-0.00-0-U. S. Flag in Great Demand.

New York, April 2.-Unprecedented demands for American flags of all sizes, from great banners to be flung to the breeze down to small emblems to be worn in the buttonhole, have swamped flag makers with orders far beyond their capacity, inquiry among local manufacturers here revealed today. The calls in the last 48 hours, it was said, have put the flag factories three to five days behind their orders.

One firm said that from its three factories working with augmented forces about 2,000,000 flags of all kinds are being turned out each week. A fourth facry, it announced, had just been opened to handle a $100,000 Government order for flags for various branches of the nathe general public, it was said, the greatest demand is for buttonhole flags.

Wm. C. Devilbiss Killed in Crash.

A 100-ton water tank on the roof of the Fiederwald building, corner of Baltimore and Eutaw streets, Baltimore, suddenly collapsed on Wednesday morning, and crashed through six floors to the cellar, creating death and destruction, and serious injury to many. The building was occupied by S. Halle & Sons wholesale shoe dealers. Twelve thousand gallons of water were in the tank when it fell. The Singer Tailoring Co., adjoining, was also wrecked.

Every person in the vicinity of the accident was stunned at first. Then pandemonium reigned in the entire block. Employes of business houses, stores, restaurants and other establishments rushed to the street. Girls and women screamed in panic and rushed from one building to another. Several made frantic efforts to penetrate the wreckage and seek relatives and acquaintances, whom they later found safe. The only warning of the accident was a terrific cracking sound just before the tank fell. The walls and supports beneath it gave way and with a ripping, crashing sound, the heavy mass dropped through the six floors like a giant pro-

Exemption from Military Service.

The RECORD is impressed with the fact that what constitutes exemption (National and State) from military service, is not clearly established, so that the average person can understand. And as this will be a matter of very wide general interest, following the taking of the military census, we have requested the State' Attorney, and he has agreed, to look into the subject closely and prepare an article for next week's papers, giving as nearly as possible a list of those who will be exboth as combatants and noncombatants.

A MILITARY CENSUS ORDERED BY GOVERNOR.

A Carrying out of the General Laws of Maryland.

A Meeting of State and County Central Committeemen of both parties, and others, was held in the Opera House, Westminster, on Monday, to devise ways and means for best conducting the Military Hears for best conducting the Mintary census of the state called for by Governor Harrington, as it relates to Carroll county. A statement was made by Dr. Henry M. Fitzhugh, chairman of the Special Commission of five named by the Governor to supervise the taking of the census, setting furth the feets, and the precessity for supervise the taking of the census, setting forth the facts, and the necessity for prompt action, in order that the county may take its proper place among the various counties of the state, all of which have the same duty to render.

The meeting was fairly well attended, every district being represented by one or more, except Myers and Mt. Airy districts. Harry Berwager, Court stenographer and Harry Berwager, Court stenographer and recruiting officer for Co. H., acted as Secretary of the meeting. The discussion of the situation was very general, taking a rather wide range, but discordant notes were few, though all regretted the necessity for making preparations for possible war.

Most of the members of the County bar, Senator Warfield, Ex-Senator Beasman, States Attorney Seabrook, Herbert R. Wooden, Nathan H. Baile, Harry P. Gorsuch, P. B. Englar, Dr. Luther Kemp, and various members of the County Central Committees, took part in the dis-cussion, after the presentation of the following Resolutions embodying the con-clusions of the Special Committee;

Resolved: That the District Central Committeemen of both Democratic and Republican parties, as well as the district election officials of both parties, be constituted a local committee for each district, in Carroll county, to conduct, with such further volunteer help as may be necesrary, the military census ordered by the Governor of Maryland.

Resolved: That this action be transmitabove named, and that they assemble in their respective election districts not later than Monday, April 9, for the purposes of their appointment.

These resolutions were adopted by an almost unanimous yets.

almost unanimous vote. The plan adopted for Carroll county is practically the same as that adopted in Frederick county, where a county meeting was held last Saturday, and district meetings on Tuesday. At their first meeting, Dr. Goodell said "If you serve your country, your state, your nation, with the same goal as you serve your party." the same zeal as you serve your party, this task will terminate successfully and

Judge Urner said—
"It is something for us all to feel proud of to have men of two opposing political forces to meet here in a common cause. All our grievances and differences in poamong one another is obliterated. We feet.

"The accusation of the timid people help compile a census and render whathave come here with a determination to that there has been a lack of preparation for this war is incorrect," said Representative Talbott. "This nation is prepared that there has been a lack of preparation ever other service we can to aid our country. The Governor has called for the enrollment, so that the will have a complete our country's welfare, and as there is no proper ground for evasion of the duties of citizenship, the work should be performed in the spirit of patriotic service. It was further the sentiment that the people to be enumerated should take the right view of the situation, and not censure in any way those who volunteer to engage in the work, but to make it as easy as possible to have the work done.

Each enumerator, before starting out will be personally commissioned by the Governor with full authority to represent the state; and answers to all questions are compulsory and fully covered by exist-ing laws, with penalties attached for refusal to answer or to evade answering.

The information to be secured is to enable the state to know who its members of the militia are, and where they are located. By state law, every citizen is already liable to military service. There is no new law, or rule, being enforced, but simply making practicable and effective, present laws; and should the information not be secured in this way, it way, perhaps more objectionable, should actual army service be required.

Each enumerator will be supplied with a copy of the law, and complete instructions as to how to proceed with the work. Extracts from the State laws are published elsewhere in this issue of the REC ORD, and should be read by all before the enumerators come

At a recent meeting the State Board of Education passed the resolution quoted below, which has been transmitted through the county superintendents to all county boards of education.

M. BATES STEPHENS,

Special Session of Legislature.

A special session of the Legislature will be called by Governor Harrington some time the latter part of this month. He is not sure of the date, and it may be about Monday, April 16, which would be two weeks from the opening of Congress, or it may be a week or two later. The date will depend upon the actions of Congress. Until it has passed the national war legislation, it will be impossible for the Governor and his advisers to determine definitely upon State legislation.

to take with respect to caring for the dependents of soldiers until he learns what Congress will do. It is a forgone conclusion that provisions will be made in some way for soldiers' dependents. But it may be that Congress will make such ample provision that nothing need be done by the State; or it may be that the provision made by Congress will have to be supplemented by the State; or it may be, although it is very improbable, that Congress will do nothing and the State will have to do all.

Similarly, the Governor and his advisers will not know what recommendation to make to the Legislature regarding military training for boys under 18 years of age until Congress determines details of the universal service law, which it now seems certain will be passed. President Wilson declared in favor of raising the 500,000 additional men for the army by the universal service plan.

World Short of Foodstuffs.

In an interview Saturday in Savannah, Richard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, dwells upon the shortage of foodstuffs in the world. He declared that the crisis facing the world was a grave one and that the important responsibility rests upon farmers o raise large crops. Mr. Edmonds said: The whole world is short of foodstuffs.

Inless we raise this summer the largest crops which this country has ever produced, present prices of foodstuffs will seem very low, as a year hence we lo back upon the conditions of today. While the European war has necessarily tremendously decreased the production of food in Europe and increased the demand in order to feed the armies, this is by no means wholly responsible for high prices.

We had last year the most disastrous rop failure in the history of the country Our total production of grain and other odstuffs last year was 1,375,000,000 bushels short of the preceding year. This was equal to an average decrease per capita or more than 13 bushels to every man, woman and child in the United States. This shortage was in wheat, corn, potatoes and other food products.

This crop shortage would have been bad enough if it had been confined to the Inited States alone, but in Canada, in Argentina and in other surplus graingrowing countries crop shortage almost as serious as in the United States. Thus the whole world is suffering as it has not in the last 50 years by reason of world-wide shortage in production. Under these conditions it becomes of supreme importance to the welfare of the nation in order to avoid the danger of an actual food famine to increase the food production of the country this year to the utmost possible extent.

Every farmer in the country should be urged to do his utmost to increase his acreage in food crops and to cultivate as thoroughly as possible. Advancing cost of labor on the farm as in the factory must be recognized by the public, and the farmer must be encouraged to employ labor at the higher prices which prevail. Throughout the South especially, and to some extent throughout the entire country, merchants and bankers in the smaller towns are in intimate touch with farming activities.

During the last two and one-half years we have increased enormously our wealth through the billions which Europe has paid us for food supplies and war material. Our national wealth is increasing at the rate of over $10,000,000,000 a year, and if we contributed $5,000,000,000 for Europe's necessities it would be less than one-half of the gain in national wealth during the last six months.

WILL LIKELY DECLARE STATE OF WAR EXISTS

The President Fully Supported by Senate and House.

On the assembling of Congress, on Monday, Hon. Champ Clark was re-elected Speaker by a vote of 217 to 205 for Representative Mann, (Rep.) the lat-For example, the Governor will not know what action to ask the Legislature ter losing five of the votes of his own party and the five independents. Immediately after the organization of the House, a resolution declaring the existence of war with Germany, and directing the President to use all of the resources of the country to carry on war, and bring the conflict to a successful conclusion was presented in both Senate and House.

The objects of the United States in entering the war, the President said, were to vindicate the principles of peace and justice against selfish and autocratic power. Without selfish ends, for conquest or dominion, seeking no indemnities, or material compensation for the sacrifices it shall make, the United States must enter the war, to make the world safe for democracy, as only one of the champions of the rights of mankind, and would be satisfied when those rights were as secure as the faith and freedom of nations could make them.

The present German submarine warfare against commerce is a warfare against

One of the things that has served to convince us that the Prussian autocracy was not and never could be our friend is that from the very outset of the present war it has filled our unsuspecting com-munities and even our offices of government with spies and set criminal intrigues everywhere afoot against our national unity of council, our peace within and without, our industries and our commerce.

The address, throughout, was serious, calm and logical. It reviewed the long list of intolerable wrongs inflicted by Germany, and the many efforts made by our government to avoid war, and ex-pressed deep regret that our formal, or pretended neutrality was no longer possible. The closing paragraphs of his message were as follows:

"We are, let me say again, the sincere friends of the German people, and shall desire nothing so much as the early re-establishment of intimate relations of establishment of intimate relations of mutual advantage between us, however hard it may be for them, for the time being, to believe that this is spoken from our hearts.

We have borne with their present Government through all these bitter months because of that friendship, exercising a patience and forbearance which would otherwise have been impossible. We shall, happily, still have an opportunity to prove that friendship in our daily attitude and actions toward the millions of men and women of German birth and native sympathy who live among us and share our life, and we shall be proud to native sympathy who live among us and share our life, and we shall be proud to prove it toward all who are in fact loyal to their neighbors and to the Government | war with Germany because Germany has pression; but if it lifts its head at all it will lift it only here and there, and without countenance except from a lawless and malignant few. It is a distressing and oppressive duty, gentlemen of the Congress, which I have performed in thus addressing you. There are, it may be, many months of fiery trial and sacrifice ahead of us. It is a fearful thing to lead this great, peaceful people into war-into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars, civilization itself seeming to be in the balance. But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts-for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own government, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured.

God helping her, she can do no other."

The Senate, on Wednesday, passed the war resolution by a vote of 82 to 6. The six negatives were, LaFallette, of Wisconsin; Gronna, of North Dakota, new Norris, of Nebraska, all Progressive Republicans; Lane, of Oregon; Stone, of Missouri and Vardman, of Miss., all Democrats. The speeches made were full of feeling, but any thing like personal rancor was avoided.

Truck Loads Regulated.

After a series of conferences between the State Roads Commission and Osborne I. Yellott, attorney, representing a number of owners of heavy motor trucks, an agreement was reached last week limiting the tire surface of these vehicles in order the the surface of these venicies in order to prevent further damage to roads. According to the agreement, 750 pounds per inch width of tire surface will be permitted until May 1, 1917, and 800 pounds per inch width of tire surface until October 1, 1917, on the following roads:

Bel Air road, from Baltimore to Perry Hall; Harford road, from Baltimore to Carney; Yord road, from Baltimore to Towson; Falls road, from Baltimore to bridge over Smith avenue, Mount Washington; Park Heights avenue, from Baltimore to Valley road; Reisterstown road, trom Baltimore to Carroll county line; Liberty road, from Baltimore to Buck's lane; Washington road, from Baltimore to Winans; Westport, from Baltimore to Glenburnie.

On all other roads the load per inch width of tire is to remain as specified in the law: namely, six hundred fifty (650) pounds per inch width of tire, and after October 1, 1917, the present law, requiring six hundred and fifty (650) pounds per inch width of tire will be strictly en-

It is also understood that no new trucks will be sold unless equipped with tires to meet the requirements of the law as enacted by the last Legislature. The compromise was agreed upon, as the commission was unwilling to inflict a hardship on the owners of trucks who would have sustained large losses if an immediate compliance with the law had been ordered.

What Roosevelt Says About War.

It has just been announced that the President has called Congress in special session for April 2nd. This is in view of the fact that Germany is actually making war against us. Our people should understand that the day of hesitation is past, that the pacifist and pro-German are now simply traitors to the country, that a declaration of war does not mean that we begin war, but that we face the fact that Germany has already begun war. Under these circumstances, all good Americans will sink party lines, and will support the President in every action he takes for the upholding of American rights, and for striking hard and effectively at Germany. I am sure that Congress will realize this, and will also realize that any attempt to make the war a half war, in the hour of test.

They are, most of them, as true and loyal Americans as if they had never are not fighting Germany merely in any

We are fighting Germany because under its present government, a government of ruthless and despotic militarism, Germany has become the arch fce of international right and of ordered freedom throughout the world. All of us Americans love peace, and would do any-thing honorable to avoid war, but the very fact that we thus love peace, makes us serve with devoted ardor the lofty ideals of right, through the achievement of which alone permanent peace can come to the world. We fight not only to protect ourselves, but to bring nearer the day when justice, and honor, and fair dealing between nation and nation, and man and man shall exist through all the continents. We love life, but there are things we love even more than life, and we feel that we are loyal to all that is highest in America's past, when we act on the belief that those only are fit to live, who are not afraid to die.-Metropolitan Maga-

This promises to be a year of more than | want. usually earnest work, on the part of everybody; or, at least that ought to be high cost of living is to continue, or perhaps increase, nobody knows to a certainty, but everybody ought to know that the experiences of the past year encourage a greater care than formerly, for the future, in order that the people of the country may be as well prepared as possible for what may come.

Naturally on the part of those who can who can do so, the first consideration is producing more food of the kind that can be stored up, or sold. Should there be a state of war, which would greatly involve this country, a plentiful production of food will be all the more important, and along with this, a general conservation of home resources should be enforced. That there will be an abundance of work for everybody, is a sure thing, even without war, and with more than 10,000 first, second and third it, the demand for labor would be greater

So far as actual war on land is concerned, in the United States, it seems almost impossible; but there is likely to be war on the seas, and more or less activity along our coast lines-in fact, the year promises to be a busy one for everybody, and it is up to everybody to "get every way possible. This is not a fit country, just now, for lazy people.

------A Time for Calmness.

This is a time for calmness, and for being brave in mind and speech. A great deal of mental suffering - a great deal of close and personal, and the majority of health, happiness and the prosperity of in good preferred stocks. If you invest unnecessary worry-may be avoided by the patrons should have their choicenot imagining dire possibilities. More- whether that be Democratic or Republiover, "whatever is to be, will be," so far can. This is a privilege, we think, that as war is concerned, and very few of us can change the trend of coming events, one way or another. Bewailing the probability of war, will not prevent it; but the better plan, the only wise and patriotic plan, is to rest as calmly as possible in the assurance that the President and Congress will do only that which is best now to be done.

If war must come, and if our sons must brave and hope for the best. As much as we may dislike war, its horrors, its hardships and loss of life, there is no avoiding war when the proper conditions assemble themselves, and we may as well face the truth, and knowing it, endure it. Opposing the recruiting of our army and navy can only bring greater trouble; indeed, all who do so, openly, are very likely to get into trouble for disloyalty.

The women of the country, especially, can render the country great service by refraining from acting foolishly in the face of danger. Mothers and wives have a great deal to do with forming the patriotic fibre of the men of any nationwith making them brave, or making them weak-and when the need comes, the women should be willing to share in the the nation by encouraging the men to be

We do not advise fool-hardiness. Certainly, there need not be much of a rush, at present, to take up arms, and no doubt there will be ample volunteers from those who can best go to the front, and who have the strongest inclination in that direction. But, even if conscription comes, it should be met, not as an imposition, nor as something to be opposed, but as an opportunity to show one's willingness to "do his bit" for the United States of America.

Sons of America are as brave and patriotic as those of any other country, once their real spirit is touched; and perhaps it takes a war, every now and then, to keep up the standard of patriotism. The life of money-making, and money-spend- tellect. It has been called the democracy ing, and pleasure-seeking, is not the life to bring out the best that is in a people. This war may not be our war, in a sense. It did not originate with us, nor because of any of our National interests. But, in a broader sense, it is our war. As a member of the brotherhood of the Nations of the world, we cannot overlook, for instance, the violation of the neutrality of Belgium, nor the warfare against innocent neutrals on the sea, many of whom were our own people. We can not say, with honor to ourselves, that "we are not our brother's keeper."

-10-63-0 Devastation in Belgium.

Conditions in Belgium are terrible, if even half as reported. The reports are that 500,000 men have been thrown out of work and kept in enforced idleness, which has led to the decree from their German masters "You must sign a contract to work for Germany, or you will be taken as slaves." As a result, the whole of Belgium is threatened with starvation.

There never has been a war in the history of the world to compare with this in the completeness of the devastation of country by the victors.

It is largely this that has caused such fierce hatred against Germany, on the part of the Allies, and that has caused neutral countries to become anti-German

10,000 Postmasters Anchored..

Now that practically all of the larger postoffices of the country are safely manned by Democrats, the President, in the interest of "increased efficiency and business-like administration," has placed class postmasters under civil service. This will last until there is a change in administration, but hardly any longer, especially as the country has had about enough of the whole civil-service scheme. The plan will not work with the larger offices, as it has with fourth-class offices, for the very excellent reason that these offices are worth having, and whatever busy" and lookout for themselves, in party is in power will find a way to get them, civil service or no civil service. Our own opinion about these postmasterships, is, that they should be filled by the patrons of the offices. There is no other office in the country in such close contact with the people as that of postmaster; the relations between the two are comes in ahead of either civil service, or party politics. The news of the wholesale shift, is as follows:-

"Present incumbents of office are not affected, but in the future when vacancies occur as the result of death, resignation or removal, the Civil Service Commission will hold open competitive examinations. The name of the highest eligible candidate will then be submitted to the Presiparticipate, there is nothing to do but be dent. No person more than 62 years old shall be examined.

Although the order is framed to remove postmasters from politics, the Senate, however, has the right to reject the President's appointees.

Postmaster General Burleson made this statement about the order: "Incumbent postmasters rendering good service and who continue to administer the affairs of their offices with ability will not be disturbed in such offices by any recommendation made by the head of the Department. It is due them, however, at this time to make it clear that hereafter supervision officials of the Department will be more exacting in the enforcement of those postal rules and regulations which make for increased efficiency and postmasters will not only be expected sacrifices, as well as to lend strength to to devote their time during office hours to a proper administration of their respective offices, but they will be required to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the various postal activities under their charge and in the future to occupy such part of their time not properly given to administrative work, to the performance to some part of those activities."

Common Sense.

Common Sense means sense about common, everyday matters, not sense that is common to every one; for it is unfortunately true that common sense is one of the most uncommon things in the world. Maturity of judgment and tact. or common sense crystallized, are two of the best endowments of the practical inof the level-headed man or woman, who by prompt and proper action can adjust matters. Many an unpleasant happening has been averted, many a day saved by the presence of mind or common sense of an individual

Self-control is another phase of the subject; common sense applied to oneself. 'In the supremacy of self-control consists one of the perfections of of an ideal man. Not to be spurred hither and thither by each desire that in turn becomes uppermost, but to be restrained, and self-balanced.

Yet another phase is the ability to say, 'Let it pass," when petty annoyances vex us; when our good intentions and motives are misunderstood; a kind act is unacknowledged; some one criticises us harshly; a favor asked is refused; a beloved friend seems cold and unfeeling;the common sense person will not allow such acts to annoy and disturb his tranquility of mind. He says to himself: why stew over such trifles?" Is not interior peace preferable to the unrest brought on by worry over minor affairs? Here is where common sense comes into play. A practical person looks for the silver lining to every cloud. Common sense shows the way and if we follow, sunshine will accompany us. Is it not worth while to cultivate this valuable

--- (J-0-Union Labor and the War.

The patriotism, loyalty and practical statesmanship of the men who are today directing the policies of organized labor will be judged not by their pronunciamentos, but by their actions. It is a hopeful augury of the attitude they mean to take toward the duties and obligations imposed upon them as American citizens by the imminence of a state of war that they are willing to break down all barriers of union caste and to co-operate to the fullest extent in aiding the Government to find the skilled labor that will be required in the shipyards, arsenals and munition plants. This co-operation is as it should be, but it is only a beginning. It touches only the margin of the problem confronting the nation. For the leaders of organized labor represent only a small proportion of the country's labor forces, and there are great industries without the union pale just as vital to the national security as are the Federal workships in which the mobilization of labor is an absolute necessity.

American employers of labor and the labor leaders as well cannot overlook the tremendous significance of the revolution in the relations of employers and employed that has already taken place in Europe, and which is soon to be followed by like changes in the United States. This revolution has involved wide concessions on both sides, a relaxation of the artificial restrictions on production on the one hand and a larger participation of the workers in determining the conditions of service and the share of the products of labor to be apportioned to them on the other. That these changes America, there can be little doubt. But so far as we are concerned, there ought to be no policy of drift in a matter so deeply involving social progress and the

The situation ought to be faced frankly and intelligently and from no narrow angle. Infinite damage has been done by "the public be-damned" attitude of the railway unions in their recent struggle; but this is not irretrievable, and the opportunities that will be presented during the coming months for better methods, for more genuine co-operation, should bear fruit in putting the United States in a sounder position to meet the abnormal commercial and industrial conditions that are to follow the war. - Phila. Ledger.

The atmosphere of the island is rather more American than any part of the West Indies, including Porto Rico after years of American possession, for not only has the principal communication been with the United States, but in years gone by the island was a Mecca for American tourists. Today 90 per cent. of the exports and imports are with this country, and the number of natives who have emigrated to the "Land of Hope," as they term the United States, has created a feeling of affection for this country. -From "Our New Caribbean Islands," by Eldred E. #### ----Some Good Advice.

"Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them.'' This is good advice, especially when bilious or constipated. You will find many people who use Chamberlain's Tablets for these ailments with the best results, and will do well to follow their example.

Use Your Own Judgment.

We received the following telegram Thursday afternoon:

'Will you aid patriotic work of maintaining American rights by urging your readers to wire President and Congressmen asking positive stand for war with Germany to preserve national safety and honor. Pro-Germans and Pacifists straining every nerve for peace at any price. Appeals through your paper will be in-

Without wishing to discount the value of appeals through the Ellicott City Times, we recognize the fact-and try to be governed thereby-that the influence of a newspaper, especially a county organ, is greater, and productive of more real benefit, when its opportunities for moulding public sentiment are improved upon by a cool and accurate presentation of facts, qualified only by a sane, even tempered and logical discussion of the various aspects surrounding those facts than when it trys to sway its readers to one side or the other through the channels of emotionalism stirred by excited exhortation and exaggerated argument.

We will not urge our readers to write to the President and Congressmen. If any of them feel called upon to do so, that is a matter within their own discretion. We have no desire to accelerate hostilities between this country and Germany or any other nation. If war comes, so be; we are back of the government and we sincerely hope that every man in the United States will act in unison and with one accord for the common safety and

In our humble opinion events are transpiring fast enough for anyone except a man like Roosevelt and it appears at this writing that we are going to have war whether we want it or not, and that is the only excuse we ever hope to offer for going to war-that it is forced upon us. There are few things that the people at large know less about than war and the causes for war, and the necessity for such action by this country had better be left in the wise judgment of the representatives whom we are trusting to safeguard American rights and who, we are convinced, are far more competent to estimate the relative importance and demands of all phases of this unusual situation than the people at large. - Ellicott City

"For there," he says, "you have the maximum of security and the minimum danger of loss. You want an investment in which your money will be safe. You are not going to take it out of the old stocking hidden in the chimney or the ticking of the mattress, where you know it is safe, and run risks with it. In that you are wise. 'Safety first!' is a perfectly good motto for the small investor as well are going to be a part of the permanent as for the wayfarer. The price that you fruits of the war, both abroad and in pay for your sense of security is the low rate of return on your money.

Such common stocks as that have not the speculative quality of that of the Central Leather Company or the Steel Corporation for instance, where the preferred intervenes between the bonds and the common stock. Such stocks as Steel Common are not for investors.

"But what bonds or stocks shall I buy? To answer that question you need more light; your broker or your banker is the one to give it to you, your inquiry will lead you into the fascinating realm of the stock market. Those who have fought Free-Trade persistently for many years will find support among those who are urging the adoption of measures aimed at preventing German trade from dominating the world after the war as it did before. The folly of making England a dumping ground for cheap manufactures-particularly German-has come home to trade and government leaders. -Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard.

TIME OF PLANTING CORN.

In Semiarid Regions Seed Should Be Put In Early In the Spring. [Prepared by United States department of agriculture.1 Though corn will not grow during as cold weather as wheat and oats, it is remarkable how early in the spring corn can be planted and produce good stands and good yields if seed of perfect vitality is used. Seed of perfect vitality will often remain in cold or dry soils for several weeks and afterward germinate and yield well. Irregular stands are sometimes attributed to poor seed; when dry, poorly prepared spots are the cause. Fields are sometimes seen in which the seed germinated promptly in moist spots, but did not germinate in dry spots until rains came.

Where the seasons are long and moisture plentiful it is customary to wait until the soil is warm before planting. In semiarid regions, however, corn should be planted early. With the soil in proper condition it is generally advisable in semiarid regions, south as well as north, to plant corn before danger from frost is entirely

Corn planted very early usually makes a slow, tough growth and a month after planting may be smaller and look less promising than that planted later. The early planted corn ripens first, however, and usually produces the larger or the better crop. Because of its slow, tough growth corn planted very early is not so susceptible to frost and drought as corn plant. ed later and growing more rapidly.

In a series of years the gain in mature corn secured from early planting will more than make up for any injury from spring frosts. Excellent corn crops have been produced from plantings frozen off or frozen back where the plants were from a few inches to a foot or more tall. Corn is not often entirely killed by spring frosts, and if some should be injured the loss is much less serious than that from summer drought or from fall

Early planted corn derives more benefit from the spring moisture supply, becomes well rooted before summer droughts begin and may even mature before these droughts become severe.

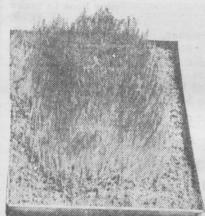

Where the growing season is very long and warm plantings made at about thirty day intervals increase the chances of hitting the season right and raising some good corn.

These tubs are as follows large, holding about fifty pounds. He cleans a tub thoroughly and then bores a hole through the side as near the bottom as possible, which he fits with a wooden plug. Several tubs prepared in this way and burlap bags make the complete equipment.

He fills a tub, the plug being in, with oats of the proper quality and covers them with water from which the chill has been removed. After the oats have remained thus for four or five hours he removes the plug, draining the tub. Twice a day thereafter he sprinkles the oats with cold water, until they develop heat and begin to sprout. Growing too large for one tub, the sprouting oats are divided between Each morning the oats are turned from one tub to another, care being taken to pull and tear them well apart in the process. If they appear to be heating too much he inserts the plug and cools them off with cold water, then takes out the plug and drains. He has oats fully sprouted and ready for the hens in six to ten days.

In winter he covers the tubs with burlap bags and uses water with the chill taken off for sprinkling.

On a large commercial poultry farm in Massachusetts this method has been adopted and has proved very satisfactory. This farm uses dozens of tubs. Every day the oats in each tub are turned and, if necessary, cooled.

Winter Lamb Ration.

A good ration for winter feeding of lambs consists of clover or alfalfa hay, two pounds; roots, two pounds, and corn silage, two pounds. Should all of the above roughage not be available a limited amount of grain mixture, composed of equal parts oats and bran, is to be added.

Method by Which Spread of This Fungus May Be Controlled. [Prepared by United States department of

Laborers harvesting melons should never cut or touch a decayed melon. Cut melons with long stems and load into cars with the least possible delay and with the utmost care in handling to avoid bruising. Open car ventilators. Most important of all, apply a paste made of common starch with 6 per cent bluestone to the freshly cut stems as the melons are being packed in the car. It has been found that disinfecting the stems at other times is less effective, as the paste is rubbed off by Freight cars that have contained decayed melons or yard refuse should be washed clean and sprayed with a 2 per cent bluestone solution.

Pure Bred Stock Pays. I am recommending our people to better horses, cattle, hogs and sheep, writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. If every farmer would get a pair of full blood mares and look well to the sires used they would soon have the pasture full of full blood stock rather than common stuff, as many have. A well bred colt costs no more to raise than does a scalawag and brings three to ten times the money. I also think every farmer should have but one breed of cattle and keep a thoroughbred bull of that class. Uniform color always attracts buyers and consequently higher prices.

Rape For Hogs. Rape is usually seeded early in the spring at the rate of four or five pounds per acre on a well prepared seed bed. It should be allowed to make a growth of eight or ten inches before turning in the hogs. It will not do well in shaded quarters, though it will make some growth. When sown in corn after the last cultivation it will make considerable fall growth, provided there is enough moisture to insure rapid germination.

WHERE MANKIND WAS REBORN

The Story of Florence Epitomizes the Story of Humanity.

The story of Florence is the story of idea in common-the thirst for free activity of soul.

So the tale of the new birth, the renaissance, is the record of individual spirit so free, so subtle and elastic, so profoundly penetrating to the springs of human purpose, that it has furnished the motive power of the world ever since, and Florence, as its source and focus, because of the conditions then obtaining in the city and throughout Italy, was the one spot in the world capable of producing such an epoch making upheaval of human

And all this astonishing genius grew directly out of-business! The city was peopled by men who manufactured the necessaries of life, by merchants, speculators, bankers, tradesmen, artisans, handicraftsmen of every type. Business, work, was a condition of active participation in the life of the state, and because they did not work the nobles were debarred from this.

Under the practical inspiration of these mental giants Florence was recreated and learned to view life from within instead of superficially. She learned that the individual is the soul of the state and that the state can succeed only when it is true to the best interests of its individuals.-A. S. Riggs in National Geographic Magazine.

Man's Eyes and Animals'. Aside from the monkey, man is the only animal having what we call binocular single vision—that is, he can tell not only the direction of an object, but he can estimate fairly accurately its distance. This is because both of his eyes point at the same object at the same time, like two range finders. Other animals do not concentrate their gaze in this way. Their eyes are set more nearly at the sides of the head, so that they see not only forward, but backward for a short distance. Man, on the contrary, sees clearly only the object at which he looks directly.-Popular Science Monthly.

IN SAD BUT LOVING REMEMBRANCE. f my dear husband and father, Jessia Myers who departed this life one year ago, April 7, 1916.

Rest in peace, dear husband,
Thy toils are over, thy work is done,
And thou art fully blest;
Thou hast fought the fight, the victory won.
And entered into rest.

Out of the shadowland, into the sunshine, Cloudless, eternal, that fades not away; Softly and tenderly Jesus hath called him Home, where the ransomed are gathering today. Out of the shadowland, weary and changeful Out of the valley of sorrow and night; Into the rest of the life everlasting, Into the summer of endless delight.

Sleep, father dearest, peaceful sleep God knew that it was best; Soon on the Golden Shore we'll meet, And share an endless rest. By his wife and daughter,

Dear Grandpa, we miss thy willing hand, Thy fond and earnest care; We miss thee more each day we live, At home, and everywhere.

Gerard on Modern Warfare.

New York, March 30.-James W. Gerard, former American Ambassador to Germany, speaking tonight at a dinner of the Aero Club of America, declared that "if we are in for war, we are in for a serious war." He expressed confidence that men of German blood who had become citizens of the United States would be loyal to this country, but added that, if any should be guilty of treason, "we know where to festoon them."

Mr. Gerard, in his address, declared that modern war is largely a matter of mechanics and munitions. The legend of the embattled farmer is responsible, he pelins, airplanes, captive observation balloons, steel hemlets, gas and gas masks, machine guns, searchlights, 16-inch guns, 18-inch Howitzers, trench mortars, range finders, telescopes, armored automobiles, tanks, miles of barberd wire, underground mining, rockets and grenades and countless other instruments of war, the proper use of which can only be learned after years of hard application. All these modern means of war require great preparations. If we are in for war was rea in for a serious war. we are in for a serious war.

"I believe that the men of German blood who have joined us will remain for mili loyal in this country. Will not the descendants of the revolutionaries of 1848 thereof. scendants of the revolutionaries of 1848 be with us in the fight? Some of the finest blood in America comes to us from the men of '48 or those who left Germany because they sought more freedom, more opportunity than they could obtain in opportunity than they could obtain in Europe. Peace Meeting Riot in Baltimore.

A peace meeting was broken up, in Baltimore, on Sunday night, ending in a riot and a half dozen arrests. Several riot and a half dozen arrests. Several men were seriously injured. The occasion of the demonstration was a largely advertised meeting at the Academy of Music, the chief speaker being David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford University, California, and the building was packed. The crowd assembled before the building and became riotous, a charge by a squad of 40 police being necessary to disperse it.

Those who reached the inside were for some time before it was interrupted. Dr. Jordan had been preceded by Rabbi Eugene Cohen, of Baltimore, and Benjamin C. Marsh, of New York who made a rabid speech against "Wall St." and special privileges generally, as he termed vocated a "referendum" before the U.S.

Note.—By the terms of Section III the only persons who are not available for military service, under the Maryland law, in case of war, insurrection, invasion or imminent danger thereof, are those enumerated in subdivisions (a) and (e).

Those exempt under subdivision (e) are enumerated in Section III above. Those exempt under subdivision (a) are all persons exempted by the laws of the United The United States law on the subject,

(Act of June 3, 1916, ch. 134, Sec. 59, Compiled Statutes 1916, Vol. 4, Sec. 3043), exempts the following persons from militia service in a combatant capacity only: The Vice President. The Judicial and Executive Officers of the United States and of the several States and Territories. Persons in the United States military or naval service. Custom-house clerks. Persons employed by the United States in the transmission of mail. Artificers and work-men employed in the armories, arsenals and navy yards of the United States. Pilots. Mariners actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States. All persons who because of religious belief shall claim exemption from military service, if the conscientious holding of such belief by such person shall be established under such regulations as the President shall prescribe.

The law provides that no person so exempted shall be exempt from military service in any capacity that the President shall declare to be non-combatant.

Object of making enrollment. The enollment is being made in order to ascertain everyone in the State who is available for military service. It is in no sense an enlistment. Its object is simply to collect information as to the situation and experience of each individual, and whether he has persons dependent upon him for financial support. When this information has been obtained, each individual will be classified, and he may then feel assured that if any call for service hereafter comes he will not be expected to do any more than others will be asked to do whose classification is substantially the same as his.

DELICIOUS DESSERTS THAT ARE EASY TO PREPARE.

Charlotte an Inexpensive and Greatly Appreciated Dish-Apple Fritters Will Be Liked by All Members of the Family.

Apples are cheap this year, and housewives who are trying to keep down expenses would do well to use them freely on the table. There are many delicious desserts to be made of them, and desserts are among the difficult problems for the housekeeper during the winter.

An apple charlotte is an inexpensive dish, and easily prepared. Cut bread into slices a quarter of an inch thick; then into strips one and a half inches wide and as long as the height of the mold to be used. Cut one piece to fit the top of the mold and then divide it into five or six pieces. Butter the mold, dip the slices of bread into melted butter and arrange them around the mold, overlapping the edges. Fill the center of the mold entirely with apple sauce made of tart apples stewed until tender, then broken into coarse pieces, drained and seasoned with butter and sugar. Cover the top with bread and bake in a hot oven for about thirty minutes. The bread should be of an amber color. Serve with a hard sauce.

Flaming Apples-Pare and core several apples. Stew them in sugar and water until tender, but still firm enough to hold their shape. Remove Writer Suggests That Information them to a serving dish and fill the centers with any sort of jam. Boil down the liquor to a thick sirup and pour over the apples. Just before serving pour several spoonfuls of brandy over the apples, and when they are on the table light the brandy with a candle. These flaming apples make a very pret-

Snow Apple Pudding-Fill a baking dish half full of apple sauce, well seasoned with butter, sugar and cinnamon. Pour over it a batter made of one and one-half cupfuls of flour mixed with two heaping tablespoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and a tablespoonful of lard. Moisten it with three-quarters cupful of milk. The batter should be thick, but not stiff. Cook in a steamer for about three-quarters of an hour and serve with a hard sauce.

Apple Fritters-Peel and core some apples, cut them into thick slices, and rub in white sugar and powdered cinnamon. Make a pancake batter, dip in the slices of apples and fry in deep fat. Drop in the batter-covered slices one or two at a time. When the fritters are a golden brown, lift them out with a frying spoon and drain on soft paper. Serve very hot with extra powdered sugar if desired.

Chicken Short Cake. Did you fancy shortcake gone with the strawberry season?

Try this chicken shortcake. Make a biscuit shortcake and when baked, slit and butter it the same as for a berry shortcake. Have ready finely sliced cold boiled chicken, dip the slices into well-seasoned mayonnaise and fill the cake, then put on the top. The dark part of the chicken must be freed from skin and bone, finely minced and seasoned with onion juice, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of chopped chives and enough mayonnaise to make a spreading paste. Spread the top of the shortcake, thickly garnishing with olives stuffed with anchovies, and serve at Substantial Tea Cake. One pound of flour, half a pound of beef suet, a quarter of a pound of butter, half a pound of currants, a quarter of a pound of peel, six ounces of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt and a small quantity of milk. Mix the flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, butter, currants and peel; then add the shredded suet. Add sufficient milk to make it to a stiff paste; turn on to a slightlyfloured board or slab, roll out to a thickness of about half an inch. Bake in a quick oven and serve hot; cut into diamonds.

Breaded Lamb Kidney.

Skin 12 very fresh lamb kidneys, then cut them into slices crosswise. Cut the same number of thin slices of lean bacon, half-inch square and evenly arrange them alternately on six skewers. Season all over with half teaspoonful each of salt and pepper. Roll them in a tablespoonful of oil, then in bread crumbs, arrange on a double boiler and broil on a brisk fire for four or five minutes on each side. Remove, dress on a hot dish, pour a little melted butter over them

Corn With Chicken.

Put one can of corn, half-cupful flour, one tablespoonful butter, one beaten egg, half-teaspoonful salt and half as much pepper in a double boiler and cook, adding a little sweet milk if it seems too thick. Lastly, add two cupfuls chicken meat. When cold cut in slices and fry in hot butter or hot chicken fat, if you have it. Serve while hot.

Sardine Toast.

This old recipe has much to recommend it. Take six sardines, two eggs and sufficient cayenne. Scale and bone the sardines, boil the eggs hard and chop them. Lay first the chopped the sardines seasoned with cayenne, and put in the oven.

COLONEL WANTED THAT BIRD

Prospect of Turkey Dinner Made Him Overlook Any Little Dereliction of the Drummer.

During the Civil war one of the drummers, while the regiment was on the move, had a penchant for foraging on his own account, and the chickens had to roost high to escape his farreaching hands. Whenever night overtook them this drummer had a good supper provided for himself. On one occasion he had raked in a couple of turkeys, and had put them into his drum for convenience in carrying. When the regiment was halted for the night the colonel immediately ordered dress parade, and the drummers were expected to beat up. The forager made his drumsticks go, but the quickeyed colonel noticed that he was not drumming. "Adjutant," said the colonel, "that man isn't drumming. Why ain't he drumming?" The adjutant stepped up to him, saying: "Why ain't you drumming?" "Because," said the quick-witted drummer, "I have got two turkeys in my drum, and one of 'em is for the colonel." The adjutant went back, and the colonel asked, "What is "Why, he says he has got two turkeys in his drum, and one of 'em is for the colonel." Up to this point the conversation had been carried on in a low voice, but when the adjutant reported, the colonel raised his voice so that all could hear: "What! sick is he? Why didn't he say so before? Send him to his tent at once."

SEES FINISH OF SPARROW

That They Are Good to Eat Be Widely Distributed.

The polemic concerning the sparrow goes merrily on with letters in the press in favor and in reprobation of the saucy little bird. The Art World is taking part in the discussion. We

Granted that the sparrow and starling are undesirable immigrants, what are we to do with them? As Sydney Smith with serious face to the economist anxiously asking "What shall we do with our raw materials?" answered boldly: "Cook 'em," so we say to those who grumble at sparrow and starling: "Trap 'em, fat 'em, eat 'em!"

This is far better tactics than the war of extermination suggested by one man, since instead of appealing to a few reformers whose labor would have to be paid for and their energies confined to a few places, it enlists young and old in the primeval game of hunting for food. In the Bronx it is almost impossible, despite the law, to save any birds from the ravages of the immigrant Italian. Let the news once get a start that sparrow pie is as good as robin pie and the result is certain. The balance will be re-established, the sparrow put in his place, viz.: the pie, and the native song birds will be relieved of a worse enemy than cats.

Croesus.

Croesus was an ancient king of Lydia, a country in Asia, who lived about 500 B. C. No estimate ever was made of his wealth, but as he had great opportunities to accumulate, it probably was large. He seems to have been a purse-proud man and a braggart, for history relates that when Solon, the great Athenian lawgiver, visited him, Croesus made an ostentatious display of his treasures and pressed Solon to acknowledge him as the happiest of mortals. But the story goes that the wise old Athenian answered: "Count no man happy before his death," a saying which has passed into a modern proverb. Many years afterward, when Croesus was defeated in one of his long wars and was taken prisoner and was about to be burned alive, he recalled Solon's prophetic remark and saved his own life by telling the story of Solon's visit. His captors were so impressed by the story and the spectacle of his broken fortunes that they released Croesus, but he never had a chance to boast of his wealth

What Might Have Stopped Her. Robert had spent much of his summer in his father's new car, and was quite well versed in automobile terms. About seven o'clock one night a friend telephoned she was coming over to spend the evening. She lived only six blocks away, and, as always, would walk. But by 8:30 she had not arrived, although we knew she had started, for her mother had telephoned to speak to her, thinking she was at

"I thought that girl was coming over here tonight," remarked Robert, playing on the floor at my feet.

"I'm afraid she isn't coming," I said; "she must have stopped somewhere on

This Enterprising Age.

What are we coming to? If people in Los Angeles can hear a New York concert over the phone, as was done in connection with the Mendelssohn Glee club golden anniversary, why not develop the idea practically? Then Mrs. Hi Fyfe in Seattle will ring up the Metropolitan opera telephonic box office and say to the operator: "Switch me on for the second act of 'Boheme;' I want to entertain some guests after dinner." In that way the papers throughout the country could have their critics "cover" the New York, Boston or Chiegg or some hot buttered toast, then | cago musical events. And if the critic disliked the performance—simplicity! Just ring off.

DIRECTIONS FOR PREPARATION OF KITCHEN UTENSIL.

With a Small Expenditure of Money and Time This Most Useful Appliance Is at the Command of Any Housewife.

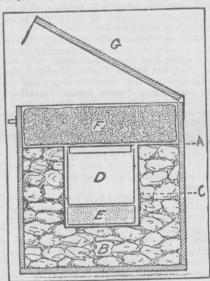

A fireless cooker capable of giving satisfactory service can be made in the home at slight expense, if directions prepared by the office of home economics of the department of agriculture are followed.

The outside of the cooker may be a tightly built wooden box, an old trunk, a small barrel, a large butter or lard firkin or tin, or a large galvanizediron bucket with close-fitting cover. In general, a well-built, convenientlysized box is perhaps most satisfactory. though the cookers entirely encased in metal have the advantage of being fire-

If a box is to be used, its size will depend on the size of the cooking kettle to be used in it and on whether there are to be one or two compartments. It must be large enough to allow for at least four inches of packing material all around the "nest" in which the cooking kettle is to be placed. For the sake of cleanliness and convenience the nest should be lined with metal and should be a trifle larger than the cooking utensil. If an extra source of heat, such as a hot brick or plate, is to be used, a metallic lining for the nest is imperative. For this purpose a galvanized-iron or other metal bucket may be used or, better still, a tinsmith can make a lining of galvanized iron or zinc which can be provided with a rim to cover the packing material. In case no hot stone or plate is to be used in the cooker, the lining can be made of strong cardboard. For the packing and insulating maused. Asbestos and mineral wool are good and have the additional advantage that they do not burn. Ground cork (such as is used in packing Malaga grapes), hay, excelsior, Spanish moss, wool, and crumpled paper may also be used satisfactorily. Of the inexpensive materials that can be obtained easily, crumpled paper is probably the most satisfactory, since it is clean and odorless and, if properly packed, will hold the heat better than some of the others. To pack the container with paper, crush single sheets of newspaper between the hands. Pack a layer at least four inches deep over the bottom of the outside container, tramping it in or pounding it in with a heavy stick of wood. Stand the container for the cooking vessel, or the lining for the nest, in the center of this layer and pack more crushed papers about it as solidly as possible. If other packing, such as excelsior, hay, or cork dust, is used, it should be packed in a similar way. Where an extra source of heat is to be used, it is much safer to pack the fireless cooker with some noninflammable material, such as asbestos or mineral wool. A cheap and easily obtained substitute is the small cinders sifted from coal ashes, preferably those from soft coal, which may be obtained at the boiler house of any mill. The cinders from hard coal burned in the kitchen range will do, however. Experiments with this material made by home-economics specialists of the department showed that it is very nearly as satisfactory as crumpled paper as a packing material. If a fireproof packing material is not used a heavy pad of asbestos paper should be put at the bottom of the metal nest and a sheet or two of asbestos paper should be placed between the lining of the nest and the packing material. Whatever packing material is used, it should come to the top of the container for the kettle, and the box should lack about four inches of being full. A cushion or pad must be provided to fill completely the space between the top of the packing and the cover of the box after the hot kettles are put in place. This should be made of some heavy goods, such as denim, and stuffed with cotton, crumpled paper, or excelsior. Hay may be used, but will be found more or less

Boston Guards With Jealous Care the Burial Places of Men Great in American History.

There is not another town in the United States, and probably none in the world, which has cherished the resting places of its great dead as has Boston. There are no less than a dozen cemeteries in and close about the city which bear on their headstones the names of famous men and women, many of whom died centuries ago. Most of these cemeteries are no longer burying grounds, having been for long years crowded to the utmost with white marble memorials to older generations; but they are preserved with the utmost care, no matter how valuable they may become for other purposes. Some of them front upon busy streets, and are surrounded by high business buildings: but reverence for the great names on the headstones keeps them intact.

One of the oldest of them all is the Granary burying ground, so called because the town granary once stood near it. In this little plot of ground lie the remains of three signers of the Declaration of Independence - John Hancock, Samuel Adams and Robert Treat Paine. Nine governors, including the famous Governor Hancock, are buried here, and so is Samuel Sewall, who sternly condemned so many witches to death, and wrote such an interesting diary about it. Here, too, lies John Hull, the colonial mint master, who gave to his daughter when she married Sewall her weight in Pine Tree shillings. Peter Fanueil and Paul Revere are buried here, too, and the most conspicuous monument of all is the one that Benjamin Franklin erected to his parents. Here is an acre of soil sown with the bones of men that made American history. No wonder Boston cherishes it well.

PUT NOVELTY'BEFORE BEAUTY

terial a variety of substances may be | Accusation That Has Been Made, With Some Reason, Against the Modern Woman of Fashion.

> An African girl who wears an iron bracelet will, according to one traveler, refuse a gold one except as a curiosity to be hidden. The more barbarous the people the greater the tenacity with which the average among them adhere to the thing that is "done," so that civilization hasn't invented codes of dress. In fact, dress forms have a more strict language and meaning in the South Sea islands than they have in a Chicago or Boston drawing room. Dress bigotry is greatest where fashions change the least-perhaps because change has not come to unsettle prejudice and keep the imagination free. Quite the opposite effect appears among fashionable women. Too often they lose their loyalty to a beautiful effect just as soon as it has fully happened. They are accused, in fact, of preferring novelty to beauty, even the beauty that harmonizes with their own personality.

Nasturtiums.

Nasturtiums can be grown during the winter in any warm room that has a sunny window. Strong sunshine is absolutely necessary, windows that have only a little sunshine, morning or afternoon, will not give good results.

The Pennsylvania department of agriculture recommends the filling of a pot six inches in diameter nearly full of soil; after it is pressed down there must be a space about three-quarters of an inch between the top of the soil and the top of the pot. This is to enable one to thoroughly water the soil.

In the center place three or four seeds of a climbing nasturtium, putting about half an inch below the surface of the soil. Then place the pot in the sunny window and provide a trellis of

The important thing to remember is that while the seeds are germinating and the plant young, great care must be taken not to provide too much water and so sour the soil.

Suppose.

In 1746 George Washington was offered a midshipman's warrant on a British man of war. His mother had at one time consented, but when the hour arrived she flatly rebelled, and as her signature was necessary to the enlistment, George did not at the age of fourteen become a British seaman. Suppose he had enlisted? He was the one indispensable man of the Revolution.

Suppose Gilbert Livingston had not voted New York into the Union at the constitutional convention? How many of us recall now that in a vote of 60 delegates from New York there was a majority for the union of but two, and Livingston was the man who determined the decision. Suppose the advance on Little Round Top at Gettysburg had been made on the day Lee ordered it instead of a day later? Suppose the confederates had marched on Washington after the victory of Bull Run?—Des Moines Register.

When Razors Were First Used.

Razors appear to have come into general use in France with Louis XIII. One authority has attributed the reason for the style of smooth faces at this time to the fact that the king came to the throne as a child and so, of course, beardless. Out of courtesy to the king, the courtiers shaved their beards so that they would "possess no luxury which their king could not share." From the courtiers the custom descended to the common people, and was also copied by the English, for whom the French even then cre ated the styles.

Lesson III .- Second Quarter, For April 15, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John x, 1-18-Memory Verses, 11, 12-Golden Text, John x, 11-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns

The Golden Text seems to be the heart of the lesson this time if not always. While in our lesson He is the Good Shepherd laying down His life for the sheep and giving unto them eternal life, with the assurance that they can never perish nor any power take them from Him (verses 11, 15, 27, 29), in Heb. xiii, 20, 21, He is the Great Shepherd risen from the dead. living His life in us and working in us that which is well pleasing in the sight of the God of Peace. In I Pet. v, 4, He is the Chief Shepherd who shall give rewards to His faithful followers at His appearing. In Gen. xlix, 24; Ps. lxxx, 1, He is the Shepherd of Israel. This last shall be fully seen when Ezek, xxxiv, 11-16, and verse 31 shall be fulfilled, and then shall be seen the significance of Ps. xxiii as never before in the history of the world. In our lesson chapter He is talking to Israel, but He spoke of other sheep whom He must bring (verse 16), and some of those we are now gathering to complete His body, the church, but the full gathering of the nations to Him shall be after Israel has learned to say, "The Lord is my Shepherd," according to Zech. ii, 10-13; "Many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day and shall be my people." Also Jer. iii, 17, "At that time they shall call Jerusalem the Throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it, to the name of the Lord to Jerusalem." He had been dealing with and was in the midst of thieves and robbers, who sought to enter the fold, but not by the door. They were persistently robbing God and making His house a den of thieves (Mal. iii, 8; Matt. xxi, 13). He is the door as well as the Shepherd, the only way of access to God, God's own appointed way, and it is not possible to come to God but by Him (verses 7-9; chapter xiv, 6). But by Him, the door, any man may enter in and be saved and in Him find pastures green and waters of quietness (verse 9), peace as a river and righteousness as the waves of the sea (Isa. xlviii, 17). All who are not Christ's are in the employ of the leader of all thieves and robbers and liars and murderers, the devil, of whom He said in a recent lesson that these religious hypocrites were his children (verse 10; viii, 44). With righteous wrath He denounced them in these words: "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" (Matt. xxiii, 33.)

The Spirit through Paul said to Elymas, who tried to turn a man away from the door to life, "O full of all subtility and all mischief, child of the devenemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?" (Acts xiii, 7-10.) Contrast the Good Shepherd, who by laying down His life for us has pro vided life, and life abundantly, for all who will receive Him. He gives freely that which He has purchased at so great a price, even the sacrifice of Himself. Life eternal, the water of life, eternal redemption and all that is included in such expressions become the sure and everlasting possession of all who receive Him, and there is nothing in the Bible that in any way conflicts with the positive assurances of verses 27-30. See Heb. i, 3; ix, 12, 26; Rem. vi, 23; iii, 24; Rev. xxii, 17 There can be no contradictions in the Bible, for the same Holy Spirit wrote

As to life abundantly, compare pardon abundantly and an abundant entrance into His kingdom (Isa. lv, 7; Il Pet. i, 11). The Lord gives not only freely, but fully, all that He has purchased for us, and He desires to be able to give full rewards for service in that day (II John 8) which He certainly will do if we have been faithful. Salvation is wholly of grace and the same to all, but the rewards will be according to our works (Rev. xxii, 12). Note the wonderful statement in verses 17, 18, that no man could take His life from Him, but that He laid it down of Himself, having power to do this, and to take it again. His was the only life that could not be taken from Him. It is true that they killed Him but it was because He allowed them to do it. He willingly suffered all that was put upon Him, leaving us an ex ample that we might follow His steps. who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when He suffered He threat ened not, but committed Himself to Him who judgeth righteously. Then having left us a perfect example and having no sin of His own, for He was without guile, He took the sinner's place and suffered in our stead, His own self bearing our sins in His own body on the tree (I Pet. il, 21-24).

Hirelings seek their own welfare rather than that of the flock, but true followers of the Good Shepherd seek the welfare of the sheep, not considering themselves. David took his life in his hand when he delivered part of his flock from the lion and the bear. but the Son of David actually laid down His life for His flock. When He putteth forth His sheep He goeth be fore them, and He only asks that we keep close to Him and follow Him fully (Deut. xxxi, 8).

PROPER WAY TO SMOKE MEAT

Soft Wood Should Not Be Used in the Process, for a Reason That Will Be Apparent.

The proper smoking of cured pork aids materially its keeping qualities and improves the flavor of the meat.

Brine-cured meat is ready to be smoked after it has been in the brine from five to seven weeks. After the meat is removed from the brine it should be soaked in lukewarm water, or in water at a temperature of 60 degrees, for about 24 hours. This dissolves the salt from the outside of the meat. If the meat is smoked without washing a coating of salt is found on the outside of the smoked meat, which detracts materially from its appearance. After the meat has soaked for a period of about 24 hours it should be taken out of the vessel and hung up on racks where the water can drain away or evaporate.

When thoroughly dry the meat should be hung up in the smokehouse. the pieces near the ceiling and at a short distance from one another so that all parts will be uniformly exposed to the smoke.

The selection of the fuel is of great importance. Soft woods should never be used, as they give off too much carbon which will be deposited on the outside of the meat, making it sooty and giving it a too-dark color. Green hickory, maple or other hardwoods should be selected. Corncobs make an excellent substitute.

A steady smoke for from 36 to 48 hours is sufficient for mildly smoked meat. If the meat is to be kept until late in the summer, it is well to smoke it for about three days. The fire should be kept low so that the minimum of heat is given off. When too much heat is given off the fat on the meat will melt and run over the meat, causing it to become streaky. Meat, when smoked sufficiently, should be of an amber color.

HOW TO RUN YOUR FURNACE

Saving of Coal and Better Service Will Be Had If These Instructions Are Followed.

There's a lesson for every householder in the pamphlet on how to save coal, just given out here by the anthracite bureau of information. Listen: Don't put in too much coal or too

Don't crowd it above the top of the firebrick lining in range, cylinder stove or hot-air furnace.

Fill the fuel space twice a day in winter weather, heaping the coal slightly in the center.

Don't add small quantities of coal several times a day, with attendant shakings. Shake the grate only twice a day before fresh coal is put in and stop when a bright light shows under-

Don't leave the feed door open; it cools the heating surfaces. To check draft, open the check damper in the stovepipe and shut the ashpit door.

See that the coal is properly consumed and not shaken through the grate to pass out with the ashes. Keep the ashpit empty.

Don't use the wrong size of coal; it's uneconomical.

If right size and quality of coal are used no ash sifter is required.

Two-Egg Cookies.

One cupful butter, two cupfuls sugar, two eggs, one-half to one cupful milk, four cupfuls pastry flour or less, six teaspoonfuls baking powder. Cream butter and add sugar gradually; add milk according as a rich, crisp or a less rich and soft cookie is desired. Diminish the quantity of flour and baking powder if less than a full cupful of liquid be used. Take a little of the dough upon the board at a time and handle as little as possible. The dough should be quite soft. If a cupful of milk be used, pat into a sheet and cut into cakes. After placing in the pan dredge with granulated sugar, Bake in a quick oven.

About Cream of Tartar.

If you have noticed that cream of tartar has gone up in price it may interest you to know that this is due to the scarcity of argol, from which it is made, and this in turn is due to the lessened manufacture of wine in France and Italy in the past year. Nearly all the argol produced is imported from those two countries. Argol is a crystalized deposit formed on the inside of casks and other receptacles in which the juice of grapes is kept for the manufacture of wine.

Sunshine Cake.

Three-quarters cupful strained honey, three-quarters cupful sugar, six eggs, one and a half cupfuls sifted Boil honey and sugar together until it will spin a thread from the tines of a fork. Beat the egg yolks until light, pour the sirup over them, beating until the mixture is cool. Sift in the flour last of all, fold in the stiffly-beaten whites. Pour into an angel-cake pan, lined with buttered paper, and bake in a slow oven for forty or fifty minutes.

Creamed Eggs With Fish.

If you have any remnants of cooked fish, flake them carefully free of skin and bone, add salt and pepper and mix with some white sauce and add a little mashed potato. Line some little greased pans with this, add an egg, as before, and put into the oven to set.

When Hemming Sheets.

STATE EXPERIMENT STATION IS ARRANGING FOR SOIL FER-TILITY TESTS.

LOCAL COOPERATION NEEDED

County Demonstration Agents Are Promoting the Establishment Of This Valuable Soil Work.

College Park, April 5.-Following an extended tour of the State, Dr. A. G. McCall in charge of soil investigations at the Maryland Experiment Station is arranging through county demonstration agents for a number of experimental fields throughout the State. In this Dr. McCall says:

"The Maryland Experiment Station, through its Department of Soils, is establishing a number of experimental fields in different sections of the State. Work is already in progress at Ridgley in Caroline County and at Leonardtown in St. Mary's County, and it is expected that a number of additional fields will be established during the coming season.

"For many years the Experiment Station has been making a study of the soils of the station farms in Prince George County, and the object of the present movement is to extend this work to include a study of the more important soil areas of the State. The object of these investigations is to secure, for the farmers of the State, definite knowledge in regard to: (1) the plant-food requirements of the crops to be produced; (2) the total stock of plant food contained in the soil; (3) the best methods of making this stock of plant food elements available by practical farm methods; (4) the most practical methods of supplementing or increasing the plant food supply in the soil; and finally (5) the systems of farming that will most profitably and permanently maintain the productive capacity of the soil.

"Each experiment field will contain 10 to 15 acres of land divided into series which will correspond to the different fields of a farm. Each series will be further divided into smaller areas, and these treated in such a manner as to obtain very definite information in regard to the needs of the particular soil. Definite rotations will be followed and the crops grown will be those common to the locality in which the field is located.

The limited funds at the disposal of the Experiment Station makes it impossible to establish experimental fields in all of the counties or to work on all of the different soils in any county, but the work will be extended as rapidly as the funds will permit. Farmers or other business men who are interested in this soil improvement work should consult their County Agricultural Agents regarding the establishment of fields in their county."

WEANING YOUNG CALVES.

College Park, April 5.-In a campaign for the growing of better and more profitable dairy animals, G. E. Wolcott, specialist in dairy work for the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, urges the recommendation made by the U.S. Bureau of Animal Industry regarding the feeding of young calves. He says:

"Weaning is a critical time, but if the calves are handled properly at that time there will usually be no trouble. That is the time to pay particular attention to cleanliness, care, and regularity. All pails must be scrupulously clean, and the pens kept clean and plenty of bedding supplied.

"Young calves require fresh, clean, and warm milk-not in large quantities but always a little less than the appetite demands. At first, four to five pounds of milk is sufficient for one feed when given twice daily. When fed in this way feeds should be as nearly as possible 12 hours apart. If it can be arranged, the calves should be fed three times a day for the first week and the quantity at a feed thus correspondingly

"Regularity must not be forgotten, for it is essential in calf raising. Regular feeding and a uniform quantity prevent much trouble. Never try to guess at the quantity of milk; weigh it! Don't estimate the temperature of the milk; use a thermometer! The finger is not sensitive enough to gauge the temperature of the milk when it is between 70 and 90 degrees F. The first is too cold, the latter is right. "The quantity of milk is increased gradually so that at two weeks of age the calves are getting daily, 14 to 16 pounds apiece. At that age, if the calves are vigorous, skim milk may be substituted for whole milk. Make the change gradually, substituting a pound at a time. Usually the change takes a week or 10 days, depending on the condition of the calves. At the same age, offer them a little clean, dry grain, such as bran; bright, clean hay also should be placed conveniently, if skim milk is plentiful, feed up to 20 pounds a day to each calf and continue for several months. When it is scarce, calves may usually be weaned at about six weeks and put on dry feed.

"The care during the first few weeks is very important if healthy calves are to be raised. Cleanliness, care, and regularity in feeding return good profits in strong, vigorous calves."

MAPS SAVE MANY MILLIONS

Work of the Government Geological Survey Is Having a Cumulative Effect.

The work of the government's oldest scientific bureau, the geological survey, is having a cumulative effect. as the years go by, in a thousand different ways in enhancing the economic efficiency of the nation. The fourdation of the geological survey's work is the construction of a great topographic map of the United States. Already 1,200,000 square miles, or 40 per cent of the nation's area, has been mapped. The distinctive characteristic of these maps, which are minutely accurate in every detail, is the contour lines, each line representing a certain altitude above sea level, the intervals in altitude represented by the distance between the lines being 10 to 100 feet according to the character of the country. These maps are of immense practical value. For example, when the Lackawanna railroad decided to relocate 34 miles of its main line a few years ago, the engineer of construction got down a geological survey map and, sitting comfortably at his office desk, ran all the preliminary surveys and even made the final location for his twelve million dollar improvement from the data on the printed sheet. It was only necessary to shoulder a transit and go out into the brush to verify the final location and drive stakes. - Charles Frederick Carter in World's Work.

WAR FORTUNES IN BRITAIN

Big Profits in Manufacture of War Munitions and in Other Lines of Industry.

War fortunes are being made in Great Britain, says the Edinburgh Scotsman, in the manufacture of munitions of war, in shipping, in coal, in many trades that have been stimulated to unusual energy and by fishermen-by the few who have been left to carry on that industry. Trawler skippers are driving their own motorcars and their wives and daughters ride in them clad in costly furs. Potato growers are gaining great wealth by the rise in "spuds." "A little over two months ago," says the Scotsman, "a South Lincolnshire farmer sold his 1,000 acres of growing potatoes at £40 an acre, on the assumption that the price would be £5 a ton. He made a profit of over £20,000, but the purchaser is in a position to sell today at double the price he gave, and to make a profit on the deal of £40,000. Imagine £60,000 from 1,000 acres of potatoes! So much for the romance of the humble tuber, the staple food of so many hundreds of thousands of poor people, who will soon grimly wonder where the romance comes in, if today's abnormal prices are not immediately readjusted, and potato exploiters taught that there is a limit to profit mongering, even although the nation is in the throes of a great war."

Strange Cause of Fire.

How a terrible fire that gutted an entire New York tenement house was caused by a combination of a milk bottle, a lamp and a peaceful tabby cat is one of the incidents brought out in an article on "Curious Fires" by Charles T. Hill, in St. Nicholas. The cat in question was reposing in the open back window of a first floor flat in the tenement of a spinster who was called into the front room just at the moment when an irate lodger in the house at the rear, exasperated by the nocturnal concert of two undomestic tabbies on the rear fence, shied a milk bottle at them which landed wide of its mark and crashed against the tenement window sill. The spinster's tabby, dazed with fright, gave one fearful leap, clutched at the table cover and overturned the lamp.

A Sure Way.

Congressman Charles R. Davis of Minnesota relates that one afternoon a train on a Western railroad stopped at a small station, when one of the passengers, in looking over the place, found his gaze fixed upon an interesting sign. Hurrying to the side of the conductor, he eagerly inquired: "Do you think that I will have time to get a soda before the train starts?" "Oh, yes," answered the conductor.

"But, suppose," suggested the thirsty passenger, "that the train should go on without me?"

"We can easily fix that," promptly replied the conductor. "I will go along and have one with you."-Arge-

Smoke Less, Read Less, Too.

In the last year Harvard students have smoked fewer cigarettes and cigars and have played billiards and pool less than they did a year ago.

There was a loss of about 20 per cent in the sale of cigarettes and cigars. Harvard students spent $3,042 for tobacco in 1915 and only $2,537 in 1916.

For billiards and pool, $1,325 was spent in 1915 and $1,292 in 1916. Curiously enough, the reading habits of Harvard men slumped last year. In 1915, $1,325 was spent for reading matter; in 1916, $1,292.

"The day after election," said Miss Rankin, "it looked very much as if I had not been elected, but it seemed to me that the campaign had been nevertheless worth while because the women had stood together, the women had learned solidarity. It seemed to me that that one thing had that this breakfast this morning shows that the women are standing together.
