter.

The vote of the women in Illinois, for instance, is giving the leaders a vast lot of concern. Illinois is unquestionably safe for Hughes, in general opinion, without this big complication-and one that has never been tried out in a Presidential election. The Republicans are DEMOCRAT | hopeful that the vote of the women will be divided, and be a stand-off. There JOSEPH IRWUN FRANCE REPUBLICAN are both Wilson and Hughes women's DEMOCRAT organizations hard at work in all of the states in which they vote for President.

What figure will the "war prosperity" cut? especially among the farmer vote, is another of the problems. The Democrats expect it to be in their favor, but of, are things that never happen-except | the Republicans counter by arguing that the "higher cost of living" ought to favor them-that it is a poor rule, not to work Too MUCH MEXICO in this campaign | both ways. They also argue with force had no part in bringing higher prices for war demands brought the prices in spite of the lowered Democratic tariff laws. And so, the arguments could be stated, pro and con, throughout the whole list of complications.

THE CARROLL RECORD Wilson? (6) Will the higher cost of has given this question any visible depth of thought, aside from the Grange. The fact that our combined taxes have jumped more than a ripple of worth while dissent. Of course, it has caused some individual comment, and more or less deep modern Matthews; but, so far as a determined and intelligent investigation of the facts is concerned, the tax boosters have so far made a very successful get-

On the face of results, they have a right to conclude that the tax-payers are satisfied with the situation. A few grumblers, who let it go at that, don't count, for there are some people who grumble at paying any taxes. So, we have had a pretty steady increase, every year, for six years, and the top has not been reached, unless there is a more pronounced sentiment focused in practical channels against further increases; and let us say right here, that this must be done in our state legislature, and in our county commissioners office, if it is to be done at all, and the tax-payers must point out the ways. and demand that they be followed.

The RECORD does not complain of the whole increase in the tax bill. We have been getting some results in state roads and better schools. But, there is no telling how much money recent legislatures have squandered; our elections are exexpensive beyond all reason, and our tax-payers are unquestionably paying too large a list of official salaries.

As to our county tax rate, we do not care to go into that, now, even slightly. We will see what we shall see about that, later on; but, we make the prediction, right here, that unless reassessment obscures the situation, there will be a reduction in the rate, next year, when a commissioner will be elected. This year, was not a good time for it.

The RECORD advises its readers to take more account of both state and local expenditures, and to show their interest in tax rate questions when it is profitable to eralizing-the tax-payers must become as well posted on public financial matters as are tax-rate-makers, and tax-spenders -and it may be neccessary to go outside of party lines to brng about tax burden

We repeat, again, a suggestion we made a year ago; that there should be formed in this county, a tax-payers' alliance, which should assemble and go definitely and intelligently into public questions. As long as the tax rates and public expenditures are left to politicians and to "inside" powers who have been "run-Mr. Hughes, though the more recent ning things" for years, they will never adjust themselves to a truly economical

How Sad and Mad and Bad It is.

In a very lengthy and very strained pinion given to the Anti-Prohibition Committee, published this week as a paid advertisement in a number of newspapers, including the Union News, Mr. William L. Marbury, an attorney of Baltimore city, endeavors to smash the "dry" cause. The blow is about as serious and convincing as the stroke of a feather would be to a cocoanut.

It is not at all difficult to get an opinion from Mr. Marbury if one has the money to pay for it. We presume that if the Prohibitionists had sought one in their favor Mr. Marbury could have done better, as he would have had much the stronger side. But the law providing for that it would never occur to any men except those in most desperate straits to attempt to attack it.

Mr. Marbury's nightmare has a triple head: He fears that, if the decision of the voters be "for prohibition," it will be a criminal matter-

(a) To give a friend a drink in one's

(b) For a physician in a hospital to give to a sick or wounded man "the glass of brandy necessary to save his life."

(c) To celebrate Holy Communion. Mr. Marbury lays particular stress on the Communion; apparently he and his fellow laborers are deeply pious men. Truly, they are going to be in a tight place, for the command of the Higher Law is that they shall take communion, and the letter of the man-made law is, as they see it, that they must not do so. It's a case of "damned if you do and

The body of the law contains the same expression. Mr. Marbury has doubtless read in his law books that statutes are to be construed reasonably and all together, and he and those who paid him for his opinion should know that the temperance people are perfectly willing that the law shall go through just as it is, notwithstanding that nightmare of not being able to treat their friends, to take a glass of brandy to save their lives, to partake of intoxicants at Holy Communion.

It will be noticed by those who take the trouble to read the opinion that Mr. Marbury is perfectly satisfied that there will be no legal difficulties if the vote is 'against prohibition."-Balt. Co. Union.

Foolish Debt is Unwise; Wise Debt is Not Foolish.

Don't worry if you are in debt; that is, if it is wise debt, such as paying for your education or home. Being in debt is a great thing for those who know how to use the method wisely. A writer in the November American Magazine says:

"I had learned two very valuable lessons: First, that debt, in itself, is nothing to be afraid of; but only foolish debt. All businesses that are growing rapidly are in debt. Raliroads have their bond issues; big stores and factories their commercial paper. The biggest men in business are, generally speaking, those who owe the most money. There are a good many thousand young men in the country today, who, if they had the courage to go in debt to secure specialized train-

But always the loss by dropping out is greater than the gain. This lesson I learned, fortunately, at no cost at all. Had I learned it by experience, that is to say, had I followed my plan to teach temporarily, it would have cost me several thousand dollars in diminished income."

FATTENING TURKEYS.

Well Fleshed Birds Bring the Highest Prices on the Markets.

Farmers raising turkeys for the holiday fall market often neglect a fattening process which will ring the birds into proper market condition at the right time, says the American Agriculturist. The present high cost of many of the grains makes it a strong temptation to neglect this fattening. However, it must be remembered that city buyers demand a well covered turkey of sufficient weight for its age before they will give a top price. Dealers in New York city report that a spring hatched turkey should weigh about ten pounds for the hen and fourteen to sixteen pounds for the tom

One of the crucial phases of the turkey's development begins in October. Turkeys are now on the home stretch. Each moment of the shortening days must be utilized to get them on their way marketward. Each day lost postpones their shipment, and delays are costly. To make the most of one's flock the turkey must be taken in hand early in the fall. The turkey hand early in the fall. The turkey shown is a gobbler of fine devel-at Thanksgiving time. Chicago likewise demands good weight. The usual run is lower than this in weight. Turkey dealers depend entirely upon the fattening which the turkeys receive upon the farm. They advocate corn as the one best fattening ration.

To fatten turkeys properly I consider the time to begin is early in October, says Miss Margaret Mahaney of Middlesex county, Mass. The easiest way to make up a good ration is to take a hundred pounds of corn meal, fifty pounds bran, ten pounds beef scraps, ten pounds ground oats, ten pounds grit, five pounds charcoal, with a half pound baking soda. Mix thoroughly and scald in the morning and then cool. Allow the turkeys to eat all they want of it, say a half pint to a large tom. The baking soda helps to digest the food and sweeten the crop. There is less chance of the turkeys becoming ill from overfeeding.

Let them out to roam after feeding and at noon throw them cracked corn and oats in amounts they will clean up, At night do the same. Leave air slaked lime and sand within easy reach. A turkey treated like this will fatten gradually, the meat will be whiter, more tender, and the outside skin will be a beautiful vellow.

On the other hand, if a turkey is forced it is very apt to become ill. In fact, I don't think it is in good health when overfed. I have had young toms weighing up to twenty-five and twentyeight pounds at Thanksgiving time and pullets eighteen pounds. I don't think any one would require a better turkey. Turkeys cannot be fattened penned up, according to our experience, writes Frank E. Lents of Martin county, Md. In this country they must have plenty of range and good water. In October I begin to give them old corn about twice a week and about twelve days before I market them begin to feed them crushed corn with some clean tallow mixed. I have also fed buttermilk slushed with bran. Don't cut green corn from the cob. It will cause black fattened turkeys. Always attract buyers and you will get higher prices for poultry. Turkeys will be graded so close this fall that it will pay every turkey raiser to Cause of Poultry Diseases.

There are endless causes of diseases among poultry, chief among them being careless breeding, damp, drafty houses and filth, the last mentioned being by far the worst of all, says the Farm Journal. Careless feeding is another and especially so when the feed is left lying about on the ground to ecome contaminated by the droppings f unhealthy birds. The waste of feed costly, for it is but seldom that birds will eat stale food. But expense is the least part of the evil; the souring of the land, with its attendant train of disease and death, is greater.

EARLY LAYING PULLETS ARE MONEY MAKERS

After passing the age of one year the average hen loses her laying notion very rapidly. Many poultrymen dispose of all birds over a year old in making up their laying flocks. Their theory is that, while hens of that age may still be profitable, they are not so profitable as pullets, and when only a certain number of birds are to be kept they want only individuals in their best laying trim. While this practice may bring more eggs per bird than if part of the flock were made up of older stock, enough old hens of known laying ability should be kept for breeders. The continued use of pullets' eggs for hatching purposes will cause stock to deteriorate rapidly.

The best laying strains of fowls will begin laying at about five months old. Pullets of the heavier or meat breeds require six or seven months before they are matured to the point of beginning to lay. To do a good fall and winter's work a pullet should begin laying in November at the latest, and October would be better still, consequently the hatching of the chicks for the laying flock should be timed accordingly. In the average case March and April hatched chicks should be chosen for the layers of the following fall and

The ideal to strike for is to have the pullet old enough so that she will be-

The Aylesbury stands at the head of the domestic ducks bred in England, although it has never achieved popularity in America. Males weigh about nine pounds and females a pound lighter. The skin is maies a point lighter. The pink colored and the meat short grained, tender and white. The Aylesburys are good layers, averaging about 115 eggs per year in flocks. The duck pictured is an come of laying age while the weather is still mild enough to stimulate egg production. The pullet that does not start to laying by December is likely to be caught by cold weather, which retards rather than stimulates the laying process. In a great many instances such a bird will not begin laying until the first warm days of February. Aside from the fact that the hen that starts to laying early has the best chance of making a good record through the coldest season early in the year, it is the November and December egg that brings the highest price on the market because of the scarcity at that season. The increased supply of eggs after January is due to the fact that most of the yearling hens are idle up to the end of the year, while those two years old or older usually begin even later. This tendency toward a late start on the part of the older birds is due, generally speaking, to a late recovery after the molting season. This, in fact, is one of the prime reasons why pullets are preferred as winter layers, since they are affected only slightly. if at all, by the little molting they un-

Thrift Is Preparedness

Financial strength is to nations as important as military strength. No nation can survive a war if it cannot finance itself.

The man who fortifies himself with an account in a savings bank does more than prepare himself-he contributes to the preparedness of the country.

Germany, unable to borrow from other countries, has been financed by the thrift of her people, as this thrift was expressed in accounts in savings banks.

A savings bank deposit helps the nation and is indispensable to the individual.

A friend recommended Sloan's Liniment, citing his own case as evidence of its effectiveness. Mullen bought a bottle and applied it to his aching limbs. Soon improvement was noticed and he was able to return to business.

Mr. Mullen writes: "Since that experience I have never been without Sloan's Liniment in the medicine chest." You will find it soothes bruises, sprains, toothache and relieves lame back, neuralgia, in fact all external pains. At all druggists, 25c., 50c. 5-1-10 and $1.00 a bottle.

B. W. Anspon Furnishes List Of Bulbs For Use In The Flower Garden.

College Park, Md., Oct. 12.-In answer to many inquiries received by the State College of Agriculture regarding the planting of bulbs, B. W. Anspon, in charge of floriculture, says, "Probably no class of plants enjoy such general public favor as do the spring flowering bulbs. This popularity is due largely to the ease with which they can be grown and their season to bloom. Coming at the time of the year after the passing of winter, their bright and gaudy colors are exceedingly attractive. Beginning in early spring, we have Snow Drops and Crocuses, which are always pleasing. It is, however, to the Dutch bulbs, such as the Hyacinths, Tulips, Daffodils that we look forward to the gorge ous part of the spring display. Success with bulbs is primarily a ques tion of providing suitable conditions for the developments of the flowers. These are already formed inside of the bulb. On cutting open the tulip or hyacinth, we can see the minature flower enclosed by the bulb scale. In view of the above fact, it stands to reason that it pays to secure large,

Any good garden soil, providing it is well drained and friable is suitable for bulbs. Under no conditions should land intended for bulbs be fertilized with fresh stable manure. This always results in injury to the bulbs. Where the soil is not as rich as it should be, well rotted manure should be deeply worked into the soil to a depth of 10 to 12 inches or bone meal may be used.

Depth Of Planting.

To secure a display of flowers, all bulbs should be planted to a uniform Where one uses a dibble or trowel, there is often danger of having bulbs at unequal depths. To secure a uniform depth, throw out the soil from the bed to the depth to which the bulbs are to be planted. Place on this an inch or so of sand, to serve as the means of drainage for the bulbs. Place the bulbs directly on this cushion of sand, spacing them according to the kind of bulb. Hyacinths can be planted six inches deep and six to eight inches part. Tulips, to a depth of from four to five inches and four to six inches apart. Daffodils, depending upon the size of the bulb, generally about one and one-half times their own depth,-three to four inches apart for the smaller sorts and five to six inches apart for the larger. After planting, fill in the soil that has been taken out beforehand and round off the beds so as to shed water. After the ground freezes, so that there is a thin crust formed, give the bulbs protection by covering with a layer of straw, leaves or litter to a depth of three to four inches. Leave this covering on until the danger from freezing is over.

Just a few of the varieties: Single Hyacinths. La Innocence (pure white). La Grandesse (white). Gertrude (pink). General de Wet (pink). Charles Dickens (blue). Grand mitre (blue). King of the Blues (dark blue). Yellow Hammer (yellow).

(Single, Early.) Artus (scarlet). Couleur Cardinal (scarlet). Cottage Maid (pink and white). La Reine (white tinted with rose) Kaiserkroon (bright red with yellow

ECONOMIZE DIGESTION

The Eating of Vegetables Without Mastication Is Productive of Gastric Rebellion.

Indigestion is often attributed to hasty eating, and people are reproved and rightly so, for bolting their food; but it is interesting to observe that while the bolting of meat is always severely censured, one never hears any blame attached to those who your uncooked vegetables without any attempt at mastication. Nevertheless, it is the hasty swallower of vegetable fiber who is really the inciter of gastric rebellion. Vegetables are, at all times, very imperfectly digested by the stomach, and require their tough fibers to be thoroughly broken up by the teeth if they are to be dissolved even in the bowel.

There is a well-known saying which avers that digestion waits upon appetite, and there is no doubt that of all the helps to digestion a keen desire for food is the most powerful and important. But appetite itself often depends upon conditions which are independent of the body's absolute necessities. Thus the aspect of the food its smell, taste and even the manner in which it is served, all help either to stimulate a desire for it, or to induce a sense of aversion, while the environment of the diner often exercises important influence, beneficial or otherwise. Brain work of any kind interferes with the rapid digestion of food, and even the habit of reading during meal times, practiced by so many, is conducive neither to appetite nor digestion. A well-lighted room, music and frivolous conversation will often permit a chronic dyspeptic to enjoy without remorse the pleasures of the table, while a depressing atmosphere, uncongenial company and unappetizing dishes may induce a fit of indigestion in the most healthy individual.-Food and Cookery.

COOKING UTENSILS OF GLASS

Baking Dishes Made of New Material Have Been Found Very Satisfactory and Almost Unbreakable.

A new material now on the market for cooking utensils is glass. A great variety of cooking dishes are made, but the baking dishes or casseroles, would probably appeal most to the home-keeper. No silver or copper container is required for the casserole when put on the table and hence they are comparatively inexpensive.

A great variety of dishes have been cooked in the glass casserole with splendid results. The material is cooked uniformly throughout the dish, due to the conductivity of glass and the results have been just as good with a souffle as with a meat pie.

The oven can be better regulated since one can see the material cooking in the dish-i. e. one can see whether it is cooking too fast or too

The utensils are attractive and seem to be almost unbreakable. The casserole has proved to be the most satisfactory baking dish we have ever used.—Magdalene Hahn, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Pepper Meat Cups.

Take as many large peppers as you need, either green or red, but of the sweet variety, and as round as you can get them. Cut off the tops, take out the seeds, pour boiling water over them and cook gently for five minutes. Drain well, place in a baking dish and fill with a mixture made according to these directions: Take enough of the white meat of chicken-other meats will do if you have no cooked chicken on hand-fill a cup with the meat chopped fine, one and a half cupfuls of bread crumbs moistened with a little hot water to swell them; also a large tomato peeled and chopped, with two teaspoonfuls of grated or chopped onion, an ounce of butter, a level tablespoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of red pepper and a raw egg well beaten. Pour a little stock or hot water around the peppers and a very little over each one and bake 25 minutes.—New York

Chocolate Hearts.

Two ounces of butter, two ounces of cornstarch, two ounces of grated chocolate, a tablespoonful of milk, two eggs, one-quarter tablespoonful of baking powder, three ounces of powdered

Cream the butter and sugar together, beat in the eggs, next add the chocolate, cornstarch, baking powder and sufficient milk to make a thick batter (rather over a tablespoonful may be required).

Have ready 12 little heart-shaped tins well greased. Divide the mixture between them and bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

Sour Milk Spice Cake.

This calls for a cupful of sugar and a half a cupful of butter creamed together. To this should be added a beaten egg, one teaspoonful of each of the following: Cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, ground cloves and vanilla. Add the cup of sour milk or cream and a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little cold water. Finally add two cupfuls of flour and a cupful of raisins tossed in a little of the flour. A little citron may be added if desired, though this is not necessary.-New York Sun.

To Remove Iodine Stains.

Immerse the stained articles immediately in a gallon of water to which has been added about two teaspoonfuls of plain household ammonia.

on which the great parade of the Drys toured Carroll county, was a day long to be remembered in Union Bridge. Probably more automobiles passed through its streets than have passed through in one week at any time since the auto has become a means of conveyance. Those who take an interest in statistics say that over 260 cars were counted. At an average of 4 persons to a car, which I believe to be a just average, this would be 1040 persons in autos alone, while many came in other vehicles and on foot; to these add the people of our town who turned out generally, and you have a good sized crowd. Our citizens are not inclined to be demonstrative in the way of applause, but the quiet, earnest way in which the voters listened to Dr. Hare's able talk upon Prohibition was a conclusive proof to many of us that when the 7th of Nov. rolls around these voters will be at the Polls with a firm determination to vote For the Proposition.' "Maryland Week."

On Tuesday evening, November 14, 1916, at 7 p. m., the big front doors of the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, swing open, and the citizens of the State are made most welcome to the annual "Maryland Week" exhibition and meet-

The term "Maryland Week" means all that it implies, for during the week, thousands of people from the rural communities, together with thousands who live in Baltimore, will pass into the Armory and view with indescribable pleasure the marvelous displays of fruits, flowers, field crops, dairy products, veg-etables, home products, etc., of only the best quality.

Everyone can here observe just what kinds of produce can be made to mature in Maryland soil, for the aim of "Mary-land Week" is to promote the greatest natural resource that Maryland possesses -agriculture. Strong lessons can be learned if one will take only the time. No man, woman, girl or boy should leave that exhibition without being prepared better to work with the things most interested in.

The season of "Maryland Week" fast becoming the annual period of visitation of the rural residents to the city of Baltimore. As the metropolis of the South, Baltimore welcomes with out-stretched arms, everybody, to come within her borders at that time The Maryland Agricultural Society, the affiliated organization of the Maryland State Horticultural Society, Maryland Crop Improvement Association, Maryland State Dairymen's Association and the Maryland State Beekeepers' Association, has successfully endeavored to have the 1916 show and meetings excel the exhibitions of previous years. They have procured men of the calibre of Governor Harrington, Mayor Preston, of Balti-more, Dr. H. J. Waters, President of the Kansas Agricultural College, Dr. W. J. Kerr, President of the Oregon Agricultural College, Dr. Bradford Knapp, U. S. Department of Agriculture and other prominet men to make addresses. one thing has been left undone to accord everybody a pleasurable as well as a profitable time for every minute they re-main in the Armory. The floral display will be magnificent.

The State Dairymen's Association, in their interest of the producers of milk, will make a complete demonstration of handling a dairy, from milking the cow through the butter-making process. The Horticultural Society has planned to give daily demonstrations in apple grading and packing. The new Apple Packing and Grading Law makes it necessary that the growers and shippers of orchard fruits be informed of the meaning of all its provisions. Maryland at last can be justly proud of the uniform packages of high quality fruit which will pass beyond her borders.

The Home Economics Department of the Extension Service, Maryland State College of Agriculture, will make an exhibit of the fruits of their labors. Canned fruits and vegetables prepared by the members of the Girl's Clubs will be on display. A marked tribute to the zeal and efficiency of our rural girls.

Idaho A Big State.

To those of us who remember Idaho in our school geographies as a small pink block, shaped like an easy chair facing east, it may be of interest that this State, which in 1890 added the forty-fifth star to the constellation of the flag, is nearly as large as Pennsylvania and Ohio combined and larger than the six New England States with Maryland included for good measure. It is divided into 33 counties, the smallest of which is half as large as the State of Rhode Island and the largest greater than the combined area of Massachusetts and Delaware.

Idaho covers an area of 83,888 square miles, divided principally between the Rocky Mountain region and the Columbia Plateau, only a small part, in the south east corner of the State, lying in the Great Basin. In elevation above sea level the State ranges from 735 feet, at Lewiston, to 12,078 feet, at the summit of Hyndman Peak. It is drined mainly to Columbia through Snake River and its tributaries and has an annual rainfall of about 17 inches, the range in a single year at different places being from 6 to 38. inches. The industries of the State are chiefly agriculture, stock raising, and mining. Hay, wheat, oats, and potatoes are the principal crops. A large area is cultivated by irrigation. The mineral production includes gold, silver, copper, lead, and zinc. The output of lead in 1913 was valued at $13,986,366, that of silver at $6,033,473. The population of Idaho in 1910 was 325.924.

Even murder, arson, tornadoes, floods, pestilences, ALL MAKE BUSINESS GOOD FOR SOMEBODY, BUT ALWAYS AT SOMEBODY ELSE'S EXPENSE---and that is exactly the case with "booze" prosperity.

It is as true as Holy Writ, that when any man-storekeeper, property owner, citizen of any kind-makes money because of the sale of liquors, he makes it at SOMEBODY ELSE'S LOSS. Samuel the Third

There Was Good Luck In the Name

By CLARISSA MACKIE *******

There being no schools near their home, the Arnolds concluded to employ a tutor.

The first tutor engaged for the Arnold children was Samuel Warmouth, a divinity student. Mrs. Arnold's sister Anne, who was gifted with an unusual amount of beauty, set off by numerous accomplishments, sent him away in six weeks "with a flea in his Anne declared that it was not her fault; that she could not help the reverend gentleman from falling in love with her, and she could not marry every man who wanted her.

Mrs. Arnold, who, being a woman, was versed in the tricks and manners of her sex, knew better. She saw at once that Anne was as much bent on bringing down Mr. Warmouth as he was willing to be brought down. However, the children must have a tutor, so after the first had departed another was engaged. Mrs. Arnold was opposed to the second one on the ground that his surname was Samuel, and there was bad luck in the name. She had not mentioned to her husband that she blamed his sister for captivating the tutor, and Mr. Arnold naturally considered her reason absurd, and, as he expressed it, "woman's logic."

Whether Mrs. Arnold's reason was the correct one or not, the result was that the second Samuel met with the same fate as the first.

"I told you so," said Mrs. Arnold to her husband.

"Told me what?"

"That there was bad luck for us in the name of Samuel."

"Nonsense! More likely it was because his other name was Green."

"Maybe that's the real reason," replied the lady demurely.

Mr. Green had given as a reason for his going that he had found his studies would require more time than he could spare for his duties as tutor. He had recommended a friend for his successor. Whether he had an object in recommending the man he did, whether he told his friend his real reason for leaving the Arnolds, does not appear. There may have been revenge in his recommendation.

When Mr. Arnold reported to his wife that the new tutor's name was Samuel Newman she was overwhelmed with consternation.

"Not another Samuel?" cried Mrs. Arnold, aghast.

"It's a fact. This makes the third tutor to bear that name. Sounds harmless enough, doesn't it?" returned her husband dryly. "They are quite inoffensive.

Anne who makes all the trouble. I shall send her away before Mr. Newman arrives. We simply cannot have her flirting with him. You know when Mr. Green went away he recommended Mr. Newman for the position."

"I know," nodded Mr. Arnold. "Both the other Samuels resigned broken hearted, and we must keep Mr. Newman during the summer. The boys are not making any progress in their studies. It is settled now. If Anne cannot behave herself she must go away and give the children a chance to absorb a little learning." Mrs. Arnold's plump countenance settled into lines of severity. "Too much gooseberry," said Mr. Arnold thoughtfully. "Max and Bobby didn't make much headway in their studies with Sam Green murmuring German poetry in Anne's pink ears. 1 don't know what we shall do, Maud. Your sister is an arrant little flirt, and the only cure is for her to fall violently in love herself." "I wish she would," sighed Mrs. Arnold, "but she won't. I never saw another girl with her propensity for changing a perfectly agreeable young man into a pestiferous, lovesick ninny." "Who is a ninny?" inquired Anne's fresh young voice from the doorway. "I hope you and William are not quarreling," she added in a shocked tone. William Arnold grinned at his sister-in-law.

"You know Maud and I never quarrel unless we are discussing your faults."

"Have I any faults?" inquired Anne saucily. "Well, you may as well mark one for me now. I listened to what you were saying about the Samuels!" "Anne Cummings!" exclaimed her shocked sister. "I did. Really, it interested me more than it possibly could either of you."

"In what way?" "Why, I am likely to fall in love with any one of the tutors. It really is William's fault for selecting such perfectly fascinating tutors, as if it mattered. to Max or Bobby what a tutor looked like. Now, Mr. Robinson was cherubic looking, and Mr. Green was a poet's dream!" cried enthusiastic Anne. "Now. dear brother William, is the new one

"I haven't seen him," returned Mr. Arnold, with an amused smile. "As a matter of fact, Anne, I engaged all of these young men by letter. I've engaged Newman for the summer months. In the fall he is to take a secretaryship in Washington. All I ask is that you let the poor fellow alone."

Mrs. Arnold looked over her eyeglasses. "If you don't, Anne, dear, away you go to Aunt Rebecca's."

"Horrors! I will be good," promised Anne, and she tripped away, only to poke her pretty head inside the door again. "I do hope he is musical," she flashed at them before she disap-

That evening the new tutor arrived. He was not very tall and rather stockily built. He had a clean cut face tanned by sun and wind, lighted by keen, dark eyes. Anne liked the way he wore his clothes, and she liked his brown, capable looking hands. She also liked the direct glance of his eyes, but there was nothing softening in his glance when it rested upon her lovely

Therein lay the oddity of the new tutor. Mr. Newman was politely indifferent to Anne's charms, even when she played the harp, which was her chief accomplishment. When accompanied by her clear, sweet soprano the results had been disastrous indeed to the other Samuels.

"Well, Anne, how do you like him?" asked her brother-in-law one morning as they stood on the veranda watching Newman and the little boys racing across the lawn to the boathouse. When the three white clad forms had disappeared Anne shrugged her shoulder impatiently.

"He's perfectly hateful!" she flared. and then ran away to the rose garden to hide the telltale tears that filled her

Mr. Samuel Newman had been quite frank in explaining to Anne that the rowboat would not safely carry more than three persons, and as he was teaching her nephews how to row and manage a boat, her presence among them would be exceedingly awkward.

Anne had tossed her dark head and turned away, but there was a bewildered look in her pansy brown eyes, for she was not accustomed to receiving rebuffs.

"I wonder why he doesn't like me?" she asked herself for the hundredth time since breakfast. Anne leaned over the artificial pond and stared at her reflection in the still water. "Certainly I am not homely," she smile vainly, and lost her balance.

She would have tumbled ignomin ously into the pond had not a strong hand grasped her arm and drawn he back to safety.

"The mirror in the music room is less hazardous," advised Mr. Newman with a quizzical glance, and Anne blushed hotly. "Please don't do that again." she said rashly. "Do what? Rescue you from dan-

"Yes. I would rather fall in and be drowned than be saved by you!" she cried fiercely. "I will remember," he said gravely. and passed into the house.

Instantly poor Anne was smitten with shame. She flew to her room and battled with a new, strange misery, for retribution had come upon gay, light hearted Anne Cummings. She had fallen in love with the new tutor, and he evidenced not the slightest interest in her-indeed, appeared to disapprove

Verily, it would appear that the third Samuel was to avenge the wrongs of

Mr. Newman was gracious to Mrs. Arnold, quite chummy with her husband and devoted to his small charges. who adored him in return. But it was apparent to the entire household that he was indifferent to Anne.

The Arnolds were amused at the situation until Maud guessed Anne's pitiful secret. "I am glad he is going next week," she said one September day. "I believe I will take Anne on that coaching trip Monday," said William, with strange gruffness.

"William, you're a dear," and his wife kissed him.

"Poor little Anne!" he murmured. "It's a pity. I really like Newman better than the other two. He is more manly and independent and has boundless ambition. You never can tell where a chap like that will stop. Not short of the top, anyway. Just the ool, firm hand to guide Anne."

"I suppose it is just as well for Anne to learn that she can't play with fire." sighed Anne's sister, "but these life lessons are so hard and leave such a bit-

The next morning Anne went tiptoeing down to the water's edge. She was a trim figure in her bathing dress. The water was warm and inviting, and Anne was a fearless swimmer.

Max and Bobby were digging in the sand, and Newman and William Arnold were playing tennis.

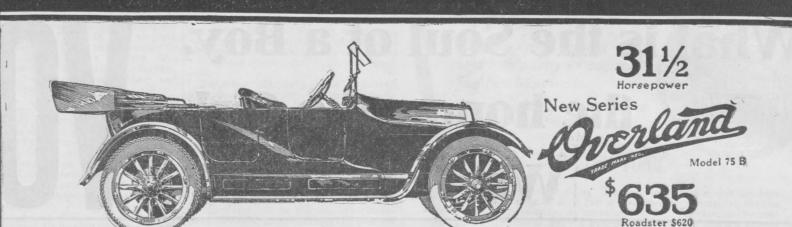

"I will swim out to the float and rest awhile," she thought.

Her white arms cut the water with long, even strokes. The tide was running swiftly, and Anne felt strangely tired. There came a sudden chill, and then the agonizing cramp that rendered her helpless. Her arms flew up and she cried out once before she sank, "Samuel!"

When she came to the surface she saw a white clad form plunging madly through the water toward her. Down. lown, down she went.

When she came to the surface, weak and helpless, a pair of strong arms vere ready to bear her safely to land. "Dear little Anne!" murmured the third Samuel as he staggered across the lawn with her wet head pressed against his trembling lips.

After awhile, when dry and warm again, they met on the veranda Samuel Newman took Anne's little hands in his and sought her shy eyes

Lesson VII.-Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 12, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. xiv, 13, to xv, 3-Memory Verse, xiv, 16, 17-Golden Text, Rom. xiv, 21-Common Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stear's.

This is called a temperance lesson and is no doubt intended to be used as an exhortation and a warning against the use of intoxicants, a most important topic, and a line of service on which we cannot do too much, but when I consider the intemperate people who are so often prominent in what is called temperance work I feel increasingly the need of getting at the root of the matter rather than prescribing for symptoms. The words "temperance" and "duty" are seldom used in the Scriptures, not over six or seven times in each in the whole Bible, and the meaning of temperance is self control in every form (Acts xxiv, 25; I Cor. ix, 25; Gal. v, 23; II Pet. i, 6). As in Paul's talk with Felix and verse 17 of our lesson, righteousness comes first. In I Cor. vi, 9, 10, where the drunkard is mentioned among other gross sinners, the opening sentence is "The unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom

The great topic of this espistle is righteousness, the word being used at least thirty-five times and fifteen of these in chapters iv and x. As in i, 17. it is the righteousness of God, that which God requires, and has provided fully and freely in Christ, but which men object to, preferring their own filthy rags of self righteousness, character, reformation, duty and the like (Isa. lxiv, 6; Rom. x, 3). There is no possible way for any one, drunken or sober, moral or immoral, but to plead guilty, according to chap. iii, 19, and be justified freely by grace (iii, 24); then will come the peace and joy of being justified by faith (xiv, 17; xv, 13), and the patience and comfort of the Scriptures (xv. 4-6). It is no use to appeal to any kind of a sinner to do right, for until born again by receiving Christ all are said to be "in the flesh," merely "natural" people, and cannot please God (John i, 12, 13; Rom. viil, 7, 8).

When Christ is received as a personal Saviour and our righteousness, then we are said to be "in the Spirit," and by the Spirit we may be led, controlled, live and make no provision for the flesh or its lusts (Rom. xiii, 14; Gal. v, 16-25). Salvation, of which the first eight chapters of this letter tell us so fully, is the free gift of God for all who will receive it, or rather Him (Rom. vi, 23; Rev. xxi, 6; xxii, 17), and there are no differences nor degrees, for all who are in Christ have all the equally saved and delivered from the wrath to come (I Thess. i, 10). Now, as saved people, we are supposed to steps who never pleased Himself always pleased the Father and lived and died to save others (Rom. xiv. 7; xv, 3; Pet. ii, 21-23; John viii, 29; Gal. ii, 20). If we thus had the good of others at heart instead of our own selfish ends we would not talk of eating or drinking what we pleased regardless of others' infirmities.

We are here to win others to Christ and then to help build them up in Him, rooted and grounded in love and filled with all the fullness of God for service here and an abundant entrance into His kingdom by and by (xiv, 19; Eph. iii, 16-20; II Pet. i, 5-11). Although all believers are accepted in the beloved, washed, sanctified and justified and made meet to be partakers of His inheritance (Eph. i, 6, 7 I Cor. vi, 11; Col. i, 12), we are left here for service and good works, for which every one of us shall give account of himself to God at the judgment seat of Christ, where only saved people shall be, and there our service shall be approved and rewarded, or else burned up and we suffer loss (xiv. 7-12; I Cor. iii, 11-15). The service which will be rewarded will be that which He has wrought in us by His Spirit, according to Phil. ii, 13; Heb. xiii, 21. We cannot expect that anything we do of ourselves that is not His working in us will have His ap-

When I was off duty for eleven weeks a little over three years ago because of heart failure, which many thought would take me home, nothing gave more comfort in my weakness as I lay in bed than Rom. xiv, 8: "Whether we live, we live unto the Lord, and whether we die, we die unto the Lord. Whether we live, therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." It is possible so to abandon ourselves to Him for life or death, for service or suffering, that His perfect will shall be everything to us, and our heart song shall be, "Not I, but Christ: "Not I, but the grace of God" (Gal. ii, 20; I Cor. xv, 10). This will keep us so occupied with Himself that we shall not see others except to help them and will make us so sensitive to what He likes or dislikes that we shall not wish to allow that which. He would condemn.

Forevermore, beside us on our way,
The unseen Christ doth move,
That we may lean upon His arm and say
Dost Thou, dear Lord, approve?

The kingdom to which we are hastening and which cannot come till He comes, if it fills our soul's vision, will lift us above all such matters as eating and drinking, and is there any harm in this or that, and our acceptable service of Christ will be manifestly rightcousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost (xiv, 17, 18).

DEBUTANTE'S DANCING FROCK

This is one of the latest frocks to pass the critical eye of Dame Fashion. The skirt of this costume is a combination of tiny ruffles of sage green chiffon edged with narrow velvet ribbon. The puffed side-drapery is of the same shade, being of green tulle and with a wide band of gold lace. The bodice is of gold cloth, a wide bertha of heavy corn lace. The three rows of black velvet add the finishing touches.

MANY USES FOR A MARK

Monograms for Household and Table Linen and for Note Paper in Favor Again.

The monogram, which for several seasons was more or less out of favor, is in again. Separate letters formed into initials in round, diamond or square panels are also used. Single inintials are used, too. Then there are ciphers, cryptic combinations of initials or other arrangement of initials or the letters of the name in odd and hidden fashion.

Marks of all these sorts can be used on household and table linen; on note paper they are engraved. Sometimes a book plate is no more than a cipher, and anything of this nature, because it is so personal, is sure to be effective.

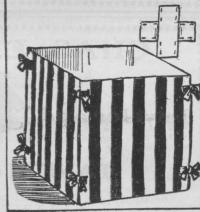

Some women make a point of having their marks on everything alike. This, of course, is so when a crest is used. But the same idea can be carried out with any other sort of symbol. When it comes to ready-made marks there are many kinds. There are benefits of His finished work and are names woven in tape and initials, for linens, and there are paper and cloth initials over which one can embroider. There are printed book plates to paste have done with self and walk in His | into books, and there are dies for sealing wax and ready-stamped initialed

For Rugs. To clean rugs and carpets use the following compound: Make a suds with a good white soap and hot water and add fuller's earth to this until it is of a consistency of cream. Have plenty of clean drying cloths, a small scrubbing brush, a large sponge and a pail of fresh water. Put some of the cleaning mixture in a large bowl and dip the brush in it. Brush a small piece of the rug with this, then wash with the sponge and cold water. Dry as much as possible with the sponge, and finally rub with dry cloths. Continue this until certain all the rug is cleaned, and then let dry.

The positive, constructive platform of the Republican Party has no "isms" in it. It means the welfare of all, the respect of the world, the sacredness of American rights and property and lives both at home and abroad.

The Republican Doctrine of Tariff Protection

Means more this year than ever before to every American laborer and business man, his home, and his property, BECAUSE, after the war, in competition with cheap but efficient European labor, Tariff Protection will be the only means of UPHOLDING THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF WAGES, and will give us a chance to convert munitions plants into peace industries.

To guarantee the protection of American industries after the war it is necessary to elect not only a Republican President, but also a Republican Senate and House of Representatives.

The above illustration shows how this can be done by three X marks--one opposite Hughes and Fairbanks to vote for the entire electoral ticket, one opposite Joseph Irwin France for United States Senator and one opposite William H. Lawrence for Member of Congress.

Bulletins On Hog Raising Offers Valuable Suggestions.

USED BY MARYLAND FARMERS

Timely Directions For Proper Curing Prepared By The Mary land Experiment Station.

College Park, Md., November 2 .-Valuable suggestions regarding the curing of pork, as published in the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin No. 185, are of particular interest to hog raisers at this time. In regard to the curing of into the flesh side of the meat, which, pork, the following recipes for the home curing were given by farmers in | that has previously been salted. The different sections of the State and include only those that have been used successfully for a number of

1. DRY SALT-This is one of the simplest methods of curing in vogue today. The meat is thoroughly rubbed with plain, dry, coarse salt and packed in large barrels. It is allowed to remain in the barrels from four to six weeks, depending on the weather. If the meat is taken from the barrels, the salt is thoroughly brushed off and the hams and shoulders sprinkled with dry borax to keep away skippers. The last process is to hang the meat in the smoke house and smoke well with hickory or other hardwood for several days.

2. COMBINATION MIXTURE -This process is similar to the dry salt except that several other ingredients are added to the salt. For every thousand pounds of meat, the mixture is proportioned as follows:

10 quarts fine salt. 12 ounces saltpeter (dissolved in a pint of water). 8 ounces black pepper.

3 pounds brown sugar.

The ingredients are thoroughly mixed together and result in a damp, moist product. This is well rubbed after treatment, is placed on a board meat is so placed on the board that no two pieces touch. After curing for three or four weeks, the meat is treated with prepared or liquid smoke. It should be painted twice with this preparation, allowing about two days between treatments, and then sprinkled with borax and put in the meat

3. SPICED HAM CURE-The following recipe was furnished by a Maryland farmer who has the reputation of producing especially fine hams. The proportions for 100 pounds of meat are as follows

with hickory wood.

2 pounds brown sugar.

1/4 pound saltpeter. 1/4 pound black pepper.

1/8 pound red pepper. 2 quarts fine salt.

1 tablespoonful cloves. Mix the ingredients together and then thoroughly rub all parts of the ham with the mixture. Place hams, skin side down, on boards, exercising care to see that they do not touch each other, and after all are in position, the remainder of the mixture is sprinkled on them. In about six weeks they are removed and smoked

Methods Of Cooking Vegetables

College Park, Md., November 2.-In instructions to her students in home arrangement, Miss K. A. Pritchett, of the Maryland Extension Service, gives valuable advice regarding the cooking of vegetables. She says, "Boiling and steaming are both very good methods of cooking vegetables, for no nutritive value is lost. In cooking in a large amount of water and then draining the water off, the mineral matter and flavors are lost, because they are dissolved in the water. For an economical dietary, this method should not be followed, because it is wasteful. Where the housewife can plan to get the necessary mineral matter from meats or other sources, it may be allowable. It may also be used for old potatoes, beets of rank flavor and strong onions. A better method for fresh vegetables is stewing or cook ing in a small amount of water, so that it is almost boiled away by the time the vegetables are cooked.

Points To Remember. 1. When cooking vegetables, the general rule is to allow one teaspoon, ful of salt to each quart of water. 2. Violent boiling water is no hotter than boiling water, and violent mashes and breaks the vegetables. 3. With some vegetables, like corn, it is more satisfactory to add the salt toward the end of the process, otherwise it hardens the fiber. 4. Drain the vegetables as soon as

5. Cook strongly flavored veges tables, i. e., onions and cabbage, in an uncovered dish. 6. Vegetables that should be cooked with a small amount of water are greens, tomatoes, and tender young peas. 7. The less tender vegetables, such as peas, carrots, and the outer pieces of celery and celery tips, may be cooked and put through a sieve for

Left-over vegetables may be reheated or used for soups.

-... C3-0-Why Maryland Is Doubtful.

Maryland's electoral vote was divided in 1904, seven votes going to Parker and one to Roosevelt. It was again divided in 1908, six votes going to Bryan and two to Taft. In 1912 the vote of the state was, for highest elector, Wilson 112,674, Taft 54,956, Roosevelt 57,789. The lowest 54,956, Rosevelt 57,789. The lowest Democratic elector received 110,580 votes. It will be seen, therefore, that Mr. Wilson failed to secure a majority of the votes of the state, varying from 72 to 2165, according to the variation in votes for electors. This information is in answer to several inquiries.
