BRIEF NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Gleaned from the County and State and our Exchanges.

Strange to say, the cotton States of the South are experiencing a drouth so serious that the cotton yield is in great danger, particularly in Georgia. There is also a general dryness west of the Mississippi river.

The 19th Annual Reunion of the Reformed Churches of Carroll County will be held at Baust, on Thursday, Aug. 23rd. Revs. Frank H. Blatt, of Manchester, and Chalmers W. Walck, of Westminster, will de-

The gross quota of troops repuired from Maryland was 14,139, but de-ducting the 7018 men the State furnished the National Guard and regular army, leaves 7096 to be drafted in the State for the first call for

A pair of shoes lasts a soldier in the trenches in Europe, only about three weeks. Shoe and clothing repair shops are maintained as absolute necessities. American army headquarters in France have already demonstrated their inability to supply the needs of the troops.

Carroll County has now been well covered with Red Cross branches, and where none have been located the sections are being actively canvassed. Dr. Woodward has been untiring in his efforts, and it will not be his fault if the county does not meet its full apportionment.

A mining town in Arizona, last week, got busy, rounded-up all of the I W. W. (International Workers of the World) loaded up about 1200 of them in cattle cars and shipped them out of the State, the work being done by a sheriffand his posse. Some who openly sympathized with the I. W. W. were sent along. Afterwards the mines were opened and work went on

In view of the war necessity for restricting passenger train service, Elisha Lee, General Manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and its directly operated lines east of Pittsburgh, has issued a personal request to all employes, reminding them of the special need for care "in observ-ing their courteous obligation not to occupy seats when pay passengers are standing."

While hundreds of New York kousewives were vainly protesting against the high prices of potatoes, which they were assured was caused by the scarcity of the supply, 30,000 pounds of fine Southern spuds were carted to the New Jersey dumps last Saturday, according to reports made to Lucius Brown, director of the Bureau of Foods and Drugs. These potatoes had rotted in the cars while being held for higher prices.

The encampment of soldiers at Gettysburg, has attracted a large number of undesirable characters to both Gettysburg and Hanover, notwithstanding police regulations, and the papers are beginning to speak very pointedly of the disgraceful actions of both men and women. The most of the soldiers are a clean, decent lot, but among so many there are some who disgrace the army. Many of them have been going to Hanover and York for "booze."

Sixteen suffrage pickets, in Washington, were on Tuesday fined $25.00 each, or sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse. They refused to pay, and were committed to prison. some of the ladies are of exceptionally high standing, the judgment of the Court has aroused much feeling. The sentences grew out of the so-called "picketing" of the White-House and the President, and was a very unpopular act. The President has since pardoned the ladies, without comment.

Five per cent loans to farmers under the Federal farm loan system are being approved by the Federal Board at the the rate of $800,000 a day, the board announced on Wednesday. With more than $100,000,000 affected by applications for loans that are still awaiting issuance of charters to the organizations of which the borrowers will be the members, the board, up to the close of business July 15, had chartered 432 farm loan associations, whose loans aggregated $20,699,337. These associations have an average membership of eighteen formers each, the average loan to the individual farmer being $2250.

Liquor manufacturers and dealers who have whiskey in bond under care of Joshua W. Miles, Collector of Internal Revenue, are taking time by the forelock and getting their holdings ont of bond while the getting is good and the taxes are low. While Congress debates on the proposition to seize all whiskey not under the Government's thumb in the bonded warehouses or to raise the tax from $1.10 a gallon to $2.20 the present owners of the whiskey are withdrawing it from the warehouses at the rate of 100,000 gallons a day. It was stated at Mr. Miles' office that this is almost the limit of withdrawal capacity with the present force of 29th, in placing before the people the gaugers, and was also probably about the limit of shipping facilities for work of this noble organization of relief and mercy such freight or express.

A Memorable Harvest.

The farmers of Carroll County will remember the harvest of 1917 for many years to come. The harvest when big crops were urged by the government as an aid to help out the food situation caused by the European war, and when the farmers responded to the call, using their best efforts. How one hail storm followed another, devastating the wheat fields over a large section of the County; and how a rainy season set in, just at cutting and hauling-in time, that caused the further loss of thousands of bushels of the needed grain, over the remaining portions of the County.

For 11 days, consecutively, beginning with July 8th, a shower—some times more than one—has fallen every day, giving but little chance for field work. Those who had their wheat crop uncut saw it get damaged on the stalk, while those who cut early are little beter off, being prevented from hauling it in, and losing by sprouting in the shock.

At present writing, much of the wheat is still in the field, and it is not possible to estimate what the loss will be, even should there be no further trouble from rain. Even some that has been placed under cover is in danger from heating, because of hauling before dry, and there will be much loss from shattering in handling that which is still ont. Those who made round shocks, with caps, are the best off, but all wheat will be off-color for milling. Some corn fields and potato patches are in bad shape, also, due to inabaility to work them, while the growth of weeds continues, and the oats and hay crops arestill in a doubtful condition; therefore, from every point of view, farming has been a discouraging business this year, following an exceptionally fine early outlook, and the final history of the harvest can not now be writen. Unless the rains cease, the wheat and potatoes will yet actually rot in the fields.

Farmers and Wheat Prices.

Farmers are closely following the wheat market and wondering what share of the high prices they will get this year for their product. Many of the less optimistic farmers are expecting a big drop in prices and are looking for prices not much more than

The feeling seems to be broadcast also that the Government will prevent the very high prices that prevailed for last season's grain, principally, however, after most local farmers had sold. The rising market was attributed largely to the speculators.

There are many complicated questions to be reckoned with in estimating future prices. No one knows. Any opinion ventured is little more than guess work. From Chicago, the great grain centre, comes the same story. There is much concern there as to who is to handle the new wheat crop and how it is to be done. The grain men feel the quicker they know, the better it will be for the best interests of all. They appear to be more uneasy about it than are the farmers who have the wheat on their farms. They are not urgent sellers as yet and await the movement of the Government. They have been told that they should have good prices.

But the point is, what would be a good price under existing conditions Some think $1.75 on the farms a high Others believe the farmers should have the right to $2.00 or better; that there should be no limit on his output, since he has to assume more risks that are impossible to control than any other interest, and, therefore, that no maximum figure should be set, even if a minimum figure is prescribed. The farmer argues that all other interests are securing two or three times and even more than normal for their goods; so why should he be barred from doing the He should be allowed, he thinks to take advantage of the onportunities the same as any other interest. His crops are needed in this country and abroad, and he is not at the mo-ment disposed to sell freely. What he will do a little later remains to be seen.—Gettysburg News.

A Correction.

We had our figures badly astray, last week, when we said about 325 acres had been planted in corn for the cannery at Taneytown. We should have said 725 acres—quite a considerable difference.

An Appreciated Comment.

Paul H. Bowman, A. M., President of Blue Ridge College, writes the Record: "I want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the splendid work which you did on our catalog. Everybody is well pleased. It shows good taste, careful attention to details, and very efficient service."

RED CROSS SUNDAY.

The pastors of all the Churches in Carroll County will be requested to observe Sunday, July 29th, as Red Cross Sunday.

There seems to be some misapprehension even among many well formed people, as to the work of the Red Cross Society has done in the past, is doing today and must do in the days, months, and perhaps years that are immediately before us. is hoped that every pastor in the county will devote at least a few minutes of the service on Sunday, July

RED CROSS MEETING HELD IN TANEYTOWN

Stirring Addresses, and Permanent Organization of Chapter.

A meeting in the interest of the Red Cross Relief Fund was held in Taneytown, on Saturday night, in the Opera House. We regret to say, the attendance was small, and chiefly women, due in part to the fact that Saturday night is always a busy night in town, and not a desirable

George H. Birnie called the meeting to order, and presided during the evening. Rev. L. B. Hafer offered

The first speaker of the evening was Geo. W. Clabaugh, a former citizen of this district, but for years a resident of Omaha, Nebraska. He paid a glowing tribute to Red Cross work, and especially to the part women take in it, as well as to their active work and sacrifice in all lines relating to the relief of suffering. He emphasized the fact that this war is making it clear that we are "our brother's keeper;" that this is a war for the benefit of future generations, and we must not permit ourselves to have a feeling of regret, when it is all over, that we had no part in it.

Father Cuddy, the next speaker, made the general statement concerning the unwillingness of this country —the President, Congress, the people generally—to enter into war. He pointed out that the situation which forced us to take sides stood for definiteness of character, a trait that has been dormant in our people, and undeveloped. That we need schooling in self-denial and sacrifice; something to destroy our extreme selfishness and love for luxury, and this war is doing it. The hour is one for action—a time for every man, woman and child to show love for country and to prove our merit and worth by The spirit of loyalty to constituted government must prevail, even to the extent of that fearless patriotism that faces death itself.

Dr. Woodward then spoke of the Red Cross as a great movement found wherever suffering exists, gave a brief sketch of the work, so far, in Carroll county, the preliminaries in Taneytown, and stated that perma-nent organization of the local chapter should now be effected.

The following officers were nominated and elected:

Rev. L. B. Hafer, Chairman; Miss Rev. L. B. Hafer, Chairman; Miss Anna Galt, Vice-chiarman; Miss Eliza Birine, Secretry; Mrs. Walter A. Bower, Treasurer, and the following Executive Committee: Rev. J. S. Cuddy, Rev. S. R. Downie, Rev. Guy P. Bready, Milton A. Koons, G. Walter Wilt, Clyde L. Hesson, Dr. F. H. Seiss Miss Amelia Annan Mrs. Seiss, Miss Amelia Annan, Mrs. Lavina Fringer, and Mrs. H. B. Miller. The officers are members of this Commitee, and the following members have also been added-D. J. Hesson, Geo. H. Birnie and Rev. W. J. Marks. Mr. Birnie then introduced the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. Samuel M. Hann of the Fidelity Trust Co., Baltimore, and in so doing paid a high tribute to his ability, and to his excellent work in behalf of the sale of Liberty Loan bonds. Mr. Hann was eloquent, forceful and convincing. He declared that we are pronouncedly a commercial and material people, and that this obscures our conception of higher and greater things; that whenever a peo-ple lacks a knowledge of truth and the clearer vision, such Nations perish; all Nations seem to have knowingly set their hearts against the truth that God reigneth-"He that doeth the will of God, abideth for-

When all of God's laws are broken we can't have peace. The whole world has been sinning, for "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." He gave a sketch of the inception and gradual growth of German militarism; portrayed the corruption in officircles—the licentiousness and greed-of Austria and Germany, and the final supremacy of the latter; that the people in Germany have little real power, but that the Bundes-rath—the war-lord body—is the word Eloquently he pictured the truth that the greater part of the world, and Germany in particular, has been breaking every law of God to make a few more dollars; that God has been left out of the count, and materialism has been at the front. He declared energetically against the selfishness and stinginess of the American peo-ple, and plead that we might yet have share in the privilege of reducing war in the world. All that we have is God's; we can't afford to misuse his bounties and have no share in the glory of service rendered "when the boys come home.'

Assessors Appointed.

The County Commissioners have appointed assessors for the county, at $2,00 for every $1,000 of assessable property they return, eligible to go on the tax books. The appointments District No .1-Edmund F. Smith.

County Agent Notes.

Those who want to seed alfalfa, this fall, should keep the ground worked down from now until about the 20th of August, so as to have a firm seed bed, and be ordering good Kansas or Nebraska seed, and if they kansas or Nebraska seed, and it they intend to use commercial cultures to inoculate, should order them in plenty of time. They can be had from the H. K.Mulford Co., Philadelphia; O. M. Scott & Son, Marysville, Ohio, and from a company or two in Baltimore, and cost a dollar an acre. Better results can be got by getting ton soil sults can be got by getting top soil from a good alfalfa field, late in the evening or on a cloudy day, and scat-tering 200 pounds or more to the acre and harrowing it in.

The Government, the railraods, the dealers and all interested are urging farmers to order their fertilizers, at once, so that cars can be loaded to capacity and thus help out with the car shortage. The most common wheat fertilizer runs about two or three per cent nitrogen, eight to ten phosphoric acid, and two or three per cent potash. The purpose of the nitrogen is to give the wheat a start in the Fall. Wheat is sown at least a month later than it would be if there were no such thing as Hessian Fly. To make up for this loss of time, some soluble nitrogen, generally nitrate of soda, is used. European farmers sow broadcast a hundred pounds or so of nitrate of soda to the acre, in the early Spring, to give the wheat a start. Nitrate of soda and ammonium sulphate are now worth about $100 a ton, and so cannot be profitably used. The nitrogen in mixed fertilizer, at the present time, is dried blood, meat scrap, etc., from the packing houses. Even the blood which is the best of the lot, requires considerable time to become available so it is a question whether it would answer the purpose for which nitrogen is wanted in the Fall unless sown before the wheat, and whether or not it would not be washed away by spring, so if I were buying fertilizer for wheat at the present time, I would use only a phosphate fertilizer. Phosphorous is necessary to form grain, and hence it is the most necessary thing for wheat at any time. There are two main sources of phosporous; the rock of South Carolina, Tennessee and Florida, and the bones of animals, or the ground bones from the slaughter houses. The raw rock, even when ground fine, is very slowly soluble. To make it more so it is treated with acid. Acid is needed to make explosives, and hence is high, so acid rock is also higher than usual. The majority of acid rock contains about 16 per cent phosphoric acid. Raw bone is also very slowly available bone corresponds to acid phosphate. Good steamed bone runs about 20 per cent phosphoric acid. One is about as good as the other and the one to be used will depend on the price.

Lime is not necessary for wheat or corn but it will be good for the clover that is to follow, and it is beneficial to heavy clay soils. The kind to use depends on the price. 56 pounds of burned lime is the equivalent of 70 pounds of hydrated lime, and 100 pounds of ground limestone. All will be calcium carbonate, or ground limestone, within a day or two after put on the ground. It is to be regretted that there are not a number of grinders in the limestone sections of the county, from which the farmers could get ground limestone at a reasonable price, say $2.00 a ton. In 1915 the peniteitiary at Laurenceville, Ill., sold ground limestone at 80c a ton loose, and $1.00 in bags, f. o. b. GROVER KINZY.

Senators Charge Draft Juggling.

Padding of census figures in various northern States so as to work inequality in the operation of the selecive draft system and favoring the aliens was charged by Senators Lodge, of Massachusets; Brandegee, Connecticut, and Pomerene, Ohio, in a Senate debate, on Tuesday, over a resolution calling on the Census Bureau to explain how it had arrived at its method of calculation. The three Senators allegd that severe injustice will be done many communities if the system is not revised so as to make a more impartial draft throughout the country. Two of the Senators are Republicans, the other Democrat and a firm supporter of the Administration.

Senators Lodge and Brandegee criticized the system as giving exemtion to large numbers of aliens in various communities, while forcing nativeborn or naturalized Americans to enlist in greater proportion, virtually to fight for the aliens who stay at home. Senator Lodge insisted that either aliens ought to be obliged to fight in their own countries or that the draft system be changed so that the quota of enlisted men in these largely alien communities will not be

Senator Brandegee remarked that the Administration appears to have created a draft system that relieves the South of "anywhere near the pro portion of conscripts that the North must provide." Senator Lodge maintained that the Census Bureau ought to explain at once the padding of Enrollment Lists for Draft.

We have secured the enrollment lists for Districts Nos. 1, 2 and 10, which are "unofficial," but believed to be correct. We regret that we do not have the time or space to give the lists for every district in the county, but give those in which our largest circulation lies. See page 5 of this issue. We do not guarantee the list to be entirely free from mistakes in numbers.

Junk Dealers Must Pay.

Efforts of the State to collect the tax imposed on junk dealers by what is known as the McMullen Revenue law will be renewed, following the decision of the Court of Appeals, upholding the constitutionality of the section, which has been under attack in the courts. The Sheriff's office is expected to proceed in the matter at McMullen law, which was passed by the Legislature of 1916, imposed license taxes on a number of different occupations carried on in Maryland. The section affecting junk dealers imposed a flat tax of $250 per year on those carrying on business in Baltimore city, and smaller amounts, graded according to the populations of cities and counties outside of Baltimore city.

A number of junk dealers declined to pay the tax and the grand jury returned indictments. The test case was that of Jacob S. Shapiro, who was charged with doing business without the license. His attorney, Henry M. Siegel, filed a demurrer to the indictment on the ground that the section was unconstitutional. Judge Gorter, in the Criminal Court, took that view of the law, sustained the demurrer and dismissed the fendant.

The State then appealed to the Court of Appeals, where the case was argued by Attorney-General Albert C. Ritchie and Philip B. Perlman, assistant to the Attorney-Gen-The Court of Appeals decided that the law was constitutional, reversed Judge Gorter and remanded the case back to the Court for trial. A number of important objections to the law were disposed of by the decision, which probobly assures to the State a large amount of new revenue.

DRAFT SERIAL NUMBERS.

All persons subject to draft can get their serial numbers by telephoning Westminster, No. 123, and ask for the Local Exemption Board, between the hours of 8 A. M., and

The drawing will take place today, Friday, in Washington, and the numbers announced in every registration district as soon as they are known.

A Red Cross meeting will be held in the hall, at Frizellburg, Monday night, at 8 o'clock, to which the public is earnestly invited. Speakers will be present.

Primary Date May Be September 13.

The State law provides that the primaries must be held on some day between the 8th and 15th of Septembetween the sth and 18th of September, agreed upon by the chairman of the two leading political parties, and in the event of their being unable to agree, it shall be held on the second Monday in September. As September 8 and 9 fall on Saturday and September 12 and a legal Sunday, September 12 on a legal holiday and September 15 on Satur-day, only four days remain open, and one of these happens to be Friday, on which day neither side wants an election. So there remains Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The supervisors do not take kindly to Monday, as the election on that day would necessitate the distribution of books, etc., on Saturday or Sunday evening, hence the available days are Tuesday, the 11th, and Thursday, the 13th.

Tuesday is regarded as the day best suited, and it is more than likely that this will be the day selected, but in order that they may proceed with their arrangements it is incumbent on the heads of the two organizations to meet and agree, if possible, at an early day.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, July 16, 1917.—David R. Rinehart and J. Walter Englar, administrators, w. a. of Lincoln W. Rinehart, deceased, received an order to transfer stock and settled their first and final account.

Tuesday, July 17, 1917.—The Union Bridge Banking and Trust Compay, guardian of W. Elmer Shank, settled its first and final account. Harry M. Powers, administrator of Edgar M. Powers, deceased, settled his first and final account. The last will and testament of Robert C. McKinney, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters test-amentary thereon were granted unto John C. and Andrew B. McKinney, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

Letters of administration on the estate of Francis J. Albaugh, late of Carroll county, deceased, were granted unto Dorothy A. Morton, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

Maryland State Guard.

Former members of the regular army or National Guard who are prevented by any reaosn from going abroad will have their chance soon, right here in Maryland. The State Council of Defense in session Tuesday at the Union Trust Building, took the first steps toward the organization of the State Guard, which will take the place of the National Guard when it leaves for Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala.

The Council called Adjutant-General Warfield into consultation and requestioned him to proceed with the forming of the State Guard as soon as possible. At present the Adjutant-General's office is swamped with work in connection with the draft, but as soon as this is finished General Warfield will turn his attention to the State Guard.

The first step he will take will be to find officers for the new force, and he is anxious for all persons in the State who have had sufficient military experience to qualify as officers to volunteer in person or in writing at his office in the Maryland Trust Building. Applications for enlistments in the new guard are not wanted yet, but the names of prospective officers will be received at any time, as it is on these that the framework of the force must be built.

The State Guard will consist of about 800 men. The Legislature authorized "not over 1,000 men," but it is planned to start with 800. It will use the machinery left behind by the National Guard, such as the State armories, and will be distributed throughout the State in much the same fashion. It will occupy the same status as the National Guard in peace times, holding weekly drills and being subject to call at all times. Some units of the new guard may be placed on active duty, as guards for various important spots, but the new force will not be federalized. It will be wholly in control of the State, and its expenses will be paid out of the Maryland treasury.

the Star-Spangled Banner! Oh, long may it wave O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave.

Somebody's "boy" is always the recipient of Red Cross aid. Very soon, in all probability "our boys," or "my boy," will need this help. Who can hold opposition to this class of work, and be inspired with love for our neighbors-for our own flesh and blood? Get the clear vision on the subject, then act!

Apparently there is a good sized army, of excellent material, within the membership of the professional baseball fraternity; and drafting it might lower the "cost of living" for a good many, and without any serious detriment to the country as a whole. Baseball players can be spared a lot more easily than farmers and mechanics.

A speaker representing the American Press Association, made a statement in Chicago that the government has no more right to commandeer newspaper space than it has to commandeer the output of the steel companies, and advises all newspapers to refuse to give even Liberty Loans and Red Cross appeals free advertising. This sounds like business-but, it is not in line with newspaper generosity.

A great many people let their opposition to the war, extend also to opposition to the Red Cross work. The latter is in nowise responsible for, nor in sympathy with, the former. The Red Cross reduces sufferingdoes not produce it. It is as necessary, in war times, as are hospitals and surgeons in peace times. Let nobody-honestly or otherwise-be prejudiced against this type of Good Samaritanism. Only ignorance, or wilful misrepresentation, can take such an attitude.

Permission to be charitable, is a great privilege in itself. How inexcusably selfish-how much an exhibition of the dumb animal in us-to assume actual proprietorship of that which we call "ours." For centuries and centuries we have failed to learn the instability, the uncertainty, of life itself, and the great truth connected with why we live. "What fools these mortals be." Often when we say we "can't afford" to give, we tell a deliberate untruth. In most cases, we can't afford not to give.

Farmers have been having unusual difficulties to contend with, this summer. The whole state, as never before, has been shown the many dangers attending the growing and harvesting of crops; but, the greatest truth shown is the goodness and helpfulness of God in permitting us, at any time, to draw subsistence and profit from the soil. Lest we forget, it may be, our difficulties are often made more numerous; and we do forget, more often than we are properly thankful. The season, therefore, has a serious lesson for us.

Postmasters, who already get good salaries from the government, are paid $5.00 for each army recruit they receive, and pay practically no taxes on P. O. epuipment. Newspapers, on the other hand, are taxed fore, to pick able, tried and trusty to the last dollar for State and County puropses on their plant, also their shares of stock, pay a U. S. Revenue tax on net profits, and will in Carroll County, but four members inherit another tax of some kind in the War Revenue bill, and asked to chosen. The "Holding Up" of Food.

If it be true, as reported, that 30,-000 pounds of potatoes from the South were left rot, in New York, rather than sell them at a lower price than wanted, it is an offense that ought to be made criminal, if there is any legal way of doing so. An act like that could not occur in Germany, at least, but we do not like to go there for our ways of handling the food situation, nor for any other sort of wisdom.

It is quite probable that in this country there will be no wide-spread holding up of food supplies of the perishable class. As long as market prices are fair, there should be no speculative, or stubborn, holding back of such food by producers; but it is quite probable that, so far as grains are concerned, there will be at least a partial holding back, perhaps to a greater extent than usual, and should this assume formidable proportions, it may be a question for governmental action.

Unless this movement on the part of producers assumes such proportions, we do not see how it can be prevented, for apparently the farmer has as much right to speculate with his products as the big dealers and storage warehouses. And especially so, as long as cold-storage and other holding methods are considered within the law; but, the actual destruction of food, because of refusal to sell, is a different proposition.

There is, in fact, justification for a certain exercise of cold-storage methods. Food is thereby prevented from being dumped on the open markets, in certain seasons, and sold at ruinous prices, because the supply, for the time, may greatly exceed the demand. Preserving it, so as to equalize supply and demand, is in part a conservation expedient, and as such seems justifiable enough; but when it is done for the purpose of "cornering" a product, and securing an abnormal and purely speculative price, the method is open to the strongest condemnation, especially as neither the producer nor consumer benefits by the act.

Nobody relishes being made the victim of a "hold-up," which is the substance of the popular opposition to what we call "trusts." But, as we have frequently stated, the "trust" spirit is found in everybody who has anything to dispose of, whether it be farm produce, manufactured products, or labor, and it may be that we are going to have some new varieties to become acquainted with during the year ahead of us.

Congress Has Hard Job.

The present Congress has had the most difficult questions and situations to meet that have been before our country since the Civil War. It is a comparatively easy matter to sit at home, as laymen, and decide how things ought to be done; but most of us know so little about the ins and outs and side issues of many questions, that our opinions are all the more creditable to us if unexpressed.

Congress, by the way, is no more anxious for these troublous questions than we are; in fact, many Senators and Representatives realize that their official career will be cut short, because of the unpopular light their votes place them in with the people, while were it not for these questions their term of service would be much longer. Without doubt, the misunderstanding of the greatness of present public difficulties, will do injustice to many of our best public

But, it is so, always, that men must suffer for conscience sake. There is no such pleasing state as full ability to satisfy everybody. There are always men who "fall out" with others, merely because of disagreement between equally honest opinions and points of view. Judicial temperaments are sadly in the minority, and hasty judgments rule the majority, not always to the best interests of individuals, or the whole country.

The Next Legislature.

The next regular session of the Legislature will be one of the most important in the history of Maryland. We will still be in the midst of war next January when the session convenes. That measures of the utmost importance will be up for consideration is certain. These will concern affairs of war-for the war will bring ever-increasing and new problems to solve-and matters concerning State administration. The question of annexation will be up again and there will be local measures of much importance affecting the counties. It stands the people well in hand, theremen for the House of Delegates and for the Senate where vacancies occur. There will be no Senator elected of the House of Delegates must be and we believe they will- that the men to be chosen must stand foursquare on the question of prohibition, for State-wide prohibition will be one of the questions that the next Legislature must settle. It is proposed to make the State dry by statutory enactment and to this end Carroll must contribute four votes in the House of Delegates and one in the Senate. The vote in the Senate is assured. The votes in the House of Delegates will be assured, if the people return the four men who now hold seats there. We have had no opportunity to learn the desires of these men, but they are not among those who falter when duty calls and if the people manifest a desire to have them serve again, we believe they will consent, though every one of them will do so at a personal sacrifice.

For Carroll County this is not a question in which politics should be allowed to enter. The proposition to make Maryland dry is going through this time. If there was ever a time when this question was an issue of the first importance, that time is now. The war makes it so. And we believe when the time comes that the whole mighty influence of the Federal Government will be behind the movement to drive out the rum holes, just as the influence of the Navy Department was behind the move to make Prince George's County dry at the special session of the Legislature just ended. The Government will have learned by the time the next Legislature convenes just how much of a menace the saloon and bootleggers and vice resorts that abound in the vicinity of the camp and in Baltimore, is to the soldiery in camp. Public sentiment will demand that every moral safeguard be thrown around the camp at Annapolis where fifty thousand soldiers from our best homes, will be trained for the business of war. And the Federal Government will ask Maryland to do what the Congress has failed to do-remove the menace of the liquor evil. And it will be done, if the people of the counties are patriotic enough and far-seeing enough to send only men to Annapolis who will courageously stand for the

The primaries will soon be here. They are only about six weeks away. Until the intentions of the present members of the House of Delegates are made public, the voters should withhold all pledges to candidates who may seek the nomination. The question of prohibition in Carroll county will still be the big question in the coming election, for the reason we have stated. Carroll county must again lead the way. There must be no backward step. We can conceive of no greater misfortune, in this time of peril to the Nation, than that our solid dry delegation should be broken and a portion of our vote thrown to the wet side.—Hampstead Enterprise.

The Peace of Justice.

Addressing the National Conference on Foreign Relations of the United States, Charles Evans Hughes summarized the American ideal in a striking sentence: "We desire to establish international justice, not merely facilities for compromise or diplomatic adjustment." The situation in which the world finds itself today is a damning indictment of international compromise and diplomatic adjustment. The Berlin and Vienna congresses, in fact all the European peace congresses, have incubated the germ of the following war. If the present war is to be ended by compromise or diplomatic adjustment it will have been fought in vain. Nothing can justify the sacrifices the world has made except the ending of all war, and that can be attained only by the establishment of international justice in place of vain and provocative balances of power and war-breeding compromises and adjustments based on self interest and not on justice and right.

Hope of that devoutly to be desired consummation is encouraged by the decline of autocracy and the growth of democracy. The elimination of the Romanoffs and the Russian bureaucracy with their imperialist ambitions and lust for territorial aggrandizement lessens by so much the difficulty of keeping peace when restored. The overthrow of Hohenzollernism and the junker dreams of world domination by conquest must be an essential to any establishment of international justice.-Pittsburgh

Administrative System in War Time.

The American people have already shown the world their ability to act together and rise to great emergencies. They did not wish to go into the war, yet they are convinced of the essential justice of the cause for which we are fighting. They are entitled to the highest intelligence the country possesses in the conduct of its military affairs. It happens that our political system does not lend itself to those changes in cabinet posts that the more elastic parliamentary arrangements of Europe are constantly bringing about. Men who fill posts fairly well in times of peace may not be the right men in times of war. These are times in which it is reasonable to assume that no man would for a single day occupy any public office for reasons of his own personal ambition, if he believed that some other man could be found who would fill the place more efficiently.

It is hardly conceivable that any cabinet officer, under a system like ours, would not hand his resignation to the President and insist upon having it accepted at the very first moment when a more capable executive could be found to administer the duties of his post. Hundreds of the most efficient and highly trained men of America are giving their services, without pay and without newspaper publicity, upon government boards of one kind or another, all of them being willing to serve the country in however modest or subordinate a place. It happens in some instances that men of extraordinary talents are obliged to await the decisions of men above them of far less ability and experience; and these in turn may have to wait upon the final action of someone whose habits of mind are not decisive and whose inexperience is a handicap to the dispatch of business. The American public at the present moment is extremely submissive, and has been encouraged to accept the novel view that to find fault with official incapacity is a sort of disloyalty. Yet the truth is that it is essentially disloyal not to find fault with office-holders unless they are doing their work as well as it should be done.-From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for July, 1917.

The American Red Cross.

"The red cross as a badge of service for suffering humanity," says Mrs. Bellamy Storer, "dates back more than three hundred years, and its origin must be of interest at this time, when it has expended as a society into a multitude that ministers to the physical needs of our Army and Navy here and abroad. Camillus de Lellis was born in the Kingdom of Naples, in 1550. After serving in the Venitian army, he was badly wounded in the leg and sent to the hospital of San Giacomo in Rome, where he was so impressed by the horrors and filth of what was really a pest house, that he resolved to devote his life to suffering humanity; "to care for the plague-stricken and to nurse the sick in their own homes.' At 32 he was ordained a priest and set about founding a religious order "to serve the sick."

"They shall wear a red cross upon their breasts," said Camillus, "to remind them of the suffering of our Lord Christ. This will give them strength and encouragement." Sixtus V. confirmed the congregation in 1585, granting them in the brief a special permission to wear "the Red Cross." The American Red Cross, that is the organization, was founded and organized May 20, 1881, by Clara Barton. It was incorporated July 1. 1881, and authorized by President Arthur, in March, 1882.

Care for the Flag.

In song it may be permissible to refer to the emblem of the nation as the grand old rag, but even this is of doubtful propriety, when the flag means so much for the patriotism and purposefulness of the times. But to reduce the flag to the condition of a rag, and let it wave in that disreputable state is an offense to patriotism and to the purpose for which the flag is floated to the breeze. Either those business houses that fly the flag should cease the practice through motives of economy or they should replace the flag when it becomes worn, by a new one.

The war may last for years and the emblem of the nation would be fluttering in a state of rags the country over if there was as little attention generally given to the replacement of the worn flags with new ones as is displayed by some of the business houses of this city.

In like manner it should be impressed upon churches and other institutions that to display the flag in any state is not itself an act of patriotism, but to keep it in good state and to fly it in accord with the regulations for the display of the flag. The care of the flag is as important as flying the flag.-Balt. American.

CALF SCOURS REMEDY.

Treatment With Formalin Said to Pro duce Good Results.

It is generally understood that preventive measures are the best remedies for calf scours, which causes considerable trouble to some dairymen in raising calves on skimmilk, says the Kansas Farmer. The most important preventive measures are to guard against overfeeding, feed at regular periods, be sure the milk is at the proper temperature at feeding time, keep the pails and other utensils in which the skimmilk for the calves is kept thoroughly clean and sterile and also keep the pens and stalls clean.

There are two entirely distinct troubles, both of which have the symptoms of scours. One is from navel infection at time of birth, and the other is from indigestion. If a calf becomes sick within a few days after birth and dies within a day or two the case is probably navel infection. This trouble is often called white scours because the passages from the animals are general-

Indigestion is the cause of common scours. This generally occurs when the calf is from two weeks to a month old. Prevention is the best remedy. The common causes of indigestion are overfeeding, feeding milk cold or sour, feeding sweet milk one meal and sour the next and dirty pails, troughs or

Each calf should be watched careful-At the first sign of foul smelling dung its source should be determined, as this is one of the first indications of indigestion. The amount of milk fed should be cut to one-half the usual amount, and a dose of one ounce of castor oil in milk, followed by the formalin treatment, is advisable. The formalin treatment consists in giving one tablespoonful of formalin solution, made by adding one-half ounce of formalin to fifteen and one-half ounces of water, in each pint of milk fed. The amount of milk fed may be gradually brought back to normal after a day or

Many feeders have obtained good results from the use of blood meal as a means of correcting a condition of scours. Where the case is mild a teaspoonful of the dried blood is added to the milk at each meal.

PURE BREDS PAY.

Scrub Breeding.

Raising dairy heifers as commonly practiced by farmers is a money losing proposition, as shown by cost account records kept by the Ohio agricultural experiment station in thirty herds. The keeping of inferior stock is discouraged.

An average loss of $6.90 a head was figured on 361 calves raised to a year old. A further loss of $9.94 a head was found on raising 327 heifers from one to two years old. Only two dairymen out of thirty made a profit on rais ing heifers to two years old. Methods of feeding these heifers are above those commonly practiced on most dairy farms. The loss must be even greater under systems having no close management. Such a loss could not be made up by scrub animals, but high grades and pure breds bring prices above the cost of raising them. The disposal of inferior calves is one remedy to prevent such losses.

Corn Silage a Cheap Feed.

Because of the economy and convenience in feeding silage more silos are being built every season. This year will likely see a larger number erected to "can" the corn crop. Seventeen per cent more milk and 28 per cent more butter fat was produced by dairy cows fed largely silage than by others fed mainly a grain ration in a feeding test conducted at the Ohio agricultural experiment station. The silage ration produced butter fat at 13 cents a pound and the grain ration at 22 cents. Two pounds of dry matter can be produced in the form of silage at less cost than one pound in sugar beets, other tests have shown.

Creep For Pigs.

A creep which the pigs can crawl under and get away from their mothers to eat will pay for the few hours spent in building it. They will waste less feed when they have only those of their own size to fight; they will get more to eat when the older hogs don't have a chance to drive them away from the trough, and they will learn to eat grain and skimmilk earlier if given a private dining room.

When to Harvest Beans.

Harvest beans when at least three quarters of the leaves are ripe and when there is the least danger of rainy weather. Use a bean harvester or pul by hand. Allow the vines to dry a! least two or three days in the field and turn them occasionally to prevent

ALFALFA GROWING PROVES A SUCCESS

County Agents Urge a Well Prepared Seed Bed.

LIMING IS NECESSARY

The Soil Should Be Inoculated And Well Fertilized For the Best Results.

College Park, July 12.-In view of the many successful demonstrations in growing alfalfa conducted by Maryland farmers in co-operation with their county demonstration agents, there will be a considerable increase in the acreage seeded this year. That it is most important to give careful attention to details in seeding alfalfa has been repeatedly proven and in a circular issued by the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, W. B. Kemp, specialist in farm crops, brings the attention of alfalfa growers to a number of important facts. Mr. Kemp

"Alfalfa requires much more complete drainage than do other farm crops. Land inclined to be wet and springy in winter and early spring, although dry enough during the growing season to produce good crops of corn, wheat, oats and grass, is not drained well enough for alfalfa. On such land alfalfa is sure to be killedout sooner or later by heaving due to the frequent freezing and thawing so common some seasons.

"Liming for alfalfa is absolutely necessary on practically all Maryland soils; even in the natural lime stone sections. It makes little or no difference what kind of lime is used if the proper amount of each is applied. It is a question of cost and ease of handling rather than the effect upon the

"The amount of lime to use under average conditions is one ton per acre of caustic lime; i. e., burnt stone or lump lime, ground lime or burnt oyster shells. Hydrated lime should be used at the rate of 2600 to 2700 pounds and ground lime stone or ground oyster shells should be applied at the rate of 3600 pounds to 2 tons per acre.

"The best time to apply lime is the season before sowing the alfalfa. If, however, this is not convenient or is impracticable, it may be applied just before, or even after seeding, with the assurance of good results and no

TRANSFERRING BEES.

College Park, July 12.-Valuable suggestions are offered to Maryland beekeepers in a circular by G. C. Cale, of the Extension Service. Mr. Cale says in part:

"Transferring may be accomplished in several ways, but the following is suggested as the easiest:

A frame hive provided with one or two frames of worker comb or foundation is placed on the No Profit In Raising Dairy Heifers of stand of the colony to be transferred, and the latter colony set to one side and turned upside down. A box large enough to invert over this colony is then secured and the bees are drummed up into it by constantly beating on the sides of the hive with sticks. When most of the bees have gathered in the box they may be shaken on a cloth placed in front of the new hive and started running in by gently smoking them. The queen must be with the bees if the colony is to establish itself.

"Now the combs of worker brood (not the drone brood), in the old box may be cut out, fitted and tied with raffia or string into empty frames and given to the bees in the new hive. Any remaining space should be filled with frames of drawn worker comb or full sheets of foundation. The remaining wax in the old hive may be melted up and the hive itself disposed of.

RURAL MINISTERS' CONFERENCE.

College Park, July 12 .- The bulletin of the Maryland State College of Agriculture, announcing the Rural Ministers' Country Life Conference and School, July 30th to August 10th, prepared by Louis Ortmayer, Secretary, has just been issued. Mr. Ortmayer says: "The opportunity of the rural church is here. Never in the past has the country needed the steadying influence of a true Gospel as at the present time. Never before in the rural communities has the need of a moral dynamic, such as the virile religion alone can give, been so necessary. We are facing a tremendous task. Are we, the churches, thoroughly prepared for such a time? When Dwight L. Moody faced an extremely difficult task for the day he took extra time in the morning for mental and spiritual preparation. Is it not fitting and proper that we, the men of the country churches, take a few days this fall for a more thorough preparation in meeting the responsibilities that are ours? "The Country Life School and Conference at Maryland State College offers such an opportunity. The dates for the School are July 30th to August 7th, inclusive. The dates for the Conference are August 8th, 9th and 10th. Ministers of all denominations are invited to attend one or both of these gatherings. The leadership will be the best the nation affords. The expense is nominal. For further particulars address, The Secretary, Country Life Conference, Maryland State College of Agriculture, College Park.

DAIRYMEN FIND SILOS NECESSARY

Economize Feed and Labor Under War Conditions.

INSURE MILK FLOW

They Can Be Cheaply and Satisfac. torily Built By the Farmer Himself.

College Park, July 26.-In co-operation with the several County Demonstration Agents, the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service is urging the building of silos by the dairymen of the State. When grain is so high in price it becomes necessary for every dairyman to feed his cows some cheaper feed. No better feed for dairy cows has been found than silage. If you have as many as ten cows on your place, you should plan to have a silo. A cow will use about 3 tons of silage in a year and on an acre of good corn ground you can grow 8 to 10 tons of silage and possibly more. Neither will building a silo cost anywhere near as much as the expensive feeding of grain. Write to your County Demonstration Agent, asking him to furnish you plans for building a silo and an estimate of what it will cost. If you do not know who your Agent is, write to the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, College Park, Md. Your County Agent will not only furnish plans for building a silo, but will come to your farm and see that the work is properly started.

In this connection, G. E. Wolcott, dairy specialist for the Extension Service, recommends a cheap and satasfactory type of silo that meets the needs of the practical dairyman. Mr. Wolcott says: "A cheap silo that will keep silage perfectly and last for seevral years can be made by nailing the best grade of flooring to wooden hoops. The hoops are made of green white oak strips, one-half inch thick and four inches wide. The length of the strips will be determined by the diameter of the silo.

"The material required for the construction of a silo 10 x 24 feet is as follows:

"Foundation: - 21/2 yards crushed stone or gravel; 2 yards sand; 20 bags of cement.

"Lumber:-1,000 feet B. M. No. 1 flooring; 120 pieces white oak, 1/2 inch thick, 4 inches wide and 12 feet long "Hardware: -40 pounds of nails; 4 pieecs strap iron, 4 feet long with one end turned up two inches to a right angle. One one-half inch hole should be bored 2 inches from the other end and another 24 inches from the College Park, July 26.—Poultryman Roy H. Waite, of the Maryland Agriattention of poultry growers to the ad- them. vertising value of the high food value of eggs. Mr. Waite says: "Recently full-paged, colored advertisements have been appearing in most of the leading women's magazines, telling how a certain kind of baking powder will take the place of eggs. These advertisements say nothing about the decreased food values. During the winter the newspapers of the country contained many accounts of a boycott of eggs on account of high prices.

"'Eggs contain considerable quantities of protein, and, if not too high in price, have a wide, etc., etc., etc.' This was quoted from a recent publication, and is the way the value of eggs as compared with other similar food products is usually handled by writers on the subject. 'If not too high in price.' What is 'high in price?' "A few years ago eggs sold at a very low price, and consumers do not seem able to forget this price. If they could only be made to appreciate the full value of eggs as food when compared with other similar food substances, consumers might look upon eggs with a little different attitude. They might consider them at their true worth as compared with other foodstuffs.

"There has never been a campaign made to teach the consumer the value of this product. The only large organization devoted to the interests of poultry has almost completely neglected this field, while spending its energies upon stimulating a greater production

"Now that the poultry raisers are being induced to show their patriotism by raising large quantities of poultry products, it is only fair that some attention be given toward educating the public to appreciate the value of the country. In general, it may be when worn. said that a dozen eggs are worth just a little more than a pound and onehalf of meat: thus with beefsteak at 32 cents a pound, eggs would give an the same price when selling at 48 There are, however, other here. What is a man? How much is he worth from a scientific viewpoint? According to one way of looking at it a man is worth about $2.50 a day, from his shoulders down and any where from $50,000 to $1,000,000 a year from his shoulders up. This is said to be the estimate of the average successful business man. The scientist, however, looks at the question from another angle. According to him a man is worth $2.45 for illuminating purposes, since a man weighing 150 pounds contains about 3,500 cubic feet of oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen in his constitution, which at 70 cents per 1,000 cubic feet equals the price above. Also a man contains enough carbon to make 9,360 lead pencils; enough phosphorus to make 800,-000 matches or enough to kill 500 persons, and enough water to fill a 38quart reservoir.

Furthermore, it makes no difference how sour a man may look he contains about 60 lumps of sugar, a great deal of starch, chloride of potash, magnesium, sulphur and hydrochloric acid in his system. There are 50 grains of iron in the blood of an ordinary man, enough to make one spike large enough to hold his weight.

What is a man? This is the somewhat cynical answer of one scientific

EVERY FUR SEAL HAS HAREM

Male Sometimes Gathers More Than 100 Females on the Section of Beach Which He Controls.

Fur seals are extremely polygamous and the old males, which weigh from 400 to 500 pounds, "haul up" first on the breeding beaches. Each bull holds a certain area, and as the females, only one-fifth his size, come ashore they are appropriated by the nearest bulls until each "beach master" gathers a harem, sometimes containing more than 100 members, says the National Geographic Magazine.

Here the young are born, and after the mating season, the seals which have remained ashore without food from 4 to 6 weeks, return to the water. The mothers go and come, and each is able to find her young with certainty among thousands of apparently identical woolly black "pups." From the ages of one to four years fur seals are extremely playful. They are marvelous swimmers and frolic about in pursuit of one another now diving deep and then, one after the other, suddenly leaping high above the surface in graceful curves, like porpoises. Squids and fish of various species are their main food. Their chief natural enemy is the killer whale, which follows their migrations and haunts the sea about their breedcultural Experiment Station, calls the ing ground, taking heavy toll among

Indian Arrow Heads.

Mr. Cushing, an authority on matters pertaining to Indians, tells how, when he was a boy, he learned how the Indians made their arrow heads.

He had unearthed a beautiful harpoon of bone. He had a toothbrush with him, and the bone handle of this he chopped off and ground down on a piece of sandstone, to make a harpoon of his own; but he could not grind such clean-cut barbs as those of the relic. The boy then took his flint scales and chips and set to work with them. The flint cut the bone away but left the work rough. Then accidentally he made a discovery, for no sooner had he begun to rub the bone transversely on the flint than the bone cut the flint away. Not jaggedly, as his hammerstone would have chipped it but in long, continuously narrow surface furrows wherever the edge was caught in the bone at a certain angle.

He never finished that harpoon. He turned it about and used it as an arrow cutter, by tying it to a little rod of wood with a shoestring. He had found out how the Indians made arrow heads.

Dutch First to Improve Plow.

The Dutch were probably the first to introduce improvements worth while in the plow. They devised the first plow that turned a furrow, all plows before that time being merely used to break the surface of the ground. The first patent for a plow went to Joseph Folpamb in 1730. Joseph Newbold patented one in this country not long afterward, but Jethro Wood really invented the plow in use today. His instrument was the first to have a mold-board, a share and a these products and an appreciation of | land side in three pieces, so that they what the poultry raisers are doing for | could be replaced or sharpened singly

In sad but Loving Memory of our Dear Husband and Father
JACOB BAKER,
Who departed this life one year ago
July 21, 1916.

Gone but not forgotten. One year has passed away, my heart is still sore; As time flies on, I miss you more. God called him home—it was His will, But in my heart I love him still.

The one I love is missing,
The voice I love is still;
A place is vacant in my heart,
Which never can be filled.

I cannot forget you, dear husband, Though long may seem the year, And oft in the lonely hours, I wipe away my tears.

O, God, what a weight of sorrow, Must I the lonely one bear; The silent room, the empty bed, The lonely vacant chair. A bitter grief, a shock severe.

To part with one I love so dear.

My loss is great, I'll not complain.

But trust in God to meet again.

By His Loving Wife.

On you, dear father, we could always depend, And knew that we had one sincere friend, And all the hours on earth you spent, Your heart to us was always bent.

Out in the silent graveyard, 'Neath the sod and the dew, Never a moment forgotten, In silence we think of you.

Dearest father, you are not forgotten,
Nor ever will you be,
For as long as life and memory lasts,
We will always think of thee.
By His Loving Children. Dearest grandpa, when the roses are in bloom, And the trees in beauty wave,

And the trees in beauty wave,
We will gather up a little bunch,
And lay them on your grave.

By His Grand-children.

The Unpatriotic. We take this little sentence from Pierre de Coulevain's "The Heart of Love:" "What constitutes the worth of a country is the worth of each member of it." That is a great truth. In the light of it only a worthy citizen is a patrlot. The questions are: Who is the worthy citizen? What are his qualities? What sort of a life does he lead? When these questions are pressed with respect to very many people it will be found that there are many persons who are real enemies of the country rather than in patriots. Every grafter, every demagogue, every spoils politician, every drunkard, every gambler, every profane swearer, every liar, backbiter and every man who beats and curses his wife is an enemy of the country, and as long as they last the republic will be an experiment and a problem. One must be a worthy man to be a friend of his country .- Ohio State Journal.

Aviation Tests.

Could you learn to aviate? Try the following tests, which were given to a number of would be government aviators who were examined recently in the government school of aviation:

Balance thirty seconds on either foot with your eyes closed. Walk backward and forward thirty paces with your eyes closed and see how far you have strayed from a straight line. Sit on a revolving chair and twirl yourself around a half dozen times:

then, without opening your eyes, name the direction you are facing. Put cold water in your ears: then replace it by warm water. If the effect is the same in both cases your ears are normal as far as susceptibility to altitude is concerned.-Chicago Trib-

Andrew Carnegie, who for years yielded an influence in the industrial world as great perhaps as any living man, came to this country practically penniless when he was twelve years old. His phenomenal rise in life may be attributed to his following clear principles and methods. In an address to students in a commercial college he said: "Avoid speculation; avoid indorsements. Aim high. For the question, 'What must I do for my employ er?' substitute 'What can I do?' Begin to save early-'capitalists trust the saving young man.' Concentrate your energy, thought and capital; fight it out on one line."

Kneeling Horses.

In ancient times, before the invention | o of stirrups and luxurious saddles, o horses were taught to kneel to permit o parents should appreciate the o their riders to mount. A beautiful o need of proper care of the eyes o Greek vase in one of the museums in | o of the newborn baby and the ur- o Petrograd shows a war horse of many centuries ago kneeling low before an amazon. The riders in those days mounted from the "off" side in contradiction to the modern usage. Plutarch tells how in the first century of this era certain effeminate Roman riders found even the horse block of too little assistance and had their horses trained to kneel to them.

Hair of the Bear.

How many hairs are on a square inch of a bear's skin? A count, carefully checked, because prizes were awarded to the winners closest to the actual number, disclosed that one square inch of this particular bear skin held just 10,543 hairs.-New York Sun.

Punishment Postponed.

"The next time you spill your coffee on the tablecloth, my dear, don't try to hide it by setting your cup on it. I shall notice it anyhow when I clear away."

"Yes, but I am in my office by that ime."-Stray Stories,

Bad Health and the Mouth. Dental educators and high grade practitioners have for years urged medical men and the public to recognize the importance of mouth conditions. But only recently has the menace of pyorrhea, "blind" abscesses and other diseases of the mouth been widely accepted as important factors in general health. By the romance of the microscope and X rays we are learning many things before unknown, and through these agencies the dentist is enabled to put his finger on diseased centers that would otherwise not be seen or positively determined. We are told that a large percentage of our ills, other than contagious diseases, have their origin in the mouth. As bad health is one of the most dreaded and one of the most expensive things in life, mouth conditions must, therefore, be among the most important things in life. If a healthy mouth is so large a factor in general to the coming generations.-Saturday

The marvelous progress of the last fifty years has lulled us into a sense of self confidence and security as regards our racial progress, says Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk in the Scientific Monthly. Dr. Fisk believes that "civilization" has not improved mankind.

He writes: "I do not think we have any evidence that man as an organism, whether in regard to his physical or mental capacities, now presents a higher average type than characterized the nations of antiquity. Indeed, so far as his physical structure is concerned, there is much evidence to the contrary, and I think we may be assured that the great minds of antiquity would have made equally good use of present day knowledge if they were with us today and in a position to utilize it."

Submarines and Speed.

The size of the submarine must be limited by its ability to maneuver, and to maneuver quickly. In quick submergence lies the only hope of safety for the submarine attacked on the surface. It is figured that a boat built to make twenty-five knots on the surface would, through its great size, take nearly ten minutes to submerge. A destroyer traveling at thirty knots would cover something like six miles in that length of time, which simply means that the commander of such a submarine, caught on the surface by a torpedo boat or a destroyer anywhere within a radius of six miles, might just as well surrender his ship, for if he did not he could not escape ramming and sinking.-San Francisco Chronicle.

Joan of Arc's Bell.

In the cathedral church of Notre Dame, Paris, there is a bell which dates from the days of Joan of Arc-"the blessed bell" which sounded the tocsin when the Maid of Orleans appeared in August, 1429, and Paris was besieged by the English. This historic bell, referred to by Victor Hugo in "Notre Dame de Paris," was given to the cathedral in 1400 by Jean de Montaign. It was refounded in 1686 and then rebaptized under the name of Emmanuel Louise Therese in honor of Louis XIV. and Marie Therese of Austria.-London

Detecting Shortcomings.

Do you wish to find out a person's weak points? Note the failings he has the quickest eye for in others. They may not be the very failings he is himself conscious of, but they will be their next door neighbors. No man keeps such a jealous lookout as a rival.-J. O. and A. W. Hare.

A Grave Question.

When Daniel Webster was asked what he considered the most momentous question in life he is said to have replied, "Man's individual responsibil. ty to God."

The Owner's Unexpected Return

Did He See a Ghost?

By PAULINE D. EDWARDS

"The Society For Psychical Research is doing some good work lately," said Gilbert to his friend Slade as they sat beside the open fire. "I believe the time will come when it will show a scientific relation between mortality and immortality.'

"I do not believe in ghosts," said John Slade emphatically.

Daniel Gilbert drew his chair nearer to the crackling blaze.

"I never believed in ghosts-until last year," he said quietly.

"What happened last year?" Slade's tone was skeptical.

"I saw a ghost."

"Where had you been dining?" laughed Slade.

"I hadn't dined at all. I came down to the Elms quite unexpectedly. wanted to look up some papers that I knew to be in the library. The house had been closed all summer, and at this time even the caretaker was away for a few days.

"My plan was to dine at the village inn, go up to the Elms, spend the evening searching for the papers, sleep in my old room and take the first train to town after breakfast. My train was several hours late, and when we arrived in Elmville the inn was shut up for the night. If you are acquainted with our village boniface you will understand that for neither love nor money nor 'auld lang syne' would he open his doors to a guest after midnight. So it meant a dinnerless tramp up to the house.

"It was nearly 1 o'clock when I entered the avenue, and I was surprised to find the iron gates of the drive wide open. That was against my orders.

"It was a dark night. The stars shone bright, and a young moon threw a thin silver veil of light in the open spaces. As I came in sight of the house I stopped still in my tracks.

"You may not believe me, John, but my house was a blaze of light from basement to cupola, and from behind the lighted windows came the strains of an orchestra, while forms floated to and fro in swaying rhythm to the waltz melody

"As I stood rooted to the spot the church clock in the village struck once, and as if by magic the music ceased and all motion stopped behind the thin curtains. An instant later every light in the house died out as if extinguished by some mighty breath. I ran up the steps and fitted my key in the great lock. It yielded, and the heavy door swung outward to my touch.

"I threw a ray of light about the great entrance ball and reached for the button to switch on the electric lights. The button clicked without response. Again and again I tried, but in vain.

"A search of the drawing room and library revealed the same condition. The current was shut off and probably had been since the departure of the

"I lighted the large oil lamp on the library table. It was an easy matter to dig out the documents I wanted and store them into my leather bag. As I set the bag on the floor I saw lying on the Turkish rug a white rose, fresh and fragrant, as if just plucked.

"This was no earthly blossom I decided as I laid it before me on the table. And then I had another shock, for almost under my hand and in the very spot on which I had placed my bag when entering the room was a small lace handkerchief. Across one corner was embroidered in tiny letters a girl's name.'

Gilbert blew a cloud of smoke that obscured his face. John Slade leaned forward in his chair.

"And the name-the girl's name?" he asked quickly.

"Viola—just Viola," said Gilbert dreamily.

"That is not all of the story," said Slade impatiently. "Go on, old man." "No; that is not all. I turned to the mantelpiece and leaned my head against the high shelf, trying to solve the mystery of my house, for to my knowledge no woman save the caretaker, an old black mammy, had darkened-or shall I say brightened?-my doors for several years. "When I turned back to the table the handkerchief was gone!

"With hardly a thought as to whether I was seeking shadow or substance I thrust the rose in my pocket, and, snapping on my pocket electric, I hastened into the hall. There was a gleam of white in the distance, and I pursued it. It flicked around a corner and disappeared up a small spiral stair. case that led to the second floor.

"When I reached the top of the stairs the bit of white became a woman's graceful form, with some ethereal garment of filmy stuff floating behind her. And as I followed I seemed to be walking among violets. "Down the grand staircase she vanished, this time with little clicking heels on the polished floor. I held her steadily in my ray of light and was after her like a flash. We crossed the drawing room, and then she disappeared through the paneled door that leads into the west gallery-you know that long, glass inclosed gallery that my father used as a winter parlor? She flew down the length, and I hoped to catch her at the end, but at the door leading into the gardens she stant, and, by Jove, John, she was the oveliest girl I ever laid eyes upon-and you know I don't care for women "Just a glimpse of her beauty, and the door opened and closed sharply, leaving me alone in the west gallery I was tired out by the exciting adventure of the night and too wide awake to sleep, so I went back to the library got my bag, put out the light and left the house. I spent the night sitting on a bench in the railroad station, and it is needless to say that I took the first train to town."

"And that is all?" asked Slade after a little silence.

"Isn't it enough?"

"Yeu didn't search the house, make any effort to discover whether the intruder was spook or human-didn't you do anything?"

"Nary thing. I went abroad the following week and at times forgot the incident. A few days ago it came back to me, and so I invited you down to spend this night with me at the Elms." "Why this particular night?" demanded Slade suspiciously.

"Because it's the anniversary of my adventure with Viola," replied Gilbert coolly. "I want a witness to further demonstrations, you know.'

John Slade sank back into the shadows of his chair and smoked thoughtfully. Once he burst into a reminiscent chuckle

"I suspect you have lost your heart to this Viola, as you call her. Was she so lovely?"

"She was perfect," said Gilbert sincerely. "Her hair was that dusky black that frames the face mistily, you know; her eyes were almost golden and her brows fine and black like her hair; but her coloring, her features, her form-oh, I say, Slade, I can't get her face out of my mind!"

Slade lighted a fresh cigar. "I must tell you an incident of the same sort that happened to a friend of mine," he said solemnly, "and it may serve to throw light on your own affair."
"Out with it," said Gilbert briefly

"It's only 10 o'clock now. You have till midnight, John." "This man owned a grand old place in the country, but he was a bachelor and never looked at it.

"There was a young cousin of the man's, a girl who was a beauty and a toast. Never mind her name. She has married and changed it for another. This girl was up to all sorts of mischief and pranks and carried a lot of scatterbrained young folk with her in many a harmless escapade.

"She conceived the idea of giving a ball in the old mansion of her cousin Now, I have not the slightest doubt that the man would have gladly consented to turn the house over for such a merrymaking had they asked him. But, no; of course half the fun lay in the clandestine proceedings!

'And so one night when the moon was young and the aged caretaker off on leave several great automobiles rolled quietly up the long avenue, and the mischievous girl and her friends and their reluctant chaperons trooped through a side entrance and made their way to the great ballroom on the sec-

"The room had been cleaned in some mysterious manner, and when the electric chandeliers were ablaze and the polished floor stretched forth an inviting surface the small orchestra they had brought tuned up, and the fun began. Several servants unpacked refreshments in an anteroom while the young people danced and between dances wandered over the grand old house lighted from top to bottom by

"Laura!" shouted Gilbert, but Slade interrupted:

"Hold on there, Danny! I didn't mean to make a slip! The house was lighted up and the dancing was going on and everything was going along finely when suddenly a messenger appeared among them. The station agent from the depot, who had known of the merrymaking, came to say that the owner had arrived at the station and was on his way to the house. He had jumped on his wheel and sped with the message.

"They worked fast and without judgment. One bright soul cut the electric light wires and plunged the house in total darkness. Before a search could be made for candles and escape made the front door was opened and the intruders heard footsteps below stairs. After awhile the library door opened, and all was silent.

"By aid of matches and the station master's bicycle lantern the party reached the ground floor and by stealth left the house. That was all part of the fun, don't you know. And then, just as they were going to leave, one of the girls discovered she had lost her pet handkerchief and was sure she had left it in the library. She recovered it, although she would not say how, and she was quite breathless when she climbed into the motor. And that is Daniel Gilbert arose to his full height and laid his pipe on the mantel. "And that was Laura, who got up the party and everything. I shall bless your wife all her days, John, if she will introduce me to my ghost girl-

Viola-Viola who?" "Viola Blair. She happens to be visiting Laura now. I hardly think you'll find her in the west gallery tonight.

Gilbert pulled a time table from his pocket and looked at his watch. "She is quite free?" he asked abruptly.

Slade yawned and stretched his long arms luxuriously. "She was-er-until -we always thought she had met her fate just a year ago tonight. She has never been quite the same since. I can't say any more"-"There's a train to town at 11:05. We'll take it. You and Laura owe me something, John.' "We'll pay it with compound interest. That will be Viola!" said Slade. turned her face toward me for one in- | grasping his friend's outstretched hand.

TESTED THE DENTIST'S WORK

Khedive of Egypt Had Followers' Teeth Pulled So He Could See Whether It Would Hurt.

To illustrate Oriental habits of thought. Lord Cromer tells, in the Quarterly Review, this story of Ismail Pasha, the khedive of Egypt. It once happened that Ismail was suffering from toothache. He sent for a European dentist, who told him that he ought to have the tooth out. Ismail said that he was afraid it would be very painful. He was informed in reply that, if he would allow the dentist to administer laughing gas to him, he would feel nothing. He still doubted, but told the dentist to bring his apparatus to the palace and he would then discuss the question.

The dentist complied, and explained the process to the khedive. Ismail then summoned an attendant and told him to send up the sentry who was at his

When the man arrived the khedive ordered him to sit down in a chair, and requested the dentist to take out a tooth on either side of his jaw. Ismail then asked the man whether he had felt anything, and the man told him that he had not. But Ismail was not yet satisfied. He said that the sentry was a young, strong man, and that he would like to see the experiment tried on someone of weaker.

physique. Accordingly he summoned a slave girl from the harem and had the dentist extract two of her teeth. Finding that she did not show evidence of extreme suffering, he then consented to have his own tooth out. It is related, although possibly that part of the story is apocryphal, that the dentist then received an order on the Egyptian treasury for one thousand

DISLIKE THE TERM "HANDS"

British Writers Suggest Use of "Workers" to Designate the Toilers of Both Sexes.

In England some object to "hands," meaning "workmen" and wish the latter term to be used. But what of women now doing men's work for the same pay? A London journal suggests "workers" as a single term for both

What is the objection to "hands?" asks Philip Hale in the Boston Herald. "Hand" and "hands" were used in reference to an artist, musician, writer, actor, as well as workman or workwoman. Thus Evelyn in 1644 spoke of pictures in miniature painted by rare hands. Later we read of "a band of music consisting of the best hands from the opera and both the theaters.'

"Hands" for "workmen" goes back as far as 1655. In Olmstead's "Slave States" we read: "The children begin as 'quarter hands,' advancing to 'half-hands' and then to 'three-quarter hands,' and finally to 'full hands.' "

The late Mr. Mundella objected to "hands" because the word indicated to him the disappearance of the old relationship between master and man. "We employ thousands. We do not know their faces. They are 'hands'they are not men." Arnold Toynbee social economist, delighted in the term because an employer now can buy only the workman's "hands;" "his 'life' is now his own, to be cherished as a noble independence."

The London Daily Chronicle speaks of "hands" as a "Yankeeism." term has been used by Englishmen from the middle of the seventeenth

One Exception.

"While the farmers are deploring the shortage of help we have a vast army of able-bodied men performing useless tasks," stated Professor Pate. "Take the solicitors who come to our doors with labor-saving utensils that absolutely must be in every household in the land, who take our cherished tintypes and return enlarged crayon copies of the same that look like nobody on earth or in the waters under the earth, and so forth. If such futile trades were abolished these industrial slackers might be persuaded to help feed the nation in this crisis. I have purposely refrained from including in the list the suave gent who offers ornate literary works to the few people in each community who are of sufficient culture to appreciate them. In order to remain normal and keep well we are obliged to have somebody to hate, and for that purpose the book agent is ideal."-Kansas City Star.

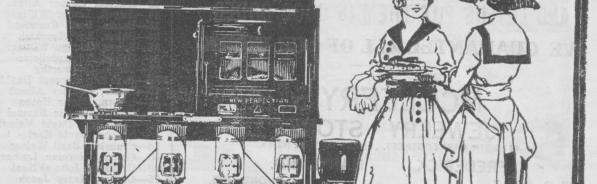

New Idea of Primitive Man.

A new idea of primitive man was put forward by an Irish professor recently. He states that the direct ancestors of primitive man never went on all-fours, had lived in trees, and, by climbing up and down the trunks, cultivated the upright habit of the human race. He points out that the forelimb was never used only as a support for the body. It seems quite credible, however, that they may have gone on three legs, using one as a hand when required, and this might account for the general use of the right hand in man.

MORE HONEY DISHES. Here are a few more ways of using Honey Jumbles. -Take two cupfuls of honey, one cupful of butter, four beaten eggs, one cupful of buttermilk, a quart of flour, and a teaspoonful of soda.

If it seems too thin, stir in more flour. Eggs, butter and honey should be thoroughly mixed before adding the flour.

Coffee Cake.—Cream a cupful of butter; add one and a half cupfuls of sugar, two beaten eggs, a cupful of cold coffee, a half cupful of honey and a teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves, four cupfuls of flour, with as many raisins and currants as desired. Let stand 20 minutes before baking.

Cambridge Gingerbread.-Melt half a cupful of butter, in a half cupful of boiling water; add a cupful of honey, one beaten egg, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a half teaspoonful of cloves and a teaspoonful of ginger and three cupfuls of flour. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Cracker Jack .- One cupful of honey with a cupful of brown sugar is boiled together until it hardens when dropped into water. Remove from the heat and stir in a half teaspoonful of soda. Add puffed rice or popcorn all that can be stirred into it.

Horseradish and honey mixed together make a most effective cough remedy. Use one part horseradish and two parts honey.

Soft Honey Cake.—Take a cupful of butter, two cupfuls of honey, two eggs, one cupful of sour milk, a teaspoonful and a half of soda, a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and ginger and four cupfuls of flour. Mix and beat well and bake in a sheet.

Honey strained and mixed with chopped fruit and whipped cream makes a delicious fruit dessert.

A few dishes which may be easily served are poached eggs in creamed asparagus, preceded by a fruit cocktail, brown bread sandwiches, radishes, orange and pineapple salad, cheese straws, coffee or hot chocolate.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V .- Third Quarter, For July 29, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Isa. Iv, 1-13-Memory Verses, 1, 2-Golden Text, Isa. Iv, 6-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D.

The last part of Isaiah, chapters xl to lxvi, may be said to begin and end with comfort for his people, Israel, in connection with His coming in glory (xl, 1, 2, 10, 11, lxvi, 13, 15, 18), and as then will be the overthrow of their enemies there is an easy connection between the last lesson and this. These last twenty-seven chapters of Isaiah are easily divided into three nines, the first and second of which end with the some words, "No peace, saith the Lord or saith my God, to the wicked" (xlvill. 22; Ivii, 21). Our lesson today is in the middle nine, and the middle chapter of this nine is the fifty-third, which tells of the only way of peace for any sinner or for all sinners. The next chapter tells of God's unchanging loving kindness for Israel and of their future establishment in righteousness by their Redeemer, the God of the whole earth (liv, 5-14). Today's lesson chapter is a cry to all who thirst to come to the God of Israel, the fountain of living waters (Jer. ii, 13). All that is represented by living water, wine and milk has been provided fully at infinite cost and is offered freely to whosoever will, according to Rev. xxi, 6; xxii, 17; John iv, 14; vii, 37. Love cannot be bought, nor can any of the gifts of God, but He says, "I will heal their backsliding, I will love them freely" (Hos. xiv, 4; 8. of Sol. viii, 7; Rom. iii, 24).

Spending money for that which is not bread reminds us of His words to the 5,000, "Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of Man shall give unto you" (John vi, 27). The words "Heark-en diligently unto Me, * * * hear and your soul shall live" (verses 2, 3), are very like John v, 24, where we learn that hearing and believing His word give everlasting life and the assurance of not coming into judgment for our sins. In the study of all prophecy we must remember that His thoughts are first for Israel and then for all nations, but there is always a message for every individual believer, whether Jew or gentile, as we have already seen. The sure mercies of David take us to the covenant ordered in all things and sure which comforted David in his dying hours (II Sam, xxiii, 5;

There is only one Leader and Commander who can rule Israel, even the one who brought them out of Egypt and put them in the promised land and gave them judges and kings and always delivered them when they cried unto Him-He of whom the Lord said to Jeremiah, "I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth; * * * His name shall be called the Lord Our Righteousness (Jer. xxiii, 5, 6). See also Isa, ix, 6, 7; Luke 1, 31-33. Nations have never yet in all the history of the world turned to the Lord as nations, but when Israel shall have become a righteous nation by receiving their Messiah at His coming again in power and glory then shall be ful filled such words as these: "The na tions shall come to Thy light and kings to the brightness of Thy rising:" "Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for, lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord, and many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day and shall be My people" (Isa. xxv, 8, 9; lx, 1-3; Zech. ii, 10, 11). Lesson verses 6, 7, seem to be a call to individuals now and at all times. and what great encouragement there is to all sinners to turn to the Lord in the offer of abundant pardon and mercy! The Lord loves to do all things abundantly, whether it be giving life or an entrance into His kingdom or supplying a present need, and if we will only deal rightly with Him He promises more blessing than we can receive (John x. 10; II Pet. 1, 11; Matt.

The seeking means earnest, persistent, whole hearted turning to Him (Jer. xxiv. 7: xxix, 13). Verses 8. 9. should teach us the folly of our thoughts and ways, inasmuch as His are as far above ours as the heavens are higher than the earth. Yet there are so many who know not the thoughts of the Lord, either concerning His great and free salvation or His purpose in this age and the ages to come (Mic. iv, 12; Eph. iii, 11). Verses 10, 11, are especially grand words for rainy or snowy days, but good at all times. When I have given the Lord's message I am continually comforted by the assurance that it always accomplishes His pleasure and never returns to Him void and that results are sure, whether we see them or not. Words that go well with these are, "I will watch over my word to perform it" and "No word from God shall be void of power" (Jer. i, 12, R. V.; Luke i, 37, R. V.).

xiv. 20: Mat. iii. 10).

If only we are the Lord's messengers with the Lord's message (Hag. i, 13) we can always go on our way saying, Thank God, that will work. Some look for so many souls from a service or other definite results of their own desire, but it seems to me better to give the message and leave results to Him, always expecting them and sure of them, but leaving it to Him to accomplish His pleasure and knowing that in due time He shall see of the travail of His soul and be satisfied (till, 11).

Menin's Bid For Fame.

"It is barely possible that had there been no Menin there might have been no world war, for it was at the siege of this little Belgian city in 1794 that the Hanoverian army officer, Scharnhorst, won his first distinction. Subsequently he wrote a military paper on the escape of the Menin garrison, and this brought him to the attention of staff officers of various German states, and he was offered several commissions. He accepted service under the king of Prussia, and from this time dates the beginning of activities that eventually resulted in the establishment of the Prussian military system which was the genesis of the holocaust of nations. It was Scharnhorst, the hero of Menin, who induced his sovereign to put aside the Prussian professional long service army which had been shattered at the battle of Jena and to inaugurate the policy of universal service. This was not ordered, however, until after the originator's death from a wound inflicted at the battle of Lutzen in 1813.-National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Possibilities of Bad Verse.

No one has yet written any adequate appreciation of the possibilities of bad verse-the verse, I mean, that is composed at the crises of life, on the mountain tops of exultation and in the joyless valleys, by persons unskilled and ordinarily unpoetic; the verse that is hidden away in vases and bureau drawers, never to be shown and always produced in some moment of vanity. Only a true poet could write a just appreciation of bad verse, and from his pen the words come too much tainted with the implication of irony. The quality of bad verse is not strained. It is written to suit no magazine's policy. It is rewarded with no check. It is a brave denying of reality, a prayer that is its own answer. It is, to use Maeterlinck's phrase, "a making or invoking of wings" by creatures that creep on their bellies.—New Republic.

Famous Men's Favorite Hymns. Favorite hymns of famous men make an interesting catalogue. Gladstone's special choice was "Praise to the Holiest in the Height," and it was sung at his funeral. Tennyson's favorite was Heber's "Holy, Holy, Holy." One of Ruskin's preferences was "Jesus, Here From Sin Deliver," upon which he preached a sermon to some, 300 school children, his guests one afternoon at Brantwood. Matthew Arnold's choice was "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" (Watt's masterpiece), the third verse of which M. A. was overheard reciting to himself only an hour before his quite unexpected fatal seizure. And Henry Ward Beecher declared. "I would rather have written 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul' than have the fame of all the kings that ever sat on the earth."-London Standard.

How the Camera Man Fools Them. The life of the camera man who takes the weekly news motion pictures is not always one of glory. When Mrs. Vanderrich, for instance, asks him to take a picture of her poodle when he wants permission to take pictures of her yacht he finds himself between two fires, notes the Popular Science Monthly. Either he must waste some precious film ou the dog or he must refuse and be shown the quickest way back. One wise camera man, however, improvised a fake camera crank for such occasions. The crank arm fits loosely on the shaft of the film gear in the camera. When the poodle is going through his antics the turning arm slips on the shaft, and not a foot of film is exposed, although to all appearances a picture is being made.

White Sands.

The sands at Blackpool, in Lancashire, are said to be the whitest in the British isles. From Penzance to Land's End. on the coast of Cornwall, the sand on the seashore is very white, while in St. Mary's, one of the Scilly islands, the sand on the shore is exceedingly white and glistening. On the other hand, the sand about Plymouth is bluish gray in color, probably owing to the shells of mussels broken and mixed with it, and on the coasts of the North sea the sand of the seashore is yellowish brown or reddish .-Pearson's Weekly.

Bacteria Long Lived.

How long some bacteria may live under proper conditions is brought out by M. W. Lyon, Jr., of George Washington university in a letter to Science. He tells of a culture of organisms of paratyphoid beta kept for more than ten years sealed in a test tube at Howard university, which, when transferred to another medium, produced the reactions that proved the bacteria to be alive and active.

There is no international language of flags established by law, but by common consent flags of a certain color are used for certain purposes. All over the world a yellow flag is a signal of contagious disease. A ship hoists it to denote that there are some on board suffering from such disease, and it remains hoisted until she has reached quarantine. The white flag is universally used as a flag of truce. The black flag was formerly the symbol of piracy, and now in some countries it is flown after an execution is performed to indicate that the requirements of the law have been carried out. Other features of flag language are that a flag flying at half mast is a universal sign of mourning, and when a ship has to make a sign of distress she does it by raising the national ensign reversed or upside down. Even this can be emphasized by knotting the flag in the middle to indicate great distress and imminent danger.

Fruit Diet as a Cure. The fruit diet is a sure and positive ure for what is popularly known as bleeding and for persons usually designated as bleeders, persons who cannot stop the flow of blood once it is started from a wound or other cause. The fruit diet will supply the blood with fibrin. Fibrin is the substance out of which nature fabricates flesh and muscle. A person on the fruit diet hardly bleeds at all when he cuts himself accidentally with a knife or when, for proper reasons, a dentist is forced to draw one of his teeth. The blood coagulates almost instantaneously. If you believe none of this, just try it. The experience is safe and sane. The fruit diet is cheaper and better than the meat diet, and it will do more for you. You will feel fine and chirrupy and optimistic. You never find a fruit eater who is a pessimist.-Los Angeles Times.

American Medical Association. The American Medical association is the largest organization of the kind in the world. There are 70,000 members. In May, 1846, in response to a call issued by the Medical Society of the State of New York, there was held in New York city a conference for the purpose of discussing questions relating to the standardization of medical education in the United States. This conference adjourned to meet a year later in Philadelphia, where it resolved itself into a permanent organizationthe American Medical association. A long line of distinguished men have

Not so many years ago great heaps of cinders were piled up, often dumped into low places where new earth was needed. Manufacturing concerns were glad to get rid of the accumulations. But now the cinders are in great demand for use in the foundation for cement and concrete work. They form a perfect drainage material, and it has been found that frost acts very lightly on them. Furthermore, concrete work in which cinders are used is said to be of extreme durability. When cinders are ground and mixed with cement the mass becomes very hard.

Old Age on Saturn.

We are reminded that if human beings lived on the planet Saturn they would be old at three years of age-not that life is any swifter or the cares of maturity any more pressing. It is merely because Saturn is so far from the sun that it takes nearly thirty years, according to the earth's measurement of time, to travel in its orbit round the sun.

Odd Bits From Novels. "He fixed the jury with his eye," says a novelist. A poor thing to fix a jury with, truly.

"He stood as if carved from stone," says another writer. No wonder! He had just been chiseled out of his rocks. -Boston Transcript.

Just a Suggestion. "It would save us much needed floor space and considerable money if more of our women customers would use the stairway when going up only one flight," said the department store manager. "I wish I knew of some way to make them do it."

"Why not take the mirrors out of the elevators and put them on the stairs?" suggested his bright assistant. - Buffalo Express.

Moving Picture Censors.

The national board of review of motion pictures is made up entirely of unpaid workers, including a general committee of thirty-five members, self perpetuating, from which is selected an executive committee, which, in turn, elects members of the review committee. This latter committee is divided into sections, which attend from twenty-five to thirty picture reviews weekly. The general committee is a court of appeal for any pictures which may be held for further consideration. It was formed in 1909 and has always been gladly recognized by the manufacturers, exhibitors and producers. Last year it caused to be eliminated 46,990 feet of objectionable films. Among those on the general committee are: P. F. Jerome, business bureau of the international committee of Y. M. C. A.'s; Orlando F. Lewis. general secretary of Prison Association of New York; Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary of Federal Council of Churches of Christ In America.-Film Fun.

Floating Drydocks. Our largest floating dock is the Dewey, at the Olongapo naval station, in the Philippine Islands. Floating drydocks are so arranged as to lift a big battleship bodily from the water. When it is desired to dock a vessel the floating dock is sunk by admitting water to it, and the ship is floated over it. When the ship is in the proper place over the dock the water is pumped out, and It rises, lifting the ship with it. When it is desired to refloat the ship the dock is sunk again by admitting water, and the ship is hauled off. There are side walls to the dock which remain partly above water. In these are located the pumping machinery, and on them the docking gangs work. The Dewey is in three sections, of which the two small end sections lift the large central section and are themselves lifted by it.

Goethals Saw the Point.

Shortly after our war with Germany was started R. J. McBride of Beaumont was awarded a big contract for the construction of wooden ships for our government. The fact that Mc-Bride's firm had never engaged in shipbuilding promised to militate against his getting a contract, and the lack of practical experience was mentioned during his conference with General Goethals.

"Your firm has never constructed ships," said the general.

"No, sir." "Well?" pressed the government's representative. "General, you built the Panama ca nal," replied McBride.

"So they say," was the answer. "Did you ever build a canal before?" General Goethals saw the point .-Dallas News.

Carnations and Rats.

Not long ago the basement of a department store in San Diego, Cal., received a sudden influx of rats. Traps. however baited, tempted but few, and other methods of riddance tried seem ed of little avail. About this time the ianitor noticed that old carnations thrown into the rubbish disappeared overnight. He put two and two together and began baiting traps with carnations. Every trap added to the fatalities in the rodent kingdom.

The city health department then took it up and has been achieving very satisfactory results therefrom. The odor of the flower seems to attract rats from some considerable distance. the variation of color apparently making no difference.-American City.

A Storm That Made a Record. The most violent storm that ever ravaged England occurred Nov. 26 and 27, 1703. The loss in London alone was $10,000,000. Eight thousand people were drowned in the floods. Twelve warships, with more than 1,800 men on board, were lost. Trees were up rooted-1,700 of them in Kent. Eddy. stone lighthouse was destroyed, and Winstanley, its contriver, was killed with several others.

Matrimonial Amenities.

"The wife and I had a spat this morning. She remarked that she didn't get much of a man when she married

"Whew! And what did you say?" "Oh I agreed with her. I said if I'd been a high class man I wouldn't have ploked her out."—Boston Transcript. JOB

TANEYTOWN RED CROSS WORK. List of Contributors to the Local Chapter Fund.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee, on Monday night, it was decided to send out a circular letter appeal to all of the voters of the district, urging general aid in making up the sum alloted to the district. It was also decided, that in order to keep both Local and War Relief Funds entirely separate, it would be best to elect a separate Treasurer for the latter, and D. J. Hesson was so elected

The Meanest Man.

"It is remarkable," said Mr. Gruntler, "how mean some people are. I had with me on a fishing trip two friends who evidently were familiar with my reputation as an angler. Fefore starting, one of themmade this suggestion: 'We will agree that the first one who catches a fish must treat the crowd.' I assented to this, and we started. Now, don't you know, those two fellows both had a bite, and were too mean to pull them up."
"I suppose you lost, then," remarked the friend.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Gruntler, "I didn't have any bait on my hook.

"Gentlemen of the Jury," he began, "is it not glorious to be alive on such a perfect day? As I walked to the court house this noon I thought of the wonders of Nature and of Life. Thesun was shining, the soft air was whispering through the fresh green leaves, the birds were singing sweet songs amid the blossoms. I thought of my poor client. Immured in his cell he can see none of these things-Just then a dusky friend of the deceased shouted from the back of the gallery, "Neither can dat nigger he hit on the head with a brick.

Keep Gardens Growing.

This is the time of the season when the gardener is likely to allow the weeds to get a start in the garden. Right now the plants need every drop water, and weeds should not be allowed to rob them. Weeds grow much faster than cultivated crops, and if not destroyed will rob the plants of the moisture they need for forming fruit. Those fortunate forming fruit. Those fortunate enough to possess a private water-works, or who have city water should make use of the hose to supply the crops in the home garden with needed water. The watering should be done in the evening and by the time the sun rises the next morning the water will have soaked in. The soil should be cultivated about 24 hours after each watering in order to prevent the formation of a crust on the surface. Nothing retains soil moisture likely a finely broken surface. Never allow soil in the garden to become baked, as moisture is being lost. eggplants, peppers, cabbage, cucumbers, melons, celery, and other crops with fly screen in which to prepare and store the manure water. Give each plant an occasional watering with this and the added growth will repay you.

Farmers on the Eastern Shore have suffered great loss to their tomato crop, on account of the rains. It is claimed that the loss will amount to half of the crop.
