BRIEF NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Gleaned from the County and State and our Exchanges.

4852 recruits for the regular army were added during the month of February, which is held to be very satisfactory. ----

Turkey in Asia is now being invaded on three sides by the British and Rus-sians, and the Bible lands bid fair to soon be out of Turkish rule. Jerusalem is likely to be soon captured, as the British are advancing rapidly through Palestine, while the Russians are advancing from the Persian side. ----

Baltimore did a big business, last Sunday, with "inauguration day" trade, all of the hotels being full to the limit. Many are said to have stopped over there, because Washington is "dry," on Sunday, and Baltimore isn't—that is, not "the beautiful or the beautiful o 'bone dry.'' Anyway, the crowd was

-----Pennsylvania again has a great Senator in Philander C. Knox, who was sworn in, on Monday, as the successor to Senator Oliver. Senator Knox was Secretary of State in the Taft Cabinet, having resigned as Senator to accept that position. He is therefore fully at home, and a valuable man to have in our governmental affairs at this particular time.

--- C--President Wilson took to his room on Wednesday, with a cold taken about a week ago and made worse during his inauguration Monday. After seeing a group of senators early Wednesday morning and then conforming with Scenetary Leaving then conferring with Secretary Lansing and Secretary McAdoo he decided to see no more callers and went to his bedroom. His condition is not serious.

-----Former President Taft has cancelled all other engagements and will make an extensive tour of the South in the interest of a preparedness movement. Mr. Taft is President of the League to Enforce Peace, after the present war has been concluded, and considers that preparation for National defense is now essential to the carrying out of the peace plan. He is in favor of a reasonable form of universal military service.

Persistent reports of failure on the part of teachers and pupils in the public schools in Baltimore to respect or to encourage respect for the Stars and Stripes, and that some of the pedagoguges are decidedly unpatriotic in action and teaching, is causing the Board of School Commissioners conssderable anxiety just now. It is entirely probable that at the meeting of the board next Wednesday steps will be taken to rectify this condition.

Lewis E. Flook, near Myersville, has a large German Bible, printed in 1765, in an excellent state of preservation. The So far, the Record has registered 70 hock and for pearly all of them has either the state of t his wife's great-grandfather and came or published the sale in full, or printed down from the Warrenfeltz family. The book had been in the possession of persons in Hagerstown, and Mr. Flook has book yery highly.

It was stated last week, at the Navy Department, that guns and mounts sufficient to arm any reasonable number of American merchant ships are now stored at the Navy Yards. Efficient gunners are lacking, however, unless they are taken from active ships, from which they can-not be spared. Recent figures show that 250 ships under American registry are engaged in Trans-Atlantic trade, but it estimated that not more than 190 would apply for guns and take the risk of crossing the German submarine zones.

The Emmitsburg Civic League has the honor of being the first organization to contribute to the fund for the erection of the Johnson memorial. Chairman Sterling Galt, of the executive committee, last Friday received $10 from the club and this amount will be forwarded at once to the association's treasurer, Jacob Rohrback, and will help form the nucleus of the fund to raise the marker to the distinguished countian. The pupils of the Emmitsburg schools also raised $3.60 by popular subscription and this money will also be sent to the treasurer by Mr.

E. McClure Rouzer, formerly of Linwood, this county, and son of Mrs. R. Lee Myers, of that place, has been elected treasurer of the Cosden Oil and Gas Company, of which he was formerly the secretary, which position he has also retained. Mr. Rouzer is also assistant secretary of Cosden & Co. He is a graduate of Western Maryland College and of the University of Maryland Law School, and has been engaged in the practice of his profession in Baltimore since his admission to the bar, which was about eight years ago. Mr. Rouzer has been actively identified with the several Cosden Companies since those concerns have been engaged in the oil and gas business in Oklahoma.

Damage Done by the Snow.

All over the Middle and Western sections of the state great damage was done by the heavy snow, of Sunday, added to that which had already fallen. In Allegany and Garrett counties the snow was three feet deep, at places, and railroad and all sorts of travel was greatly blockaded, and much damage done to telephone and electric wires.

In Frederick and Washington counties the snow reached a depth of from 20 to 24 inches, and the damage to buildings will amount to thousands of dollars. A large garage, in Frederick, was completely wrecked as well as several barns in the

In Carroll, the depth of the fall was variously placed up to 18 inches, and said to be the heaviest since 1894. A number of stables and sheds of various kinds collapsed in almost all sections of the county; and as the roads were nearly impassable, on Saturday, the added fall, of Sunday, made them all the worse. Rural carriers, hucksters, bakers, and all whose business caused them to use the road, could render only partial service for several days this week.

In Baltimore, it rained, and in the Eastern and Southern counties, the snow was very much lighter, and little inconvenience was experienced.

A snow slide on the roof of the United Brethren church, Littlestown, tore off the chimney of the church, and threw it in a heap on the roof of the back building of St. Aloysius parochial school. The weight of the snow did considerable damage in and about the town. Barns belonging to the following persons were damaged in various ways: Joshua Hann, of Mt. Joy Township; Nicholas Gebhart, and Mr. Champion, of Mt. Pleasant Township, and Edward Snyder, of Littlestown.

-0.Q.o. Some Snow, in Calumet, Mich.

We have received the following from Rev. Thurlow W. Null, of Calumet, Mich., which explains itself:

"I am sending you under another cover a photo of the rectory here. There is now 2 ft more snow than at the time of taking, 2 weeks ago. It's still snowing and as yet no thaw. There is not as much snow as last year, but the weather has been much more severe. Just keep this view around for a few days where some of those skeptics may see it, if you don't mind.''

The photo will be good to look at, next July and August. Just what was done with the "2 ft more snow", is difficult to imagine, unless they hauled it away with air ships. We have the photo on exhibition in our art gallery.

..... Our Big Sale Business.

Last week, the RECORD advertised in full 29 public sales of personal property, and this issue contains 35. Only a few years ago we were begging people to use newspaper advertising, instead of "sale bills," but now they must be begged to use the bills, as a help toward full advertising of a sale. The people are getting wise; and by the way, the RECORD is car-for nearly all of secured it and will take it to his home near Myersville. Naturally he prizes the who want the benefits of the general circulation of the RECORD.

-0.03-0-Taneytown Gets the Cannery.

The corn canning establishment, for Taneytown, is an assured fact, as A. W. Feeser, of Silver Run, has purchased the old brick plant site, just north of town, and will improve it to suit the business Mr. Feeser has also acquired about seven acres of land adjoining, and will therefore have ample room for the business, and a switch for loading and unloading cars.

The project is evidently here to stay, as Mr. Feeser is not a rain-bow chaser, but a solid business man, and needs only proper neighborhood encouragement to make the business grow to large proportions, not only for corn, but for peas, beans and tomatoes. Unless we are greatly mistaken, the right man has located here for a business that is going to be a big benefit to all concerned.

Mail Order Houses Prosper.

The directors of a large Chicago mail order house recently declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share compared with $1.75 the previous quarter. This puts the stock on an 8 per cent basis. The stockholders have approved the proposition to increase the common stock capitalization from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000. The directors have also been authorized to distribute as a stock dividend on April 2 the $15,000,000 new common stock on the basis of one new share for each four now the least.

Thousands and thousands of dollars that are thus going to this mail order house should be spent with home merchants. There is only one effective method to employ in fighting the mail order pests—that is, publicity. The advertising man on a country paper should point out to the local merchants the necessity of advertising their prices and impress on the readers of newspapers the fact that the same goods can be bought from local merchants just as cheaply as from the mail order houses, that the transactions will be far more satisfactory and that the money will remain in the home town and continue in circulation there. Once it goes to a mail order house it never returns. It's up to the publishers to wage a bitter and unrelenting warfare on the mail order houses. - The American Press. The above may teach the local dealers the power of advertising, but it must also teach mail order buyers that they are paying big profits on their purchases, notwithstanding the claims of artfully con-trived catalogues. There is no doubt about it, that this "sending off for things," in very many cases, simply enriches the mail order concern, injures home dealers, and does not benefit the purchaser in

SENATE REFUSES TO SUSTAIN PRESIDENT

A New Rule to Shut Off Debate Has

·•-(3-0) The Senate, on Sunday, after a twenty-six hour filibuster, failed to accede to the President's request to arm American ships. The twelve members responsible for the refusal were 7 Republicans and 5

Been Adopted.

Democrats, as follows:
Republicans—Clapp, Minnesota; Cummins and Kenyon, Iowa; Gronna, North Dakota; La Follette, Wisconsin; Norris, Nebraska, and Works, California. Democrats—Kirby, Arkansas; Lane, Oregon; O'Gorman, New York; Stone, Missouri; Vardman, Mississippi.
Following the action, the President issued a statement in which he placed the responsibility for the situation directly on Democrats, as follows:

responsibility for the situation directly on the few, and appealed to the Senate to so change its rules so that the government of the United States need not be at the mercy of a few malcontents, in an hour of great peril to the country. Seventy-six Senators, 46 Democrats and 30 Re-publicans, also singued a manifesto declaring their willingness to have voted tor the legislation, had they been given the opportunity.

Public sentiment expressed itself overwhelmingly against the opposing Senators, three of whom, Works of California, O'Gorman of New York, and Clapp of Minnesota, went out of office with the close of the session. Stone and LaFollette were the leaders of the movement.

Senator Sherman, on Thursday, represented a strong sentiment when he said that the President was making the Senate rules, and a few Senators, scape goats to cover up his own long-standing inaction. That it was hardly fair, now, to demand snap action on a Presidential request of a warlike character, in the face of the fact that the President himself has for almost his entire administration ridiculed preparedness, both in the army and the navy. An amendment to the Senate rules, giving two-thirds of its members the power to shut off dilatory debate and come to a vote, was passed late on Thursday, by a vote of 76 to 3.

.... The Times and The Weather.

In glancing over a paper published in Ohio, I noticed the following advertisement which I copied as curious in these strenuous days of "hard times: "Wanted, a good girl for general house-work;

In the same paper we find an item about a public sale, nothing unusual in that locality: "The sale at H. E. Sliffe's, on Monday, was largely attended. Everything sold well; corn sold for $1,46 per bushel; oats 70c per bushel; a dairy cow brought $140, while a high registered cow sold for $155."

In a Baltimora daily we say the same and the s no washing; $7 per week."

In a Baltimore daily we see a picture of a small dog of the toy variety, that was purchased by a New York society woman, for the modest sum of $2000. All around that woman are people crying drowned her infant baby because she had no food for herself or babe.

These are terrible incidents, yet we have reason to believe they are only too

It is said, "a fair exchange is no robbery." In Somerset, Pa., a merchant offers for 2 bushels of potatoes, the following: 25 lb sack of flour, a pound of coffee, 2 lbs of evaporated peaches, 10 cakes of soap, 100 lbs of oyster shell, a box of poultry powder, 25 lbs of calf meal, and a washboard.

Recently, the famous John D. Rockefeller was uneasy, because his property in Ohio, to the amount of $331,000,000, might be over-taxed. Would that all the rich who seem to have great power over the poor in many matters, could read Hebrews 13:5.

There was a census taken in the United States, in the year 1916, not officially, but in such a manner that it may be nearly correct, showing that our country, with its outlying possessions, now numbers 111,000,000, nearly three times the population of Europe.

Incidentally, we want to mention in connection with the population, that in a Pennsylvania town, there were several hundred men examined, and out of every hundred, only 60 measured up to the standard required to be a soldier to defend the Stars and Stripes.

Truly, this is a severe winter. One of my correspondents in Vermont reports snow 6 feet on the level; while one in Florida, the land of oranges, has experienced winter weather. He is originally from Ohio. We will give the letter in his own words:

"Feb. 2, we had rain in the morning, the wind changed from South to North-west. It got cold and blew hard for 24 hours, and on Saturday morning we had a frost that froze the fruit trees. Thousands of boxes of oranges are gone. Grape fruit is not much hurt. The damage to oranges will reach millions of dollars. the east coast, where the tomato fields are, it is claimed the loss is over $5,000,-The cold wave lasted 3 days. Sun has again warmed up, and the doors are open-Summer is here again. We hear of the blizzard in the north. It was 12 degrees below freezing here, and some people were afraid to venture There are some natives here who never saw snow. I suppose if it would snow as it does up north, others would think the end of time is at hand.'

We have heretofore mentioned "A Friendly Message'' issued by Prof. S. C. Hoover, of Silver Run, to the members of his own church. As this "message" is so simply and convincingly presented. and as it is one that is of close interest to the members of all churches, we are very glad that Mr. Hoover acceded to our request to make use of it. It will be found on the editorial page of this issue.

Proceedings Board of Education.

At the regular meeting of the Carroll County Board of Education, held in the office of the Board on Wednesday, March 7, 1917, all members were present except Commissioner Hopkins. The meeting was called to order at 10.15 a. m. After the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meetings the regular order of the previous meetings the regular order of business was taken up. The presentation and passing of the unpaid bills was first taken up; and it was moved, seconded and passed that all bills be paid. Consideration of the report of the County Commissioners, reading as follows, was taken up.

taken up: Gentlemen:

In response to your communication of the 21st inst., the Board of Carroll County, begs to say that it has decided not to levy more than forty cents on the one hundred dollars on the assessable basis for taxation whatever that basis may be, for schools or educational purposes, that being the amount limited by law in Sec. 26, of Chap. 506 of the Acts of 1916.

And this Board respectfully suggests that in making up your budget for this year your board will keep within said limit.

MARTIN D. HESS,

MARTIN D. HESS, Clerk to the Commissioners. It was moved, seconded and passed that the following resolution be adopted by the Board and published in the County by the Board and published in the County papers:

Resolved. That whereas, we, the Board of Education of Carroll County have been presented with facts showing the deplorable conditions of different schools of the County, and large delegations of citizens and tax-payers of Hampstead, New Windsor, Westminster, Myers' District, and Sykesville, having come before us asking that this Board give them proper, adequate and suitable places in which to teach their children; and
WHEREAS, The reports sent to us by the State Board of Education, Supervising Principal of Schools of Westminster, and the Health Department of the State of Maryland, as also many written complaints from all parts of Carroll County by the best citizens of the County, and WHEREAS, We believing from these reports that it is necessary to make these repairs and changes, and recognizing the fact that it will cost more money than usual, we have asked the County Commissioners to supply this extra money; and
WHEREAS, The County Commissioners have advised us that they will allow but 40c on the 1917 levy for use of the schools of Carroll County, and we, believing that this amount from said levy will necessarily have to be used to pay the debt of $12,000 of previous years and handed down to the present Board. Therefore, be it Resolved, That we, not haying proper funds with which to build and repair the schools as we think necessary and not having any way to get funds except through the County Commissioners, that we decline to build any new school buildings during 1917 or repair on any large scale any of the schools of this County.

Bids from the various repair men, who answered the advertisement the Resolved the advertisement

Bids from the various repair men, who answered the advertisement the Board recently inserted in the county papers, were read to the Board, and in this connection the question of purchasing a Ford run-about to be used exclusively by the Board for repairing purposes, was discussed, and it was moved, seconded and passed that President Wantz and Superintendent Unger be appointed a committee to purchase the Ford runabout and to employ a man, this man to begin work April 1st., 1917.

The report on the High Schools of Carroll county by Dr. Stephens, State Superintendent of Education, was read to the Board, and Superintendent Unger, also in this connection presented to the Board a plea for the inauguration of various changes in the Westminster High School, emphasizing especially the additional space that would be necessary by another year forced upon the Board by the demands of this report.

The matter of adjusting the insurance on account of the fire in the Westminster High School building, was left to the dis cretion of Superintendent Unger and Mr. Erb. Consideration of the insurance policies, and the additional amount of in surance that has recently been placed, was brought to the attention of the Board and approved by them.

The question of advertising for bids on coal needed for another year, was discussed and it was moved seconded and passed that the Board advertise for bids on coal this month.

The question of paying teachers for the time lost in the beginning of the term for infantile paralysis was next discussed, and it was moved, seconded and passed that the Board pay the teachers, and require no extra time of them.

The application of Miss Laura Sellman the pension be granted so far as the Board is concerned.

The matter of a High School salary schedule was next taken up and it was moved, seconded and passed that the schedule be adopted.

Applications for funds for library purposes from Robert H. Kuhns, School, and Lydia C. Selby, of Bird Hill School, were presented, and it was moved, seconded and passed that the Board contribute $10.00 to each school for purses designated.

Mr. Paul Reese came before the Board and presented plans for a two-room building which could be built for $5,000, and requested that if the Board had any definite building in view which was not already in shape, he would like very much to submit plans for it.

----Annual Statement P. R. R.

The seventieth annual statement of the Pennsylvania Railroad lines deals in big figures and big facts, from which we condense the following: It shows a net income of $52,276,504, which sum, after applying $2,138,959 to sinking and reserve fund, represented 10 per cent of the capitol stock. After paying the usual 6 per cent dividend, about $13,000,000 millions were appropriated for betterments, grade work, various loss charges, etc., there was a net balance of $5,522,707. The total property investment is given

Over $49,000,000 were spent during 1916 for equipment on lines east and west of Pittsburg, including 264 locomotives, 403 passenger cars, and 6252 freight cars.

There are 90,388 stockholders, whose average holdings are 110 shares each, all of which are held in the United States except less than 3 per cent.

The Company paid taxes in 1916 amounting to $9,022,399, an increase of nearly a million and a half in the year. The number of tons of freight carried increased 16 per cent, and the passengers carried 16 per cent, and the operating expense also increased 16 per cent. In figures, the increase in operating expense for the entire system was $334,461,326.

Standing with Dr. France when the oath was administered were three other newly elected Senators—Ashurst, of Ari-zona; Calder, of New York, and Culberson, of Texas. They responded jointly to the oath of office as it was repeated by Vice-President Marshall. When Senator France's name was called, Senator Smith arose from his seat, looked around the Senate chamber and walked over to France, who was seated some distance away between Senator Lee, whom he succeeded, and Senator Bankhead, Alabama. Senator Smith then escorted Maryland's new Senator to a position in front of the Vice-President's rostrum. ----

German Plots in U. S.

A whole nest of German plots were revealed, this week, beginning with the arrest of F. Klob, in Brooklyn, and the finding of a lot of bombs in his room in Hoboken, N. J., there being strong suspicion that he is a German reservist, and that he is part of a gang ready to engage Chandra Makrabesty, a Hindoo woman, was arrested in New York, believed to be the brains of a German conspiracy in the U. S. A large lot of secret documents were found in her possession, relating to a plot to cause rebellion in India against the British. A New York newspaper correspondent, who was sent to Cuba to report the rebellion there, claims to have discovered information that the uprising in Cuba was part of the German-Mexican plot against the United States, and that Ger-man reservist troops in this country were to aid Carranza against the U.S., under German officers. Also, that the scheme is not dead, by any means, but that hundreds of Germans from this country have recently entered Mexico, to be used, if the occasion arises, against us.

German agents in Colombia and Venezuela, South America, are said to be taking every opportunity to embitter Colombians and Venezuelans against this country, reviving scores connected with old settlements between those countries and the United States, likely for the purpose of endangering Panama and making the Canal a special point for our defense in case of war.

There are other rumors afloat, indicating that various pro-German agencies are working on various schemes to embarrass for a teacher's pension was discussed, and | this country, in case of war, but which it was moved, seconded and passed that are being carefully watched by the U. his first and final account.

The following advice is given, in a linotype journal, to correspondents who are inclined toward the use of elongated words and sentences:

"In promulgating your esoteric cogitations or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable or philosophic observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity.

Let your conversational communications possess a clarified conciseness and a compacted comprehensiveness and cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garrulity and affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and un-premeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity without bombast; sedulously avoid polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, verbosity, and vapidity. In other words, talk plainly, briefly, naturally. Say what you mean, mean what you say, and don't use big words.'

Wilson's Second Inauguration.

Washington, March 5.—Probably 50,-000 persons saw President Wilson repeat on the east front of the Capitol today the oath of fidelity he took yesterday in the building itself. He came out to the east from the Senate chamber, where he had participated in the inauguration of Thomas R. Marshall, the first Vice President to succeed himself since John C. Calhoun. He delivered his inaugural address, and then went to the reviewing stand, where he reviewed a military and civic parade that lasted four hours, in which 19,000 men were in line.

This ended the official ceremonies.

There was no inaugural ball. The parade was only about half as long as that of four years ago, the smallest in fact, in many years. There was no ostentation, no fuss and feathers. The whole desire of everything in authority was to minimize, not to accentuate, the spectacular and the picturesque. It was necessary that the function be gone through with but it was not necessary to emphasize it—that was the feeling which supplied the kevnote.

It was not a festive occasion, it was not a holiday, it was not a merry making, and to pretend that it was any of these things would have made the occasion grotesque; that was the governing sentiment of everybody from the President down through all the grades of officials to the secret service and the police. In other and more fortunate times inaugural day has been an innocent spree by the American people—a day of light heart and care-free heads, a sort of political new year's eve, in which the old was rung out and served in Washington within the memory of living man were taken today to safe-guard the life of the President during his reinauguration. All the usual police pre-ventive measures were taken, but these, sufficient in normal times, were not considered sufficient today and unusual steps were taken by those officials upon whom devolved the responsibility of endeavoring to get the President safely from the White House to the Capitol and back.

Governor Harrington headed the Maryland division in the parade, which consisted of the First and Fourth Regiments in addition to Troop A. In addition to the military Maryland was represented in the inaugural parade by a delegation of about 1,000 foreign-born citizens, Poles, Bohemians and others, who seized the opportunity to testify their loyalty to the country of their adoption.

Precautions such as have not been observed in Weshington within the moment.

Besides the stationing of two regiments of New York national guardsmen, the Twelfth and Sixty-ninth Regiments, fresh from service on the Mexican border, along both sides of the mile stretch of asphalt extending from the White House to the Capitol, 2,500 soldiers, in addition to hundreds of policemen, special policemen, detectives and Boy Scouts, the unprecedented precaution was taken to station pickets and sharpshooters on top of the Treasury and other government buildings to watch the crowds. These sharpshooters were prepared to fire on any man making a hostile move toward the President's carriage. Still another precaution was the stationing of policeman on horseback in the crowd facing the stand where the President took the oath and delivered his inaugural address at the east front of the

0-53-0 The Organization of Congress.

As the five independents in the House show a disposition to "boss" the organization of the House, the Democrats and Republicans are likely to get together and organize it on a non-partisan basis, and leave the little monopoly out in the cold. The proposition is to re-elect Speaker Clarke, and to divide the Committees and other perquisites equally between the two

Moreover, the leaders of both parties are in a patriotic frame of mind, and do not want to get into any partisan tangle that may embarrass the President. The Republicans, also, are not anxious to sume full responsibilty connected with the big war debt that will result from the present crisis, and see the advantage of a divided rulership in the lower branch of Congress. Besides, they think party har-mony will be best secured if there are no antagonisms for the speakership.

An extra session of Congress not later than June, now is generally conceded among officials to be assured. Although President Wilson has not given any definite indication that he has finally abandoned his hope that an extra session might be avoided, there is an almost unanimous sentiment among Senators, Representatives and officials of the executive departments that one must be called. They declare that even if the international situation does not demand it, Congress must come back to complete its legislative program and fill up gaps in the Government's financial scheme caused by failure of some of the more important appropriation measures.

Postoffices and the Merit System.

It is announced in Washington that after April 1, by Executive order, post-masters of the first, second and third classes will come under the merit system. That postmasters now in office will serve out their four year term for which they were appointed, but after that the Presi-dent will fill each vacancy by the appoinsment of the man making the highest grade in examinations which will be

Many Democratic members of Congress are opposed to the scheme, while Post-master-General Burleson favors it. They declare that the result will be the appointment of many Republicans; and also that the party worker, who wants reward for this services, may be beaten by those who have paid more attention educational matters than to politics. It is intimated, too, that the President is willing to temporize with Republicans, at this point, in order to give certain administration matters clearer sailing in the next Congress, the political complexion of which is now so uncertain.

After Results of the War.

It seems almost impossible for the European war-or the world-wide war-to continue over another winter. The depletion of financies, and men; the almost universal suffering of those not directly engaged, and the general opposition of the masses to the continuance of the destruction of property and slaughter of lives, will surely cause an end to hostilities during this year. At any rate, it seems timely to consider just what vast changes for the better are to result from them to do so. the calamity; for surely, good in some large measure must come out of it all. Apparently, there are good grounds developing for three distinct results-great results:

First, a death-blow to the liquor traffic in Europe. The remarkable results of of the people there have been many millions in excess of the loss of revenue to the government, and even during war. In all of the European countries, some form of prohibition has been established, and the results have been tremendously against the sale and use of liquors; and these will become still more apparent when the people have the time to figure them out and consider them. Europe is likely to be sober, in more ways than one, after the war. Thousands of people are starving, and suffering, even now, for the want of the millions of bushels of grain that each year go into the manufacture of drink, and they are finding out the truth as never before. Every barrel of beer and whiskey made, is at the higher cost of living of every consumer of food. Not only through reducing purchasing ability in the waste of money, but in the higher cost of food through diverting natural food into liquors. The war is a great school bringing out heretofore unrealized truths. The liquor business is doomed.

Second, there is a very strong belief that the end of monarchism is sure. It may be that the last Emperors and Czars are serving their time. At any rate, some form of Democracy, in fact, must come out of the war. The peace of the world can no longer rest on the whims, or plots, or ambitions, of individuals. It is inconceivable that the masses-who are always for peace, everywhere-will continue to let the power of declaring war to rest with Emperors, and the people continue to be underlings and dumb followers. It is perhaps too much to expect a United States of Europe, but in some way the same general condition-a condition of popular sovereignty-appears to be an inevitable

And third, a great religious revival. The recognition of a forgotten God, such as the world has never seen. A following of the Prince of peace, from far and near, which the weakened forces of evil will not be able to stand against.

These results, or something approaching them-or perhaps even greater ones -must surely come. God must be in this terrible conflict, somewhere, somehow, working out his will in ways that we do | not understand. Any belief short of this would leave the world in chaos, without a faith in God, without anything worth building a hope of Heaven and immor-

Advice to Farmers.

It is rather amusing—all this advice that is being handed out to farmers, these days, by newspapers and the multitude in general that wants cheaper living. The advice is given that more acres be planted, as though that was the simplest sort of proposition, and that the raising of big or little crops is largely a matter resting entirely with the whims of farmers.

Then, along comes the other fellow, who says-Don't put out more acres, simply make the regular amount produce bigger crops. Another intimation that the farmer is a fellow full of queer notions, and can raise much or little per acre, just as he feels like. One would think that some not know it all, is a sure thing, but that he is learning pretty fast how to increase both his products and profits is another sure thing, and he does not need advice nearly so much as he needs more help and increased facilities. Besides, there is really no law requiring farmers to unduly break himself down, just in order to feed the people.

What this country most needs is more farms. Smaller farms, and more actual farm owners and workers. There are too many big farms, operated by tenants—too many held for investments, to make a good living for two or more dependents. A lot of the people who are telling farmers what to do, had better try the job themselves-get out and make things grow, if they can.

It seems not to have dawned on a lot of people that farmers tickle the soil for the purpose of making money, and not for healthful exercise, nor from a philanthropic desire to feed a hungry world. That people must eat, and must pay for what they eat, are capitalized facts, and farmers have known all about them for quite a long time; so, telling a farmer to raise more produce, is like telling a boy to pick up more candy, who is already picking it up as fast as he can-and not throwing it away after he has it.

Good Roads A Necessity.

The advantage of good roads has been narkedly shown to Taneytown, this winter, as well as to everybody in this section of the county. The road to Westminster has been in fine open shape, all winter, without much interruption to bus or other travel, no matter what the weather conditions were. Farmers along this road were always ready to reach market for their products-ready to take advantage of prices, whenever it suited

In every other direction there was the complaint of "bad roads," not only for travel and hauling, but for doctors, the mail men, butchers and bakers. Good roads cost a lot of money, but they are worth it. In fact, while we complain that they "cost too much," we really liquor restriction in Russia, alone, seem don't mean it to the extent that once to justify this couclusion. The savings they are here, we would be willing to have them taken away again.

State roads-at least main roads-must come, all over this section of the state. It is not fair to taxpayers as a whole for certain sections to be favored to the exclusion of others. There should be neither 'politics' nor "pull," in the matter of improved roads, but our county should be covered fairly with them, either by state or county aid, or both.

This end of the county will be specially favored, this year, in the completion of the state road to Emmitsburg, and the county macadam road to Keymar. The latter should be extended to Littlestown, and almost surely will be, in a few years; and the road to Uniontown and on to Westminster should follow. In fact, there are dozens of main roads in the county that ought to be made hard and

-0-13-0-Muzzle the Senate.

The whole country will back up 'President Wilson in demanding a change in the Senate rules, by which a majority can shut off debate and come to a vote. Perhaps the European war, for which all are anxiously looking for the good that may come out of it, may be the means of giving to this country the power of legislation free from what is commonly known as "filibustering." and this in itself would be a blessing, worth a lot of cost.

And if, in connection with the "filibuster," the "pork barrel" system of iniquitous legislation could be killed, this country would have two great things to be thankful for, as a result of the war. The fact that more than 500 members of Congress, out of a total of 531, cannot legislate in this land of ours, is surely a clear illustration of an evil calling for prompt remedy, no matter it it be a long known and long existing evil, and one involving our moss-grown "Senatorial

Chiefs of Our Army and Navy.

Upon Major-General Hugh L. Scott, Chief of the General Staff of the United States Army, and upon Admiral William S. Benson, President of the General Board of the United States Navy, will fall the main responsibilities of organizing the military and naval forces of the nation for a successful conduct of operations in the event of war. Both officers are men of energy, sound judgment, and ripe experience, and both enjoy the confidence of the President. They are also surrounded by a corps of the most capable officers, and are all well able to properly handle the military situation at one of the most critical times in the nation's history .-From "Organizers of our Army and Navy," in the American Review of Reviews for March, 1917.

Sloan's Liniment For Rheumatism The torture of rheumatism, the pains and aches that make life unbearable are relieved by Sloan's Liniment, a clean clear liquid that is easy to apply and more effective than mussy plasters or ointments, because it penetrates quickly without rubsuch an easy job themselves, instead of just telling George to do it.

Very few seem to realize that the farmer has been "humping" himself, for years, to do his very best. That he does bing. For the many pains and aches folGiving to the Church.

"I am quite well aware that the subject which I am about to discuss with you is one which many church members would rather not be troubled with. I wonder why this is so? I wonder whether it may be due to the fact that they do not have a worthy idea as to what their giving to the support of the church and the work of extending the Kingdom of Christ realiy is? If you will bear with me I would like to tell you what I think we should have in mind when we make our offerings to the Lord.

In the first place, I am not surprised that people do not like to be told that they owe a debt. I do not wonder that church members feel uncomfortable in being reminded that because of what the church has done for them, and because of what the church means to them, they owe to it a debt, and that in giving their money they are only paying a debt which they ought to feel honor bound to pay. We have many things which we cannot pay for with money. No one, for exexample, would think of paying with money for all that father and mother has given him, or meant to him. What have we received from the church of Christ? We might more easily answer the ques tion, What is there which we hold as a priceless possession which we did not receive from and through the church? All that is truest and best in life, all that God and His Son Jesus Christ is and means us, all our hopes and aspirations for the future, all this and much more the church has preserved through the past ages and has given to us. This we can-not pay for with money; they are God's great gifts to us. Our giving then is not rimarily the payment of a debt we owe. But while we may be relieved from the thought that our giving is to be considered as the payment of a debt for what we have received from the church in the past, it has sometimes been presented that church members should feel that they are under obligations to perpetuate the church and advance the Kingdom. The present and future needs of the church are emphasized. That there is need of money, both for local church expenses and for spreading the gospel, no one doubts nor disputes. But to regard our giving as though we were discharging an obligation or duty resting upon us, 1 do not consider the truest or highest estimate told that God loves a cheerful giver.

Now, I am going to tell you what I think is a higher motive for giving than either of these. I believe that we should all give more cheerfully and worthily if we thought of our giving as an act of worship. We worship God when we show our regard for Him. There are many ways in which we can do this, but surely not the least way in which we can declare our regard and love for God is to give to Him that which we value. With such a thought in mind, our gift becomes the means of expressing our devotion to God and our desire to honor Him. But perhaps some one will ask, How am I to consider giving to the church as giving to God? Well, let us think about this a little. We believe that Jesus came into continue his works, which, as we have seen, were the Father's works. He had already declared "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also." Jesus' followers and those that believed on him became the church that bears his name. So then the works which the church is charged to do are the Father's works and giving to the support of the works of God, is, in reality giving to God. Our gifts to the work of the church may thus be considered genuine acts of worship, because in them we may express our regard for God and our desire to honor and glorify Him. I believe that when this conception of giving shall be held, it will not only result in larger giving, but in what will be worth much more, and that is in more cheerful giving.

we can place upon it. Giving because it is felt to be an obligation or duty, is not likely to be cheerfully done, and we are

But, I can almost imagine I hear some one say, "This is not a very comforting thought to me; I can not begin to show my regard for God by my gift, because I have so little to give." Let me haste to correct any such mistake. Let me point such an one to the words of St. Paul. In speaking of making offerings to the Lord's work, he says, "For if the readiness is there, it is acceptable according as a man hath, and not according as he hath not. No gift, however small, fails to glorify God if that gift truly represents our desire to worship Him in the giving of it. Think of that beautiful scene when Jesus saw the poor widow casting her mite into the temple treasury. It was only a small gift but Jesus said it was great in God's sight because she did not have much to give and that mite represented her living. She did what she could, and when we have done that, we may rest well assured that our gift is pleasing to Him. I am strongly of the opinion that this is the only standard we ought to have when we try to answer the question as to how much we ought to give to the church. We should think first of all of our gift as an act of worship, an act declaring our regard for God, and an act which will show that we are truly concerned in doing the work that Jesus gave to his fol-lowers to do. Next we should consider what we have—how much God has prospered us, and then, on the basis of our possessions, determine how much of what we have will truly express our regard for God. Five cents a week will be, in some cases, a more nearly perfect act of worship than five dollars in others, because it comes out of very small possessions, while the other comes out of very large possessions and does not represent the same degree of devotion. I am very cer-tain that if we keep this thought before us we will not only have a more truly christian view of giving, but we will be saved from many errors with reference to the whole subject. May I here point out some thoughts which I have heard expressed and which I believe are most erious mistakes.

Recently, I heard a church member might be able to give one hundred dollars a year towards the support of the church, but I will not do it because able to give as I am, and they are doing so little." It is easily seen that this influence and som position does not grow out of thinking of nence.—Exchange.

giving as an act of worship. The small giving of others may grow out of a narrow and selfish spirit which is not pleasing to God, and we are no more pleasing to Him than they if we permit their selfish spirits to determine our acts. When we think of our giving as the expression of our own regard for God we will not be concerned with what others give. Each one of us must render an account of our own stewardship.

I also heard a church member say, "I think I will transfer my membership to another church. I understand it does not cost so much to belong there as it shall contribute. I am glad that our church does not attempt to do this. Our constitution simply asks that each member shall "contribute liberally and in proportion to his means." No church dare ask less than that, and any church that does ask less is taking away from its members the thought of giving as an act of worship. I do not think it is a good sign when people want to belong to a certain church because it is cheap, for in certain church because it is cheap, all probability it has a cheap gospel, a cheap Christ and a cheap heaven. No one can buy more of the grace of God in one church than in another for the same amount of money, for it is not for sale in

Then I have heard of people who decide to give to the church on the basis of what they can easily spare; what they will not miss. It is very clear that such people have no thought of worshipping God with their offering. I do not believe we are honoring God if we give to Him and His work only what we feel we are not going to need to satisfy our earthly Jesus always insisted that his true disciples would make sacrifices and a sacrifice is something which is felt. To give only what we will not miss is no sac-rifice. We are not showing a very high regard for God if we give to Him what we can easily get along without.

I believe too, there may be some church members who feel that the church does not mean a great deal to them; they are somewhat indifferent and do not take a deep interest in the church. Now, I can conceive that in some cases this may be due to the church itself, but I am inclined to think it is more frequently due to the fact that such people put so little into the church. You would not expect a man who invests a dollar in a gold mine to take as much interest in that mine and be as much concerned about it as if he invested one thousand dollars. It is quite true that where our treasure is, there our heart will be too, and I firmly believe that our church would mean more to us and God would mean more to us if we made the largest possible investments of time and money for the work of the Kingdom.

Now, these are just a few observations on a subject about which we perhaps do not think as often as we should and which is, however, of very great importance. I hope that I may have helped you, each one, to look at the matter in the highest and best light. I am going to leave the whole subject with you for prayerful con-sideration without calling special attention to the needs of our local church, or the needs of the fields into which we are the needs of the fields into which we are trying to bring the gospel of Jesus. If you, along with the other members of our church, will accept this higher principle of giving and avoid the errors I have pointed out, I am sure that all of our part of God's work will be coved for and I little. We believe that Jesus came into the world to do the works of the Father. Did He not say: "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me, and to accomplish His work," "I must work the works of Him that sent me," "If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not," and "the Father abiding in me doeth His works?" Now, before Jesus ascended into heaven he charged his followers to continue his works, which, as we have make it your own, whatever others may do. If others fail to win the favor of God son why you should fail too.

Lincoln Highway Aeronautics.

Cross-country flying over the Lincoln Aerial Highway is expected to be the first result obtained in the movement of developing aeronautics in this country. Air craft abroad have been brought to a high state of efficiency in the past two years and tremendous possibilities for them are promised by those in authority. Fast passenger, freight and mail service are entirely practical and the government is deeply interested in the project from a military standpoint.

Commenting on the situation Lieutenant Col. George O. Squirer, U.S. A., head of the aviation section of the army, says: "It occurs to me that since we have the Lincoln Highway laid out for automobiles, why couldn't we go along the same route and have reserve landings with gasoline and mechanics and 'first aid' in each of these reservations, so that one can start across the continent and have a Lincoln Airway over the Lincoln Highway?"

One of the largest and most efficient organizations working on a national scale, upon a project of patriotic and economic interest to the whole country, does business the year around without a cent of recompense to its members for their services. Those comprising the organization are the State, County and Local Consuls of the Lincoln Highway Association.

In the 98 counties of the 11 states traversed by the Lincoln Highway in its 3,300-mile route between New York and San Francisco there are now 211 regularly appointed Consuls of the National Organization located at various points along the way. The major number of them have held the position of Lincoln Highway Consul since the proclamation and establishment of the transcontinental route in Road improvement as exemplified by the Lincoln Highway makes a wide appeal as the private vocations of the Lincoln Highway Consuls indicate. Among them are found bankers, lawyers, farmers, merchants, in fact, representative members of every walk of American life. Each of them gives freely of his time to the Lincoln Highway as an object of common interest. Practically all of the Lincoln we have many members who are just as Highway Consuls are men of state-wide influence and some of national promi-

The Prodigal's Return

But He Was A Substitute

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

When Sam Bartlet at sixteen went away from home without bidding his parents or his little sister Ethel goodby, not communicating with them afterward, he wrecked the comfort of the family. His mother died within a few years, and her death left the old man desolate indeed. His eyesight and his hearing were both impaired. His daughter Ethel, poor girl, had a hard time with him. To read to him was difficult, since she was obliged to shout. and he could not see to read himself.

f Ethel loved her father, but it was natural that she should wish for something more inspiring than taking care of a broken down old man. She was but eleven years old when her brother went away and fourteen when her mother died. When at times she would have a temporary respite from the care of her father, like many another girl, she would dream of the prince who would come to marry her and give her the comforts of a home that would be her own-and his.

One morning there was a knock at the door. Ethel was upstairs and did not hear the summons. It sounded again and this time loud enough for Mr. Bartlet to hear. He went to the door and opened it. There stood a young man.

"I am looking for the home of Mr. Bartlet," said the stranger. "Have I struck the right house?"

"Speak louder," replied Bartlet, putting his hand to his ear. "I'm hard of

"I am trying to find a Mr. Bartlet, and I think you are he. I judge by the resemblance your son"-

"My son?" "Yes, your son Sam."

"Sam?" "Yes."

"Oh, Sam, my boy, how could you have left us as you did with never a word all these long years? You killed your poor mother, and I have one foot in the grave. How could you? How could you?"

The father put his arms around the stranger's neck and wept.

The visitor was standing in this absurd position, not knowing whether to mingle his tears with those of the weeping father or to laugh, when he saw an attractive looking girl descending the staircase.

'But I'll not reproach you, Sam," continued Mr. Bartlet. "I dare say I was severe with you, and a spirited boy won't stand too much correction. I'm glad you've come back and to stay -haven't you? Oh, stay with us! Ethel and I are so lonely, and we need your help. Your old father needs a strong young arm and brain to sup-

By these words and the half amused, half sympathetic look on the face of the stranger Ethel understood that her father had made a mistake. Dreading to have him suddenly disabused, fearing a reaction consequent upon disappointment, she gave the young man a meaning look and put a finger on her lips as a signal for silence. Her father's back was to her, so he did not see her, and she, wishing to release the visitor from his embarrassing position. laid her hand softly on the old man's shoulder. He turned and saw her.

"Oh, Ethel," he exclaimed joyfully, "who do you suppose this is? Your long lost brother Sam has returned."

He disengaged himself from his supposed son that Ethel might embrace the prodigal. But Ethel stood mute. 'Forgive him, Ethel, as I have forgiven him. Forget the past and what he might have been to us during the years that are gone. It was I who drove him away by my harshness. Forgive him for my sake." "I forgive him, father," said Ethel.

But there was no warmth in the words, nor did Ethel greet her brother with a sisterly kiss. An expression of infinite pain crossed the father's face. The stranger saw it and stepped in the breach.

"Forgive me, Ethel," he said. "I have done very wrong.' He advanced to her with ontstretch ed arms. Ethel drew back. "Ethel!" cried her father in an agony. The stranger folded her in his arms and kissed her. Had the old man better eyesight he would have known by the blushes that the kiss was not a brotherly and sisterly one. And had not the two whose sight was perfect strongly approved of each other's personal appearance, had not each seen in the other's expression that approval, besides something akin to love's first spark, probably the girl might not have blushed. The old man put one arm around his supposed son and the other around his daughter, forcing them to prolong their embrace. "Thank heaven, my dear children for this reunion!"

"Father." said Ethel, "let us hear what Sam has to say in explanation. or, rather, I had better hear it first and repeat it to you. You know you have grown very deaf since he went away, and he would have trouble mak. ing you hear."

"No." protested the old man. "I'm not so deaf that I can't hear people who speak plainly. Sam won't have to raise his voice at all if he doesn't mum ble his words.'

But the supposed Sam objected. He said that it was a long story he had to tell and he was tired. He would tell it to Ethel and she could repeat as much of it as she liked to their father. The old man, opposed by both his children, was obliged to give in and left them together. As soon as he had gone Ethel closed the door and looked inquiringly at the stranger.

"I was trying to begin," he said, "the delivery of a message from your late brother. He was my partner in business in a western city, and I regret to say that I come to announce his death."

Ethel sighed. It was rather that a hoped for support would not materialize than grief, for she scarcely remembered her brother. But the stranger, who gave his name as George Mason, assured her that her brother's interest in the business would be sufficient to make her father and herself quite comfortable. The story of Sam Bartlet's career was, as Mason had said, a long one, and after giving it to her the question came up as to what course to pursue in the matter of breaking the news of Sam's death to the father.

Ethel could not make up her mind to tell the old man that his son, instead of having returned to him, was dead. At any rate, she felt that it must be put off. But she invited Mr. Mason to remain in the house-indeed, her father would misunderstand her not doing so -until he returned to the west. The old man was informed that Sam was in business in the west and must return there, but possibly he might take his father and sister with him. George Mason before leaving his business had taken in one of his clerks as a partner, and there was no hurry for his return. He remained with the Bartlets as a prodigal son, Ethel taking care to inform her friends and acquaintances as to the true state of the case.

Several weeks passed, and Mason made no move to return to business. Ethel was beginning to fear that some stupid person might let the cat out of the bag to her father. Besides this playing brother and sister by two persons who were not related was not likely to go on without criticism. To guard against any such issue George Mason told Ethel that they had better announce that they were engaged. which was his way of proposing. Ethe didn't quite like that way of doing it but she acquiesced.

Every day it became more risky to disabuse the old man and confess the deception. He was failing rapidly, and it was feared that the shock of knowing that his son had not returned to him, but was dead, would kill him. Mason and Ethel, who were very much in love with each other, wished to be married, and it was necessary that Mason should return to his business. It would not do to leave the old man behind, and if they took him with them, blind as he was, they could not live together as man and wife without his knowledge of their relationship The puzzle seemed insoluble.

However, though Mr. Bartlet would not solve it by dying, he grew so blind that the young couple decided to be married and take him west with them without letting him know the secret. The ceremony was performed private ly, where he would know nothing about it, and the three departed the ame day for their new home Months passed, and, although Mr. Bartlet's ears and eyes got no better. his health was no worse. The difficulty of keeping the situation from him was trifling compared with the absurdity of his talking about the relationship that he supposed to exist between his two children. "When Sam first came home," he said to a friend, "I feared Ethel would not forgive him for all the trouble he had given us, but now she acts toward him just like a bride and he like a young husband. They kiss when he goes down to business in the morning and when he comes home in the evening. I never saw such a loving brother and sister.' While the old man was content to live, as he supposed, with his children. he often wished that one or the other would marry, that he might have a little grandson to love him and cheer him in his old age. But to gain this he must give up a part of what he al ready enjoyed. An outsider must be introduced into the house and this he knew would endanger the mily peace and comfort. The thought of bringing in another woman appalled him, for he had a theory that no woman could come into a house without sooner or later taking over its management. But he saw no difficulty in introducing another man. So he occasionally hinted to his daughter that she should marry. "I have no wish to marry, father," she would say. "I am perfectly con tented as I am. Why do you wish me to marry?"

"Well, you see, I'm lonely during the long days when Sam is at business, and I'd like to have a child for company."

Finally about a year after the mar riage the old man gave out. One day he took to his bed, which he nevel again left. His supposed son's ab sence all day at his business was a great trial to the invalid. From the time Mason went away in the morn ing till his return in the evening the patient would wait and watch for him. At last when the candle of life was flickering low the dying man heard a

But she could not make it. She knew that her father had but a few minutes to live. Hurrying out of the room, she returned carrying her boy. Taking him to his grandfather, she held him so that the old man could kiss him. He kissed the child and died.

THE AT DELICE SYSTEM

FOUR DISHES, ALL OF UNQUES-TIONED MERIT.

Require Care in Their Preparation and Baking, but Are Well Worth the Time and Trouble Devoted to Them.

There are two tests to put to break fast breads. One is put by the cook and that has to do with the time and trouble required in their preparation. The other has to do with flavor and texture, and that comes from those who eat them.

Always let breakfast breads cool slightly on a cloth or wire rack before sending to the table. They will then be more digestible and more easily handled than if sent to the table literally piping hot. Heat all muffin tins before putting in the muffin mixture. The muffins rise more thoroughly and more quickly when put into hot tins. Remember, too, that most muffins need a quick oven. Popovers need a quick oven, but they also need long and thorough cooking, and some popover cooks let them stay in the oven 40 minutes.

Popovers.—Popovers, robbers' caves or wheat puffs, as they are variously called, are not difficult to make. The ingredients needed are two unbeaten eggs, two cupfuls of milk and two cupfuls of flour, with a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat all thoroughly together until not a lump remains and then pour the mixture into very hot muffin pans, well greased, filling them about half full. Cook thoroughly, until one broken open is hollow inside and shows a firm wall or crust.

Emergency Biscuit.-Make a good baking powder biscuit dough and drop it, by spoonfuls, into well-greased muffin pans. These biscuits are crusty little things, especially delicious if you have the continental habit of serving honey or jam at breakfast. A good rule for the dough is this: Mix six even teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one of salt with three cupfuls of flour. Sift all together three times and then chop in, with a silver knife, six tablespoonfuls of butter, lard or some other shortening agent. Mix together quickly with a knife and add a cupful of cold water. Mix lightly and then put in the greased pans from a spoon. Rice Muffins.—Rice muffins are made of one cupful of boiled rice, two eggs, two cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of melted butter, three cupfuls of milk and salt to taste. Mix the eggs, butter and milk, sift flour and salt and add it and the rice to the wet ingredients. Bake the muffins quickly.

Rye Gems.—Rye is not in as general use as corn and wheat and graham flour. Rye gems and rye bread are nourishing and economical and rye gems made according to the following rule are a good addition to any breakfast: Beat three eggs, three cupfuls of milk, a tablespoonful of sugar and the same amount of butter, with three cupfuls of rye flour. The secret of making these muffins lies in beating them hard and baking them quickly.

Chiffonade Salad.

Take the white hearts of three heads of chicory, the white hearts of two heads of romaine and the center of a head of lettuce; wash and cut all fine with the kitchen scissors. Add a cupful of finely chopped celery, two finely chopped red peppers and a cupful of diced pineapple. Fold in a cupful of mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaves garnished with olive curls. Serve hot toasted crackers with melted cheese on top with the salad.

Cocoa Cream Pie.

One-half cupful cocoa, one and onehalf cupfuls sugar, one-quarter cupful corn starch, two cupfuls milk, three eggs, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls vanilla. Mix cocoa, corn starch, yolks of eggs, salt and milk. Cook until thick. Stir constantly, add flavoring and pour into a baked pie crust. Cover with a meringue made by beating the whites of eggs until stiff and adding two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar. Brown in oven.

Crown Salad.

Select perfect apples, one for each person to be served. Pare, core and cut into perfect eighths. Cut off each end so they'll stand and arrange crown fashion on individual plate. Fill center with some preferred salad mixtures, apples, celery and nuts, pears and English walnuts, or celery, nuts and green peppers. Serve with mayonnaise, to which a little whipped cream has been added.

Puree of Carrots.

Boil enough carrots to make a pint after being run through colander. Put one and one-half pints of milk and carrots on stove, when boiling add three small tablespoonfuls of flour wet in little cold milk. Stir constantly as it boils, and, last, a little pepper, butter and saltspoonful of salt.

Cornmeal Griddle Cakes. Mix one cupful cornmeal, one-half cupful flour, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls molasses, one rounded teaspoonful baking powder and enough milk and water (mixed) to make a thin batter. Fry on a hot griddle and serve with maple sirup.

Darning Wool Underwear.

Never darn fine woolen underwear with wool. It will shrink and pull out a hole larger than the original. A loosely twisted knitting silk is excellent for the purpose. When washed the darn will have almost the same thickness as the knitted goods.

BENEFITS FARMERS

GUARANTEES THE VALIDITY OF THE TITLE AFTER ITS REG-ISTRATION.

NAMED AFTER ORIGINATOR

Was First Introduced In This Country In 1897 and Has Been Adopted By Twelve States.

College Park, March 1.-The farmers of the State are having their attention directed by Professor F. B. Bomberger of the Division of Rural Economics of the Maryland State College, to the fact that there is much to be desired in our present system of land title registration and transfer. Professor Bomberger in a recent address said that our present system of transfer of title to land involves a constantly recurring expense for the examination of title at each transfer; that there is an unnecessary delay at each transfer by reason of the necessity for examination of title in each case, and that even the expenditure of time and money under our present system cannot produce a guaranteed

The Torrens' System of Land Title Registration eliminates each one of these faults found to be present in our system. This system originated in Australia and is named after its inventor, Sir Robert R. Torrens, an Englishman, engaged in the Customs Service in Australia. The system having been adopted in South Australia in 1858 it was carried to England in 1862; to Canada in 1870-'85, and to the United States (in Illinois and Massachusetts), in 1897-1898. Twelve other States of the United States have adopted the system in recent years.

There are six important steps in the operation of the Torrens' System. First, the title is examined by a judicial official specially appointed to do this work. This gives to the title examinations what they do not now have—the stamp of official, judicial

Second, the title having been examined and found good, it is registrated in the books of the Registrar of Land Titles. This official registration makes the validity of the title a matter of public record. Thereafter, it is not necessary to examine the title behind this official registration. In case of contest, an opportunity is offered for judicial determination of the legal rights of all claimants; but once the questions are settled the title is recorded and is as binding from that date as is any other decree of Court. Third, a copy of the certificate of registration is made out by a public official, which copy is given to the owner. If there are more owners than one, each receives a copy of the certificate as evidence of his title.

Fourth, whenever the property changes hands thereafter, a new cerof title is made out in the ificate name of the new owner and recorded A copy of this certificate is given to the new owner as in the first instance.

Fifth, any incumbrance against the estate existing at the time of the registration of the title is entered on the certificate and on the owner's copy. In like manner the releasing of any incumbrance or the creation of a new one is noted on the certificate and on the Owner's Copy. Thus at any time, a glance will show the status of the owner's title and the expense and delay incident to our present system are eliminated. Or dinarily the whole matter of examination of title and transfer of title can be affected in a single day. Sixth, it is usually required that a small fee (usually one-tenth of one per cent. of the value of the land to be registered) be charged upon the original registration, but not afterward. This is to accumulate an indemnity fund out of which to make good any losses which may occur to individuals as a result of faulty administration of the system. Such as surance funds are to be regarded purely as insurance protection.

The operation of the system requires little machinery. Clerks of Court or Recorders of Deeds may be made Registrars of Titles also. A Court consisting of two or more judges, may be provided to have jurisdiction over questions arising out of the Registration of titles just as our Orphans Courts have charge of matters testamentary; or such questions can be carried to the regularly established Circuit Courts of the Counties Examiners and Registrars can be paid by salaries or by fees based on the services which they perform.

The system may be voluntary, compulsory or mixed. In the voluntary system only those titles are registered whose owners desire it. In the compulsory system, all titles are required to be registered after a certain date In the mixed system, which is most common, those who desire may have their land titles registered; and, in addition all changes of title resulting from judicial decree (as in foreclosure of a mortgage) and titles derived by operation of law as in case of taking title by will or by descent, are required to be registered. The invariable rule in all systems is that land once registered must always thereafter be registered.

Professor Bomberger declared that the Torrens' System, in practical operation, has eliminated everyone of the principal defects of our present system of land title transfer.

Thrift Is Preparedness

Financial strength is to nations as important as military strength. No nation can survive a war if it cannot finance itself.

The man who fortifies himself with an account in a savings bank does more than prepare himself-he contributes to the preparedness of the country.

Germany, unable to borrow from other countries, has been financed by the thrift of her people, as this thrift was expressed in accounts in savings banks.

A savings bank deposit helps the nation and is indispensable to the individual.

Lesson XI.-First Quarter, For March 18, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John viii, 12, 31-37, 56-58-Memory Verses, 31, 32. Golden Text John viii, 36-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The portions of this chapter selected by the committee bring before us the forgiveness of a sinner, the evidence of true discipleship and the deity of Christ, who was before Abraham. But what about chapter vii? Well, in vili, 20, we have a fact also mentioned in vii, 6, 8, 30-His time to give Himself up had not come, and therefore they could not take him. Contrast xiii, 1; xvii, 1, Jesus knew that His hour was come; Father the hour is come. In the plan of eternity, the plan of the ages and in the plan of your life and mine there is an appointed time, and it becomes us to accept it cheerfully and say, "My times are in thy hand" (Ps.

Their desire to kill Him is seen in vii, 1, 32, and in viii, 40. Their hatred of Him is seen in their calling Him a deceiver and a devil (vii, 12, 20; viii, 48). It is perplexing to read in vii, 5, that up to this time His brethren did not believe in Him. Some devoted Christians say, "If my life was what it ought to be at home, would not others in the home receive Him too?" Not necessarily. Consider Jesus. See His great love for all in vii, 37-39, "If any man thirst let him come unto me and drink," and compare Isa. lv, 1; Rev. xxii, 17. In chapter 4 He said that we might be wells of living water, and now He says that we may be rivers by the power of the Holy Spirit, and He can make it true in some measure of us, that everything shall live whither the river cometh (Ezek. xlvii, 9) What an honor to carry life and light in His name! His loneliness is seen in every man going to his own house, while He went to the Mount of Olives (vii, 53; viii, 1).

As to the woman and His writing on the ground, it was a striking object lesson on Jer. xvii, 13, "They that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters." These self righteous scribes and Pharisees had no use for Him, the fountain of living water (Jer. ii, 13); they knew no mercy for sinners and would have Him condemn this poor sinner. What He wrote on the ground we know not, but he virtually said: Ye hypocrites. your names have never been written in heaven (Luke x, 20). You know not God. You shall die in your sins, and where I am you cannot come (verses 21-24). There were no stones thrown. for there was no one present without sin but the Lord Himself, and He had no stones for any penitent sinner; He had no scathing words for any but hypocrites. His "Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more" (verse 11) reminds us that He came. not to condemn, but to save (chapter iii, 17). He is ready at this moment t save any drunkard or other sinner who will turn from sin and come to Him (vi. 37). And He is ready and able to make them free from the wrath to come and from the power of sin here and now (I Thess. i. 10: Matt. i, 21). He is the Light that dispels the darkness, the Truth that makes free. the Son who makes free indeed (verses 12, 32, 36). He is able to save to the uttermost and evermore and from all sin all who truly turn to Him. But He has to say to many: "Ye will not come unto Me." "I would, but ye would not" (John v, 40; Matt. xxiii, 37).

It is still thought by some that all people are children of God, but our Lord told these religious hypocrites that they belonged to their father, the devil, who is the father of lies and a murderer. It cost God and His Son a great deal to make provision whereby a sinner might become a child of God. The full benefits of the great sacrifice are offered freely to every penitent sinner, but there is no other way to become a child of God than by receiving Jesus Christ as one's personal Sa-Viour, putting all our trust in His great sacrifice for our sins (John i, 12). All are by nature children of wrath and dead in sins (Eph. ii, 3, 5), and, continuing in unbelief, the wrath of God abideth on them (John iii, 36). What an awfully wicked one and hater of God and man the devil must be to lead any one to prefer the wages of sin, which is death, to the gift of God, Which is eternal life! Cain was religious, but he rejected God's way of life and proved himself a child of the devil (I John iii, 12). And all religiousness today that does not know the forgiveness of sins by the precious blood of the Lamb of God is not of God, but of the adversary.

Mark well His great saying, "Before Abraham was I am" (verse 58), and think of Him as the one whose goings forth have been from of old, from the days of eternity (Mic. v, 2, margin). The Creator of all things, the revealer of salvation to Adam and Eve, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the one who appeared to Moses in the burning bush, and to Joshua by Jericho, and to Gideon and Manoah, the Lord God of the holy prophets, the one who shall yet be the one King over all the earth, when it shall be filled with His glory, and let Him have your Whole heart and life always. They said "Thou art not yet fifty years He was not thirty-five. I wonder if being a man of sorrows made Him look like fifty.

What It Would Be.

A teacher was endeavoring to explain the term "facsimile" to his class. "Now," he remarked to one sharp youth, "what is your father's trade or profession?"

"He's a lithographer," was the reply. "Very well. Supposing a man came to your father with a document which SHOULD BE KEPT SEPARATE TO he wanted reproducing in every particular, your father agreed and the document was faithfully copied, what would it be?"

"Well," replied the boy thoughtfully, "it depends:"

"On what?" asked the teacher. "On the document."

"Well, if it was a ten dollar bill, for instance, the other would be a counterfeit. If the document was a check the copy would be a forgery.'

"You don't understand what I mean." "Oh, yes, I'm quite sure I do," went on the boy. "I'm just coming to it now. In either case I reckon it would be about ten years."

John Smith and Pocahontas.

About a mile below Richmond, in what is now the brickyard region, there used to stand the residence of Powhatan, This place has long been pointed out as the scene of the saving research has proved that, though Smith did come up the James to the present site of Richmond, his capture by the Indians did not occur here, but more distinct separation of the two. in the vicinity of Jamestown. The Indians took him first to one of their villages on York river, near the present site of West Point, Va., and thence to a place on the same stream in the county of Gloucester, where the powhatan, or tribal chief, resided. Here, on the west side of the river, some nine miles from Williamsburg, the scene of Smith's rescue by Pocahontas has been located.-Julian Street in Collier's.

"Overhang" Houses.

By the year 1670 wooden chimneys and log houses of the Plymouth and Bay colonies were replaced by more sightly houses of two stories, which were frequently built with the second story jutting out a foot or two over the first and sometimes with the attic story still further extending over the second story. This "overhang" is popularly supposed to have been built for the purpose of affording a convenient shooting place from which to repel the Indians. This is, however, a historic fable. The overhanging second story was a common form of building in England in the time of Queen Elizabeth, and the Massachusetts and Rhode Island settlers simply and naturally copied their old

Wild Ducks.

Canvasback and redhead ducks, which are very quick of movement, after deep diving are capable of taking flight immediately upon coming to the surface of the water. They do not spring directly upward into the air. but fly at first at an angle until they reach the desired elevation. Surface feeding wild fowl, like the black duck, pintail and teal, fly directly upward from the surface of the water if the emergency demands it.

PREVENT CROSS BREEDING

Pure Bred Animals Should Be Kept For Breeding Purposes and Not Be Vealed.

College Park, Feb. 22.-The importance of keeping the different types of grade and pure bred animals separate is set forth in an article recently issued to the breeders of dairy and beef cattle by S. S. Buckley, Animal Industry Extension Specialist. Among other things in this article, he says: "Breeding of dairy cattle and dairying, and breeding of beef cattle and feeding, represent two legitimate and distinct industries in Maryland. Each has its the Mayo family, a place known as individual and circumscribed sphere, yet each is handicapped by a merging or fusion of the one with the other. of Smith by the Indian girl, but late The result is that neither industry represents the greatest degree of effi ciency, nor returns the greatest amount of profits possible through a

"Breeders of beef animals, in their own interests, should never allow a grade, male beef bred calf to become mature unless castrated, nor should they allow any such calf to be vealed if possible to prevent it.

"Breeders of both classes of cattle for their mutual interests and the industries which they represent, should discourage in every way possible the crossing of dairy and beef bred ant

"The two industries are well defined, though closely related. Strict adherence to the legitimate spheres of each will benefit the breeders of both and rapidly place the breeds in the positions where the energies of the breeders are striving to place them."

PREPARATION OF SEED BED.

College Park, Feb. 22.-Included in a series of articles recently writter for the County Demonstration Agents for use in connection with local Boys Agricultural Clubs throughout the State, S. B. Shaw, Specialist in Horti cultural Extension, treats the subject very thoroughly. He advocates fre quent harrowings in the spring to pre serve moisture and keep out weeds Mr. Shaw says: "It is advisable to plow deeply at least several weeks before planting, preferably the fall be fore. The depth of plowing will, of course, depend upon the way in which the soil has previously been treated While it is desirable to have as deen a seed bed as possible, it will not do to break up too much of the sub soil at one time. A safe rule to fol low is to go about an inch deeper each time the land is plowed. this way the depth of the seed bed will be increased without bringing too much of the subsoil to the surface at any one time.

"While potatoes do best in well drained soil, they require plenty of moisture for their full development In addition to having the seed bed deep, it should contain plenty of humus, or decaying vegetable matter, as this helps to retain moisture for the growth of the plants. One of the best ways to put plenty of this material in the seed bed is to select a piece of sod land the year before and after covering pretty thoroughly with stable manure, plow it in the fall to a depth that will bring up about an inch or two of the subsoil. In plowing do not turn the furrow completely over, but set it on its edge, with enough slant to cover all the sod and as much of the manure as possible with soil After staying this way over winter the land may again be plowed in the spring or cut over deeply with a disc harrow. It is best not to apply fresh stable manure in the spring, as it might cause the potatoes to scab.

Harrowing.

"After the land has been plowed, or disced in the spring, it should again either a spring-tooth or spike-tooth harrow. Try to break up all possible clods. If harrowing is done immediately after plowing, clods are not so likely to be formed. Soils that are deeply prepared and free from lumps and clods will form smooth, uniform potatoes, the kind that bring the best prices on the market. Frequent harrowings in the spring up to planting time will conserve moisture, keep the land in good condition and prevent the growth of weeds."

ARE PROMISED

Reasons Why New Styles for the Spring Would Seem to Be Inevitable.

LOW SHOES WORN IN PARIS

Scarcity of Leather Responsible for the Lengthening of the Frock-Present Style of Shoes Cannot Be Called Beautiful-Blue Serge for Springtime Wear.

New York .- The smart firms on Fifth avenue are turning out severely tailored and stitched suits of black satin for the south and offering them as the first choice of early spring, and it is quite probable that this fabric will supersede all others for the street, as the season turns from cold to balmy

There is more than uncommon interest displayed in the rumor backed up by facts that Paris will launch longer skirts for spring than we have worn for two years. There is no evidence of this in the new Callot models, but, then. Callot never cared for long skirts. This house cut its evening gowns into a high arch or point in front that showed half the leg to the knee, at a time when other dressmaking houses wouldn't consider such an innovation.

Years and years ago, Callot and Poiret joined hands on this fashion and it was ridiculed by two continents; now every woman wears gowns shorter than these first ones without a blush or an apology and, sometimes, without a good reason.

Low Shoes Worn in France. The commercial interest in the situation is stirred on account of the vast output of high shoes in this country. In Paris there is good authority for saying that this form of footgear is not in first fashion and is rapidly disappearing. The reason is simple. France has no leather, and her women have been wearing low shoes for a year. The oxford tie with the high heel, round toe and broad ribbon bow at the instep has for a year been the first choice of fashion in France, in connection with street costumery. And to meet the situation, France made her skirts longer.

The scarcity of leather is pinching the shoe industry on every side in America. Shoes have advanced from $6 a pair to $14, and even higher prices will be asked this spring. Eight dollars is asked for an ordinary pair of laced street shoes at unfashionable places, where the amount of leather used is negligible and the amount of cloth substituted conspicuous.

Longer Skirts Probable. If women can continue to pay the exorbitant prices asked for high shoes they may be able to continue to wear short skirts, but if France insists upon longer skirts and the bootmakers insist upon frightful prices, it is a safe guess that the low shoe and the be disced and then gone over with longer skirt will be inaugurated in the springtime.

> It is not easy to say whether the exford tie which has ruled in Paris for 12 months will be taken up in this country, for we have, unfortunately, gone quite mad over the subject of ugly shoes, and; although we owe the inspiration for them to eccentric social circles in Paris, we have done things much worse than France could am of doing that it is only fair to en the two. We have not only twisted the shape of the foot into a serious bit of hideousness, as the Chinese do, by exaggerating the length of the vamp and running it out into a point like the one-piece shoe worn by the men in the fourteenth century, but we have added to the medieval vamp the tottering spindle heel of the seventeenth century in France. The two in combination make an ugliness that no one thought possible in this day when people really struggle for beauty of line.

Points in French Shoes. Throughout all this madness in America, France has been steadily wearing what is known as the sculptural shoe; that is, the rounded toe, the broad vamp and the side Rieces that cling to the instep and hold it up. She has insisted upon straight Spanish heels for her walking shoes and in every way made herself comfortable, and she has brought her foot, which has never been notable for beauty, into a well-rounded part of her silhouette.

The leather men tell us that even if we wear low shoes, the prices will not be reduced, and this is being said to us in so many ways about every commodity of life, that we have begun to cease thinking about unmeasured prosperity and have turned to face the possibility of the hardships of living that existed during the Civil war in this country.

The shoe people tell us that one factory alone has refused an order of $1,000,000 worth of shoes to go to Russia, because of the difficulty in getting leather; and yet, they have no excuse for the fact that cloth spats have gone up to $5 and $6 from $2 and $3. It behooves every woman to take excessive care of her footgear at the present hour. Trees, polishing and careful usage will save money and annovance for months to come.

The Pinafore Sailor.

The world has blossomed out in spring hats at the first approach of winter. There is nothing startlingly novel about the new shapes, except the pinafore sailor that Reboux insists upon. This is made in straw and faced with a bright color, but even this shape has been seen for two months in a modified form, built of satin. The Muscovite turban, which comes in a straight line down from a high crown to the evebrows, is not featured in any strength in the new models. The effort seems to be to turn the brims away from the headline, with compromise. They go straight in the air, and their shaping and the irregularities of their edges are determined after the quick uplift from the head has been established.

The dominating feature of all the new hats is the fact that they must be worn straight across the forehead, cannot be tilted right or left and must not dip a fraction of an inch in the back below the line which is established for the front. In other words, there is no coquetry about the pose of the new hat; it is as military as the men under arms. It is a trying line for many faces, and yet it is astonishing how quickly the masses have adopted it and contrived to make themselves look very attractive under it.

New Uses for Link Buttons.

Link buttons are used in the front of a Russian blouse holding the opening, especially when the blouse is pulled over the head. More sparingly they can also be seen holding the fullness at the sides or back of the waistline. A smart woman in a New York hotel wore a gaberdine dress, the sleeves of which were slit almost to the elbow and held by means of link buttons. In another case a velour one-piece dress was fastened in front with such buttons and the hat, made of the same y int there is no allegiance be- velour, showed three such buttons in front on the cuff-like brim,
