CLOCKS TO BE TURNED FORWARD ONE HOUR.

Economize Fuel.

The President, on Tuesday, signed aged roads. one daylight-saving bill that has One of the passed both Houses of Congress, and provides that on Easter Sunday, March 31, all clocks are to be turned ahead one hour, and to remain advanced one hour until 2 A. M., on the last Sunday in October.

Five standard time zones for the United States will be fixed by the Government, according to the bill, and it is made mandatory upon the rail-roads to follow the standard time.

By the passage of the bill, the defficiency first taken by Germany during the early days of the war. Millions of tons of coal have been saved period of five or six months a year.

England reports a saving of 12,000-000 tons up to date. Several representatives who espoused the bill admitted that when it was first proposed they considered it silly. But they said, when they came to examine its virtues, they fell enthusiastically be-

Taneytown Thrift Stamp Meeting.

A very largely attended meeting was held in the Opera House, Mon-day night, in the interest of the Thrift Stamp campaign. Rev. Seth Russell Downie had charge of the program, and in the preparation of it was ably assisted by Miss Anna Galt, Miss Winona Greiman, and others, and by an able committee on decorations.

The public school children acquitted themselves splendidly in several songs, while an elaborate drill, trained by Mr. Downie, was excellently performed and encored. The children were dressed to represent nurses and scouts, and their various evolutions were carried out with spirit and har-mony, rather remarkable for such a short coaching period. Miss Helen Reindollar presided at the piano for the drill, and Miss Ellen Valentine for the songs. Addresses were made by Guy W. Steele, Esq., and Rev. J. C. Walck, of Westminster, on the history, the righteousness and jus-tification of our participation in the war, and on the duty of the citzenship of this country to give it abundant support. John H. Cunningham folloved, giving an explanation of the Thaft Stamps, showing how they will play an important part in financing the war, and urged the liberal participation of the people of the vicinity in this branch of governmental loans. The meeting closed with the singing of two verses of "My Country "Tis of Thee."

The Price of Tomatoes.

The circular (Bulletin No. 8) of February 28th., 1918, issued by the Food Administration, did not, and was not intended as fixing the price per ton at which producers in Delaware, Maryland and other States mentioned, must sell their tomatoes. It was, as appears on its face, a bulletin of information to canners that the Army and Navy, for the canned tomatoes needed by them, were ready to receive tenders from canners, if they desired to make the same, for canned tomatoes based on the prices stated per ton of tomatoes. No one was required to bid, and no limitation was made on the price per ton which anyone might ask for his tomatoes, but simply that if the canners wished, they might make an offer to the Army and Navy on the basis mentioned. The Food Administration has no power, and no desire, to fix the price

The Fruit Crop Safe.

Annapolis, March 20.-Senator Orlando Harrison, one of the most extensive fruitgrowers and nurserymen of Maryland, after an inspection of the apple and peach trees in Western Maryland, reports the outlook as to full fruit crop as promising in that, as well as in other sections. Senator Harrison says:

"In spite of the excessive cold weather, the prospects for a heavy apple crop in Maryland and the Eastern States is promising. On the Eastern Shore the zero weather has not injured the apple buds. The prospects were never quite so good for a full crop of early apples, as well as winter apples. Peaches are promising, especially the white varieties. The apple crop looks good in Western Maryland and West Virginia. Some of the older peach orchards of the yellow fruit will be light, from the lack of vitality on account of age and extreme cold weather. Some report only about 50 per cent of the buds now alive. Even if 25 per cent of that amount is held, the fruit will be of better grade and save in thinning. The white fruit shows up very much better and prospects are favorable." -Balt. Sun.

the war is now in progress along the British front in Northern France. Official reports are brief, but the attack is on a gigantic scale, exceeding all previous efforts, and commenced early Thursday morning.

The British claim that while the first force of the attack enabled the Germans to gain some lightly held British positions, there is no cause for alarm. An attack is also being made on adjoining French lines, but not enough progress has yet been made to determine whether the main battle will be fought on these fronts, or whether it will be shifted to some other part of the line. Nothing has been reported as to attacks on the lines held by the Americans. It had been expected that the Germans would make an assault on the American-held trenches in the Lorraine and Toul sectors, acting on the theory that troops which have not had experience in engagements of the first degree might be found to yield easier than veterans. That such an attack may yet be launched, and with only slight artillery preparation, is within the possi-

Representative Price, of Maryland, is not satisfied with the government's announced intention to place farm laborers in Class A-1 at the bottom of the list. Here's my position: Men are needed for important purposes to win this war-the army, shipyards, munition factories and the farm. Therefore, when the Dent reclassification bill comes up in the House I shall offer an amendment, which will exempt all bona fide and experienced farmers from the draft. ### HOW THE NEXT DRAFT WILL BE OPERATED.

Marshal General.

There has been a great deal of There has been a great deal of speculation in the press concerning what has ben termed "The date of the next draft." Almost every week, announcements have been made and these announcements, being mere guesses, have resulted in an unrest and uncertainty that has been unferted. and uncertainty that has been unfortunate.

As a matter of fact, the state of preparedness of the Army to assimilate recruits, varies from day to day and from week to week, and the most scientific manner of recruiting the forces will be to withdraw them from civil life as fast as they can be assimilated by the Army, and no faster. to discover any means that may be taken to protect and augment the According to this plan, men will be inducted into the service in very small labor supply appurtenant to industry and agriculture, without precluding groups apportioned among the various States from week to week, or from month to month, as they are the prompt and orderly progress of our military plans. It is confidently believed that great progress can be needed. In order to distribute the made along this line, and that more burden equally over the various States, however, it is necessary to make arithmetical computations of the share of each State, and it is not practicable to make these computations for such small numbers. For mere hookkeeping facility, therefore it is not processed in the desired end. It must be emphasized that this is a war of mechanics. The need of the several armed forces for men highly skilled in technical and mechanical nursuits. bookkeeping facility, therefore, it is in technical and mechanical pursuits necessary to assume a total of considerable size and to apportion it among the several States as their immen finds the nation under a necesmediate burden. This total is called a national quota, and the various shares are called state quotas. The drawals of men from industry must announcement of the quota does not mean that any such great number of take men who might otherwise be men will be called to military service deferred on account of their special at once, and, indeed, has no necessary relation to the date of the call, for the reason that a constantly changing situation causes changes in the number of men who are to be called to the

It is unwise to attempt to make a forecast of the number of men that will be called for immediate military service in advance of the development of the whole complex problem of supply and transportation. It is also unwise to make public announcements of specific figures which might serve the enemy as a precise basis for de-termining the plans for military participation of the Nation in this war. It is necessary, however, to compose the present unrest and uncertainty by some public announcement and for this reason the following is authoritatively stated.

The next national quota will be announced and apportioned among the several States as soon as pending legislation authorizing a change in the basis of computation is enacted by Congress. This legislation has been passed by the Senate and fathey prove oases in this hard tire- vorably reported by the House Miliwill be assumed as a basis for computation will be 800,000, which is well within the authorization of clause 4 of section 1 of the Selective Service Act of a second increment of 500,000 men, increased by the recruit training units authorized by clause 5 of said section 1, and by the special and technical troops authorized by section 2 of said Act. It cannot now be announced what the total number to be called to the colors each month will be, but it may be stated that no more men will be called than can be properly accommodated and promptly assimilated. There are difficulties confronting the Nation in the supply of labor appurtenant to agriculture. Class I from which new levies are to be withdrawn ,will contain many more men than are at present required for the Army. It would be a most unscientific and fatuous step if the men in Class I were called indiscriminately without regard to the labor situation in agriculture. Therefore, the Local Boards will be directed to fill their quotas in the order of liabilty of men n Class I as determined by the national drawing, except that, where it is shown that a registrant is completely and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or reaping of crop, his call to the colors shall be deferred to the foot of the quota of his board as long as he continues to be

Whenever any registrant, whose call to the colors has been deferred by reason of his engagement in agriculture, is shown to have been idle on the farm on which he is engaged, or to have trifled with the deferment that has been accorded him, the boards will forthwith induct him into mlitary service if his order number has been reached in the meantime. Official Statement From Provost riculture, a new regulation has been promulgated authorizing agricultural students in their senior year in land grant colleges to enlist in the Enlisted Reserve Corps of the Quartermaster's Department, provided their class standing is such as to place them in the upper third of their class. By this means it will be possible to defer the draft call of such young men in order to enable them to perfect themselves as agriculturalists, and thereafter to protect them in such services as it may seem that they should perform in the best interests of the Nation.

The whole industrial and agricultural situation is being subjected to very comprehensive study, in order is greater than in any former war. drawals of men from industry must be made, and these withdrawals must take men who might otherwise be qualifications and skill.

The necessary numbers of skilled men will be obtained in one of three ways. First, men already in the military service who have such special skill will be taken from the line reg-iments and assigned to the staff organizations and departments where their skill is needed. Second, men classified by the Selction Boards, even though they may have been placed in a deferred classification, will be withdrawn with great care and particularity from the industries of the Nation for special service in staff corps and departments. Third, young men of draft age with certain educa-tional qualifications will be inducted into the service and sent to unversities, colleges, and technical and secondary schools to be instructed in technical arts until they have ac-quired such proficiency as will justify their assignment to the special units that are being organized in considerable numbers.

In accordance with this plan, the Provost Marshal General has already called upon the States for some 10,000 skilled artisans and, will hortly call upon the States for 10,-000 young men, graduates of grammar schools, who will be sent before the first of April to various technical and other schools throughout the United States for a two months' course of training. Regularly, thereafter, an increasing stream of selected men will be sent through educational and other training institutions for this purpose.

To sum up, it may be said that there will be no sudden withdrawal of great numbers of men from the ranks of industry and agriculture, during the coming summer, but that men will be drawn in relatively small groups throughout the year in such a way as to create the least possible interference with industry and agriculture. Men in deferred classes, as well as men in Class I, will be selected small numbers either on account of their special technical qualifica-tions, or for the purpose of sending them to schools where they will be given an opportunity to acquire such qualifications

Out in Missouri, farmers are figuring on how much they are losing on cattle, because, on account of the government fixing a price on wheat, other grain has gone up. In order to do this, it is necessary to assume that marketing of perishable crops, in their cattle prices would be the same as now, even had corn kept down to half present price. The legitimate demand for humor in pictures has long ago been grossly exceeded. In their efforts to continue to tickle the surfeited fancy of those who appear to enjoy such artistic (?) productions, artists have indulged in all sorts of license, often vulgar and usually distorting. A truth, illustrated, may have its justification in showing the ridiculous, but pictures containing no truth in reality, and serving no decent purpose, are never justifiable.

The probability is that many newspapers using these features would welcome their banishment. As long as they are used by some, business managership is likely to conclude that they must be used in order to meet competition and custom, even though they be regarded as an evil, and an unnecessary expense. In this, as in many other things, "One fool often makes many," until the "fool" business becomes a sort of matter of course indulgence.

The average Sunday newspaper, which has enough to do to justify itself as a necessity and not a violation of the second Commandment, is the chief offender in the picture business; and in passing it is apropos to suggest that a pretty general censorship | feller-he has too much start. of Sunday newspaper features, which call for inflated editions carrying padding of the most non-essential lioned men are dead now, and have stand for a third term. #### Perishable Crop Prices.

The argument that the placing of high prices on perishable crops is apt to cause overproduction, and to so glut the market that such productsas in the case of tomatoes-can not be handled by the packers and saved for cosumption, is one based on good sound sense. Labor in the canneries, as well as supply of tin cans, must be taken into consideration in any big price fixing rule. Making big prices, simply for the producer, is entirely a one-sided proposition.

What happened with respect to the big potato crop of last year, is the more likely to happen with such items as corn, peas, tomatoes and fruits, as they do not have the storage qualities of potatoes. Hundreds of thousands of bushels of potatoes froze and rotted during the winter, simply because they were hoarded for big prices, doing nobody any good, but causing the public to pay abnormal prices when there was no scarcity.

The farmer who must plant the perishable crops is unquestionably taking a big chance, and it is perhaps true that in order to equalize things he ought to have big prices for his crops; but, he must realize that it is not the fault of the country at large that he happens to be engaged in this are to be taken as authority. particular line, and if it does not pay to grow, tomatoes, for instance, there s no law compelling him to do so.

We are rather of the opinion that the government ought to require the proper season, and hold growers responsible in case they hold them and let them be lost, as food, while thousands of people are going hungry for want of the rotting products at a

Barges to Foll U-Boats.

If actual trials prove the scheme to be practicable, it is understood that in order to check the depredations of the enemy's U-boats, immense oceangoing barges towed by powerful armed tugs, may be used instead of steamships for inches above the water line so that from a distance they will be practically invisible to a periscope. As is perhaps generally known, a tub, because of its small size and comparatively shallow draft, offers a torpedo a poor target. Lesson 13.-First Quarter. March 31, 1918.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Text of Lesson, Phil. 2:1-11-A Quarterly Review-Golden Text, Phil. 2:5 -Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Lesson I.-John prepares the way for Jesus, Mark 1:1-11. Golden Text, John 1:29, "Behold the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world!" The good news concerning Jesus Christ the Son of God who loves us and washes us from our sins in his own blood, who loved me and gave himself for me, (Mark 1:1; Rev. 1:5; Gal. 2:20) is the only good news worth while.

Lesson II.—Jesus begins his work, Mark 1:12-20. Golden Text, "Repent ye, and believe the gospel." (Mark 1:15). The thirty years at Nazareth must be included in the commendation of Mk. 1:11, as truly as Mk. 9:7 covers all his public ministry. If we are fully yielded he will work in us all things well pleasing in his sight (Heb. 13:20.21). Lesson III.—Jesus at work. Mark 1:21-34. Golden Text, John 9:4, "We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day." The teachings and healings of this lesson were samples of his daily life during all his public ministry, as it is written in Mr. Ezra Shomaker died at his Acts 10:38, "God annointed Jesus of home, in Littlestown, on Monday, after an illness of several days from pneumonia. He was aged about 76 good, and healing all who were one good, and healing all who were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him." See also Matt. 4:23.

Lesson IV.—Jesus forgiving sin, Mark 2:1-12. Golden Text, Mark 2:10, "The son of man hath authority on earth to forgive sins." Therefore he is truly God for the scribes were right when they said, "Who can forgive sins but God only?" (vs.7.). It is written in Acts 10:43, "To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name, whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins." See Isa. 1:18; 43:25; Luke 24:46, 47; Acts

13:38, 39. Lesson V .- Jesus Lord of the Sabbath, Mark 2:23 to 3:5. Golden Text, Mark 2:28, "The Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath." The great deceiver and liar has led men to believe that we must in some way by good deeds win the favor of God, hence all man's efforts to be religious. The truth of God is that he loves the world, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, that no sacrifice or Sabbath-keeping can avail till we are forgiven. Lesson VI.—Jesus chooses the twelve, Mark 3:7-9. Golden Text, Mark 3:14, "He appointed twelve, that they A petition has been sent to the Highway Commission for a new road to connect with the State highway leading to Westminster. Faith and works will build it.

Whether it was the twelve or the seventy, he sent them forth in his name, clothed with his power, to tell the good news of the kingdom, and to heal all manner of sickness, and even A business man's wife could not to raise the dead, but he warned them

Class 1, second grade, was reading. Tom came across the word "famous," which had to be sounded out. She explained its meaning in language so simple that the sevenyear-olds might comprehend. Then to illustrate, she asked, "Have any of you ever heard of Madam Schumann-

He was going over it all again; there was no haste, no excitement, no foolish sentiment, but sure determination and the courage of youth suddenly turned to manhood: With a little start he came back to the present, and, rising said: "I guess I'd better be going. You said I could get a train in about half an hour?"

President's Scotch Forebears.

When people meet these days the subject of war invariably crops up, and when one or more Scotsmen are in the party, the men from the land of the heather cannily swerve the subject to President Wilson and throw their chests out as they attribute all of his best qualities to his Scotch ances-

They assert that the president is related to several prominent Scotch families, being descended from Rev. Robert Woodrow, the well-known historian of the Church of Scotland, whose name he bears. Another of the president's ancestors was Robert Williamson, a prominent Glasgow citizen, through whom he is distantly related to the archbishop of York.

Undoubtedly Fluid Is There, but From Whence It Came Seems to Be Matter of Mystery.

Polluted well water of long standing at the market town of Ramsey, near Peterborough, England, prompted one well owner to dig for the cause, says an exchange. He struck oil in short order and created a boom and a mystery. Another well also yielded oil. Pumpings from both, averaging 500 gallons a day, sold on the spot for 2 shillings the gallon and burned in lambs like ordinary illuminating oil.

Speculators jumped at the find rather cautiously. They lacked the sporting spirit of Kansas and Oklahoma boomers. One ventured a £5 note for a share in a well and asked £1,000 for girl volunteered: "People on the doing. The game wasn't ripe enough for plungers. Official tests of the oil deepened the sented. "You no doubt have heard of mystery. They showed the oil was atfined oil. One of the testers, whose opinion was flouted, offered a bet of £500 that the oil was not natural oil.

The present conclusion seems to be that the oil is due to leakage from some unknown source. There are no into that room at that moment! Such oil tanks in Ramsey or Peterborough frantic ejaculations of joy as emitted town and the source of the leak, if such it is, must be at a greater distance. Lucky well owners are not worrying about the source. With all the zeal of gold diggers they stick to the pumps and rake in the shillings from

eager buyers of the fluid. WHALE PAYING FOR ITS SINS

Descendants of Big Fish Are Now Being Swallowed by the Descendants of Jonah.

We rise to a defense of Jonah. He was not a bad sort. In fact, he had always been a good citizen and a friend of the poor; but because he balked at going on a political mission to a bum town the political machine hired a gong of pirates to pitch him from the hurricane deck and compel him to swallow a whale-or was it the other way round? It was a mean trick and Jonah knew it, and he made it so hot for the whale that the latter spewed him out at Long Beach, in which city, for his own safety, he feigned repentance and delivered the message with which he had been intrusted. However, ever since that time the sons of the prophet have had it in for the whale and at last the time has come to get even. Today whale steak is being sold in great quantities at the butcher shops. It is cheap meat and is almost as good as mutton or veal. Take a whale steak half an inch thick, drop it in boiling water for a minute, adding a pinch of soda, then take it out and place it in a hot, greased pan, sear it quickly on both sides, fry it for three minutes, add butter, pepper and salt, and you have a dish fit for a king. Verily the sins of the whales are visited upon their children.-Los Angolos Times.

Otherwise His First Attempt to "Loop the Loop" in Air Would Have Been His Last.

It took many days of nerving myself up to the point and many steep dives before I decided to "flip her over," Phillip Dwight Rader writes in Sun-

The sun was high above me and I had attained an altitude of about 5,000 feet when I felt I was ready to take the plunge. To this day I am grateful to the maker of the machine because he constructed it so good and strong. If the plane had had a flaw, the manner in which I took that first loop would have landed me in the ceme-

When the impulse came over me, I felt around to see if my belt was secure. It was. Bracing myself for the ordeal, I gave her full power and shoved her nose straight down. Straight for the earth I went, the combined force of gravitation and of the wide engine giving the plane a fearful speed, the stays shricking in the wind and the control columns vibrating in my hand with the enormous pressure. Steadily, firmly, I pulled the controls back. As if by magic the earth vanished from sight and my feet pointed toward the sun. It lasted only for a moment. While my ears were still deafened by the rush of blood to the head, the earth hove into sight again at a queer angle and my head seemed to be pushed back between my shoulders. In another second the earth resumed its accustomed position. I had looped the loop!

But oh! what a loop! Later experience taught me to throttle a little on the dive and to dive much less, or with just enough speed to put the plane on its back and then let it fall out of the loop. In that first loop of mine I must have had a speed of 150 miles an hour and how the plane stuck together with that terrific pressure has always been a mystery to me!

Philadelphian Honored for Invention of Best-Known Device for Counting Blood Corpuscles.

The Franklin institute has recently awarded its Edward Longstreth medal of merit to Mr. Max Levy of Philadelphia, Pa., for his new form of haemocytometer. the cover glass, from a single plate of glass. Cross lines, one-twentieth of a millimeter apart, are ruled upon the glass base, thus dividing the surface into squares one-four hundredth of a square millimeter in area. The surface upon which these rulings are made is one-tenth of a millimeter below the under surface of the cover glass through which the blood corpuscles are counted with the aid of a microscope. The channels in this haemocytometer run across the slide, making it much easier to clean than the disk form. A modification has the rulings made on a separate plate, cemented into a transverse groove cut in the base plate, into which it is accurately fitted. The instrument is a decided improvement over those heretofore obtained from Germany.— Scientific American.

After the seeds have been planted, close attention should be given to the watering and ventilation of the bed. The soil should never be allowed to dry out, but it should not be kept water-soaked. Moisture is necessary for the germination of the seed and for the growth of the plants, but an excess of moisture should be avoided, as it stimulates the development of diseases, especially damping-off. Transplanting. For the best results, plants started in boxes, hotbeds, or cold frames should be transplanted when they reach a height of 1 to 2 inches. Transplanting tends to produce uniform, stocky plants with a well-developed root system. The seedlings may be transplanted to boxes or to the hotbed or cold frame, to stand about 2 inches apart each way. Some growers transplant twice before setting in the open ground. Hardening Off. Plants growing in a house, hotbed, or cold frame should be hardened off before they are transplanted to the garden. ## MR. SIMPKINS PAYS HIS INCOME TAX

By ROBERT McBLAIR.

Mr. Simpkins gazed at the portrait on the wall till his eyes filled with tears. It was a portrait of his father. Colonel Simpkins, who had four times been promoted for valor during the Civil War and had died bravely on the field of action. Mr. Simpkins' throat ached now for two reasons: First, he reverenced and adored the memory of his father; secondly, his age and his eyes and his game leg wouldn't let him go to war himself. And as he observed the martial bearing and uncompromising gaze of Colonel Simpkins he saw, in imagination, the khaki-clad lads of the new generation marching forth and crossing three thousand miles of sea to fight, maybe die, for liberty.

Mr. Simpkins peered around to make sure that neither Bess nor John (who were at the teasing ages of sixteen and seventeen) were where they could see him, then he straightened and threw his right arm up for a salute. But his gouty shoulder twinged, and he groaned. He couldn't even salute.

"Damn!" said Mr. Simpkins, and with his other hand fiercely twirled his white mustachios.

He turned and limped into the library and sat down creakily before the mahogany desk on which were lying the blanks for his income tax statement blanks which he had rather grumpily got from the Internal Revenue officer only that day after luncheon on his way home from the club.

Mr. Simpkins' income for 1917 had amounted to just about $15,000, and he had been rather snappy on the subject of taxes ever since he had discovered that the more income a man has the greater the percentage of it he pays in taxes. He could think of several men who, like himself, were married and had two children, and yet, although their incomes were nearly half of his, they would pay only a small fraction of the amount he paid. He gloomily drew the blank nearer and began filling in the information that it asked for

As Mr. Simpkins' income was $15,000 he had to figure out the amounts payable on each of the successive smaller classes of incomes in order to arrive at the total due from himself. He passed over the first class who must pay taxes, that is, single men making over 1,000. His calculation for married men then showed up as follows:

First, they pay 2 per cent. (under the 1916 law) on all income over $4,000, deducting $200 for each of their children under eighteen years. In Mr. Simpkins' case this was $212, which he put down in the "payable" column.

He saw next that, under the 1917 law, married men pay an additional 2 per cent. on all over $2,000-with the same allowance for children. This added $252 to his "payable" column.

He then observed that for every $2,500 jump in his income over $5,000 he had to pay a Surtax, the percentage growing larger with each jump. This was $250 more added to his burden. And on top of all this came an "Excess Profits" tax of 8 per cent. on all "occupation" income over $6,000, making $720 more.

The total, then, he must pay was fourteen hundred and thirty-four dollars.

"Whew!" exclaimed Mr. Simpkins angrily. "There's young Henry Wilkins, who married Jake Johnson's girl, he makes $2,000 and he doesn't pay a cent of taxes. I guess this is his war as well as mine!"

Thinking of young Henry Wilkins, he remembered that Mrs. Wilkins went every afternoon to make bandages for the Red Cross and that Henry, who was a lawyer, was aiding the Local Draft Board with its questionnaires. "Well," he admitted to himself,

"that makes a difference. He thought next of Judge Willough by, whose income was about $3,000.

"He only pays $20," commented Mr. Simpkins, not quite so angrily this time; and then a thought struck him and he sat up rigidly in his chair. Judge Willoughby's son had been drowned on the Tuscania when it was submarined with the loss of two hundred soldiers. "Judge Willoughby gave his son to America," muttered Mr. Simpkins. He leaned forward suddenly and put his face in his hands.

For a long time Mr. Simpkins sat very still in that position. There was no sound in the library except the ticking of the tall clock and an occasional trill of laughter from the children skylarking upstairs. The square of light on the carpet gradually withdrew itself through the window, and first twilight and then darkness settled in about the quiet, white haired, sometimes irascible old man.

Mr. Simpkins was thinking things which he would never afterward speak of, he was thinking things that were too sacred ever to be put into words. But some inkling of his thoughts may be found in his rejoinder to Mrs. Simpkins when that placid lady came in and turned on the lights, and asked him whether he was ready for dinner.

"Judge Willoughby's only son was worth as much as fourteen hundred and thirty-four dollars, wasn't he?" Mr. Simpkins demanded of her.

As his wife, who was not unused to his superficial irritations, watched him in mild astonishment, Mr. Simpkins limped out to the hall and took his old felt hat and silver-headed care from the hat rack. Letting himself out into the foggy evening, he tapped his way down to the corner, and mailed his income tax statement and check with his own hands.

"Now, God be thanked," said Mr. Simpkins as the lid clanked shut over his missive, "I can do this much for my country, anyhow."

HEROIC WOMEN OF FRANCE

My words are not powerful enough to do even scanty justice to the most heroic figure in the modern world, and of ages past—the woman of France Of the healthy men who are engaged in the military service in France, practically all are engaged either in transportation or in the manufacture of munitions, leaving the agriculture absolutely to the women. Not only this, but they have stepped into the place of work animals; you can go into any section of France today and see women of magnificent, noble womanhood hitched to the plow and cultivating the soil. All of the agriculture rests upon their shoulders. The home, always an extremely efficient home, maintains a few old men, the wounded, and the tubercular. Uncomplaining, with high devotion, with an attitude that amounts almost to religious exaltation, the women of France bears the burden.

Now, conditions being as they are, does it lie within the heart of the American people to preserve and hold to every convenience of our life at the expense of adding an additional burden to the womanhood of France? is the exact question that is involved in our substitution of other cereals in

The women of France must be enabled to hold up the morale of the French soldier until next Spring. The morale of the house decides the morale of the soldier in the fighting line. We can do this by giving them the greatest possible freedom in their food supply, and of this, wheat is the chief DR. ALÓNZO TAYLOR.
